SERGEANT-AT-ARMS: All rise.

Madam Clerk, Her Honour the Lieutenant-Governor has arrived.

CLERK (Barnes): Admit Her Honour the Lieutenant-Governor.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS: It is the wish of Her Honour the Lieutenant-Governor that all present be seated.

CLERK: Members of the House of Assembly:

A proclamation has been issued by Her Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, under the Great Seal of the Province, which reads as follows:

TO: Sandra Barnes, Clerk of the House of Assembly and Elizabeth Murphy, Clerk Assistant of the House of Assembly

GREETING;

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS a General Election of the Members of the General Assembly of the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador was held on May 16, 2019;

AND WHEREAS the Office of the Speaker of the House of Assembly is vacant and it is expedient to call together the 49th General Assembly for the Members of the House of Assembly to proceed to their choice of Speaker;

NOW THEREFORE I, the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador, do authorize and direct you, the said Sandra Barnes and Elizabeth Murphy, or either of you, to signify to the Members of the said House of Assembly to assemble for the dispatch of business on Monday, June 10, 2019 at 1:30 o’clock in the afternoon, and that it is my pleasure that they should proceed to choose some person to be their Speaker and to present such person for my approbation.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS: All rise.

(Sergeant-At-Arms escorts their Honours from the Chamber.)

CLERK: Please be seated.

At the close of nominations for the Office of the Speaker at 4:30, Friday, June 7, 2019, one candidate put his name forward.

Accordingly, further to suborder 4(4) of the Standing Orders, I declare Mr. Perry Trimer, Member for the District of Lake Melville, elected as Speaker for the 49th General Assembly.

(Applause.)

(The hon. the Premier and the hon. the Leader of the Official Opposition lead Mr. Trimper to the Speaker’s Chair.)

MR. SPEAKER (Trimper): Well, it’s still a great view. I said that the last time I had the honour of standing in this place and representing you all as your Speaker.

I would like to thank all of the colleagues, and also I would like to, as the Lieutenant-Governor did this morning, congratulate each and every one of you. While I have the honour of sitting in this Chair, I’m an MHA just like the rest of you, so congratulations to everyone in this House.

I was thinking, and in the spirit of recycling and issues that are going on at the national, provincial and even municipal level, it’s good for myself to be thinking I could be used for a second time. So I appreciate that opportunity here today.

I would like to start with a couple of thank-yous. Of course, to my wife, Caroline – she’s up in Labrador. I appreciate and love her very much, she’s a great supporter and I think we all know and realize how important family and friends are to what we do in this political adventure.

I also need to thank and I need to single out the District of Lake Melville and thank them for their support in allowing me to represent them again for this 49th General Assembly. Also, and I think on behalf of us all, we need to thank and express our appreciation to all the people of Newfoundland and Labrador.
I had an interesting thing just happen to me this morning, and I’d like to share with you. It’s not a place for props, but I was just handed this card from the Clerk Assistant here, and it’s about Sir Thomas More. She gave this me to for perhaps some inspiration, but also just some thought about the history of the job of the Speaker. And we all know quite a bit about Sir Thomas More, but it’s interesting that in 1523 he became Speaker of the House of Commons. He proposed at that time free speech and he defended the liberty of the House of Commons.

It was interesting that some – what was it – 12 years later he was tried and executed. However, I take some solace in the fact that about 400 years later he was canonized by the Pope, so maybe there’s some opportunity to be thanked for your role as the Speaker in the future.

I do believe, and for those who’ve watched me sit in this Chair and in this position over the last two years, that I believe each of you has the right to be heard and be listened to be listened to, and I work very hard on that. So, I will give you all my assurance that I will do my best to ensure that continues to happen.

Again, in the spirit of props, which are not allowed in this House but I will take one little exception, if I may today only, but I was at the Labrador Cup recently, and for those who follow soccer, the officials came up to me, knowing my interest in becoming the Speaker and continuing as the Speaker, and they said: Here’s an official yellow card that you could use at some point in the House. They also gave me a red card for two violations, but that’s the last time you’ll see those in this House.

I guess a final thanks and appreciation to the entire staff of the House of Assembly. They’re the folks that you see before us, but there are many more that are in Broadcast that are recording Hansard that helped us all get through that very unique and very interesting swearing-in ceremony this morning. We have a tremendous crew. They’re all available to each and every one of you and I advise you each to reach out to them with any questions, particularly, the new Members.

Now, we do have a lot of work to do, so I will say let’s get started.

So, with that, I will thank you all very much.

HER HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-Governor (PC, ONL): Mr. Speaker, I do confirm this House, on behalf of Her Majesty, in the enjoyment of all of its ancient and undoubted rights and privileges.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House of Assembly:

As the representative of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, I am pleased to welcome the newly elected Members of the House of Assembly on the occasion of the opening of the First Session of the 49th General Assembly of the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador.

In opening this session, we respectfully acknowledge the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador as the ancestral homelands of many diverse populations of Indigenous people who have contributed to 9,000 years of history including the Beothuk on the Island of Newfoundland. Today, this province is home to diverse populations of Indigenous and other people. We also acknowledge with respect the diverse histories and cultures of the Mi’kmaq, Innu and Inuit.

The calling to serve the people of Newfoundland and Labrador is a special one, in which you put yourselves forward for the right to sit in this hon. House to represent the people of your districts and to carry out the important work of the province. To serve in hon. House is a privilege earned by few. Newfoundlanders and Labradorians expect that the Members they elected just over three weeks ago to serve in this House will work together and find common ground to strengthen the economic and social foundation of the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador.

Just over three weeks ago, my government received a mandate to rise above, to collaborate, and to do things differently. My government is clear in its resolve to fulfill this mandate and committed to co-operate with all colleagues in the House of Assembly in the spirit of partnership, humility and hard work. All hon. Members in this House today are united by a common objective: to make Newfoundland and Labrador a better place to live, to work and to raise a family. We will work to ensure that youth can see limitless opportunities for their futures in Newfoundland and Labrador.
My government is steadfast in its determination to return to surplus through sound fiscal management while creating more jobs, enhancing education, developing our resources in an environmentally sustainable manner, and improving access to preventive and supportive health care for all people in our society. Collectively, we will take action to remove barriers for all and to empower women and girls to thrive and to achieve their full potential, both socially and economically. These are fundamental areas where every Member of the House of Assembly can work together.

Newfoundland and Labrador is rich with world-class opportunities. Our vast natural resources, burgeoning sectors, hard-working people and spirited resolve to overcome are qualities that have supported the people of this province, from the Big Land in Labrador to the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, throughout our long and storied existence.

Our province will advance even further when Members of this hon. House set aside partisan politics with a solid resolve to work together for the good of our constituents, for the good of our province. The people of Newfoundland and Labrador deserve no less.

My government sees hope, progress and opportunity, and looks forward to working together with all hon. Members to expand and further grow sustainable and meaningful opportunities for every single person in Newfoundland and Labrador.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House of Assembly:

Estimates of expenditure will be laid before you in due course and you will be asked to grant supply to Her Majesty.

I invoke God’s blessing upon you as you commence the work of the First Session of the 49th General Assembly.

May Divine Providence guide you in your deliberation.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS: All rise.

MR. SPEAKER: Her Honour the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make a speech to the Members in this General Assembly. We shall take a few moments to distribute the speech to the Members of this House.

(The Pages distribute the Speech to all Members.)

MR. SPEAKER: The hon. the Member for Fortune Bay - Cape La Hune.

SOME HON. MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

MR. LOVELESS: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

It gives me great pleasure today to rise in this hon. House to move that a Select Committee be appointed to draft an Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne.

To be given the opportunity to speak in this House of Assembly is truly a humbling experience. I’m here today because the people of Fortune Bay - Cape La Hune have entrusted me to be their representative in government.

To my constituents, I sincerely say thank you for giving me the privilege of being able to serve. I will not let you down. To my colleagues in caucus and colleagues who sit across the aisle, I thank you for choosing to serve and congratulate you on your election to this House of Assembly.

We were sent here by the people of Newfoundland and Labrador to give them good government. That is our mandate and we will achieve it with the spirit of co-operation, and as the Lieutenant-Governor stated earlier, with a spirit of collaboration – and I would like to thank Her Honour for her words.

This province is a storied province of history, a history filled with adversity, but always countered with resilience. For when we band together with a common goal, we have shown that we can achieve peace and prosperity.

Mr. Speaker, I look forward to working with all Members of this hon. House. Together we can work to inspire hope for this province and make it a better place for our kids to live.

In conclusion, I now move that a Select Committee be appointed to draft an Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne.
MR. SPEAKER: The hon. the Leader of the Official Opposition.

MR. CROSBIE: Mr. Speaker, welcome back to a different House of Assembly from the one we left in April, one with an adjusted mandate.

I would thank Her Honour and, in particular, for her invocation of divine providence to guide us in our deliberations. I think I can also speak for the government side in saying that I never refuse the intercession of divine providence.

I thank the mover and seconder, guests and viewers in the public. I would also congratulate the Chair on being selected, and as well the Premier, the Third Party Leader and all Members elected.

Let me offer an especially warm welcome to new Members of the House. Let me single out the new Members of our own caucus sworn in hours ago and ready to hit the ground running: Members for Stephenville - Port au Port, Terra Nova, Placentia West - Bellevue, Torngat Mountains, Exploits, Ferryland, Harbour Main, Bonavista and Grand Falls-Windsor - Buchans.

Our caucus has doubled in size and doubled in determination. We represent a broad swathe of the province, urban and rural, north to south, east to west, Labrador and the Island. When we speak, we will be speaking for people throughout Newfoundland and Labrador, including Indigenous people and we will be heard.

This is a new day for Newfoundland and Labrador. The people have given voice to dissatisfaction with the status quo, collectively they have created an unprecedented situation in the province. For four years, the government spoke about democratic reform with little action. So the people, in their collective wisdom, have imposed democratic reform in their own way. It can no longer be business as usual in the Newfoundland and Labrador House of Assembly.

Collectively, we have an obligation to work together to advance the business of the province and to achieve good government. Collaboration will only work if we put aside the tendency of the last General Assembly to refuse to answer questions or to give serious consideration to constructive recommendations to do things differently. That’s why our first private Member’s motion will be about reforming Question Period to require that ministers provide real answers when questioned. Democratic reform to advance the accountability of the ministry is critical to the effective functioning of this new House of Assembly, so let’s have a Question Period in which ministers give real answers.

In the spirit of collaboration, if the government shows flexibility in its legislative agenda, we will show flexibility in ours; but, let’s get one thing clear from the start, collaboration does not mean compromising on core values and core agendas mandated by voters. It does not mean anything goes, and here’s the reason.

In Newfoundland and Labrador right now, the status quo is not working for people. Our province is not growing as it should in opportunities, jobs and population. We’re losing jobs, losing business, losing people, losing entire communities, losing investment, losing opportunity, losing out on transfer payments and losing ground while others gain and grow. That’s not political rhetoric; it’s fact.

The Official Opposition ran on jobs and hope, and we all heard about the lack of jobs and hope during the election campaign. Last Friday, we learned that Canada is enjoying the strongest job growth since 1976, and robust wage growth, too, while this province stagnates. People told all of us they want something done about this.

The government has an obligation to adjust course so people get the jobs and hope they’re demanding and not just reassurances that we can see the corner, even if we can’t turn it. This term of government must not merely be an interregnum where nothing ambitious is attempted. It is imperative that we be bold in stopping the slippage in our economy and the shrinkage of our population.

Even the McKinsey report is clear that opportunities that should have been seized were not being seized in ocean technology and aviation. Even the government’s own independent tax advisory committee was clear that taxes, like the levy, need to be eliminated.
because they are regressive and doing more harm than good. So bold course adjustments are necessary. Let’s all agree on that and work together to get our province growing.

I call on government ministers to fight the tendency to say that everything is fine, to fight the inclination to hide information, avoid answering questions and refuse to bend or change course when circumstances and the people call for it. This time things must be different. So let’s try a different approach.

In the last year, we worked together to develop a new policy to address harassment and bullying. Our intent was to improve the way Members get along and the House functions. In the spirit of those reforms, let’s make an extra special effort to change the way we deal with one another and try harder to get along, even as we do our duty of holding one another to account.

The electorate of the province has just installed a new emergency brake in this House of Assembly, to use an analogy. The people, in their collective wisdom, have orchestrated the composition of this House in such a way that the government does not have authority to do anything it pleases. A new check and balance has been put in place that we have not had before. This new emergency brake is not an easy one to pull. It would take a great deal of cooperation to get that brake lever pulled, and I have already stated, on behalf of our caucus, that we do not intend to seek opportunities to bring down this government. People want this House to work in their interest and we intend to do our part to ensure that it does.

But if the government fails to act properly on the issues that really matter to people, if it fails to pursue a proper strategy for growth, if it fails to make life more affordable for people, or to govern honestly, or to fuel the growth of jobs and hope, or to fight for our fair share, then the people of the province now have the option to call on their elected Members to act across party lines and pull that lever. It’s not a threat; it’s an accountability mechanism. It’s the people’s way of imposing discipline on this House and on this government. They’re telling us to get the job done or they’ll demand a do-over that will affect all of us.

We, in our caucus, will be guided by the people. We encourage people to continually let us know how we’re doing, how the government is doing and what they would like done differently. It’s not just the 40 of us who must collaborate, we must, in turn, collaborate with the people we were elected to serve. We will do our duty, as the Official Opposition, to offer criticism as we must and constructive alternatives wherever they may be needed. It’s the government’s duty to listen.

I have written to the Premier and copied the Finance Minister with some proposals to adjust this year’s budget – the one that was brought down in April but never debated or passed. I believe the budget can be improved. I encourage the government to think carefully about what we propose. If these suggestions cannot be reflected in tomorrow’s budget because of tight timelines, then perhaps they may be incorporated in other ways through individual pieces of legislation later in the sitting, or through supplementary supply measures or in future budgets. Please don’t just dismiss what we say just because it was we who said it. Consider these options carefully and seriously, just as you’d consider suggestions from around the Cabinet table.

Let me close by saying we have a golden opportunity now to raise the bar on how we work. A few days ago, long-time Liberal advisor Simon Lono passed away. He was a passionate supporter of the Newfoundland and Labrador Youth Parliament, and a teacher and mentor for young debaters. He loved vigorous debates, but he also believed in focusing on the issues and not on the person. The young people he mentored were of many political stripes, but they learned to address the issues passionately while continuing to get along with each other.

Sometimes raising the bar in how we work will even mean saying I’m sorry. In a world that’s badly divided by mean-spiritedness and intolerance, let’s resolve to be better than that and make Newfoundlanders and Labradorians proud of those they have elected to work on their behalf.

Thank you.

SOME HON. MEMBERS: Hear, hear!
MR. SPEAKER: The hon. the Leader of the Third Party.

MS. COFFIN: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

This is quite an honour and a tremendous privilege, as well as an incredible responsibility. We are at a moment where we are able to craft a new style of government, a new way of doing business in our province, and I look forward to the opportunity to do that over the next four years.

Certainly, we are facing tumultuous times. Our province is on the cusp of significant development, of significant concerns, and a significant change in our social and demographic landscape. Certainly, we are looking at first power coming from Muskrat Falls. That, in itself, will have some significant impacts to our finances, as well as to the affordability of the people who are in our province. At the same time, we have some significant concerns about the issues of methylmercury, as well as the sustainability of the North Spur. These things could potentially come to fruition and cause us some significant debate in the House of Assembly.

In addition, in the next number of years, we are going to see substantial movements on climate change. The climate change that we are seeing is going to become more and more prevalent in our province, and we are going to be expected to address the devastating effects of a hundred-year storms which will now be happening in 10-year cycles. We will need to shore up our infrastructure. We are going to need to prepare for natural disasters. These things will cause significant debate in the House of Assembly.

We are also seeing labour negotiations on the cusp, and those things we can expect will have a significant impact on our finances, as well as the way in which we address our brothers and sisters in labour, as well as how we negotiate and compensate our brothers and sisters in labour.

We are also seeing the social and economic conditions of the province changing substantially. We are facing demographic change. With demographic change and our aging population, we are going to see more and more individuals on fixed incomes who are going to see affordability of every-day cost of living going up. We need to address that quite clearly and head-on, especially in light of the increases in our electrical bills that’ll come as a result of Muskrat Falls.

We do, however, have an historic opportunity to craft a new style of government. We have the opportunity to manifest a new form of democracy. We do have a tremendous opportunity to collaborate, to engage in collegial consultation and to have true collaboration in our province.

I do look forward to working with both government and the Opposition to find areas in which our platforms overlap. We are all concerned with the quality of living for individuals in Newfoundland and Labrador, and that is why we are here. We all represent different ideals and perspectives, and the people who elected us expect us to be able to stand up in the House of Assembly and show them exactly how we are going to be able to represent their best wishes and their needs and their quality of life.

We would like to go forth into this new session of the House of Assembly with a clear eye on fiscal prudence and a very, very heavy weighting on our social responsibility and social equality. These are absolutely vital. In the House of Assembly, as new representatives here, we would like to manifest a new way and new style of doing business.

We would like to see additional protection for our natural resources. The Province of Newfoundland and Labrador has done very well as we have used our natural resources to generate tremendous wealth and prosperity in our province. We would like to see how they can bring additional prosperity to us in our province, but at the same time we need to put a very high price on the protection of our natural resources. And this must be done in all forms of our natural resources: the offshore oil industry, the mining industry, our fisheries and all of other natural resources.

We also have a very strong will to protect the most vulnerable in our society. Certainly as we’ve seen demographic change and a large out-migration in our province, a lot of the people remaining in our province are very vulnerable and susceptible to changes in economic conditions, changes in cost of living, and we must do our utmost to ensure that these individuals are able to stay in our province and afford a good quality of life in our province.

We would like to see that there is a realignment of priorities for the government. Certainly, our campaign has been on putting people first, making choices that affect people first. As we make choices about how we want to allocate our budgets, we would like to see that those choices do reflect the needs and reflect the importance of putting people first in all of our decisions.

Again, we would like to ensure that there is additional transparency and accountability in the House of Assembly, and certainly we intend to introduce measures that will improve that for individuals, for anyone who might potentially be researching, as well as to lay a strong foundation for Members who will come after us and will be expected to carry on government for the people of the province.

So I do look forward to working with everyone here in a collaborative and collegial way to advance what we see are the needs of the people of the Province of Newfoundland and Labrador.

Thank you very much.

SOME HON. MEMBERS: Hear, hear!

MR. SPEAKER: Thank you.

The hon. the Premier.

PREMIER BALL: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

It is certainly a privilege for me to once again rise in this House of Assembly and to thank the first woman Lieutenant-Governor in the history of our province for delivering the Speech from the Throne today. It’s been always a pleasure of mine, as I’m sure it would be for the Members of this House of Assembly, to work with Her Honour and His Honour in her early terms and early days, but also we all look forward to working with Her Honour in this new mandate.

I also want to congratulate those of you that have been re-elected. To the familiar faces, you’ve been re-elected simply because the people that you represented in the last term identified you and said to you that they have confidence in the work that you’ve been able to do. All of us that seek re-election, that is the ultimate goal for all of us to represent the people that support us.

I also want to welcome some new faces to this House of Assembly. It’s been mentioned already that we have two new Third Party Members here, some Members of the Official Opposition that have joined this House of Assembly, but also two new Members that we have on the government side here today from Fortune Bay - Cape La Hune and Mount Scio.

I would say to all Members that are here today that this is not a right, this is a privilege that has been given to you by the people that supported you on your election campaign. So, you sit here as a privilege for those that supported you.

The people that we serve expect us to work together. It’s been loud and clear coming from this re-election and from this election, they expect all of us to work together to make Newfoundland and Labrador a better place to live, to work and to raise a family.

We have great examples in the last session already where we’ve seen collaboration and the benefits that it’s brought to people in our province. And, of course, one of the proudest moments that I think we could see of a group of MHAs that will work together would have been the All-Party Committee on Mental Health and Addictions. That led to an action plan: Towards Recovery. This was a new approach to how we deal with mental illness in our province.

As an example, that action plan that we put in place has resulted in already a 64 per cent decrease in wait-lists for people that need that service. We have seen the ground breaking this year on the replacement of the Waterford Hospital. Mr. Speaker, I would say that for everybody in this province, to replace a building dedicated to treating mental health that opened its doors in 1855 is long overdue. We look forward to seeing the day come when the replacement for the Waterford Hospital will be done.
Mr. Speaker, there is a common theme that we’ve heard from all of this and the progress that we’ve been able to make is one of partnerships. We’ve seen partnerships within communities – maybe not perfect, but have made progress in the last 3½ years.

We’ve also brought forward in this House of Assembly that has seen support from all Members, support for many private Members’ resolutions, we’ve worked on many committees and we’ve advanced important issues for people in the province.

So we have already seen and gave some examples of what we can accomplish when we work together, but we now know that more than ever the people of the province expect us to collaborate and deliver results, and it is only through real partnership that we can deliver on those expectations. The people of our province expect us to restore their province to fiscal balance. If we don’t, we run the risk of letting financial institutions determine the future of our province. Mr. Speaker, that is not what I’ve heard from Newfoundlanders and Labradorians who have challenged us to bring this province back to fiscal balance.

We can meet their expectations by following the fiscal plan that has been established, back in 2016. It was a seven-year plan that we put in place, realizing that there were many challenges that we’ve had to deal with along the way. They often tell us, and we’ve heard people stand and say that we cannot look in a rear-view mirror, I would say that, but also I think it’s important that we remember the lessons of the past so that we do not repeat them in the future. I think that’s a fair comment and a lesson that we could learn.

The people of our province, they expect us to deliver jobs. They expect us to deliver a stronger economy, because it’s when we can find a job for somebody, it’s then they become more productive and live more meaningful lives. And we can meet their expectations by delivering on the action items that we’ve already agreed to. The partnerships within the aquaculture industry, within mining, farming, technology, the oil and gas, forestry, arts and culture, just an example, also working with the thousands of volunteers that we have sprinkled throughout every single community.

All of us have taken the time over the last few weeks to go into communities. Regardless of what the population was, there are community volunteers that were leading the associations, in many cases leading economic development and creating jobs in all those communities, regardless of what the population was. So it’s important for us to recognize the partners that we can have with our community, with our business leaders, with our cultural and Indigenous leaders. Mr. Speaker, we’ve already seen the benefit of those partnerships with nearly $18 billion of investment coming to our province.

We talk about jobs, and we’ve heard comments already today. Mr. Speaker, we’ve seen now 11 consecutive months where we’ve seen month over month job growth in Newfoundland and Labrador. I would challenge anybody to go back in time and look in the calendar with three megaprojects that have come to completion with thousands of jobs, let alone the impact that we’ve seen from Alberta; yet, this province has seen 11 consecutive months of month over month job growth. So we’re seeing progress. We need to create more employment, we need to be able to make life more affordable for families in Newfoundland and Labrador, and the way to do it is give people a job.

Mr. Speaker, we’re also very proud that it’s Newfoundland and Labrador that will lead the country in economic growth in 2019. That would not be something that someone would’ve forecasted back in 2016. No one saw that coming, but we’re very proud with the work we’ve able to do with many partners across this province, that it is Newfoundland and Labrador that will lead the country in economic growth next year.

Mr. Speaker, working together we can continue to build on these gains and see the benefits that can be extended to every single district, all 40 districts throughout Newfoundland and Labrador. The people of our province, they expect us to deliver better services with better outcomes, spend their money wisely. Every single Member in this House of Assembly today,
I’m sure that when you were campaigning heard that from people.

Mr. Speaker, they also want us to meet the expectations of following through on the Education Action Plan that promised to revolutionize the way children are supported throughout our K to 12 system. This is a plan that will see some 350 new teaching supports over the next three years. It talks about inclusion. It talks about student mental health, how we educate our young people and help them prepare and cope for the future.

It talks about mathematics, reading, Indigenous education – and not just to Indigenous students, but also to students across the province no matter where they live, no matter where the community is, to share the history, rich history of Indigenous groups within our province. Multicultural education, early years education, co-operative education and teacher professional development. These are just some examples of what we’ve seen within the Premier’s Task Force, the Education Action Plan. This action plan came from people in the system itself, parents, students and educators.

Mr. Speaker, the infrastructure; we are seeing unprecedented infrastructure growth within our province. Done in a different way in many cases but protecting the jobs of public sector workers, whether it be long-term care sites in Corner Brook, in Grand Falls-Windsor, in Gander, Carbonear, and Springdale with Green Bay Health Care Centre. We’re seeing it in Botwood, long-term care. We’re seeing hospitals; the replacement of the Waterford Hospital, but also the new hospital in Corner Brook. Mr. Speaker, these are all important issues. It creates jobs but it also gives our public sector workers a better place to go to work every day but it gives those who need those services better access to this infrastructure.

We can also see greater inclusion for people with disabilities. Mr. Speaker, very important to me as I sit on this side of the House. We have put a major focus on seeing more women in leadership roles in our province. Mr. Speaker, that tone must be set from the top. That is the reason why we put a stand-alone department in the Status of Women. No other province in this country has such a department, and I can assure you we intend to keep that department, the Status of Women, viable in this province and we expect all Members of this House of Assembly to support this department.

Mr. Speaker, another example is how we put diversity, more women, more diverse groups included in our work plan so when we do sign benefit agreements, they sign an agreement so that one of the principles of that you would see more women in that workforce.

So, Mr. Speaker, the mandate that we have been given by the people of our province, I humbly have accepted the tasks and the challenges we’ve been given. Ironically, I don’t see this as a challenge. I see this as a significant opportunity to actually deliver to the people of this province exactly what they’ve asked us to do. They’ve asked us to work together, but they also asked us to put political parties, to put partisan politics aside and let’s establish where we need to be. Let’s establish the goals in realizing that we will not get there in one step. It will take very methodical, strategic steps to get us where we need to be in the future for Newfoundlanders and Labradorians.

I publicly stated many times, Mr. Speaker, since May 16, that I am ready and I am willing, and this party is ready and willing, to do the work that the people of this province have asked us to do. My colleagues, we want to co-operate, we want to collaborate, and we want to work together to the benefit of the people across our province.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the actions will not be in the words that we use but it will be in the actions that we take. I expect and challenge every single Member of my party; yet, all Members of this House of Assembly, that we are indeed in an historic time, but we have an historic opportunity to show the progress that we can do when we set aside partisan politics.

Mr. Speaker, it’s one that where people matter more than party colours. That means bettering the lives of Newfoundlanders and Labradorians. That means working together, each and every one of us.

Mr. Speaker, I say to all my colleagues in this House of Assembly today, we have an opportunity to make history and we can do that when we work together. So I say, in conclusion, to all Members, let’s make history.

Thank you.
