

Proceedings of the House of Assembly

---

During the Third Session
of the Twenty-ninth General Assembly of Newfoundland

1951

---

PROCEEDINGS of the
THIRD SESSION
of the
TWENTY-NINTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY
OF NEWFOUNDLAND

---

The Third Session of the Twenty-ninth General Assembly of Newfoundland begun and holden at St. John's in the Province of Newfoundland on Wednesday, March 7th, 1951, at three of the clock in the afternoon.

The House being assembled, His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, arrived in the Chamber and ascended the Throne at three of the clock in the afternoon, when he was especially pleased to deliver the Speech from the Throne as follows:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the Honourable House of Assembly:

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to this Third Session of the Twenty-ninth General Assembly of the Province of Newfoundland.

Since we last met, Newfoundland, together with the rest of the Commonwealth and Empire, rejoiced at the birth of a daughter, Princess Anne, to Her Royal Highness the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. On behalf of the Government and people of Newfoundland I despatched a telegram of congratulations which received gracious and grateful acknowledgment from Their Royal Highnesses.

During the past year the Governments of Canada and the Provinces have met in conference to devise an amending procedure for the British North America Act, and two further Federal-Provincial Conferences were held for the purpose of considering relations between the Provinces and the Government of Canada in fiscal matters, including a means of providing a universal old age pension. Satisfactory progress was made regarding the latter and my Government will do all in their power to co-operate in speedily bringing about this desirable end.

You are called to your legislative duties this year at a time when momentous events are taking place. Menaced by the threat of war, the democratic world is rapidly devoting a fast-swelling proportion of its economic resources to rearmament. Many types of goods essential to the ordinary industrial enterprises of a world at peace become increasingly difficult if not impossible to secure for such purposes, as they are diverted to the strengthening of our defences against possible totalitarian aggression. Far-reaching changes in our mode of life seem to be inescapable, and it would be idle to suppose that Newfoundland can be immune to most of the dislocations and shortages that these changes will bring.

My Ministers are gravely concerned to note the possible effect of the worsening prospects of world peace upon their programme of economic development. They have redoubled their efforts to procure the establishment of certain new industries, and the expansions of others, in case world conditions deteriorate to an extent which might prevent, or at least reduce greatly for some years the accomplishment of that economic development to which they had set their hands. Since you last met my Ministers have sought, by guarantee of a number of loans to Newfoundland fishing and industrial companies, to speed expansion of these enterprises. Details of these guarantees will be laid before you, and your approval of them will be sought. My Ministers have also entered into contracts for the construction of a cement mill, a gypsum-plaster and plaster-wallboard plant, and a plant to manufacture birch flooring, veneer, plywood and plywood doors. Insofar as it is prudent and in the public interest to acquaint you with the financial details of these contracts, they will be laid before you at the present session.

My Government have for some months been conducting negotiations for the establishment of a Newfoundland Corporation designed to procure important development of the Province's natural resources. If these negotiations should be successful, my Government would join with a very large and important financial organization in the United States of America to form this Corporation, to the end that a partnership of public and private capital would more quickly result in considerable economic development of the Province. These negotiations are nearing their end, and my Ministers hope to lay the full details before you in due course.

As you are aware, the Power Corporation of Canada was retained by my Government to conduct careful field surveys of certain watersheds on part of the South Coast of Newfoundland. With the exception of certain drilling of dam-sites, canal-sites and power-house sites, which will be conducted as soon as weather conditions permit this year, the survey has been completed, and the Corporation's report on the hydro-electric potential, together with estimates of the cost of developing it, are expected to be in the hands of my Government before the end of the present session. In the meanwhile a competent local hydro-electric engineer has been engaged to conduct a field survey, and to estimate costs of development, on certain watersheds on the East Coast of Newfoundland.

In 1950 an air-borne magnometer survey was made of the geological nature of some 5000 square miles on the North East Coast of the Island. While the complete map and report of the survey will not be in my Government's possession for another few weeks, considerable satisfaction, I feel sure will be derived from the fact that preliminary data gathered by the survey indicated the presence of some interesting magnetic anomalies of the type sought in such a survey. My Ministers propose to have a similar survey made this year of another area of the Province. Rarely if ever in the history of this continent was there such interest and activity in the search for base minerals as there is throughout North America at the present time, and considerable regret may justly be felt over the fact that more energetic geological survey work by the best means available was not conducted here in the past. My Government are intent upon doing everything practically possible to speed the work of survey and to interest mining companies in the mineral possibilities of this Province. Already two important Canadian mining companies have entered Newfoundland, and others are known to have become interested.

An important economic survey was conducted in Newfoundland and Labrador in 1950 by Mr. Nelson Rockefeller's Company, IBEC Technical Services Corporation. This survey centered chiefly upon the economic feasibility of another pulp and paper mill based primarily upon the use of pulpwood to be garnered in Labrador. The report, which has been received within recent days, is divided into two sections; one of them on the practicability of a mill in Labrador. The other on that of a mill in Bay D'Espoir, on the South Coast of Newfoundland. My Ministers are now giving close study to these reports, and are making all possible endeavour to procure the establishment of at least one additional pulp and paper mill in this Province. Various negotiations for the establishment of such a mill are being carried on with important organizations in North America and in Europe, and I feel sure that you will hope that this development will not be made impossible by the present world situations.

I know that you must have taken much satisfaction from the very successful result of the action taken by my Ministers to bring the railway freight rates into line with what they believed were envisaged in the Terms of Union. The favourable judgment given to my Government's suit will save several millions of dollars a year in freight charges.

The situation in the fisheries continues to be cause for considerable concern amongst my Ministers, as it must to all our people. Since Newfoundland became a Province of Canada, responsibility for public administration of the fisheries is no longer borne by the Government of Newfoundland alone but is shared to a large extent by the Government of Canada. Great satisfaction is therefore taken from the fact that the two Governments have united in an effort to establish an over-all policy for the fisheries of Newfoundland. This effort is being made particularly through the recently-appointed Fisheries Development Committee under the chairmanship of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland, and with representatives of the two Governments and of the fishermen and mercantile community comprising its membership. Both Governments have pledged their unstinted support to this Committee, and are collaborating closely through it. In the meanwhile my Ministers take satisfaction from the fact that they have been able to secure the services of Mr. Clive Planta as Deputy Minister of Fisheries.

Arising out of a public statement made by my Prime Minister, in behalf of the Government of Newfoundland in May last, my Government have appointed a Commission under the Public Enquiries Act to conduct an investigation into the prices paid to the fishermen for salt-dried codfish which they produced in 1950, and into the profits made on the sale of that fish in the markets. The Government of Canada have initiated an enquiry into the prices paid to fishermen, pursuant to a public statement made by the Minister of Fisheries of Canada in October last. Considerable useful information, it is to be hoped, will be elicited by these enquiries.

My Government have taken the initiative in inviting the fishermen to organize themselves into a strong, Province-wide occupational body with a view to enabling them to make their collective voice heard in all matters concerning the fisheries. You will be requested to vote funds to pay the costs of bringing representatives of the fishermen of St. John's to attend a conference at which the question of forming such an organization will be explored.

It is the view of my Government that, important though general economic development must be, no lasting prosperity is possible in this Province so long as the fisheries fail to give a fair living to all those who engage in them.

Since you last met my Ministers have availed themselves of the authority which you vested in them to appoint the Fisheries Development Loan Board, the Industrial Development Loan Board, and the Co-operative Development Loan Board. All of these Boards are under the chairmanship of Mr. James Baxter, a commercial banker of great experience, and their membership is made up of men of wide experience in the commercial and public life of this Province. Some unavoidable delay was experienced in appointing the Boards, but useful work is expected of them in the period ahead.

Considerable progress has been made during the past year in municipal government. Eight Town Councils have been established during that time, and three other Town Councils are in process of being established. When these have begun to function there will be thirty-one Town Councils in Newfoundland. More and more communities are realizing the great value of this type of municipal organization, and the indications are that the number of Town Councils will continue steadily to increase.

Since the last session of your Honourable House my Government have conducted a "Buy Newfoundland" campaign designed to encourage our people to patronize home industry by purchasing more of the products of our fisheries, farms and factories. This campaign, which is being continued, has met with encouraging success throughout the Province.

My Government attach much importance to vocational training, and you will be asked to vote a considerable sum of money with which to match an amount available from the Government of Canada for the construction of a modern new building to house these activities. My Government hope to be able to establish in this same building an efficient School of Navigation and a School of Fisheries.

A substantial programme of legislation will be laid before you in this session, including an amendment to the Alcoholic Liquors Act designed to provide for Local Option in our communities and for limiting the sale of hard liquor.

I will later request you to vote Supply to His Majesty.

Since your last session there has been a notable improvement in conditions in some of our greatest industrial enterprises. Only a year ago the Grand Falls paper mill was operating on a part-time basis only, while the sulphite pulp mills at both Grand Falls and Corner Brook were not operating at all. The mines at Bell Island were all but closed down. Unemployment was widespread.

Today quite a different picture is to be seen. Both sulphite pulp mills are operating at capacity, and both of the paper mills are working full time. They have more orders for pulp and paper than they can fill. The 1950-51 pulpwood logging season has been the largest cut in Newfoundland's history, amounting for the first time to a million cords. The future of this industry is bright with promise. So, too, is that of the mines at Bell Island, Buchans and St. Lawrence, and at the limestone quarry at Agathuna. Large sums of fresh capital are being invested in the mines at Bell Island, and their productive capacity is being increased from one and a half million to two and a half million tons a year. Demand for the base metals mined at Buchans was never so brisk, while the fluor spar mines at St. Lawrence are being kept exceedingly busy in an effort to meet the demand for their products. Both mines at St. Lawrence are spending considerable sums to improve their efficiency. My Government have guaranteed a further considerable sum of money to one of the two companies operating there.

Very large new installations and extensions are to begin on various defence works in this Province this year and thousands of men will probably find profitable employment therein.

Altogether, therefore, my Ministers believe that 1951 will prove to be an exceptionally prosperous year for a large number of our people, and the beginning of a relatively long period of expanding earning power for the population in general.

I have full confidence that you will discharge faithfully your duties and responsibilities in the best interests of all our people.

May Divine Providence bless your labours and make them fruitful."

Thereupon His Honour, the Lieutenant-Governor left the Chamber.

MR. SPEAKER: I have to inform the members of this Honourable House that when His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor opened the Third Session of the Twenty-ninth General Assembly of the Province of Newfoundland, he was graciously pleased to deliver a Speech from the Throne of which I have obtained a copy. If it is the will and pleasure of the House, Mr. Clerk will read the Speech of His Honour, the Lieutenant-Governor.

Thereupon the Speech from the Throne was read by the Clerk.

MR. SPEAKER: For the information of this House, I will take notices of motions and questions immediately after the Committee has been appointed to draft the Address in Reply.

MR. HORWOOD: I move a committee be appointed to draft a reply to the Speech which His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor was pleased to favour us with this afternoon. I am sure not only the members of this House, but all the people of Newfoundland will take new heart, will go forward with renewed confidence when they look closely at the present Government's programme of economic development, at the things accomplished in that field and the plans for the future. It can be the proud boast of this Government that it has not fallen down on one promise that it made to the people. This Government promised the people a new and progressive and more vigorous road policy—that policy has been implemented. The country will be opened up and linked up by new roads and during the time of this Government the long outstanding dream of a road right across the Island is to be achieved. This Government promised the people a complete programme of social and labour legislature. That programme is now an accepted fact, a part of the history of former sessions of this House. And it has done much to make life more pleasant for the less fortunate members of our community. This Government promised the people a vigorous programme of economic development; this programme is now in the process of accomplishment and is now being implemented in the face of crushing difficulties and with the threat of a world war hanging over our heads. Last year, at this time, economic development was only a hope, only a promise, now, one year later, we already have three new industries in active stages of building and a number of others passed beyond the realm of hope into the realm of virtual certainty.

The strength of this programme lies in the fact that it is based upon our unused natural resources. Take for instance birch—birch is a natural resource we have always known we have had in this country, one we used only for fire wood and for making railway ties. Birch cut into railway ties is worth something like sixty-five dollars a thousand. That very same birch made into veneer is worth over two hundred dollars a thousand. That is in labour in making that veneer. That two hundred dollars veneer made into plywood is worth three hundred dollars in wages and that hundred dollars worth of plywood manufactured into birch flooring is worth four hundred dollars in wages.

And that is not all for in cutting this birch into ties sixty percent or more, at least sixty percent of the tree is left in the woods to rot. This waste cut into birch wood is at its worst worth at least one hundred dollars per thousand feet. In addition to this, it is planned in this same development to make use of our aspen hitherto regarded as merely a nuisance and something not even fit to burn for fire wood. Now the mill at Donovans plans to use about five million feet of aspen plank, one-and-a-half and two inch plank which is more valuable than spruce. It is merely an effort to take our people and put them to work using one more of those resources worth very little in the raw state and transferring it into a product with very high commercial value.

Let us now turn to a less spectacular side of economic development, the fishery. This was one problem never attacked by any past governments with the degree of initiative and imagination necessary to make long-standing and permanent changes in it. They chipped the problem, they made little dents in it. The Commission of Government was better than others in that respect. They established bait service depots, electric freezing plants and filleting plants but they did not get at the root of the problem, and the root of the problem of the fishery is need for conversion from our antiquated methods to more modern and more diversified methods of catching not only cod but more diversified kinds of fish.

That problem was left for this Government to tackle and it has tackled it in the only way possible, experiments and demonstration, and by making funds available for conversion to more modern methods of fishing.

experimenting either directly or through companies it guarantees. This Government has already demonstrated the feasibility of seine and long-line fishing in Newfoundland waters from the experiments conducted at Bonavista with little boats with the characteristics of week-end pleasure crafts and maximum range of twenty-five miles; demonstrated the feasibility of long-lining in the Bonavista area and I understand there has been practically a clamour from fishermen in Bonavista for boats of this type to be made available to them. The brief experiment off Baccalieu conducted by one of the Icelandic fishing boats demonstrated the fact that there may be an important off-shore winter fishery on our North East Coast, something we never dreamed of before and something which might be of the utmost importance to the fishing industry of this country. This policy of experimenting and demonstration has resulted in inquiries from fishing interests from all over this island, and if pursued, with energy and determination may eventually produce the answer to the problem of the Labrador floater. This Government has been a powerful instrument in the hands of the fishing population, an instrument to help fight their age-long battle for justice and recognition. This Government has helped to put new heart into the common people of Newfoundland, has helped to lift them out of age-long despair, has gone at least part of the way towards touching their hearts with immortality, giving back to them the upward look and the light, rebuilding in them the music and the dream.

Supposing a few mistakes are made—they have been and they will be—supposing a few dollars are wasted—they have been and they will be—it does not matter providing the overall direction is right. There never was any programme of development costing millions of dollars in which, on looking backwards, some hundreds, yes some hundreds and some thousands of dollars went to waste. But I tell you here this afternoon, I would rather see a Government which took our forty million surplus and spent every cent in experiments and lost the most of it, I would far rather have seen such a Government than the do-nothing government which regarded the surplus as a nest egg and sat on it waiting for it to hatch.

The question of fishermen's organization—I can see that organization accomplishing tremendous good or I can see it coming to grief. It all depends upon the fishermen themselves and how they run it. It won't depend upon the Government. An organization of that kind cannot be led from the outside, it will depend upon the fishermen. I think, I do know, the idea is right. The idea is basically right, founded on the principle that "The Lord helps those who help themselves." And I do think too that in places where they have strong, well developed fisheries, Norway, Denmark, Iceland, British Columbia, they also have strong fishermen's organizations of this type and the organization has been largely responsible for fisheries development and largely responsible for the returns from this type of development, which once went into the pockets of the producers.

But all this Government accomplished up to now, no matter how important, how fraught with good for Newfoundland, it will all pale into comparative insignificance beside the good accomplished by a third paper mill, should that mill actually become a reality.

A third paper mill has been one of the greater dreams of our people. It has been a dream stirring the imagination of Newfoundlanders ever since Squives failed to put his gang on the Gander and rightly so, because we have seen the possibilities inherent in a large mill. This has been demonstrated to us in the splendid towns of Corner Brook and Deer Lake with a population of over twenty thousand depending entirely or almost entirely upon one industry and one mill. Should the proposed mill go in Labrador, I feel it will demonstrate vision and foresight of the first order. Lake Melville, the proposed site of the mill, by natural endowment, is potentially one of the great centers of civilization of North America. I believe this just as firmly as I believe in the destiny of Canada itself. Dr. H. Paddon and Sir Wilfred Grenfell believed it before me. It is deeply to be regretted that neither of them lived to see the justification of their confidence as we can see that justification today.

More than a year ago I expressed my faith in the Lake Melville area before ever this mill was talked about. I described it in the press as the heart of an unborn nation. Here are some of the resources of Lake Melville: An inland waterway nearly a hundred miles long, a navigable waterway extending from Holton to the head of Grand Lake; forty million cords of merchantable timber on the remarkable small area of six million acres; a great river besides which the Exploits is merely a babbling brook, a river with a power potentiality of over a million horsepower of the cheapest electricity in North America flowing into tidewater.

Lake Melville also has a remarkable variety of fish both fresh and salt water varieties and a river bottom which is said to be encrusted with marketable shrimps; a climate with summers warmer than St. John's and winters warmer than Ottawa; it has excellent agricultural areas which can produce anything which can be produced in Newfoundland with the added advantage that soil clearance there is so much easier and can be cleared at a lower cost.

There is one misfortune, a misfortune which it shares with most of the North East Coast of Newfoundland, it does not possess an ice free port. Navigation can be extended only to five or six months a year, the rest of the season it is closed with ice. But that is a difficulty which can be overcome and will be overcome as easily as the center of civilization moves farther and farther north.

The head of Lake Melville is endowed by nature to be the center of a great Northern Empire of commerce. It is no accident that the vast airport of Goose Bay was built at the head of Lake Melville. And, if this Government is the one to begin development in that region it will be looked back upon with respect and honour a hundred years from now when Newfoundland may well be known as an island off the coast of Labrador.

It is very unfortunate, as His Honour said in his speech this afternoon, that preliminary work in this field was not done by past governments. The sins of our political fathers are today being visited upon us. Though they did nothing they ought not to have done, it is certain they often left undone those things they should have done. One of those things they should have done was the survey work on natural resources of this Province. This Government should not have had to begin a survey of power potentialities of the South Coast of Newfoundland; they should not have had to begin an aero-magnetic survey of mineral resources, they should not have had to engage IBEC to advise the possibility of establishing newspapers mills in this province. These things should have been done by the Commission of Government which we were told was set up here mainly for the purpose of rehabilitation. In spite of this the programme of economic development is growing and bearing fruit much sooner than we could have hoped, and I think it is only fair to give credit where it belongs. The credit for this programme, its composition, its development and its success, this credit belongs to no one else but the Premier. And I predict, when the annals of history are come to be written of this era in Newfoundland, that one name will stand out with paramount significance, the name of J. R. Smallwood. He is a man who set out methodically to change the history of a nation in a certain way and did so. He fought single handed most of the time what were reputedly the most powerful and came off the victor, not once but again and again. He has done more in four years of such gigantic effort as political history has ever seen; accomplished more for the common people of this country than any of its past statesmen accomplished in the whole course of its career. His name will be read with gratitude and honour not merely as the father of confederation but also as the father of reconstruction and up to now the greatest of her sons.

Mr. Speaker, I do not feel we have reason to fear; I do not feel we have reason for doubt, if we are lucky enough to escape all-out control then we may go forward together looking to a future bright with hope, confident we are building for ourselves a land in which all people may be free, not only from physical tyranny but economic tyranny; the spectre of want; free from the pinch of hunger and of cold; free from insecurity, to eat a square meal, all we want, without wondering where the next meal is coming from. Many men who have known what it was to come home to their family with empty hands have put their trust in this Government. It is for them we need to build a better Newfoundland; for the farmer, the fishermen who have toiled all season and taken nothing; for men who have worked long hours for small reward, for mothers who know what it means to have to pinch and scrape and make-do, for children who have grown up with the stamp of privation indelibly written on their bodies. These are the people to whom the Government's policy of economic development means the most. If we can help them to a life of better security, if we can help them to hope for a living of greater comfort and happiness then we can justly feel that we have not failed, have not lived in vain and that future generations will rise up and call us blessed.

MR. JANES: Mr. Speaker, in response to the Motion by the honourable member for Labrador, I want to repeat what one of the members in the Legislature in the Maritime Provinces had to say in seconding the Speech from the Throne there. He said "I hope that next year we will be all here doing the same thing all over again."

I have no intention of elaborating on what the honourable member from Labrador has said with regard to the industrial development by the Government of the Province; but I would, however, like to add my voice of praise to what has already been accomplished and the great good, and I feel the greater good has yet to be accomplished. You will probably hear, in this debate, much regarding the economic development programme and policy of the Government; you will see the introduction of legislation to set up the Industrial Development Corporation of Newfoundland. What has been done, has been of great significance. I will refer to it only in respect of the matter of jobs. The number of jobs might not be great, but they are, when you consider the handful of three hundred thousand, people, fifty thousand of whom have lived perpetually on the threshold and brink of poverty. Any job, whether one hundred or one thousand, creates conditions in this Province which is very difficult to estimate—not only the jobs which the industry itself will provide, but the jobs of the utilities and services for those engaged in the industry.

Now, Sir, I am not going to spend any time on industrial development; but we will have ample opportunity to debate it. But I would like to turn my thoughts to things we do not hear much about. I would like to turn my thoughts to the rural economy of this Province. When we speak of economic and industrial activity in this Province we seem to be concerned with factories, mines and mills to make jobs for the people of Newfoundland. The majority of the people of Newfoundland do not earn their living—nor is it expected that they will earn their living for a considerable time to come, from mines, factories and mills. They earn it on the land and take it from the sea.

In agriculture, this Government is formulating a policy. I think we have had a rejuvenation of agriculture in this Province. It was only a matter of a few years ago, travelling around this country, I found that the farmers were dejected and unhappy. But the scene is changing, certainly; and changing fast. I believe that the source of all wealth is land and that we have not come to utilize, in this Province, the land which we have; the good arable land which we have; and the names of those in the Government who said to the people a few years ago "before you receive your six cents a day, you will kill your cow; you will kill your pig; you will kill your sheep" should be written on the walls of this Chamber as a reminder to all governments. The majority of the people of Newfoundland still live in rural communities, and although no small part of their income, no small part of their livelihood is taken from the land; in such places like Indian Head, Trout River, the South Side of Bonavista Bay where they once carried fair herds of cattle; in the process of having to destroy them, they have nothing to take their place—nothing. One other of the big things which has held back sound agricultural economy in this Province has been roads and means of transportation. The Government is pushing ahead with roads policy and, I believe, when completed, it is going to provide more answers to the agricultural economy in this Province than this government or any government even visualized. Isolation is the curse; always has been the curse and still is a curse of Newfoundland, not far removed, Sir, from the Government's economic development policy, is agricultural independence; indeed it is probably part of the Department of Public Welfare. If this Government had done nothing else other than set up mothers' allowances and dependents' allowances, this government would have been justified. We have people who criticized that; people who do not know the conditions under which the people in this Province lived and are still living. It might cost more than was estimated; but if it does, it is further proof of the poverty which actually exists. Thousands of widows there were who had no income; thousands of cripples, through no fault of their own, whose misery is a little bit alleviated by what this government has been able to accomplish. We can deeply appreciate what has been done and it is not impossible that we have done as much as we can do for the time being. Some people have called this "The Welfare State." I, myself, do not know the definition of a Welfare State. I do maintain that as long as we have to subscribe to the idea of competitive economy, we must also be prepared to carry the burdens of those who cannot carry their own; cost what it may.

Referring to my own district, which I have the privilege and honour to represent; we are indeed grateful to the Government for the hospital service on Fogo Island. The Island is designed to serve Fogo and Indian Island and even Change Islands. This hospital has been under consideration for many years, but the task was never undertaken until this year. The people of Fogo Island are deeply grateful to the Premier and the Minister of Health for putting these services there and it is the hope of the people that when the hospital is ready for opening, both the honourable Premier and the Minister of Health will find it convenient to be there to receive their thanks.

Our roads on Fogo Island are improved and we will have a fair network of roads around Fogo Island. These roads, I feel, in the future are going to play a part in the Fogo Island area. Fogo Island, Change Islands and Indian Islands—there we have an area in Newfoundland which is probably the most prolific as far as inshore fishery is concerned. If there is any future in the North East Coast Fisheries, that future must lie around Fogo and Change Islands. They tell us there are red fish and scallops in the area. Let us hope these fisheries will be developed. Let us hope that the acquisition by the Government, of equipment in assisting the fisheries of Change Islands; into which the fishermen have put no small effort themselves; will either prove or disprove the operation of this equipment.

The Wesleyville-Lumsden road, we hope, will be continued over the straight shore to connect Musgrave Harbour, and this will open up the area of the straight shore; open up a completely new area of good forest land and good arable land; good land on which the people can come in from the islands and settle. We hope too that with the development of the Labrador codfishery, transportation will be provided. Transportation is now impossible by sea because of the state of the coast. We hope that if that road can be extended to Gander, we will be able to offer to Newfoundland some of the finest tourist attractions in the Province. Many people are thinking about Florida. We have many better places in Cape Freels than in Florida. Looking for salmon? We have Anchor Brook and Deadman's Bay, as good as any in Newfoundland. A road will take you to it. I am hoping, Sir, that with these roads constructed; even the road to Gander, in which we shall be especially interested, will bring to this unknown part of Newfoundland many people; a place where you can fish at eleven o'clock; shoot moose at 2 o'clock; visit the Islands—Penguin Islands at 3 o'clock and be back in your camp at 5 o'clock, if you want to.

Back to more serious things, sir: This is Education Week and the topic of the day is "Education is Everybody's Business." It would be a laudable thing if education was indeed everybody's business. As it is, I find, perhaps it is the business of a very few people. I want to congratulate Dr. Dawe, not only on the very sensible address on the radio; but his words were the bold words of a cool and capable man. He said things which a lot of people would like to say but which they are afraid to say. What I am going to say on this matter might be termed "a political indiscretion." It might be termed even worse than that. But my conscience in this matter is more important than political indiscretions; and so I am going to say it. I feel that I am expressing an opinion which is not only my own personal opinion; it is the opinion of a lot of people in this Province; also the opinion of a lot of professional people in this Province; the professional teachers. We have at this moment in this Province thirty classrooms closed. We have one thousand children walking about, doing nothing; and the excuse is held forth, "we cannot get teachers." Agreed! We cannot get teachers! The truth of it is this: After a young man has passed schooling or a young woman, and they have spent a few years at a University; these people are not going to leave the University and spend a lifetime in some forsaken hole. That is the truth. That is the truth regarding our school system today. I do not contend or dare to contend that Christian principles are not an important thing in the school system. It is desirable that it should be continued; but I do not think that in rural communities the system should continue as it is today. It is a disgrace and the children are being sacrificed and, may I ask, to whom and to what? Our system, Sir, is unique. We have no scarcity of teachers. We have plenty of teachers. The trouble is, there are too many schools. I contend our present system in our rural communities is as leaky as a basket. Here in cities and towns, there is probably every justification for it. It is not impossible to have the present denominational system in the city or town where denominations can provide sufficiently large schools and sufficient staffs; it is not impossible that these schools and colleges can provide as good an educational system; but we cannot say that of the outports in Newfoundland—the greater part of the outports. The subject is not much discussed, Mr. Speaker; it is not discussed in the Council of the churches; but it is discussed around the Waterloo stove by the father and mother responsible for the education of the children. There it is discussed very fervently. Only a few years ago I had the fortunate or unfortunate experience of having taught in a one-room school in which forty-five children attended. It was a nightmare to me every morning to go to that school at nine o'clock and look down into forty-five anxious faces. I ended up in June as most teachers end up—a wreck. Across the way, less than five hundred yards, was another little school with ten children attending.

There was plenty of room in that community, as there is in hundreds of rural communities in Newfoundland, for two teachers; but there was only room for one school. I do not know who is going to provide the leadership but come it must. We must have amalgamated schools in this Province and it is right, I think, that the leadership should come from those in whom is at present entrusted the care and education of the children of Newfoundland. Family Allowances and the Compulsory School Attendance Act are not the answers. That is only part of the answer. It is not the complete answer. Once again, may I ask, in our deplorable education system in our rural communities, what and who are being sacrificed? Is there any man or woman in this country, knowing the conditions of education in the outports, who can conscientiously say that this thing must continue? That it is warranted? It is not! It is not warranted! Every argument in favour of it is as leaky as a basket.

Education is Everybody's business and the fisheries of Newfoundland is everybody's business too. I wish that some day, some time, this House could open without somebody's talking about the fisheries. It would indeed be a wonderful thing. I wish I could avoid it. As it is, I represent the District of Fogo in which more than seventy-five percent of the population derive their living from the fisheries and I must have something to say about it. The curse which has been hanging over the fisheries of Newfoundland for generations has at last descended with a vengeance. The fishermen have hauled up their boats on the beaches. Let nobody make a mistake about it. The engines and traps are in the stages and they are there to stay and my blessings go with the fishermen of Newfoundland. Stick to your guns, and you will do it! There must be some temporary solution found to the inshore fishery of Newfoundland, if it is going to provide the people who are presently engaged in that industry, with a means of livelihood. I am not talking about motor cars and diesel engines. I am talking about six horse-power engines. We have had platitudes each succeeding season handed out to the fishermen, saying "O.K., it will be alright next year; it will be a little better next year." Too long have we heard from the trade those talks about modernization, talks about some of the profits taken out of the fisheries and now put back in the fisheries. From my observations, these profits are being ploughed into mar-malade agencies and sole agencies. Must the fishermen of Newfoundland be sacrificed over and over again? And, even at this late hour, we hear men conversing about the fisheries of this country—either we do something or face the consequences. Talking about it now. The consequences, Mr. Speaker, have already arrived and if the President of the Salt Codfish Association does not think they have, he had better take a run around the country in a motorboat and see if they have not arrived. If he does, he will have no more worries about it at all. I doubt very much whether either this Provincial Government, or the Federal Government or even the Salt Codfish Trade know that the consequences have arrived. They are here and they are of greater magnitude than we imagine.

We need to have no worries about overproduction in 1951 unless some temporary solution is found to the situation still carried over from 1950. There will be no necessity of action by the suppliers to curtail prices, no provision for the fishermen to stop fishing earlier. No necessity of that this year. The boats are on the banks. It is not impossible that our vendors of marmalade and jams, at last, will probably find some temporary solution.

And what are the consequences? The boats of the fishermen are on the banks to stay, until a solution; a temporary solution is found. It is no good to say to the fishermen "you must wait for development to come." What is he going to do in the meantime? If you have a patient who is sick and about to die, and you are about to perform an operation on him and he is in great pain; you do not say "Well, old fellow, you must suffer it out." You give him a shot of morphine until you are ready to do something for him. The fisherman of Newfoundland is in that condition at this moment and the trade and the Federal Government must do something. Fish, to this Province is butter and cheese and wheat to Canada. If they can do it for wheat and butter and cheese, they must do it for fish and we refuse to become a little baby that is going to fit quietly into the pattern of Confederation.

Consequence number two: It would be a very useful exercise for any of us, the next time we are in a fishing community, to take a walk down around the stages and see how many men are in the fishing boats who are under the age of forty. Our generation is out of the fishing boats to stay. The men in the fishing boats today, the majority of them, are over forty years of age. Where are the fishermen, the young fishermen of Grate's Cove, Catalina, Greenspond and Fogo? They are not in the fishing boat. My generation is not going in the fishing boat. We have no intention of going there. We saw too much poverty. We are the T.B. generation, the generation who suffered the empty stomachs. We are not going back. There are many sons of fishermen who are not going back and my blessings go with them.

Consequence number three: As I have already said; we need not worry about the fisheries in 1951 unless speedy action is coming from some quarters. It is the duty of the trade to let the fishermen know what is going to happen. And consequence number three—and this is probably not a consequence at all—what is the situation in the fisheries today? I have said that the young labour force is not there and they are out to stay. I have said it is not impossible that the boats are on the bank to stay too. Why? They will tell us there is not much money in the fisheries; not much money made in the fisheries. There has been money made, but it has never been ploughed back into the fisheries of Newfoundland. A few of the men are on Bell Island and in Buchans. We had twenty-eight thousand fishermen—twice as many as in the whole of Conception Bay. If the profits which were taken out of the fisheries; if only some small portion could have gone back into experiments; even if they had been put back by the people into whose hands Dame Fortune had put the guidance of the fisheries; if they had gone back into experiments they were conversant with, we would not have the situation we have today. But, they turned themselves into vendors of marmalade and canned foods. I do not doubt that marmalade and canned foods are all right, but I do not think that fisheries industrialists should be concerning themselves with marmalade and jains. It would be far better if the profits went back to where they took them from.

Last year I do not know what sort of price was paid for fish. We had all sorts of prices. I will say this, and say it quite conscientiously; that it is impossible for a fisherman to launch his boat, to put his trap and trawl in the water without ten dollars a quintal. If he does, he will end up in 1951 the same as he did in 1950—a little poorer than when he started. In order for the fishermen to arrive at ten dollars a quintal, something must be done. Who is going to see that it is done? It is no good to say "It is economic; it will slow up development; why put a dryer at Bonavista? Why conduct experiments?" If you do not, you will not have any labour force left. If there is a future to the fisheries in this country, and I believe there is a future, even in the inshore fishery, action must be taken now to preserve all labour force. The very fact that we are living in a world of food shortages, that alone should be sufficient to warrant every assistance available being given to the fishing industry. No small number of the people of this world are a little poorer than what we are. It is the greatest weapon of Karl Marx, of Lenin and of Stalin, that the people have not got anything to eat.

Our fishermen are producers of food; a matter with which most of us have not been concerned all our lifetime. We probably had enough, but there are an awful lot of people who have not. The fishermen of Newfoundland, being producers of fish, are people who are helping to provide three square meals a day for somebody. If they are going to continue doing that, they must be given support and they must be given help.

We welcome the setting up of the new Fisheries Committee. We welcome the Inquiry into the prices paid for fish in 1950. I believe the Committee are going to bring forward policies which are going to be of great value to the Province. I hope the Inquiries will satisfy the minds of most of us.

Probably more than anything else, we welcome the challenge that has been thrown out by the Premier to the fishermen to organize on their own. I believe that is their last chance. If they fail this time; if the fishermen fail this time, I do not think that in my lifetime, at least, that ever again may rise up such an organization which is so badly needed. They will go down licking wounds from which they will never recover. I feel, Sir, that the fishermen of Newfoundland are out to organize themselves and to remove the very disturbing fact that they themselves are probably being their own greatest enemies.

MR. JOHN G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): In accordance with an old custom of the opposition, I rise to support this motion. Since we appeared here the last time we have seen in front of us a gallery of celebrated men of the past who belong in Newfoundland history. They are there facing us to remind us that even the great difficulty of a government majority may be overcome, and they are hanging over the Government to remind them they must have reason and conscience enough to dictate justice. As I look upon them I know most of those faces. I did not live in their time, I was not then a chartered member of this House and

I know those faces mostly from history, and I know some of them were men of vision, of giant intellect and ability. Out of all those, only three are alive and so they stand to remind us that it is appointed to all men once to die and then the judgment; to remind us that we must vote with one end. I have heard a lot of conscience but it is a far sight better that men should have the consciences and not the bills. If this is so, any bills passed, when men of conscience pass them, are going to be good bills. I do not know how far conscience goes in speeches, but I have heard a lot of prattling statements going on. To hear them one would think the last government is one of angels, that they are the colour of angels, that they have all the great men, all the leaders in the world with them, the only body of men ever to have done anything for the poor man; that great statesmen like Bond who pledged his own private funds for this country, was a man contaminated because he lived in the past; great men like Sir James Winter. Now it is beyond me how some young men suddenly blossom forth and think they have the right to attack everything and everybody and to discuss problems and build up and settle mistakes of ages here, but through all this comment and attack, Sir, there was one thing that made sense and that was when the member for Fogo repeated what someone who had seconded a similar motion said, "He hoped that next session we will all be here." I should say, Sir, in a Christian country that I hope the good Lord will be gracious enough to have us all here the next time we meet.

The second thought that comes to us when we look at them, these men opposite, facing us, we are reminded of the men who played a big part in the pages of Newfoundland history, men far above the average of high, very high intellect, they should serve us as an example of modesty, to be modest in our own ideas, not to think too much of ourselves, not to feel we are the only statesmen in the world, the only ones that God created in this country. I think I heard someone say one 'time: "The men here are the finest body of men who ever sat in this House".

Some people put an idea in a vacuum and rotate it, but I am going to dispense a few ideas in a very small compass, Sir, because after all, now, the day is over, the glory, the cannon gun, the infantry and the police, with rifle and shouting of orders being called out, the thunder of guns and flash thereof, and then the opening of the House with a large commotion, the Mace, the Lieutenant Governor bedecked appropriate to the occasion. Then the crowd came. This is their day, Sir, not ours—we have the outsiders here as visitors, they take our places and sit in sanctum and we feel so important knowing nobody should be in those seats except on a very special occasion like this. Just to have a look around, they came, to see the portraits, to see how you look in your regimentals and see us like poppy jays in our morning coats. I think I am the only one on this side but on the other side there must be a dozen. They have Government money. Some want to see where Mr. Drover is going to sit and where the opposition sits and the still smaller independents sit? They heard the Speech from the Throne—so good it has to be read a second time; some people got it off by heart now.

Now I shall be short. One thing I want to say, Sir, with all the trappings we have now—Old Age Pension forms and Income Tax forms and duplicate and triplicate and quadruple forms and sales tax forms, all these being thrust upon us to remind us of liberties we once had and will never have. We must follow twelve million Canadians we have joined and we must have a second language, we must speak in duplicate, we must be bilingual. But I am afraid we must not only be bilingual, trilingual or qualingual, I am afraid we will have to learn to speak with divers' tongues—tongues and tongues and more tongues, fish tongues before long. Tongues of the East and the West, the North and the South; tongues of the English and of course of the French, of the Latvians, Germans and Icelanders. Where are we going to be? I am afraid we are creating a confusion of tongues and later there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. And the cement mill will disappear, the gypsum plant will dissolve and the heady hopes will all depart and the visions of some bold dreamers will vanish and leave only a wreck behind to remind us of the glory-to-be that never was. What then will be of Newfoundland? Newfoundland will not be, Sir.

Never did money speak so much as today. Three-and-a-half millions for this and three millions for that but when we think of all this money, Sir, just let us stop and consider what those men, men of the past did against difficulties and let them be an example to us. A younger generation went down in the twenties and still another in the thirties and yet we survived. None of us had money, we were all poor, all born poor, some of us even had mothers who went out and worked for us and brought us up well. In the outports, when the fisheries failed they all managed to live. I was poor myself, I never had money. What is the use of our pretending; we are a decent people whose parents earned their bread by the sweat of their brow—And then we hear all this talk about the terrible past.

We had fifty million dollars to start with and we are spending it as fast as we can. We are told it is better to spend it than to hoard it; that we must sow to reap. Certainly; but I want to say this much: In the time when Newfoundland was different than it is now, in the days of White- way over there; our national debt was one million dollars. Then it went to three million dollars. I remember as a little boy hearing about a debt of three million dollars, then five million. Then it went as high as ten million and finally fifty million. But what was being built up on that fifty million dollars. Men of great character, honesty and ability built up enormous assets, no government will question that in spite of all that was said of "the dirty days of responsible government." In the days when one man said when he heard of a member voting on a certain bill "I hope to God it is on his conscience." Dirty days indeed, these days when men built up the great country we have today.

Now then, I could say here as it should be said, according to olden times, that the real objects of the government contained in the Speech from the Throne are all mixed up and that it is not noted for what it says but for what it does not say. But Sir I will not say it, though I might do so.

We have had today a challenge from the other side on education. That is a matter that will be brought up.

But I tell you one thing. I was Secretary of the South Coast Disaster Fund for two and a half years—The "Telegram" published an account of it recently and never even mentioned my name. Nevertheless I was the secretary. After it was all over, the Chairman told me that in his travels all over this Island one thing he was convinced of was that no matter what happened in this country there would always be denominational education. It could not be otherwise because one section of the country such as the Southern Shore was all Roman Catholic, another section United Church, another section Presbyterian. An attack on the educational system of this country could very easily develop into an attack on religion itself. I have no more to add to that.

In reference to the old customs of the country—I like to see old customs and traditions upheld. The Premier may have a mind like Belloe but I have a mind for lost causes. For instance I like to wear a morning coat here because I feel I am doing my duty and I like to see the members of the Government wearing them. Is the Minister of Justice wearing his morning coat? I thought so, I like to see these things happen; to finish up, I would like to follow the good old custom and as Leader of the Opposition give my support to the motion before the House.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I think I voice the sentiment of everyone present when I extend congratulations to the two members who moved and seconded the motion that a committee be appointed to draft an address in reply to the speech with which His Honour, the Lieutenant Governor so graciously opened this session of the House. Very rarely indeed have I heard this motion so elegantly moved and seconded as it was done here today. Speaking for myself and I am sure for all of us on this side, I am very proud indeed to be associated with two young Newfoundlanders such as the members for Labrador and Fogo. I feel that every citizen on either side of the House or merely here as temporary visitors will join with me in pride that Newfoundland has produced two young statesmen of the calibre of these men. Certainly this Government is not likely to become lackadaisical, smug or complaisant while it is supported by men such as these. I am very pleased that we are supported by men such as they and they are typical of most if not all of the members in this House who do support the Government. I am pleased indeed, and I think I, and my colleagues in the Cabinet are prevented from succumbing to any temptation to rest on our oars, to take it easy, to feel that we are doing very well and that there is nothing to worry about. If there is any danger of our falling into that trap we will be reminded more than once, as in the past, that it is not enough to go to the people and win a great electoral victory; not enough in the first couple of years to have striven hard and to have had the beginning of some success but rather the battle goes on incessantly, never does the battle of reform, the battle of progress, the battle to rise inch by inch and yard by yard the standard of living of the common people of this Island. To the winning of that battle this Government set its hand more than a year and a half ago and we will not rest, day or night, until that battle is won. I am not so optimistic, optimistic though I be by nature, as to believe that in the first three or four years of our term in the first ten or fifteen years of our possession of the majority in this House we can accomplish all that we dream of accomplishing. That is why I said more than a year ago that I felt we would be here on this side of the House for the next quarter of a century, and Mr. Speaker, we have the courage, we have the strength, we have the nerve to face the remaining years of that quarter of a century with determination that we will finish the job we set out to accomplish. I do indeed with great sincerity congratulate the mover and seconder of the motion and in doing so I express my gratitude and great satisfaction to finding myself associated with men like them.

I congratulate also the honourable and learned Leader of the Opposition for the kindly, the generous speech he has made in support of the motion. I said on opening day of the first session of this House, this General Assembly, that, if I had had the choosing of the leader of the opposition, my choice would have been the gentleman who was the choice of his colleagues and followers. The honourable, learned gentleman is what we know proudly as a patriotic Newfoundlander; a man born with a love of Newfoundland and a man who has by reading and living acquired an intense love of Newfoundland and the history and traditions of Newfoundland. So it was no surprise to me that my honourable and learned friend in his opening remarks should have drawn attention to this gallery of portraits of the speakers of this House up to but not including Your Honour who is the present speaker, and that he should have spoken with such emotion and in such moving terms of the greatness of our men of the past in this House and of the inspiration which the presence here of their portraits (done so magnificently, so beautifully by Mr. Fredrick Steiger who I have seen here this afternoon with a great deal of pleasure) with their constant reminder to us that life is short, that great men have been here before us and that we would do well to emulate the best that was in the best of them.

Mr. Speaker, my honourable and learned friend has not touched at any length upon the speech from the throne, I assume, I have no doubt, that he will do so in the course of the debate upon the address in reply when the committee presents that address back to the chamber. He did, however, in passing give in to the temptation to refer with some irony and some sarcasm to Icelanders and Germans and Latvians and we all understood his allusions, I think everyone present understood it quite clearly in fact. The fact of the matter is that this Government has entered into two contracts with German manufacturing concerns who are located in the great German city of Brunswick; with the great industrial firm of MIAG for construction of a cement mill and the other for construction of a gypsum plant and a plaster wall board plant, also in a city of Germany.

Mr. Speaker, I will give my honourable and learned friend a tip; I will give any newspaper who commits itself on the cement mill and the gypsum plant in the next few weeks, a tip. I will give the same tip to every honourable member opposite and the tip is this: The less they have to say by way of sarcasm or irony about what I have done, this Government has done to build that cement mill, to build that gypsum plant and to place the orders for construction of the machinery with German firms, in Germany, the less they say about it in the next few weeks the prouder they will be that they had said so little as they did. In a few weeks, Mr. Speaker, we on this side of the House care not as to the nationality or religion or race of the individuals or personal beliefs or creeds of any man or any company with which we deal when it comes to raising the standard of living of our people by economic development. We have dealt and we will deal with bankers, financiers, industrialists in our own country and in our own United Kingdom, as we have done and are doing in the U.S.A., as we have done, are doing and will do in Germany, in Switzerland and Belgium. As we have done, are doing and will continue to do, we will deal with any man of any nation. We refuse with contempt, with unutterable contempt to pay any attention to his nationality, his race, his religion just so long also as he can give us a better price for the people of Newfoundland, give us a better machinery, give us shorter delivery. So long also as he will help this Government to industrialize Newfoundland and to overcome the long centuries of negligence in the past. I would out of sheer friendship and I am nothing if I am not friendly to him; I have every reason to be; I have been treated with great courtesy and great decency by the honourable gentleman opposite. No premier, no government, no government party has ever been treated with more consideration and friendly, manly decency than we have been by our honourable and gallant friend opposite. And so, out of friendship, resist that temptation to sneer at Latvians and Germans, it is small town stuff, it smacks of the bush, it is the small attitude of a back-woods man who has not had the advantage of learning, good high school or college or university education; one who has not had the advantage of having his education, his mind broadened by travelling as most certainly I have had in the past year and a half.

Resist the temptation, my friend. When my honourable and learned friend knows, when the people of this Province know, as they will, the complete story of what the cement mill really has cost by getting it built in Germany; when they know the cost of that mill compared with any cement mill anywhere in the world built during exactly the same period of time. When they know that, when the people of Newfoundland know that they will take their hats off to the Government.

MR. HIGGINS: I rise to a point of order: I attacked no Latvians, I attacked no nations, I attacked the idea that the Prime Minister took other people from Europe to take the place of our people. I attacked no nationalities but I will attack the idea that they come over here to take work that Newfoundlanders can do. I don't believe any nation.

MR. SMALLWOOD: By that, my honourable friend, has made himself a little clearer than he had during his speech, and in passing, may we say we have got in Newfoundland no Latvians that can do any work that can be done by any Newfoundlanders in Newfoundland. Now then, who have we got? What have we got? We have got Latvians, road engineers. There is not one we can get in Newfoundland, in all the great Canadian Nation from St. John's to Victoria, five thousand miles across. In all Canada, in a year and a half of constant advertising, after constant writing, constant personal communications and contacts, my honourable friend, the Minister of Public Works was able to secure one.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): Another was secured in the past week.

MR. SMALLWOOD: One road engineer in all Canada and that is because throughout Canada there is a great programme of road-building, and they want their own engineers and they raised their pay. Only one engineer we were able to get.

The work of building roads is dependent upon having engineers. We could not get them in Canada. We tried and we failed. There was one point at which we did get a road engineer in Saskatchewan.

The salary was agreed too; all the details were arranged. He was to leave Saskatchewan on a certain date for St. John's. At the last minute he was offered a considerable increase, and without telling us, he wired saying "Sorry I have changed my mind. Not coming."

MR. HIGGINS: Did he sign a contract?

MR. SMALLWOOD: No. The reason we lost him? I will tell you. In all Canada today—unless the government of Newfoundland is prepared to pay Roads Engineers very much more than scale—very much more—we cannot get a Road Engineer.

MR. JACKMAN: What about the Public Works Engineer, Mr. Speaker?

MR. SMALLWOOD: If we are to build roads, we must have Road Engineers. It cannot be done otherwise. We can build trails through the woods, cow paths; but we cannot build modern roads without Engineers. We cannot build bridges without Engineers. So, when people in all parts of this Province clamoured for roads to be built and we had surveys to be made and we could not do it. I got angry. I got angry with my honourable colleague, the Minister of Public Works. He said "No use your shouting and bawling. I tried to get Engineers, I could not get them. Now, you try." I said "Where have you tried?" He said "Everywhere—in every Province in Canada." I said "Show me the correspondence." He showed me his files containing his efforts. I said, "Ned, I take it back, I apologize. You are right; there is no use looking in Canada; let's look somewhere else." We looked in Germany. For Germans: No. We have not employed one German since I came into office and, as far as I know, we have no intention of doing so although I would remind you that all the democratic world is endeavouring at this moment, it has been doing so for some months; indeed, for more than a year; to bring the German nation back amongst the allies; to make allies of them. But we have not employed one German. Not one. We have gone to Germany and what have we got? We have gotten one Medical Doctor, a Latvian. We got how many Roads Engineers? Four Latvians in Germany. We got one distinguished bridge designer and builder, Dr. Jacobson, who arrived a few days ago, a very distinguished designer and engineer.

Let me say this: In the past five years, the Government of Newfoundland, that is to say the Commission of Government and this present government, together, have spent on architects, no less than three or four hundred thousand dollars on architects. Let me tell you something: Our predecessors, the Commission of Government, let a contract for the building of the Nurses' Home at the Mental Hospital. It was built under contract with a contractor. The architect in Montreal, a Newfoundlander, who designed the Nurses' Home was paid five percent of the cost of the building as his architect's fee. Five percent! Out of every one hundred dollars spent, he got five dollars for designing. Another Newfoundland architect here in St. John's was paid an additional two percent on the value of all the mechanical part of the building and an additional five percent of the building itself. So that we came in and found to our horror that the architects' fees were taking no less than ten percent in every case (and in some cases twelve percent) of the cost of the building; and that is how all the buildings erected by the Commission of Government were erected. That is to say, the contractor was given the contract to erect the building, and an architect was given the contract to design the building; and whatever the building itself cost, the architect got no less than five percent; and in many cases there were two architects; one in Montreal and one here, what they call a Supervising Architect. They got ten percent. And in many cases the buildings were built on a cost-plus contract; so that the contractor who had the contract to erect, had every reason to drive up the cost of the building, because the more it cost, the more he got and the more profit he got. And when he drove up the cost of the building, the architect sat back with a smile on his face like that on the cat who had got the canary. Up went his cost. What would my honourable learned friend do if he had been in my position or had his colleagues occupied the positions of my colleagues? What would they have done? Would they have gone on under the same system or would they decide to do away with that system and get our own architect; pay him $5,000 or $6,000 or $7,000 a year and save one hundred thousand dollars a year? That is what we did. I think that is what my honourable and learned friend would have done.

How many more? One distinguished bridge designer; four bridge engineers—two from the mainland (after a year and a half of Confederation we have lost the habit of calling the mainland Canadian 'foreigners')—we are discussing foreigners at the moment. The Province of Nova Scotia got ahead of us. They got in there first and got more Latvians than we did, about which I am sorry. That is because we did not come into office earlier than we did. Had we come in earlier, we would have not five Latvians, but ten, fifteen, twenty or thirty; and I suggest humbly that in a population of three hundred and fifty thousand souls, we will not be too contaminated by bringing in twenty or thirty Latvians. I think, somehow, we will stand up under it. I think we will survive.

Now, I am very pleased and I am sure every member of this House, including Your Honor, everyone is pleased to see back here in his place, the honourable member—I think perhaps the senior member for Harbour Main-Bell Island, after a bout of sickness,

We do trust that his health will continue to improve and that we will have him here a long time. We might even wish him the good luck of sometime being over here on this side of the House. We have nothing but the kindest regards for him.

We are all exceedingly pleased that we are honoured this afternoon by the presence of the only living ex-Premier of Newfoundland, the Hon. W. S. Monroe.

We are all, I am quite sure, pleased indeed that we have here in the Chamber this afternoon our latest acquisition to Newfoundland—a man with a very remarkable record of achievement; a man of great standing across this great Canadian nation; a man of great reputation—and he was willing to leave all that behind to come here amongst us; to throw in his lot with us; to put his hand to the plough, the fisheries plough, about which my honourable friends spoke—our new Deputy Minister of Fisheries, Mr. Clive Planta. We were proud we were able to snatch him from under the noses of Ottawa, bring him to Newfoundland and make a Newfoundlander of him.

Before I close, may I say to my honourable friend, the member for Fogo, that if he felt that in one or two of his remarks he was committing 'a political indiscretion'—as I think he put it—that in my opinion he was not. Surely we have not reached the point in this British country, in this building, that that great tradition of free speech and fair play, democracy, when an honourable member elected to take his place cannot speak his honest opinions on matters such as he discussed this afternoon, even when that discussion includes a topic which often and, I think, unnecessarily arouses passion and suspicion and foreboding—the matter of Education. He spoke his personal opinions frankly and earnestly, as, of course, he has every right to do. He himself would be the first to tell you that he was not voicing the formal, official policy of the Government. He did not presume to do that. He did not undertake to do that. He was expressing his own personal opinion. We honour him for his fearless and frank expression of opinion. May I say, speaking formally and in behalf of the Government of Newfoundland, that we have no thought at all of taking the jurisdiction of education out of the hands in which it presently, properly rests. That is to say, in the hands of the people and of the religious denominations. There it is and there it belongs and there, so far as this Government is concerned, it will continue to be. At the same time, men being men, having insight and brains, men will differ in their personal opinions and interpretations, and God forbid that touchiness or fear or suspicion should ever make it inexpedient for a man to express his honest feelings even on so delicate a matter as this one of education. This is what my honourable friend, the member for Fogo has done, as a man; as a member of this House who is proud to support this administration of His Majesty's Government.

MR. JACKMAN: I would like to remind the Premier that we have here this afternoon a very important personage who happened to be the leader of our Party in the last election, the Mayor of St. John's. I think he should be welcomed officially.

MR. SPEAKER: Is the House ready for the question? It is moved and seconded that a Committee be appointed to draft the Reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Whereupon the motion was carried.

I would appoint the following members to draft the Address in Reply: The Hon. Member for Labrador, Mr. Horwood; the Hon. Member for Fogo,

Mr. Janes and the Hon. Member for Hr. Main-Bell Island, Mr. Fahey; and order that the Committee report to the House.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Life Insurance Act, 1933" and a Bill entitled "An Act to Amend the Insurance Premium Tax Act, 1950."

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce the following bills:

A Bill "An Act to Amend the Agreement for Policing the Province Act, 1949."

A Bill "An Act to Facilitate the Enforcement of Maintenance Orders."

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce the following Bills:

A Bill entitled "An Act to Amend the Nomenclature Board Act, 1939."

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend Chapter 76 of the Consolidated Statutes (3rd Series) entitled 'Of the Permanent Marine Disaster Fund';"

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Shops Act, 1940."

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Health to table the following information:

1. If the Furnishings and Equipment for the West Coast Sanatorium have been purchased as per vote under Sub-head 1023 of the 1950-51 estimates of expenditure, if so state name of supplier; and if furnishings have been delivered give some detail of the number and kind of furnishings supplied, such as beds, chairs, etc., also inform the House if tenders were called, state if the lowest or any tender was accepted.

2. To ask the honourable Minister of Supply to table information showing the cost of living index for the months of April, 1950, to February, 1951, inclusive.

3. To ask the honourable Minister of Finance to table a statement showing the total revenue received from April 1st, 1950, to February 28th, 1951, under the various headings as follows: Finance, Provincial Affairs, Education, Attorney General, Natural Resources, Public Works, Health, Public Welfare, Board of Liquor Control, Supply, Fisheries and Co-operatives, and Labour.

4. To ask the honourable Minister of Finance to table a statement showing the total expenditure from April 1st, 1950, to February 28th, 1951, under the various headings as follows: Consolidated Fund Services, Legislative, Executive Council, Finance, Provincial Affairs, Education, Attorney General, Natural Resources, Public Works, Health, Public Welfare, Board of Liquor Control, Supply, Fisheries and Co-operative, Economic Development, and Labour.

5. To ask the honourable Minister of Finance to table a statement showing the total amount to the credit of the Province on deposit with the Government of Canada; also to inform the House of the total amount of the credit of the Province in the Bank of Montreal in Newfoundland as of February 28th, 1951.

6. To ask the honourable the Premier if there has been correspondence and/or discussions between the Government of Canada and the Government of Newfoundland, relating to any proposed amendment to the constitution of Canada, in respect of the right of Provinces to collect indirect sales taxes, if so, to table all information thereto, and also to state if the Government of Newfoundland is in accord with any such amendment.

7. To ask the honourable the Premier to inform the House of the total number of telegrams received by him, regarding his message to the fishermen of Newfoundland, in respect to the formation of a fishermen's organization.

8. To ask the honourable the Premier to table a statement showing a fully detailed account of the recent advertising program regarding the sale of Newfoundland-made products, the statement to show the amount paid to each person and firm employed, and the name of the Supervisor of the program and the amount paid for his services; also to inform the House of the percentage increase in sales of local products as a result of this expenditure.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to ask the honourable the Premier the following questions:

9. (1) Who bought the Merchant Seamen's Club, once known as the Mechanics' Hall.
- (2) What was the price received therefor?
- (3) What was the method of selling?
- (4) If by tender, were there any other offers?

10. (1) How much did the Icelandic herring venture cost?

(2) What has happened to the ships and equipment?

(3) What does the Government intend to do with the ships and equipment?

(4) Is it possible that the information obtained by the Icelanders will be the means of bringing Icelandic herring boats to these shores?

Notice of Motion

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I would ask leave to introduce a Bill entitled "An Act Respecting the Taking of Oaths by Officers in the Armed Forces" and I would ask that that Bill be now read a first time.

Motion carried.

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, in moving the adjournment of the House until tomorrow, Monday, at three of the clock, I do so in the belief, without consultation, that my honourable friends opposite would wish to have some few days during which they might study the Speech from the Throne so that they might, perhaps, be ready on Monday to proceed with the debate, should the Committee appointed bring back its Address in Reply by that time.

MR. HIGGINS: I hope the Minister will let us have Bills in plenty of time for perusal.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I give that undertaking. My honourable friend is aware of the fact that it is not until a Bill has been given first reading that it may be printed; although the practice has been to print it, even for first reading. My honourable friend is aware also that if he is not ready to proceed with the debate on a Bill, he has every right to ask, and the Government has the right, in courtesy, to accede to the request that there be a delay until the Opposition and the Independents are prepared to go forward.

MR. HIGGINS: That was not thought of the last time. The first two sessions were rushed.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think there was a considerable rushing in the first session. In the second session, I do not think there was nearly as much hurry, except on towards the end. Never was there a Legislative Assembly that did not have a bit of rush and hurry in the closing days of a session; it has been extremely difficult to avoid.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is not debatable.

MR. JACKMAN: I would like to ask if it would be possible to have a morning session as well as an afternoon session? After all, a lot of us fellows are all just common working men, toiling masses; and while we are here, we would like to get in as much time as possible. If the Government could arrange it, I would like to have a morning and evening session. Every day we have an adjournment until the following day at three o'clock and persons like me have nothing to do only spend money.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I am not too sure whether I am in order; but I would say that we as a Government, an Executive Government find it necessary when the House is not in session to meet quite frequently.

When the House is in session, it is necessary to meet even more frequently. If the House meets morning, afternoon and night, then the Executive Government will not have an opportunity to meet and perhaps there will not be too much business for the House. By the same token, if the Executive Government never met, there would never be any legislation and no need of a House at all.

The House adjourned until tomorrow, Monday, the twelfth, at three of the clock.

MONDAY, March 12, 1951

The House opened at three of the clock.

Presenting Petitions

Hon. Edward Russell, Minister of Natural Resources, presented a petition from Bunyan's Cove, regarding the building of a road.

Hon. C. H. Ballam, Minister of Labour, presented a petition on behalf of Mr. Speaker, from Belburns, District of St. Barbe, regarding menace of dogs.

Hon. Dr. H. L. Pottle, Minister of Public Welfare, presented a petition on behalf of the residents of Bay de Verde and Red Head Cove regarding the repairs of road.

Mr. Vardy presented a petition from the settlement of Blackhead Road regarding the repair of road.

Mr. Button presented a petition from Trinity South regarding the construction of a hospital.

Mr. Cashin presented a petition from Renewes regarding road repair.

The petitions were received and referred to the departments concerned.

The following documents were tabled :

Hon. James J. Spratt, Minister of Provincial Affairs, tabled a report from the Housing Corporation for distribution.

Hon. Edward Russell, Minister of Natural Resources, tabled a copy of an agreement between the Minister of Natural Resources, and Chester Dawe relative to a Birch Industry.

Also a copy of an agreement between the Minister of Natural Resources and a number of mink farmers respecting loans made during the past year to said mink farmers.

Regulations under the Wild Life Act, 1947 prohibiting the taking of Beaver in a certain section of Labrador.

Amendment of the Wild Life (Salmon and Trout) Regulations, 1948.

Regulations under the Vegetable (Grading) Act, 1950.

The Saw Mill (Licensing) Regulations, 1950.

Proclamation made under sub-section (1) of Section 2 of the Dog Act, 1938.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE: (Minister of Public Welfare): I would like to ask the members of the House to consider a memorandum or table I circulated earlier, a Statement of Distribution of Statutory Payments made by the Department of Public Welfare for February 1951.

If any member wishes clarification I should be glad to furnish it. I believe it is self explanatory. The honourable members may wish to have time to look into the data and probably ask questions in the course of time relating to their own districts or the total picture. If the honourable members have no further questions to ask I would beg leave to lay three copies of the Annual Report of the Director of Child Welfare and of the Judge of the St. John's Juvenile Court, the work of the fiscal year, on the table.

MR. SPEAKER: Before calling the next order, I wish to inform the House, some time ago a committee was set up to revise standing orders of the House. I hope to be able on tomorrow to place in the hands of the members of the committee the completely revised rules and standing orders of this House together with certain other papers and the committee may be able to report to the House in due course.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

MR. HORWOOD: Mr. Speaker, regarding the select committee appointed to reply to the Speech from the Throne, it is already in the hands of Mr. Clerk.

The Clerk of the House read the following reply from the Speech from the Throne:

To His Honour the Lieutenant Governor,

Sir Leonard Cecil Outerbridge,
Knight Bachelor, C.B.E., D.S.O.

May it please Your Honour:

We, the Commons of Newfoundland for Legislative session assembled, beg to thank Your Honour for the gracious speech which Your Honour has addressed to this House.

(Sgd.) H. HORWOOD.
R. J. FAHEY.
GORDON W. JANES.

Assembly Room,
March 12, A.D. 1951.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is that this address in reply to the Speech from the Throne be adopted. I understand that the debate on the question is to be made on the Speech from the Throne. Do we proceed on that debate now or defer it?

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): We had better defer it to a point later in the afternoon.

MR. SPEAKER: It is the wish of the House to defer this debate.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. CASHIN: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Finance to table the following information:

(1) A copy of the Public Accounts for the fiscal year 1949-50 as well as a copy of the Report of the Comptroller and Auditor General for the same period.

(2) A statement certified by the Auditor General showing the amount placed to the credit of the Province of Newfoundland from the surplus upon the Terms of Union; also the amount to the credit of the same account at the present time. If any withdrawals have been made from the original deposits, to give a statement of such withdrawals.

(3) A statement showing the amount of revenue and expenditure for the fiscal year 1949-50. This statement to be shown under the various headings. Also, a statement showing the amounts received from the Federal Government as Transitional grant for the fiscal year 1949-50 as well as a statement showing the various amounts received from the Federal Government under the headings of Public Health and Welfare for the fiscal year 1949-50.

(4) A statement showing the amount received from the Federal Government from April 1st, 1950, to date for Transitional Grant as well as the amount received under the Department of Health and Welfare for Old Age Pensions, etc., also any other amounts received as Grants from the Federal Government and shown in the Consolidated Revenue account.

(5) A statement showing the amount of actual cash to the credit of the Treasury in the Bank of Montreal as at February 28th, 1951—the total amount of cash to the credit of the Board of Liquor Control as at February 28th, 1951.

(6)—Give a statement showing the operations of the Newfoundland Savings Bank for the fiscal year 1949-50.

(7) Give a statement showing the amount of actual cash loaned to the various industries, giving the names of the corporations to which the money has been loaned, the rate of interest being paid in each case and all particulars regarding such loans. This statement to include amounts advanced by the Commission of Government.

(8) Give a statement showing the amounts of money guaranteed to various corporations or individuals and full particulars concerning such guarantees.

Also I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs to table the following information :

(1) A statement showing the cost of operating the various apartment buildings in the Housing Corporation. Give details of such cost; such as the annual cost of heating, insurance, janitor service, etc. Give the total rentals.

Also I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Public Health to inform the House why it is that the cottage hospital has not been constructed in the district of Ferryland as provided for in the estimates of expenditure passed through this House during the last session. Is it true that the Secretary or Assistant Secretary for Public Health has advised the Government not to perform this work and if so, would the Minister inform the House why it is that legislation passed through the legislature covering the Public Health Department has not been carried out.

Also I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the Minister of Public Works to table a statement as follows :

(1) The total number of miles constructed under the Trans-Canada Highway plan during the year 1950—the total cost to the province of such construction—the total number of miles of such road to be constructed over the next few years under such plan, and the estimate of cost of such plan. Given an estimate of what amount this whole Trans-Canada Highway plan will cost the province when finished and whether the province is actually committed to finish this project.

(2) What amount of money was expended in the form of relief work on public highroads during the autumn of 1950; give this information showing the amount expended in each district.

(3) Table a copy of the tenders submitted for the construction of the additional wings to the Mental Hospital, informing the House what company or companies were awarded the contracts and were the lowest tenders accepted.

MR. JOHN G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Premier :

(1) Who started the "Buy Newfoundland Campaign?"

(2) By what authority was $50,000.00 allocated?

(3) Who appointed the Director of the campaign?

(4) What is the work of the Associated Newfoundland Industries in connection with the campaign?

(5) Under whose auspices was the fair held in August and why was such an inconvenient time chosen?

(6) How much money was realized for the booths and to what did this money go?

(7) Who was responsible for bringing down the Circus and was the Circus recommended by anybody?

(8) How is the Buy Newfoundland Campaign carried on now?

(9) If advertisement is used in connection with it what papers get the advertising and what space is used by each paper?

(10) Has there been an audit of the funds of the organization. If not, why not?

Also to ask the honourable the Minister of Co-operatives :

(1) Did any person or companies receive any money or guarantee from the Government to build taverns or road houses or tourist lodges?

(2) If so, what are the names of the parties or companies, what is the amount involved and what is the security?

Also to ask the honourable the Premier :

(1) How much will the cement factory cost?

(2) Does the Government intend to work it. If not, who will?

(3) How many will it employ?

(4) Who got the contract to build it?

(5) Who supplied the machinery?

(6) If machinery was bought in Europe, who did the buying and what was paid for it?

(7) Was the Government offered any machinery for a cement factory on this continent?

(8) In the event of war, how will spare parts be obtained?

(9) Have any arrangements been made for selling cement out of this country?

(10) On whose authority was the order for the factory given?

(11) Has any money yet been paid on the cement mill or its machinery?

(12) On whose authority was it paid?

(13) Was the Comptroller consulted in the matter?

Also to ask the honourable the Premier :

(1) Did the Government buy the American Aerated Water Company building on LeMarchant Road?

(2) For how much? If conveyance drafted, please table a copy.

(3) What was included in sale?

(4) Why did the Government buy it?

(5) Was it bought on an appraisal value?

(6) Is the Government aware that this building was offered for sale some time previously?

(7) Did the company approach the Government to buy or did the Government approach the company to sell?

(8) Has the Government got a warehouse for liquor, and if so, where? What was the cost of the warehouse and what can it hold?

Also to ask the honourable the Minister for Co-operatives :

(1) How much money has been advanced to or guaranteed for Lourdes Co-operative Association?

(2) How often has money been paid or guarantee given. On what dates and how much on each occasion?

(3) What collateral was given for the loan or loans or guarantee?

(4) On whose recommendation was or were the loan or loans advanced or guarantee given?

(5) Was an inquiry made at any time by the Government as to the affairs of the Association? If so, when, and was this done before any loan was made or guarantee given?

(6) What was the financial position of the Association at the time the $40,000 loan or guarantee mentioned in the Act passed at the last session was given?

(7) What is the financial position of the Association today?

(8) How much of the loan or loans has been paid or by how much has the guarantee been reduced?

(9) Was the $40,000 advanced to obtain supplies or pay off debts?

(10) What actually happened to the money?

MR. FOGWILL: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Premier:

To table statement showing the total cost of the Royal Commission which was appointed to inquire into the high cost of living in Newfoundland, the statement to show the names of the Commissioners and the names of all persons employed by the Commission and/or by the Government in connection with the inquiry and the salary paid to each, also to show the cost of travelling expenses, the cost of printing the report and the name of the printer; also inform the House of what action is being taken by the Government to bring down the high cost of living, and if in the opinion of the Government the expenditure incurred will result in reducing the high cost of living, if so, state what percentage reduction in living costs has been evidenced or may be expected.

Also to ask the honourable the Premier:

Has the Premier any knowledge of the amount collected in Newfoundland since April the first nineteen forty-nine by the Government of Canada, in respect to the eight per cent general sales tax, if so, state the amount.

Also to ask the honourable the Premier:

To table a statement regarding the foreign rate dispute, showing all particulars, such as the number of firms or persons employed, salaries, travelling expenses, fees, etc., paid or still to be paid on this account; state what in the opinion of the Government is the approximate total amount paid in excess of the adjusted freight rates as from April 1, 1949, to the date when the adjusted rates came into effect; also inform the House if, in the opinion of the Government a substantial lowering of the cost of consumer goods at retail prices will result.

Also to ask the honourable the Premier:

If it is the intention of the Government to pursue this matter further in respect to having the adjusted rates made retroactive to April 1, 1949.

Also to ask the honourable the Premier:

Has the services of the Director of Economic Development been secured by contract, if so, inform the House of the terms of the contract, if the Director's services have not been secured by contract, then inform the House of the conditions of his employment, stating salary, travelling allowances, and any other fee, emolument, etc., paid to him since his services have been secured.

Also to ask the honourable the Premier:

To table a statement showing the total cost of the visit of the Acting Deputy Minister of Fisheries to European fishing centres last year, statement to include the amount of travelling expenses and salary paid; also to inform the House if the Acting Deputy Minister has made a report, if so, table the report; also inform the House if the Acting Deputy Minister of Fisheries is presently employed by the Government, if so, state the nature of his employment and the salary paid.

Also to ask the honourable the Premier :

How many Newfoundlanders are presently employed in Labrador in connection with the iron ore development; has the Government any knowledge which would indicate with any degree of accuracy the number of men likely to be employed there in 1951?

Also to ask the honourable the Premier :

Has the Government made any attempt to keep the Newfoundland Industrial Board functioning, if not, why not?

Also to ask the honourable the Premier :

Did the Government assist in setting up and the operating of a pilot fish meal plant at the Naval Dockyard in St. John's, if so, what was the cost and the result?

MR. SPEAKER: Any further notice of questions?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave of the House to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Life Insurance Act, 1933," and while I am on my feet will give replies to two questions directed at me on Wednesday past, by the honourable the junior member for St. John's, East. Number eight on the Order Paper: This ought to be addressed, I think, to the honourable the Attorney General who, I believe, will give the reply today.

Number seven on the Order Paper addressed to me: "To inform the House of the total number of telegrams received by me regarding my message to the fishermen of Newfoundland in respect to the formation of a fishermen's organization?"

About seven hundred telegrams and one hundred letters from more than ten thousand fishermen.

The honourable the same member to ask me to table a statement showing a fully detailed account of the recent advertising program regarding the sale of Newfoundland-made products, the statement to show the amount paid to each person and firm employed and the name of the Supervisor of the program and the amount paid for his services; also to inform the House of the percentage of increase in sales of local products as a result of this expenditure.

The reply is a full and detailed report of the work of "Buy Newfoundland Campaign" now under preparation by the Director and will be tabled as soon as it is received.

Question number nine: addressed to me by the honourable the Leader of the Opposition ought to have been addressed to the honourable Minister of Public Works.

Question number ten, also addressed to me ought to have been addressed to the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives.

Question number five addressed to me should be addressed to the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives, and the statement is now in the course of preparation, and the same reply applies to question number four and to question number three. I think, Mr. Speaker, that is all the questions on this Order Paper referred to me.

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): Question No. 2 on the Order Paper—Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Minister of Supply—Table information showing the cost of living index for the months April 1950 to February 1951 inclusive.

1 April, 1950 .....	171.2
6 May, 1950 .....	170.9
3 June, 1950 .....	172.9
1 July, 1950 .....	174.1
5 August, 1950 .....	176.8
2 September, 1950 .....	177.5
7 October, 1950 .....	176.7
4 November, 1950 .....	176.3
2 December, 1950 .....	178.3
6 January, 1951 .....	179.6

(Index for the month of February 1951 (not yet released).

Replying to Question No. 1 referred to me for reply—Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable Minister of Health.

If the Furnishings and Equipment for the West Coast Sanatorium have been purchased as per vote under Subhead 1023 of the 1950-51 Estimates of expenditure, if so state name of supplier; and if furnishings have been delivered give some detail of the number and kind of furnishings supplied such as beds, chairs, etc., also inform the House if tenders were called and state if the lowest or any tender was accepted.

Tenders for the furnishings and equipping of the West Coast Sanatorium at Corner Brook were invited through my Department from large mainland firms such as Henry Morgan & Co. Ltd., and others; Cassidy's Limited, T. Eaton & Co., Limited, Robert Simpson & Company Limited, and others in Montreal and Toronto last year to be paid for out of funds provided under Department of Health Subhead 1023 of the 1950-51 Estimates. These firms maintain a special contract division providing free cost for the services of interior decorators, heating and equipment specialists, installation technicians, etc., and are equipped to supply properly matched items of merchandise designed to meet the needs of any institution.

The most complete and comprehensive submission was made by the firm of Cassidy's Limited through their special hotel and hospital contract division at Montreal, and in this way were successful in being awarded the main contract for the supply of furniture and equipment, all of which has now been delivered and is being installed under their supervision at no cost.

At this time it might be observed that Messrs. Cassidy's Limited, Special Hotel and Contract Division at Montreal were also successful in obtaining from the Western Memorial Hospital Corporation at Corner Brook the competitive contract to supply, supervise and install all the furniture and equipment for their hospital.

The furniture and equipment for the West Coast Sanatorium was very carefully selected on the basis of good quality commensurate with cost and a recent inspection of the completed Nurses' Residence has shown the furniture supplied and installed by Cassidy's Limited to be of exceptional quality and has justified the policy of the Government in following the modern trend in taking advantage of expert technical advice available from larger supply houses free of cost as well as obtaining finer prices made possible through bulk purchase, resulting in higher quality merchandise all round.

The greater portion of the furniture such as beds, mattresses, bedside lockers, overbed tables, screens, chairs, etc., for the 277 bed institution was made by Simmons' Limited of Montreal. Firms who were also successful in being awarded tenders for the supply of other equipment were:

Surgical Supplies (Canada) Ltd., Toronto.

Foulis Engineering Sales, Ltd., Halifax.

T. McMurdo and Co., Ltd., St. John's.

McDonald Wholesale Drugs Ltd., St. John's.

Neyle Soper Hardware Co., Ltd., St. John's.

Bowring Brothers Ltd., St. John's.

J. F. Hartz Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Ayre & Sons Limited, St. John's.

Dicks & Co., Limited, St. John's.

Goodyear & House Limited, Corner Brook.

National Wholesalers Limited, Corner Brook.

Halley & Co., Limited, St. John's.

Newfoundland Paper Bag Company.

Peter Pan Sales Co., St. John's.

Brookfield Ice Cream Co., Limited, St. John's.

A. E. Hickman Company, Limited, St. John's.

Steers Limited, St. John's.

Earle Sons & Co., Limited, St. John's.

Sanitary Products Ltd., St. John's.

Royal Stores, Limited, St. John's.

Newfoundland Margarine Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Standard Chemical Co., Limited, Toronto.

Canadian Laundry Machinery Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Dye & Chemical Co. of Canada Ltd., Kingston, Ont.

G. & A. Hardil & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Colonial Cordage Co., Limited, St. John's.

United Nail & Foundry Co., Limited, St. John's.

Heap & Partners (Nfld.) Limited, St. John's.

Provincial Sales & Contracting Co., Limited, St. John's.

Imperial Oil Limited, St. John's.

D. H. Gosse Limited, St. John's.

R. J. Coleman Limited, St. John's.
Nfld. Tractor & Equipment Co., Ltd., St. John's.

Physicians Records Co., Chicago, Ill.
Gilbert Surgical Supply Co., Toronto.

Ingram & Bell Ltd., Toronto.

P. C. O'Driscoll Limited, St. John's.

Casgrain & Charbonneau Limited, Montreal.

Sterling Rubber Co., Guelph, Ont.

Canadian T. B. Association, Ottawa.

J. B. Lippincott & Co., Montreal.

The Commonwealth Fund, New York, N.Y.

McAinsh & Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

National League of Nursing Education, New York, N.Y.

American Journal of Nursing, New York, N.Y.

Public Health Nursing, New York, N.Y.

Journal of the American Medical Assn., Chicago, Ill.

White Clothing Co., Limited, St. John's.

George P. Pilling & Son, Philadelphia.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Question No. 6, addressed to the honourable the Premier has been referred to me for reply:

If there has been correspondence and/or discussion between the Government of Canada and the Government of Newfoundland, relating to any proposed amendment to the constitution of Canada, in respect of the right of Provinces to collect indirect sales taxes, if so, to table all information thereto, and also to state if the Government of Newfoundland is in accord with any such agreement.

At the Federal and Provincial Conference held at Ottawa, December 4 and December 7, a provincial proposal for an amendment to the Constitution to permit the Provincial Legislature to levy an indirect sales tax at retail level was discussed, and it was agreed that the proposed amendment to the Constitution should be drafted by the Department of Justice and submitted to the Provincial Government for early consideration.

In pursuance to this agreement the Honourable the Attorney General and the Minister of Justice of Canada has submitted to the Government of Newfoundland a proposed amendment to section 92 (2) of the British North America Act, reading as follows:

"(2) The raising of revenue for provincial purposes by (a) direct taxation within the province in respect of the sale of goods (except goods sold for sale outside the province) to a buyer for purposes of consumption or use and not for resale, at a rate not exceeding three percent of the sale price, but not so as to discriminate between sales of goods grown, produced or manufactured outside the province, and not so as to discriminate between sellers or classes of sellers of the same class of goods.

The Government approves of this proposed amendment and has notified the Attorney General of Canada accordingly.

When the amendment has been made it is proposed to withdraw the present social security assessment and substitute therefor an assessment as provided therein.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): The answer to question number 9 addressed to the Premier by the honourable the Leader of the Opposition is as follows:

The Government finding themselves in possession of a building properly known as the Mechanics Hall considered what sound use if any they could make of it. The building is quite unsuitable for Government offices and on account of lack of suitable structural strength and age made it entirely unsuitable for a liquor warehouse. The decision was therefore made to sell the building. The sale of the Merchant Seamen's Club was made to the City Realty Company Limited. The sale price $20,000. The sale was made by inviting tenders through the public press. One other tender was received. The offer of the City Realty Company Limited was the higher and was accepted.

HON. WILLIAM J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Number 10, addressed to me:

(1) How much did the Icelandic herring venture cost?

Answer: The findings and statements are now in the hands of the auditors for preparation.

(2) What has happened to the ships and equipment?

Answer: The vessels are tied up at St. John's, at the Naval Dock, and the equipment has been placed in storage.

(3) What does the Government intend to do with the ships and equipment?

Answer: Disposal of vessels, having in mind their worth and use.

The answer to number (4) is: Highly improbable.

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I give notice I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Respecting Survivorship."

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I beg leave to introduce a Bill tomorrow "An Act to Further Amend the Newfoundland Corporation Income Tax Act, 1949."

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Nomenclature Board Act, 1938."

I beg leave also to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend Chapter 76 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series) entitled 'Of the Permanent Marine Disaster Fund.'"

I beg also to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Shops Act, 1940."

MR. CASHIN: You gave notice on opening day.

MR. SPEAKER: It would be better if honourable members be called in order.

MR. SPRATT: In reply, I gave notice on opening day.

MR. SPEAKER: It will be called today.

The honourable the Premier to ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Life Insurance Act, 1933."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable the Premier to ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Insurance Premium (Tax) Act, 1950."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Honourable the Attorney General to ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Facilitate the Enforcement of Maintenance Orders."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Honourable the Attorney General to ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Agreement for Policing the Province Act, 1949."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs to ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Nomenclature Board Act, 1938."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs to ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend Chapter 76 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series) entitled 'Of the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund'."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs to ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Shops Act, 1940."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

MR. SPEAKER: The question before the House is that the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne be adopted.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I don't propose to speak to that motion but rise merely to enquire of my honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition if he is ready to proceed with the debate for which purpose we adjourned Wednesday last until today, and if not, if he can indicate when he expects they would be ready to proceed with the debate. I may say it is our disposition here on this side to accommodate our honourable friend to the maximum extent possible. On the other hand, it is, I think quite customary to be ready for the debate on the Address from the Throne and to proceed almost at once after a day or two has elapsed following the deliverance of the Speech from the Throne by the Governor General.

We have a rather heavy program of legislature; we have in addition an extensive program for economic development which has to be debated in this House; we have as well the estimates and the budget.

I am quite sure that it would be the wish of every member of the House to conclude the work of the session without the necessity of going in on the warm summer months. For that reason,—and I am reminded by my honourable friend the Attorney General there is also the Easter recess and Holy Week before us which will still further delay necessarily the business of the House and for this reason I would sincerely hope my honourable friend opposite might be prepared to proceed with the debate in the Address in Reply at the earliest possible moment. If they are prepared to go ahead with the debate now, we are on the Government side, if not perhaps the honourable and learned friend opposite would be prepared to indicate when his party would be ready to proceed with the debate. When we know that any members on this side of the House desiring to take part in the debate can govern themselves accordingly and some friendly arrangement may be made whereby speakers on both sides of the House could, to some extent, as far as the comparative numbers on the respective sides will allow, alternate their speeches and in that way make it more of a debate and less of a series of unrelated speeches one having no bearing on the other.

MR. HIGGINS: We shall be ready on Wednesday. I am sorry we were delayed; I did not think the Speech from the Throne came up for a few days after the opening of the session. I hope the speeches will go alternately one side to the other. Because of the number over there it would be necessary to consider two or three of the Government members as one on our side.

I regret to learn there is going to be a lot of legislature this year. One time the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount were sufficient to do business. But now there must be a large number of acts passed in which nobody would know, one way and another what was intended with the result that lawyers like myself would be tripped up and would not know the law. And as ignorance is no excuse of the law I have to go to jail, and when some client comes to me with some problem I would not know what to tell him, I would have to look it up in a law book. The lawyer will be confused more than once but as for the client, he has the good fortune that, for a fee, he can apply to a lawyer for the answer.

I move the debate be deferred until tomorrow Wednesday.

MR. SMALLWOOD: As it involves the time-table of the House of which the Government has some say, I think I ought to move the debate be deferred until tomorrow, Wednesday.

Motion carried.

Second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Taking of Oaths by Officers in the Armed Forces."

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to move the second reading of a Bill, an Act respecting the taking of oaths by Officers in the Armed Forces. This bill has been distributed and honourable members will find copies on their desks. I would not introduce the second reading and move for introduction were it not for the fact that the Bill is a short simple one presented by us at the request of the Attorney General of Canada. The effect of the Bill is to enable commanding officers of His Majesty's Forces of Canada on active service in Canada or outside to administer oaths and take affidavits within or without Newfoundland for use within Newfoundland. This is necessary for testing volunteers and for other army disciplinary matters.

Bill was read a second time.

MR. CURTIS: In view of the fact we have nothing else to do, but adjourn this afternoon, and this is an important matter, could we go into committee of a whole now?

Rule 261 was suspended and the Bill "An Act Respecting the Taking of Oaths by Officers in the Armed Forces" was referred to a committee of a whole.

The committee rose and reported having considered the matter to it referred and passed the Bill without amendment.

Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the House at its rising do adjourn until tomorrow Tuesday at 3:00 of the clock.

The House adjourned accordingly.

TUESDAY, March 13th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

Mr. Morgan from the North Side of District of Green Bay re Road.

Mr. Courage from St. Alban's, re Doctor's Residence.

Mr. Drover from Roddington and Englee, re Road.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): I think I am in order at this time to lay on the table the regulations regarding the probi-otion of dumping, Department of Public Works during the past year, known as Prohibition of Dumping Regulations, 1951.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): I give notice I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a bill "An Act Respecting the Interpretation of Statutes."

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I have some replies to questions. The first is one on the Order Paper of Monday, No. 3:

MR. FOGWILL: To ask the honourable Minister of Finance to table a statement showing the total revenue received from April 1st, 1950, to February 28th, 1951, under the various headings as follows: Finance, Provincial Affairs, Education, Attorney General, Natural Resources, Public Works, Health, Public Welfare, Board of Liquor Control, Supply, Fisheries and Co-operatives, and Labour.

Question number 4 deals with the same period. For this eleven months, therefore, the revenue was as follows:

Current Revenue (For the 11 months ending 28 February, 1951)

Department	Amount
IV Finance .....	$15,757,102
V Provincial Affairs .....	12,037
VI Education .....	218,906
VII Attorney General .....	58,707
VIII Natural Resources .....	589,289
IX Public Works .....	573,185
X Health .....	881,377
XI Welfare .....	3,737,065
XII Board of Liquor Control .....	1,600,000
XIII Supply .....	3,754
XIV Fisheries and Co-operatives .....	41,477
XV Economic Development .....	430
XVI Labour .....	2,537
	<hr/>
	$23,475,866

Note: The above figures are subject to final audit.

MR. FOGWILL: To ask the honourable the Minister of Finance: To table a statement showing the total expenditures from April 1, 1950, to February 28, 1951, under the various headings as follows: Consolidated Fund Services, Legislative, Executive Council, Finance, Provincial Affairs, Education, Attorney General, Natural Resources, Public Works, Health, Public Welfare, Board of Liquor Control, Supply, Fisheries and Co-operatives, Economic Development, and Labour.

Expenditure on Current Account

(For the 11 months ending 28 February, 1951)

Department	Amount
I Consolidated Fund Services .....	$ 270,912
II Legislative .....	44,826
III Executive Council .....	41,351
IV Finance .....	841,423
V Provincial Affairs .....	55,870
VI Education .....	3,874,200
VII Attorney General .....	1,123,955
VIII Natural Resources .....	819,969
IX Public Works .....	3,001,622
X Health .....	3,819,538
XI Public Welfare .....	9,551,818
XII Board of Liquor Control .....	175,782
XIII Supply .....	306,520
XIV Fisheries and Co-operatives .....	333,812
XV Economic Development .....	55,316
XVI Labour .....	56,670
	$24,373,584

Note: The above figures are subject to final audit.

Question No. 5—Mr. Fogwill to ask the honourable Minister of Finance to table a statement showing the total amount to the credit of the Province on deposit with the Government of Canada; also to inform the House of the total amount of credit of the Province in the Bank of Montreal in Newfoundland as of February 28, 1951.

(a) Amount on deposit with Government of Canada at 28/2/51—$20,000,000.

(b) Amount on deposit, Bank of Montreal at 28/2/51—6,967,693.

I think, Mr. Speaker, that is all on Monday's Order Paper.

Question No. 11 asked by the honourable the leader of the Opposition addressed to the honourable the Premier:

1. Who started the "Buy Newfoundland Campaign?"

I did. I called a conference of farmers, manufacturers, retail shopkeepers, importers, packing-houses, Newfoundland Federation of Labour representatives and others to outline to them a proposal that such a campaign be started. This conference was followed by many meetings at which these representatives met with the Minister of Natural Resources and myself.

2. By what authority was $50,000.00 allocated?

By authority of a Special Warrant on the Treasury issued, upon advice of the Executive Government, by His Honour the Lieutenant Governor.

3. Who appointed the Director of the Campaign?

The Executive Government, after consultation with the Associated Newfoundland Industries and other groups represented in the conference.

4. What is the work of the Associated Newfoundland Industries in connection with the campaign?

Their work is to collaborate very closely with the Director in the conduct of the campaign, and to contribute towards the cost of the campaign.

5. Under whose auspices was the fair held in August and why was such an inconvenient time chosen?

The fair is understood to have been held under the auspices of a committee or group headed by Messrs. Geoffery Stirling and Donald Jantison. It is not admitted that the time chosen was inconvenient. The reason for holding it at the time is best known to the promoters.

6. How much money was realized for the booths and to what did this money go?

This question would more properly be addressed to the owners of the Fair.

7. Who was responsible for bringing down the Circus and was the Circus recommended by anybody?

I have no knowledge.

8. How is the "Buy Newfoundland" Campaign carried on now?

The answer to this question will appear when the full report of the campaign, to which I made reference yesterday, is brought down.

9. If advertisement is used in connection with it what papers get the advertising and what space is used by each paper?

The foregoing answer applies to this question also.

10. Has there been an audit of the funds of the organization, if not, why not?

So far as I know, there has not as yet been an audit.

MR. SPEAKER: 12. Mr. Higgins asks the honourable the Minister of Co-operatives:

1. Did any person or companies receive any money or guarantee from this Government to build taverns or road-houses or tourist lodges?

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): This question would have more properly been addressed to the honourable the Premier, and I have forwarded it to him.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The answer is no person or companies have received any money or guarantee from the Government to build taverns or road-houses and consequently the second part of the question does not arise.

With reference to a series of questions submitted by the honourable Leader of the Opposition regarding cement mills now under construction. I must be candid: Some of the questions asked cannot be answered in the public interest. The questions that can in the public interest be answered are as follows:

3. How many will it employ?

Answer: About three hundred men full-time and some others part-time.

4. Who got the Contract to build it?

Answer: Two contracts were let. One, to W. J. Lundrigan, Ltd., of Corner Brook, was let for the excavation, concrete work, construction of pipe lines, erection of siles, building pier, and erecting certain other buildings connected with the plant. The other, to Messrs. Maig of Brunswick, Germany, and for the erection of the steel and installation of the machinery, and for the operation of the cement mill under test for one month after completion.

5. Who supplied the machinery?

Answer: Answered by the foregoing.

6. If machinery was bought in Europe, who did the buying and what was paid for it?

Answer: The machinery was ordered by contract from Messrs. Miag by the Executive Government. It would not be in the public interest to answer the latter part of the question.

7. Was the Government offered any machinery for a cement factory on this continent?

Answer: The Government ascertained whether the necessary machinery could be purchased on this continent, and what prices would have to be paid for the purchase and installation of it. It was because the price of purchase and installation was so much lower, and the agreed time of delivery was so much shorter, in Germany, that the order was placed there.

8. In the event of war, how will spare parts be obtained?

Answer: One year's supply of spare parts is included in the original order. No particular difficulty is foreseen in obtaining additional spare parts in case of war. I could amplify that by saying that except for one or two specialized parts of the cement mill which are distinctive of the firm of Miag the rest of the machinery is pretty standardized and spare parts can be obtained from a number of firms across Canada and in the United States but of the particular parts specialized by Miag we have a pretty ample supply and if war should come we will still be able to get them made on the North American Continent even though the cost might be higher than the cost of the original parts.

9. Have any arrangements been made for selling cement out of this country?

Answer: No firm arrangements have been made for selling cement out of this country or out of this Province.

10. On whose authority was the order for the factory given?

Answer: On authority of the Executive Government. Payment is by Special Warrant of His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, on advice of his Ministers.

11. Has any money yet been paid on the cement mill or its machinery?

Answer: Yes.

12. On whose authority was it paid?

Answer: Answer contained in reply to question No. 10.

13. Was the Comptroller consulted in this matter?

Answer: The Comptroller was consulted in this matter, as he is on all financial matters.

Where is this further observation to be made? The Government are fully aware that a complete accounting of the whole of the cement mill project must be submitted to the House, and they are of course prepared to do it as soon as the public interest will permit. Certain negotiations are being conducted with respect to the cement mill, and until these have been concluded it would be contrary to the public interest to divulge the financial details of the transaction. It is expected that it will be practical and proper to table all particulars before the close of the present session of the House.

In the meanwhile the Government are prepared to reveal all facts and details to the honourable and learned Leader of the Opposition for his private information and the private information of his colleagues.

That is to say it is not in the interest of the public to publish the information either outside or inside the province and we have nothing to hide from the House but it is not in the public interest to have, for another little while to have the figures and details of this project, of this mill published to the world.

14. Mr. Higgins to the honourable the Premier :

Did the Government buy the American Aerated Water Company Building on LeMarchant Road?

Answer : The answer to this question is in the course of preparation and it is hoped to be able to lay it on the table tomorrow. I may give in passing, the reason I have not got the answer. I don't know what happened to it but the page passed me the question and I put it in my pocket, when I got home it was not there. It was actually not directed to me but to the Minister of Public Works.

MR. SPEAKER : 15. Mr. Higgins—directed to the honourable Minister of Co-operatives.

MR. KEOUGH : Questions Nos. 15 and 24 are now in the course of preparation.

MR. SMALLWOOD : 16. That question ought more properly to have been addressed to the Minister of Supply.

Hon. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply) : In answer to question No. 16—The answer is in the process of compilation.

MR. SPEAKER : 17. Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Premier :

Has the Premier any knowledge of the amount collected in Newfoundland since April the first, nineteen forty-nine by the Government of Canada in respect to the eight percent general sales tax, if so, state the amount?

MR. SMALLWOOD : The answer is : I have no such knowledge.

MR. SPEAKER : 18. Mr. Fogwill, addressed to the honourable the Premier :

To table a statement regarding the freight rate dispute, showing all particulars, such as the number of firms or persons employed, salaries, travelling expenses, fees, etc., paid or still to be paid on this account; state what in the opinion of the Government is the approximate total amount paid in excess of the adjusted freight rates as from April 1, 1949 to the date when the adjusted rates came into effect; also inform the House, if ir-the opinion of the Government, a substantial lowering of the cost of consumer goods at retail prices will result.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think, in view of the fact that the Freight Rate Dispute was handled by the Attorney General, the question might more properly be addressed to him.

MR. CURTIS: The Premier, this morning, asked me if I could prepare the answer to this question. My office has had no time yet but the answer is being prepared—This applies also to question No. 19.

MR. SPEAKER: 20. Mr. Fogwill addressed to the Premier.

Has the services of the Director of Economic Development been secured by Contract, if so, inform the House of the terms of the Contract, if the Director's services have not been secured by contract, then, inform the House of the conditions of his employment, stating salary, travelling allowances, and any other fee, emolument, etc., paid to him since his services have been secured?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The Government has contracted with Dr. Alfred A. Valdmanis, former Minister of Finance, Trade and Industry of the Republic of Latvia, to be Director General of Economic Development of Newfoundland. The contract is for four years dating from January 1, 1951. The salary is $25,000 per year. He is paying his travelling expenses. His assistants are paid by the Government. No fees or emoluments other than his salary are paid to him. Dr. Valdmanis, in the few months he has been with the Government, has earned for Newfoundland several times his total salary for the whole period of his contract.

MR. SPEAKER: 21. Mr. Fogwill, directed to the honourable the Premier—referred to the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives:

MR. KEOUGH: The answer to that question Mr. Speaker, is that there is no answer—There is not now and there never has been an Acting Deputy Minister of Fisheries.

MR. SPEAKER: 22. Mr. Fogwill, directed to the honourable the Premier:

How many Newfoundlanders are presently employed in Labrador in connection with the Iron Ore Development; has the Government any knowledge which would indicate with any degree of accuracy the number of men likely to be employed there in 1951?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I would like to give a verbal reply to that question because it is a matter that is just a little complicated. Under the Labrador Mining and Exploration Company agreement with the Government made before this Government came into existence, made, I think, and my honourable and gallant friend, the member for Ferryland, will confirm, in 1938 which was quite a while before this Government came into power, that agreement provided that in Labrador the materials to be used in the development shall, as far as possible be purchased in Newfoundland and that the labour, as far as possible be got from Newfoundland and that they be Newfoundlanders.

Now the railway runs, more than half of it, through Labrador and less than half of it through Quebec. Commencing at Seven Islands on the North Shore in the Province of Quebec and starting from Seven Islands it continues through Quebec until finally it reaches the border between Quebec and Labrador. Then it enters Labrador and goes on through for more than half of its total distance, 365 miles and then finally passes out of Labrador a short distance into the Province of Quebec.

Now, Sir, that being the case, the railway commences at Seven Islands, it must be a year or possibly two, somewhere between one year and two before the railway will reach Labrador. In fact, at this moment, no railway is being built in Labrador, rather it is being built in Quebec, and under the agreement we have no claim on that railway and would not have any claim until the railway reached the boundary of Labrador, somewhere between one and two years from now.

Nevertheless, we recently had officials of four or five countries who have contracted to build the railway arrive in St. John's and call on me and they expressed a little concern about the labour situation, especially as the agreement is involved. We had a frank discussion and they said to me "If we don't employ Newfoundlanders now on the Quebec end of the railway and employ them only when the railway is being built from the Labrador border, we will have this situation: Canadian, non-Newfoundlanders, will be in Quebec working on the railway for a year or two years, then they strike the Labrador border and all Canadians who are not Newfoundlanders would be laid off and only Newfoundlanders would be employed, so that the Contractors would be in the absurd position of laying off a crowd of men with experience of a year or two and taking on a crowd of men, Newfoundlanders, without experience on the railway for a year or two before. I agreed, as I think every honourable member here would have agreed, that it would be a silly situation, and I said: "Look here, can we settle this thing sensibly—How about fifty-fifty all the way through, right from Seven Islands on to the end of the railway, 365 miles." They said that would suit them perfectly.

The number to be employed is two thousand men which means that one thousand of them would be Newfoundlanders, employed on the construction all the way from Seven Islands on to the end of the line and one thousand would be Canadians who were not Newfoundlanders.

MR. CASHIN: I thought we were all Canadians now.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Yes, but we are special Canadians, we are Newfoundlanders as well.

MR. CASHIN: We are a crowd of suckers.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think that in two years time the position will be that you will not get any Newfoundlanders to go down and work on the railway but for the next year, it may well be that is the time for us to get down there, not wait two years until the railway strikes the Labrador boundary.

Now the actual number of men, I think, in Labrador, is forty or fifty—I think the first plane load took 26 Newfoundlanders, skilled men, bulldozer-operators, shovel operators, skilled men. Of the 26, I think six of them quit and came back, although the pay, I am told, is very good, running around $1.80 to $2.00 an hour for skilled shovel operators and the like. Four were laid off. That was ten out of twenty-six. Sixteen were willing to stay and the company was willing to keep them. That is the story of the first plane load.

I will say this, I am coming to the conclusion, if they drain us of all our shovel operators and bulldozer operators, Newfoundland will be left without any to build a road or build some of those factories we are hoping to build.

That is a long answer to a very short question, but I thought I would pay my honourable friend the courtesy of giving him a complete answer, and in doing so, I thought the whole House would be interested in it.

22. Mr. Fogwill addressed to the Premier:—

Did the Government make any attempt to keep Newfoundland Industrial Board functioning, if not, why not?

We did for a while, but only a while; then we discontinued making a grant to them and they decided themselves to go out of existence. Why did we not attempt to keep them going? Because we felt the Department of Economic Development with myself as Minister, with Mr. Short as Deputy Minister and Dr. Valdmanis as Director General, would be more likely to produce industries for Newfoundland than the Industrial Board and we felt there was no need to have two separate organizations, both financed by public money, one entirely and one in part, so we decided not to vote any more money to the Industrial Board.

It is not my fault if members address all those questions to me. This one, No 24, should more properly, be addressed to the Minister of Fisheries.

MR. KEOUGH: I will have the answer tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I was wondering, when opening day came and we did not hear from my honourable and learned friend opposite, when he did not table any questions, I was solitious for him, but he is back on deck on the second day.

The first one a copy of—

MR. CASHIN: May I interrupt. At one time the public accounts were tabled in a great big book.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is no more. I know the times to which my honourable friend refers. A lot of fun was had on the first day of the session. The public accounts were tabled and members of the opposition disappeared down the back stairs and they had a lot of fun going through it for the rest of the session. But it is no more and has not been since the Commission of Government; they abolished it, that well known old thick ledger and substituted a much more up-to-date system.

MR. CASHIN: But not so good for political purposes.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Not so good for an opposition, put it that way.

25. (1) Table a copy of the Public Accounts for the fiscal year 1945-50 as well as a copy of the Report of the Comptroller and Auditor General for the same period.

Answer: Copies of the Public Accounts for 1949-50 are available at the Department of Supply and will be distributed to members shortly through the Clerk of the House.

(2) Table a statement certified by the Auditor General showing the amount placed to the credit of the Province of Newfoundland from the Surplus under the Terms of Union; also the amount to the credit of the same account at the present time. If any withdrawals have been made from the original deposits to give a statement of such withdrawals.

Answer: Information is contained in the Public Accounts for 1949-50 (see (1) above). No withdrawals have been made to date.

(3) Table a statement showing the amount of revenue and expenditure for the fiscal year 1949-50. This statement to be shown under the various headings. Also, a statement showing the amounts received from the Federal Government as Transitional grant for the fiscal year 1949-50 as well as a statement showing the various amounts received from the Federal Government under the headings of Public Health, Welfare for the fiscal year 1949-50.

Answer: As in (2) above.

(4) Table a statement showing the amount received from the Federal Government from April 1, 1950, to date for Transitional Grant as well as the amount received under the Department of Health and Welfare for Old Age Pensions, etc., also any other amounts received as Grants from the Federal Government and shown in the Consolidated Revenue Account.

Federal Government Grants as at 28/2/51

( I ) Department of Finance :

(I) Transitional Grant .....	$6,500,000
(II) Federal Subsidies .....	1,540,000

( II ) Department of Education :

Grants in Aid of Vocational Training .....	46,687
--	--------

( III ) Department of Public Works :

(I) Grant in Aid, Hospital Construction .....	123,198
(II) Grant in Aid, Trans Canada Highway .....	592,713

( IV ) Department of Health :

(I) Expansion of Existing Health Services .....	427,921
---	---------

( V ) Department of Public Welfare :

(I) Old Age and Blind Persons Pensions .....	3,685,523
(II) Family Allowance Investigations .....	5,000

(5) Table a statement showing the amount of actual cash to the credit of the Treasury in the Bank of Montreal at February 28, 1951—the total amount of cash to the credit of the Board of Liquor Control as at February 28, 1951.

(a) Amount on deposit, Bank of Montreal, as at 28/2/51 .....	$6,967,693
(b) Balance, Bank of Montreal, Board of Liquor Control Account as at February 28, 1951 .....	240,058

(6) Give a statement showing the operations of the Newfoundland Savings Bank for the fiscal year 1949-50.

As in (2) above.

(7) Give a statement showing the amount of actual cash loaned to the various industries, giving the names of the corporations to which the money has been loaned, the rate of interest being paid in each case and all particulars regarding such loans. This statement to include amounts advanced by the Commission of Government.

This information is now being compiled.

(8) Give a statement showing the amounts of money guaranteed to various corporations or individuals and full particulars concerning such guarantees.

It is assumed that this question relates to bank loans guaranteed by the Government and, on this basis, the following information is supplied :

	Amount of Bank Guarantee	Amount Availed of Under Guarantee
Andrew's Labrador Fisheries Ltd .....	160,000	150,000
Richard Limited .....	250,000	250,000
St. Lawrence Corporation of Newfoundland Limited .....	521,000	521,000
Alberto Wareham Limited .....	65,000	65,000
Northeastern Co-op Fisheries Ltd. ....	35,000	35,000
Fishery Products Limited .....	460,000	232,000
Arctic Fishery Products Limited .....	125,000	60,000
Springdale Fur Farmers Co-op .....	7,000	144
Olsen Whaling and Sealing Ltd. ....	375,000	375,000
United Church Board of Education .....	40,000	23,000
(Unpaid Int. 170.40)
	$2,038,000	$1,711,144

(Note: For full particulars regarding the details of these loans, please refer to the honourable Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives in the case of (i), (ii), (iv) - (ix) above, and honourable Attorney General in the case of (iii), and the honourable Minister of Education in the case of (x).

Note: The above figures, insofar as they relate to 1950-51, are subject to final audit:

(26) Mr. Cashin addressed to the honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs:

Table a statement showing the cost of operating the various apartment buildings in the Housing Corporation. Give details of such cost; such as the annual cost of heating, insurance, janitor services, etc. Give the total rentals,

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs):

St. John's Housing Corporation

Maintenance

Heat and Hot Water .....	$ 17,180.22
Light .....	1,515.07
Wages :
Engineer .....	2,611.30
Maintenance .....	2,074.90
Janitors .....	5,490.00
Municipal Taxes (nett) .....	6,757.38
Fire Insurance .....	4,755.24
Accident Insurance .....	203.50
Unemployment Insurance .....	117.91
Redecorating (apartments) .....	892.00
Janitors' Supplies .....	240.78
Telephone .....	30.00
Total .....	$124,525.98

Revenue

The revenue for 1949 and 1950, the first years when all apartments were occupied, was as follows :

48 Apartments @ $70.00 per month' .....	$40,320.00 p.a.
44 Apartments @ $75.00 per month .....	39,600.00 p.a.
16 Garages @ $7.50 per month .....	1,440.00 p.a.
Total .....	$81,360.00 p.a.

HON. J. R. CHALKER (Minister of Public Health): 27. Mr. Cashin addressed to the honourable the Minister of Public Health :

Inform the House why it is that the Cottage Hospital has not been constructed in the District of Ferryland as provided for in the Estimates of Expenditure passed through this House during the last session. Is it true that the Secretary or Assistant Secretary for Public Health has advised the Government not to perform this work and if so, would the Minister inform the House why it is that legislation passed through the legislature covering the Public Health Department has not been carried out.

The project of a Cottage Hospital in Ferryland District is still under consideration. The honourable and gallant member for Ferryland should understand that the mere fact of authority being given to the Government by the Legislature to expend money does not obligate Government to expend it. The only exception to this rule is the statutory vote such as the salary of the Auditor General.

28. 1, 2, and 3—In course of preparation.

MR. HIGGINS: 29. I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Premier :

1. Is Mr. Feather permanently employed. If not, for what length of time?

2. Has he a contract of service and if so, please produce it. If there is no written contract what salary is paid him?

3. What are his credentials? What characteristics does he possess over and above Newfoundlanders in his class of work?

4. Does the Premier think there is no Newfoundlander fit or competent to do the work allocated to Mr. Feather. If not, why is a non-Newfoundlander brought in from outside?

30. To ask the honourable the Minister of Co-operatives :

1. How many Co-operatives have failed in recent years?

2. Is it possible to say that all the Co-operatives are in good financial position?

3. If they are not, what is the possibility of success in supplying 30,000 fishermen by co-operation?

4. How many Co-operatives have recently been started, where, when, and did the Government aid them or any of them in any way?

31. To ask the honourable the Premier :

1. How much money has been advanced to the Andrews Labrador Fisheries Company? What was the agreement on the advancing of this loan? If in writing a copy is asked.

2. Has any money been made towards the repayment?

3. What was the security at date of loan? What is security at present?

32. To ask the honourable the Minister for Co-operatives :

1. How much money has the Government given or guaranteed to the following Co-operative Clubs or Associations, namely, St. George's, Pouch Cove and Mundy Pond?

2. What is the nature of the loan, what collateral is given?

3. If any such co-operative fails, who will buy out the concern?

33. To ask the honourable the Minister for Co-operatives :

1. What is the financial position of Pouch Cove Co-operative Association?

2. How many members has it?

3. Was any audit made of its activities?

4. Were accounts properly kept and all its monies accounted for?

MR. FAHEY: 34. To ask the Minister of Natural Resources :

1. Were concessions made in regard to any Blueberry area?

2. Were any areas leased or rented, to whom, where and for how much?

3. Will concession holders be given sole rights?

4. Will the public be denied entry?

35. To ask the honourable the Minister of Natural Resources :

1. How many sheep have been imported since April, 1950?

2. What did they cost?

3. Have the services of a shepherd been engaged, at what salary and expenses?

4. Is there an assistant shepherd, who, at what salary and expenses?

5. Will the sheep be distributed to farmers, on what conditions?

MR. FOGWILL: 36. To ask the honourable the Minister of Public Works :

Has the Minister or the Government made any request to the Minister of Resources and Development or to the Government of Canada, in respect to having any portion of the Newfoundland section of the Trans-Canada Highway built on a lower standard than the general agreement provides?

37. To ask the honourable the Minister of Public Works :

To inform the House in detail of the work completed on the Trans-Canada Highway as follows, and the cost to date. Concrete Products, Ltd., thirty-one miles between Glenwood and Bishop's Falls.

Wm. J. Lundrigan, Ltd., five miles between Corner Brook and Stephenville Crossing.

Western Construction Co., Ltd., twenty-two miles between Port aux Basques and Tomkins, Codroy Valley.

Also to inform the House of all work performed on the Trans-Canada Highway and the cost of same to date, including the building of bridges, purchasing and cutting of right of way, and making surveys, etc.

38. To ask the honourable the Minister of Public Works :

To table a statement showing expenditure to February 28th, 1951, under subhead 907 brackets 3 items 1 to 11 inclusive as follows :

1. Maintenance of Roads and Bridges.
2. Grants to local Road Committees.
3. Improvement and Reconstruction of Roads and Bridges.
4. Construction of new roads.
5. Erection of Highways signs.

6. Snow clearing.

7. Surveys.

8. New Machinery, Garage Equipment and Tools.

9. Gasoline, Oil, and other material for re-sale.

11. Unallocated maintenance of Equipment.

10. Unallocated Stores and Labour.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Premier begs leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act further to Amend the Newfoundland Corporation Income Tax Act, 1949."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Honourable the Attorney General begs leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Respecting the Statutes."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Third reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Taking of Oaths by Officers in the Armed Forces."

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the Life Insurance Act, 1935."

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, quite frankly this is an Act which might be described as a departmental act, that is to say it is not particularly one which the Government as a whole felt was necessary, therefore, I would introduce it here in that sense. The Department of Finance, which has administrative responsibility for insurance, fire and other forms of insurance in Newfoundland felt and feels this Act should be brought in, this proposed amendment. There are four types. The first type comprises amendment to the uniform Life Insurance Act repealed by the Association of Superintendents of Insurance of Provinces of Canada which came into force in 1945-46 in various common law provinces of Canada. The second type includes group life insurance recommended by the Superintendent Association brought in force in all common law provinces of Canada in 1948. The third respects childrens' insurance, limits on childrens' recommended by the Superintendents Association. The fourth type comprises amendments necessary because of the union of Newfoundland and Canada. All changes necessary are changes of administration except for amendment to section 25 which provides as follows: "A beneficiary for value and an assignee for value of a policy shall have a vested interest in the policy; but except as regards beneficiaries for value who are expressly stated to be or described as beneficiaries for value in the policy, as beneficiary for value or assignee for value who gives notice in writing of his interest in the policy to the insurer at the head or principal office of the insurer in Canada prior to any other beneficiary for value or assignee for value shall have priority of interest as against such last mentioned beneficiary or assignee." Payable at head or principal office of the insurer in Canada rather than in Newfoundland as formerly provided for in both cases. Then there is a number of sections to be amended and on these, of course, when the House goes into Committee of the Whole, detailed explanations can be given from a document being prepared for me by the Department of Finance which is the Department administratively responsible in Newfoundland for all kinds of insurance here in the Province of Newfoundland. I move the Bill be given second reading.

On motion the Bill was read a second time. Ordered referred to Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Insurance Premium (Tax) Act, 1950."

MR. SMALLWOOD: This Bill requires an annual statement by fire insurance companies and payment of taxes by insurance on or before the 31st day of January in any year have been received. Due to the fact that this date only allows the bare minimum of time it has been recommended that this date be advanced to February 28, in any year. This is the date established by the Government of Canada in most provinces for filing returns by such companies. This recommendation has been accepted by the Government and the Bill now submitted for second reading is merely to advance by one month the date on which fire insurance companies must file their statement with the Government.

On motion the Bill was read a second time. Ordered referred to a Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Agreement for Policing the Province Act, 1949."

MR. CURTIS: This Bill is necessary by reason of the introduction of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Force into the Province of Newfoundland.

As the honourable members are aware, in former statutes mention is made of members of the Constabulary and members of the Ranger Force, also to Chief of Police and Officer commanding the Ranger Force. The purpose of this amendment is to permit where these words are used, the inclusion of "Members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the name of officer commanding the Royal Mounted Police Force." It is merely a formality and does not involve any change in policy.

MR. HIGGINS: What is the meaning of Section No. 3?

MR. CURTIS: I am not quite sure what that means, what that date means but I will be able to inform the House tomorrow.

On motion the Bill was read a second time. Ordered to be referred to committee of the whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Facilitate the Enforcement of Maintenance Orders."

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): This Bill refers to the protection of certain families, and children of those families in particular, concerning which a maintenance order has been made by any given court, where the person concerned has moved his residence out of the Province and out of the jurisdiction of that court.

In practical terms, a situation like this develops; a court in Newfoundland, any court in Newfoundland may issue an order against a man for maintenance of his wife and/or children, but he has left the Province and subsequently resides in Nova Scotia or Ontario or any other province. Under the present conditions, no court in Newfoundland has any power by which his order, given in Newfoundland, can be enforced in that province. Consequently, we find under our Public Welfare Department, such dependents in Newfoundland without proper financial support. Contrawise, it may happen that a court in Ontario or Nova Scotia may likewise issue an order against one of its residents and he subsequently finds residence in Newfoundland. The Court has no power, at present, to see to it that their order is carried out in Newfoundland. But under the revised regulation, an arrangement could be made so that the Court in Newfoundland would undertake to carry out such an order in any other province which would be a happy solution provided it were reciprocal. I know this legislature is reciprocal in this sense; where similar legislature is in force in Newfoundland, any court when it has legislation of this kind may have its order channelled through the Department of the Attorney General and carried out in any other Province which has the same kind of legislation, through this reciprocal legislature. The main terms are contained in clauses No. 3 and 4. Clause No. 3 refers to cases of persons residing in any other state, called a reciprocating state for purposes of this act. Clause No. 4 provides for cases where the individual is in Newfoundland, and all the other clauses follow from these main provisions. When this act goes into force, any court in Newfoundland may make an order in Newfoundland for the support of a wife and/or children and may have that order carried out in any province in which the individual is residing, provided that province has similar legislation.

This act is modeled on the English Act 1925 and follows very closely on the Ontario and Nova Scotia acts. As a great many of our people find their way in to Nova Scotia and Ontario this is very important to us, as we would be able to carry out any order and Ontario and Nova Scotia would be able to carry out their orders in this Province, which previously they were not able to do. Now sir, the administration of the act is a flexible matter and provided for under section No. 8, which provides the Lieutenant Governor in Council may insure that ways and means may be found where the department concerned may have carried out the provisions of this Act under the Department of the Attorney General.

On motion the Bill was read a second time. Ordered to be referred to committee of the whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Nomenclature Board Act, 1938."

MR. SPRATT: I would like to point out to the House that this is just a formal matter which was brought about by the resignation of Senator Dr. V. P. Burke and Dr. Whiteway; Dr. Burke resigned because of his long periods of absence from the Province on his senatorial duties in Ottawa.

Both these gentlemen, Dr. Burke and Dr. Whiteway have given valuable untiring services in deliberations and decisions of this board.

It is now proposed that the Curator of the Museum, Mr. Leo English, be appointed chairman of the board and the Deputy Minister of Public Works shall be ex officio member of the Board.

The Nomenclature Board was originally instituted on the authority of Section 1, No. 35, Entitled The Posts and Telegraphs. In 1938 certain sections were repealed and the responsibility for recommending names for roads, bridges, etc., in Newfoundland (not coming under the jurisdiction of any legally constituted municipality or local authorities) was added to their duties.

The Government has decided a representative of the Department of Public Works should be appointed to the Board, for this reason, and it is proposed to appoint the Deputy Minister, of that Department, Ex Officio member.

I may add that the board has power only to make recommendations for the renaming of towns, villages, settlements or any geographical features in the Province as well as roads, bridges, etc., and should the Lieutenant Governor in Council approve the necessary proclamation for the proposed changes, it is published in the Province, once every week for a period of three months.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I move the Bill be read a second time.

MR. HIGGINS: I have no objection to this Bill, providing there be no attempt to make it a political Act. In the past, great care has been taken to see that no politics entered into any matter in connection with what in this country we call the Nomenclature board, and I hope now that we have gotten around to that name we will keep it. Nomenclature seems a very fine and easier way of expressing it.

There has been attempts, in the past, to make this board what we term political minded, and that is a broad term. They did it on the mainland one time when a famous lake, one of the oldest lakes historically was renamed by some politician "Johnson Lake." Now in this country only one attempt was made and that was when Port Hope Simpson was changed and the Nomenclature Board then made a ruling that no place should be called after any living man. They tried to get the Placentia Road called the "Bruton Highway" and a petition was presented for that purpose but the board turned it down on that ground. I speak from experience for I have been on that board for many years and every name is studied very carefully and when people wanted to have names changed, we always went back historically to find out if it would be wise to change it, and I hope the new board will continue to do so.

There are so many Gull Ponds and Seal Coves and Paradises, of course, it is difficult to distinguish them. I hope when this bill is put through that the members of the Government will see that the old rule is carried out.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I join very sincerely with the honourable and learned leader of the Opposition in his expression of the hope that the Nomenclature Board shall not become an organ of party politics. I just can't imagine what would put that thought in my honourable friend's head.

MR. HIGGINS: It has been tried before. What has been tried under other Governments could possibly be repeated.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Not this Government.

MR. HIGGINS: There may be a change of government.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is so long into the future we need not worry about it and I don't imagine that this Government would try to play party politics in a matter so fundamentally important as the names of the settlements and towns and villages, and roads and streams and bridges and the like in Newfoundland because he must agree, sir, surely that of all the governments that have ever come under his observation, there never was one that was so uninterested in playing party politics, as the present government.

MR. HIGGINS: We shall see, sir, we shall see.

MR. SMALLWOOD: There is a good reason for that, this Government is just too busy to play party politics; this Government has the profound conviction that the best politics to play is not to play politics at all. That is really smart. That is why it is that some of the newspapers and implacable enemies, political enemies of this Government are sharing richly in the orders that the Government places for merchandise for various institutions, just as in the old days they had been given only to party supporters. The Government, Sir, spurns with considerable indignation, the suggestion of my honourable and learned friend that we who do not play politics with anything, should now play politics with so vital a matter as renaming the places wherein our people live.

As a member of that board, he will see to it, I am quite sure, that not even his brand of party politics should be allowed to obtrude its feet into that scene, that party politics should be kept out.

Both parties in this house agree, I am sure, that we can well rename some of the ten or fifteen Seal Coves, and eighteen or twenty Caplin Coves of Newfoundland, but instead of naming them after some of the present members, can go back to have regard to those great Newfoundland Liberals and Torys of the past represented on this wall; might delve into Prowse's History and come up with John Downing, a great Newfoundlander; come up with William Carson another great man who dared and accomplished in the early stages of our Island history.

It is refreshing to hear my honourable friend make the first speech of the day on a matter of this sort, and I know that we can depend upon him always where the dignity of Newfoundland sentiment is at stake, to take exactly the stand he has taken here this afternoon. But I do want him to know that in taking that stand he is not alone at all but is taking a stand shared by every member of the Liberal Government, the least political government that Newfoundland has ever seen.

MR. HIGGINS: I must say at the same time that I think this board should be given wider powers to assure that the Railway or any other body is not allowed to place names anywhere.

I remember one time fishing on a beautiful river on the west coast, I found the Railway had decided to put a name on a salmon pool. Now, I was walking up this river, enjoying its most beautiful scenery, when right in front of me was a sign, "Limestone Pool" I suppose they could not spell the right name correctly. This sort of thing is just too bad, and I think the Nomenclature Board should be given the power to name Railway Stops and things like that. I don't want to see the wonderful names changed. I am not talking about the next twenty-five years when the present Government says it will be in power. We are dealing with names a hundred and two hundred years old and in fifty years time a new party may come into power and they may be political minded, that is what I am thinking of.

On motion the Bill was read a second time. Ordered to be referred to committee of the whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act Further to Amend Chapter 76 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series) entitled 'of the Permanent Marine Disasters' Fund'."

MR. SPRATT: In moving the second reading of this Bill, I wish merely to observe that it implements a recommendation that the Marine Disaster Fund Committee may add one of the Government Departments on that Body, the Department of Public Welfare. Originally the Government representation on that Committee consisted of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and more recently, the Commissioner for Home Affairs and Education and the Commissioner for Natural Resources. As the purpose of the committee more directly related to the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives and the Minister of Welfare, the Government decided to introduce this legislature outlining the necessary changes in the personnel of this committee.

The Committee will consist of:

President—E. A. Bowring, Esq., C.B.E.

Vice-President—R. J. Murphy, Esq.

Hon. Secretary—Hon. J. S. Currie.

Hon. Treasurer—Hon. W. S. Monroe.

Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. Flora L. Chafe.

Hon. Dr. H. L. Pottle, Minister of Public Welfare; Hon. W. J. Keough, Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives; H. B. Clyde Lake, Esq., Harold Mitchell, Esq., R. S. Furlong, Esq., K.C.

MR. HIGGINS: Point of privilege.

I take this opportunity of paying tribute to the voluntary public services performed by the Officers and members of this Committee in the past in administration of the fund which provides temporary relief in the case of families of sea-faring men who lost their lives in pursuit of their hazardous vocation. The assistance rendered to widows and children is supplemented by a grant of $100 in each case, due to the tremendous response and great public spirit of the late Dr. John L. Robinson, a former member of the Legislative Council and for years the editor of the "Daily News." His innumerable appeals for public support met with great response and he lost no opportunity to bring the aims of this philanthropy before the public. His name will always be associated with the benefits received by the widows and children who were assisted by his work. I take this opportunity to acknowledge the contribution which Messrs. Robinson and Company have made and continue to make to the work of the Committee. Advertising and other services are provided free of charge by them and the work is done quietly and unobtrusively; I feel it ought to be acknowledged publicly. I have great pleasure in extending sincere personal thanks to Robinson and Company, on the work they have done and are continuing to do.

On motion the Bill was read a second time. Ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act further to Amend the Shops Act, 1940."

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Speaker, this is a Bill that is intended to apply to people outside the City of St. John's where the Shop Act is now existing and under which Act they are not given the privileges as are extended to the people of St. John's and it is with the intention of making these privileges universal that this Bill is brought in.

In proposing the second reading of this Bill I would like to explain two parts: The first: 3A (1) Cases have arisen in which there was a demand from certain areas for immediate change in holiday schedule and this could not be done without giving notice of proposed change and allowing a period of time for public comment. The amendment will permit the Minister to authorize a change in the schedule when circumstances appear to make it desirable, and this may apply to an entire shop closing area or any section of it.

The second provision only enlarges the articles which may properly be sold by small shops allowed to remain open, shops selling refreshments, magazines, tobacco and certain other items. Under the old Act, persons were not permitted to take soft-drinks from the store for consumption in their homes and children could not purchase school supplies in shops allowed to remain open at night. There is nothing new in this amendment, it merely extends to shop closing areas outside of St. John's where the statute is at present in force the same privileges as contained in the shop closing Act in St. John's.

I have pleasure in moving the second reading of this Bill.

MR. SPENCER: In connection with this Bill, it was moved first, recently, by the Minister of Provincial Affairs. At that time I was not aware of the fact that it concerned an area which I have the honour to represent, Grand Falls which is in the shop closing district.

It is probably well known to most of the members in this House that in that area they already have their own shop Act known as the District Shop Act. I am not fully aware of the details of that Act but I am well aware they close on certain periods, and under that Act, as has been pointed out, small stores were debarred from selling certain articles. Was it made for the convenience of the public? It may very well be the larger group of stores who handle those products and who, as in many cases, have considerable influence in the drafting and framing of this particular shop act, might possibly feel themselves obliged to interfere to prevent the smaller stores from selling these wares which are so useful for the public and which might be an inconvenience to them if they could not get them. I want to express my sentiments on this, on behalf of the small shop-keepers in the district which I represent. I have been given to understand this afternoon, by the honourable the Attorney General, that this particular Act does just exactly that, gives the small shop-keeper the permission which I was afraid they may be deprived of. If this were so I would have to express my opinion against this Act, but I understand it was mainly brought in by the demand of smaller shop-keepers and very probably some of them earn their livelihood by the sales of small articles which are of considerable interest to the public, after regular shopping hours.

With the assurance of the Attorney General that the small shop-keepers in my district will not be deprived of those privileges, I fully concur in this particular Bill. But I do want to go on record, Mr. Speaker, as voicing my sentiments that I do honestly feel, Sir, I am sure all honourable members feel that the small store-keeper should not be penalized to the advantage of the larger firms who can very well afford to remain closed on certain afternoons.

It was moved and seconded that the House do now adjourn.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

WEDNESDAY, March 14, 1951.

The House opened at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I have the honour to lay on the table of the House the report of two Public Utilities Commissions.

Presenting Petitions

Honourable the Minister of Education, supported by Mr. Button, from Random Island, re Bridge.

Mr. Drover, supported by honourable Premier, from Coachman's Cove, re Road.

Mr. Miller, Bar Haven, re Road.

Honourable the Minister of Labour, on behalf of Mr. Speaker, supported by honourable Minister of Public Works, from Trout River, re Road.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the following questions:

To ask the honourable the Premier:

39. (1) How much of the surplus is left?

(2) How many commitments are there against the balance?

(3) Has any arrangement been made to pay off the Special Debt?

40. To ask the honourable the Premier:

(1) How many Europeans have been brought to this country and for what purpose?

(2) Is it true that there have been imported two bridge engineers, four road engineers and four draughtsmen in connection with the Trans-Canada Highway or any other construction?

(3) Is it true that some Newfoundlanders who were of at least one of those professions had to leave Newfoundland because of shortage of work?

41. To ask the honourable the Minister for Fisheries:

(1) What was the catch for 1950—inshore, Labrador, and Bank?

(2) How much fish was exported to the United States and Canada by these people who operate fresh fish plants?

(3) How much fish is lying in cold storage here or elsewhere unsold and how much salt fish?

(4) If there is a large amount of fish on hand, what is the reason for organizing fishermen to catch more fish?

(5) Why has not the Government looked for new markets?

MR. FOGWILL: To ask the honourable the Minister of Finance:

42. (1) What has been the expenditure to date of the I.B.E.C. survey?

(2) What report has been made to the Government?

(3) Is it the intention of the Government to table the report, if so, when?

(4) What is the salary being paid to the Deputy Minister of Fisheries?

(5) What is the percentage increase in personnel in the Civil Service since June, 1949?

(6) What is the total number of Taverns now operating in Newfoundland, who are the licence holders, what fee is paid?

(7) Did the Board of Liquor Control purchase a motor van, at what price, from whom, were tenders called?

43. To ask the honourable the Minister of Natural Resources:

(1) Who was employed to make the Air Magnometric Survey?

(2) What was the cost?

(3) Has the work been completed?

(4) If not, how much remains to be done?

(5) Has a report been made, if so, when will the report be tabled?

44. To ask the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives:

(1) To table a statement showing the total cost of the visit of Mr. Colin Storey to European fishing centres last year, statement to include the amount of travelling expenses and salary paid;

also to inform the House if Mr. Storey made a report, if so to table a copy of this report, also inform the House if Mr. Storey is presently employed by the Government, if so, state the nature of his employment and salary paid?

HON. EDWARD RUSSELL (Minister of Natural Resources): Sir, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): May I beg leave, Sir, to make a comment and a correction to a schedule I distributed a few days ago in this honourable House relating to certain payments made through the Department of Public Welfare. My word of explanation is this, honourable members will notice the figures for any one of these cases vary considerably from district to district. That is because, in the first instance in the figures in districts which are totally or very nearly fishing districts, the number of old age pensioners and widows is disproportionately high, and I invite the attention of the members to this point.

My correction has to do with the totals, and whereas in the final column to the right, the total is correct, there is an error of $100 in one district and an error of minus $100 in another. One district's report is larger having $100 beneficiaries too much and another $100 beneficiaries too few.

I am very glad, to report, Sir, the District of St. Barbe has too little as it should report $100 more than is shown there. It is with a different feeling I say that $100 should be taken from Carbonear—Bay de Verde District.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have here the answers to a few questions asked me by my honourable and learned friend, the Leader of the Opposition:

29. (1) Is Mr. Feather permanently employed. If not for what length of time?

Answer: Mr. Feather has been employed by the Government for a period of six years, that is to say his employment is on a contractual basis.

(2) Has he a contract of service and if so please produce it? If there is no written contract, what salary is paid him?

Answer: There is to be a written contract and that is now in the course of preparation. The salary is $7,500 per year net.

MR. CASHIN: Does that mean you pay his income Tax?

MR. SMALLWOOD: That means there is no cost of living bonus.

(3) What are his credentials? What characteristics does he possess over and above Newfoundlanders in his class of work?

Answer: Mr. Feather is a cost accountant and in that regard he is not particularly different from some other Newfoundlanders. Indeed we have Newfoundlanders who are now cost accountants.

I assume when my honourable friend uses the word "characteristics" in his question he is not referring to physical characteristics, the colour of his hair and the shape of his nose but rather his experience in Newfoundland for a period of some years as a cost accountant and his experience in dealing with the offices of quite a number of fish firms, merchants and exporters for the purpose of examining their books and of determining their cost of operations as fish merchants and exporters. He therefore possesses a distinctive type of knowledge and experience which this Government felt to be highly desirable in at least one person within the employment of the Government. That is to say, we were most anxious to have a man in the Government employment and at the Government's disposal and under the Government's control, a man with that highly specialized knowledge of the cost of doing business of fish merchants and fish exporters; because the Government are most anxious to ascertain the facts of the case in the matter of prices paid the fishermen by merchants for fish the fishermen sell the merchants and the prices obtained by the merchants for that fish when it is exported to foreign markets. No other cost accountant available to the Government had this highly specialized knowledge of these matters based on a number of years practical experience at this very work.

Mr. Speaker, if my honourable and learned friend opposite intends, in this or any other situation, to make a play on the fact that this Government has already engaged a number of men to do work in Newfoundland who are not Newfoundlanders, I wish to tell him that we will bring men here to Newfoundland from any corner of the earth, this side of the iron curtain, to do work for this Government, when we are sure that by so doing we are serving public interest in Newfoundland. We are completely without prejudice as to a man's religion, his language, his race and his nationality just so long always as he comes from this side of the iron curtain. We have a job to do, we were elected to do it and the people expect it will be done, and though all Heaven falls, it will be done, though it does involve this Government employing men who are not native born Newfoundlanders. Now where we can get a native born Newfoundlander to do the work we will get him, but we know of no native born Newfoundlander, in or out of Newfoundland who possesses the kind of highly specialized experience that Mr. Feather possesses and was available to us to be our servant and put his knowledge at our disposal and not at the disposal of Water Street. We wanted a man who knew the inside story and now we have him and we took him from under Ottawa's nose. He is not the first we have taken and he won't be the last.

I will tell my honourable friend opposite, the day is done when you can build up popularity or votes by appealing to a sentimental attitude which died not long after the great World War broke out

30. Mr. Higgins addressed to the honourable Minister of Co-operatives :

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Mr. Speaker, that answer is in course of preparation.

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): Mr. Speaker, I have here the answer to Question No. 16, on the Order Paper of March 13, addressed to the honourable the Premier and referred to me for reply.

16. Table statement showing the total cost of the Royal Commission which was appointed to inquire into the high cost of living in Newfoundland, the statement to show the names of the Commissioners and the names of all persons employed by the Commission and/or by the Government in connection with the inquiry and the salary paid to each, also to show the cost of travelling expenses, the cost of printing the report and the name of the printer; also inform the House of what action is being taken by the Government to bring down the high cost of living, and if, in the opinion of the Government the expenditure incurred will result in reducing the high cost of living, if so, state what percentage reduction in living costs has been evidenced or may be expected?

The following is a list of the names of the personnel of the Royal Commission which was appointed to inquire into the high cost of living in Newfoundland; also shown is the salary paid to each, travelling expenses (including board, etc.), the cost of printing the report and the name of the printer:

	Period Employed	Remun- eration	Expenses
F. S. Gridale (Chairman) .....	10 months	$ 5,250.00	$1,318.35
Geo. C. McNamara (Secretary) .....	11 months	4,680.00	124.82
Lee & Martin (Accountants) .....	3¾ months	9,900.00	661.50
MacKeigan, Rutledge & Cragg (Counsel) .....	5¼ months	6,240.00	839.28
W. F. Chown (Member) .....	11 days	275.00	310.04
Lewis Ayre (Member) .....	Part of 8½ months	1,750.00
Cyril Janes (Member) .....	11 months	3,000.00
Mrs. Finn (Reporter) .....	7 months	1,759.47
Mrs. Fahey (Stenographer) .....	3½ months	493.13
Mrs. MacDonald (Stenographer) .....	3½ months	556.18
John Mahoney (Steno-Clerk) .....	2¼ months	570.00
		$34,473.78	$3,253.99

Expenses of Commission while on tour of investigation, Corner

Brook, Grand Falls, etc. ....	$3,391.14
Printing of Cost of Living Report (Evening Telegram) .....	1,802.50

The Government appointed the Royal Commission in order to ascertain if the margins of profit charged by wholesalers, distributors or retailers were unduly high. The expenditure incurred was designed to bring information and findings to the attention of the Government, to give the Government guidance for any projected action that the Government might judiciously take to protect further the consumer.

The Report of the Royal Commission has been received by the Government and the Government is presently giving serious consideration to alternate courses of action in order to protect the consumer to the fullest possible extent.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): The Question No. 14—The honourable Leader of the Opposition to the honourable Premier has been passed to my department for reply. The answer is in the course of preparation and will arrive later in the afternoon, if it is the will of the House. I will present that answer then.

15. I will be in a position to supply the House with this information tomorrow.

MR. KEOUGH: Mr. Higgins addressed to the honourable Premier:

1. How much money has been advanced to the Andrews Labrador Fisheries Company? What was the agreement on the advancing of this loan? If in writing, a copy is asked.

Answer: The Government has guaranteed a loan made by the Canadian Bank of Commerce to Andrews Labrador Fisheries Ltd., in the amount of $160,000.

There are two agreements, copies of which will be tabled.

2. Has any money been made towards the repayment?

Answer: Andrews Labrador Fisheries Limited have made withdrawals against the loan totalling $150,000. Repayment of $20,000 made 12 March 1951. Balance of Loan outstanding $130,000.

3. What was the security at date of Loan?

What is the security at present?

Answer: Statutory mortgage on the property of the Company including land, buildings, machinery equipment, stock in trade, and fish stocks, situated at Bay Roberts; Comfort Bight, Labrador, and Frenchman's Island, Labrador. Insurance in an amount equal to the total of the withdrawals against the loan has been effected and assigned to the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives.

(32) Mr. Higgins, addressed to the honourable Minister of Co-operatives.

1. How much money has the Government given or guaranteed to the following Co-operative Clubs or Associations, namely: St. George's, Pouch Cove and Mundy Pond?

MR. KEOUGH: None.

2. What is the nature of the loan, what collateral is given?

Answer: Answered in number one.

3. If any such co-operatives fail, who will buy out the concern?

Answer: No answer can be given to the question as it is highly hypothetical.

(33) Mr. Higgins addressed to the honourable Minister of Co-operatives:

Answer: The answer is in the course of preparation.

(34) Mr. Fahey addressed to the honourable the Minister of Natural Resources:

1. Were Concessions made in regard to any blueberry areas?

2. Were any areas leased or rented, to whom, where and for how much?

MR. RUSSELL: No there were no concessions made in regard to any blueberry areas. And no areas have been let to anybody, and I might add, no areas will be let to anyone anywhere for any amount until not only the interest but the wishes of the people concerned and people of any blueberry area are considered.

3. Will concession owners be given sole rights?

Answer: That would usually be included in the terms of such concession, if given, and I add, once more, the whole principle of whether or not such a concession should be given may well come up in this House, in this session in connection with the proposed new Crown Lands Act.

(35) How many sheep have been imported since April 1950?

Answer: This question came to my attention just a few minutes ago and I think I had better wait until tomorrow to prepare a definite answer to Question No. 35.

MR. SPEAKER: (36) Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Minister of Public Works:

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Speaker, I noted that question when it was asked by the honourable member for St. John's East and should possibly have prepared a reply for today. I have not had an answer prepared. I can answer the question, at this time, perhaps, without bothering the office any further in the matter. If, on the other hand, perhaps an official answer from the Department is required to be tabled, then maybe I should bring in a typewritten answer on tomorrow.

The question reads: Has the Minister or the Government made any request to the Minister of Resources and Development or to the Government of Canada in respect to having any portion of the Newfoundland section of the Trans-Canada Highway built on a lower standard than the general agreement provides?

The answer if there has never been any such thought, if the members of this House or any member of the public generally happened to notice, a similar question was placed in the House of Parliament in Ottawa and answered by Col. Robert S. Winter of the Department of Resources. The answer he gave in the Hansard at Ottawa is the answer I would have to give if it were before me and in the actual words he gave. I am not sure, but I can say for the information of the House, there is one agreement in connection with the Trans-Canada Highway and only one signed between the Federal Government and the Governments of the various Provinces.

As the honourable Mr. Winter pointed out on that occasion, there are cases where some elasticity, if we like to use that word, in the agreement permits, under very difficult conditions, the Head of the Department to refer back to the Federal engineer who will be in this province and who has been here most of the time, I was talking to him only yesterday. We have the right to submit a problem, very difficult or over expansive for us. Some of us have, perhaps, been privileged to travel on the coast of British Columbia where Trans-Canada Highway or a great number of the highways were built at the base of a very high mountain, and where the standards set forth demand a 24 foot pavement and 2/5 shoulder, making a 35 foot grade. If this is demanded at the base of a mountain it would involve blasting away a part of the mountain in order to clear this shoulder. But it is one of the conditions which they allow elasticity for. The same thing applies to grading. In this little rolling country we have quite a bit of up and down getting across this Island. Our roads in the past were so constructed we were not bound down to a particularly high standard of modern roads which are being demanded of us today, and so we have Carter's Hill, Barter's Hill, and many others which we would not care to mention, very steep, winding and with other difficulties in construction.

The Department has the right to refer these to the Central Department who in turn, if necessity demands, will possibly give consent to a slightly lesser degree than that very splendid standard they have set for the main portion of the Trans-Canada Highway.

In brief, Mr. Speaker, that is the answer to the question. However, I shall, with the consent of the House, present a written answer on tomorrow, or as soon as it is prepared.

(37) (38) Addressed to the Honourable the Minister of Public Works:

MR. SPENCER: Also in course of preparation.

MR. KEOUGH: If I may, I have the answers to Question No. 24 directed, in the first instance, to the honourable the Premier and passed to me for attention.

(24) Did the Government assist in setting up and operating of a pilot fish meal plant at the Naval Dockyard in St. John's, if so, what was the cost and the result?

Answer: Yes, $9,832.65, the production of a few hundred pounds, samples of which have been tested by the Fisheries Research Board Laboratories. The report of the Pacific Fisheries Experimental Station is tabled.

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Speaker, with your consent, and that of the House, I will now table the answer to Question No. 14:

(14) Mr. Higgins addressed to the honourable the Premier, referred to the Department of Public Works for reply:

1. Did the Government buy the American Aerated Water Company Building on LeMarchant Road?

Answer: Yes.

2. For how much? If conveyance drafted, please table a copy.

Answer: $215,000, made up as follows: Building $190,000; land $7,000; conveyor system, $18,000. A draft conveyance has been submitted and examined by the Department of the Attorney General. It may be inspected at any convenient time at the Department of Public Works.

3. What was included in the sale?

Answer: Answered by No. 2.

4. Why did the Government buy it?

Answer: The Board of Liquor Control has never in recent years possessed adequate storage space for its supplies, and has been greatly handicapped on this account. Because of the factors of weight and bulk, few buildings are suitable for this type of storage, and the Board, having found it increasingly difficult to secure the accommodation required, has been pressing strongly since 1945 for the provision of its own storage space. The Board has sublet from the Newfoundland Coal Company, space in the tunnels on the South Side of St. John's held under lease by that Company from the Government of Canada. Further space is rented from Furness Withy Limited, and Canadian National Railways. In addition, the former Naval Canteen at St. John's has been available to the Board. The cost of space leased amounts to practically $9,000 per annum. While the best that could be made, these arrangements are inconvenient and unsatisfactory. The dispersal of stores and the extra handling made necessary added materially to costs. Under the laws of Canada no rum that has not been matured for two years can be sold to the public. It is sounder to purchase the liquor green and store it here than to purchase it already matured. As many as 500 large casks have to be stored at one time.

The lease held by the Newfoundland Coal Company is terminable upon very short notice and the Government has been informed that the tunnels on the South Side would not be available should Canada go on a wartime footing. The former Naval Canteen would also have to be relinquished. To meet the demands of the Board, a parcel of land was purchased some months ago and it had been intended to construct a suitable building for storage purposes. In the light of continually rising building costs, the difficulty of securing supplies of certain essential building materials, and the possibility that the Board may have to vacate existing storage premises at short notice, it was considered advisable to avail of the opportunity of securing immediately for the Board space suitable to its requirements.

5. Was it bought on an appraisalment value?

Answer: The building was appraised by the Chief Engineer of the Department of Public Works and by an independent practising St. John's architect. Their appraisals coincided very closely and were somewhat higher than the actual purchase price.

6. Is the Government aware that this building was offered for sale sometime previously?

Answer: No.

7. Did the Government approach the Company to sell or did the Company approach the Government to buy?

Answer: The Government approached the Company to sell.

8. Has the Government got a warehouse for liquor, and if so, where?

What was the cost of the warehouse and what can it hold?

Answer: Answer in No. 4.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable the Attorney General asks leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act Respecting the Interpretation of Statutes."

On motion the Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

The honourable the Attorney General asks leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act Respecting the Statutes."

On motion bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

MR. SMALLWOOD: Before we proceed with the debate on the Speech from the Throne I wonder if it would be convenient for the House to have 10 minutes' recess.

MR. FAHEY: In reply to the Speech from the Throne, first of all I would like to congratulate the Mover and Seconder of the debate for the manner in which they proposed the vote for the Speech in Reply.

I cannot say I agree with the mover when he said the Government have fulfilled all their promises. What I want to know is: What about the promise that the high cost of living would be cut in half and what about the promise that Ottawa would buy our fish supposing they had to dump it as they were doing with the wheat that time, and what about the promise that there would be no extra taxation? We were told Ottawa would buy our fish, it was only a drop in the bucket. The voters were promised many things, in my opinion, which have not been fulfilled For that reason I can not agree with the mover when he says the Government has fulfilled all they promised.

In dealing with industry, under that heading the Government has made headway, but the amount for which this Island will be involved in the future, that is another story. The Government is partially or, in some cases, wholly involved and financing those projects and, I am afraid, if they don't work out, probably the people will have to pay in future taxation.

It is true, things are much better than they were this time last year. Take Bell Island for instance where the output of a million and a half tons a year has been increased to two and a half million. Those things though I don't give the Government credit for. These are world conditions, and those same world conditions have brought a better market for the things we produce, all our products.

MR. SMALLWOOD: What caused the conditions of a year ago? Was not that world conditions?

MR. FAHEY: In dealing with the farmer, I am glad to see the Government is trying to help this section of our people particularly after the opposition for two years were repeatedly telling the Government what to do, and if the Prince Edward Island potatoes have to wait for inspection while the local are being sold, I am sure the opposition can't help that. But I would say, there should be a fixed price in advance, a floor price as well as a ceiling price for our vegetables, beef, mutton, particularly now when we are going into sheep raising.

In dealing with the fisheries, the Government has made extensive loans in order to try and modernize the fisheries and we know the market to sell salt cod is getting smaller and smaller every year, but will the Government ever get back this money being loaned out? What percentage will the Government make? That is the $64 question.

We also find the Government is spending in the vicinity of $20,000 for a fishermen's union. I feel the fishermen should have a union, but in all my experience with unions, in forming unions, it is the first time I ever saw a union, or heard tell of a union being sponsored by a Government. In my opinion, this union should be sponsored by the fishermen themselves. With this union, I am wondering, will it be run on democratic basis or will the Government dictate the policy. I can imagine the union having an honorary president, and I don't need three guesses to know who that would be. I can also imagine this convention turning into a Liberal Convention, at the cost of the taxpayers; and that convention will be told that Ottawa gives millions for wheat and nothing for the Newfoundland fishermen. I can imagine a lot of those things.

The Speech from the Throne referred to a Newfoundland Corporation with a partnership of public and private capital for development. What obligation would the people have in this respect? Should the corporation loan money that could not be paid back? The taxpayer would be responsible to private capital, or would the private capital have a lien on the toiling masses through taxation?

The Speech refers also to different surveys being made Under Terms of Union. Those surveys are supposed to be made by the Federal Government, and in this respect our Local Government is wasting thousands of dollars for surveys which should be made by the Federal Government.

In the Speech from the Throne reference is made to an Inquiry into Prices Paid for Fish. This is only a duplicate of what the Federal Government is doing and, here again, is another waste of money. It referred to road work, in this respect, I notice in the Liberal Districts this work was continued under a special work program until Christmas week, while in Harbour Main, in some cases only two weeks' work was available. I consider, as a representative of this District, that this was discrimination, and at the time I brought the matter to the attention of the Minister of Public Works, also the Premier, but nothing was done about it.

I contend that every district pays taxation and each district is entitled to the same treatment.

MR. SPENCER: We have a question asked by the Independent member for Ferryland which will show you what was spent in your District.

MR. FAHEY: I can make an answer, in a round-about way to the Minister of Public Works. That may be like a wharf charged up to the District of Harbour Main and built in another district, but in the figures in Ottawa it is supposed to be in Harbour Main, at least I don't know about it. But I contend, in cases of that kind where two weeks work, and in cases nine days work is all that is available in one district while in other districts the work continues from September until Christmas. That was discrimination, more or less, and where taxation was paid evenly all around through sales tax or other means, each district should be entitled to the same treatment. And I contend it is only small-time politicians who allow such things as this to happen.

Now I spoke of wharves a few moments ago. I would like to draw the attention of the House to this:

I happened to be out in Harbour Main on the 24th May and there was a boat there unloading wharf shores from Mr. Bradley's Riding for a wharf to be built in Harbour Main District, and work was not started. Yes, there was no hurry about getting the work going only to get the wharf shores from the Riding of someone who was in Ottawa. I consider that these wharf shores should have been cut in Harbour Main District. I imagine three or four thousand dollars, voted for Harbour Main District has been passed to another district for timber to build that wharf. And I may say again that we can well imagine why the timber was brought from another district; because the people of that district were supporters of the Liberal Government or perhaps the Rubber Stamp Government because all Liberal Governments are only Rubber Stamp Governments.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Can you get wharf sticks from Harbour Main District.

MR. FAHEY: Plenty of them, we export them to other districts. So the honourable members on the Government side of the House give the impression when they speak, most of the time, that all of the mistakes of our past governments were caused by the Tory Government. Well, I will remind the honourable members they should recall that in the past there were liberal governments as well as tory governments, and I think, with the revenue they had at their disposal, anywhere from $10,000,000 a year, they did good work, they built up millions of dollars worth of national wealth in the line of public utilities and only accumulated a debt of sixty million dollars. Now we did not have a revenue of $37,000,000 in those days as we have at the present time. But, regardless of what sort of Governments we had in the past, I would say this much: Tory Government or Liberal Government we have never had any government in any country who could go through forty million dollars, spend, waste and crucify forty million dollars as fast as the present Liberal Government is doing it, in addition to spending thirty-seven million dollars a year of our revenue.

Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to be so long and I will close off at this point due to the fact that I don't feel up to making a speech, but those are the remarks I have to say. I hope the honourable members will take them as made.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, if no other honourable gentleman wishes to speak, to participate in the debate today, we might adjourn the debate until tomorrow, and I so move without doing so for the purpose of making any further remarks when the debate resumes tomorrow.

Debate ordered adjourn until tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Life Insurance Act, 1933."

Mr. Speaker left the Chair. Mr. Courage took the Chair of Committees.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, in connection with this Bill I would like to say, for some years past, in order to facilitate the supervision of the operations of Life Insurance Companies, the various provinces, common law provinces in Canada has had a uniform life insurance act, and after careful consideration and examination of the position, it is considered this Province should now amend the Life Insurance Act, 1933, in order to bring into conformity with this uniform act.

I have here the entire Act but I think the Bill gives the changes only.

MR. HIGGINS: We must remember there were a lot of mistakes last time.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Notwithstanding the efforts of the honourable Minister for Public Welfare,

Section 1 read and passed.
Section 2 read and passed.
Section 3 read and passed.
Section 4 read and passed.
Section 5 read and passed.
Section 6 read.

MR. RUSSELL: "Province" should mean the Province of Newfoundland.

Section 7 read and passed.
Section 8 read and passed.
Section 9 read and passed.
Section 10 read and passed.
Section 11 read and passed.
Section 12 read and passed.
Section 13 read.

MR. HIGGINS: Supposing it is after the 30 days' grace, does this mean—

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): It is not void in most policies.

Passed.
Section 14 read and passed.
Section 15 read.

MR. HIGGINS: "State or Country" Provided by law of Province, State or Country." Does this mean any state in the Union or any country outside. Suppose I take out insurance here and then go to the United States, the next of kin would be according to the state in which I reside.

MR. CURTIS: I would not risk amending that, a very serious clause, were it not for the fact that it is a uniform act.

Passed.

Section 16 read.

MR. HIGGINS: What exactly does this mean, suppose I have a child insured for $5,000—is it $200 per thousand or $200 complete.

MR. CURTIS: Only $200 not $200 per thousand. If the law permitted that parents would be tempted to let their children die.

Passed.

Section 17 read and passed.

Section 18 read and passed.

Section 19 read and passed.

Section 20 read and passed.

Section 21 read.

MR. HIGGINS: In the main Act is there any mention of "Divorce." "When divorce of Insured or Insurer."

MR. CURTIS: It must be, ours is a uniform act. Yes, section 34, subsection 1. It must be, it is copied from the Newfoundland Act.

Passed.

Sections 22 read and passed.

Sections 23 read.

MR. HIGGINS: Supposing I get insurance here in a Branch Office and I give them notice of ratification and they don't send it to their main office for two or three months. I don't know any head office, I deal entirely with the Branch Office. That is the same as the Canadian Act.

MR. CURTIS: That is the uniform act. I can see that is a hardship. We don't know the Head Office at all.

Passed.

Section 24 read and passed.

Section 25 read and passed.

Section 26 read and passed.

Section 27 read and passed.

Section 28 read and passed.

Section 29 read and passed.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill with some amendments.

Bill ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Agreement for Policing the Province Act, 1949."

Mr. Speaker left the Chair. Mr. Courage took the Chair of Committees.

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

MR. SPEAKER: Bill ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Facilitate the Enforcement of Maintenance Orders."

MR. HIGGINS: This Bill only deals with reciprocating states.

DR. POTTLE: That is how it is defined.

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.
Section 5 read and passed.
Section 6 read and passed.
Section 7 read and passed.
Section 8 read and passed.
Section 9 read and passed.
Section 10 read and passed.
Section 11 read and passed.
Section 12 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Chapter 76 of the Consolidated Statutes (third series) entitled 'Of the Permanent Marine Disaster Fund.'"

Section 1 read and passed.
Section 2 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

The Bill was ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Shops Act, 1940."

Section 1 read and passed.
Section 2 read and passed.
Section 3 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill with some amendments.

Bill ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Newfoundland Corporation Income Tax Act, 1949,"

MR. SMALLWOOD: Pursuant to the clause No. 7 of the Tax Rental Agreement between Canada and Newfoundland, the Legislature of Newfoundland has enacted the Newfoundland Corporation Income Tax, 1949 providing for the imposition of a tax at the rate of 5% on that part of the income of Corporations, attributed to their operations in Newfoundland in any taxation year.

As a result of recent changes in Federal Income Tax Act, it is necessary now to make certain amendments to the Act of 1949 in order to be in conformity with Canadian Legislature. The Bill now introduced for second reading has been prepared in order to give effect to that amendment.

On motion Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of a Bill "An Act Respecting Survivorship."

MR. CURTIS: This is a Bill designed to make our Act conform with the Bill with respect to Survivorship throughout Canada. It really makes statutory what has been done by the Court. The idea being that when two people die in a common accident, should it never be possible to find out which died first and the object of this Bill is to have it declared, in such an event, that the senior is supposed to have died first. Section two makes provisions for that effect. This is, I think, clear to the House.

Then the second section goes on to deal with what shall happen under the will of the survivor, or one who did not survive. In other words, Mr. Speaker, if a man and wife die in the same accident, and the husband has made disposition of his property in favour of his wife, the will will be construed as if she had died before him, and the second person entitled to the estate would inherit the estate.

It would not go to the wife's relations, which is something some of us are afraid of, perhaps.

As this is one of those Acts to bring about uniformity of Statutes, I move we support it.

MR. HIGGINS: I suppose we have to step in line in order to have uniformity. This law is only a makeshift. For instance, an infant one year old is presumed to outlive his father. It is not according to common sense, and never was.

MR. SPEAKER: Very interesting but out of Order, such questions take place in Committee.

On motion Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That being the end of the Order Paper, I move the House adjourn until tomorrow, Thursday at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

THURSDAY, March 15, 1951

The House opened at three of the clock.

Presenting Petitions

Mr. Horwood presented a petition from the area around Battle Harbour.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notices of Motions and Questions

MR. JOHN G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the following questions:

To ask the honourable the Premier:

1. To state the name of the Consulting Engineer employed by the Government to design the cement plant at Corner Brook.

2. To state the names of the manufacturers in the United Kingdom, Canada, or the United States, who were invited to submit tenders for the erection of the cement plant and to table the correspondence with such firms.

3. To state the name of the professional engineer who recommended that the contract for the supply of machinery be awarded to Messrs. Miag of Brunswick, Germany.

4. Were any contractors in Newfoundland or elsewhere other than William J. Lundrigan Limited invited to tender for the excavation, concrete work, construction of pipe lines, erection of silos and other buildings?

5. To table the contracts made with (a) Messrs. Miag and Company and (b) William J. Lundrigan, Limited.

6. Under whose supervision and inspection, on behalf of the Government, are the contracts for the cement plant at Corner Brook being carried out?

7. To give the name of the Inspecting Engineer who issues Certificates for payment on account of these contracts.

8. By whom is the material for the cement plant inspected as to quality and compliance with specifications before leaving the factory in Germany?

To ask the honourable the Minister of Fisheries:

1. How much money was paid to the Icelandic owners of boats?

2. Was any duty paid on these boats?

3. Was any amount paid to the Government of Iceland. If so, why?

4. Was any expert opinion obtained as to the value and worth for the purpose of the boats before they were purchased?

5. Were the expenses of persons in Government employ or private paid for travelling expenses in connection with these boats?

6. From whom was the equipment in the boats obtained and was this in good condition before the purchase and during the fishing experiment?

Also to ask the honourable the Minister of Labour:

1. What was the total cost of Works Relief Scheme in operation last winter?

2. To give names and remuneration paid the administrators.

3. Has the Government specific figures to show the number of former workers in secondary industries who have since Confederation lost their employment because of the forced shut-down of these industries?

And to ask the honourable the Minister of Supply:

1. Is there a Board before which tenders for Government supply are opened and discussed?

2. If there is such a Board, who comprise it?

HON. WILLIAM KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): The answer to question 15, Mr. Higgins addressed to me, is as follows:

1. How much money has been advanced to or guaranteed for Lourdes Co-operative Associations?

A. $40,000.

2. How often has money been paid or guarantee given? On what dates and how much on each occasion.

A. On August 19th, 1949; the total amount was guaranteed.

3. What collateral was given for the loan or loans or guarantees?

A. Mortgages of all assets.

4. On whose recommendation was or were the loan or loans advanced or guarantee given?

A. On the decision of the Executive Council.

5. Was any enquiry made at the time by the Government as to the affairs of the Association? If so, when, and was this done before any loan was made or guarantee given?

A. Yes.

6. What was the financial position of the Association at the time the $40,000 loan or guarantee mentioned in the Act passed at the session was given?

A. As recorded in the annual financial statement of the Society.

7. What is the financial position of the Association today?

A. Annual audit and financial statement in preparation.

8. How much of the loan or loans has been paid or by how much has the guarantee been reduced?

A. Nil.

9. Was the $40,000 advanced to obtain supplies or pay off debts?

A. For the purposes set forth in the agreement executed December 9, 1949.

10. What actually happened to the money?

A. Expended as revealed in the financial statement, 1949 audit.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, may I ask a supplementary question?

MR. SPEAKER: Yes.

MR. FOGWILL: Does the $40,000 include the amount of $1,229 advanced before union?

MR. KEOUGH: No, that was a carry-over from the days of Commission of Government. The total is $41,229.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS: The answers to questions 18 and 19 are in the course of preparation.

MR. KEOUGH: Question 30, addressed to me by the honourable the Leader of the Opposition:

1. How many Co-operatives have failed in recent years?

A. In 1950 no Co-operative Society failed.

In 1949 two Co-operative Credit Unions went out of existence, and one Co-operative Consumers Society was wound up upon its own application. No loss was sustained by either members or other persons in the dissolution of any of these three Societies.

In 1947 one Credit Union and three Co-operative Consumer Societies went out of existence, without loss to anyone.

In 1949 one Credit Union and one Consumers Society went out of existence without loss to anyone.

2. Is it possible to say that all Co-operatives are in good financial position?

A. Some are stronger than others.

3. If they are not, what is the possibility of success in supplying 30,000 fishermen by co-operation?

A. Answered by number two.

4. How many co-operatives have recently been started where, when, and did the Government aid them or any of them in any way?

A. Twenty-seven co-operatives have recently been started, have been registered since January 1, 1949, and at least fifteen unregistered societies have started business. The places, dates and extent of Government aid are indicated as follows:

(List on opposite page)

1949	Name of Societies	Where	When	Government aid in any way
	O'Regan's Credit Union	O'Regans	Feb. 12	Fieldworker Assistance
	Success " "	Herring Neck	March 3	" "
	Irresistable " "	Lumsden North	March 22	" "
	Northern Light " "	Newtown	March 22	" "
	Midwest " "	St. George's	April 2	" "
	Impecco " "	St. John's	April 8	" "
	Holy Cross " "	Great Jervois	May 3	" "
	Flower's Cove " "	Flower's Cove	June 5	" "
	Salvo " "	Salvage	June 25	" "
	Dauntless " "	King's Point	Oct. 10	" "
	Eastport Consumers	Eastport	April 6	" "
	Cow Head " "	Cow Head	April 22	" "
	Eureka " "	Trinity East	May 4	" "
	St. Stephens " "	Stephenville	June 7	" "
	United " "	Western Cove	June 9	" "
	Catalina " "	Catalina	July 16	" "
	Hodge's Cove " "	Hodge's Cove	Aug. 11	" "
	North West " "	St. Joseph's	Aug. 11	" "
	St. John's Agricultural	St. John's	Sept. 15	" "
1950
	Springdale Fur Farmers	Springdale	Jan. 1	$7,000.00
	Freshwater Consumers	Freshwater	March 10	Fieldworker Assistance
	La Scie Consumers	LaScie	June 15	" "
	North Eastern Producers	Change Islands	June 15	$35,000.00
	Bayside Producers	St. George's	June 15	Fieldworker Assistance
	Trout River Consumers	Trout River	June 17	" "
	Vanguard Dairymen	Pasadena	Sept. 14	" "
	Hatchet Cove Consumers	Hatchet Cove	Dec. 4	" "

Also number 33, addressed to me by Mr. Fogwill.

1. What is the financial position of Pouch Cove Co-operative Association?

A. As reported in their annual financial statement.

2. How many members has it? 189 (latest available figure).

3. Was any audit made of its activities?

A. Yes.

4. Were accounts properly kept and all its money accounted for?

A. As reported in their annual financial statement.

HON. EDWARD RUSSELL (Minister of Natural Resources): The answer to question number 35 addressed to me by Mr. Fahey is as follows:

1. How many sheep have been imported since April 1950?

A. It is presumed that the question refers to sheep imported by the Government. 51 sheep have been imported since April, 1950, namely: 17 Scottish Blackface, 17 Shetlands, 17 North Country Cheviots, 15 ewes and 2 rams of each breed.

2. What did they cost?

A. The total cost, including quarantine charges and transportation, was $6,455.97, less $550 bonus from the Federal Government on the rams.

3. Has the services of a shepherd been engaged, at what salary and expenses?

A. A shepherd from Scotland has been engaged for two years, total salary $2,600 per year. The Department paid an additional $385 to cover his transportation and freight on three sheep dogs.

4. Is there an assistant shepherd, who, at what salary and expenses?

A. An assistant shepherd has been appointed temporarily for six months at a salary of $196. It is the ultimate intention of the Government to distribute the sheep to competent and reliable persons but the terms and conditions have not yet been decided.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): Mr. Speaker, I have not the answers to questions 37 and 38 today; they are still in the course of preparation.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Question 39, addressed to me by the honourable the Leader of the Opposition:

1. How much of the surplus is left?

2. How many commitments are there against the balance?

3. Has any arrangement been made to pay off the Special Debt?

I do not know what is meant by the words "Special Debt." The information will be put before the House when the Estimates and the Budget Speech are brought down.

As far as number 40 is concerned, addressed to me by the honourable Leader of the Opposition, I would suggest that the first part of the question, "How many Europeans have been brought to this country and for what purpose," would be more properly addressed to the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration at Ottawa of which Newfoundland is a part, in fact a province of Canada. The second part, "Is it true that there have been imported two bridge engineers, four road engineers and four draughtsmen in connection with the Trans-Canada Highway or any other construction," I will be very frank and say I have not had the opportunity since I replied verbally the other day to check with the Minister of Public Works as to the exact number. I do know: One bridge architect and designer, in the person of Professor Jacopson, a very distinguished Latvian engineer, a refugee from Communism, has arrived for the purpose of supervising construction of bridges not only on the Trans-Canada Highway, but any other roads where such bridge building may be needed. I know, also, some other engineers have been brought from Europe as well as from other parts of Canada; one draughtsman has been brought in, who is to work with the road engineer.

Number three, "Is it true that some Newfoundlanders who were of at least one of these professions had to leave Newfoundland because of shortage of work." I have no knowledge of any but if my honourable and learned friend has knowledge I would like to have it. Newfoundlanders who are road engineers, bridge engineers, draughtsmen, I have no knowledge of Newfoundlanders with those qualifications having to leave Newfoundland since this Government has brought men of those qualifications into Newfoundland from other parts of Canada and the continent of Europe. I would suggest that question number one be directed to the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration of Canada, but it might be limited in point of time; does it mean the last century, half century, last year or last week? I am sure Mr. Harris would like to have the question limited in point of time.

MR. KEOUGH: Question number 41 addressed to me by Mr. Higgins:

1. What was the catch for 1950—inshore, Labrador and Bank?

2. How much fish was exported to the United States and Canada by these people who operate fresh fish plants?

3. How much fish is lying in cold storage here or elsewhere unsold and how much salt fish?

The first three sections of this question are improperly directed, the information can be obtained from the Federal Department of Fisheries and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

4. If there is a large amount of fish on hand, what is the reason for organizing fishermen to catch more fish?

A. The Government is not aware of the fishermen being organized to catch more fish or of large amounts on hand.

5. Why has not the Government looked for new markets?

A. Neither market research or trade promotion have as yet been established as a function of the Department of Fisheries and Co-operatives. These functions are carried out by the Federal Department of Trade and Commerce and Fisheries in respect of Export Marketing.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Number 42, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Finance by Mr. Fogwill:

1. What has been the expenditure to date of the I.B.E.C. survey?

A. The expenditure to date has been $43,657.49.

2. What report has been made to the Government?

A. One on a possible pulp and paper mill in Labrador and a second on a possible pulp and paper mill in Bay D'Espoir or Hermitage Bay on the South Coast of this Island; a third report which is to contain a survey of the interior market for fish of one kind and another has just about been completed and is expected to be received shortly in St. John's. I would say in reply to this it is doubtful whether the Government will table the report. It was not secured for the purpose of publication, it was secured rather for the purpose of assisting the Government to negotiate the establishment of pulp and paper mill in the Labrador or on the South Coast or both.

I will add to that that it certainly would not be in the public interest to publish either of these two reports. We have had several requests from organizations in the United States and from the mainland of Canada for copies of these reports. We have not parted with them; we have not loaned copies of the reports or permitted such parties to read or to see them. The reports were no sooner received by us than we received a request from the United States for the loan of them from a very important organization, the Newsprint Service Bureau which is the organization of all the newspaper publishers of the United States. That organization or Bureau supplies them with information and data and statistics and the like, and we felt, quite frankly, they were not the kind of body who ought to have access to that report. If it were a group of actual publishers concerned with a supply of paper for their own use and interested in establishing a mill, then we would be willing to think they were exactly the kind of people we would be anxious to deal with.

4. What is the salary being paid to the Deputy Minister of Fisheries?

A. Clive Planta, the Deputy Minister of Fisheries has been employed by the Government on a contractual basis, that is to say, under contract, which means that he is not pensionable, he receives no cost of living bonus; rather the terms of his employment are outside the ambit of the Civil Service Act and Civil Service Selection Board, and employed for five years, salary $15,000 a year. I might add the Government are congratulating themselves that they have been able to get Mr. Planta at so low a rate of pay. We have now several men working for the Government getting very much more pay than we are ourselves, one is getting three times as much as the Ministers of the Government.

5. What is the percentage increase in personnel in the Civil Service since June 1949?

A. The answer to that question is being prepared in very great detail.

6. What is the total number of taverns now operating in Newfoundland, who are the licence holders, what fee is paid?

A. The answer is that it is being prepared in very great detail.

7. I do not know the answer to that, my honourable friend the Minister of Supply may be able to answer that off-hand—"Did the Board of Liquor Control purchase a motor van, at what price, from whom, were tenders called?"

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): I cannot answer that specific question, Mr. Speaker, but all purchases made by the Board of Liquor Control are bought on tender and I assume this one was also tendered for. I will take it up tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will undertake to have the definite answer tomorrow.

MR. RUSSELL: Question 43, addressed to me by Mr. Fogwill.

1. Who was employed to make the Air Magnometric Survey?

A. The Aeomagnetic Survey, Limited, of Toronto, was employed to make the air magnometric survey.

2. What was the cost?

A. $166,596.93 has been paid to date and $14,400 will be paid on completion of geological report.

3. Has the work been completed?

A. All flying and computations have been completed but the geological interpretations are not yet completed.

4. If not, how much remains to be done?

A. These will be completed by the 31st of March, 1951.

5. Has a report been made, if so, when will the report be tabled?

A. A report will be submitted to the Government on or before March 31, 1951.

MR. KEOUGH: The answer to question number 44 is in the process of being prepared.

Notice of Motion

MR. RUSSELL: I beg to introduce a Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

Bill read a first time, ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

MR. DROVER: First I would like, Mr. Speaker, on the address in reply, to congratulate the mover and second order of the address and also, Sir, seeing it is my first time to speak in this Assembly, to congratulate you on the manner in which you have looked after the affairs of this Assembly.

During the first session of Parliament, I was a member of the Government side of the House; today, I find that I am out in the centre. This afternoon I am going to make my remarks as brief as possible, and I will try not to be vindictive in my statements.

When I went down to the District of White Bay in March, 1949, I made no promises to the people politically, but I promised them I would visit them at least once a year which I thought every elected representative should at least do, to find out the needs of the people. Secondly, if I was elected, I would work in their best interest. During the election campaign there was a proposed road for the Northern Peninsula. That road, having been built, would have meant the centralization of the population of the northern portion of our Island including the Districts of St. Barbe and White Bay.

In 1949 I visited White Bay. The people had experienced a very poor fishery and unemployment was rampant. They asked me if I would try and interest the Government in beginning the proposed road. I saw members of the Government Department concerned, and I was told at that time that to begin work on the road of the northern part of the country in 1949 would interfere with the road program of 1950, and I agreed to a postponement; that it would be the better plan.

Last summer, or the summer of 1950, I went back again to White Bay and the people were clamouring for their highway. Before leaving St. John's I was told by members of the Government that road work would begin and to find out the number of people seeking employment. After arriving in the District I was told that no surveyors or engineers could be found in the whole Dominion of Canada for that work.

Now, Mr. Speaker, roads in White Bay, health, and transportation as far as the C.N.R. is concerned, do not come under our Government. These are the things which led up to my expulsion as a member of the Liberal Government.

Now, Sir, I am out in the centre, I am not going to dwell any more on my expulsion but I would like to say this: I want to tell this House just where the people of White Bay stand, what they have and what they have not.

In the northern part of Newfoundland we have the Grenfell Mission. They are doing a very fine job. But, the area and territory which they have to cover is too great to enable them to give an efficient service to the people who demand it. Another thing I would like to see, Sir, in my district is this: I would like to see the extension of the Health Service under the Department of Health in St. John's instead of under the Grenfell Mission. Why? I contend the people of White Bay should have hospitalization just as cheaply as any other part of this country. I know families in White Bay, married with a couple of children, having to spend their paltry earnings, probably two or three hundred dollars a year, on health, whereas in other parts of Newfoundland, which by the way has railway and coastal services throughout the year, being able to get their hospitalization for $10 a year. I do not think it is fair to the people of the Northern Peninsula, and I mean St. Barbe as well as White Bay.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Will my honourable friend explain what system of payment there is between the people and the Grenfell Association.

MR. DROVER: They all pay into the Grenfell Mission, if they go to hospital they pay, but I believe there is some kind of a scheme or system whereby the Department of Health has asked through their relieving officer, for the Grenfell Hospital to give them the cheapest possible board. I believe that is so.

All right, Sir, we take the coastal service. Last year, in order to get transportation for the people of White Bay I had to consent to the elimination of half the ports of call asked for on the northern route. I was also promised at this time that the Federal Government—that a boat would be renovated to take twenty-five passengers, and that was not done. I travelled on that boat when I saw a mother and her three weeks old infant, standing in the corridor, crying because she could not get a place to put her baby or lie down herself; I saw the people out on deck, covered with canvas; anybody who had a suitcase strong enough to sit on, they did so, or they just stood. In a country such as we have, the tenth Province of Canada which we all feel proud of, I don't think any man or any representative of this Assembly would stand for such conditions if they existed in their district.

When I made a protest, I find I get a letter of intimidation, that: if you come out in the open and fight, we will take one boat off altogether and put another on a trip of three weeks and tell the people why. In other words, you better keep quiet.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That was from the C.N.R.?

MR. DROVER: That is right.

This treatment led up to my expulsion from the Liberal Party. Simply because, perhaps, I had the grit to show my colours in looking after the people who elected me.

What do we want in White Bay? I will tell you one thing, Sir, I would like to see this administration do one thing, and I tell the Government to do: Give back to the people of White Bay the three-mile limit by which they can earn a living for themselves and for their families. We have in Harbour Deep, this year, hard working men going hungry, as when the last log is cut and put to the shore, they have to apply for food. Why must the lumber and timber rights be tied up and our people can't fell trees around the homes; they are living on Company land but they cannot cut the trees to get a living for their families, and you will find similar conditions around Baie Verte. It is not fair, Sir, not fair to the people who live in the northern part of our country.

I will just make mention of one more point and that is the fishery: Now you might say, "What does he know about the fishery?" When I was fifteen years old, I fished and trawled in 150 fathoms of water in Trinity Bay. We would use a roller and haul up 350 lines of mooring, and though I got sick, I thought I was as good as my father and I kept working. I understand what the ordinary fishermen of this country must go through, it is nothing new to me.

Now that we are having a Fishermen's Convention in Newfoundland, I am a hundred percent behind it because there has never yet been anything done for the fishermen of this country. Nobody seems to have done anything for the fishermen of this country from John Cabot up until today. Every Government says they are going to do something for the fishermen, they are the first and foremost.

No, Sir, it may be a little premature to have them in to St. John's before some plan has been worked out, I don't know, I am in the opposition, but I think a plan should have been outlined to the country, the people and fishermen should have had a chance to discuss it and then come in to St. John's and probably work out a solution. We should see that it would be above politics where I would like to see the fisheries. We want for our fishermen a set price; I have to disagree with the honourable member for Fogo when he said our fishermen of Newfoundland have pulled up their boats and that is where they will stay until there is a guaranteed price. That is wrong. Newfoundlanders who are fishermen are going to fish whether they have a guaranteed price for their fish or not, whether it is sold for $4 or $10, but, they should never be allowed to fish without a guaranteed price, but they are going to do it and it is going to be unfair to the fishermen of this country, and I in White Bay represent 2500 of them. But until the Government comes out with a guaranteed price, which they cannot do, they should inaugurate an insurance for the winter months when the men have no work and have done poorly during the summer, so they can draw something and not go back to the merchant and take out on next summer's catch. The Government can go to work on the prices and cut them in half. That is what I would like to see as the outcome of the Fishermen's Union; cut in half the prices, give them a chance to live. Take the boot from their necks, lift it up and give them a chance to set free their imprisoned souls. And the fisherman has a soul as white as any man in this country.

When the fishermen come in I hope they will organize through co-operatives, if private enterprise does not extend the fresh fish industry, which

I do know they won't, then the Government should assist these people to do it co-operatively. I know the fishermen of White Bay and the northern portion of this Island fish only three or four months of the year, but one thing should be done; organize, go ahead and organize and if it can't be done one way then do it co-operatively. But they must have this guarantee perhaps in the form of subsidies by the Government, then, I think we can do something, Sir, and I believe the Government will do something for the fishermen of this country.

Now, that is just about all, Mr. Speaker, I did not make any notes, I did not intend to speak so long and I tried to be fair and to treat the members of this House as if we were one great body. I will tell you why: I may have a poor definition of politics, but I think whether we are members of the Government, the Opposition or Independent, we are an elected body of the people, by the people of this country. I am one of these from the fishing boats, the lumber woods where I worked and where the labourer goes up to his knees digging, I have done that too. Many fine people come out of such homes who have an idea, a desire, a wish, something they would like to do to help build and uplift the lot of their fellowmen. Well I regard this assembly in that nature, we should not be cutting the throat of our fellowmen and saying bad things, all the bad things we can against them. Now in the opposition, we may be fighting you, a good opposition is the life of a government, but there are times when for the common good of the people of our country, and I think, Sir, such times should come more often, everybody should get together and work for the larger good and one end. I say that most sincerely, I have no grudge in me against the administration. I was elected by White Bay. I have no personal grudge against the Premier. I am a Liberal. I did not cross this Assembly nor now appeal to the people, but while God gives me breath to speak in their defence I hope I shall fulfill faithfully the trust which has been entrusted to me.

MR. COURAGE: Mr. Speaker, I must congratulate my friends the honourable member for Labrador and the honourable member for Fogo for their very fine speeches. The honourable member for Labrador gave one of the finest addresses that I have ever listened to, and the honourable member for Fogo, while I did not agree with everything he said, yet he impressed me very much. Mr. Speaker, these are just young men, they are new to this House, as we all are, but I predict for them a very distinguished career in politics in this country. I say "Politics" advisedly because there should be no evil attached to this word; it is a fine word, and there is nothing wrong with the word politician either.

I must also congratulate my friend the honourable member for Harbour Main and Bell Island, and I say my friend advisedly too, for the fine speech he gave. The only thing it was rather short and seemed to me to lack his usual vigorous style. I was sorry that the honourable gentleman sat down because, as he said, his health did not permit him to say more. I do hope, Mr. Speaker, and I know it is the hope of every one in this Assembly that the honourable gentleman's health will improve so that when he next speaks it will be with his usual spice and vigour.

We have just listened to a very fine and very sincere speech given by the honourable member for White

Bay who has been a friend of mine for the past sixteen years. We were teachers together and we attended the same summer school together for the same grade in 1945. I knew him when he was a ranger. He is a very fine type of person indeed and the vigour and sincerity with which he spoke one can note. But I do notice that he was somewhat confused in his blame. For some time he spoke to us here about the faults of the CNR and about receiving intimidating letters. We have nothing here to do with the CNR; we cannot dictate its policies in the least. But I was happy to know that he has no animosity towards the people on this side of the House, and I am sure the people over here have no animosity towards him.

I am sincere, Sir, when I make those speeches of friendship, as, Mr. Speaker, there is a total lack of animosity in this chamber, such as there never was before in the history of this country.

I know whereof I speak and that some sections of the press are rather puzzled by what is going on here. They say: "You people should be at one another's throats and fighting and shaking your fists at one another. You must be a white livered bunch." They need not be so, we may shake our fists and rant and roar but that is because we are Newfoundlanders, not because we have any ill feeling for one another. We are bound to fall out sometimes. When I visited my district last fall, a friend of mine told me this little story: He has a five-year-old daughter. She listens to the radio reports and heard about the House opening this Spring, which confused her and she asked her father: "If the House opens will the people fall out." Her father who had been a member of the National Convention replied, "There is nothing surer than that, my dear." Sure we are going to fall out, have differences of opinions, but these differences should not leave their scar on any of us. We will, I am certain, and I can assure the member for White Bay, we will work together for the common good of Newfoundland, as Newfoundlanders.

I was very amused at my honourable friend the member for Harbour Main-Bell Island. He wanted to say something nasty to us, so he looked over here and said "Rubber Stamps." Whenever the Opposition wants to say something nasty, they say "Rubber Stamps."

Mr. Speaker, we are not rubber stamps, can't the Opposition or this country visualize that a group of people who share their feelings so much they can work together without falling out. They may have differences of opinion but it is not necessary for me to turn on my friend because he represents St. John's and I Fortune Bay which are as far apart as East and West. We have, in a large measure, a common background, we have a common heritage, we have many ideas and principles in common and our political ideologies are such that we do agree on measures put before this House and we are not rubber stamps. The honourable the Premier does not know what I am going to say, I have no written speech; the honourable Premier did not know what my honourable friend the member for Fogo is going to say, he knew himself but nobody else knew. We are allowed to stand here and say whatever we want to say. To take advantage of our God-given speech. Probably my friends in the Opposition can't understand this, but it is so.

I do not agree with what my honourable friend for Fogo said. He attacked, in one sense I suppose one might term it as an attack, denominational education. Now, I have been a teacher for quite a number of years and I am quite familiar with the denominational system of education, but I would not attack it. It is true there may be some things wrong with it, but it is the best system for Newfoundland and it does not impair very much the efficiency of our education. There is only 15% of the total places of this Island where there are two schools. The other 85% have only one school, and in many of the 15% which have two schools, they are dictated geographically rather than denominationally. For example I know places like Lamaline where there are three schools; one Catholic, two Church of England separated by about twenty minutes walk, and there are other settlements where there are two sides to the harbour in one settlement; a Church of England school on one side and a Roman Catholic School on the other. I, myself, have taught in that type of school where Roman Catholics attended my school and the Church of England children on the other side attended the Catholic school. There are a few flagrant instances, but no Government, least of all this Government would dream of interfering with our system at this time. I say this because some people have said to me: "Was that a trial balloon on the part of the Government?" they wondered if we could get up and say what we wanted to say, they wondered if it were a trial balloon, and I can assure you that it was not. The honourable member for Fogo was speaking for himself, expressing his own opinion, just as I can't let this opportunity pass without mentioning turrs.

I was very glad to see that the turr has become very important. The humble turr, I believe the turr should supercede the dove as the symbol of peace for the turr seems to have united Ottawa; we get Gordon Higgins speaking to Chesley Carter—Pearson agreeing with Drew, all because of the turr —The lion will lie down with the lamb.

I do hope though, frankly, that an arrangement may be made whereby we will be allowed to kill turrs, because I am very fond of turrs as are most of the people in my district. Killing turrs is a lot of fun and it is not one-sided as the turr has a very good chance to get away and often does.

Very seriously, Mr. Speaker, this Government has plans for some things in the future but we are apt to forget what this Government has already done. Do you know that the number of things for the benefit of Newfoundland which this Government has already done are almost incredible; almost unbelievable that a Government could do so much in so short a time.

Roads—for example: The Trans-Canada Highway. This highway for many, many years has been dreamed of, a road right across the country and a ferry service linking us with the Mainland. That in itself is something for the Government to do. If it had done nothing else it is worth being remembered for. And look at all the other roads being built in this country at the present time and I may mention here that since last year when I spoke, made a strong plea for the road at Bay L'Argent, the people of Bay L'Argent and Fortune Bay are very, very happy when I visited them last Fall that this road is being undertaken. It will mean another link in the chain against isolation for Fortune Bay.

Medical services have been greatly improved since this Government came into power. For example, there was only one doctor in Fortune Bay and Hermitage Bay when I was elected and at the present time there are four; two very fine medical boats—A wonderful service in Fortune Bay and Hermitage, and the people are very grateful to this Government, and asked me to express their thanks. I may mention that things are not yet perfect for the doctor at Belloram, he has too much to do, I hope my honourable friend the Minister of Health is listening—he has more to do than one person can possibly do but he is a fine man, doing a good job.

And look at the Welfare measures. I am not going to say very much because my honourable friend the Minister of Welfare will be getting up in a few moments and I don't want to steal his thunder, and he will tell you more than I am able to do but here are a few facts and figures, with his consent.

Old Age Pensions—486 people receiving more than $18,000; Blind Pensions—11 people receiving $440 per annum; Dependents Allowances—205 people receiving nearly $7,500; Mothers' Allowances 111 people receiving $5,000; and we have another 904 people receiving benefits of more than $3,000 a month. More than a third of a million dollars going into that one district and, Mr. Speaker, this money is not wasted, it is not political bait; these people badly need the money. I may say the reason is due to the fact that it is a deep sea fishing area and many who go out in the Spring do not come home in the Fall. Every year there is a loss, every year some men who do not return, and what had the widow and children to live on, probably nothing until the Government stepped in and helped out these people and, who dares to say that that help should have been denied them. Mr. Speaker, I doubt if any Government ever had the welfare of fishermen at heart as this Government has. The fisherman, whether on the Bill of Cape St. George or on the Bill of the Burin Peninsula, is no longer a forgotten man.

This Government instituted something no Government ever dared to do before, an enquiry into the price of fish paid to fishermen. This Government has set up a committee of very distinguished men to go into the whole matter of the fishery and bring back a report to this Government. Fishermen loan boards have been set up and last, but not least, this Government has encouraged the fishermen to unite into a strong union.

I could not agree with what my honourable friend the member for White Bay said about the Government setting a policy and then having the fishermen decide on that policy. That would be putting the cart before the horse. No, the first thing would be to get the fishermen to desire to unite. That desire they already have, the fishermen realize that in unity there is strength, they realize there is a need for the union, but they do not know how to bring about that union, a strong union of fishermen and by coming here to St. John's, by getting together, by talking things over they may find the answers to the question, may decide their own policy. We cannot, in this House, we dare not impose a policy on fishermen regarding their own union, it would be folly for us, it would be putting the cart before the horse. We will help, we will encourage them, but it will be their challenge, their union, they will be free.

I repeat what I said before, this Government, more than any other Government probably, has the fishermen's interest at heart. We realize that the fishermen, the fisheries must be developed in this country, and the Government will do what it can to encourage and develop this industry.

The birch industry will be a very good thing for this country, as it will be for my district, which has probably the largest stand of birch in this country, at Bay L'Argent, Bay D'Espoir. And speaking of Bay D'Espoir, I feel sure the development of Bay D'Espoir must come. It has a wonderful harbour, magnificent scenery and tourist attractions, great rivers. It is free from fog, it has an ideal climate, it has good agricultural land, it has abundant labour, abundant cheap water power.

The Government has for consideration, or will have very shortly two reports, one on a pulp and paper mill from I.B.E.C. and one on water power from Power Corporation of Canada. I could not speak for the Government in this matter, I could not promise the people of Bay D'Espoir anything, I do not know whether the development will come, but they should not be disappointed if the development does not come until later, but I do know this: the Government will give the matter earnest and sincere consideration. I know this Government would like to see the development come and I feel sure it will come some day within the not too distant future.

Mr. Speaker, this Government was given a mandate by the people; this Government found a challenge, there is so much to be done in this country. This Government will accept that challenge, will attack that problem which must be met with vigour and determination to succeed.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Mr. Speaker, in taking part in this debate Sir, I should like to remind the House that since they last met, Your Honour represented this House and the people at a meeting of the Parliamentary Commonwealth Association in New Zealand. I have good reason to say that in the proceedings of that notable assembly your contribution was such, Sir, as to bring honour to yourself and Newfoundland.

It is likewise more than a formality when I join with previous speakers in paying my compliments to the mover and seconder to the Speech from the Throne. Their addresses were more than ordinary speeches, indeed they proclaimed convictions with which, I believe, most in this House can whole-heartedly agree. They are conspicuous for what they contained rather than what they omitted.

Now I should like, at the outset, to declare the frame or pattern in which my few remarks will be laid. I should like to draw attention to what the Government, in the Speech from the Throne, intends to do, and what is indicated in the Speech that may be done, apart from what the Government intends to do, and in the course of doing so, I should like to place against that back-ground the question: What are we then, as a community expected to do—what does all of this mean to us as citizens?

The Speech lays great stress on proper utilization of our natural resources. As the Minister of Public Welfare, I should like to draw some attention to our human resources, and how we may use them for the greater good of our Island Province. It is, Sir, in this context then that I refer to one question which was raised early in the Speech from the Throne which has to do with Old Age Pensions. I am not going to speak any longer than necessary on these pensions, but I believe it is worth introducing at this time, because what I have to say refers to new developments.

Last year the Government was represented at the Dominion Provincial Conference held in Ottawa, which discussed a plan. A parliamentary committee on old age pensions will recommend that certain portions be adopted by parliament. Now, Sir, these proposals, I believe, have been covered pretty accurately in the press and other ways. The proposals are as follows:

There should be a contributory system of old age pensions insurance administered by the Federal Government to make $40 a month universally available to all people in Canada over 70 years of age.

Some of the new features to which I made reference a few moments ago are these: The plan can transfer the principle of financing old age pensions by contributions from individuals and employers; as already indicated can extend old age assistance to needy persons 65 to 69 years of age; the contribution to be made on pay as you go basis, and so build up reserves for financing of old age pensions. Our Government, through their representatives took part in this and by their reply recently made their point of view known. During this meeting we were given figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showing how many people in Newfoundland over seventy and between sixty-five and sixty-nine years of age. The figures which I am about to quote or make reference to now, are intended to show what difference it would mean between our present plan and financing the new plan. What is the difference in cost between our present plan whereby we pay one quarter of the pension for those 70 years of age and over and the new plan whereby we would have to pay no pensions for those 70 years of age and over but half the pension for those between sixty-five and sixty-nine, and on the basis of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures we are given to understand it would cost less on the new plan than on the old plan. That looks attractive. Though we understand a new group, it was calculated nearly five thousand pensioners, would be brought in under the new plan; and still it would cost us thirty thousand dollars less.

Now I have had my staff examine these figures given by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and they seem to be lower than we estimate. They give eleven thousand and ninety, estimated number of pensioners now on the roll; in fact we have eleven thousand, four hundred and twelve at the moment. They calculated on the other hand forty-nine hundred and fifty-four between sixty-five and sixty-nine and we estimate it will probably be more like fifty-seven hundred. Now I raise this point because these new figures I have quoted seem to confirm the things we know. The number of people in the old age bracket is going to increase. Life is like that, our better health conditions and standards of living will mean the life span and the numbers in the older age groups will increase, there will be more in these brackets. Furthermore, as industrialization and more technical knowledge is required, more people will be getting out of work earlier by displacement and more will be in need, then this figure of thirty thousand dollars saving may not only be decreased but it may even vanish.

Now, why have I mentioned all those facts which, on the face of them, look negative. I have, because I want to draw attention to the tremendous factor of cost which is involved in old age pensions; millions of dollars in fact. Whether it is this Government which is sponsoring old age pensions, or any other Government which might at any other time succeed this Government, this fact of many millions will remain as this system is here, as far as we can see, to stay.

Now let us look at the positive side, the fact that it is here to stay. We have heard a great deal of family allowances and their social and spiritual effect. It is possibly not so readily recognized that the old age pensions are in many ways quite comparable to family allowances in effect. One has only to go through our rural communities where in every community there are the aged ones; has only to visualize; one going through these communities is impressed by the fact as he sees these pensioners and talks with them that new life and new hope have come into their minds. There is perhaps no group in our community within the last few years that our mode of living so changed, so fundamentally changed as the aged people in our midst, and I am glad to note so many of them here today with us.

Now it is no use going on reiterating incoherent curses about the "Welfare State" because charitable organizations and industrial pensions have not been able to take care of the job on a comprehensible basis such as is under consideration in Newfoundland and practically everywhere in the civilized world. Only indomitable courage and systematic organization can guarantee that nobody in need is left out.

I should like to draw attention to one fact, old age has its commercial value to us and we have not fully exploited it. The present trend is to regard the man of seventy as expendable, but what we are gradually coming to see is that the man of 70 and over is coming into his own, has a new light in his eye and a buoyancy in his outlook, a lilt in his step. There is a new place for him in the community, and these are values which we should not underestimate. For age perhaps will consider its opportunity no less than youth though in a different dress.

Now, Sir, here quietly, pervasively, peacefully there is a social revolution going on in our midst and, may I tell the honourable Leader of the Opposition, if I may, revolutions can be brought peacefully and those most significant for the future of the human race are of that category. We have here, Sir, a social revolution, not one that is drastic and bloody but peaceful, pervasive and civilized.

The government then through the organized means placed at its disposal, dollars and cents and staff, have undertaken, as I said, to lift up the moral of a great number of our people. What does this mean for us—I think it should mean for the rest of us who have strong hands, steady feet and clear eyes, those of us who still have youth in our veins, that we produce all we can for those, because we are all better off when our senior citizens are better off.

Now, Sir, I come to another phase, the phase which really characterizes the Speech from the Throne; that is the question of industrial economy which is another aspect of the fundamental change coming over our Island. Whether initiated by the Government or initiated through other means does not matter for the purpose of my remarks, because both are indicated in the speech itself. If, Sir, there is anything notable about the mission of this Government, if there is anything special about the point of view of the Government, it is the fact that we are endeavouring to make the maximum use of our own natural resources, our own energies for discovery of our own resources. That policy needs no justification from me and so I return to the original question—What does this all mean to us as citizens? Because boiled down it has to do with the wherewithal of human life. We may think in terms of dollars and cents and such items but when the case is revealed, the case has to do with some human life. I want to indicate, first of all, the effects of this industrialization on population. I made some calculations here, Sir, about where our people are living, about what section of our residents move hither and thither, where do they go and to what extent?

I took twelve communities in Newfoundland which have to do, directly or indirectly, with industries and their combined population was 48,700 people in 1921. In 1945, 81,000 people were living in these same places, an increase of sixty-eight percent in 35 years, and these last figures are five years old, so that we may expect the new figures to be up even more. The increase in population in these industrial settlements:

Bell Island
 Botwood
 Buchans
 Corner Brook
 Curling
 Deer Lake
 Grand Falls
 Windsor
 St. Lawrence
 Humbermouth
 St. John's.

an increase of 68% whereas the population of Newfoundland as a whole increased only about 22% during the same period. In other words these particular places were increasing more than three times as fast in population than other settlements.

Now, Sir, this Government is well aware of the magnitude of the job it has undertaken; it is committed to that job; it not no more turn back from its commitments, nor wish to, than it can stop the inrush of the sea flood, any more than one can turn back in the middle of a dive (and I hope the honourable Leader of the Opposition won't be unkind enough to turn that remark, this figure of speech, against me when he addresses the House—just a bit of anticipation.)

How else can we pay for the undertakings we have anticipated. How can we raise the taxable capacity of our people either for social security or public services.

The Government is well aware it has automatically raised certain problems for itself and problems for the people. This matter of centralization of our population, it is in many respects quite desirable. We have shown here today how desirable it is that our people should congregate together where the services that they should expect to receive would be, by that very fact, improved. But let us say this: when they do congregate, the cost of public services increase proportionately. To service education alone in any of these larger settlements costs many times as much as it cost to service a similar unit in a smaller place. But again, that better education given in these larger settlements is a factor.

But at the same time the little places still remain, the smaller communities are not denuded completely, there is always the remnants left. The smaller services still have to go on, must be maintained for the residual population.

Now there is another problem, the more mechanical our industries become, the more mechanized is our society, the more the unskilled worker finds it difficult to find his place in that scheme of things. The unskilled worker tends to be left outside in a mechanized age. Anyone administering, trying to find jobs for people over the years, will know it is the coming increasingly difficult for the unspecialized person to find a proper place.

A few weeks ago we conducted a survey, in the Department of Public Welfare, on our prisoners who were discharged or at that time in prison, one hundred and twenty of them, and we found a considerable disproportion of them were unskilled persons who had no trade, who had not the wherewithal to learn a trade, who are bound to be left behind in the keen race to live. I say disproportionate because the number was disproportionate to the population on the whole. The unskilled among the prisoners are greater than among the population at large.

Now, sir, I just selected another example, and I select it in the absence of the honourable senior member for Bell Island-Harbour Main, but I selected it only to amplify what I have in mind.

It is a matter of gratification that that which has had its ups and downs, its industrial ups and downs, is now witnessing its greatest upsurge of prosperity in its history. So considerable is that upsurge that it will have a positive effect for good upon the whole community, the whole Island community. However, our Welfare Officer on Bell Island made it his business, because he knew a great many people were still without work, to inquire into the actual details of the number of people employed on Bell Island and these figures have been checked by the management, and I have heard from the Manager as well. He told us that there were, at the time of writing in February, a total of 1,872 workers, including 120 casual workers, being 328 workers less than the number employed during the peak period 1949. Now, the Manager makes this figure and according to our own report, which agrees with data over a period of years for Welfare Officers we can amplify it to this extent: According to our own report we do not believe that more than 125 men are idle who previously worked with the Company. The balance to make up the 300, we believe, are men of working age and having no previous employment with this Company. Now when we take the example in a large figure I venture to presume that the bulk of these men are men who have been left behind in the competition for jobs, they are not qualified in a mechanized system to get a job. Furthermore, as far as Bell Island is concerned, it is quite possible they may not get any other form of work, so they are thrown back on able bodied relief, as far as we know.

Now, unfortunately, there is another aspect of this; a man out of a job for some time becomes unemployed, and in terms of human welfare that is a very serious matter. Therefore, it is with considerable relief we find a happy reference in the Speech from the Throne to vocational training, which is a fundamental step towards correcting a situation of this kind, training men who otherwise might not be able to take part in the business of enabling this country to raise the living standards, turn over the machinery of this province.

It would be a long term undertaking but the start is here. Now I should say something about vocational training, with deference to the Minister of Education now present: First, it is costly—far more costly per unit, far more costly to train a person in vocational training than it is to educate a person in the ordinary school. In the second place, Sir, I say that fundamental to vocational training is a sound academic training, let us not get away from that. Vocational training is not simply a matter of getting jobs, it is not a matter of bread and butter, mainly vocational education is not trade school training. Vocational training assumes that the person taking part, the person receiving it has to begin with, a sound academic training and that is far more important, that this is the sound basis in our mechanized life because we so often stand apart from one another, not knowing much about or being sympathetic with the other person's problems. That is because our elementary training has not gone far enough. For the plumber to know something about the history of his country is important. But I say this, the most pernicious effect of industrialization, either here or anywhere else, is this result, that it concentrates populations in a relatively few centres, and as we think of the centers we have in Newfoundland for instance, the characteristic about them is this, that these communities are made up largely of people from numerous other small settlements, the old stand-by settlements; people who have come from scores of different backgrounds into this new area with very little in common, wrenched from their old roots, wrenched from their old heritages, where they have had more community life in these little settlements than have ever been recognized or identified.

The job of getting that community to live together as a unit is an immense undertaking to give form and direction to that incoherent mass of humanity whether in Newfoundland or anywhere else. The old communities in Newfoundland where still the old loyalties live, the old virtues stand, are nevertheless being smothered. The old community is on the auction block—going, going, gone Nine-tenths of the people who talk about old St. John's, never knew a thing about old St. John's; it is gone, never to return, nor all your piety nor wit shall lure it back. Now Sir, I say that not with any feeling of homesickness because I am well aware the hills in the distance are never as green as we believe they are. Nevertheless, I think for us as statesmen here it ought to be of less concern to us as what is happening to our Island Province along the lines of how people live, how they move and have their being. It was in the new St. John's that tragedy of a few weeks ago stopped our consciences; in the new St. John's that this awful thing took place, and it could have happened only among people where one half of them do not know how the other half lives or had not a very informed conscience as to how they lived. It is becoming less relevant, Sir, less important, less significant to talk of individualism as if it were the crowning virtue; it is becoming less relevant to talk of rugged individualism, it just will not do, it will not do when we must be our brothers keeper to be civilized; it will not do to draw around us our blessed cloak of respectability and crawl away into our cramped corner and hide and let the wrack and ruin of contemporary developments not concern us. It is not relative to ordinary living, it does not belong, though we should like Mark Anthony, say: "Don't press upon me, don't come at me; leave me."

If, Sir, I sound too declamatory and withal pessimistic, I would remind the House that this is the Ides of March. But what a challenge to education is here. Time was when it was considered the virtue of education to stay within bounds and to abhor all challenges, but that phase, Sir, is dead, even if it refuses to be buried. Time was when it was considered a virtue to be tolerant, only to be tolerant, just tolerant, you put up with people; you don't actually go out and proclaim open hostility to them, you put up with them. But tolerance, like other good things, is just not enough. What we need, Sir, is active understanding and education that cultivate active understanding and education in the broadest sense of the word, which cultivates sympathy, which cultivates patience. The only education worthy of a civilized people, whatever else it does, should at least make it possible for us to realize as an actual practical factor of every day life that we are our brother's keeper. Now, Sir, that is why this Government is concerned about economic well being, realizing it is not enough but that there must grow also a correlative social welfare. It is very significant that we are not merely concerned with the mere earning a living but with the facts of how people like their lives. And that second consideration is not a little consideration.

Here, Sir, in St. John's I think I see such developments, that point of view of being honestly concerned about the way people live, I think that movement is developing, I think I see simmerings beneath the surface that our people are awakening to their corporal responsibilities. I wish it were more coherent, I wish it could get wrapped together into a pattern; I wish we would not stand on our respectability so much. I wish it were more spontaneous. I wish some of the moves which were initiated by the Department of Public Welfare had sprung from the masses, I wish it were so, but if not, it were better some other way than not at all. I think I see sparks which I hope we may fan into a glow, which will be warmer, which will make our society warmer and healthier than it has been and is now and I believe this Government, Sir, will cultivate in every way they can and sponsor and further that kind of development.

We have undertaken in various ways to bring the community together, to consider its own problems. We have gone publicly and maybe we should have stopped there, we probably went beyond our role as a Government but the time is so short and the need so desperate that we have probably taken initiative that very well should have come from other sources, but we have been encouraged because there are groups in the community out here who have themselves undertaken special tasks and they come to us in order that we may be able to further what they have undertaken. I can think of the service clubs, of various organizations who are anxious to do things; we have had, only recently, a number of meetings which we believe will be the forerunner of many such undertakings whereby St. John's will grow into more of a genuine community than probably it has ever been in modern days.

We are, sir, trying to stimulate public opinion of an active creative kind. We are being bold, but because a drastic, a subversive society requires that kind of treatment. In this matter of public opinion, I refer, I deviate for a moment to think of the contentious question of alcohol, and again on this ground, Sir, the Government has been altogether sensitive to public feeling where that feeling is expressed either by a large majority or a small majority, this Government, I think, is resilient, it is close to the people and if perhaps, as it is to be expressed, a gap exists between the Government and the people, be that gap great or small, that gap by ordinary democratic processes can be closed or nearly closed. No Government can stand long, away from the concerted wishes of the people, intelligent people, intelligently expressed. But on the question of alcohol my ideas are rather fluid. Whether a man should have one or two or three bottles a week, I am not qualified to judge. I will leave that to the department, I only know two or three spoonfuls would be enough to liquidate me. On this contentious matter, Sir, as on any other matter, the will of the people, intelligently expressed, will be something this Government will be very sensitive to at all times.

I feel like saying this: this question of drinking is not a fundamental problem, it is on the surface much for the same reason froth is on the surface. Now, I am quite aware of the entanglements of liquor on the homes and lives of people but I don't think that drinking could ever become a great problem in a society built by a consuming, creative purpose and I am not quite sure I am not thereby casting judgment upon our Western Civilization. It is always safe to pass judgment upon our civilization. I think this problem of drinking depends largely upon the civilized level of thought and living in a community and when any individual as well as any province or any state has committed itself wholly to a mission which is able to engage the earnest creative energy of men so they can't do anything else but think, and do it for man as well as the Creator's sake. I don't think such a civilization would have to worry about any problem of drink, and I will leave it there.

So we are back again to the community, and this last example of mine I shall again take from Bell Island:

Not once or twice in that island's history has it happened that after a long period of prosperity the people of Bell Island have had to go back on relief shortly after the work shut down; this has happened not only once or twice. Now-a-day, we have in addition to relief, its respectable cousin, Unemployment Insurance, at best only a palliative; and I have wondered if there is not a more intelligent way we can manage not only for Bell Island but for other communities as well, to have a plan put in circulation whereby a person who earned considerable for a time and then after a short period being no better off, could not by some means put by something to cover such a situation. Surely, it is a problem worth considering, and I have wondered whether the agencies concerned might not sit down and work out a system whereby self-imposed compulsory savings, voluntary compulsory savings might not be devised whereby the good earnings of fatter years may be carried over into the lean.

I know there are difficulties, maybe we shall be told it is impossible, but I would not accept that unless I knew it were definitely true. With the right motive, and under proper leadership, maybe something like this can be accomplished.

Mr. Speaker, my background in general as well as that timepiece reminds me I have come to the pillar of Hercules, and it is time for me to furl sail, but before doing so I should like to make a comment with regard to a fundamental study on the subject which is probably the most penetrating thing of its kind to come out in recent years. Here that author, studying what has been most effected by the many changes in recent times, in modern days, considers that the fundamental problem has nothing to do with wars, though he does not put it in that way. The fundamental problem, is the problem of what is happening to the rural communities where people are being and have been effected, by secularism if you will, but mainly by the old roots being torn up and the rural life destroyed. What can we do to preserve the community which is becoming frustrated and distorted without respect for its meaning; it is being broken down. We have the situation where people are living in a community without having the means of expressing themselves as a community. That is the great frustration, the tragedy of this age.

In a word, Sir, where we are so completely committed to getting and spending, we ought not to lose sight of the necessity of fostering these qualities of mind and spirit which are the basis of any real prosperity.

So to return to my original theme, the Government has taken the initiative to sponsor and promote economic well being, but has not been at the same time, forgetful of the fundamental needs of encouraging and stimulating the best that is in man because they realize, where wealth accumulates, men may very well decay.

In our little Island community we are still largely unspoiled, and we still have robust reserves left that we should foster and further and one of our main commitments is the purpose to cultivate the resources of the community, to attain that goal of compassion and sense of independence without which any nation is very poor indeed.

In this I support the Government and I repeat that here are solid grounds for good cheer and forward looking hope.

MR. FOGWILL: If no other member would like to speak this afternoon, I would move to adjourn the debate until tomorrow.

Debate adjourned until tomorrow.

Third reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the Life Insurance Act, 1943."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of a Bill, "An Act to Amend the Insurance Premium (Tax) Act, 1950."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the Agreement for Policing the Province Act, 1949."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of a Bill "An Act to Facilitate the Enforcement of Maintenance and Orders."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the Nomenclature Board Act, 1938."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of a Bill "An Act Further to Amend Chapter 76 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series), entitled 'Of the Permanent Marine Disaster Fund.'"

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Shops Act, 1940."

Bill read a third time and passed.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the remaining Orders of the Day be deferred.

Remaining orders were deferred.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the House at its rising do adjourn until tomorrow, Friday, at three of the clock.

House adjourned accordingly.

FRIDAY, March 16, 1951.

The House opened at three of the clock.

Presenting Petitions

A petition was presented by Mr. Button from Sunnyside and Centre Cove, re Bridge.

Giving Notice of Motions and Questions

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave of the House to introduce a Bill, "An Act to Amend the Accident Insurance Companies (Licensing) Act, 1939."

Also,

A Bill "An Act to Amend the Industrial Development Loan Act, 1949."

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave of the House to introduce a Bill "An Act Relating to Local Government."

Also,

A Bill "An Act to Regulate The Development of Local Areas."

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave of the House to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Workmen's Compensation Act."

Also,

A Bill "An Act to Amend the Boiler and Pressure Vessel Act, 1949."

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave of the House to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Memorial University Act, 1949."

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave of the House to introduce a Bill

"An Act to Amend the Fisheries Loan Act."

Also, Mr. Speaker, I beg leave to lay on the Table of the House an agreement between the Government and Andrews Labrador Fisheries as requested.

MR. SPEAKER: Question 42—Mr. Fogwill, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Finance.

MR. SMALLWOOD: 42 (6): What is the total number of taverns now operating in Newfoundland, who are the licence holders, what fee is paid. There is an increase of 29 taverns since the Act was passed here. I have here a list:

NAME OF TAVERN	LOCATION	LICENCE ISSUED TO	FEE
Cross Keys	Duckworth St.	V. W. Andrews	$250.00
Archibald's Hotel	Harbour Grace	Rose Archibald	200.00
Ash's Tavern	Harbour Grace	J. M. Ash	200.00
Popular Tavern	Curling	J. Basha	250.00
Bradbury's Tavern	Bay Roberts	E. J. Bradbury	150.00
Hamilton Inn	Hamilton Ave.	T. J. Brownrigg	250.00
Byrne's Tavern	Donavan's	G. Byrne	250.00
Belmont Tavern	New Gower St.	James Byrne	250.00
Cahill's	Placentia	Mrs. M. Cahill	200.00
Campen Inn	Duckworth St.	Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Penney	250.00
Corbage's	Corner Brook	Mrs. M. Corbage	250.00
Cranford's	New Harbour	A. B. Cranford	125.00
Curran's	Gambo	Thomas Curran	250.00
Bennett's	Holyrood	Mrs. Hilda Davis	200.00
Dick's Tavern	Bell Island	Walter Dicks	250.00
Didham's	Colinet	Mrs. Didham	200.00
Doyle's	Conception Hr.	M. F. Doyle	250.00
Ringside Tavern	Queen's Road	Thos Dunne Ltd.	250.00
Riviera, The	Water Street	Mrs. E. Foote	250.00
Furey's	Holyrood	Mrs. W. Furey	200.00
Gander Tavern	Gander	Gander Tavern Co.	250.00
Green Lantern, The	Water Street	T. Garland	250.00
Geehan's	Topsail	Mrs. M. Geehan	250.00
Hillview Inn	Duckworth St.	Hillview Inn Co.	250.00
Gosse's	New Gower St.	Mrs. A. Gosse	250.00
Butterpot Inn	Holyrood	J. J. Hickey	200.00
Hutching's Tavern	Whitbourne	Aaron Hutchings	200.00
Hutching's	Bell Island	Max Hutchings	250.00
Ritz Tavern, The	New Gower St.	Ritz Tavern Co.	250.00
Hilltop Inn	Cookstown Rd.	Mrs. B. Kelly	250.00
Kelly's	Avondale	Mrs. T. Kelly	200.00

NAME OF TAVERN	LOCATION	LICENCE ISSUED TO	FEE
Liddy's	Torbay	Mrs. M. Liddy	250.00
Lundrigan's	Colinet	A. Lundrigan	200.00
McCarthy's	Corner Brook	Mrs. M. McCarthy	250.00
Beachview Hotel	Stephenville Xing	Mrs. M. McFatrige	250.00
McLean's	Mackinsons	J. A. McLean	200.00
Cabot Hotel	Brigus	John Marshall	200.00
Club Commodore	Torbay	C. Martin	250.00
Miller's	Curling	Mrs. G. Miller	250.00
Murrin's	Spaniard's Bay	L. Murrin	150.00
Cuban Tavern	Deer Lake	John Noah	250.00
Noseworthy's	Bay Roberts	A. Noseworthy	150.00
O'Toole's	Conception Hr.	R. O'Toole	150.00
Middleton Inn	Bell Island	E. Parsons	250.00
Bar 50	Whitbourne	Mrs. E. Peckford	200.00
Cottage Gardens	Freshwater Road	E. Phelan	250.00
Piercey's	Kelligrews	A. Piercey	200.00
Power's	Dunville	Gerald Power	200.00
Power's Tavern	Salmonier	Jack Power	200.00
Station Tavern	Hutchings St.	Mrs. Rowe	250.00
Argyle Hotel	Botwood	Mrs. A. Ryall	250.00
Crosbie Tavern, The	Duckworth St.	William Spurrell	250.00
Sterling Tavern	Holdsworth St.	W. Sterling	250.00
Queen Tavern	Queen Street	Charles Truscott	250.00
Vail's	St. Mary's	Mrs. E. M. Vail	100.00
Veteran's Inn, The	Torbay	Messrs. Cole & LeMessurier	250.00
Walsh's	Goulds	Mrs. P. Walsh	250.00
Wheeler's	Curling	Mrs. M. Wheeler	250.00
Whelan's	Corner Brook	J. W. Whelan	250.00
Park Inn, The	Water Street	Park Inn Company	250.00
William's Tavern	Bay Bulls	Mary Williams	200.00
Collin's Tavern	Chamberlains	James Collins	250.00
Parson's Tavern	Seal Cove	R. Parsons	200.00
Jim's Tavern	Water Street	James White	250.00
Junction Tavern, The	Notre Dame Junc.	Messrs. Woolfrey & Moore	250.00
Albert's Tavern	Harbour Main	Mrs. A. Furey	200.00
Oasis, The	Grand Falls	James Constable	250.00
Caribou Tavern, The	Deer Lake	Albert Boulos	250.00
Sports Tavern	Boncloddy St.	W. Ashley	250.00
Green's Tavern	Bishops Falls	Gordon Green	250.00
Harbour Inn, The	Duckworth St.	Kevin Darcy	250.00
Corner Tavern	Hayward Ave.	Georgetown Realty Co.	250.00

The Board has set a minimum fee of $100 which amount goes up to $250 per tavern where the volume of business available justifies it, so that licences vary from $100 to $250.

(3) The Revenue paid the Finance Control, April 1, 1950, to February 28, 1951, $1,850,000.

42 (7): Did the Board of Liquor Control purchase a motor van, at what price, from whom, were tenders called?

The Board purchased a new van in 1950, price $1,833. It was purchased from Ford Sales and Services Company. No tenders were called as the Board considered the discount of $235.96 less than list price was the best that could be secured at the time. That was done, I think, through the Department of Supply.

I may say, in connection with this, Mr. Speaker, that there are in Newfoundland today at least 1250 settlements and towns with no taverns whatsoever. All the taverns there are in Newfoundland are situated in fewer than fifty settlements. In the whole province there are twelve electoral districts without even one tavern. Labrador, White Bay, Twillingate, Fogo, Bonavista South, Trinity North, Carbonar-Bay de Verde, Placentia West, Burin, Fortune-Hermitage, Burgeo and LaPoile, St. Barbe. Twelve districts without one tavern between them all. Besides which there is Green Bay which makes it thirteen. In the District of Bonavista North there is one tavern, Ferryland, one tavern, St. George's-Port au Port, two taverns.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I have just one other point to add, I have two tables which just arrived a moment ago which show sales of liquors, spirits, for the 12 months immediately after the new policy came into effect.

Comparative Sales of Spirits from 1st April to 28 February

1949-50	1950-51
948,467 bottles	850,871 bottles
Decrease 97,596 bottles
Decrease 10.28%.

One result of the policy, the price of liquors went up and the sales decreased nearly one hundred thousand bottles, a decrease roughly of 10% in the sales of bottles.

I have one other table which is rather more striking:

Production of Rum in Board's Blending Department

11 Months to 28 February

1949-50	1950-51
514,140 bottles	381,592 bottles
Decrease 132,548 bottles
Decrease 25.78%.

This means the bottling and blending.

MR. JACKMAN: What with?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Machinery and hard labour. I imagine there are people who find it hard to overcome the effects of it. A decrease of 132,548 bottles, this despite the fact, as my honourable friends opposite are so well aware that the latter of these two periods was the more prosperous in Newfoundland. So that in a more prosperous period we have had a decrease in the sale of hard liquor which is very gratifying indeed. My honourable friends will agree that if our policy continues to be successful it must mean a decrease in revenue for the treasury in which case some other means will have to be found to make up this lost revenue.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, on the 13th of March the honourable member for St. John's East (Mr. Fogwill) asked the honourable the Premier—

18. To table a statement regarding the freight rate dispute, showing all particulars, such as the number of firms or persons employed, salaries, travelling expenses, fees, etc., paid or still to be paid on this account; state what in the opinion of the Government is the approximate total amount paid in excess of the adjusted freight rates as from April 1st, 1949, to the date when the adjusted rates come into effect also inform the House if, in the opinion of the Government, a substantial lowering of the cost of consumer goods at retail prices will result.

19. If it is the intention of the Government to pursue this matter further in respect to having the adjusted rates made retroactive to April 1st, 1949.

Answer: As this matter came wholly under my care as Attorney General, the honourable the Premier has asked me to prepare the statement required. This I am most happy to do.

Prior to the entry of Newfoundland into Confederation the Government of Canada had appointed a Royal Commission on Transportation. This Commission presided over by the Honourable W. F. A. Turgeon, K.C., LL.D., and consisting also of Dr. Henry Forbes Angus, and Dr. Harold Adams Innis, was instructed to—

(a) review and report upon the effect, if any, of economic, geographic or other disadvantages under which certain sections of Canada find themselves in relation to the various transportation services therein, and recommend what measures should be initiated in order that the national transportation policy may best serve the general economic well-being of all Canada:

(b) review the Railway Act with respect to such matters as guidance to the Board in general freight rate revisions, competitive rates, international rates, etc., and recommend such amendments therein as may appear to them to be advisable;

(c) review the capital structure of the Canadian National Railway Company and report on the advisability (or otherwise) of establishing and maintaining the fixed charges of that Company on a basis comparable to other major railways in North America;

(d) review the present-day accounting methods and statistical procedure of railways in Canada, and report upon the advisability of adopting, (or otherwise), measures conducive to uniformity in such matters, and upon other related problems such as depreciation accounting, the segregation of assets, revenues and other incomes, etc., as between railway and non-railway item;

(e) review and report on the results achieved under the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Act, 1933, and amendments thereto, making such recommendation as the present situation warrants;

(f) report upon any feature of the Railway Act, (or railways legislation generally) that might advantageously be revised or amended in view of present-day conditions.

As a Province of Canada, Newfoundland came within the scope of the Enquiry. The Government accordingly instructed Mr. Eric Cook, K.C., to attend certain preparatory meetings of a group representing the Atlantic provinces convened at Moncton, with a view to assisting in the preparation of a brief to be filed with the Commission on behalf of this Province. Mr. Cook attended these meetings and proceeded to ascertain what representations should be made on behalf of Newfoundland and Newfoundland interests and by whom.

After some weeks, finding that he could not place at the disposal of the Government the amount of time required to do full justice to such an important matter, Mr. Cook asked to be relieved of responsibility therefor, and was so relieved.

It was obviously impossible for the Attorney General and the officials of his Department to handle unassisted, in addition to their other duties, such an important public matter involving intensive and detailed studies and preparation.

We were fortunate, therefore, in retaining the services of Mr. P. J. Lewis, K.C., to act with and for the Attorney General in this matter.

The dispute relating to the freight rate structure imposed by the Canadian National Railways on traffic moving within, into and out of the Province of Newfoundland also dates back to the date of Confederation, at which time the tariffs governing these movements were published contemporaneously with their being put into effect. Immediately the tariffs were published, representations were received from the trade and otherwise, as to the inequity thereof, having regard to Term 32 (2) of the Terms of Union.

In due course, representations were made by the Government, with the co-operation of the trade, to the Minister of Transport at Ottawa, and through him to the Government of Canada. Meetings and consultations were held at Montreal and Ottawa; briefs were submitted and the matter discussed. The Federal Government ultimately recommended that the matter be taken before the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, for adjudication. In due course a formal application was made in the name of the Attorney General for the Province of Newfoundland to the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, for the cancellation of the freight rate fabric in effect in relation to traffic moving within, into and out of the Province, and to substitute therefor a scale of rates in conformity with that in effect in relation to similar movements of traffic within the Maritime region of Canada.

In due course a preliminary hearing was held at Ottawa, before the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada. At this hearing the Attorney General and Counsel for the Province were heard. This was to determine the question of law as to whether or not the Terms of Union superseded the Railway Act. In due course the Board ruled against Newfoundland and held that they did not, but were to be read subject to the terms and provisions of the Railway Act of Canada. The Province was by no means satisfied with this ruling and steps were thereupon taken for the appealing of this decision. An Appeal lay either to (1) His Excellency the Governor General of Canada (in Council) or (2) the Supreme Court of Canada. We had no doubt as to the understanding of those who had negotiated the Terms of Union. We had to decide whether (1) the Terms of Union as signed did in fact legally express the decisions reached at Ottawa, or (2) the Board of Transport Commissioners had correctly interpreted the Terms of Union. We decided to appeal to His Excellency the Governor General (in Council). To this end a petition was drafted, which in due course was personally presented to the Honourable the Prime Minister, at Ottawa, by me. As a result of further negotiations it was decided to allow the Case to be heard before the Board of Transport Commissioners in the hope that an examination of the facts might assist the Board in correctly interpreting the Terms of Union. In the event of an adverse decision an appeal still lay either to the Supreme Court of Canada or to His Excellency the Governor in Council, as we might elect.

A further application was then made to the Board for a continuation of the hearing and in due course the Board came to St. John's, Newfoundland, where the formal evidence of the Province was taken as well as that of the Railway in answer thereto. The taking of the evidence occupied ten days. The transcript of evidence covered 11,665 pages. At the conclusion of the evidence the further hearing was adjourned to Ottawa where argument took place on December 5th and 6th, 1950. Judgment was handed down on the 22nd day of January, 1951, and, I am pleased to say, the Province of Newfoundland was awarded judgment on all counts. A full presentation of all the facts had satisfied the Board that its previous decision had been in error.

The existing pattern of freight rates was cancelled and the Railways were ordered to put into effect a new fabric conforming with the Maritime Region structure; this applied to—

1. Through traffic from upper Canadian points to Newfoundland points;
2. To movements within the Island;
3. To inter-Provincial movements.

The application of town-distributing tariffs (C19) was left for negotiation between the parties, and I am now pleased to say that this tariff has been made effective by agreement.

The significance of this tariff is that it provides for a 20% reduction below standard mileage rates, which were those in effect in Newfoundland prior to March 1, 1951, on traffic moving between headline points. Further, the surcharge of ten cents per 100 lbs. which has been imposed on all traffic moving through Port aux Basques, was ordered cancelled. Two further points only await final adjustment: The question of commodity rates and pulpwood rates. Negotiations between the C.N.R. and representatives of the Government and the trade failed to produce agreement; so it was agreed to submit our differences to the Board of Transport Commissioners. This was attended to by me as Attorney General on my recent visit to the Mainland.

The time taken in the preparation, formulation and presentation of the Case, extended from August 1949 to December 1950.

Besides Counsel engaged, the following gentlemen were associated with the presentation of the case: Mr. Gerald Murphy, Mr. Edgar Miller, Mr. John Molloy, Mr. Arthur Johnson and Mr. Rand Matheson as Expert Advisor. All, without exception, worked assiduously towards the ultimate victory, but particular mention must be made of Mr. Gerald Murphy who was the principal witness for the Province at the taking of the evidence. Mr. Murphy was placed at our disposal by Bowaters and was four full days on the witness stand, during two of which he was under the keenest and closest cross-examination. Mr. Rand Matheson of the Maritime Board of Trade was of inestimable help in that he brought to the investigation a wealth of knowledge acquired from his extensive experience and great knowledge of freight rate technicalities. Mr. Edgar Miller and Mr. Arthur Johnson representing the trade, together with Mr. John P. Molloy representing the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company, Limited, worked in closest harmony with the Government, and served without remuneration. There was also an out-contribution. All those associated with me in this case would wish me to place on record their appreciation of the invaluable contribution made by our Premier, the Honourable J. R. Smallwood. As a member of the Ottawa delegation Mr. Smallwood had insisted that a clause be inserted giving Newfoundland freight rates based upon those prevailing in the Maritime Provinces. Such a clause was inserted, and the Honourable Mr. Smallwood, as Premier, made it quite clear to us all that our application to the Board was wholly in accord with the agreement made at Ottawa. The only question was, therefore, whether or not the Terms of Union as drafted, set forth in legal terms the agreement reached. His vivid memory of the detailed discussions at Ottawa and his insistence that we take Newfoundland's case, if necessary, to the highest court in the land, inspired us all with the justice of our application; and enabled us, notwithstanding a set-back at the preliminary hearing to prepare a case which proved unanswerable. I cannot emphasize too highly the value of the assistance given to us by our Premier.

The only Counsel engaged in this matter, in addition to the Attorney General, under whose guidance and direction the application was made and pursued, was Mr. P. J. Lewis, K.C. Mr. Lewis devoted very considerable time to the detailed preparation of Newfoundland's case and the thoroughness of his preparation and the clear presentation of his arguments were of invaluable assistance in satisfying the Board as to the equity of our application. For a time Mr. George C. McNameara was employed as Secretary, and Mrs. Hilda Finn as stenographer, both in relation to freight rates and the Royal Commission on Transportation. Disbursements amounted to $13,212.21, as appears from the summary annexed hereto.

The question of fees to be paid has not yet been considered (the case cannot yet be looked upon as finally closed), but $9,000 has been paid on account. No bills have been presented. It has been recommended that special consideration be given by the Government to Mr. Gerald F. Murphy for the valuable services which he rendered in this case.

It is difficult to estimate with accuracy, the amount paid between April 1, 1949 and March 1, 1951 as excess freight rates having regard to the adjusted rate put into effect pursuant to the Board's judgment. This would entail a detailed examination of innumerable bills of lading and shipping bills issued during the period in question. But, after consultation with Counsel and those closely connected with the freight rates problem, I am advised that the over-riding saving to the Province is, and will be, closely within the figure of $2,920,000.00 per annum.

Examination of data discloses that the volume of local traffic moving under town-distributing tariffs (C19) is 100,000 tons, and the resultant reduction below standard mileage rates, which were previously in effect is $3.00 per ton, aggregating a saving of $300,000.00 per annum, on this movement.

With regard to through-traffic, that traffic moving from the Mainland into the Province and vice versa, that portion of the traffic moving under class rates alone, has been subject to an overriding reduction of $6.00 per ton. The volume of traffic moving through Sydney—Port aux Basques, has increased from 65,000 tons in 1948 to 120,000 tons in 1950. The effective saving to the Province in this movement alone, is $720,000.00 per annum. This makes a grand total of $1,020,000 per annum saved, on rail traffic only, and exclusive of traffic moving under commodity rates.

This saving does not take into consideration the volume of traffic moving by water, either directly under shipping bills of lading from Mainland ports, or under through bills of lading issued by the Railways. The closest figures obtainable indicate that the volume of traffic moved by water, exclusive of bulk cargoes, is 300,000 tons.

As the Railways have been the compelling factor in the settling of rates, the water rates have since Confederation been related to the rail rates. Thus, it follows, that with the reduction in the rail rate, one of two things must happen: either the water carriers must reduce their traffis to the level of the rail rates, or the Railways must provide facilities to move the traffic otherwise. The reduction in the rate, therefore, will be $6.00 per ton in order to conform with the rail rate, which will give a saving of $1,800,000.00 on water carriage alone. The aggregate saving, therefore, is $2,820,000.00 made up as follows:

On rail movement of local and through traffic..... $1,020,000.00

On traffic moved by water	1,800,000.00
	$2,820,000.00

Possibly the most important feature of the decision of the Transport Board is the fact that it has given to the Terms of Union the status to which they are legally entitled. It has been found by the Board, that the Terms of Union transcend the Railway Act, and it follows, that the same principle applies to similar domestic legislation of the Canadian Parliament, when, where and if there is conflict with the Terms of Union. The importance of this particular finding cannot be overexaggerated.

As a result of the lowering of the freight rates, it will be the policy of this Government to watch the effect of those lowered rates upon the cost of consumer goods, to the end that the benefit may be passed along to those to whom of right it doth belong.

It is not practical to suggest that the adjusted freight rates be made retroactive to April 1st, 1949, although in some cases that might not be unreasonable. Refunds generally, if made on goods imported for sale, would go to the importers. As in such cases the importers have already collected in full from the general public, all freight rates paid by them, and as such refunds could not possibly, at this date, be passed on to the ultimate consumer, retroactive refunds could only go to enrich the importers; and in fairness to the latter it may be said no such suggestion has been made.

The question as to excess rates paid between April 1st, 1949, and February 28th, 1951, has been discussed by the Attorney General with the authorities at Ottawa, and is under consideration by the Government.

Re: Freight Rates—Royal Commission on Transportation

Dr.

To Disbursements .....	$13,212.21
To BALANCE .....	9,037.79
	<hr/>
	$22,250.00
	<hr/>

Cr.

By amount received .....	$22,250.00
--------------------------	-------------

Expense Account

Evidence and Printing .....	$ 4,063.52
Travelling Expenses .....	3,138.38
Cables .....	492.65
Stenographic Services .....	345.76
Hotel Expenses, etc. ....	2,081.45
Salaries Paid (1950) .....	2,475.00
Stationery .....	7.50
Geo. C. McNamara, disbursements .....	59.50
Incidentals .....	150.00
Eric Cook, K.C., disbursements .....	398.45
	<hr/>
	$13,212.21
	<hr/>

Evidence (Already accounted for to Feb. 21/50).....	$1,634.50
Evidence (Since Feb. 21/50) .....	770.25
	626.25
	138.01
	21.91
	<hr/>
	$ 3,190.92

Transportation (to February 21/50) .....	$1,804.37
Evidence (Since Feb. 21/50).....	176.50
	28.00
	167.65
	36.00
	362.56
	257.65
	305.65
	<hr/>
	$ 3,138.38

Cables and Telegrams—Telephones

(to February 21/50) .....	334.54
(Since February 21/50) .....	16.50
	41.61
	100.00
	          	$ 492.65

Stenographic Services and Expenses

(to February 21/50) .....	50.00
(Since February 21/50) .....	51.94
	51.94
	103.88
(Pd. Tax to Rec. Gen.).....	23.00
	10.00
	55.00
	          	345.76

Travelling expenses, including hotels, meals, incidentals,

(to February 21/50) .....	532.57
(Since February 21/50) .....	530.19
	57.50
	24.18
	40.00
	20.00
	25.00
	96.65
	755.36
	          	2,081.45

Printing and Advertising .....	872.60
Stationery .....	7.50
Geo. C. McNamara, Disbursements .....	59.50
Legal Counsel (Eric Cook, K.C.).....	398.45
Incidentals .....	150.00
Salaries .....	2,475.00

---

$13,212.21

---

MR. FOGWILL: On a point of privilege: Would it be possible that all members be given a copy eventually? It is a question of which notice was given and a public question, Sir.

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend opposite will appreciate the House is not entitled to have copies in writing in answer to questions. An answer is an answer. It lies with the Government to decide whether the answer is given verbally or in writing. We have here been giving most of the answers in writing and the only time we do not do so is when the answers may be given verbally to prevent delay.

MR. FOGWILL: I hope it will be a motion that all answers are given in writing.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Certainly where the answers can be given in writing, and I have undertaken to have that happen.

MR. HIGGINS: Point of privilege: I have asked questions and what were the answers? Go look for them yourself, or go to the Department. I asked for copies of Audit Sheets. Where am I going to find the Audit Sheet. These are public matters and the answer should be here in the House. We were promised that last time but they were never produced. I cannot go around asking for a copy of balance sheets. It is very good, I must admit, for us to be getting written answers, very good, and it is very much appreciated, but a copy of audit sheets should be here, I am not going around looking them up.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In reply, a very distinguished group of Newfoundlanders have honoured the Government by accepting membership in that committee. That committee, among other things, is arranging for the audit of accounts of the organization in question. As soon as the audit is made it will be available, but it obviously takes some little time. I do not think—my honourable friend opposite, who must know about that committee, it was published in the press, would want to make the work of that committee any more difficult than it is.

I wonder if my honourable friend is familiar with the names of the personnel of that committee.

MR. HIGGINS: I do not think it has anything at all to do with the Committee. What I asked for is an audit at the time the loan was made, about the position at that time and I have received no reply.

MR. SPEAKER: Let me—I remember I stated this at the last session. It would be of much value to honourable members of both sides of the House if they referred to certain pages in the Hansard of 1949 and see for themselves how to ask questions and how they should be answered. Let me say too, when any honourable member asks questions, the answers to which questions are available to the public, that such particular questions are out of order. Furthermore, all questions coming into the House are subject to the approval of Mr. Speaker who may decide or refuse for the Order Paper or refer back to the member for rewording. It is the right of every member in the House to ask a question but no member can demand an answer. It is the right of every Minister to give the answer best suited to the occasion or to refuse an answer at all where it may be detrimental to public welfare. These are not rules made from this chair, they are carried from time immemorial. But I suggest that members would read these pages dealing with asking and answering questions.

(44) Table a statement showing the total cost of the visit of Mr. Colin Storey to European fishing centres last year, statement to include the amount of travelling expenses and salary paid; also to inform the House if Mr. Storey made a report; if so to table a copy of this report; also inform the House if Mr. Storey is presently employed by the Government; if so, state the nature of his employment and salary paid?

MR. KEOUGH: Total cost of the visit of Mr. Colin Storey to European fishing centres last year including travelling expenses and salary paid and a copy of Mr. Storey's report will be tabled, as requested, on or before March 31st. Mr. Colin Storey is presently employed in the Department of Fisheries and Co-operatives. His duties are directed to a study of exploration of fish populations, experimental fishing, new types of fishing gear and vessels, and generally to keep abreast of development in these fields in the major fish producing nations and to relate such development to the needs of the fisheries of Newfoundland. Mr. Storey also represents the Department of Fisheries and Co-operatives on the Fisheries Loan Board and has been responsible for overseeing the development of the multi-purpose boat Matthew II designed and equipped for long-lining, Danish-seining, mid-water Larsen trawling, drift-netting, etc., as carried out successfully by similar craft in the Norwegian fisheries. Salary—$300 a month.

MR. SMALLWOOD: (45)—Mr. Higgins, addressed to the Premier—

1. State the name of the consulting engineer employed by the Government to design the cement plant at Corner Brook.

Answer: The cement plant at Corner Brook and Gypsum Plant at Corner Brook are both being designed, the Government has one fully employed engineer, a very distinguished engineer from Latvia, a refugee from Communism, who in his own country of Latvia was in charge of the largest cement plant and subsequently was in charge of the newest gypsum plant, plaster plant and plaster board plant in Germany. A Latvian by birth, Mr. Ernest Leja.

2. State the names of the manufacturers in the United Kingdom, Canada, or the United States, who were invited to submit tenders for the erection of the cement plant and to table the correspondence with such firms.

Answer: If I were prepared to do that I could not do it at this moment. The report is in the office of Doctor Valdmanis and he is absent on business from the Province.

3. State the name of the professional engineer who recommended that the contract for the supply of machinery be awarded to Messrs. Miag of Brunswick, Germany?

The decision to award the contract to Miag for construction of cement mill was made by the Government upon the advice of Dr. Valdmanis and Mr. Ernest Leja and our own engineer.

4. Were any contractors in Newfoundland or elsewhere other than William Lundrigan Limited invited to tender for the excavation, concrete work, construction of pipe lines, erection of silos and other buildings?

The answer is no, and now I have to be very careful at this point as to what I say. There is certain information I do not intend for several weeks to reveal, while certain negotiations are going on. I don't want to reveal this information prematurely.

Dr. Valdmanis and Mr. Ernest Leja, our engineer, worked out together the maximum that that mill should cost to construct, so as to give the very minimum cost. In other words instead of calling on contractors to tender prices they themselves said what the price should be and could get only one contractor to take the job at that price. He declared that he could not possibly break even, could not possibly make a dollar on it, and he was awarded the contract. I can assure the House of this; no contractor in Newfoundland would have tendered at so low a price as was imposed on Wm. Lundrigan Ltd. by Dr. Valmanis and Mr. Ernest Leja. The fact of the matter is we were half ashamed at what Dr. Valdmanis and Mr. Ernest Leja screwed the price down to with Lundrigan and likewise with Miag and the firm who manufactured the machinery for the Gypsum Plant. These facts will come out in proper time and my honourable friend and anyone else who chooses to makes a mountain out of this is entirely welcome to do so. At the right moment the facts and figures will come out and he who laughs last laughs best.

5. Table the contracts made with
  - (a) Messrs. Miag and Company and
  - (b) William J. Lundrigan, Limited.

Already answered, will not table the contract at this time as it is not in the public interest to do so. It will be a part of the whole story and

I will be very glad and very proud to have this House and this Province know these facts in a very short time.

6. Under whose supervision and inspection, on behalf of the Government, are the contracts for the cement plant at Corner Brook being carried out?

Under the supervision of Mr. Ernest Leja.

7. To give the name of the Inspecting Engineer who issues Certificates for payment on account of these contracts.

8. By whom is the material for the cement plant inspected as to quality and compliance with specifications before leaving the factory in Germany?

No one, that is not the way we are doing it. Miag has a contract to manufacture the machinery, to deliver it to Corner Brook, to assemble and install it in the mill at Corner Brook: to operate the mill for one month on which date delivery of the mill to the Government by Miag will be made and they will receive their final payment, only after they have operated it for one month to our complete satisfaction. As to the mere detail of shipping out of the factory, it is of the utmost unimportance. What we demand is the mill, all of it a going concern, producing cement, turning out a high-class portland cement, higher than any at present for sale in Newfoundland, a very high grade portland cement. If it does that we will be quite happy and that it will, we have no doubt.

(46) Mr. Higgins, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Fisheries:

MR. KEOUGH: Mr. Speaker, that answer is in the course of preparation.

(47) Mr. Higgins, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Labour:

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): That question has been asked here in No. 32. The answer is in the course of preparation and will be available next session.

(48) Mr. Higgins, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Supply:

1. Is there a Board before which tenders for Government supply are opened and discussed?

2. If there is such a Board, who comprises it?

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): All tenders for Government supply are opened in the presence of three members of the Staff of the Department of Supply, namely, Mr. Hunter, Mr. Powers and Miss Costello. A schedule is prepared of all quotations and in the case where the purchase to be made is a straightforward transaction the Order is placed in accordance with avowed Government policy of buying at lowest price. The honourable member will appreciate that in numerous instances where machinery, drugs or surgical instruments are involved, the Department finds it necessary to enlist the specialized knowledge of the medical profession or the technical advice of the Engineers of the Department of Public Works. In such cases the scheduled tenders are submitted for their recommendation. In all cases where the recommendation is not made to purchase from the lowest tender memoranda are submitted from the Departments concerned setting forth justifying reasons. The honourable member will appreciate that in the final analysis the Department of the Auditor General scrutinizes all tenders.

MR. SPEAKER: (37) (38) Mr. Fogwill, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Public Works.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): Prior to leaving my office today I arranged for these questions to be finally typed and I hoped to have them in the House this afternoon. Up to now I have not received them.

Address in Reply.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, in continuing the debate in reply to the Speech from the Throne, first I would like, as all members do, to congratulate all who have spoken before me, my good friend, the honourable member for Bell Island, also the honourable member for White Bay who spoke on yesterday and who at that time registered his non-support of the Government and made a complaint of their treatment dealt out to the district he had the honour to represent.

I congratulate the honourable the Minister for Public Welfare who spoke yesterday, he made a good job as far as the position permits him to do so. He spoke of many things provided by the welfare state and many other things which we are faced with in this disturbed world. But I am afraid that what the honourable minister expressed in words will not come to pass in his life time.

To the honourable member for Labrador, who made quite a speech in moving the motion, I will say this; his speech was a very much milder type than that in which we heard him express himself in this House previously. He did tell us about the various areas of Labrador, Lake Melville and the possibilities of great lumbering industries there and also a pulp and industry and agriculture for that district. He told us of his abiding interest in the district, but however serious and regardless of the fact that Labrador may be hotter in the summer than St. John's and not so cold in the winter as Ottawa, because of the place in which it is situated, I would say this, Sir, that at least, I myself, hope that in his life-time, a better way of life may come to the people who reside in that area.

Now Sir, last session or the session before, the honourable member for Labrador in this House, in words or in effect, voiced his opposition and he registered his opposition and feelings towards some of the people of Newfoundland who have helped to build this country. They did. That is the so-called higher princes of industry, and those scallywags, the fish merchants, they helped to build this country perhaps in more ways than the honourable member knows, being very young. Last year, the Premier, in his address in reply, did make some little excuse for the honourable member for Labrador when he said, any young man at the age of twenty-seven if he was not a socialist there was something wrong with him. That may be true and perhaps today he may be a Liberal, and the honourable Premier himself, I wonder if he were a socialist at the age of twenty-seven.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Were you, I ask you.

MR. FOGWILL: I will give you an answer at some other time. I would like to tell the honourable Premier and the honourable member for Fogo, we have some fog over here sometimes but over there you will find the fog horn, and over there you will find the echo. In his speech a couple of days ago, the honourable member for Fogo spoke of the fishing industry and the fishermen and the hardships they had in the past and will probably face in the future, but I never heard yet such a unique theory as put forward by the honourable member when he told this House how he would solve the problem of the fishing industry, when he told us here of the people, the so-called pirates, the dirty merchants, if they would allow a little more profits to go back into the industry instead of selling puddings and flap-jacks, the problem would be solved. It would not be solved by the fact that these merchants would stop selling other things, maybe labelled canned puddings, as he put it. It takes a lot of things to solve this problem and I don't believe the Government has any idea if they are going to solve it. I am sick and tired of this barrage directed against that portion of the people of Newfoundland who have put a lot of effort into the fishery and I would say as all things are being examined today such as the fishermen's losses, I would like to see them examine the losses entailed by the people who put their money into the fishery. Mr. Speaker, I am just tired of that stuff.

The Liberal Government here in Newfoundland are always seeking and finding, they do find it too, a way of blaming all Newfoundland's ills on practically everything but themselves. We have been told over here that we have very little experience in Government. That is true; Mr. Wayfarer has told us so over and over in his column we are not statesmen. There is a gap of fifteen or sixteen years in time from when we lost our Government until we came into this House and I will say you people have less. You are gaining it now you are in office a couple of years, you are finding things out you did not know before, with our help of course. We may be able to lead you to the light bye and bye.

Mr. Speaker, in reference to the cost of living, that is a sore point particularly with the Government; they have used every means in their power to blame the high cost of living during the past couple of years on this, that and everything except to blame it on the thing to which it belongs.

Mr. Speaker, in 1946 we had a cost of living enquiry by Professor Smith. I have the report still here, down under the desk and it is no more use than the report of the Royal Commission recently made for the Government. It is just a lot of whitewash and it would have been just as well had the Government admitted they could not bring down the cost of living. It did come down a little since April, 1949, I will admit that but today it stands higher than in April, 1949. The exact figures I have here, the figures the honourable Minister for Supply so kindly tabled here. It is now 6/10 of a cent higher than it was then and I say sir, the toiling masses expected much better treatment.

A few days ago I directed a question to the honourable the Premier asking him if he had any knowledge of the amount of sales tax collected by the Federal Government in Newfoundland since April 1949 and he said no. I don't want to disbelieve the honourable Premier, I believe he tells the truth perhaps some of the time.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of privilege. I demand that the honourable gentleman withdraw that statement, unqualified if he does not, I know what I shall do next.

MR. SPEAKER: It is unparliamentary to impeach the truth or honesty of any member.

MR. FOGWILL: Would it please, to say he spoke the truth all the time.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I demand, Sir, a complete and unqualified withdrawal of that statement.

MR. SPEAKER: It is unparliamentary to cast any aspersions against any member. The honourable member will have to withdraw the statement.

MR. FOGWILL: As you order, Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw the statement. The honourable the Premier said he had no knowledge whatsoever of the amount collected, possibly he does not read Hansard, the amount collected was three million, three hundred and sixty-nine thousand, nine hundred and seventy-eight dollars, collected in this country in respect to eight percent sales tax. Now before Confederation, Mr. Speaker, we did import quite a lot of goods from the mainland of Canada, of which we are now a part. The last Customs Reports which I have show we imported somewhere around fifty five million dollars of goods from Canada since the date we entered union with Canada. Mr. Speaker, the imports increased very rapidly until today they really do run into an unprecedented amount. And I will say this, Mr. Speaker, in respect to the general sales tax, the Federal Government of Canada will collect in Newfoundland and on the Mainland in respect to goods coming here, not less than $46,000,000 in 1951.

Now, Sir, in addition to this I will point out a good while ago in this Chamber the increase that would take place in the collection of Income Tax, personal and corporation, and I will challenge the present Minister of Finance to show different from this: the amount of money the Federal Government will collect will be not less than twelve and one half million dollars.

Now I say, Sir, some of this money should be plowed back into the industries of Newfoundland, particularly the fisheries.

These people are extracting too much of our life's blood when they impose upon this country with our economy a system of taxation entirely foreign, entirely out of our way of living, we are not used to it, we can not pay it unless they put back in our industries the money they take out.

Now Sir, I want to say something in respect to the fisheries. I want to quote, Sir, from the Daily News, April 1, 1950, published in St. John's.

"Mr. Smallwood then referred to the fact that they had sent Mr. Colin Storey to visit Iceland, Norway, Sweden, England, Germany and other countries with instructions to examine the kind of boats, engines, and fishing gear; to go out fishing; to take thousands of photographs and to secure reports of all kinds; to talk with Fisheries Departments and to visit plants, he was due back shortly and he believed, if the Minister of Fisheries had done nothing else during his term of office, than to secure these reports, his selection as minister would be well justified; Colin Storey was to be the ears and the eyes of the Government. A sort of watch dog.

And I quote again:

"On the other hand," said Mr. Smallwood, "we have reason to believe that in the triangular area of water between Battle Harbour, Partridge Point and Cape Spear we have the greatest reserve of herring in the world if you add to it the areas of the Southwest Coast and Bay of Islands."

Now Mr. Speaker, I have listened very earnestly to the honourable Premier this past few weeks, but after all I believe he is in earnest in what he is trying to do, nevertheless if we are to build anything here in this Province, we have got to build a foundation for it. It is no good going off half cocked on this idea or some other idea and spending public money unless the Government has some real reason to believe the Government money they expend will be well spent. The Icelandic venture, to my mind, Sir, has been an absolute failure, at a very high cost and I will say this, the four boats, of the four there is only one of them of any account, the others are falling apart. I have seen them, have been aboard them and I have seen the gear on them and I will say this; during the past four or five years the herring fishery in Iceland has been a failure, almost a blank and in any case the total catch of fish in Iceland, the average catch of all fish for a long time, for years back has been only 352,000 tons which is quite away from the amount stated in this House some time ago. How these boats came across the Atlantic is beyond me. Now they are hauled up with the fishing gear in storage, I would advise the honourable Minister of Fisheries somebody will have to pay some attention to the storage as otherwise the gear will rot. Now the boats are tied up and it is quite possible the Government may sell them if they can get a buyer. If not, they will probably sink if somebody won't go down there with a big pump, or perhaps the honourable Minister of Health will give them a stomach pump.

Mr. Speaker, we have a little different atmosphere here this year than last, and it makes me very happy. I am delighted when I look across over here I see the likenesses of so many honourable members of this House who once presided over sessions. Many of them are not here today but it makes me feel proud, Sir, that at one time in my lifetime I was associated with some of them. As I see the pictures of those people across from me here, and think of their association in the Governments of Newfoundland I should say that at no time should they be associated with anything that would stink or smell as the now present Secretary of State for Canada said they did, when he personally looks back over the things he said in the years gone by; perhaps he should remember, to his discredit, the mistakes he made.

I will say this, Sir, these people of the past, in this country, on the whole they did a fine job for Newfoundland, a very fine job.

Now Sir, I have one here for the honourable the Minister of Public Works, I am very fond of you, Sir. I have here an extract from the Daily News, February 8, 1951:

"... Continuing reference to the Trans-Canada Highway, Mr. Spencer said that the regulations laid down in regard to the construction were likely to prove over onerous to this province. For instance the grade set were a maximum of 8 percent while a flatness of 6 percent on curves was demanded. It also provided for unobstructed visibility for 600 feet. This would mean a tremendous amount of excavation in many parts of this country, since little hills would often have to be greatly cut back to provide this unobstructed view, while other heavy cutting would have to be done to reduce the grade to required levels.

"This," said Mr. Spencer "means that our costs would more than triple those of flatter provinces, such as Manitoba and Saskatchewan." He contemplated putting this position before the authorities as these regulations tended to put the cost of the project beyond the ability of the province to finance.

Well Sir, the only thing I can say about this is, the honourable the Minister of Public Works and the Government must have known that before they signed the agreement. In conclusion, Sir, I dare say the honourable the Minister of Public Works will continue to build beautiful roads which he is quite capable of doing, I don't know for how long.

The honourable the Minister of Health can be depended upon, no doubt, to bring home the bacon; while the Attorney General, opposite, will continue to sit there, Sir, and nod his head and smile at every one; the honourable Minister of Welfare you can have your piece of revolution; and the honourable Minister of Natural Resources, to quote a phrase of long age; somebody at that time was going to make this House white with sheep and now they are going to put the black sheep here; the honourable Minister of Fisheries, I dare say, will continue to grace this House with his presence and in his regular style will make his splendid speeches, and certainly, the honourable the Minister of Supply will scrutinize carefully the few tenders up before him; the honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs, the Mystery Minister—

MR. SMALLWOOD: To a point of order, Sir, I direct your attention to certain noises which are not in order in this House.

MR. SPEAKER: Members are not permitted to express any indication of feeling in any way. The honourable members may have the gallery cleared if there are any interruptions.

MR. HIGGINS: Anyway, Mr. Speaker, the laugh is on us, Sir.

MR. FOGWILL: The Minister of Provincial Affairs, I have a great admiration for him. He is a man of courage. He worked so hard for the people of the city, although most times, I will admit, when he was councillor, he was against most everything, and everybody is wondering when the honourable Minister is going to burst out against the Government; last but not least the honourable the Premier, and Finance Minister; I dare say he will shell out the dough and in doing so cement this whole thing together or we will end up with nothing as I always thought we would do in a mess of broken hopes and broken promises. Thank you.

MR. JACKMAN: I want to assure you Sir, from the start I will be very brief in what I say, and remind myself of the fact that I can say a little yet talk too much. I am going to be very short. In replying to the Speech from the Throne in which it was stated, to quote: "My Government has appointed a committee . . ." May we not also under the Act, have an investigation into the cost of producing in the Wabana iron mine in Harbour Main-Bell Island District, and if we are going to have it, will the Premier tell me when?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Is my honourable friend asking me a question? Is he finished his speech?

MR. JACKMAN: I am finished.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I hope to speak later before this debate is over.

MR. JACKMAN: I hope you will look over it.

MR. FORSEY: Mr. Speaker, allow me first Sir, to congratulate the honourable member for Labrador and the honourable member for Fogo on the splendid addresses they made and to congratulate them on their farsightedness and forthrightness. I should also like to congratulate the members for Harbour Main and for White Bay and the last speaker, the member for St. John's East.

References have been made continually in this House, and made by the member for St. John's East, that, we on this side, do not pay our debt to the past. I would remind the honourable member that there are many ways one can pay one's debt to the past; one can gaze with mournful eyes at the pictures on the wall, as I notice the honourable member was doing, or one can rant mealy-mouthed platitudes about the pine-clad hills, or one can invest in the future. This Government proposes to pay its debt to the past by investing in the future.

The honourable member for St. John's East made mention of harsh taxation which has been imposed or which he claims is still to be imposed by the Federal Government of Canada—A taxation completely foreign to our nature. I agree entirely with him. Taxation up to the time of the Commission of Government was designed to let Water Street out from under its obligations; whereas taxation today, if it be harsh, is certainly equitably imposed.

I was rather bemused by the honourable member for Fogo when he distinguished between two types of merchants. The benevolent type take their profits and reinvest in the fishery and another type who invest their profits in jams. I will remind the honourable member for Fogo that there is absolutely no difference because of the fact that one invests his profits in the fishery and another in jam. One merchant will invest in jam because he believes there is more profit in jam, another will invest in the fishery with exactly the same idea; there is more profit in the fishery.

I do not propose to run down the capitalistic system. I think, maybe, no other system promotes such dynamical initiative and risk taking, but if we have to depend upon the social morals of merchants of this country to enhance the standards of living we are putting our trust in poor salvation.

Last year, if you remember, this Government took off the ceiling price on salmon in the hope that fishermen would get more returns. What happened?—The price of salmon to the consumer went up one hundred per cent, and the fishermen's returns were hardly enhanced whatsoever.

I was amused by the attempts of the member for St. John's West—If he would take his eyes off the past and turn to what is going on today and turn to the court records of people continually prosecuted for evasion of price ceiling, he would find the answer.

At this stage I wish to express my vehement remonstrations against the suggestion that public funds should not be used in this country to enable the fishermen to organize. Newfoundland is the fishermen—The fishermen are Newfoundland. When the depression struck this country with heavy violence, it was the fishermen who suffered hardest.

This Government has, during its term of office, made overtures to various sections of this community, has implemented a policy whereby, for example, St. John's may be helped to build a stadium. I support that policy, as I did when they introduced a program whereby the indebtedness of the St. John's Municipality may be liquidated, a "Buy Newfoundland" campaign to help out the producers of this country. It has instituted various policies on behalf of various type of producers, and the consumers, incidentally, and now the fishermen are getting a measley $20,000. I know very little about union set-ups but I do know this, we can't cut down the fishermen to make the fishermen fit a union pattern, we have to make the pattern fit them; they dominate, they supersede everything because they are the most important element in this population.

Reference has been made to the high cost of living. The honourable member for St. John's East asked a question the other day as to what evidence there was of its going down, and further asked what reductions can be expected.

I will make a few statements on the high cost of living:

I will tell him this: The high cost of living in Newfoundland is in direct ratio to how long the tentacles of Water Street are, and in addition I will say this, the business ethics, the code of business ethics is directly in ratio to the guillibility of the people who have to take out their supplies from these merchants.

The cost of living in St. John's is high for various reasons: One thing, there are too many grocery stores. This can be called the City of Grocery Stores, of Shop-keepers. The volume of business is so small the margin of profit of necessity has to be high in order to keep them in business.

On the Burin Peninsula the cost of living is the lowest in Newfoundland, for the simple reason that there are no longshoremen unloading ships, standing up looking at each other, getting the highest type of wages for doing nothing.

Another thing, the price of fish reaches $1.00 a quintal more than in St. John's. I saw the returns from the Burin Peninsula and St. John's.

I said at the outset, this Government is paying its debt to the past by investing in the future, investing in the future of this country, the future of the coming generation. This Government realizes that it has a debt to various towns scattered throughout this Island in order to give those towns some local government, they have subsidized town councils, making them less dependent on the central government here in St. John's. This Government has paid its debt to old age pensioners, its debt to the widows is being liquidated, its debt to the ordinary citizens is being liquidated by the Government's investment in the Cement Mill, the Birch Industry, trying to raise the taxable income of the people to such an extent they can pay taxation without hardship, trying to give Newfoundlanders a standard of living we have not enjoyed here before.

The question has been asked here—Where is the Surplus? I will tell you where the surplus is gone.

S—Social Security.

U—Untiring efforts of the Premier for Economic Development.

R—In Revising, subsidizing and sustaining local industries.

P—Policy of finding out the potential natural resources of this Province.

I.—Losses on the Icelandic vessels. After all every effort has its losses, and we are governed by the profit and loss system.

U—An Unequivocal pledge to the consumers of this Island that they will be supported, and an unequivocal pledge to the workers of this Island that they will get their just returns from industries.

S—A serious attempt to enhance the standards of living of the people of this Province.

The surplus is going, and I will say when it is gone, when the auctioneer's gavel has fallen, it may not have gone to the best tender but it will have gone to the people who derive it most; namely, the people of Newfoundland.

MR. SPEAKER: The house will recess for 10 minutes.

HON. EDWARD RUSSELL (Minister of Natural Resources): If the honourable members are ready to go ahead with the debate, I beg to announce my intention to speak to the motion at the next sitting.

Debate ordered adjourned until tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Third reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Shop Act, 1940."

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act further to Amend the Newfoundland Corporation Income Tax Act, 1949."

Mr. Speaker left the Chair.

Mr. Courage took the Chair of Committee.

MR. HIGGINS: Is this an Act just to bring it in line with the Federal Act?

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): That is all. Is it the wish of the Committee to read the sections or just call the numbers?

Section 1 read and passed.
 Section 2 read and passed.
 Section 3 read and passed.
 Section 4 read and passed.
 Section 5 read and passed.
 Section 6 read and passed.
 Section 7 read and passed.
 Section 8 read and passed.
 Section 9 read and passed.
 Section 10 read and passed.
 Section 11 read and passed.
 Section 12 read and passed.
 Section 13 read and passed.
 Section 14 read and passed.
 Section 15 read and passed.
 Section 16 read and passed.
 Section 17 read and passed.
 Section 18 read and passed.
 Section 19 read and passed.
 Section 20 read and passed.
 Section 21 read and passed.
 Section 22 read and passed.

Section 23 read and passed.

Section 24 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill with some amendments.

On motion the Bill was ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting Survivorship."

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, may I defer that order and pass on to the next one.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill, "An Act Respecting the Interpretations of Statutes."

MR. CURTIS: This Bill is necessary in view of the fact that we will this year be consolidating the statutes and we find our present Act is not up to date. It has had a lot of amendments made from time to time and it is necessary to consolidate the existing Act and incorporate it into the terms now defined. I may say that during the recess we will take today, we plan to discuss some of the details with my friend the Leader of the Opposition, otherwise, in committee, we will waste a lot of time of the House on details which they would find not very interesting. I would move at this juncture the second reading of the Bill and intimate between now and the time we meet again, we will, with my friend the leader of the Opposition, go into the details of this Bill so we may be sure the position is clear.

On motion the Bill was read a second time. Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Statutes."

MR. CURTIS: This Bill is a portion of our present Interpretation of Statutes Act which is being cut out and made into a separate Act. In our present Interpretation of Statutes Act we have the clause which deals with the enactment of statutes, and it is our opinion that, that clause might well be an act in itself as it has nothing to do with Interpretations of Statutes at all. It deals with matter, wording and procedure of the Clerk after the Act has passed the House. I move the second reading and I think perusal of this Bill will show just what I am trying to say. I did not realize my honourable friend opposite did not have a copy of the Bill.

On motion the Bill was read a second time. Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of a Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, I beg to have this matter deferred until tomorrow. It is one of the more important Bills affecting as it well may many Newfoundlanders. Between now and tomorrow I hope there will be an opportunity for the Clerk of the House to see that copies of this Bill are distributed to all honourable members particularly the honourable members on the other side of the House, and I may say we wish before debating the second reading of this motion, to give the unions concerned an opportunity to see a copy of this Bill. As a matter of fact, typewritten copies are already sent to three unions most directly concerned; Buchans Union, Wabana Mine Workers Union and the Union at St. Lawrence. The employers have been consulted, their reactions received, and we are awaiting reaction of the Unions.

MR. SPEAKER: It will not be necessary to move deferment. The House would not be able to take the motion since the Bills are not distributed.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I give notice that I will on tomorrow move the House into a Committee on Supply. As the members know, that is the occasion upon which we will seek supplies for the coming year and bring down the Budget. As was the case last year, it is necessary so again this year to ask the House for an instalment on account of the coming year's supply. I think last year we asked for two-twelfths on account of the coming year's supply pending the Estimates and bringing down the Budget. This year we will have to do the same as the motion I am about to make, if carried, would bring the House together, after today, on April 27, that is the day following Easter Monday, which would leave just a few days for the remainder of this fiscal year, certainly not enough to enable the details of the Estimates of the coming financial year to be brought in here and properly considered by the House, still less time in which to bring in the Budget.

I may say, for the information of the House, the Estimates are in the hands of the printers. The Government has not yet received the Estimates although each Minister is quite familiar with his own Departmental Estimates, no Minister has as yet seen the Estimates for all the Departments combined, for which reason, no Minister yet knows what is the total of the Departmental Estimates.

Last year, it was on the 20th of March that the first printed draft of the Estimates for all Departments came to the Cabinet. This year, we expected to have it earlier than last, but due to mechanical delays and the like at the printing office, that hope was frustrated and it will be not earlier than Monday or Tuesday of next week when the Estimates will be received. That entails many days and nights of close study by the Cabinet in order to bring the estimated expenditure for all Departments combined into balance with the estimated revenue for the year.

For all of which reasons we will, I think, have to come to the House and plead with them to grant us on account, one or two-twelfths of our estimated expenditure for the coming year. That, if done, will be included in the Orders of the Day of next week when the Estimates will finally be brought down at the same time as the Budget. For this reason, I give notice I will move the House into a Committee on Supply. I think, perhaps, that is the proper term or it may be to give notice of resolution to that effect or—give notice I will ask the House to consider resolution on Supply to His Majesty—whatever is the proper form. Mr. Speaker will put it in proper form for us so that it will be in order when we meet tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER. That is the end of the Order Paper.

MR. SPENCER: If it is in order, I would like to present the answers to those two questions (37) (38).

37. Inform the House in detail of the work completed on the Trans-Canada Highway as follows, and the cost to date.

Concrete Products Limited, 31 miles between Glenwood and Bishop's Falls .....	1949-50	$169,731.57
	1950-51	917,666.19	$1,087,397.76
Wm. J. Lundrigan Ltd., Corner Brook and Stephenville Crossing .....	1949-50	38,942.84
	1950-51	220,975.76	$ 259,918.60
Western Construction Company Ltd., between Port aux Basques and Codroy Valley .....	1950-51	549,790.62
Road built by Department of Public Works .....			122,092.70
Bridges built by Department of Public Works .....			191,011.72
Surveys .....			43,798.66
38. Maintenance of Roads and Bridges .....			$1,242,977.98
Grants to Local Road Committees .....			151,698.65

Improvement and reconstruction of roads and bridges and construction of new roads .....	935,808.19
Erection of highway signs .....	4,501.21
Snow clearing .....	16,419.34
Surveys .....	51,928.33
New Machinery, Garage Equipment and Tools .....	158,684.54
Gasoline, Oil and other Material for resale .....	16,125.13
Unallocated Stores and Labour .....	133,893.24
Unallocated Maintenance and Equipment .....	79,471.89

Item No. 5—I may say in this connection we are hoping this year to have a much larger sum in the Estimates as we want to try and cope with the demands which are very great.

In connection with Snow Clearing, you will be glad to know the actual expenditure amounted to about one-fifth of this year's grant. We will have to thank the weatherman in that connection.

I want very particularly to call the honourable members' attention to Item 11. Under the new system of accounting we have to set up a sum under this heading for any commitments. Honourable members will note, if they study the Estimates, that the actual vote is $100,000. The figures shown here are $79,471.89 and honourable members would almost immediately assume that the Department of Public Works had taken unto itself the power and authority to spend $100,000 of public money without a vote.

My reason for this comment is to disabuse any member's mind of any such thought and by way of explanation, I will say this: If you will look at any one of these votes, the vote has been a million and a quarter. Possibly some $50,000 worth of supplies would be purchased by the Stores Department for that particular vote. They would be put in the general stores, and only charged out to that particular job when taken out to be used and/or distributed. Consequently, it is ambiguous, in the sense that by the end of this financial year perhaps, they will be absorbed and have gone into the particular account for which the purchase was made.

I give this explanation because I can well see just how easy it would be for honourable members to be misled, and think that we, in the Department of Public Works have taken unto ourselves to spend this money without having received a vote for it.

(38) Mr. Cashin, addressed to the Minister of Public Works:

1. The total number of miles constructed under the Trans-Canada Highway plan during the year 1950—the total cost to the Province of such construction—the total number of miles of such road to be constructed over the next few years under such plan, and the estimate cost of such plan. Give an estimate of what amount this whole Trans-Canada

Highway plan will cost the Province when finished and whether the Province is actually committed to finish this project.

Answer: (a) Total number of miles constructed under the Trans-Canada Highway plan during the year 1950-51 miles.

(b) Total cost to the Province of such construction—$1,150,000.00.

2. What amount of money was expended in the form of relief work on public highroads during the autumn of 1950; give this information showing the amount expended in each district.

Answer:

SPECIAL WORKS
EXPENDITURE AS AT FEBRUARY
28th, 1951

Bonavista North .....	$ 17,181.67
Bonavista South .....	59,683.02
Burin .....	68,757.65
Burgee-La Poile .....	5,127.08
Carbonear-Bay de Verde .....	106,016.01
Ferryland .....	60,448.26
Fogo .....	23,790.64
Fortune-Hermitage .....	58,068.93
Green Bay .....	26,195.11
Grand Falls .....	55,160.79
Harbour Grace .....	81,227.42
Port de Grave .....	51,499.43
Placentia-St. Mary's .....	64,620.28
Placentia West .....	50,815.85
St. John's East .....	62,857.69
St. John's West .....	22,644.50
St. George's .....	13,718.97
St. Barbe .....	9,605.89
Twillingate .....	20,365.02
Trinity North .....	104,121.93
Trinity South .....	170,697.53
White Bay .....	18,215.40
Humber .....	10,610.50
Harbour Main-Bell Island .....	77,009.91

$1,238,439.48

3. Table a copy of the tenders submitted for the construction of the additional wings to the Mental Hospital, informing the House what company or companies were awarded the contracts and were the lowest tenders accepted?

Answer: The following tenders were received for the construction of the South Wings, Mental Hospital.

Newfoundland Engineering & Construction Co. Ltd., St. John's .....	$1,208,000.00
Terminal Construction Co. Ltd., Montreal .....	1,237,000.00
Concrete Products (Nfld.) Ltd., St. John's .....	1,243,000.00

The tender of the Newfoundland Engineering Company, Limited, being the lowest, was accepted.

In reference to No. 38-1 would like to point out that it was five million in 1949-50 and there has been an additional ten or eleven millions in 1950-51.

MR. FOGWILL: Supplementary Question: Under Item No. 10, under unallocated stores and labour, if these stores were allocated under various headings, would that be in addition to the amounts already shown?

MR. SPENCER: Yes it would be an increase in the amount but not an increase in the total. It would be deducted from item No. 10 and distributed to the account to which it has gone. It would be in addition but No. 10 would be reduced accordingly.

The House then adjourned until tomorrow, Tuesday, March 27th, at 3 of the clock.

TUESDAY, March 27th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, in duty bound, I wish to report to the House that the honourable the member for Bonavista South has resigned as Minister of Natural Resources and member of the executive government. The Minister of Natural Resources is being replaced, temporarily on an acting basis by the honourable the member for Carbonear, Bay de Verde, Minister of Public Welfare.

Presenting Petitions

Honourable Dr. H. L. Pottle presented a petition from the people of Small Point, Bay de Verde District, re Bridge.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motion and Questions

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): Mr. Speaker, I give notice I will on tomorrow beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1948."

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will upon tomorrow introduce two Bills; (1) "An Act Further to Amend the Act No. 41 of 1938 entitled "An Act for the Confirmation of an Agreement between the Government and the Labrador Mining and Exploring Company Limited."

(2) "An Act Respecting the Distribution of Electricity in the Corner Brook Area."

MR. SMALLWOOD: In connection with a number of questions put to me by the honourable the junior member for St. John's East, to which I have already given verbal replies, I have pleasure in tabling written replies.

Question No. 2.

To table information showing the cost of living index for the months of April 1950 to February 1951, inclusive.

Answer.

1st April, 1950	171.2
6th May, 1950	170.9
3rd June, 1950	172.9
1st July, 1950	174.1
5th August, 1950	176.8
2nd September, 1950	177.5
7th October, 1950	176.7
4th November, 1950	176.3
2nd December, 1950	178.3
6th January, 1951	179.6

(Index for the month of February, 1951, not yet released).

Question No. 42 (f).

Total number of Taverns now operating in Newfoundland at the present time.

Answer:

72 taverns are now operating in Newfoundland.

42 (7) Mr. Fogwill: The Board of Liquor Control purchased a new motor van in 1950, Price—$1833.60.

Purchased from Ford Sales & Service Co.

No tenders were called as the Board considered the discount of $235.96 from list price was the best that could be secured at the time.

MR. HEFFERTON: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Education (Departmental) Act, 1939."

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend the School Attendance Act, 1942."

(49) Mr. Higgins—To ask the honourable the Prime Minister:

1. Who forms the committee in charge of the Buy Newfoundland Products?

2. Where does this committee meet?

3. What salaries are paid to anyone in connection with the campaign and who receive salaries?

4. Where is the office of the Committee? Who owns the building and what rent is paid therefor?

5. Is there any inspection of the Newfoundland goods sold under the auspices of this committee?

(50) To ask the honourable the Minister for Public Works:

1. What independent Architect appraised the building bought by the Government from American Aerated Water Company?

2. What payment was made for this work?

3. Please table a copy of his report.

4. Was anyone paid a commission in connection with the purchase of this building?

5. If so, what is his name and what commission was paid?

(51) To ask the honourable the Minister of Public Works:

1. What amount of money was spent on local roads in the District of Fortune-Hermitage?

2. Please give details of places and amounts spent at each place.

(52) To ask the honourable the Minister of Public Works:

1. What amount of money was spent on local roads in the District of Burgeo and LaPoile?

2. Please give details, etc.

(53) To ask the honourable the Minister of Co-operatives:

1. With regard to Question 31 (3) re Andrews Fisheries, Ltd., the Minister replied that the security is the same now as at the date of mortgage. Was there not a large quantity of fish included in the assets mortgaged and was this not sold after the date of the Mortgage?

2. Was all the money obtained for fish paid to the Government?

3. Did not the taking away of this fish lessen the security and should not the money received therefor have been paid to the Government?

(54) To ask the honourable the Minister of Fisheries:

1. As it has been reported that the Federal Government intends to make an investigation into the prices paid for fish in Newfoundland, and as this investigation is to be similar to that undertaken by the Provincial Government would the Minister please table a statement setting forth his reasons or the reasons of the Government for proceeding with its investigation which can only mean double expense to the people of Newfoundland.

(55) To ask the honourable the Minister of Economic Development:

1. To table the Report to the Government of Mr. Ambrose Shea which led up to the establishment of the birch plant.

(65) To ask the honourable the Minister of Economic Development :

1. If the Government has made any investigation into the possibility of the establishment of a fur tannery in Newfoundland?

2. If so, who is conducting the investigation and at what cost?

(57) To ask the honourable the Prime Minister :

1. Is it true that the Government has made an arrangement with a Latvian firm or firms of film producers to make documentary films of certain Newfoundland activities?

2. If so, what are the arrangements for paying for this undertaking?

3. Who suggested the hiring of this firm or firms?

4. Was the Film Council of Canada asked to undertake the work?

5. Were any firms on this side of the Atlantic asked to quote on the project?

6. What, specifically, is to be filmed and for what purpose?

7. Was any English firm approached with a view to their doing this work of film making?

(58) To ask the honourable the Prime Minister :

1. Has the Government appointed a successor to F. M. O'Leary, Esq., as Director of Civil Defence?

2. If so, what is the name and salary of such appointee?

(59) To ask the honourable the Prime Minister :

1. To lay on the table of the House such reports as the Government has received from I.B.E.C. relative to the possibility of a third mill in Newfoundland.

(60) To ask the honourable the Minister of Labour :

1. What is the present position with regard to unemployment in Newfoundland?

(61) To ask the honourable the Minister of Labour :

1. To table a statement showing the number of Newfoundlanders working with the Labrador Company dealing with the iron ore in Labrador.

(62) To ask the honourable the Prime Minister :

1. To table a list of the number and names of foreign born personnel employed by the Government during the past year and the salaries paid to each.

(63) To ask the honourable the Prime Minister :

1. What salary or other emoluments are being paid to Miss Olga Leikuts, a Secretary in the Department of Economic Development?

(64) To ask the honourable the Prime Minister :

1. If there is any foundation for the report inspired by him in September of last year that the second largest fish firm in Boston may be located in Newfoundland?

(65) To ask the honourable the Prime Minister :

1. If he has discussed with any firms not now doing business in Newfoundland the possibility of a marine oil plant in Newfoundland.

2. If so, what was the result?

(66) Mr. Fogwill—to ask the honourable the Minister of Labour :

1. Who are the members of the Labour Relations Board?

2. Who represents the Government on the Board.

3. Who represents the Trade on the Board?

4. Who represents Labour on the Board?

5. Table a statement showing the total expenses including travelling expenses of the Board to date.

6. What amount has been paid to each member of the Board, at what rate, per day, per week, as the case may be?

(67) To ask the honourable the Minister of Labour :

1. Who are the members of the Workmen's Compensation Board?

2. What salary is paid to each member?

3. How many persons are employed by the Board?

4. Who are they, what are their duties and what salary is paid to each?

5. What is the total cost of the Board to date?

(68) To ask the honourable the Minister of Finance :

1. To table a statement showing the total revenue received under the various headings and credited to financial surplus account from April 1st, 1950 to February 28th, 1951?

2. To table a statement showing the total expenditure under the various headings charged to financial surplus account from April 1st, 1950 to February 28th, 1951?

(69) To ask the honourable the Minister of Economic Development :

1. To table a statement showing the total amount spent, committed to be spent, loaned, or loans guaranteed, in respect to industrial development, since April 1st, 1950?

2. State the number of new industries that have been investigated by the Government, what was the cost of investigation for each?

3. How many new industries have the Government decided to assist financially?

4. Is it the intention of the Government that these new industries are to be financed wholly or in part by the expenditure of public money, to what extent for each?

5. Where are the new industries situated, what districts, when will they operate?

6. What is the total cost of travelling expenses since April 1st, 1950, to date in respect to new industries, how many trips were made, who went, where?

(70) To ask the honourable the Minister of Finance :

To table a statement showing the total amount collected under Subhead of Revenue 470, Social Security Assessment, to date.

(71) To ask the honourable the Minister of Finance :

1. Who are the members of the Industrial Development Loan Board?

2. Table statement showing the total expenses of the Board to date, including travelling expenses, wages, etc.

3. Have the Board made any loans or guaranteed any loans, if so, how much, to whom and on what terms?

(72) To ask the honourable the Premier or the appropriate Minister:

1. To table a progress report on the slum clearance project?

2. What is the total cost of the Project, to the Province, to date?

3. How many houses have been constructed?

4. How many apartment houses have been constructed?

5. Where are they built?

6. When will they be ready for occupancy?

7. What rent will be charged per month?

8. Who are the builders?

9. Was the work done on contract, state terms of contract?

10. Who supervised the work for the Provincial Government, at what rate of pay?

11. Who represents the Newfoundland Government on this project?

12. Does the representative of the Newfoundland Government receive remuneration for his services, if so, how much?

13. What is the cost of travelling expenses to date?

(73) Mr. Miller: I give notice that I shall on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Public Works:

1. Has the cost of the repairs made on the Wharf at Portugal Cove last year been paid?

2. Who made the payment?

MR. SPEAKER: With the permission of the House, I would like to make a comment or two on certain points of procedure, in response to questions asked me by several honourable members and others. Since the House enjoys freedom of speech in debate, subject only to wide standing orders and certain parliamentary procedure, visitors are required not to make any comment whatsoever or take any notes or any such action interfering with this freedom of speech, and on a point of privilege by any member, any stranger misbehaving may be asked to withdraw. The house has the right to prohibit the publication of debates and proceedings. Nothing that has been said prohibits reporters from making notes and newspapers from printing and publishing debates faithfully recorded. This dates back to 1778, and the rule still exists, reports may not be printed or published if the House sees fit to waive that rule for the general good of the public.

I would ask, particularly, that members take note of this privilege of freedom of speech, which protects what is said in the House, but does not protect publications outside. If a member publishes his own speech or any part of his own speech he is there liable for any libellous statement it may contain. Similarly that privilege will not protect any newspaper or any other person who publishes it apart from the debate any member may take. These are not rules we have laid down here. These are rules laid down by Lord Chief Justice Cochrane in 1768, and in that year also the Canadian Parliament passed statutes which set all the privileges then in existence, up to 1768 as applicable to the House of Parliament in Canada.

I felt it was my duty to warn members regarding publishing their own speeches or any part of them.

The honourable the Premier read a message from the Lieutenant Governor as follows :

The Honourable the Minister of Finance :

I, the Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Newfoundland, recommend that, pending the tabling of the Estimates for the financial year 1951-52, a vote, on account, of $8,203,000 calculated on the basis of roughly one-fourth of the total vote for the year 1950-51 to meet essential public services, be provided by the Provincial Legislature.

(Sgd.) LEONARD OUTERBRIDGE,
Lieutenant Governor.
March 27th, 1951.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole in relation to granting supplies to His Majesty's Government. The purpose is, as the request of His Honour the Lieutenant Governor indicates, to enable the Government to request the Legislature, in His Honour's name, to grant supplies to His Majesty on account of the forthcoming financial year which begins April 1st. These have been prepared by the various Departments, have been handed to the Department of Finance, have been printed and have been presented to the Executive Government, that is the Cabinet. The Cabinet is now in process of examining, considering and revising the suggested estimates of expenditures for the coming year.

My feeling is that perhaps by the end of the present week, the Cabinet will have completed its examination and revision of the proposed Estimates. As soon as that revision is concluded the Estimates will go back to the printer so that corrections and revisions made by the Cabinet may become effective in the printed edition. I should think that it will take the printers a week or possibly ten days to effect these corrections and revisions, and as soon therefore as these corrections have been made, by the printers, the Estimates, in final form, will come before the House, and at that exact time, I will have the honour to bring down the Budget Speech. I think that will be somewhere in about two or two-and-a-half weeks from today.

But unfortunately, we are very near now to the end of the current financial year; the last day of this month is the end of the current year and the new year begins April 1. The Government has no authority to spend money unless and until the House votes money to the Government for the purpose. The Legislature has voted money to the Government but only to the end of the current year and on the first of April and thereafter, the Government will not have any authority to spend any money unless the legislature gives it that authority.

The purpose of the resolution today is to ask the House, not to grant the Government authority to spend money, all of the money it will need to spend in the coming year, but rather an estimated amount to carry it over comfortably, the period between now and the date of the Budget presentation and then after the Budget, the length of time the House may care to take considering the Estimates and considering the Budget, maybe a week or two or three or even four or more. So, for that reason we ask the legislature to grant to His Majesty the sum of $8,203,000 for the period beginning on April 1.

So, Mr. Speaker, I move that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole on this resolution.

Mr. Speaker left the Chair.

Mr. Courage took the Chair of Committees.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Chairman, that amount of $2,050,000 for Economic Development is, I take it, a portion of what will be voted in accordance with remarks made by the honourable the Premier just now. Does that mean there will be $8,000,000 for the Department when the Estimates are brought in?

MR. CHAIRMAN: No the honourable the Premier might explain to the House.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, I am very happy indeed to do that for the honourable and gallant member. That is not to be taken as approximately one quarter for 12 months. That is indeed, and here I speak from memory, virtually nearly all that will be spent in the twelve months, but it has to be spent in the first month or two or three of the new financial year. I can say what it is. As the House knows, the Government has entered into contracts for construction of a cement mill, at Corner Brook, and of a gypsum plaster and plaster board plant at Corner Brook and a birch plant at St. John's. Payments on account of this contract have been made but only on account, further payments on account must be made in the course of the next few weeks.

MR. CASHIN: Could you tell the House whether payments that have been made were passed by the legislature last year? Where does the financial controller come in?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The money that was paid on account came from the Treasury, was issued by the Treasury upon the special warrant from His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, which warrant was issued by His Honour upon the advice of his Ministers under section 33 (1) being of Audited Account which gives ample authority for the purpose.

MR. HIGGINS: Only in cases of emergency.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If my honourable and learned friend will examine the clause in question, carefully, as the Government was obliged to do, and the Government was obliged to seek the advice of its legal advisor in the person of the Auditor General; then my honourable and learned friend would agree we have authority for what we have done.

MR. HIGGINS: I don't agree at all, Sir.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I am sorry, but I repeat, if he will examine section 33 B—of Audit Account, he will, I hope, agree with the Government view that it has lawful authority for advising His Honour, the Lieutenant Governor to issue a special warrant to the Treasury for payments which in fact were made from the Treasury for this purpose. But the particular question the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland asked was whether this $2,050,000 represented roughly one quarter of the amount to be spent by the Department of Economic Development for the next 12 months. No, far from it, it represents by far the greater portion of what the Department of Economic Development proposes to spend in the coming 12 months, I may further amplify my remarks in that regard: The machinery for the cement mill has arrived in part, the steel for the frame of the building has arrived and is now in the course of erection. Some more of the machinery for the gypsum plant has arrived and soon now a steamer will arrive at Corner Brook carrying machinery for the cement mill and for the gypsum plant as well.

MR. CASHIN: Is that paid for?

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is not paid for, it would be out of this sum, if the House grants the Government the authority to spend that sum. Now that shipment of machinery for the cement and gypsum plant, which will arrive shortly, will not clean up the machinery and equipment for the two mills; there will come, after machinery and equipment for the two mills, there will come, after that, one further shipment. That will, I think, complete the record. None of it is paid for until it arrives.

MR. CASHIN: How much is it all going to cost?

MR. SMALLWOOD: That I am afraid I must decline to say, for reasons you will understand, it is not in the public interest yet and may not be for a month or more to reveal what the cement mill and the gypsum mill have cost. It is not outside the public interest to reveal the cost of the birch plant because the disposition of the birch plant has been arranged so there is no purpose that would serve the public interest in continuing to conceal the cost of the birch plant. The contract for operations has been signed, but in the case of the cement mill and gypsum plant, no contract has been signed either for operation of these two plants or for the sale of them. Negotiations, however, effecting the disposition of these two mills are now proceeding, have been proceeding for several weeks past and will continue to proceed for perhaps another month and actual negotiations for the disposition whether operating or renting or sale of these mills are proceeding. Therefore, it would, the Government holds, be very much contrary to public interest to reveal what they have cost the Government to put there.

I will say this, I don't know but that I have in confidence told my honourable and gallant friend, I believe I have, in confidence told my friend, as I have offered to tell my honourable and learned friend, the Leader of the Opposition, what the mills are costing us.

MR. CASHIN: No.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Well, I would be very happy to do so, providing the information is not published. They have cost a pretty penny, but let me say this, the Government are proud of the Contracts it has made for building of the cement mill and building of the gypsum plant, I saw with my own eyes, Canada Cement estimates, specific cost of the cement mill at New Brunswick, shown to me by the President and General Manager of that great company. I have seen the cost of a cement mill now being built in Kingston, Jamaica, of identically the same size and capacity. There are three cement plants of the same size all producing the same quantity of cement; one at New Brunswick, one at Kingston, Jamaica and one at Corner Brook.

and I say now that we are building our mill for the people of Newfoundland at a cost which compares, and here I must choose my words very carefully, compares very favourably with the cost of the other two cement mills of the same size and capacity being erected at the same time. Now my honourable friend opposite, would not, I am sure, take second place to the Government in their desire to serve the public interest of Newfoundland, anything the Government can do privately to lay before my honourable friends opposite the relevant facts that will show this Government has made a deal for the people of Newfoundland, we are prepared to do it, but it must be on condition that for some weeks yet such information shall not be published and shall not reach the eyes or ears of certain people in the world with whom the Government are presently negotiating with regard to disposition of these two mills, whether they be leased to them, rented to them or operated by the Government or what disposition is made of them. Now I do hope that my honourable friend opposite will see the fairness and the justice to Newfoundland, to themselves, to the Government of that position.

MR. HIGGINS: We are asked to pay the sum of $2,050,000 without being given any itemized reasons for this expenditure except to say that it is for certain projects, ventures which the Government has of its own accord started in the past months, a cement mill, a birch factory, and I forget the other one. Now we have no evidence at all before us of what was spent in the past 12 months on these things. Reference was made to the Audit Act, this Act was meant only to carry through in a state of emergency which would necessitate expenditure of money by the Government, but it is a subterfuge to say the cement mill and gypsum plant are in emergency. Monies can only be spent through this authority in very important cases of emergency, the Government can take unto itself to spend money and afterwards come into the House and get the House to confirm the authority. To spend two and a half million dollars with the authority of the House is a breach of the Audit Act and the Department of the Comptroller of Finance should never have passed it, and I say this, two and a half million dollars should not be passed unless, we get some other information and I disagree very strongly with that; the Government can take it upon themselves to spend millions of dollars, without receiving any legislative authority.

MR. CASHIN: I feel I do not want to say anything that would affect the future of the Province, I would draw the attention of the House to the fact that we had voted a sum of $277,000 for economic development, and obviously they have over-spent that amount. Well now, we have a Comptroller of the Treasury, I am told. What is the use of him? It is only a farce to call him a comptroller when he has nothing to say about the matter, and the Government can pass a warrant and spend what it likes and the Comptroller of the Treasury can't stop them. I don't know how much they spent, am not particularly interested, but I do say we were asked to vote two million dollars for three months of the year for the Department of Economic Development or any other department and we are told we can't give you any particulars because we are negotiating with some Tom, Dick or Harry with respect to the operation or sale of these things, I will say this—the usefulness of this House is over. We ask a logical question and we are told, it is not in the best interest of the public, we are now expected to get the information privately and give an undertaking we will not reveal what is told. What does the public think? You, an elected Government go in and spend a lot of money without any authority of the legislature but in further legislation ask for permission to spend more money and the country is told we can't tell you why we are going to spend this money. Has the comptroller then nothing to say, the opposition or independents; there are two or three of them now. What do people elect a government for, what did they elect us for? It is just as well they never elected another Government, only a committee, another commission which will ultimately come. If we ask questions and the Government feels like it they will answer, if they don't feel like it they don't have to. I don't think that is fair to the members of the House. I am not speaking from the opposition standpoint. I am saying it is not fair to the members of the Government. I don't want to get up here and talk about the economic development programme or Dr. Valdmanis or any one but I will make this statement: I hope they are successful, but in hoping they are, I want to know what it is all about, and I think the public are entitled to know right now. It looks fishy and I suggest the Government, in their own interest, don't want to let the people know. Well, they have not called a meeting of the House privately and closed the doors and told the story. We come here like a bunch of fools. In the old days of the opposition that would never pass here, this evening. I remember an occasion thirty years ago, and please Mr. Chairman don't let anyone tell me about the Comptroller of the Treasury any more, his position is a joke. The man is all right but the position is a joke.

MR. HIGGINS: I move an amendment, this amount be reduced to one dollar.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, so far as I am concerned the House can do exactly, and of course will do exactly, as it pleases in the matter of this $2,050,000. They can authorize the Government to spend it, they can cut it down to one dollar. Without doubt they will do one thing or the other. I do ask each member of the House to bear in mind one or two facts. One: The Government has made a contract, that means Newfoundland has made a contract for the building of a cement mill to be paid for, for the building of a gypsum mill and wall board plant and a birch plant. Two: The payments are to be made under this contract at certain specified times laid down, that is to say upon delivery of the property to the Government, steel for the frame work of the building, machinery required for operation and another number of items of property. Shortly there will arrive at Corner Brook a steamer containing another delivery to the Government and as soon as that steamship arrives we must do one of two things, we must clear the imports through the customs and pay the freight and for unloading the ship or we must say "So Sorry"! but the House of Assembly decided you are not to be paid, the contract is to be broken, so you might as well take your ship and turn back again.

MR. CASHIN: The House of Assembly never made the contract.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The Government made the contract, legally, lawfully, and with lawful authority.

MR. CASHIN: And the House can't see the contract?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will show it to every member privately but because the cost is in these two contracts—

MR. CASHIN: I think that is unusual.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is a very unusual government, my honourable friend will admit. Quite true it is a Government that tries to get things done.

MR. CASHIN: But here is the boss place in here.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Right, this is the people's House and the representatives of the people demand to get, and are entitled to get this authority and the Government has no right to deny the people's representative that authority.

MR. CASHIN: That is what all the row is about.

MR. SMALLWOOD: No the Government also are the people's representatives responsible to this House of course. It has the right and duty to protect the public interest. It is our duty.

MR. CASHIN: There are millions of dollars involved.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Now my honourable and gallant friend, it is public money coming from the Treasury.

MR. CASHIN: All the more reason for the people's representatives knowing all the details.

MR. SMALLWOOD: True, very true but when that same millions of dollars involved present a picture of possible loss or profit for the people of Newfoundland, whether this money will make a million or a thousand dollars profit or lose a million or a thousand depends, entirely depends upon the action of the Government and I say here, now that the Government, insofar as I can speak for it, are cheerfully willing—I will speak slowly now so that those who are entitled to make notes may do so, I will speak at dictation speed. This Government, Sir, are fully prepared to stand or fall on the cement and gypsum mill projects. We are fully prepared to undergo public suspicion, that as my honourable and gallant friend stated, it looks fishy.

MR. CASHIN: I did not say it stinks.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I know, but he said it looks fishy. We are cheerfully prepared to have the whole public of Newfoundland suspect us of a fishy deal, of a deal involving graft and corruption for another week or more, we are cheerfully prepared for it and we still won't reveal what these mills are costing the public, and the public may damn us for it but we still won't reveal it because it is our duty.

MR. CASHIN: The public be damned, you are not going to tell them.

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable and gallant friend could not resist saying that, I know. We are prepared to be judged by the public and suspected but we will not reveal what these mills will have cost for some weeks yet, because we feel it is our duty to the public to protect the public and we will do it.

Now the House can vote a dollar, at the suggestion of my honourable friend the leader of the Opposition, to the Government to fulfill its obligations or vote us the amount necessary to fulfill the contracts. It is in the hands of the House, all of us Liberals, Tories and Independents, we can vote a dollar or the necessary two million.

MR. HIGGINS: We did not make a contract, Sir. The Government think they can spend all they want and the House may not cancel it—We made this contract costing millions, therefore, you are going to pass it. That is what it amounts to.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have had the floor long enough for the moment, and I am prepared to stand or fall, cheerfully, and proudly on the question of what the cement mill costs and whether Newfoundland is going to profit by it or not, and I would not ask a better issue to go down on, and I am quite sure other members will feel the same.

MR. JACKMAN: I would like to ask the honourable the Premier a question, as a labour man, the question is this—If this money is voted will this put men to work; that was the question, and will you give the House the information within a period of 30 days?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Yes it will—and may I go on to say this: There is arriving in St. John's on the fifth of April the managing director of a monumental firm in Britain. The managing director is arriving in St. John's on April 5th, and the same day there will arrive in New York City a very famous and very distinguished European industrialist, a Belgian this time, but I am no respecter of persons so long as they come from this side of the Iron Curtain. This person is a Belgian nobleman and the owner of vast industries, the owner of the greatest cement producing business on the continent of Europe, ex-statesman, and present great industrialist who will arrive in New York on April 5th. Nor can I, in answer to a sincere question, tell him that with these two great industrialists, one British, one Belgian and a third a great American Corporation with whom negotiations are going on now, tell him we will conclude those negotiations in a month. God help us, we are doing the best we can, trying to get things as quickly as we can, we don't want to give the mills away, we want to make money for Newfoundland tonight. Privately, we will lay our cards on the table for our honourable friends and publish them the moment the contracts are signed. It may be two weeks, three weeks, four weeks, or it may drag into five weeks.

MR. JACKMAN: If you can give assurance this money is necessary to put men to work and as quickly as possible, and there is a reason why you can't mention that at the present time, the cost and so forth, I have to say here I will certainly vote this money to see that men get work.

MR. CASHIN: I just want to point out the irregularity of the whole thing; when this House was open last year, there was nothing brought in here to cover this expenditure which has been made. The Premier knows, the House knows a contract was made without the authority of the House. If we are going to have a legislature the least we might do is recognize its authority. No contract is legal until such time as it passes this legislature. Bring them in, agree with them, put them through with the authority of the House previously given, but spend money which was not voted here last year. The point I am trying to make is this, the Controller of the Treasury's job is to stop the expenditure of money that has not been voted by this House and he has not done it. Section 33, used to be section 32 which was to be used in an emergency, well I remember and how much money was spent, but generally for relief not for the making of contracts with individuals or corporations, for starting up industries. If we went back to the Humber Deal in 1922-23 passed by minutes of council in 1922 and the General Legislature in 1923, we find a contract but the Government had not been committed to any expenditure prior to the passing of the legislature in this assembly. I note this money has actually been spent, actual cash, an entirely different matter which the Government gave and brings in a Bill for some Tom, Dick or some Nobleman, probably a pauper today.

MR. SMALLWOOD: He is a multi-millionaire, a director of several large Canadian Companies.

MR. CASHIN: In that case, if he is a director and a citizen of Europe, the dollars got to go to Europe particularly in Britain. All stocks held by a Britisher today, or any British Company holding stock in the United States for which they received dollars got to make a return to the Bank of England and the British Government, and they are not allowed to spend dollars unless or until they get permission of the Financial Treasury of the United Kingdom.

MR. SMALLWOOD: This gentleman has Canadian dollars blocked in Canada.

MR. CASHIN: Then again, he has to get permission from the Government of the United Kingdom to invest that money anywhere he likes. I don't know, I doubt it, in Britain and in Belgium they are hungry for dollars, they are selling the pound for $3.00 in order to get them and they are not allowed to spend them coming out here with a few dollars in their pockets hardly enough to pay their board when they arrive and someone got to pay it for them. If they have money out here well and good, I question these fellows, they are the slickest individuals who ever came through Gander. We are only children in their hands, I would not take one of their words taken on a stack of Bibles.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The amendment is that $2,050,000 be deleted and the figure $1.00 be substituted therefor.

Amendment lost.

MR. CASHIN: Before the Bill is actually passed, I take it from the remarks of the Premier, the Estimates will be brought down in about three weeks, maybe a little less. I know what is happening—if they are not passed by the Government at the present time, they have to go back to the printers who spend a couple of weeks, since they want to make a little extra on them (whoever they are). Now do I take it this eight million, two hundred and thirty thousand dollars is just a quarter of the estimates that are to come?

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, that is not so.

MR. CASHIN: You mentioned in your remarks, you wanted enough money to carry on, or are we to anticipate a higher expenditure.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I can assure you, very much less.

MR. CASHIN: This two million dollars is not coming out of current revenue—you don't have it not even down in the rum shop.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Our temperance measure resulted in a great decrease in sales.

MR. CASHIN: In the greatest bootlegging crime in the history of the country; you have been subsidizing the bootleggers.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We are catching up with them.

MR. CASHIN: Sure when you were forced to. With respect to revenue the Government has very little to draw on except the rum shop, the transitional grant, the Board of Liquor Control, I notice here today $1,800,000 a repayment in part, not a profit, just taking back some money your predecessors loaned them, whether credited to revenue or posted to surplus, I don't know.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Both.

MR. CASHIN: But when you speak to me about your temperance measure, I have another story about the sponsors of beer licences in saloons and making a very impressive business of it, I have here a very impressive document listing them. Now I don't want the House to think I have become one of those temperance preachers, far from it, but these fellows are going down and selling it while employed in the Government—some deputy minister in the business, paying more attention to the beer business. I notice his name is not in here, (his company is) paying more attention to the beer business than looking after his job in the public Health.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

On motion these resolutions were read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Carried.

MR. CURTIS: At this juncture, I move the House take a 10 minutes recess.

Carried.

The House recessed for 10 minutes.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Premier asks leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Accident Insurance Companies (Licensing) Act, 1939."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Premier asks leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Industrial Development Loan Act."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives asks leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act to Amend the Fisheries Loan Act."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Minister of Supply asks leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act Relating to Local Governments."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Minister of Supply asks leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act to Regulate the Development of Local Areas."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Minister of Labour asks leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Workmen's Compensation Act."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Minister of Education asks leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Memorial University Act, 1949."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

MR. RUSSELL: I wish Sir, to support the motion before the House that the address in reply be presented to His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, but before getting down to the actual discussion of the Motion, I would ask Sir, the indulgence of the House while I make a few remarks or comments regarding my change in position.

The facts are, as the honourable the Premier has already reported to the House, that since the last sitting I have resigned from my position in the Cabinet and from my position as Minister of Natural Resources. I have since been informed that the Liberal Government has expelled me from its ranks, and thus I am no longer a Liberal. By that I mean a Liberal today has a distinctive mission, I take it that a party has certain authority to admit or expell and those who are in between being expelled are Liberal but within that definition that after they are expelled, regardless of what their political ideals or political beliefs they cannot be called Liberals, so it is no good for me to pretend.

MR. SMALLWOOD: A man can be a Liberal and not a member of the Party.

MR. RUSSELL: Then I am a Liberal with a capital "L," good, though not a member of the Liberal Party.

Before going into my reasons, I want first of all to say how very very happy I am to have heard, just I think during the last 24 hours that the Liberal Party, what is left of it, apart from me, had met and given unanimous assurance of confidence and loyalty to the Party, to the Government. Anyway that means surely I will be believed when I make the statement, my action was not meant in any way to influence the actions of anyone else, and it has not. If I had intended to do that, I failed in any case. I am glad that I will never be suspected of having tried to start a movement. It is my own action, without any attempt or wish to influence another. On the contrary, I wish to say I am genuinely happy that the party has so unanimously expressed their confidence in the Government.

If any honourable member today, Mr. Speaker, is expecting me to break out into some scathing denunciation of the Premier, and all his work, or make any startling exposé of evil or vice or bad behaviour of the Liberal Government, he is due for a disappointment, for the reason, for my doing what I did, and I assure you I realize the seriousness of what I did. The things I am going to mention are in the main, public knowledge already; to mention them is not exposing them except what the public, if they don't know, they have a very good opportunity of knowing. The second reason is that the Government is still the Government, honourable the Premier is still the Premier elected by the people of this country; I don't see any alternative Government, I don't see any point if I could abuse them, of saying anything whatever detrimental to them, or to the work they are trying to do. The third reason: That anything I know today by reason or by virtue of having once been a cabinet minister, I am not going to reveal, I do not intend to reveal, even under pressure; if I did, I could tell what the cement mill is going to cost and the gypsum mill, I don't intend to do it. A Cabinet Minister is bound by an oath of secrecy, not to divulge anything that goes on in Cabinet meeting. Not only is it disloyal to the Cabinet, it is more serious than that. I am not sure, I have not gone into it very deeply, it maybe even a breach of an oath which is taken by every Cabinet Minister when he is entering the Cabinet, and that brings up a very important point.

Mr. Speaker, you will have heard the honourable the Premier mention, once or twice about joint responsibility of the Cabinet, and I am getting now to one of the most important reasons why I could not remain in it. Joint responsibility is this way, suppose you were a Cabinet Minister, Sir, and you disapproved most heartily, most vigorously, vehemently, on principle, on an imaginary point, for any reason whatsoever in a Cabinet meeting, on a measure being discussed and you are out-voted. When happily everybody agrees on everything, then that joint responsibility does not matter, naturally anything I am in favour of I am perfectly willing to take responsibility for the rest of my life, but the problem comes when one disagrees. I want you to consider the position of the man who disagrees with what the Cabinet is considering, and from then on he has to assume responsibility for that particular action. Now without divulging anything confidential, and if any more experienced member of the House finds I am getting near the border-line I will welcome his warning. It must be obvious to the public, to the House and to you, Sir, that when ten or twelve men, members of a Government, committed to a make or break policy, a policy to which I have never subscribed, when from time to time in accordance with that philosophy they discuss measures to be taken, urgent ones, probably ones involving considerable quantities of public money, it must be obvious there will be times when there won't be absolute unanimity. The Cabinet member then, who is on the losing end must for the rest of his life carry around the result of a decision he did not agree with, not only that, but when speaking outside the Cabinet, he can't say—well I didn't agree to it. And if he gets into an argument, to try and defend it is more difficult still, and under the difficulty of trying to defend things I don't agree with I am no expert. He has that hung around his neck for the rest of his life like the albatross around the neck of the ancient mariner, and there is also a danger of acquiring that odor my honourable friend from Ferryland mentioned, a fishy one, might or might not, it is there—joint responsibility.

Now Sir, I am going to give the Premier a word of advice, friendly, I intend it so anyway, if I pick the wrong words unfortunately, I want to assure him it is with no thought of rancor, no thought of anything but wishing him well, I am going to advise him to do one of two things in future, as head of a Cabinet. First of all maybe what did serve in the 19th century these ideas can be changed a little, softened a little, made less rigid. Maybe, they will do in other countries, probably they can't be changed, probably this rigid condition must continue which began with the first Cabinet, maybe can't be changed in other countries, but I am going to ask him to consider if they can be changed a little bit for Newfoundland. I am sorry I cannot go and face the world and pretend I agree, maybe other people of other countries can, and I appeal to him, if it can be done, if he can possibly soften the rigidity of Cabinet control regulations, or if he can't do that another thing he can do and somehow I think he will. Try and make every effort to get unanimity, it may mean deferring something which appears urgent, it may even mean shelving some pet scheme until every member of the Cabinet has had the same opportunity to study it properly as he had, and it may need longer time, we don't all have a rapier brain which the honourable the Premier has, is fortunate enough to possess. If he won't do one of those two things, I am afraid, Sir, that I cannot express that I have sufficient confidence in him even to head a Cabinet for a very long period, because, Sir, you just can't insist upon a matter of principle, I am not the only man in the Government forever and ever being forced to take joint responsibility for things he does not believe in, I mean, Sir, things of a serious nature, not who will be a J.P. and who will be put on a board of Education, but serious things, and I hope he will do it.

Now I can't defend things I don't agree with, I find it difficult to keep quiet, but if by keeping quiet, I have to give passive defense: In my own district, in the presence of a committee of 10 or 12 pretty select men picked by a public meeting, I was asked what did we mean by certain measures, since I won't mention what the measures are, I am free to say now that I did not necessarily agree with any one of them and I felt they had a right to know, to judge whether the member they had elected had any sense or not. Anyway I wanted the right to express my opinion, I may not insist upon using that right, but I want to know I have that right to express my opinion on public matters, wherever, however, to whomsoever I wish. For a year and a half I have not had it. Now I have it, I have paid for it. Incidentally, one of my children said to me "Daddy, where are you going to work now"? She suggested a job, a very commonplace one, she had not been around to any of the mills yet, she suggests that perhaps I could get a job collecting garbage, an honourable job, but I explained to her, first of all I didn't think I would get it, if I applied for it, and in the second place I don't think I would endure very long, but as long as I had the right to criticize the doings of his Worship the Mayor and all the Councillors.

Now Sir, coming to the story of what happened, when, why and how? I had not been in the Cabinet very long, four or five months probably, not being specific, when I had occasion to feel that on principle I was opposed to certain important measures. I opposed them violently, vehemently, asked permission of the Government to give me the right to oppose it publicly, this I did not get, Cabinet rules are Cabinet rules, and I was quite properly refused that permission. I heard once the story of a great English Statesman who was allowed to do it once, on a matter of principle. Well my principles are as important to me as his to him. So I spoke in confidence to one of my colleagues, who is listening to me now, as far back as four or five months after my election I was seriously thinking of resigning. Why not then? I did not have the courage, I should have obviously, when I felt I could not conscientiously support a Government measure. A year later, I can mention this now, all the public have made reference to it, I did give a written resignation to his Honour the Lieutenant Governor, which I never withdrew, and one to the Premier. I gave as my reason, I am not sure of the wording, but to the effect I could no longer assume joint responsibility in the eyes of the public with certain Government policies, that was the gist of it, I don't know what the words were, I have no copy, there might be one in my files, the honourable the Minister of Public Welfare may check. I was very gratified with the sympathetic understanding given me by several senior members, especially by the Premier and I agreed after some discussion that I would defer action. Then we come to the famous letter of January 27. I have already said to someone from the press, two or maybe more, it was pointed out to me by two together at one time, it was not fair to the Premier to have my resignation on his desk, any day he would wake up and find I had published it or not, although he was easy enough about it. It was not fair to him. I want to say now, he is the most hard-working man in Newfoundland today, works with greater intensity than anybody else ever elected, certainly harder than I. This was in January, it was a particularly busy time and trying time in the Premier's life and I did realize it was not fair to him to have this thing hanging, it was better to settle it one way or the other, and what I should have done then was resigned. Why did I not? I don't know of any reason except I just did not have the courage. I will mention one thing, at that time the Government was just about to do what in my opinion is one of the wisest things it has ever done, the organization of the Fisheries Council where trade, fishermen, and both the Federal and Provincial Governments are working jointly. It is a pity it had not been done long before, we were doing expensive things without the advice of such a council. But it was rather cheerful to think, here is the first concrete definite attempt made to get some possibility of some assistance for the fisheries from the place where most of it should come, the Federal Government. Anyway, with all that, actually the main reason was I did not have the courage, did not make up my mind—indecisiveness, I hope none of you ever do it, it is not an easy job, resigning from a Cabinet, I will assure you; not easy to do and I hesitated quite a while doing it. I wrote a letter and that letter served one useful purpose for the time being, gave the Premier the letter, then though I needn't bother about that any more, that is off my mind, go on to something else. Finally when I did resign, I did it cleanly and because I use the word clean, I don't want any contradiction on the word clean. By clean I mean like Alexander with the gorgon knot—Now at least the honourable the Premier would know where he is and would not have to worry about that.

Now, I will come back to my actual resignation. Saturday morning was to have been a Cabinet meeting, which I would have ordinarily attended. It was probable that we would begin discussing the Estimates for next year, revenue and expenditures. Recollecting joint responsibility, I realized if I sat in on those sessions, I was making myself responsible for the financial policy of the Government for next year. I did not go. There was only one way I knew not to go. I am not Sir, I can not be responsible in the eyes of the public for next year's Estimates. I don't know what they are yet, I had a draft, but I felt quite sure that that will be cut down a lot, a great deal will be taken off but not enough to convince me the financial policy of this Government is a sound one. There will be other opportunities during this session, when the Budget is brought down and debated and still in the House I may speak at greater length on the financial picture as I see it, the financial prospects for this province.

At this time I want to say, it is my sincere opinion that the Provincial Government is heading for financial ruin, that we are rapidly reaching a point, if we have not already reached it and passed it, where not only our capital surplus, that is two-thirds what was left when we went into Union, not only will all be gone but we have committed ourselves to spending more than we actually have in our current account. We have built up services, many unnecessary, far more costly than we can raise revenue to pay for them; and all that before the transitional grant has begun to taper off, interest and sinking funds charges beginning to pile up on money the Government must pay on if they are to maintain their present position. Now I can't feel; I wish I could; I have tried to but I can't feel too optimistic about what is going to happen when our money is all gone and the Royal Commission comes here. I have met a lot of those men from Ottawa, found them all right but reasonably hard-boiled, no suspicion whatever of a red coat or white whiskers in any of them and I would not want to put any ideas in their head; I cannot, sorry, I cannot feel any great optimism about what will happen then. So, Sir, I submit, we are rapidly heading into a financial mess, the taxpayers of the Province must eventually pay for it in one way or another, and that the Government lacks either the will or courage to avert it. That statement, Mr. Speaker, may be wrong, I hope it is wrong and I will do all I can from whatever side of the House to help make it wrong, but if it is wrong let it be my political epitaph..

Well now, maybe the Government will be better, certainly they are sadder but while the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return. Maybe they will get on what I consider, rightly or wrongly to be a better road, and I am going to give the Premier a tip as to how to get on that road. One of the immediate problems is to get a successor, and I am going to advise him what to do. Don't put anybody in there, in fact, again for more reasons than one, and if two more went don't replace those at the moment. I urge you not to replace the two vacancies existing now. There are not enough members in the Assembly to justify the number of heads of Departments. The honourable Premier knows, I don't think he can contradict me, he is reasonably sure of it. I have been perfectly willing to take the same salary or less than he is getting. Save one or two cabinet ministers' salaries, it is not much, only $14,000 but there are people in Bonavista District depending on saw mills who did not haul $14,000 worth of lumber last year or did not catch that much fish all last summer. It may well be we will have to appeal to the fishermen to tighten their belts until some of the planning of the Government bears fruit, and if our people have to be appealed to they can take it if the Government will only give them inspiration; set an example and if there is going to be any belt tightening, I suggest the Honourable the Premier can do a bit in the Government.

Now, Sir, singing my swan song, there are a few odds and ends I want to tie up. I want to pay a tribute to the people I worked with in the Department of Natural Resources; one or two were not too loyal but good hard working men and capable men. I want especially to mention my Deputy Minister, Mr. Carter; express my satisfaction and pleasure and pleasant memories of my work there; I want to make two apologies to the Premier, I don't know whether he needs them or not but I need to make them. One for the abruptness with which I severed my connection with him. I knew it was the only way, any other way might have meant, committees, telegraphs, long distance telephones probably ending up, as I did not have too much courage, in my remaining, if he had been so kind as to ask me. The second one, I feel this particular time, I still feel it is the right time to do it, the time to make up my mind whether or not by attending one or more meetings of the Cabinet I would be committing myself to the policy of the Government for the whole year because there is going to be some fairly weighty legislature coming in and it is no reflection on my successor whatever to say he is going to find it a little difficult in the committee stage to make the explanations, so I am sorry I have left a little gap there. I can assure them I will do all I can to help. I don't suppose it would be proper for me to ever come over and sit at the table but from this side of the House I will do all that I can to explain to the House on second reading and do anything else I can to help them, that is if he wants me.

Now to my District, it need not be much of a shock to find I have left the Cabinet, that is all I have done, I did not know I was going to be in the Cabinet when they elected me; they voted me in, to the best of my knowledge, as a private member, so on that score I don't feel I have any need to say much, but they did elect me as a Liberal and a member of the Liberal Party, and here I am now not in it, that is going to require some explanation. I don't know how much more they will need, I don't know what their reactions will be. I can say to them, only this, I made no promises, I told them in my campaign that I would try to do the best I could to represent them and make no other promises, not one except that I would do my best, I will do that now, probably better than I used to, now that I have more time I will be down pestering the life out of the Public Works on behalf of my district. So, if they want me, I am not going to put the Province to the expense of a by-election by resigning. They can't afford a by-election, they need all the money they got, but if they insist there are various ways they can tell me. I won't count the signatures to see if there is a majority but if there is any strong sentiment, pronounced sentiment in my district against me, I will resign to you, Mr. Speaker, and I won't contest the by-election. I would be a fool if I did.

Now my future behaviour, if and when I remain here. I am going to support, unqualified, every measure taken by the Government before I left the Cabinet. There will come in here from time to time, there was one this afternoon, supplementary supply resolutions; I will vote with the Government whether or not I agree or disagree with the Leader of the Opposition on the interpretation or other matters, but I will vote with the Government because I was with the Government when all these things were done. I can't pick and choose and say I will vote for some and not for others, but I am not going to divulge which ones I supported and which I did not. So I will consistently support the Government on all matters referring to things done by the Government while I was a member of the cabinet, but in matters from now on, I must use my own judgment, and I can not do otherwise. Now this does not mean I am going to be consistently against them, I am going to use my own sense and conscience God gave me, I can do no other.

Now I must say a word to my partner in crime, the honourable member for White Bay. Incidentally, he and I are now in a party to ourselves. The honourable member for Ferryland is not in our party at all. He did not do what we did, we are not in the same boat at all. But I listened a few days ago to the honourable member for White Bay, I understood the feeling and imagination with which he spoke and I understand them better now than then. All right call him politically immature, indiscreet, but no one who listened could doubt his sincerity and surely there is room in the Liberal party for a man like that. He asked me one question, Mr. Speaker, about my department, something about giving the people back the three mile limit. The reason is the Government does not owe the three mile limit. Bowaters Limited owns some of it and Reids Transportation practically all the rest of it, and the Government can no more give it away than they can give away St. John's. But I can't see a man like that outside the Liberal party and nothing worth speaking about keeping him out.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I want to thank you and the House for your indulgence in listening, I had not intended to speak a great deal today about matters contained in the Speech from the Throne, in view of the statement by me that from now on I would support every measure taken while I was a member of the Cabinet. The Speech from the Throne was drafted while I was a member and I give it my unqualified support.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, one of the greatest mistakes the honourable member for Bonavista South ever made in his life was the mistake he made when he accepted my invitation to him to enter my administration. Of many, that I have made in my life was the mistake of inviting him, my honourable friend, into my Cabinet. And I have never seen two mistakes so well illustrated and described as my honourable friend has just done, in his very frank and very honest speech. If ever a man unfitted by temperament and belief and convictions to be a member of a Cabinet, revealed his intellectual temperamental unfitness for cabinet rank, my honourable friend has just done it. He will understand well, what I mean, and that I mean this in the kindest way when I say that he is an intellectual anarchist—He knows well that does not mean one who goes around throwing bombs and killing people, governors, emperors and kings, but that he is in the great tradition of freedom and independence which is indeed a great and glorious thing in the world, but a Cabinet is not a committee, a Cabinet is not a jubilee guild, a Cabinet is not a co-operative society, a Cabinet is not a study club. The Cabinet is the Government, at all events it is a part of the Government. With the King in England, with the Governor General in Canada, and with the Lieutenant Governor in Newfoundland it is the Government. The Cabinet, the body of men who must govern, and not be a study club to sit around and debate and philosophize, but rather where one must sit around a table and decide, we will do this, we will not do that and decide, ten, twenty, thirty times every meeting. Action, decision, and obviously men must think, men must study, men must read and weigh a mass of papers. My honourable friend is to be envied to be rid of the papers, armfuls of them. I read them at 1:00 and 2:00 and 4:00 in the morning, in bed, armfuls of them. Any Minister with any proposal to make to his colleagues, puts it in a paper and it is circulated to all his colleagues and all read and read, in bed and while they are eating breakfast and dinner, papers, armfuls of papers, bagfuls of them. You don't vote in a Cabinet meeting to do this or that, unless you read and know the text and details. It is action all the time in a Cabinet, and if action is lost in the pale shades of thought, the Government ceases to govern and becomes a study club, becomes a debating club. A Cabinet is made up of men who decide, sitting around a table, decide to build that road, or not to build it; that for the coming year we will spend a million on roads or two or three millions; to build this cottage hospital or not to build or not to do this, to do this, do that; or do the other or not. Always action, doing things, deciding around a Cabinet table, making decisions of that sort. Besides which a Cabinet Minister has to sit at his own desk in his own office and receive hundreds of telegrams, hundreds of phone calls a day, hundreds of letters a day, hundreds of visitors a day, they pour in in multitudes, they flood, they drown you. Unless and until you are willing to work seventeen and eighteen hours a day, you should not be in a Cabinet. Hard work, gruelling work, not just philosophizing. Above all it requires that a man should not be an independent philosopher: John Dewey in New York, at Columbia University, he is a man to whom you can take your hat off as I do, but could we have him in a Cabinet? Bertrand Russell, a man with intelligence and imagination to make all of us clod-hoppers and clowns, but God forbid that such a great philosopher should help us to decide whether we should build a road from Seal Cove to Baie Verte because he would sit there all day and wrangle and debate and there would be no road built.

Now my honourable friend has entreated me to bring unanimity into the Cabinet and appealed to me to change the rules. I can't do that. I did not make the rules. The rules were made before I was born, or any man in this building and before his father and grandfather. Made in England, the home of Responsible Government, the home of free speech, democracy, the home of British Parliamentary Government. That is where the rules were made, and what are the rules? They are these: If I join a co-operative or a study club, and I am selected to the committee of that club, there are five of us around the table and we are debating this and that decision and I disagree with the other members of the committee, what do I do? When I disagree with the decision taken what is the democratic way in a public meeting, in a lodge, a jubilee guild, a church meeting, some motion is put, there are so many for, so many against. Do I get up and walk out? Do I say I won't play in your back yard? No I stay in. Do they break up the organization? No they stay in. Now a Cabinet is not a study club, it is not a debating club and long before I was born the rules were made. The rules were made that if twelve men in a Cabinet, and I am a member of it and something comes up and I am against it, but the 11 are for it. I may be the very man called upon by the Government to stand up and defend it, and I got to do it or I don't belong to a Cabinet. Now if something violates my conscience, I have to walk out for conscience sake. If for example, in the present Cabinet we were to bring in a matter to decide about, for instance denominational schools and our decision were to do away with denominational schools and the decision were eight to four, then the four who were in favour of denominational education would in conscience have to walk out of that Cabinet. Supposing we were to bring in a Bill to create a divorce court, and we were all in favour of it except my honourable friend the Minister of Public Welfare, he is only one, there are 11 in favour of it. We say, we will have a divorce court, but my honourable friend says, my conscience won't allow me, I must leave the Cabinet if you persist in that Bill. Where a man's conscience is at stake, he cannot stand up and defend a decision. But in everything else except conscience or principle; I have stood here in this House and I have advocated things and sponsored and defended things that I did not agree with, and no man can be Premier in this world, if he does not do it. Now, I have not defended anything against my conscience, anything against my principles, but again and again in Cabinet when decisions are taken which I don't agree with, what do I do? Do I say I won't play in your back yard? I don't. I go along with the majority the same as in a jubilee guild, a trade union, a fisherman's union; whatever the majority say I go along with them unless my conscience or principles are at stake.

There was a good example of this in England when Lord Suowden, the great Chancellor of the Exchequer, the last of the great free traders of England, the inheritor of the traditions of John Bright, was Chancellor of the Exchequer in a Cabinet that decided to throw over free trade. That was a position for a man to be in. All his life behind him, he had advocated free trade, now he is Chancellor of the Exchequer and all his colleagues decide to throw over free trade. Lord Snowdon said he could not go into the House of Commons and defend the Government's act; could not do it conscientiously. Do you know what he did? It was the one and only time in British history it ever happened before or since. The Cabinet said, Snowdon go into the House and attack us and remain a member of the Cabinet and remain Chancellor of the Exchequer. The one and only time in British History, British Constitutional History and that one proves the rule.

Stand or fall together, not revealing any Cabinet secrets. I am not revealing any Cabinet secrets when I say there is not a member in the Cabinet, not one who has not dickered some time, very strongly resisted and opposed propositions that were before the Cabinet. Do you suppose you can get twelve Newfoundlanders—Newfoundlanders—we will rant and we will roar—to go into a Cabinet without disagreeing sometimes, you ought to hear the ranting and roaring and fist pounding. What else do you expect from twelve Newfoundlanders. We fight and squabble and argue, and so in every cabinet in the world, but we slug it out, I stand up to my view point and my honourable friend the Minister of Public Works, does he know how to stand up for his view point? Does my honourable friend there know how to stand up for his view point or my old and honoured friend from St. John's West, whoever could have believed (I am going to break a rule and mention names) whoever could have believed that Jimmie Spratt could be kept quiet. He is not kept quiet in Cabinet but whatever is decided he is a man with any of us who will get up and defend it, defend it to the death. That is what it means. Twelve men, now eleven who in honesty can be wrong; we can be wrong but who in honesty, sincerity, decide to build that road there or not there, build this year, build a cottage hospital, in Ferryland this year. Do you think we don't debate that? We fight and we squabble and we disagree and then we take a vote. We don't take a vote in the Cabinet, a Cabinet is not a committee. We don't take a vote in Cabinet, and I say here and now, I would not turn to the Cabinet and say "enter that minute" unless that Cabinet were agreed on it, practically agreed, or there were more than two members of the Cabinet who could not agree with it. My colleagues are here, they hear what I am saying—I am telling the truth or lying, one or the other. Then if there are one or two who still object, what do I do. I say, well now old man, or Ned or Tom or Les or Bill or Jimmie, don't forget you may be the very one I may ask to get up and defend it, are you so hot you cannot do that. He will laugh and say, very well I will go along with it, with the majority—that is the only way you can run it and if any man thinks he can go into a Cabinet and still be an independent, he is making an awful mistake. It is nice to be able to run with the tide, to be independent, but it does not belong in a Cabinet, that is one sacrifice, he and I have to make. My honourable friend here has done it, the Minister of Education, the Attorney General, Minister of Fisheries, Minister of Labour, Minister of Provincial Affairs. Do you think for one minute that all those men have always agreed on everything? It would have to be a meeting of the saints, to get agreement like that, it could not be done on earth. And we are not saints. We would not be prepared to take on this job in Newfoundland and overcome a hundred years of neglect. How many thousand old people are you sending out five million a year to? Two thousand. We did that. How many thousand widows and mothers do we send out pensions to every month? 3,500. How many cripple people who cannot work or who are rheumatized or twisted up from fishing too long: 5,700. How many is that altogether? Newfoundlanders who until the last year and a half, what did they have before we came into power. Have you lived in Newfoundland, do you know Newfoundland?

I see a man here today from a place that I know well, and as long as I live on this earth, to my dying day, I will never forget a meeting I attended of a committee in that settlement one night in the dole days. A man at that meeting said to me, I have not had a bit of butter on my loaf, and he meant bread, for the last two years. And he did not mean butter, he meant margarine. For two years, he and his family lived without even "Solo" to spread on their bread. And I remember a remark of another fisherman who sat on my left—"By God, before I see my family live like that, someone will die." His first name was Guss and two months later I missed him, that man who had not had the margarine on his white bread and I asked where he was, and I was told he was sick. What is wrong, I asked, has he had a doctor? I went over to see what was wrong with him. He had a little small fisherman's home and a little garden in front of it as big as a postage stamp, about 5 x 12 and a fence on the road and a little walk up to the front door. It was a fine summer day and I saw him open the front door and walk down towards the gate. He did not see me, because he could not look up, he was coming down scuffing his leg, then with an effort getting that leg straight, then the other one and he landed at the gate out of breath and I said to him: In God's name Doug, what is wrong with you and he said, I don't know, master. The doctor came over, he had beri-beri. He was one of the finest fisherman-planters Newfoundland ever bred. They don't grow them like it today. All right, we came in and we got elected a year and a half ago. How many people did you say, Doctor? Nearly twenty thousand, but they tell us we are heading for bankruptcy. Are we? Heading for a financial mess, are we? Wait and see, wait and see. We have made mistakes of course, we have made mistakes, look at the mess we have made of the Iceland boats, an awful mistake, it has cost us a lot of money. We did not start off to lose a lot of money that way, did we sit around the table and say: "Boys what say we lose $300,000, $400,000, $500,000 on this Icelandic venture. We are not that foolish, we were not that bad. We tried to help the fisheries, and we had bad luck. Bad luck, the very first time when we got the boats, we could not get a herring in Fortune Bay, the first time in years, in Placentia Bay there was a failure, in St. Mary's Bay, in Conception Bay, in Trinity Bay, in Green Bay, where the herring had been they were not there any more. The herring were not there and we lost a pot of money. And we made other mistakes. I have made more than one mistake. No Government can work harder than we are working. No Government could have accomplished more in two years than we have accomplished. The only man who makes no mistakes is the man who does nothing, and that is a mistake, therefore he makes one. I have made mistakes, they have been mistakes, perhaps of the heart. They were not deliberate and Mr. Speaker, we are going to be judged by the people, I talk about the toiling masses, well that is where we are going to be judged. But as my honourable and gallant friend from Ferryland, the old veteran of the House who has sense enough, has seen Governments come and go, he knows, he is cute enough and experienced enough, that the people do not judge a Government by their occasional mistakes, what the people want to know is this: Is this a do-nothing Government, just drawing their fat salaries and sitting on their fat back-sides, or are they trying to do something? That is how people judge a Government. Not by your mistakes, but by what you try to do. Are you willing to spend? Spend what? Money? More important, are you willing to spend yourself, spend your sweat, spend your time, spend your mind, spend your body for the people of Newfoundland, are you willing to do that? That is what they judge you by, not by the few mistakes. They will forgive them, they will overlook that so long as they can feel in their hearts that it is a Government trying to do something, not a do-nothing Government.

As I travelled around Newfoundland for many years in more than a thousand of the thirteen hundred settlements, six thousand miles around, in most of those I have been, and I kept my ear to the ground and I listened to a lot of talk and also did a lot of talking, but I did a lot of listening, I did both, and what did I hear: Why doesn't the Government do this and why doesn't the government do that, and why doesn't the government do something, one thing they don't want is a do-nothing government. Well they have not got one now, they can never accuse us of that. That is one charge they will never make against us. We may scare ourselves and our supporters who stand behind us, loyal supporters who stand behind us and we can't be the government unless they do stand by us, they must get scared a little too sometimes at the speed with which we act. I am sure my honourable and gallant friend would rather a government that looked like it was going mad than one he could not see moving at all. Can't keep up with them, that is the way I want—

MR. SPEAKER: May I interrupt. The visitors are to make no comment whatever. There has been noise once or twice already. It is competent for members to have the gallery cleared.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Now my honourable friend the member from Bonavista South has had quite a bit of experience in his lifetime. He was for some years a school teacher and then for some years he was a magistrate, then for some years the director of the co-operative division, all that mounts up to 25 or 30 years. In those years he travelled around Newfoundland quite a bit and got to know Newfoundland very well, he has read quite a bit, thought a lot, like all of us: where would you find a man who knocked around Newfoundland more than the honourable Minister of Public Works, sure he surveyed half of it, building roads and bridges all over it. We have all been around a lot, knocked around a lot, we all came from the common class of people. My honourable friend, the Minister of Public Welfare, was a fisherman, his father and his brother were fishermen. Do you think it has nothing to do with it that he was a fisherman, why does this man come into the cabinet and pound his fist and say, spend on roads and hospitals and schools and cement mills and I won't object but I want the widows and cripples taken care of. Why does he say that? Because he came out of a fishing boat. All of us came from the people, the only aristocrat among us is the Attorney General; he is a lawyer, we got to have one or we would all end in jail. His principle job is to keep us out of jail. To see that if we build a cement mill we do it lawfully and won't end up where the leader of the Opposition can say you did something unlawful. That is his job to keep us out of jail. He is the Attorney General; the first law officer of the Crown and his lawyers down there in the Department with him, who draw up all the Bills and contracts and tell us what is legal and what is not legal. Except for him, and he is an outport boy born in Twillingate, we are all common people, we are not ashamed of it, I am not ashamed of it. We are all common people in here, look at my honourable friend from Bell Island, a working man all his life and my honourable friend next, working with unions all his life and my honourable friend behind, a trade union man also. My honourable friend, the leader of the Opposition, a working man all his life, a lawyer and they have their good uses. We are all ordinary poor men here. I am not as poor as I was a year and a half ago. First time in my life with a dollar, and still have not got one, believe it or not. Yes I have, I got paid part of my sessional pay here the other day and put it in the bank I have drawn some checks on it. My Minister's pay I get is gone before I get it.

MR. CASHIN: The high cost of living.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The high cost of being Premier. The high cost of having every woman who is put out of her house, not every one but a good many of them; I have seen about four out of five put out in the last year, they have all come to me. And when my honourable friend here does not give enough dole they come straight down to me and if it is in the night, I can't send them back. That is why I have no pay left.

We are not in this for money, it is too hard. You can earn a living a lot easier than in the job I have. Of course there is a lot of fun in it. I enjoy it, I love every minute of it and would be heart-broken if we were kicked out. I know I would, I would go to bed for about two weeks but when I woke up I would eat my heart out thinking that this was not being done and that had probably been dropped because some other Government came in.

We get a lot of satisfaction out of it. I like to call it fun, I don't call it work. It is not work when you love doing a thing.

Now regarding my honourable friend over there, I am sorry he is not here, I don't want to say anything when he is not here to hear. I have not said anything in print except I said this, he is happier out of the cabinet, and I don't think he was ever happy in it, he is not the kind of man who should be in there. Now it is a luxury to sit across there like my honourable friends. They got to oppose the Government, they are His Majesty's Opposition. It is their duty to attack the Government, it is their duty, if they don't do that they would be falling down on their jobs. But the Independents, they are not Tories, they are not Liberals. They can support the Tories when they like and the Liberals when they like or not vote at all if they don't want to, as my honourable and gallant friend from Ferryland did not cast a vote today. They are not held accountable for anything, no one to say you should have done this, you made a mistake here, no one will ever blame them or say a word against them, that is a real luxury. But over here on this side of the House we have to be prepared every time that a motion might be defeated and we would have to go to His Honour the Lieutenant Governor and say we have been defeated, and he would have to say "Well, Mr. Premier, I am sorry you have been defeated, you will please hand over your seal of office," and I would hand them over. Then there is one last advice I am supposed to give him. When he asks me whom would you suggest I should call on to form a Government, and I would suggest he call on the leader of the Opposition to form a Government. Every time a Government motion is defeated, I must resign and the whole cabinet resigns with me. That is the law, that is why we got to have a party to keep a Government there because every time the Government makes a motion, introduces a resolution—if that amendment proposed this afternoon by my honourable and learned friend the Leader of the Opposition had carried I would be over at Government House five minutes later resigning and by now my honourable and gallant friend would be over in Government House discussing with the Lt.-Governor how to form a cabinet. That is what democracy means. If we do not have the majority, if members do not support us and keep us in power we go out and that is why every time there is a motion a member has to make a decision, will I support it as I did yesterday?—and every day he makes that decision and when the majority fails to support the Government they go out of office. That is why members often vote when they don't think very much of it but they say, on the whole they are the best of the lot, and so they support it.

Now I have no hard feelings, God knows, against my honourable friend the member for Bonavista South, no hard feelings and don't know whether he has any. I am a little hurt, we are all a little hurt. Do you suppose when my honourable friend, the honourable Minister for Public Works, took up the "Daily News" this morning and read that one of his colleagues came out and said "I have no confidence in the Government," do you suppose the honourable Minister for Public Welfare or the honourable Minister for Public Health, felt very good about it when they heard their former colleague come out and say he had no confidence in them, in any of them, in any of the members of the Government? Do you think we liked that? We could have gotten sulky and said we had no confidence in you, tit for tat, but we don't want to be childish about it. We are not going to say a word.

One more thing I would like to say before I adjourn the debate. When my honourable friend made so much of the fact, said it to the "Daily News" Saturday morning, said it to the radio stations and said it here this afternoon. He is not going to divulge anything, any cabinet secrets, he is not going to divulge any information that he got in cabinet. When he says that, I wonder if he realizes what an ugly sound it has. Some people can take that to mean this—I am bound by oath not to divulge what I learned in the cabinet, I am bound by oath to keep to myself but—If I were not bound by oath what I could tell. Now some people will understand it that way. Let me say this. That every single act of the Government, without exception, since we took office, from the moment we took office and were sworn in until this moment and every moment from then to now, every single act of the Government was so clean, honest, honourable, we would invite, we would welcome open scrutiny. We can't ask him to break his oath, though I do now invite him before this session has closed, I invite him to say this, that he does not mean that if he could talk, if he could break his oath, people would hear all kinds of stories of graft and corruption. He does not imply it, I must say that, but I say that without doubt there are people who when they hear him say "I am bound by oath, I can't tell what I learned in cabinet," people who will say, O but if he could talk, if he could break his oath, he could tell us something. There are people. I dare say, who would think that, and for that reason invite my honourable friend who was our colleague here for a year and a half, I invite him, before this session is over, to stand up and say he does not mean that he knows of any graft or corruption or improper things done by the cabinet. I invite him to say that and I think he is man enough to do it and honourable enough, and I invite him to do it and ask him to do it. It is bad enough and hurtful enough when a colleague, one man out of twelve, goes and tells a newspaper, "I have no confidence in this Government and I have no confidence in my eleven colleagues," that is hurtful but on top of that it lays suspicion in people's minds that he can not talk. Then he leaves them open to suspicion that they are a pack of rogues, grafters, incompetent, not only incompetent but if the truth could be told a bunch of scallywags as well. He is not here but no doubt he will hear what I am asking him before the session is over that frankly, to the best of his knowledge and the best of his belief that this is an honest government, I ask him to get up and say that before the session is over in the next few weeks. Because I hope my honourable friends opposite, if they should ever live long enough to occupy our place over here, will be the Government of Newfoundland, I hope when you are in the cabinet giving time and energy to the job and one of your colleagues leaves you, I hope he won't insult you and hurt you by saying the cabinet is no good to govern so I had to get out—all out of step but Ted—I hope you won't have that experience, it is not very grateful, not very grateful and we don't appreciate it over here one bit, that is the nearest I am going to go to being bitter or vindictive. What I am sorry for is that it has happened, I am sorry for his sake, sorry for our sake that I ever made the mistake of inviting him in to the cabinet in the first place, but I am only glad now for his sake and mine that he is out. I know he is glad too he is out—we just could not hit it off, and it is better for Newfoundland now that we should be apart.

Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment of the debate.

Debate adjourned until tomorrow.

MR. HIGGINS: May I ask if the debate on the Speech from the Throne is over?

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable the Premier has not finished his speech. Remaining orders deferred. House adjourned until tomorrow at 3:00 of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

WEDNESDAY, March 28, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I want to make a statement that will, I feel sure, be of interest to a considerable number of fishermen in many parts of the Province.

Yesterday, the honourable member for Green Bay presented here a petition from some of his constituents praying the House to intercede or assist them to get a fresh fish plant established in that part of Green Bay. Now, other petitions along the same lines have been presented to the House or the Government has received many applications from people in the Province, fishermen, for fish plants of that kind. I want to say that the Government have not established one single fresh fish or frozen fish plant in Newfoundland, we have not established one anywhere. We do not expect to establish one, it is not the policy of the Government to establish fish plants in Newfoundland. We are not going into the business of freezing fish or establishing fish plants.

The Government has assisted a number of people to establish or expand their fish plants. We have assisted by making loans, not cash loans but guaranteed loans from the bank. I suppose it runs to well over a million dollars, nearer two million of bank loans issued to various companies on the guarantee of the Government, but the Government would pay the interest and the principle if these borrowers were not able to do so. That is what we have done, that is our policy and that is what we hope we can go on doing. The great distinction to be drawn is between the Government building plants on the one hand and the Government helping others to build them on the other hand. Throughout Newfoundland there must be thousands of fishermen anxious to get fish plants, modern fresh freezing plants, established in that part of the Province, and it seems that a good many of them believe that it is the Government that has been starting these fish plants they have been hearing about and reading about, and so they wonder why it is that the Government won't start a fish plant in their cove or their harbour or their bay.

It is to inform the fishermen that it is not the policy of the Government to build plants, that I make this statement, and I do sincerely hope that the gentlemen of the press and the radio will assist the fishermen of Newfoundland in this matter by making it clear, what has been said and what the Government's policy is.

Petitions were presented by:

Hon. the Minister of Health, from Harbour Grace, Re Pavement of Street.

Mr. Morgan from New Bay, Re Road.

Hon. the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives tabled:

Regulations made by Fisheries Loan Board.

Regulation made by Co-operative Development Loan Board.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 49: Tabled by the Leader of the Opposition, addressed to the Premier.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I have already said in reply to a question on this whole matter of Buy Newfoundland Campaign, that the answer is in course of preparation in the form of a very detailed and documented report, copies of which will be furnished to all members of the House.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 50, addressed to the honourable Minister of Public Works.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): Mr. Speaker, I have not the answer with me, it is in the course of preparation. I have no answers prepared today for any questions on the Order Paper.

MR. SPEAKER: Questions 51, 52, 53 and 54 are in course of preparation.

Question No. 55.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I did not see the questions, I took them yesterday, they are still in my pocket. I have been in Cabinet all day and had a very important meeting last night, beginning almost as soon as the House closed. The questions asked are still in my pocket, but I see them on the Order Paper and without doubt they have gone to the various Departments and the deputies are preparing them. Probably I will have them tomorrow.

I wonder if the honourable and learned gentleman would be content to have the report or does he want copies for everyone. As a matter of fact there are four or five made by Mr. Shea.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): One is enough.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It would be the original, and we would need to have them back.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 56: Mr. Higgins, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Economic Development.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The answer is yes, we are making it, in the present tense, an investigation into the possibility of establishing a leather tannery, we are also investigating the possibilities of establishing a fur processing and dyeing plant. With regard to (1) the investigation is being conducted by the Director General of Economic Development and his assistants and costs only their salaries and ordinary incidentals of the Department, but no one other than the Director of Economic Development and his assistants is in receipt of any payments. And a man was here recently for a week for consultations in the matter of the leather tannery and fur dyeing and processing plant, at his own expense. He represented a number of industrialists in Europe.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 57—Mr. Higgins, addressed to the honourable the Premier.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I ought to be able to answer all of this now, from memory, and any part I can't answer I will answer after I have had a chance to refer to the records. We have not made a contract with a Latvian Firm to produce documentary films in the plural. We have made a contract with a Latvian firm to produce one documentary film of certain Newfoundland activities.

(2) Latvian Firm presumably would mean a firm in Latvia but it is not a firm in Latvia, it is a firm of Latvian citizens, specifically, refugees, displaced persons, refugees from Communism in Latvia, their country having been over-run by Russia, they are now displaced persons, the firm is situated in Hamburg. The head of the firm was the head of the Latvian Official Film Council of Latvia. He started the Council, built it up and was the head of it, and most of his associates are former employees of the Film Council of Latvia. Latvia was an ally of ours in the last war and was over-run by Russia, and these particular Latvians are refugees.

There are two men here. The head of the firm who is the head of, or director of film production and the camera man, and they are accompanied by Mr. Derrick Marshall for two reasons: One, Mr. Marshall is quite familiar, generally speaking, with motion picture films and sells them and is familiar with photography, and perhaps more important English is his native tongue and he is therefore better able to make arrangements with various groups and organizations.

We are buying from them one film that can be shown in any regular commercial movie-picture theatre in St. John's, Ottawa, Montreal, anywhere a standard size film can be shown, and twelve (12) prints of 16 M.M. size used in film councils all over Canada. Hundreds upon hundreds of councils, use schools all over Canada and now a good many in Newfoundland. They can be used by Clubs and at Conventions for sports, of tourist organizations, by Government Departments all over North America. The reason we had 12 of the 16 M.M. size is that we want very wide distribution of that film as an advertisement of Newfoundland. We estimate it will cost us $12,000, or $15,000 or $16,000 though we have agreed among ourselves as a Government that we will set a maximum of $20,000 as all that we would be prepared to pay.

(3) I did, I suggested it to the Government.

(4) No. Why not? They don't undertake that kind of work for the Province free, if they did undertake it, it would have to be paid for and would cost at least twice as much as it will cost us.

(5) No not on this particular project—Yes they were asked their prices for work of this kind and they are double what it will cost us for the same work.

(6) Being filmed: Some of Newfoundland's industries, some sceneries, hospitals, public buildings, schools and believe me it will not be a case of the sort of thing with which we were so familiar, of American and Mainland of Canada photographers who came to Newfoundland and photographed our few slums and unprepossessing scenes but rather photographs which when shown will give a good impression of Newfoundland across Canada, the United States, England and other countries where we will have the film shown. And for what purpose? Mainly to acquaint people in Newfoundland and outside of Newfoundland that Newfoundland is not a land wrapped in fog and covered with snow and ice and inhabited by aboriginal Indians, but that we are a modern, up-and-coming place. To praise Newfoundland and create a good impression.

(7) The answer is no.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 59:

MR. SMALLWOOD: I don't think it would be in the public interest to table those reports—two reports—very sincerely, I am quite happy to let my honourable friend opposite read the reports, but the Government do not think it would be in the public interest to publish those reports while actually negotiating for establishment of a paper mill.

MR. CASHIN: Have these people been paid?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The answer is yes, I tabled that information some time ago. The answer is yes, the amount I forget unless some colleague can remind me.

Question No. 60, 61, still in the course of preparation.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 62:

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will have to ask my honourable and learned friend to wait for a written reply but from memory I can say, in the past year, we have employed five in the Department of Public Works, a bridge engineer, Professor Johnson and three road engineers and one draftsman. That is five in the Department of Public Works. We scoured Canada from one end to the other and could not get road engineers and we could not get road engineers in Newfoundland, and these road engineers are displaced persons, refugees from Communism, Dr. Valdmanis, Director General of Economic Development and his assistant, a Master of Arts and Science in Latvia; his personal private secretary, and an engineer in connection with the Cement Mill and Gypsum Plant at Corner Brook, also the Chief Engineer on Construction which makes 10. No Newfoundlanders are available to fill these jobs. If we can find Newfoundlanders in Newfoundland or outside of Newfoundland, capable of filling these jobs we will be happy to get them. We have advertised and we are still advertising but we have brought in ten Latvians allies in the last war and refugees from Communism. Canada as a whole has brought in many hundreds of them, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and other British Dominions brought in hundreds of them and we have brought in ten.

MR. SPEAKER: Let me point out it is not proper to ask the same question twice in the same session, to say nothing of one sitting.

MR. SMALLWOOD: What my honourable friend means by foreign-born people I do not know. Would he say a native of the United Kingdom is foreign born? I consider that in a certain technical sense they are. Certain people in England, Ireland and Scotland can be called foreigners in the immigration sense but I think I understand he means people not from the British Empire. Ten out of a population of 260,000 this Government has brought in. I believe I left out one, a Latvian Doctor which makes eleven brought in from Austria; I believe the former Government brought them in from England, Ireland and the Mainland of Canada, I am not sure, but we have brought in one Latvian doctor who is a refugee from Communism. Now I am afraid I can not give you their names, most of them I can't pronounce. But I can get their names on a list and their salaries and submit it in a written reply.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 63 Mr. Higgins addressed to the honourable the Premier:

MR. SMALLWOOD: In addition to being a secretary she is a linguist who speaks five languages, and handles a terrific volume of correspondence that Dr. Valdmanis conducts with European Industrialists and Bankers in France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and Germany. Communications arrive when he is away and she reads and translates them and cables them, the gist of them, to wherever he may be because he has to keep in constant touch with his office and me. She is a university graduate and is getting $2,000 a year. It should be more.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 64, addressed to the honourable the Premier.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The answer is yes there is a good foundation in the report. I would not have made the statement if not. I may now add that the same firm is next door to being in Newfoundland. They are now bringing to a final conclusion, I hope, negotiations with a Newfoundland firm here in the fish business to enter Newfoundland as their partners.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 65, Mr. Higgins, addressed to the honourable the Premier.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I certainly have, with firms in Newfoundland and outside Newfoundland. I have discussed the matter of establishing a plant in Newfoundland, and the results were excellent.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 66 in course of preparation.

Question No. 67, Mr. Fogwill, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Labour.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): We have no such board at the moment, we have a committee, a board will be set up when the Act is proclaimed.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 68,

Mr. Fogwill, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Finance.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That information will be tabled shortly when the budget is brought down, but if my honourable friend insists on having the answer, I will bring it down with the speech. The second part of the answer would involve how much the cement mill and gypsum plant cost, and for reasons which you are now familiar with, it would not include that.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 69—Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Minister of Economic Development.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Yes, I can get that, the Fisheries Department will, no doubt provide part of it for me. I could give you the list of new industries if I could take twenty minutes and sit down and make a list of them. We have been very busy and active investigating new industries.

(2) That would require a little more research on my part.

(3) Same.

Three new industries. Situated in Humber District, the cement mill and the gypsum plant. The cement mill will operate in August, the Gypsum Board Mill in September. The Birch Veneer, Plywood and Clapboard plant is in the District of Harbour Main. You will be pleased to know it is in the District of Harbour Main, six miles out the road. We did not know we were establishing industries in Harbour Main District.

MR. FAHEY: Unfortunately it is in our district.

MR. SMALLWOOD: You may live to regret that.

MR. JACKMAN: I hope so.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That industry will employ three hundred men all the year around and give employment to 2,500 men in cutting and sawing birch. That will commence operation in June or July. It will be the first to commence. Travelling expenses in respect to new industries, that will have to be a written reply, I have made so many trips myself if I were force put to say where and how many miles I travelled and what money I spent, you would have to hang me, I would not know to save my life.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 70. Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Minister of Finance.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That will appear in the budget. I can say that it is coming along very well, showing up very nicely.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 71.—Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Minister of Finance.

MR. SMALLWOOD: (1) List.

(2) The only two paid members of the board are the Chairman and the Secretary who are chairman and secretary also of the other two boards and the salaries cover the work on all three boards.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 72.

MR. SMALLWOOD: This question I will have to refer to the honourable the junior member for St. John's West who is grounded at Gander and hopes to be in here tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 73.

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Speaker, I will reply orally but I would like just for a minute to go back to Question No. 50 which you called just as I entered the chamber after being out at the request of someone who came to see me.

Question No. 50. The name of the architect was Mr. Thomas Long a well-known architect of St. John's. He was paid $75.00. I shall be glad to table a copy of the report as soon as I can obtain it from the office. Was anyone paid a commission, the answer is no. If paid out of my department, we pay for the building when the time comes and we know nothing whatever about any commission.

Question No. 51. Answer in course of preparation.

Question No. 52. Answer is being prepared.

Question No. 73.

(1) The answer is yes.

(2) The answer is the Department of Public Works on behalf of the Provincial Government.

MR. FOGWILL: Question No. 42 I have never received the answer to this question.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The Department is preparing and as soon as it is prepared, I shall be glad to table it.

MR. JACKMAN: Point of privilege, Mr. Speaker, I addressed a question to the honourable the Premier last week, of course not in writing, but I would like, Sir, to find out if the honourable the Premier has anything to give me in regard to forming a board of inquiry insofar as the Wabana Mines Organization is concerned. I raise this question for this reason, I have to make a report tomorrow night to my union, and I would like to have something definite one way or another. I wonder if the honourable the Premier would enlighten me just a little insofar as to what he has done or intends to do in this respect.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The position is that the honourable gentlemen in a very brief speech in reply to the Speech from the Throne asked me a direct question. If I would, if the Government would, I am not sure which, order an enquiry into wages paid the mine workers at Bell Island. I must say that the answer to that would have to be by the Government or by me after the Government had considered it, and come to a decision. The Government has not considered it, and very frankly, I don't know that the Government would be entirely justified in giving consideration to a rather unusual request when the request comes purely as that of a private member of his party. If the Government were confronted by a formal request of a large body of citizens in any part of Newfoundland to do such a thing, the Government would be duty bound to give the request consideration.

MR. JACKMAN: Mr. Speaker, in reply to the honourable Premier, I might say that the ground has been thoroughly covered, we have already taken steps under the Labour Department which we are not going to bother the Minister of Labour so quickly now, but I would like to say that the request has been put forward not by me but by those people representing 8,700 people on Bell Island.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If the honourable member will allow me, he speaks as a member of the House of Assembly and not as a president of an organization.

MR. JACKMAN: I never said that I spoke on behalf of a union, but I say that I speak on behalf of 8,700 of my constituents and they want an answer, I realize your position, Sir, and I am agreed to appreciate that but after all I have to go home tomorrow night and give a verbal report at least, and all I asked my question was this: Is the Government prepared to consider the request which I gave verbally, not written, but I will give it in writing if I have to, this Government works on behalf of the working people, all I ask is can I have an assurance when I go home and meet our membership tomorrow night, fifteen hundred members representing eight thousand people, can I go home with a message from this Government that it is going to do something about it. If you want it in writing, I will give you that, all I ask is assurance you are looking into the matter, that is sufficient.

Orders of the Day

The following Bills were read a first time:

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1948."

On motion Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Act No. 41 of 1938 entitled 'An Act for the Confirmation of an Agreement between the Government and the Labrador Mining and Exploration Company Limited.'"

On motion Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

A Bill "An Act Respecting the Distribution of Electricity in the Corner Brook Area."

On motion Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Education (Departmental) Act, 1939."

On motion Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend the School Attendance Act, 1942."

On motion Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

On motion the House recessed for 10 minutes.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I don't intend to take up very much more time of the House to speak in this debate. Yesterday, I dealt in part with the resignation from the Government of the honourable member for Bonavista South and having done so, I went on to make some other remarks less relevant to him and his resignation than to other matters of a more general character, such as may appropriately be made in a speech in a debate and address in reply. But this afternoon, I would like to summarize some of the points I made yesterday in reply to the honourable member for Bonavista South, the former Minister of Natural Resources.

Now the honourable gentleman, out of kindness of his heart, offered me a piece of advice, that advice was that I should do one of two things: Abolish the ancient and practical rule of the Cabinet, to get some unanimity amongst the members of the Cabinet, one or the other. Slacken up on the basic principle of Cabinet solidarity, or if you can't do that, try to get as much unanimity as you can amongst the members of your Cabinet. Now I will deal first with the second of these recommendations of the honourable gentleman, and in so doing I am fully aware that I speak in the hearing of my colleagues in the Cabinet, and I speak with full knowledge of a suggestion which appeared in the "Daily News" this morning, in the column written by Wayfarer. It suggests that I am probably a bit of a domineering dictator, a man who rules the Cabinet with a rod of iron, a man so domineering that the members of the Cabinet are afraid of me, nervous of me, scared to cross me, or to oppose me or my views, or my opinions. Now that suggestion put rather broadly by Wayfarer, and less broadly by the honourable member for Bonavista South yesterday, is, of course, insulting to every member of the Cabinet, insulting to me, but far more insulting and offensive to every member of the Cabinet, every colleague of mine and to the former colleagues of my honourable friend himself. Offensively insulting, offensively untrue and I would say this, that if any attempt were made to dominate the Cabinet it was made more, far more by the honourable gentleman, the member for Bonavista South than it was made by me. Because I was aware, after the Cabinet had started and was operating a few months, of what my honourable friend told the whole House yesterday. I became aware of that a few months after the Cabinet was in existence, namely that my honourable friend is a strong minded independent, a man probably completely lacking in any sense of party loyalty or discipline; a man of strong views, and because I recognized those characteristics, in him, I tended to defer more to him than I did, perhaps, to any other member of the Cabinet, and I have more than once wondered, in Cabinet, whether my so doing might be offensive to my other colleagues in the Cabinet. What I say, I say in the hearing of my colleagues and in the hearing of the honourable gentleman, I repudiate the suggestion that the Cabinet, these ten gentlemen are dominated by me. These men are men of education, men of standing, well read, highly experienced in many walks of life, just as independent as my honourable friend across the way, and I feel that he himself would not contradict, that he would not suggest that he is more independent than are we who remain. He would suggest, quite truly, as I did, that he, besides his independence of mind which we all have, possesses also, unlike us, an ability, or he possesses rather a disinclination to fall in line with his colleagues. So my honourable friend, and I don't condemn him for it, is a man who must have his own way or he won't play, and a Cabinet made up of such men as that, of such temperament, would get nowhere, accomplish nothing. Because if no member of the Cabinet would allow the Cabinet to do anything that he did not agree with, then the only thing the Cabinet could do would be that minimum which secured the unanimous consent of the entire body. Now I ask the House to imagine any kind of body, organized body that requires unanimous decision on their course of action, or try to imagine anybody, a club, a union, any kind of body that never does anything except when all its members, without exception, agree completely. If you want a name for inaction that is it.

Now what are the facts: The fact is that at cabinet meetings we don't take a showing of hands, we don't take a standing vote. The matter is thrown on the table; there are the proposals, you have all read it in your homes, in your offices; now, there it is. Each member of the cabinet, without exception, is specifically invited to express his opinion, one by one, as many times as he wants, and as freely as he wants, one by one until every last member of the cabinet has been canvassed. How do you feel about it? Finally, when the matter has been truly canvassed, if there is unanimity, that ends it, the order is made an order in council. If there is not unanimity, I say, well the matter is we do this or we don't do that, how do you feel? So and so, he says, and I go right around. Say there are two who oppose it, all the rest agree, but one or two oppose it. What is the next step then, just to brush them aside and say you are in the minority? No, as a cabinet we stand or fall together. The very man who opposes a thing in a cabinet meeting may be the man who has to stand up here and explain it or defend it, because what the cabinet does, every man does, what one member of the cabinet does, the whole cabinet does. That is cabinet responsibility, and it could not be otherwise. It is not otherwise, anywhere under the British flag. In Britain also in cabinet, in every Province of Canada, in Australia, in every state of Australia; in New Zealand, in South Africa and in every state of South Africa, that is the rule, they did not discover that rule or invent it, that rule was discovered and invented, and adopted in the Mother Country, the original home of parliamentary democracy. And so I say to my honourable friend, I cannot accept his suggestion, Newfoundland will adhere strictly to the rule of cabinet solidarity, and I will not try any harder than I am already trying to get some unanimity in the cabinet. I could not try any harder, now all my colleagues are witnesses to what I said: If I have dominated the cabinet, I invite them to stand and say so. If I have denied them the full free opportunity to play a man's part, the part of a British subject, and a Newfoundlander, as independent men in the cabinet, I invite them to say so. And I say that the suggestion of my honourable friend, not too broadly put, I admit, but fairly broadly put this morning by Wayfarer, that I dominate the cabinet, dictate to the cabinet, act like a little Hitler, run a one-man show—I repudiate, it is not true. It would be easy for a man to clash with my will, and if that man clashed repeatedly, and came off second best, it would be easy for him to explain that it was merely because I was a dictator.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): Wouldn't it be only fair to say that your cabinet clashed with you about the resignation of the honourable friend on the opposite side.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think my honourable friend meant colleagues, yes perhaps I will come to that.

Now I want to touch on one other point, my honourable friend, yesterday, in the only written part of his speech, in a paragraph which he read out, declared that the Government is heading for or toward financial ruin, a financial mess—I put quotation marks around financial ruin and financial mess. I ask you to note my honourable friend has a fluent speech, perhaps one of the most fluent speakers in the chamber, he does not ordinarily need to write out his speech, and it was very notable to me that when he came to express his opinion on that matter, he had it written down so that he could read it out. That was very significant to me. Now, without a doubt, the same reporter on the "Daily News" who sent a message last Friday night, Good Friday night, to all the newspaper across Canada, true Canadian Press "C.P." describing the member for Bonavista South as the right-hand man of Premier Smallwood, also that same reporter, I have no doubt, sent to the same "C.P." last night, for publishing in every newspaper across Canada and in the United States, and in England, my honourable friend's statement that he was so careful yesterday to have written down, so that he could take it up and with his words checked, carefully chosen, read out the secret that Newfoundland, the Government of Newfoundland was heading for financial ruin, a financial mess. Now the reporter is a personal friend of the former Minister of Natural Resources, a contemptible cur! And when I say that here if any newspaper chooses to repeat the word, they cannot be sued, it is a privileged statement. A contemptible cur! beneath the respect of a decent man, a man who is an insult to the great profession of journalism, a journalistic knave. A bitter and unscrupulous opponent, personally, of the Liberal Government, who, after he had succeeded in tricking me several times, was dismissed by me, and ordered never again to approach me or call me on the telephone; but who then associated himself with the Minister of Natural Resources. I knew at the time, in fact I followed with some dread and a considerable amount of amusement and I doubt not that that same gentleman saw to it that the honourable member's written statements of yesterday was sent to all the newspapers of Canada and the United States and England, last night.

MR. RUSSELL: I just want to ask a question, on a point of order, I have to listen to all this, and will there be an opportunity sometime for me to contradict it?

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member for Bonavista South made his explanation yesterday speaking in the debate on the speech from the Throne.

MR. RUSSELL: And I don't get another opportunity to contradict this? It is amusing at least.

MR. SPEAKER: I will see if the honourable member can reply.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It may be amusing to the honourable gentleman, would he consider it so amusing if I were to suggest to him, as I do, that his statement yesterday, carefully worded in writing and read by him, that Newfoundland is heading for financial disaster and a financial mess, coming from him and published across Canada, in the United States and in England, is likely to do his native land, perhaps, irreparable damage?

MR. RUSSELL: That is serious, the amusing thing is you are imagining an association between me and a reporter.

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend, perhaps, had better let the matter drop of this accusation of association. I say, and what I say is entitled in the Daily News and in the Telegram and on all the local radio stations, to the same publicity as the honourable gentleman's statement received. I ask that that statement be noted: Every radio station that broadcast his statement and every newspaper that published it, owes me as leader of the Government, owes me the same publicity on my statement that the honourable gentleman's statement may do irreparable harm, damage to the good, fair name of his native land and mine. It has a familiar ring—Blue Ruin—I heard it in this Chamber before, Blue Ruin—it came true, blue ruin, and the cries of blue ruin helped it to come true.

Now I am personally convinced that my honourable friend does not really believe that Newfoundland and its Government are heading for financial ruin or a financial mess. I do not believe that he really thinks that. I know that he would not want it to be so. Those few last remaining diehards who hate Confederation, they would like it to be true. My honourable friend, I know, would not like that to be true and I think that he does not for a moment really believe that it is true. Well, I say it is not true, and I wonder if Gill will report that across Canada. That the Premier of Newfoundland scorns the suggestion that Newfoundland is heading for financial ruin, scorns it.

MR. RUSSELL: What ever influence I have I will try to use it to get him to do it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I hope the honourable gentleman does. This political game, this political game has to be played by the rules and I know perhaps the thought that is passing through my honourable friend's head when I use the word "Party Game". I use it with the same contempt that he has in his own mind. But that is not what I mean. This party struggle to hold power should be played according to the rules and the rules do not include striking Newfoundland in the back. I say it is not true. Newfoundland's position is good financially; now perhaps I am going to hurt Newfoundland when I make this statement. My honourable friend will understand the dual part I play, must play; it is something to which I dare not make much reference. A dual part I must play, and I would not want this published on the Mainland of Canada. I must play the part in Ottawa of the representative of a poor struggling province, and I do. I do it in public and I do it privately when I talk with the Federal Ministers. That is one part I must play. But I must also, when I deal with bankers, financial houses, industrial firms, in England, in Switzerland, in Germany, in Belgium, in the United States and on the Mainland of Canada, when I talk to them I must paint Newfoundland in bright colours, not run her down but paint her as a land with vast untapped wealth, in the seas around her shores, in the forests of Labrador and Newfoundland, in mineral possibilities, in hydro possibilities. I must build up in their minds an interest in Newfoundland, faith in Newfoundland so that I can bring them here with their capital to establish new industries. Last night, shortly after I left this Chamber, several of my colleagues, who had not already tied themselves up with other appointments, joined me in my office to have a long conference with five great European industrialists, the president of a very large industrial corporation in Germany, and I don't think there will be any objection if a German firm starts a paper mill in Newfoundland—will we object then to Germans—

MR. RUSSELL: I won't.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The president of a great German Corporation on the Continent of Europe, producing paper of various kinds including newsprint in six mills that they own and operate in Germany and besides the president of that corporation there was another director of it and besides him there was that corporation's engineer, the fourth was their chief pulp man and the fifth was their chief paper man. Five. I wonder if those five men read the Daily News this morning, and the Evening Telegram tonight, and read in it my honourable friend's statement that he wrote so carefully on that strip of paper and read with such deliberation yesterday—that Newfoundland is heading to financial ruin and a financial mess—if they read it, I wonder, and I am sure my honourable friend will agree with me that I hope not. But I wonder if their interest in building a new pulp and paper mill in Newfoundland was rather slackened thereby.

On the 5th of next month, April, the managing director of a great and famous British corporation which owns and operates in the United Kingdom, fourteen of the largest factories of their kind comes to discuss industrial development in Newfoundland. I wonder—I had a letter from him today, but that was air mail and was sent by him some days ago. I wonder if he took up his "Times" of London this morning and read that the Minister of Natural Resources, the right-hand man of the Premier, had prophesied Newfoundland's financial ruin? I ask my colleagues to take note of that description, they will know how true a description that is, that the honourable the Minister of Natural Resources was my right-hand man. Now I don't imagine that you told him that, that is the kind of thing that a sleeven that he is would cook up to add a little more damage to the Premier and the Liberal Party. That is just the touch of the sleeven. It was not enough to say that the honourable Minister of Natural Resources had cleared out, broken from the Premier, from the Government, but to give the right touch, to make it look more serious, has to call him the Premier's right-hand man, Premier Smallwood's right-hand man. Now Gill knew that was a lie. No, let me put it the other way—it was not so, so he lied.

I say that Newfoundland's position, I started to say it and got off on another track, the position of the Newfoundland Government is sounder than that of any other provincial government in Canada, sounder. We have no public debt—five million dollars—how much a head is that? $14 a head, that is our public debt. Now the next lowest in all the Provinces of Canada is rich and wealthy Quebec which has $90 a head, and when you go by Quebec it rises until in the Province of New Brunswick it is over $200 a head, the Provincial debt of the Province of New Brunswick. We have no public debt—we have five millions debt but many times (my honourable friend, like myself, enjoys a smoke and goes to listen to me, standing in the corridor as I do with other honourable gentlemen when I wish to smoke, that is quite all right) that in actual cash in the till. How can it be argued that we are in financial hot water, that we are heading for financial ruin, that we are heading for a financial mess? No the honourable gentleman is speaking of some time in the far-off dim and distant future but while this Government remains in power, its whole effort and strength will go to build Newfoundland, to build it, to find out what resources she has that we were always talking about in the past with such big words, to find out what she has and develop what she has and create industries and employment.

My honourable friend, yesterday, the member for Bell Island in connection with the cement mill and gypsum plant said: "Will it give employment?" and when I said it will, he said he would vote for it and he did. So long as we are in power that is what we concentrate on, this Government, this party believes absolutely in Newfoundland, absolutely, never say die, we can't take no for an answer, we are not defeatist, we are not pessimistic, we are buoyant, we are optimistic, we have faith in Newfoundland, we have faith in ourselves, our strength mentally and intellectually and psychologically, in ourselves and our dreams and we think we are the best government, we think there is no other government that can even be a patch on us. We are very fond of ourselves, very proud of ourselves and proud of our record of the past two years and full of faith in Newfoundland and repudiate the suggestion that we are heading for financial trouble. The budget will tell that story and I won't anticipate the budget, it will be down in a few weeks.

Now I have only a few things left that I want to talk about. I understand that my honourable friend from Placentia and St. Mary's desires to participate in the debate but perhaps he would prefer to move its adjournment, at the right moment and speak tomorrow.

My honourable friend referred yesterday, and now I did not take down the exact words, but I think I read it in one of the papers, that he had been thrown out of the Liberal Party, kicked out. I think the paper quoted the honourable gentleman as having said "kicked out"—that is what appeared in print, I won't hold the honourable gentleman to that—Expelled, thrown out, kicked out, all amount to the same thing anyhow. Now what is the position?

If a private member on this side of the House, not a member of the cabinet but a member of the Government, one of the men who make up the Government, one of the men who supports us in the Government so long as they believe in us—if one of these private members went to Mr. Gill or Mr. Gill went to him tonight and that private member were to say to Mr. Gill, for publication, and the statement were to appear in the newspaper tomorrow morning, the statement I have no faith, no confidence, I have no confidence in the present Government, in its ability to govern Newfoundland successfully,—if a private member were to make that statement, for publication, would my honourable friend think that that member had any right whatsoever to remain a member of the party supporting the Government in which he had no confidence? How can a man support a government? If any member of this House, even one of my honourable friends across reached the point where he had confidence in this Government, in its ability to govern Newfoundland successfully and came to the conclusion that it was the best Government under the circumstances, it would be his duty to come across and join the Liberal party. If a private member holds that confidence in the Government that it is the best Government to govern under the circumstances, looks around and says, well, Smallwood is a queer character, shouts and roars and bawls and pounds the desk and talks too long and makes mistakes, and the Attorney General there, he is this and that, and the Ministers of this and that are this and that, but striking a balance, I don't agree with everything, I don't think they are always right, but striking a balance, I think they are the best government, so long as a private member thinks that, he supports us and keeps us in power but if he loses confidence there is only one thing for him to do, either to resign from the party or be expelled. Now that is a private member, but what about a cabinet minister? If a cabinet minister resigns from the cabinet and declares publicly he has no confidence in the ability of this Government to govern Newfoundland successfully, can he with no confidence in the Government sit amongst them, as a member of the same party, men who have belief in the Government, who support the Government, can he continue to sit amongst them, and be one of them politically? Now privately the honourable member and I may be the best of personal friends, where we differ is politically. The honourable gentleman has personal friends on this side, I have personal friends amongst my honourable friends across the way. Where we differ is politically. How can the honourable member without any faith or confidence continue to sit amongst Liberal Party members who have confidence, and join them and be part of them? Who expelled the honourable gentleman? Himself. I am the leader of the party, I accepted the honourable gentleman's resignation as Minister, I did not tell the honourable gentleman he was expelled, I did not need to do so—he expelled himself from the party. I have no power, this party has no power to make him cease to be a Liberal. The honourable gentleman is an Independent, I presume and I hope is an Independent Liberal at that, perhaps I had better not go into that, I wonder if he ever was a Liberal. However he certainly is not going to complain because he is not still in the Liberal Party. He is not going to complain. My honourable friend from White Bay did a far less serious thing than he, my honourable friend from White Bay came out and lambasted the Government for breaking all our promises to White Bay, the year after we were elected, It will take four or five years to do all the roads, so he says, all our promises are broken and he lambasted us. Rightly or wrongly we expelled him but he did not make an onslaught on the Government saying, "I have no confidence in the Government to govern Newfoundland." The member for White Bay did not say that, then how could a Minister? If my honourable friend, the Minister for Public Welfare, reaches a point where he ceases to have confidence he goes out for that reason. If for ill-health or any such reason he could still be a good member of the Liberal Party, a private member but because he has lost confidence in the Government's ability to govern successfully, then there is only one place for him, out of the Government, out of the party, he does it himself—not the party.

Now, finally, I am going to invite the honourable gentleman, if an opportunity comes during the budget speech on the debate on the budget, to make an opportunity to stand in this House, or tomorrow, on a point of privilege before the business commences. A Minister is entitled to make a fairly long statement, a private member is not, but certainly he is entitled, under the rules, to stand and make a brief explanation before the business of the House commences and perhaps he may wish to take advantage of that opportunity. Another procedure he might adopt would be to move the adjournment of the House for the purpose of making an explanation. But I do invite him to offer his personal comment on a point that I am going to make, and the last point I am going to make in reply to the honourable gentleman.

He told us yesterday—now as a matter of fact I would prefer that the honourable gentleman did not reply to me today, if he does the radio men are gone and the newspaper men are nearly all gone, so I invite him rather to make it tomorrow where it will get the proper publicity. It will be his answer not mine, if he makes any answer.

Now on more than one occasion; in an interview with the "Daily News" on Saturday morning and again in his statement here in the House, he said that he was oath bound, bound by oath not to reveal what he had learned as a member of the Cabinet, not to make public the information he got as a member of the Cabinet. Now it could have been made to anticipate anyone who thought he was going to start giving the details of the cost of the cement mill and the gypsum plant and so on. What he meant was that it was this sort of business of the Government with which he was so familiar that he did not intend to make public, because he was bound by oath not to. It could well be that was what he meant when he said, I am bound by oath not to give away, to tell, to reveal what I learned as a member of the Cabinet, and I would surely hope that was what he meant, and I am sure this Government would hope and the Party members would hope and I think most of the public would hope that, that was what the honourable gentleman meant when he was referring to the period of business of the Government and the rule that in a Government you are bound by an oath which you give to His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, representing His Majesty the King, that you will not without proper authority to do so reveal the business of the council and that is what he is referring to, but I would be very glad if he said so. But here he must consider this, there are bad-minded people, he has probably discovered that in his years knocking around, there are bad-minded people. This Government, even in two years, has been the victim of malicious rumors of graft and corruption, and I might say, these rumors have been cooked up and spread around by bad minded people who would like to believe the worst, never the best but the worst about a man, and I would venture to say there are people in Newfoundland today who think the honorable gentleman has been bought to cross the floor. It has happened in the past, men have been bought to cross the floor, and so I say there are some bad-minded people who would say, they got him, they landed him alright. I infer my honourable friends opposite would get a a great kick out of that.

MR. HIGGINS: We have not got enough money to buy over $7,000 a year.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is a little too much money for our friends opposite. Nevertheless, there are people bad-minded enough to think it. Now let me say for the record, I believe my honourable friend is mistaken, I think he is wrong, I think he is muddle-headed, confused in mind, but I think he is honest. I think what he did, he did honestly, that he was not bought. I know him well enough to know that nobody bought him over. He is hopelessly wrong, in fact absurdly wrong, confused in his thinking, a homespun philosopher gone to seed. But I think he is sincere, I think he is honest.

Now, by the same token, there are people who are bad-minded enough to think he is being bought over, not willing to credit him with sincerity, so also, I have no doubt, there are bad-minded people who when they hear my honourable friend say he is bound by his oath, I can't tell what was done or what happened in Cabinet or what I learned or what information I got, I am bound by oath—there are many people who are going to say, Oh if Russell could only talk, if he could only talk, you would hear something. Now, each one of us here, it is just as well to face it, each one of us has been left under a cloud of graft or corruption, that is why I would rather it tomorrow, when all the radiomen and newspaper men are here, because I will tell you this, there may have been a Government in Newfoundland so honest, it has been quite a while if there was, quite a while: straight honest, probably wrong but honest, perhaps wrong, perhaps mistaken in policy but honest, hardworking, he has already given us credit for that. Honest, hardworking, perhaps wrong, perhaps blundering, perhaps incompetent but at least honest, trying to do our best. In God's name, if we are not going to get credit for being honest and doing our best, what are we here for? There is not one of us, but in a way envies the honourable gentleman, in a way we all envy you. The burden which I know the honourable gentleman felt so greatly this last year and a half is off, it is still on us and it is some burden, and if ever my honourable and learned friends opposite occupy this position, they will agree.

MR. HIGGINS: In twenty-five years, you said.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In twenty-five years, then he will have more wisdom than energy. Since we are going to carry the burden, let us be recognized, let us be given credit for working hard and being honest unless somebody proves we are not. Now that is all I am going to say. I was going to ask my honourable friend to avail of the opportunity tomorrow, to tell the people of Newfoundland in this House that if he were released from his oath, could he tell the people of any graft or corruption taking place amongst us, does he know of any graft or corruption taking place, because that is the implication left in the minds of some people. Now that is all I am going to say about the honourable Minister. I think he likes this far better than being a Cabinet Minister and we will probably have many a debate here and clash more than once, and I will refrain from quoting again "that while the light holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return."

Now just in conclusion, Mr. Speaker, it is a poor time to say it because it won't go beyond the doors of this Chamber, there are very few newspaper men left.

If anybody thinks this Government is breaking up; this man is hinted at, that man is getting out, that man is going to leave. Trash and nonsense. We are down, I think now, to our rock bottom, we got a crowd now, that will stick—we will stick and see it through. We may have ups and downs, and there may be moments when public opinion will seem to be against us, and other times when we are extremely popular, but whether up or down in the public's eyes we will stick it out together. We were elected for five years, we will stick it out five years. We will prove that the Liberal Government can come in and not be broken up by this man crossing and the other man crossing. Here is a crowd of young men and the old veteran, the Minister of Provincial Affairs, 75 years. 27 at one end, 75 at the other, and I am the youngest of them all. Men prepared to stick it out and win through and make Newfoundland a better place than ever, better than we found it two years ago.

MR. MILLER: I move the adjournment of the debate until tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Third reading of a Bill, "An Act to Amend the Newfoundland Corporation Income Tax Act, 1949." On motion Bill read a third time, ordered that title be as on the Order Paper.

MR. CURTIS: I move the next three items on the Order Paper be deferred.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of a Bill, "An Act for Granting to His Majesty Certain Sums of Money, etc." Read a second time, ordered referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

Second reading of a Bill, "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines." Moved and seconded, this order be deferred.

Second reading of a Bill, "An Act to Amend the Accident Insurance Company (Licensing) Act, 1949." Ordered referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. CURTIS: I may say the sole reason of the Bill is to amend the schedule attached to the present Bill for the reason that it has become out of date due to the changing of the Statutes of Newfoundland, since we are now a Province. The date is changed, the original Act provided that Accident Insurance Companies should file certain returns within the month of February. Under this Act, returns are to be filed on the first day of March.

I move the next four items be deferred.

MR. BALLAM: The Workmen's Compensation Act; last year we passed a Workmen's Compensation Act, that was the Act, 1950. Contained in the Act were many requirements in order to put the Act in force that could not be included in the Act at that time which necessitated that it be amended. This year it is our intention to proclaim the Act by the accompanying amendment on April 1st., and at that time a board will be set up. Setting up of the board is part of the Act. We have had a committee working on this Act since August. This committee has had a hard job, and I must say they have done a big job, and have done it well.

MR. SPEAKER: Let me interrupt.

As far as I am concerned the Bill is not distributed, I have no copy.

MR. BALLAM: The committee visited Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and studied their procedure, their regulations and the amounts of their rates, assessments and classifications of the various industries and jobs, to help us in preparing our legislation.

We found that in the Act last year, we had included the crews of fishing vessels, trawlers and draggers, etc. We have not been able as yet, to lay down a basis for including them in the Act, because as you know, this new Act is based on an assessment of wages and salaries and whilst you have crews, etc., on a share basis, we could not very well as yet, include it in the Act. In order to overcome that, we are making an amendment to the 1948 Act, which includes these people and we are also making this amendment for owners of trawlers and draggers and fishing crews etc., to cover their help. Our intention is to set up a future committee or commission to go into this question of coverage for the people working on a share basis. It will be done, some means will be arrived at, but in order to have the Act proclaimed so the new board can be started to function on the 1st of April, we have not gotten so far yet, as to be able to include people working on a share basis.

These amendments are pretty bulky, the amendments and procedure and schedule to the Act are fairly bulky, and I would like to ask the honourable members if they have received copies of them. I did ask last week that during the holiday they would be distributed so that you would have an opportunity of studying them during the holiday.

However, Mr. Speaker, I would say that if there is any question of the fishermen being left out of the Act, that is not so, they are covered in as far as the 1948 Act will cover them, and also we have made it compulsory that they will be covered under that Act. You heard the first reading, and we do intend setting up a committee or commission to go into it fully and investigate to the fullest extent the possibility of coverage for those who work on a share basis. Many firms with trawlers and druggers etc., cover their employees and some firms cover the sealers, but in order to keep that part of coverage for these men who are covered as such, we are amending the 1948 Act for this purpose.

Now I will say, when this Act comes into force April 1, that probably workers throughout the country will for the first time come into their own as regards Workmen's Compensation. This Act follows the pattern of other Workmen's Compensation Acts across the Mainland except that ours is perhaps a little better if anything. We have had the opportunity to study all of them, we have based our own on them and set it down here so ours will be not as good, but better than the best. I will say, in many respects, ours is better because we have had the experience of all the other provinces. Our committee have worked on that Act, studied the Acts in other provinces and how they go about it, and I pay tribute to Mr. Fogwill who was the chairman of that committee and who, it is intended, will be the chairman of the Board.

Now, Mr. Chairman, I don't know anything further I can add to what I have said. I hope we will get great support, and I am sure we will in presenting this amendment. It is very complicated in some respects but there is nothing in it that has not been carefully gone over by the committee, the Department and myself, and also the Department of Justice has seen to it that we keep everything in strict legal form. I repeat I am genuinely proud to bring this Bill before the House. It is something, I may say, I was working on eighteen or nineteen years ago, an Act we hoped then to get the Government to put through, but by the time we got finished we did not have any government except the Commission and I don't know what happened to it. However, I can repeat as the honourable the Premier mentioned so well, it is a good Act, that will go down in history, one of the finest pieces of labour legislature that we have put through. In years to come, our people who never in their lives received compensation, though thousands have been injured and many thousands of deaths have been caused in this country through accident for which our people got nothing, will come into their own. I move the second reading of this Bill.

Ordered referred to a Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

House adjourned until 3:00 of the clock tomorrow.

—
THURSDAY, March 29th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

MR. RUSSELL: The honourable the Premier, during the course of his remarks yesterday afternoon referred to portions of my address on Tuesday, in which I pointed out that there were many things I could say to help explain my resignation, but I was bound by an oath of secrecy not to reveal things which were discussed in Cabinet or that I learned by virtue of being a member of the Cabinet during my term as Minister of Natural Resources.

The honourable the Premier has made complimentary and true remarks regarding my honesty and argued my words might be construed by evil minds as inferring that there was graft and corruption within the Government and that I was barred by my oath from divulging it. In other words, but for my oath, I would just blast them all. He has invited me to make a statement to clear up the matter. The Premier will admit that there is no obligation whatsoever upon me to make such a statement. In the words I used, there was no reference whatsoever, and no insinuations whatsoever regarding graft or corruption within the Government. It is possible that evil and unscrupulous minds may have drawn, or may in the future, draw unjustified conclusions from my words, but no man who has his simple words 'Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools' is bound either morally or legally to spend his days untwisting them. Therefore, any statement I make elaborating on these particular words last Tuesday would be made, not because of any obligation that I must feel but because of an obligation that we are always willing and happy to do what we can for the sake of friendship, good feelings, peace on earth and good will amongst men.

In order to assure myself that I have not a monopoly on generosity and good intentions and good will,

I am going to show just how the honourable the Premier and I could enter into a sort of a quid pro quo on that matter, I am not permitted to rebut his remarks, I do not want to rebut them, the opportunity will come later if I wish it, it was not my intention, but when he made the statement about me that I was strong-minded, that I was intelligent and that, when referring to my action in leaving or resigning, I don't know the exact words but definitely—muddled thinking, I can well see that the Government might be concerned over the construction evil minds might put upon my statement, because, Sir, what an evil mind could do to those three facts about me: I am strong minded, I am intelligent. Strong-minded intelligent men ordinarily do not do muddled thinking, muddled thinking is not normal for a strong-minded intelligent man and evil minds or suspicious minds might say; what is behind that muddled thinking. They know Russell is not a teetotaler, but one of the good fellows at the Laurier Club and at the Prime Minister's birthday dinner and elsewhere, might say that the honourable the Premier implied he was drunk when he did that, in spite of the fact I did the last Act during a busy morning in my office, dictated it to my secretary and went home.

Now, here are two things: I am asked to make a statement elaborating my remarks, in order to clear up the possibility of evil minds thinking I am imputing graft and corruption to the Government. I am willing to make the most generous and honest statement my conscience will allow, provided the Premier will inform this House that he has no reason whatsoever to assume that when I gave this act of resignation I was not perfectly sober. I will make the statement such as I have just indicated.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I had no thought in my mind in the least that the honourable member was not strictly sober, the thought of sobriety never entered my mind, the thought of sobriety, drunkenness or being under the influence, did not enter in my mind. I still say the honourable gentleman is confused in his thinking, I believe he is, honestly. Intelligent, highly educated, strong-minded men are frequently confused in their thinking, and my honourable friend has no monopoly on that characteristic. I said confused, muddle-headed, wrong, I think I used all three together and I certainly had not thought, and if I had I hope the honourable gentleman does not think so badly of me as to suppose, I would refer to it, if I did think if it, which I did not, certainly not—the answer is certainly not—

MR. RUSSELL: I hinted that there were things, perhaps discussed in Cabinet, things I have learned, I would not have learned, but that I was a Cabinet Minister, bound by oath of secrecy not to divulge them. If all the things I am bound not to tell were lying on my desk ready for publication and could be, they would not add up to one jot or tittle of evidence of any graft or corruption in the Government.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Thank you.

MR. DROVER: I beg to present a petition, Sir, from the people of Great Harbour Deep in White Bay, signed by all the male residents. It is a rather unusual one, I believe, because they are asking the Government to define the three mile limit and also asking for the right to cut logs and operate a saw mill in that area.

Now perhaps this House is aware it is owned by the A.N.D. Company. Years ago it was leased by past governments to the A.N.D. Company and their three mile limit runs from the coastline, but Harbour Deep itself is indented and it runs inland for some distance, but the block of land belonging to the A.N.D. Company is square and cuts off most of the point. The people at the present time are allowed to cut logs on the headland. Where they live, this House will recall when I addressed this House a couple of weeks ago, these people would like to earn a decent living, and where they live on land owned by the A.N.D. Company, they have their homes and gardens. I do not know what can be done, but I would like very much for the Government to give it consideration, and if there is some solution, that it be done. These people are intelligent, industrious, and would like to earn a livelihood. I have much pleasure in giving this my whole-hearted support and ask that it be forwarded to the proper Department for consideration.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have very considerable pleasure in supporting the prayer of the petition from that part of White Bay and I would like to add a word or two on that general matter.

Away back, there was some government so wise it decided that all the timber growing along the fore-shore, or the shore for a distance of three miles back from the salt water ought and should be reserved for the use of fishermen for flake material, fencing, saw mills, and boat building, schooner building and the general purposes of the people. Unfortunately, other governments subsequently were not always as wise, alienated portions of that three mile limit from the Crown, from the people to private companies. In my own constituency of Bonavista North exactly the same situation exists, where privately owned timber now grows down to the water and the people if they cut it have to pay royalty to private companies.

The Government has, on more than one occasion, since we have been in power, considered and discussed the matter of the three mile limit and places in White Bay, Bonavista Bay and elsewhere in Newfoundland part of the three-mile limit, have been taken from the people and given to some private company and what could we do about it?

The Crown owns certain timberlands in Newfoundland and the thought has been that we might be able to arrange a swap, a fair exchange with private paper companies which would take back the three mile limit and give the paper companies corresponding blocks of Crown land timber, because there may be Crown Land timber in a place not of any value or any use to the fishermen and people on the coast, but very valuable to some paper company, because it might lie close to their own land where they are already operating. In that way we could serve the purpose of both the people and the company. Then a new thought came up (My honourable friend the former Minister of Natural Resources must be thinking hard now), a new thought came up, suppose there is a new paper mill, suppose there is a new paper mill in Bay D'Espoir where there is not very much timber, something less than a million cords, in that case, what would be best for Newfoundland, and that includes White Bay, for the whole is greater than the part. What would be best for Newfoundland? Exchange certain Crown lands with a paper company for what they own on the three mile limit, or get all the timber possible for a new paper mill? Now we have to decide. We are the only ones who can decide, and we have to make a decision. We have not made it.

I do support the prayer of the petition.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): It is not the first time a swap has taken place, it is going on between the companies all the time. One winter is gone and another coming and it would be best to have the matter settled as the fishermen have to get wood for their fires.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): They are allowed to do that but they are not allowed to cut wood to saw.

MR. HIGGINS: They have to get their flakes ready.

MR. CURTIS: They are allowed to do that, everything but saw wood.

Notice of Motions and Questions

25. Mr. Cashin addressed to the Minister of Finance:

1. A copy of the Public Accounts for the fiscal year 1949-50 as well as a copy of the Report of the Comptroller and Auditor General for the same period.

2. A statement certified by the Auditor General showing the amount placed to the credit of the Province of Newfoundland from the Surplus upon the Terms of Union; also the amount to the credit of the same account at the present time. If any withdrawals have been made from the original deposits, to give a statement of such withdrawals.

3. A statement showing the amount of revenue and expenditure for the fiscal year 1949-50. This statement to be shown under the various headings. Also a statement showing the amounts received from the Federal Government as Transitional Grant for the fiscal year 1949-50 as well as a statement showing the various amounts received from the Federal Government under the headings of Public Health and Welfare for the fiscal year 1949-50.

4. A statement showing the amount received from the Federal Government from April 1st, 1950, to date for Transitional Grant as well as the amount received under the Department of Health and Welfare for Old Age Pensions, etc., also any other amounts received as Grants from Federal Government and shown in the Consolidated Revenue account.

5. A statement showing the amount of actual cash to the credit of the Treasury in the Bank of Montreal as at February 28th, 1951—the total amount of cash to the credit of the Board of Liquor Control as at February 28th, 1951.

6. Give a statement showing the operations of the Newfoundland Savings Bank for the fiscal year 1949-50.

7. Give a statement showing the amount of actual cash loaned to the various industries, giving the names of the corporations to which the money has been loaned, the rate of interest being paid in each case and all particulars regarding such loans. This statement to include amounts advanced by the Commission of Government.

8. Give a statement showing the amounts of money guaranteed to various corporations or individuals and full particulars concerning such guarantees.

MR. SMALLWOOD:

(1) Copies of the Public Accounts for 1949-50 are available at the Department of Supply and will be distributed to members shortly through the Clerk of the House.

(2) Information requested is contained in the Public Accounts for 1949-50 (see 1 above). No withdrawals have been made to date.

(3) As in (2) above.

(4) Federal Government Grants as at 28/2/51:

(i) Department of Finance
(i) Transitional Grant .....	$6,500,000
(ii) Federal Subsidies .....	1,540,000
(ii) Department of Education
(i) Grant in Aid of Vocational Training .....	46,687
(iii) Department of Public Works
(i) Grant in Aid, Hospital Construction .....	123,198
(ii) Grant in Aid, Trans-Canada Highway .....	592,713
(iv) Department of Health
Expansion of Existing Health Services .....	427,924

- (v) Department of Public Welfare
 (i) Old Age and Blind Persons' Pensions ..... 3,685,523
 (ii) Family Allowance Investigations ..... 5,000
- (5) (a) Amount on deposit, Bank of Montreal, as at 28/2/51 .. 6,967,693
 (b) Balance, Bank of Montreal, Board of Liquor Control Account as at 28/2/51 ..... 240,058
- (6) As in (2) above.
 (7) Information requested is now being compiled.
 (8) It is assumed that this question relates to bank loans guaranteed by the Government and, on this basis, the following information is supplied:

NAME	Amount of	Amount
	Bank	of under
	Guarantee	Guarantee
	$	$
(i) Andrews Labrador Fisheries Ltd.....	160,000	150,000
(ii) Richard Ltd. ....	250,000	250,000
(iii) St. Lawrence Corporation of Newfoundland Ltd. ....	521,000	521,000
(iv) Alberto Wareham Ltd. ....	65,000	65,000
(v) Northeastern Co-op. Fisheries Ltd. ....	35,000	35,000
(vi) Fishery Products Ltd. ....	460,000	232,000
(vii) Arctic Fishery Products Ltd. ....	125,000	60,000
(viii) Springdale Fur Farmers Co-op. ....	7,000	144
(ix) Olsen Whaling and Sealing Ltd. ....	375,000	375,000
(x) United Church Board of Education.....	40,000	23,000
		(Unpaid Int.)
		170.40
	<hr/>	<hr/>
	$2,038,000	$1,711,144
	<hr/>	<hr/>

(Note: For full particulars regarding the details of these loans, please refer to the honourable Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives in the case of (i), (ii), (iv),—(ix) above, the Hon. Attorney General in the case of (iii), and the Hon. Minister of Education in the case of (x).

Note: The above figures, insofar as they relate to 1950-51, are subject to final audit.

MR. SMALLWOOD: This is an answer to a question asked by the same honourable gentleman—the number does not appear on the answer paper.

Reports of Mr. Ambrose Shea—these are the original reports, I do not think they are complete, there were four or five, some of them are up in the Department of Natural Resources on loan but if they are necessary we will get them back and submit these as well. These are originals, may we have them back and have good care taken of them.

(74) Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives :

1. In regard to answer of question No. 24 on the order paper of March 13th, relating to a pilot fish meal plant in St. John's: did the Government negotiate for the sole right to the process for Newfoundland, if so, have the Government been successful in acquiring sole rights?

2. Is it the intention of the Government to assist in the introduction of this process into the many fishing settlements in the Province?

Answer: (1) The Government of Newfoundland did not negotiate for the sole rights to a process for the production of fish meal.

(2) The Government would consider giving assistance for the production of fish meal in small plant operations if such plants can be provided with assurance of economic operation and the processes involved are proved.

(76) Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives :

Answer: (1) The members of the Fisheries Loan Board are Mr. J. Baxter, Chairman, and Mr. J. T. Callanan, Secretary, with Mr. John T. Cheeseman, Honourable Ray Petten and Mr. Colin Storey.

(2) Attention is drawn to Paragraph 15 of the Act, outlining that a full report is required to be submitted to the Minister not later than the 30th day of May, covering operations to the end of the previous fiscal year. All the questions submitted would be, as a matter of routine, answered therein. Expenses to date have been entirely by way of salaries.

(3) There have been three meetings of the Board. Considerable correspondence has been carried on and numerous applications dealt with, the majority of which did not qualify under the Regulations. A few small loans have been approved but not finalized so far. No guarantees have been given.

(77) Mr. Fogwill, addressed to the honourable Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives :

(1) Who are the members of the Co-operative Loan Board?

(2) Table statement showing the total expenses of the Board to date, including travelling expenses, wages, etc.

(3) Have the Board made any loans or guaranteed loans, if so, how much, to whom and on what terms?

Answer: (1) The members of the Co-operative Development Loan Board are Mr. J. Baxter, Chairman; and Mr. J. T. Callanan, Secretary; with Messrs. W. F. Chafe, C. C. Janes and F. J. Scott.

(2) Paragraph 14 of the Act calls for a complete report to be submitted to the Minister not later than the 30th day of May, covering operations to the end of the previous fiscal year. All the questions submitted would be, as a matter of routine, answered therein. Expenses to date have been entirely by way of salaries.

(3) The Board held its first meeting recently. No loans have been made or guarantees given.

Question No. 78 in course of preparation.

(79) Mr. Fogwill, addressed to the honourable Minister of Economic Development :

(1) Table statement showing the total expenses under Subhead No. 1505 of the 1950-51 Estimates of Expenditure.

(2) Inform the House of the number of investigations made, who made them, and the amount paid for each investigation?

MR. SMALLWOOD: That vote is sub-divided into two—one amount for investigations not specified $75,000, and the other is the Hydro survey, $150,000. $107,000 has been spent leaving a balance not spent of $42,000. I ought to say however, to my honourable friend, that in the coming year there will be further expenditure made by way of drilling. The survey on these watersheds cannot be complete from the stand-point of ascertaining the exact cost of production of power from them until the sites where dams would be put and canals and powerhouses are first drilled to find out the nature of the ground underneath, because the excavation at such places would constitute part of the cost of producing the power and that drilling will be done as soon as weather conditions permit. $106,700 spent, $42,000 not spent. The other amount is over-spent by $7,000 so that instead of $75,000 it is $82,000. That includes a number of things, for example; the cost of I.B.E.C. survey, reports on birch industry made by Mr. Thomas Muffett of New Brunswick. It includes also some of the expenses of Dr. Valdmanis's office.

There has just arrived to me further information on the report of Mr. Ambrose Shea, I think I can table it, it is a departmental file, so, obviously, I would like to have it back.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 80.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Unless that refers to the Dolan investigation and report, the answer is normal departmental expenditure as mentioned in the Estimates as what has been spent; no unusual expenditure except the engagement of Mr. Leo Dolan and the receipt of his report. If that is what is wanted, I shall be glad to table the report. It is a fairly lengthy report and I would hate to have it copied for all the members. If I put one copy on the table of the House, would that suffice?

MR. HIGGINS: There was only a small report in the newspaper.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is probably because they did not publish the whole report.

(81) Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Minister of Public Works:

Hon. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): As far as I am aware the answer to that and perhaps one or two others may arrive before the closing this afternoon, but at the moment they are all in the course of preparation.

(84) Mr. Higgins addressed to the honourable the Minister of Fisheries:

Answer: The Government is aware that the Government of Canada, through the Fisheries Prices Support Board, intends to review the prices paid to fishermen in relation to the average export price for 1950 shore fish.

The Enquiry being conducted by the Government of Newfoundland, under the Public Enquiries Act, does not overlap to any appreciable extent the investigation by the Fisheries

Prices Support Board, and it does not involve duplication of expense to the people of Newfoundland.

MR. SPEAKER: The last section of the question "Which can only mean double expense to the people of Newfoundland" is out of order and should be stricken out.

(66) Mr. Fogwill addressed to the honourable the Minister of Labour:

Question 1. Who are the members of the Labour Relations Board?

Answer. Mr. Kevin L. Barry, LL.B., Chairman; Mr. L. E. Baggs, LL.B.; Mr. W. F. Chafe, Mr. W. J. May, Mr. H. T. Renouf.

Question 2. Who represents the Government on the Board?

Answer. The Government is not represented on the Board.

Question 3. Who represents the Trade on the Board?

Answer. Mr. L. E. Baggs, LL.B., and Mr. H. T. Renouf.

Question 4. Who represents Labour on the Board?

Answer. Mr. W. F. Chafe and Mr. W. J. May.

Question 5. Table statement showing total expenses including travelling expenses of the Board to date?

Answer. $4,545.00.

Question 6. What amount has been paid to each member of the Board, at what rate, per day, per week, as the case may be?

Answer:

Mr. Barry .....	$640.00
Mr. Baggs .....	435.00
Mr. Chafe .....	390.00
Mr. May .....	420.00
Mr. Renouf .....	405.00

Rates: Members $15.00 a day, Chairman $20.00 a day while engaged in the work of the Board.

MR. FAHEY: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Finance:

1. What was the final disposition of the Clarenville boats?

2. To whom were they sold?

3. At what price were they sold?

4. What were the terms of sale?

To ask the honourable the Minister of Finance:

1. Did the Government loan or guarantee a loan to Hollett & Sons of Burin, if so, how much?

2. Did Holletts buy one of the Clarenville boats—which one—at what price?

MR. FOGWILL: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Labour:

1. Who are the members of the Workmen's Compensation Committee?

2. What salary is paid to each member?

3. How many persons are employed by the Committee?

4. Who are they, what are their duties and what salary is paid to each?

5. What is the total cost of the Committee to date, including travelling expenses?

MR. CURTIS: With the consent of the House I would move that the next four items on the Order Paper be deferred until later in the afternoon. We are getting near the end of the month and the House might be willing to proceed with the Workmen's Compensation Act which the Minister would like to have proclaimed.

MR. FAHEY: Do I understand you want to defer the address in reply?

MR. CURTIS: Just for half an hour until we deal with these one or two bills which are more or less urgent, and then refer back.

MR. SPEAKER: Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act granting to His Majesty Certain Sums of Money for Defraying Certain Expenses of the Public Service for the Financial Year Ending the Thirty-first Day of March, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-two and for Other Purposes Relating to the Public Services."

Mr. Speaker left the Chair. Mr. Courage took the Chair of Committees.

MR. HIGGINS: Regarding the section brought in the other day, the Audit Act. At the time I did not have it in my possession but I expressed my opinion then that it was not in accordance with the Act. There are certain cases outlined where money may be spent without legislative authority. Section No. 33 has been quoted; now let us turn back to it:

"No cheque for public money shall issue except upon the certificate of the Comptroller and Auditor General that there is authority for the expenditure, save only in the following cases:

There must be authority except in those cases, "If upon any application for a cheque the Comptroller and Auditor General has reported that there is no legislative authority for issuing it, or that it would be illegal." Then we come to "B", if the legislature is not in session, any accident happens to any public work or public building which requires an immediate outlay for the repair thereof, or any other occasion arises when any expenditure not foreseen and provided for the public good." Now that refers to expenditures of money by the Government when the legislature is not in session and refers to cases that require immediate attention. It does not refer to building but when a building, for instance, is badly in need of repairs and can't wait until the House opens in order to get a special grant. "Then upon the report of the Minister of Finance and Customs that there is no legislative provision and of the Minister having charge of the service in question that the necessity is urgent, the Governor in Council may order a special warrant to be prepared, to be signed by the Governor, for the issue of the amount estimated to be required, which shall be placed by the Minister of Finance and Customs to a special account, against which cheques may issue from time to time in the usual form as they are required."

MR. SMALLWOOD: Emergency means unforeseen. Would you mind reading that again, did you not read 'public interest.'

MR. HIGGINS: For the public good, I am not denying it but it must be an emergency. What is the use of the House here? It is only a farce if you can make an expenditure of $20,000 or $30,000, it is only a matter of degree in my estimation, if you go ahead with one million, you go ahead with 10,000,000.

MR. CURTIS: I would like to tell my honourable friend that the entire Section "B" has been repealed. The section was quoted but not the section as read by my honourable friend. I have here the proper section which I will read:

No. 33 now read, amended, amended and further amended, I quote what I believe is the present day wording :

"(b) If any accident happens to any public work or public building which requires an immediate outlay for the repair thereof, or any other occasion arises when any expenditure not foreseen and provided for by the Legislature is urgently and immediately required for the public good, then, upon the report of the Minister of Finance and Customs that there is no legislative provision and of the Minister having charge of the service in question that the necessity is urgent, the Governor in Council may order a special warrant to be prepared, to be signed by the Governor, for the issue of the amount estimated to be required, which shall be placed by the Minister of Finance and Customs to a special account, against which cheques may issue from time to time in the usual form as they are required."

MR. SMALLWOOD: So that, Mr. Chairman, we were covered handsomely under several of these provisions when we made this expenditure. The position was this, there was an opportunity before the Government to build a cement mill and a gypsum plant and plaster board plant in Bay of Islands. If we had waited until the House met or even if we had called the House together in a special session, it would have been too late to get the prices we did for both of these factories. As it was, it was touch and go because after we had made the contract the prices of steel began their tremendous increase, that we all know now. An effort was made to induce the Government to call off the contract and the opportunity to build those two mills came at a most crucial period in the post-war history of the world. By seizing the opportunity when we did and securing the contracts we saved many hundreds of thousands of dollars. Now to do that we had to avail ourselves of the authority which the law provides. The House when it was last in session had not voted His Majesty the money with which to build those two mills so we availed ourselves of the authority of the law which the Attorney General just read and asked His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, after we had the opinion of the Attorney General and the opinion of the Treasury, to issue a special warrant upon the Treasury for this amount. His Honour did so, the whole thing was done with the knowledge and consent of the Attorney General, of the Treasury, of the Auditor General and upon special warrant of His Honour the Lieutenant Governor. There was nothing illegal about it, nothing unlawful about it and it was very definitely for the public good, and, I am sure, if my honourable and learned friends had been in our position they would have been just as zealous to further the public interest in that same matter as we were and would have done exactly what we did, that is to say, they would have felt as strongly as we did, that to proceed with the mills, it was quite lawful thing to do.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Chairman, to resume my remarks, I still feel and hold this was illegal and one can understand the position this section was amended to cover. The Government allocated a certain amount for an action and found they required a little more money, then they can revoke that Act. It does not mean the Government has the right to take up new projects which were not taken at the time of the legislature. Economic Development, an amount of $170,000, and there was no talk of a cement mill at Corner Brook nor a mill on the Gander, nor any of these things at all. It was a new thing that came up, entirely new; it was not thought of at the time at all, had nothing to do with the allocation of money which they asked, $270,000, then they find they want $2,000,000. The House should have been called together. This is a precedent most serious; if you can spend a million, you can spend twenty millions, that is sure. That was all that was needed, that allocation of $270,000, an allocation of two or three million dollars was never considered. If the situation before the Government was that they required more money to finish a project for which money had been allocated and some more money was required without opening the House, I can easily understand that, but this practice is very serious practice, and illegal according to the Act passed for the very purpose of preventing the Government from spending money never voted. The House should have been called into session immediately. When did the run start, at the last moment, could it not have been foreseen at all? You have to take your chance at that, you cannot jeopardize the finance of the country.

Now there are twelve men in the Cabinet and only 20 in the Government. The Cabinet acts as a majority of the House and runs the other side, therefore the Cabinet may jeopardize the country, not the members of the Government at all. What is the good of talking against twelve Cabinet Ministers—they come in three or more ranks deep.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The blame for that you will have to place on the people who elected us.

MR. HIGGINS: I am talking logically, the cabinet has the majority. The people did not elect the Cabinet, the people elected the members of the House, and the Cabinet has the majority, the Cabinet are 12, they can run the whole thing. That Act was passed for the sole purpose of preventing the Government from spending money without legislative authority:

"33 (2). The Comptroller and Auditor General shall in all such cases prepare a statement of all such legal opinion, reports of Council, special warrants and cheques issued without his certificates, and of all expenditure incurred in consequence thereof, which he shall deliver to this Minister of Finance and Customs, to be by him presented to the Legislature not later than the third day of the session thereof next ensuing."

Has that been done? The table is there and I would like the clerk to hand me the papers. The Comptroller's reports of council, special warrant and all expenses. Mr. Chairman, I ask you to request the Minister of Finance to hand me those reports which are supposed to be laid here the third day of the session. Will I presume that these have not been filed?

MR. CURTIS: They are not required under this Section "B".

MR. HIGGINS: Was Section No. 2 repealed?

MR. CURTIS: This is the new section "B" of the Audit Act passed in 1935. I cannot tell you the state of the law. I do not think, Mr. Chairman, that there is any provision in this section "2" under which this is made which requires a written report or opinion or anything else, nothing to file.

MR. HIGGINS: The first section just laid down certain cases but then in all those cases the Auditor or Controller General would have to give an explanation to the House and pass it, in order to pay the Bills.

MR. CURTIS: I think perhaps the special warrant should have been issued, my learned friend has only now just drawn this section to my attention.

MR. HIGGINS: Where has the legislature made provisions for the cement mill or factory. It has only allocated $270,000. Take the next one—how is it urgent to begin a new project? If that is very urgent a half dozen may be more urgent, another three and a half or six million dollars.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If my honourable friend would allow, we had the authority of the law, we did not make this law, it was made in 1935. If an opportunity comes up in the next 12 months for half a dozen more new industries as sound and as solid as the cement mill, we will seek the same authority and start these new industries, and we will be kicked out and we will be glad to go back to the people if we have to do it all over again, and I am sure they will —

MR. HIGGINS: The Prime Minister is not the law of the Province. If it was that urgent why was not the House called together? Did the Minister of Finance give his opinion?

MR. CURTIS: It does not have to be written.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The whole cabinet agreed it was urgent, the Attorney General, the whole cabinet agreed it was very urgent and in the public good, and money would be saved for the Province, hundreds of thousands of dollars.

MR. FAHEY: Spend millions to save hundreds of thousands.

MR. HIGGINS: I know I will be voted down but I contend that it is only making a farce of parliamentary government. This House is the only authority to pass money bills; the Government has passed the Budget and it was not included. It will jeopardize the country, anytime the House is not in session and they can keep the House out of session as long as they wish and when it meets, find everything is gone.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We cannot keep the House out of session.

MR. HIGGINS: You can hold it twelve months, long enough to ruin the country. Come in and say we have made a contract for $2,000,000 but it was essential to the country. The only authority in the country representing the people is the House of Assembly, the Government, the Cabinet does not and the House of Assembly has not passed on one cent of this money only on $277,000 for exploratory work in the Department of Economic Development.

MR. SMALLWOOD: They have not passed on it yet, we are asking them to confirm it.

MR. HIGGINS: The House is asked to vote on something illegal and by sheer force of number, majority of the Government and nothing else.

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend is entirely entitled to his opinion. He thinks we are wrong and he is right. See what the House thinks. The House, my honourable friend, includes me, it includes all of us.

MR. HIGGINS: I move an amendment that the sum be reduced to $1.00.

MR. RUSSELL: There is a mistake in line four and five and the total.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The figure two million to be deleted and one dollar inserted in its place.

MR. FAHEY: In speaking to that amendment, I rise to support that amendment on these grounds, in the first place the sum of two million dollars is completely out of proportion, in my opinion, with the total amount asked for. We understood that when the Attorney General moved this resolution it was necessary for the year ending March 31 in order to pay various departments their wages and so on. We must advance an amount and it is so urgent four other items must be deferred.

MR. CHAIRMAN: You can't discuss that now, we are speaking on the amendment.

MR. FAHEY: I contend if it is so urgent the Government should have called the House together if necessary. Now if the Government can between sessions spend two million in Economic Development and two millions in Public Works as well as Health, that is not asking for an amount to take us over into the financial year, in my opinion it is already spent and not an amount to take us over until the Budget is finalized, that is why the supplementary amount is brought in but in my opinion it is already spent and is not an advance to take us over the next month or two until we get proper authority through the legislature. It is altogether wrong in my opinion. I am not qualified to deal with the legal end of it but the legislature. It is altogether wrong in my and we were only asked last year to vote something like $277,000 for Economic Development. I don't know what it will cost next year, to give an advance now of $2,000,000, it may be $10,000,000 or $20,000,000 in the Budget. I contend it is altogether wrong and for that reason I support the motion that it should be reduced to $1.00.

MR. MILLER: It seems to me that this matter arises out of a difference of opinion on the interpretation of a clause in the law. Now it is intimated that force of numbers will put this through, but does that clear the matter up? This House does not definitely know whether that was correct or incorrect procedure. I don't know. There has been difference of opinion between the only two legal authorities in the House, and I think it is sort of premature. Nothing should be really passed by this House until such time as above all else the legal issue in doubt is cleared up.

MR. COURAGE: The House settles that, nobody but the House can settle that themselves.

MR. MILLER: I move that a committee give it more time. This has been a heated argument this afternoon, very fine, but we can be wrong in our interpretation when we get heated. We should not take too many chances and be wrong too many times.

MR. FOGWILL: That is my opinion also. There is a difference of opinion between the Attorney General and the Leader of the Opposition. It seems clear to me. I accept the opinion of the Leader of the Opposition in interpretation of the Law, I do not accept the interpretation that the Government can spend the public money when the House is not in session to such an amount as is listed in this Bill. I say such a thing is absolutely unprecedented, to give the Cabinet of a democratic country, particularly in time of peace; if we were at war or there was a state of emergency, there might be some excuse for it, but it is no excuse for the Government to do such a thing and, in my mind, it is absolutely wrong and if we do it, will make a precedent for years to come and people will suffer for it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The people of this Province will suffer if it is not done. It is not a matter of opinion, it is a matter of hard facts. The Government has made two contracts for the building of a factory, a mill, and under this contract machinery is delivered and paid for; a steamer will arrive shortly with a load of machinery for these mills, a cement mill and plaster board mill. If the amendment is carried it will mean that the steamer on arriving is turned back.

MR. HIGGINS: And the rights of the Legislature will have been upheld.

MR. SMALLWOOD: And the rights of the people will have been damaged. There will then be no cement mill, there will then be no gypsum mill. No mill in Corner Brook, just the unfinished portion of a mill standing out to rust, and there will be no hundreds of men employed, there will be no two large mills opening 24 hours a day, three shifts, instead just a skeleton rusting out in the weather. That is what it means if this amendment is refused, that is what it means, it will injure the people of Newfoundland seriously. I suppose, actually, if my honourable and learned friends thought that their amendment might carry they would not make it, I doubt they would make it. I doubt they would make the motion. I doubt they would run the risk of closing down the construction of these two mills, I doubt that they would run that risk. It is because they know they are only four present, they make it in a badly mistaken idea of smart politics.

MR. FAHEY: I understand from the remarks of the Premier that the Government made a contract, they have a ship load of machinery—therefore we must pass this, legally or not. I contend the thing was done altogether wrong in the first place. If it is to give employment, I am one who will always support giving employment, I also say I appreciate the effort of the Government in trying to create a new industry, but I think if the Government had come in and opened the session and asked to have this passed instead of going ahead and obligating the legislature for $2,000,000 and saying now you got to pass it because of the fact we made a contract. If I should be an agent of the Government tomorrow, that would not give me the right to go and obligate the Government for millions of dollars without proper authority for doing so and that is exactly what the executive council has done now, obligated the legislature for two million dollars without proper authority and then come back and say, we have made a contract, we got ship loads of equipment and because of that now we got to pass the Bill. We have not legally, in my opinion, and I referred to rubber stamps long ago, and rubber stamps will carry it.

MR. CURTIS: As long as any government has the support of the House it can carry out the provisions of this or any other Act.

MR. HIGGINS: Naturally, but the Government and the Cabinet can only by legislature.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Well, we come to you now and ask you to approve it. What is the position: The honourable Leader of the Opposition says we are wrong, I submit we are not wrong. We say this was urgently and immediately required and if we had not spent it when we did we would not get it at the same prices or not at all.

MR. HIGGINS: I draw attention to the fact the comptroller, in all cases should prepare a statement, if the cheque was issued without a certificate.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It was not, it was not disputed, we did not do it over the head of the Auditor General.

House divided—15 for, 4 against.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is a lot of rubber, gentlemen.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Reported the Bill passed without amendment.

MR. CURTIS: I don't know whether the House will be willing to have the House read it a third time now as His Honour the Lieutenant Governor is coming here at 3:00 o'clock tomorrow. If the House will agree to have him come here at 3:00 o'clock, I move the third reading.

MR. HIGGINS: I don't want to make an issue at present, I don't think we should set a precedent.

MR. SMALLWOOD: As to the precedent part of it the commonplace practice is for third reading immediately following the Committee of the Whole, that is the common practice, normally given immediately after committee stage, in this country.

MR. HIGGINS: In this country yes, not in this Province.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The practice in Canada is to give third reading immediately after the committee stage and so in the United Kingdom. When the Bill has passed second reading and the principle has been approved and gone through the Committee of the Whole and approved in detail, the third reading is merely a formality. You can't change it after that, you can only make verbal amendments. It has been adopted in principle, in detail and the third reading is merely a formality, but if the House does not care to give it third reading — — —

MR. HIGGINS: I don't care, I am indifferent. As I said we are quite willing to agree but I don't want this precedent, there was a precedent before.

MR. SPEAKER: The situation is any Bill may be read immediately.

Bill read a third time, ordered passed and title be as on the Order Paper.

MR. FAHEY: I move we refer back to the regular orders of the day.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I wonder would it serve the convenience of my honourable friend opposite, if you wish to proceed with the debate on the Address in Reply but let me point out that the Workman's Compensation, Act Amendment would need to be done before the month ends for the new financial year and if we proceed now today with the address in reply we would like to have the cooperation of my honourable friend on this Compensation Bill but whatever suits the convenience of my honourable friend.

MR. MILLER: I think that since I am the next speaker, as far as I am concerned, I am prepared to wait until any day or proceed now.

MR. FAHEY: I understand the Government wants to continue the Workmen's Compensation Act, I am quite sure the Government must have felt and knew it was on the go yesterday and the day before and I sat yesterday and heard the same thing repeated for an hour, repeated from the day before, there was no rush then. But now when we want to refer back, my motion to refer back to the address in reply, we are jammed up for time in so far as we must get ahead for the Workmen's Compensation Act.

MR. SPEAKER: I won't withdraw the motion, I will leave the motion for the House to decide.

MR. FOGWILL: I second the motion.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think we need only suggest we revert to the motion in reply. I think the Government is in control of the situation. Might we revert to the address in reply and meanwhile have a ten-minute recess.

MR. MILLER: Mr. Speaker, I must first, Sir, in conformity with the previous speakers offer my congratulations for the very able manner in which the honourable members for Labrador and Fogo moved and seconded the motion that an address in reply be forwarded to the Lieutenant Governor. I find it rather easy to congratulate these men because I find, at least in some respects, their thinking concurs with mine and they have come around to my way of thinking, I do not propose to enlarge on that right now, perhaps some remarks as I go along, nor do I propose to be very long this afternoon though a very great controversy took place as to whether I get the floor at all or not.

The Speech from the Throne permits a wide range, a very wide range of subjects, very many things, generally dealing with activities of the Government during the past year and on that I am not sure I can make any comment on the different projects the Government has started. I want to be fair while I am in this House, fair in all my dealings. I am in this House, I will say, almost without politics. I spent the two years of the National Convention, and also when I as far as I am concerned whether on this side or on the other side I am only interested in one thing, a better Newfoundland evolving from the deliberations. I mentioned in the National Convention, and when I spoke in last year's debate, the vulnerability of our economy when we came into Confederation. I don't propose to pursue that matter. Yes, we have a vulnerable economy just as does Spain, so also England, the United States and South America and European countries as well. We are no longer living in our own backyard.

The Speech from the Throne warns of the very bad effect on the Government's program, world peace or rather the deterioration possibly of world peace and the threat of war. We recognize that, but we also recognize that that has a good effect as well as bad effect on Newfoundland because of our vulnerable economy. We recognize that in our big industries when the threat of war came we got orders, men went to work. It was not so in 1949. As I previously said, in order to be fair I would have to connect the actions of the Government with the bringing about of this prosperity in Newfoundland. I recognize, presently, we have in Newfoundland, in our big industries, with the exception of the fisheries, a mild war-time prosperity. It is grand to have it, and let us hope we will not go back from where we stand today.

We are told of the possibility of the tightening of the supply of steel and other things like that may slow up the cement mill. Well I say, in my opinion, the Canadian Government should do everything possible to hasten the supply of anything we might be short of in that cement mill. I know, of course, that most of it is coming from the other side, nevertheless, there must be a tie-in. The Federal Government must take some action and release some restrictions when the time comes. We are to understand there is a good market for this cement, I take that at face value as submitted, but I argue that the threat of war must not slow up Newfoundland's development program.

Why do I argue that? I argue because I recognize—I talked about it every time I stood in this House—we are getting on very thin ice regarding our salt dried fishery as an industry. I have said it is an exception to the rule in modern war-time prosperity. We have a development program, we voted money for it last year, at least

I did, with sincerity too. I favour the development program. I recognize the Federal Government, and we are so greatly involved that we must undertake a very large preparatory program, recognize that through preparedness only is there lasting peace and probably not even then. We must build a huge war machine, and it is very apparent we must maintain it for years to come, a big army, navy and airforce and build atom bombs as well too, but what does that mean? It means taxation, money from the people to pay for it all. Can we get it out of the cod fishery as it exists today all around our coast line? I can't be for a moment reconciled to the fact the people of Corner Brook, St. John's and Grand Falls pay all the necessary taxation and the men around the coast line are released from paying anything. That never was and never will be, and I expect they will pay gladly their share in the future, providing they get a chance to do so. So I say, then, the Federal Government should take a very active interest in our economic program here. I say also, as in the last war, they went out and built jam factories, and these kind of industries do give employment, they should come down and make some of these factories in Newfoundland as after all, unless we can get right in our midst factories that produce necessities for the table, then we are never going to get the cost of living down. That is one way of getting the cost of living down, to have the Federal Government come in now they have this war time fund and erect some factories. I can't suggest at the moment what they can do, we can't have such a blank future; something would be found here in peacetime, we could go on producing these things and give the people perhaps some cheaper foodstuffs. The Federal Government has a program of rearmament, they are going to build so many more airports. Well, it is all very fine but this business of building airport is good for a while, then a complete vacuum after all is over. What we need is the real industries of our country developed, and this brings me back again among the fishermen, this brings me to my subject.

I said I would not be long, I don't propose to be long. There are so many angles to the fishery, perhaps one might drift along. We must recognize that in a world of rising prices, Newfoundland fish has suffered a drop. Last year I told this House about how serious I thought this situation was. This year, as I previously mentioned, my honourable friend, the member for Fogo said, in effect, the boats are hauled up to stay. The fishery is over, he intimates. How can we accept that without getting somewhat alarmed about it? I cannot. I am glad the honourable member for Fogo sees that right now, but I regret it took him a year to see it. I regret it took him a year to see it because I hold now, as then, it was the duty of the Government then to approach the Federal Government to have a special committee set up, the all-powerful committee which can effect so much. I think our Government should have been more aggressive last year on that. In fact, I think, I remember telling the Premier he ought to resign his job if he did not get good satisfaction on that matter.

What has been done? There again I will be fair. I say there may be something in process, but the Premier spoke of action. The action is not fast enough to my liking.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I am delighted to hear that, a man after my own heart.

MR. MILLER: Not after your heart, no. But there is a serious situation, I will say now it is a losing fight the Government has been waging. Newfoundland's people must live by the fishery, do what we will we will still have a salt fishery, a salt fish industry in this country. It may be a poor one, your job is to make it profitable. The fishing populations of the country, hard-working, God-fearing people, men, yes and women too produce but the Government through red tape gets a hand in the marketing of their products not always for the best.

Last year you proposed a temporary—I say a temporary, with emphasis on that—a temporary floor price. I suggested that these matters should be delved into by responsible men in Ottawa. A temporary floor price and we could have fished last year, sold the fish last year and gotten a fairly level price along with an adjustment at the end if necessary. This was not done. Of course I am not laying all the blame on the Government opposite, I am merely suggesting that they should sit on Ottawa's doorstep until they get this done. It is strictly my own opinion.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We have done quite a lot of sitting, look at our travelling bills.

MR. MILLER: You turned down our motion to make a floor price for fish. Now you may very rightly ask me why do I take that attitude? Well I am going to quote from the Speech from the Throne "Since Newfoundland became a Province of Canada, responsibility for public administration of the fisheries is no longer borne by the Government of Newfoundland alone but is shared to a large extent by the Government of Canada". Honourable members will have to agree with me, thinking how national business done by the Department of External Affairs, the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Department of Finance can seriously affect the fishing industry of this Province. Because we got to go out and sell our fish outside of the Canadian Border and most often in the Sterling Block, all these departments are involved, so I say only a complete representation of all these three departments can fully appreciate, determine and valueate Newfoundland's cod fish industry. I say things happen very rapidly in these things. Yesterday there appeared in the Daily News an agreement made in 1949, then suspended and the railroad now proposes not to put into effect. That would have raised the price of fish going to Halifax by up to five cents a pound, and I say that might be the straw that might break the camel's back as regards crews fishing out of Halifax. I am not arguing the case for Nova Scotia but were it not for the fact that so many of our South Coast fishermen could have gone and fished out of Halifax and delivered their halibut in Halifax we would have had a much more acute situation. Yes the affairs of these departments directly affect us for all time. But for at least three, four or five years while we are trying to get adjusted to our new form of government, Federal guidance would be very, very helpful, it might preserve our fish industry, at present it looks as though we are going to lose it, I don't know whether the honourable member who said—the boats are hauled up to stay—whether he would agree with me when I say that I feel they are not. I feel that if we do together something like that, we can guide our fisheries, expand them. Far more than that, I feel if not then we will have less returns, less productive returns from fishermen for work and more financial burdens on the Government of this Province, and that is not good enough for us.

What about this new Fisheries Council under Sir Albert Walsh? In my opinion it does not get at the real problem. To my mind it is a fine way out for Mr. Mayhew to turn the spotlight on some Newfoundlanders while they are left alone to dish out assistance to Western wheat growers with apologies because the wheat deal, apparently, has been badly bungled, too.

It may be argued similar committees have been set up, down in P.E.I., but P.E.I. does not have to live by it, they do not have to try to get into the salt codfishery and sterling block as we must. I am not criticizing or insulting these highly respected individuals who comprise this Fishery Department Committee, I merely want to say, and I don't go behind closed doors to say it, in my opinion they are acting in a secondary sphere. I say the fish matter to be satisfactorily resolved is marketing. Just one example: Newfoundland, for years, sold fish to Brazil; a couple of years ago that market closed. Last year, Brazil ate Newfoundland fish but it was shipped to Holland first and back from Holland to Brazil. And who paid for that? The fisherman did, for he received lower returns because of the extra freight charges. Now is that a sensible way to conduct a business?

I am glad to see the fishermen get together in a union. Here I would say, I wish it had been done clear of politics and that may be a point I may be taken up on. I feel a better understanding will come about by the fishermen knowing more about the whole transaction from the day the fish is caught until the fish is on somebody's table somewhere, maybe eighteen months later, eighteen hundred or eighteen thousand miles away. The whole thing is very difficult and as we were told last year, fish is a perishable product, how well we know that.

It has been a regrettable fact, a historically regrettable fact in this country, that people such as fishermen and merchants should be so suspicious of each other, going along mistrusting each other. It is a great wonder it did not lead to even greater breaks. I am not defending the merchants either present or in the past. In the past, I speculate, a lot of graft was done, I doubt there is very much going on today.

With respect to the investigation which is now proposed by the Provincial Government, I have but one thing to say about it and it is this: In my opinion, it is the wrong time of year to pursue such an investigation, unless we are going to nurture mistrust. We must go and get a full picture, we must wait until the last cod tail is sold, then examine, then see the returns; then if there are grafters, treat them rough.

I doubt, if there are malpractices disclosed, that this Government can do anything about it. In my opinion, this Government, right now, should be bringing in legislation to take care of any unfairness going on.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The House has not prorogued yet.

MR. MILLER: The invitation is extended from this side. It is the logical conclusion.

My friend, the honourable member for Fogo, said the boats are hauled up to stay. Last year we were told the Labrador Fishery is through, and we accepted it. I believe we were told then that the Shore Fishery had a fairly bright future. I believe today, when that statement was measured out to us by the Federal Government, with the knowledge of events which they should have gleaned from world grouping going on, they should be able to picture, should know the future standing of the industry so important to us, should I feel, be really able to give us this information. If they can't do that, then I say they are not as big as I think they are, and that is admitting that they are big.

I will pull aside the curtain of the fishing industry and come into a new season. What would we see? In my opinion, we would feel very discouraged if we knew the true facts. Such facts as no conversion of sterling this year. If it is being done, why not now? We are now ready to go fishing, trawling starts in May or June around the shores but we must start preparation in March month. What about the sale this year in the sterling area. Last year Great Britain was very cooperative. Great Britain hurt herself to help us get our fish into the sterling block—exporting, and building up her dollar surplus, as she is, and making a grand job of it too. We learned in 1949, at the end of 1949 she had a trade deficit of fourteen hundred million dollars, and changed that figure in one twelve months, to read eight hundred and five million of trading surplus at the end of 1950. At the end of 1950 we saw the threat of war, and the threat of war meant stock-piling and no more exporting, and meant spending her surplus for her own commitments, and we don't disagree with that I am sure. So, in my opinion, we could not expect Great Britain, good neighbour though she be, to convert sterling this year. So we must have some other proposal and it is now due. Ottawa must be prepared to give it.

What has Ottawa said about this surplus fish? Efforts should be made to sell in Southern Markets. What do we know about the Southern Markets? Last year to go in there we had to reduce prices, and now it is no longer economically sound to continue with the prices, in view of the high cost of living and the higher cost of production. Can we associate this with anything the Federal Government has done before. I hold we can, I hold that when the wheat growers of Western Canada complained they could no longer produce wheat due to rising prices in the last war, the Federal Government established floor prices, guaranteed minimum prices, and I think that must be done for the fisheries now, this year, immediately, not in the next month. If we delay such a pronouncement, then we will retard the progress of the industry, we will get men earning half enough rather than the full amount which will have to be made up by the Government. Are we going to continue making claims like that on the Federal Government? That would be unreasonable. No we are not. I think, eventually,—it will be a hard fight, I know—but I think, eventually Newfoundland will emerge and be able to take care of itself. But I do hold, and I sit down on that remark, for the first four or five years the price of fish should be established and there should be a statement here today from the Federal Government specifying what they will do here. I also hold it is a pressing urgency that a committee representative of the aforementioned departments should be appointed immediately. This can be a challenge to their financial ability and to their trained ability and further to that it can be the first step in the economic survey, promised, made available to us by the terms of union. In my opinion, this part of our problem can only be solved by them. In my opinion it is their duty to us to do it; and, in my opinion, it is your duty to go to them and see that they do it.

MR. KEOUGH: I move the adjournment of the debate until tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Could we perhaps, Mr. Speaker, move on to a Committee of the Whole on a Bill "An Act to Amend the Workmen's Compensation Act 1950." That is a rather urgent matter because it is highly desirable it will be effective and receive Royal Assent in advance of the beginning of the new financial year.

Committee of the Whole on a Bill "An Act to Amend the Workmen's Compensation Act."

Clauses one through 8 read—carried.

DR. POTTLE: I raise the question, how long does the payment continue with regard to children?

MR. CURTIS: As long as they are dependent.

MR. BALLAM: If the child were an invalid and continued so after it became a man or woman and the parents had to look after it, it would still come under the Act.

DR. POTTLE: The answer is that when that child would come of age what would be done, would be determined by the amount of money available to the child. All payments are made on the basis of maintenance.

MR. HIGGINS: If the child got $20 a month you would pay $5 more.

DR. POTTLE: That is right.

Clause 9 through 11 carried.

DR. POTTLE: I noticed the word "same" appears where one might expect the word "case."

MR. HIGGINS: I think we should ask the Attorney General about that. It has not been adopted yet.

MR. CURTIS: Well, it follows the Canadian Act. We have a note here, it is common procedure, all the Acts are worded so.

Clauses 12 through 16 read and carried.

We have a correction to make on Page 20, fourth line—Strike out Steamer including river and harbor—down to sailing vessels, and in the second last line, cut out Transportation by air, that is the second last line, and in the last line cut out aircraft testing. Cut out those words. Add—To include passenger and cargo servicing, and office personnel in and around airports.

Now in clause 7, top of page 2, the word "collection" should be deleted.

MR. HIGGINS: Page 27—What about—supposing you employed one man to work with you, that was a hardship in the last Act.

MR. MAKINSON: On page 44—First Aid Kit, is that the minimum?

MR. BALLAM: I might say this Act here is standard practice. It might be sound to consult the Department of Health and get a list that would be modern. There is authority to change that under the regulations, to keep it up to date. In view of that it would be alright to let it stand as it is upon advice of doctor.

MR. HIGGINS: It may have left out some of these modern drugs as many people are unable to take them, and I assume they are left out because this list is only for laymen.

MR. MAKINSON: Tanic acid is out of date for burns.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It seems to me the Workmen's Compensation Board will have to consult the Department of Health and other medical authorities. The regulations give the Government in Council authority to amend and that I think should cover it.

The Committee reports having passed the Bill with some amendments.

MR. BALLAM: Could I move the third reading of this Bill?

Read a third time. Ordered now passed and title be as on the Order Paper.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Could we now take second reading of item No. 4, from the bottom of the page, "An Act Further to Amend the Act No. 41, of 1938 entitled 'An Act for the Confirmation of an Agreement between the Government and the Labrador Mining and Exploration Company Limited.'

MR. CURTIS: In connection with that Bill, Mr. Speaker, I may say it was made at the request of the Labrador Mining and Exploration Co., the Government considered it carefully and see no reason why we should refuse to accede to the request and this legislature is to make that amendment. It will provide for two things, first: a very minor one, namely, where now the existing Act provides their Head Office must be in Canada, this will provide that a branch office for purposes of serving processes may exist because it is well known a lot of the capital of this company is American. The second point with regard to electricity, enabling them to export from the province of Newfoundland at Labrador in the Province of Quebec immediately contiguous to Labrador hydro-electric power which they propose to develop along the line of the railway where they can develop a maximum of fifteen thousand horsepower. This is not the big horsepower now, and the amendment makes sure it refers only to that and not to export the power that may develop any time in Labrador, but on this one concession where they can produce a maximum of fifteen thousand horsepower and what they don't need of that power in Labrador they would be permitted to export out of Labrador into the Province of Quebec. In the agreement of 1938 and 1944 it is required they pay 15c. royalty a horsepower to the Newfoundland Government; they will now pay 50c. a horsepower a year and they agreed when we suggested in return that they make this small concession to us. The big thing is, this amendment will be the means of enabling them to start mining one year earlier than they could otherwise. It will advance by one year the date on which they will begin actual production of iron ore.

Bill read a second time—ordered referred to a Committee of the Whole on tomorrow. Remaining orders of the day deferred.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Before moving the adjournment I would like to say this: I suggest that tomorrow when the House meets and the minutes are read, before strangers are admitted or the official Hansard reporter is admitted, we hold a brief session during which we could examine thoroughly the agreements made for the construction of the cement mill and gypsum plant at Corner Brook, in which explanation I would give the contract prices in detail and such other details as the House might want. The purpose of the private session is to prevent it becoming available to the press for some short time, while negotiations are proceeding for I won't say sale, and I won't say rental or lease or qualify the words any more than to say disposition, while these negotiations are going on.

Now if that is agreeable to the House I would very cheerfully be willing to proceed in that manner. It is not exactly what our friends opposite have requested but I feel it is the maximum at this present time that the Government feel they can do in the public interest. We may say we intend to suggest to the House that in view of the very great importance of the events occurring in St. John's next week, I mean the holding of the Fishermen's Convention, of delegates selected by fishermen in all parts of Newfoundland and Labrador we intend to move tomorrow on rising that we adjourn for one week so that all the members of the House may be in a position to consult with these fishermen and visit them and assist them and be present at the Convention and endeavour to make it non-party and non-political, for which reason we move tomorrow that the House adjourn for one week. An invitation has been extended to the honourable learned Leader of the Opposition to address the convention on opening and we are genuinely and honestly anxious to make this convention non-partisan. We admit very frankly that there might have been better ways of having the fishermen become organized but no one was moving and we suggested a convention just to get the ball rolling and when they organize themselves we wish to step out, and I assume my honourable friend also would wish to step out and leave the fishermen's organization to itself to do its own business. Naturally as Newfoundlanders we will try to assist them in their good work if they undertake that good work.

House adjourned until tomorrow at 3:00 of the clock.

---

FRIDAY, March 30, 1951.

The House opened at three of the clock pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

None.

Presenting Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): (85) To ask the honourable the Attorney General:

(1) How many members of the R.C.M.P. are on duty in Newfoundland.

(2) How many of these are paid by the Newfoundland Government.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 82, Mr. Fahey, addressed to the honourable Minister of Finance.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): The honourable Minister asked me to reply to this question. When the present Government came into office, we found we had nine of the so-called splinter fleet, the Clarenville Boats entrusted by the Commission of Government to the Newfoundland Railway, to operate. When the Newfoundland Railway passed over its management to the C.N.R. it continued to manage these boats. After they were in operation about a year, we received from the C.N.R. a bill for $130,000, (that is from memory but it was less than $150,000 and more than $110,000), for losses on the operation of these boats. The Government decided therefore the sooner they got rid of them the better. We could not do it by mere motion, Mr. Speaker, or we would have done it. We arranged for C.N.R. to buy the boats but they agreed to buy only three and paid $60,000 each and in March of 1950 paid the Province $180,000 for these three boats. Then we offered the boats for sale by tender. We advertised them for sale and as a result we were fortunate in selling two: Mr. H. B. Dawe, the Placentia for $45,000, who took his pick of the remaining six. Captain Joshua Windsor offered $54,000 for the Trepassey which we accepted and sold him. Mr. Framp-ton agreed to buy the Glenwood for $52,000 and we had left three boats: The Twillingate, Exploits and Ferry-land. There was no one interested in them and we advertised them again and we received three offers. Two of them were absolutely unacceptable one was $5,000 and the other, I think was $25,000 on terms. We also received an offer for the other three from The North Star Shipping Company, payable on terms. The shipping company undertook to keep the vessels insured, to operate and put them into repairs and we sold them for $100,000. We have since received $33,333.33 as representing one-third, payment for one of the boats. We have been informed that within a very few days we will receive the balance of $66,000 together with interest. In the meantime the Govern-ment holds a mortgage on the boats and they are insured and the Govern-ment is fully protected, Mr. Speaker.

MR. HIGGINS: What do you mean by the C.N.R.?

MR. CURTIS: They made a claim. They inherited them from the Newfoundland Railway and did not come to us to make a new agree-ment.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): The C.N.R. did not want to touch them with a 40 ft. longer. They said: take them, we don't want anything to do with them. They said take them, and we were stuck with them. The bill was, the Com-mission of Government made a deal with the Newfoundland Railway for the management of the boats. They paid the Railway 5% and $300 a month per boat, $3,600 a month and 5% of the gross earning and paid all repairs and any deficits, and they all had deficits except two; paid all that to the Railway and the C.N.R. said to us, no thanks, we don't want them. Anyway we tried to get them to operate them and they would not. Then we tried to get them to buy them. They bought three and pres-ented us with a bill for $140,000.

MR. HIGGINS: Was this a back bill owed the Railway?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Partly and partly the losses incurred and charges made by C.N.R. We were stuck with them and decided (wish we had decided the same thing about the Ice-land Boats) to sell them and people wanted to buy them for six and seven thousand dollars. We would not look at that.

With regard to the C.N.R. bill we had to try and whittle it down and we finally got a settlement for $50,000 which we paid and called it square.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): I have replies to three of the questions directed to my Department on Order Paper of March 28th.

(50) MR. HIGGINS: To ask the honourable the Minister of Public Works:

1. What independent Architect ap-praised the building bought by the Government from American Aerated Water Company?

Answer: Mr. T. A. Lench.

2. What payment was made for this work?

Answer: $75.00.

3. Please table a copy of his report.

Answer: Copy of report attached.

4. Was anyone paid a commission in connection with the purchase of this building?

Answer: No.

5. If so, what is his name and what commission was paid?

Answer: Answered by 4 above.

February 19, 1951.

The Hon. E. S. Spencer, Minister of Public Works,
St. John's.

Dear Sir,

At the request of the Premier, I submit to you an appraisal of the building occupied by the American Aerated Water Company and situated on LeMarchant Road, in St. John's.

This building is of concrete construction, substantially built with reinforced concrete columns, beams and floors.

Part of the building, approx. 54' x 66', is excavated but has no concrete floor.

The Ground Floor is practically all laid out for storage and is now used for the bottling works and contains, in addition to this, facilities for employees such as rest-rooms, lockers and toilets. The main portion of this floor is finished with quarry tile and the remaining part in concrete with a hard trowel finish. The furnace-room is located on the West side of the building. The ceiling height is approx. 12' 0". In the north end of the building a two section garage approx. 24' 6" x 79' is located. This floor contains 10,020 sq. feet surface area.

The Second floor has an area of approx. 4,130 sq. ft. and consists of the following: along the front of the building offices are located and on the east side are ladies and gents' toilets. The rear section of the building is now used for storage. The walls and ceilings on this floor are plastered and decorated. Floors are of tile tex asphalt finish in approved pattern. Ceiling height on this floor is 9' 0".

The plumbing, heating and electrical installations are adequate and modern in every respect.

I am of the opinion that the replacement value or appraisal of this building would be two hundred and three thousand five hundred ($203,500.00) dollars. This does not include the conveyor system installed in the building.

Yours very truly,

(Sgd.) T. A. LENCH,

Thomas A. Lench, M.R.A.I.C., Renouf Building, Duckworth St.,
St. John's Nfld.

MR. HIGGINS: (51) To ask the honourable the Minister of Public Works:

1. What amount of money was spent on local roads in the District of Fortune-Hermitage?

Answer :

Settlement	Committee Contribution	Government Grant
Anderson's Cove	$ 300	$ 400
Bay L'Argent	1,250	1,250
Boxey	500	700
Bay du Nord	250	300
Brunette Island	150	250
Coombs Cove	300	450
Conne River	250	250
Dawson's Cove	150	150
English Harbour East		3
English Harbour West	350	900
Femme	250	300
Furby's Cove	100	350
Great Jervais	200	200
Grole	100	150
Goblin	50	75
Gaultois	400	500
Grand Le Pierre	20	50
Great Harbour	150	200
Head of Bay D'Espoir	150	200
Hermitage & Hardy's Cove	350	400
Harbour Breton	500	800
Jersey Harbour	300	400
Little Bay	200	300
Lally Cove	250	350
Little Bay West	310	400
Little Bay East	250	300
Little Harbour East	100	125
McCallum	200	200
Milltown	300	300
Miller's Passage	150	200
Morrisville	50	80
Pass Island	300	330
Pool's Island & Turnip Cove	200	200

Settlement	Committee Contribution	Government Grant
Point Rosie	150	200
Pushthrough	300	300
Raymond's Island	200	200
Red Cove	100	155
Round Harbour	200	200
Rencontre East	200	300
St. Bernard's	100	100
St. Alban's	600	600
St. Veronica's	150	200
St. Jacques	450	550
Stone Cove	500	575
Seal Cove	350	400
Wreck Cove	300	350
Total	$11,980	$15,193

2. Please give details of places and amounts spent at each place.

Answer: The following expenditures on local roads were authorized under the Special Works Project :

Settlement	Grant
Little Bay	$ 750
Harbour Mille	2,000
Little Bay East	1,500
Rencontre East	2,000
St. Alban's	6,000
Conne River	1,500
Total	$13,750

(52) I. What amount of money was spent on local roads in the District of Burgeo and LaPoile?

Settlement	Committee Contribution	Government Grant
Burnt Island .....	$300	$420
Cul de Sac West .....	75	105
Diamond Cove .....	150	200
Fox Roost & Margaree	200	260
Fox Island & Coppett	150	200
Francois .....	250	475
Grand Bruit & Otter's Pt. ....	175	235
Gray River & Dog Cove	210	280
Grand Bay West .....	200	250
Grand Bay East .....	250	350
Harbour Le Cou .....	200	250
Isle au Morte .....	500	650
Mouse Island .....	350	500
New Harbour .....	200	300
Petites .....	200	250
Ramea & Deer Island	400	550
Red Island .....	125	145
Rose Blanche .....	500	790
Rencontre West, Cul de Sac .....	320	500
East & Lock's Cove
West Point .....	160	220
Total .....	$4,915	$6,930

2. Please give details, etc.

The following expenditures on local roads were authorized under the Special Works Project :

Settlement	Grant
Richard's Harbour .....	$ 500
Grey River-Dog Cove .....	1,500
Great Harbour .....	400
Total .....	$2,400

The House may be interested in knowing that in addition to local grants the Government granted authority for special work around the Island in special places, and in the District of Burgeo and LaPoile three such were inaugurated.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, the honourable Minister seems to have started a competition and a lot of us are wondering if we ought to be satisfied with the amount of money spent in our district.

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Speaker, I have in addition the answer to Question No. 73.

(73) MR. MILLER: I give notice that I shall on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister for Public Works:

1. Has the cost of the repairs made on the wharf at Portugal Cove last year been paid?

2. Who made the payment?

(83) MR. FAHEY, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Finance:

Did the Government loan or guarantee a loan to Hollett and Son of Burin, if so, how much?

Did Hollett buy one of the Clarenville boats—which one—at what price?

MR. CURTIS: The honourable the Minister of Finance asked me to answer that question. Some months ago Holletts of Burin asked the Government to guarantee a loan of $125,000 in order to finance the purchase of a boat to carry fish from Burin to the market. The Government gave it some consideration and agreed to guarantee the amount of $125,000 upon having sufficient security. As security the Government is to get (1) a mortgage on the boats, (2) a mortgage on other boats of the company to the value of at least $100,000, and of course the over riding guarantee of the company whose assets we have investigated and find to be worth at least $150,000. So we considered we were very amply protected. A Bill will be introduced into the House in due time to cover the guarantee. As for the boats they are buying, we don't know what price they are paying for them. It is intimated it might be from the North Star Shipping Co.

(84) MR. FOGWILL, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Labour.

MR. BALLAM: The answer to this question is in course of preparation.

(78) MR. FOGWILL, addressed to the honourable the Minister of Fisheries:

Table information regarding the experimental fishing boat recently built at Clarenville as follows:

1. What is the total cost of the boat?
2. Give dimensions of boat, tonnage, carrying capacity, etc.
3. State horsepower of engine, type of engine, the name of the supplier of the engine and the cost of the engine.
4. What type of fishing is the boat equipped for?
5. Who supplied the equipment, what did it cost?
6. When and where will this boat operate?
7. If this type of boat is successful, is it the intention of the Government to have additional boats built on assembly line basis in order that fishermen may be assisted in the fishing industry?

MR. SMALLWOOD: His Honour the Lieutenant Governor is due to arrive at 5 of the clock to give Royal assent to two bills which have passed the House. It is now 20 minutes to

5 of the clock. The adjournment of the House yesterday was moved by the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives and it seems to me he might prefer postponing that until after the Lieutenant Governor has been here instead of having to break off. For this reason we might go into one or two items of the Committee of the Whole, one or two of the shorter ones:

MR. SPEAKER: Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting Survivorship."

Mr. Speaker left the Chair.

Mr. Courage took the Chair of Committees.

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

MR. HIGGINS: I presume this is the same as the Canadian Act. As I said before it is better to have certainty. It is presumed here that an infant lives longer than its father. An infant a day old would succeed to its father's estate, what does that mean? Is that right?

MR. CURTIS: If the two were in an accident, it would be presumed the infant died second and the father first.

MR. HIGGINS: It is topsyturvy. Is it in uniformity with the Acts for the other provinces, that is all I want to know?

MR. CURTIS: Yes.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

On motion the Bill was ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: This is a good opportunity to have a recess for ten minutes and resume a minute or two before His Honour the Lieutenant Governor arrives. Members will have to make a special point of being in their places before his arrival.

The House recessed for ten minutes.

The Lieutenant Governor then arrived.

MR. SPEAKER: Your Honour, in previous sessions the Legislative Assembly has passed certain bills to which we now respectfully request your Honour's assent.

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR: In His Majesty's name I assent to these Bills.

MR. SPEAKER: Your Honour, the Legislative Assembly has passed a Bill "An Act for Granting to His Majesty Certain Sums of Money."

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR: In His Majesty's name I thank His Loyal Subjects and accept this beneficiary and assent to this Bill.

MR. SPEAKER: I announce to the honourable House His Honour has assented to two Bills passed in this session.

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): "Where are these men; do they pour into the world that which is honourable, that which is good; do they protect our altars; do they preserve our freedom; do they safeguard our heritage; do they have sight of some far vision clear and splendid that gave them courage for great endeavour or do they rather spend the sum of their stewardship watching for ships that never come in, searching for treasure that they never found?"

I don't know if the House recalls those words, honourable members have heard them before. They were words I used in the closing of the first address I delivered in this Assembly, sometime in July of 1949, on motion of address in reply.

At that time we were a Government without a record and I was arguing that we might perhaps be judged when the time of our stewardship had been served. Today, part of the reckoning is on the record, and we think it is a record that indicates that so far, the time of our stewardship has been well spent. It is not my intention to go into that record in any detail at this time. That may, more properly, be left for later in this session. But I do think it would be most ungracious of me not to take notice at this moment of the ceaseless and unrelenting efforts of the Premier during all the past year, and indeed, throughout all the days of his term as Premier, to revive the good and abundant life and go forward. I say without hesitation that the Premier has, since this House met last year, spent himself as no other Newfoundlander has ever spent himself, on behalf of his people. He is working around the clock in a desperate attempt to make up for all the wasted years and there has come of it results that will prove of great and lasting benefit for this land we all do love. And it is my earnest hope that the worsening prospects for world peace, noted in the speech from the throne will not prove such as to forestall the realization of that fair vision shining and splendid, that gives him courage for his great endeavour. And I say all that, gentlemen, not out of party loyalty, not out of any desire merely to praise the Premier. I say all that because I believe all that to be the simple truth. Here is a man giving himself utterly to the advancement and welfare of Newfoundland. There are many who will not admit that in our generation but I am convinced that history will so record it.

It is the view of this Government that, important though general economic development must be, no lasting prosperity is possible in this Province as long as the fisheries fail to give a fair living to all those who engage in them. It will, I hope, help to set at rest the fears that all may have had to find these words in the Speech from the Throne. During the past year the action has been predominantly upon industrial development, and since because of war and rumors of war the Government has been so concerned with making clear the way which is rapidly changing in Newfoundland, other than in the fisheries, it may have seemed to many we were forgetting that first and before all else in this Province we must fish that we may live. If such there be, then I hope it may be reassuring to them to know that we have never lost sight of that fact. In the fisheries, the time since the House met last year has been a time of searching for the answer, and all fair-minded men will admit that to search out the answers in the fisheries is a long process. The search was not too fruitful in providing the answer for 450 years, but fishery problems built up one on top of the other against the future, the day when some other generation would have to attempt an overall solution. The past has come up with little more than the cod-trap, the marine engine and NAFEL. The solutions which we must now seek, if we are to survive in the fisheries, will not come overnight. For the time being we have passed the burden of searching for the answers to the Fisheries Development Committee, and in that way the combined resources of the Federal and Provincial Government will be brought to bear upon the most urgent problems confronting us. That is as it should be, for both governments share in the responsibility of development of our fisheries and the welfare of our fishermen.

Now, I had it in mind, since there seems to be some uncertainty in the matter, that I might with profit discuss the jurisdiction and authority of the Federal and Provincial Governments in fisheries administration. But to deal at any great length with the complicated problems involved in the fisheries would be to ask the honourable members to share to some extent the portfolio I have the honour to hold. I have no desire to do this, I will content myself for the moment in saying the Government of Canada has full jurisdiction over our fisheries except in so far as legislature is required by the Government of Newfoundland in respect to civil and property rights. I think I should add this, that the honourable Mr. Maybaw, Minister of Fisheries of Canada, realizing the complexity of these problems, suggested that it might be well worthwhile for the Governments of Canada and Newfoundland to consider establishing a fisheries development committee on which the Government, the fishermen and the trade may be represented. Newfoundland has been the first Province to avail of this plan of action. The general objective that has been set up is to study all phases and aspects of the fisheries and determine a program within which specific recommendations can be made for the solution of many problems which beset our fishing industry. We are fortunate in having that y.shrdll of Sir Albert Walsh, Chief Justice; the fishermen's representatives are men who know the basic problems of all those who make their way of living from the sea, of all those who go down to the sea and fish in small boats and large, out of our coves and harbours; the Government representative is a man of vision, and a man who knows the in-shore fishery problems, and he can speak with the voice of one who has shared all the toil of that calling. Captain John Gill of Grand Bank knows the off-shore fisheries, knows what it is like to have 15 dories, 30 men over the side when a storm comes on; and high liner out of Grand Bank for the last several seasons. What they don't know between them about the fishery they know right well where to find out. The trade representatives are men of wisdom and enterprise in their own field having made outstanding contributions to the fishing industry. Harold Dawe of Port Union representing the Salt Fish Trade and H. A. Russell, representing the fresh fish trade are men who have the resourcefulness, the wisdom and knowledge to bring strength to the committee's deliberations. The Government of Canada is represented by Mr. Raymond Gushue, Chairman of the Newfoundland Fisheries Board and Chief Supervisor of the Newfoundland Division of the Federal Department of Fisheries; and the Government of Newfoundland is represented by Mr. Clive Planta, Deputy Minister of Fisheries.

Both Governments are contributing to the operation of the committee. Several technicians and a group of scientists including technologists and biologists are being made available to the Committee by the Government of Canada, and the Government of Newfoundland is providing the finances to defray financial expenses, administrative expenses. Moreover we must recognize the fact that any development program in the fisheries will involve all the departments of the Government, for example: the building of new roads, the erection of new houses, building of new hospitals and the extension of existing hospitals, health facilities and a fair break for fishermen with one leg on land and the other in the vessel. This and more will be included in the development of the new fishery committee, and in recognition of that fact, the Government of Newfoundland has appointed an inter-departmental committee on fisheries, consisting of the deputy ministers of all departments to collaborate with the fisheries development committee where problems arise that relate to these departments. On Saturday night last, I believe, the Chairman of the committee made a statement to the public over the radio in which he dealt with functions and procedure of the Government activities. I don't know how many of my honourable friends heard his address, but if they did not, I would suggest strongly that they procure copies and read it.

Prior to Confederation, there was no such thing as any division of responsibility for administration of the laws of Newfoundland. Our laws were then the laws of a sovereign nation. Today, the Government of Canada shares full authority for regulating and controlling our fisheries as provided in the British North American Act, and that included responsibility for conservation, determining the size, any type mesh of gear that may be used for taking certain species, and where they may or may not be caught; the regulating of conditions under which fish may be processed for market and for regulation and control of the quality and grade of fish for market. The Government of Canada is responsible for technological and biological research, experimental fishing and preservation of fish population.

Having said all that, I might well be asked: Why a Department of Fisheries at all in Newfoundland? The answer is simple. It is important at this juncture in the transition of Newfoundland from the status of a sovereign nation to a tenth province of Canada. The Federal Government of Canada was conceived as a creature of the Provinces, but the Government of the Provinces could not effectively administer laws governing defense, crime, policies, transportation, customs and excise calling for uniformity.

But the Governments of the Provinces, and Newfoundland, hold steadfast to legislative jurisdiction over and responsibility for administration of civil and property rights of citizens. The concern of the Government of Newfoundland is fishery administration, the concern of the Government is with the well-being of all those who have been and who are concerned in marketing of fish, who operate deep-sea craft. The concern of the Government of Newfoundland is that the dignity of individuals engaged in the fisheries should be maintained inviolate. It is the concern of the Government of Newfoundland to supervise the conduct of business, so that the liberty to do business may not be misconstrued as the liberty to exploit. It is the concern of the Government of Newfoundland to strive for the advancement of our fishermen, to encourage the advancement of community life and undertake that the advancement that falls in larger centres can fall in areas where schools, hospitals, good water, roads and highway transportation can be developed. It is the duty of the Government to see that fish processing is developed and advanced, fishing methods improved by the introduction of better type boats and gear and the process of handling fish be developed in compliance with all the advances that modern science affords. It is the concern of the Government of Newfoundland to maintain vigilance in marketing of fish products and join with the Government of Canada and the industry in the promotion of the sales of fisheries products abroad and in the markets of North America. It is the concern of the Government of Newfoundland that the fishermen should come by a just return for their labour.

The honourable the Premier, in a statement made to this Assembly May 1, last year, said: It will be our duty to see that nobody takes an unfair rate of profit on fish. It is our duty, and we will fulfil it, carry it out, this duty to the fishermen.

During the past six months and for longer, there has been a persistent complaint from the fishermen in all parts of the Province that they were not receiving a fair and reasonable price for fish. Consequently, on December 16 last, the Government acquired the services of Mr. Bruce Feather, to undertake an enquiry into the price of fish paid to fishermen, and profits made on the 1950 production.

It will be recalled, Mr. Feather did an enquiry for the Commission of Government some years ago, and, as of the day of union, left the Government to join the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa.

On February 1, we appointed a Royal Commission to conduct the enquiry. At the same time the Government of Canada, through the Fisheries Support Board, was planning to launch an investigation into marketing of 1950 production, to determine whether payments made to fishermen were justified. That action was in keeping with a pledge given last year by the honourable R. W. Mayhew. When the announcement was made of the enquiry to be conducted by the Government of Newfoundland and by the Government of Canada we become aware of duplication which we were afraid there would be if parallel enquiries were made. As a result of exchange of views between St. John's and Ottawa, it was agreed to canvass the position of procedure being worked out by the Royal Commission and Acting Chairman of Fisheries Support Board, to eliminate the duplication anywhere by the Governments, concerning fishermen and trade and facts concerning buying and selling of the 1950 production.

The Acting Chairman of the Fisheries Support Board came to St. John's and negotiations were conducted here with the result I announced in this House yesterday, in answer to a question that had been asked. Procedure has been determined to make the enquiry complimentary.

As indicated in the Speech from the Throne, the Government has taken the initiative in inviting the fishermen to organize themselves into a strong, Province-wide, occupational organization, with a view, to enable them to make their collective views heard in all matters concerning the fisheries. This House will be asked to vote funds to pay the cost of each representative.

To me it is difficult to argue for this convention, because it is difficult to argue for the obvious, difficult to argue six and six make a dozen, because six and six just make a dozen there is nothing more to be said about it. Difficult to argue a triangle has three sides, because it can't have four or two or one, and difficult to argue for the holding of the fishermen's convention because the necessity for a fishermen's organization is so obvious. Obvious as that mace on the table there, nothing was ever more obviously a mace. Nothing was ever more obvious than the need of our fishermen, in this hour, for organization to make certain of their place in the sun.

Twenty-eight thousand fishermen scattered on a score of capes, fishing out of a thousand coves, they constitute the last great unorganized section of our population. Most other of our occupational groups are organized and have the politics of their parties, but this great preponderance of our population, they have no organized total voice.

Twenty-eight thousand fishermen who tend their lines, haul their traps, eat their fish and brewis, carry home the occasional barrow of blasty boughs and wonder what the price of fish is going to be in the fall—they have no total voice to trumpet the sorrows of their lot and to sound the splendour of their dream. Surely all men of right reason will admit that they should come together as one crew, more than any other, that will lessen the insecurity of their position and augment their prestige.

Now I acknowledge that there may well be some who are saying, on the outside, some frowning of brows going on about the proposal to call this convention. If that be so, it is not so much the fishermen's organization that hurts as the suggestion that public money should be applied to paying the cost of that convention.

But who, I would like somebody to tell me, has a greater right to have public money spent in their interest than the fishermen of Newfoundland? If I might mention something, purely incidental, yet nevertheless pertinent, you can see a great many new cars around this town today, a great many of them in the first instance, came over the side of a dory somewhere on the Grand Banks or a trap skiff in Trinity Bay or a schooner in Labrador. You can see a great many fine homes around this town today, and a great many of them in the first instance, came over the side of a fishing boat somewhere. That is where the money came from in the first place. But we don't see many fishermen driving around in Cadillacs or living in any of our fine homes. Somehow some of the returns of their fish does not seem to have ended up in their hands. If in respect to this convention some several thousands of public money are diverted and channeled into serving the fishermen's interest, then they are being channeled back to serve the interest of those who, in the first instance, created the new wealth this fund represents. However, this is something incidental.

The situation that confronts us in our fisheries today is, for those of us who live in this Island in the category of a nation emerging, we have reason to believe in a strong fishermen's organization and that it can be of value in arriving at an overall solution that we must seek. It is, therefore, in the public interest to see that the possibility of establishing such an organization should be fully explored and conscientiously followed. That is a fitting and proper purpose to which to divert public money, to finance the cause of this proposed convention. It is as simple as that, as I see it, and anyone who prefers to see it otherwise is merely avoiding the issue.

The Speech from the Throne ended hopefully for the future. And indeed, we have more reason, in this hour, to look forward to a future bright with promise than we have had in a long while. The improved position of our established industries, prospects of large defence expenditures, and promises of industries newly established with more to come, all make for a happy outlook.

True the situation in our fisheries still gives us cause for concern, but we believe we have at long last set in motion the machinery to provide solutions for age-old problems and such problems as the future may bring. It seems to me we have always been down-in-the-mouth about our fisheries. Except during the two world wars when things went well, the attitude of many people to the fisheries was that nothing much could be done; it always has been a source of concern and anxiety and always would be bowed down by what appeared to be monumental difficulties of achieving any satisfactory development. We have been prepared to admit that, and even today most people apply to our fisheries the same attitude of mind. The fisherman says his boats are hauled up to stay unless he can see reasonable prospects of prices for fish; the merchant hesitates to underwrite the cost of fishery requirements because he is fearful fish may not be sold at all, and in the eyes of all too many people there is little hope when they contemplate the future of the fishery.

I want to go on record as not sharing in all the grim forebodings that many harbour in their hearts about our fisheries. I believe, on the contrary, that we are entering upon a period of a happier situation in our fisheries than we have ever known, and I would appeal for widespread cleansing of ourselves of this approach to the fisheries with downcast eyes and voicing of the worst. I have every confidence that our Fisheries Development Committee will point the way to development that will bring our standard to the equal of the foremost fishing nations, and bring to our people a new prosperity and a new concept of themselves in this generation; and I feel quite certain, that in all that, we will have the support of the honourable R. W. Mayhew, Minister of Fisheries for Canada, to do all that he can to contribute to advancement of our fishing industries and increase of the position and dignity of our fishermen.

This House, and this Province can be assured that this Government will never rest on its oars while yet there remains to be done anything to increase the prospect of our fisheries and advance the welfare of our fishermen. I feel that I can speak for all the other members of the Government when I say that we attach first importance to our fisheries, for they are at the basis of life in this Island, and what happens to the fisheries and fishermen, first and before all else, moulds the destiny of Newfoundland. And we shall continue, never ceasing, to strive after a pattern in our fisheries that will make for more happiness and prosperity and dignity among our people. Taking it all in all, it may well be that we are nearer, in this hour, than we have ever been before during the course of our country's long history, to a happier and more satisfactory pattern of life that will admit all in this Province who fish or farm, who work in the woods and along the shore and behind counters, to stand up straight before the world in their generation, with their faces to the sun.

MR. CASHIN: I don't know where I am going to fit in here after listening to the honourable Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives; when he began his speech, I felt he had taken a text from the Bible and when he concluded his address, I felt we should have said "Amen." However, Mr. Speaker, before I make any remarks on the Speech from the Throne, which I might tell you in advance is going to be brief, I want to express my congratulations to the mover and seconder of the motion, the honourable member for Labrador and the honourable member for Fogo.

Now, I would not have spoken at all on the Speech from the Throne were it not that events of recent days or weeks, as the case may be, have brought about some peculiar things, and I refer particularly to the resignation of one of the Ministers of the Government who has now taken an independent seat in this House, and also refer to the stand taken by the honourable the member for White Bay who also has taken an independent seat in the House. I presume that I am really, as pointed out by the honourable member for Bonavista South, the only independent member in the House. I was elected as an independent with a great big "I" attached to it, I feel it will not be out of order, if I state personally why I happened to be an independent member of this House.

I think all the members in this House and a lot of people outside of it realize and know that away back about six years ago, on June 6, come to think of it, I instituted a radio program in order to bring Responsible Government back to Newfoundland. Every Saturday night I spoke over the air, demanding, as best I knew how, that Responsible Government be restored to the people of Newfoundland. Ultimately the convention was held, a National Convention which I called a farce from beginning to end, rigged by the English Governor in league with Canada and the Commission of Government.

We held the convention, and incidentally, in the course of that convention, I made certain remarks which landed me in the Supreme Court, made history, political history. Certainly, Mr. Speaker, when I lose the incentive to make history in Newfoundland, politically, I am going to retire altogether. However, many of those people who later did not side with me or I them, in the fight to bring back Responsible Government after the convention closed, offered up prayers the day I appeared in court, that I might be convicted. I will say this, however, the honourable the Premier, who was the toughest political opponent I had, was my strongest supporter, I imagine, in that fight, and this is the first opportunity I have had to express my appreciation, and I am taking advantage of it, for the courage he displayed in giving me hope, because, Mr. Speaker, I hope you will never, or any other member of this House, have to wait three hours for a Jury's verdict. I had to do that.

After that was over we went to Great Britain, and that was rigged to put me in jail. We went to Great Britain and came back and made our report. They then brought down this solution; you will put three things on the ballot paper, Responsible Government, Confederation or continuation of Commission of Government. Naturally, as I am still, I was probably one of the strongest advocates for Responsible Government, before anything would be done about bringing about union with Canada.

Finally after two referenda, our cause was defeated. It is not necessary for me to go into details and it is not necessary to repeat it at this time. Then the lining up of parties came along. The Liberal Party was lead by the present Premier of this Province. Two or three individuals came down from Ottawa to see me. As I look back on them, they were the greatest political babes I ever saw in my life, we met, twelve or fourteen of us, and I at that time advocated a National Newfoundland Party, but I was turned down on that for the simple reason, there were those who did not want a National Party, they were afraid they might have to pony up to pay for it. I caved in, I said, I'll support this so-and-so Progressive Conservative Party, under the leadership of the present leader at Ottawa, Mr. Drew, and I was approached by one of those gentlemen who came here, to contest the District of St. John's West, federally. I was seriously considering doing that, but I had to think of many things, finances and so on. I felt that I could not afford to spend six months in Ottawa on the sessional pay of $6,000. I made up my mind I was not going federal, and I returned to the Progressive Conservative Provincial outfit here and told them I did not intend to contest the Federal Riding, I was going to go Provincial, and I was told I could go to the devil, they did not want me, not in their party provincially but would support me federally. I said, well alright, I don't care whether you do or not, I am going to stand Independent. Some of these gentlemen, now members of the Opposition, said that they were opposed to me because I did not fit in with the Progressive Conservatives. I owe them a debt of gratitude today, because I would not be identified today with the Progressive Conservative Party for all the money it would cost to build a cement mill. Why? Because I look upon them as political children, their leader a fool politically, dressed up and no place to go. A fine looking individual but as a politician, in comparison with St. Laurent, he is a joke and I don't care who hears me say it. I am only too sorry he is not here to listen to it, and please God, if he is ever in a public meeting again, I am going to be in that meeting and he is going to hear a few words from a fellow elected in spite of him, in the District of Ferryland, as an Independent. What a crowd of fools that individual thought Newfoundlanders were, came here, dressed up, corseted, everything to fit. Raced over to Conception Bay, shed a few tears on the grave of his old grandmother, but like another Canadian said about us, we must have been too green to burn to swallow a thing like that. That is history, and there is only one regret I have, I contributed in no small amount, politically, not financially, because I did not have it, I paid my own election. But politically, to help elect the member for St. John's West, the worst day's work in my political career, I helped to elect the greatest hypocrite in Newfoundland, but I promise him, if I am on my two feet, politically or otherwise, next election, there is going to be some fun in Ferryland District, and there was some fun when I elected him. There was some fun at that time and I don't think the Premier will be offended with me when I say to him, I didn't elect Brown, he elected Brown, not me, and if he had listened to me, Ferryland did not intend to vote, I am going to tell you, we would have shown we were real Newfoundlanders, we elected an Independent and the Progressive Conservatives were just the same as the Liberals, all for Confederation, six of one and a half dozen of the other, and our people had made up their minds that they were not going to vote, they were not intended to. But mistakes, politically, were made, everyone, the best politicians, make them, I have made plenty, and the Premier made a political mistake, and I got a bit high-hat and became indignant and said Smallwood is not going in there and take charge while I am alive and so I elected the greatest hypocrite in Newfoundland, and then after a month, publicly and without any reservations apologized to the people of Ferryland and the District of St. John's West. Well these people elected him, he got a bigger vote in the District than I did, and that is saying something, and then in the course of that election the Provincial Progressive Conservative Party put out the propaganda,—Cashin is not going to be elected—Why every Confederate man up there defeated their candidate.

Look, Mr. Speaker, I would not have spoken at all but for those gentlemen who moved over, I have been longing for this opportunity. I had to use those independent members to voice that personal view of mine, and I am glad you gave it to me. That is that, and let me say here now, I am committed to no party; I still believe in a National Party for Newfoundland. I would stifle under the present politics of the Progressive Conservative Party, but right here and now, I am going to make this announcement, consulting no one, it came to my mind this last ten minutes. I may never go into politics again but I here now, lay the foundation, in the person of Peter J. Cashin, the foundation for a National Newfoundland Party. Anyone who wants to join, come to me without payment of money, because I know when I come to ask for anything, I get nothing. They would sacrifice the Country, most of them for fifty cents not fifty thousand dollars and that is why you had a Progressive Conservative Party here in 1949 as the money magnates of Water Street were too mean to contribute a dollar. I could go over their contributions, I have seen the amounts. I contributed more money myself and I was bankrupt. I will give you an example of our 20 millionaires, 21 I hear the Premier say. One gave $300 contribution, and he is a millionaire, and he gave something to the other side, I don't know how much, I wager you fellows if he gave $300 and his place of business is on Water Street. A junk man running a business where he does $40,000 business a year gave $40.00. I congratulate you and your saucy little boy over there, smiling at me, wondering what I am going to say, I like him, a certain amount of fight in him and that is what I like, but he does talk unusual facts, the people of Fogo are going to haul up their boats, but I don't hear of any fish firm in Fogo going out of business. And incidentally, one of the fellows who kicked me out of the Conservative Party, told me I was getting kicked out of that party for talk about sectarianism. I don't care who hears me as long as I am alive. He came to me to say the reason, they said, we don't want you, the Protestants won't elect you, the Orangemen won't elect you, No; That is what they told me and, incidentally, I'm going to make another statement now, the greatest and most enthusiastic meeting I ever had—in Ferryland? No. Not in St. John's East and West, and I am going to take this opportunity to thank those people, and a gentleman outside of the bar of this House tonight, the best reception I ever got from any bunch of men in Newfoundland was in Upper Island Cove, and not a Catholic amongst them. I take my hat off to them for it. I know in the end they voted Liberal for the Minister of Public Health over there.

MR. SMALLWOOD: All good Liberals.

MR. CASHIN: There were two gentlemen in that Conservative outfit I had the greatest respect for and I want to pay public tribute to honourable J. C. Currie, owner of the Daily News and the other, Malcolm Hollett. The rest of them I would not speak of them at all, I would have to go down there with a bottle with a teat on it in order to get them.

Now the Speech from the Throne, Mr. Speaker, I am going to be very, very brief now that I have passed my time by being more personal than I should have been. The Speech from the Throne this year does not outline the future policy of the Government but the past and it does not outline a lot of things they have not done, and I am chiefly concerned, and it is expected of me that I should speak more or less on the financial side. At the present time, how do we stand financially? People have talked to me, it's cackling nonsense for you to speak about finance, nobody listens to you, I don't care whether they do or not, it still boils down to dollars and cents that is going to be the rule of what the Government is at. I predict now, I was not here the other afternoon when the Premier said we were the most prosperous province in the country.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I said the soundest.

MR. CASHIN: Well, I will claim this now, you are scattering into bankruptcy. You see I am an Independent. I think the Auditor General's Report for 49-50 shows a deficit of 10 million, surplus is roughly down to 32 million and that does not take into account the money you spent or committed to spend during that period and on into this period, at the end of February, roughly 26 millions in the Treasury committed at this time, how are you going to carry on? I am always making predictions, some right and some wrong, I don't claim to be infallible: That within two years from now, the people of Newfoundland generally will be fairly well off, the people—the Government will be bankrupt. The Government won't have a dollar. The Premier said the other day the National Debt is $5,000,000, I read it in the newspapers, like Will Rogers. $5,000,000, what guarantee has the Premier we can go out tomorrow and borrow five million dollars. Once your budget does not balance and you go to financial men, that is the first thing asked you, I was placed in that unhappy position once when I had to go to the money bags of Montreal and look for a loan. We were showing a deficit of two or three million dollars; they would not look at us. Our banker would not talk to us, they almost threw us out of the board meeting. We went to New York, and it was the same thing, finally they gave us a couple of million to carry us on, the crash came and away she goes. We do not know what is going to happen from day to day. The opening paragraph of the Speech from the Throne spoke of war, it may or may not come; my guess is as good as yours, yours as good as mine; listening to experts today and commentators, frankly, I have no faith in any of them. None whatever.

Now, with respects to economic development of the country, the Government have gone into the open market to investors but so far not one dollar not even the great Rockefeller—I am reading a very interesting book at the present time concerning the great fortune of the United States and I want to tell you, Mr. Speaker, the Rockefeller outfit, like all the rest of them, feller outfit, like all the rest of them, honestly and are doing nothing for nothing. They are paid for everything they do, paid down here. When the Premier announced last year, the ordinary man on the street, the outport fisherman when he heard so much about this big oil man with hundreds of millions of dollars, we all thought we were never going to see a poor day in our lives again and now it transpires that IBEC is being paid for conducting this survey in here. Let's be honest, don't hoodwink the people down here. Rockefeller made a report on the possibility of establishing a pulp and paper mill in Labrador; they have no interest whatever in putting a dollar into it. I understand from the Speech from the Throne (I have not read it very thoroughly, I am very lax in my duty this year) they recommend the Labrador. I disagree with them entirely. Let us look at the situation. They have great engineers but they have employed not one, not a water power man, not a transportation man, they say we can build a mill in Labrador with wood from Labrador. Do they know that the longest period, on the Southern edge of the Labrador you can run, with insurance, is four months and in the Hamilton area only three months? Now you got to manufacture and store it for eight to ten months before you can ship it. Build a mill for 8 thousand tons a year and have five or six thousand tons a year being stored on Labrador, tied up, money tied up at $100 a ton. Five or six million dollars. Mr. Speaker, the great Rockefeller, in my opinion, does not know what he is talking about.

Now, Doctor Valdmanis, to me the greatest actor who ever came to Newfoundland. The greatest actor, Barrymore, is a fool compared to Valdmanis. Paying him $25,000 a year. Here are the estimates of Canada. Outside of the Chief Justice and his assistants, I challenge you to find anybody who gets more than $17,000 a year. The Deputy Minister of Finance and the Auditor General $17,000 and the Chief Justice $25,000 and other justices $20,000 and now our friend Mr. Feathers is getting $15,000 a year. The Deputy Minister at Ottawa gets $12,000 a year and is boss over Mr. Feather, I have nothing personal against these men, except I think Dr. Valdmanis is a great actor, he is wasting his time in this business, he should be on the stage, he is putting it all over us. $25,000 a year, ridiculous. Now we may or may not get this cement mill and other stuff. He is getting closer to $40,000 a year, I can tell you, with all expenses and hotel bills. He is away three parts of his time. $40,000 and nothing turned in in Newfoundland at all yet. The Premier said he has turned in hundreds of times more than his salary. He has not turned in one cent yet, only what he took out. He is in velvet. I have nothing personal against him but he is not worth $12,000, $25,000—he could never get it any other way, and could not get it from any private company. He unloaded himself here. A great actor, I say, a great actor, and when I say actor I mean what I say. Take me away from the individual who rolls his eyes when he looks at you, and can't look you straight in the face. I would not trust him with a hot stove and he will go out of here wealthier than any of you fellows when you leave the Government.

Now, I have very little time, Mr. Speaker. I could speak for weeks on this thing but there is one item: I can't forget the hospital in Ferryland. I would be derelict in my duty if I did not bring that matter up and I can assure you the Premier is not a dictator, he is dictated to by the Deputy Ministers. Last year, in this House the estimates voted $90,000, voted by every member in this House to construct a hospital in Ferryland, and I am informed the Deputy Minister of Health advised the Department, mis-advised, not to do what was voted for, a hospital in Ferryland, certainly carrying out the traditions of those who tried to starve the people, made them kill their cattle and hens. So they have handed me a glass of water, which indicates I should speak longer. Now, I am going to go a little into the history of that hospital.

During the campaign I met the Premier in Trepassey and he promised it to the people then. I took the late finance minister, the honourable Mr. Quinton to Renew's and he told the people there that they were going to build a hospital, and I can say there is not a nail driven in it yet.

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I say something?

MR. CASHIN: Yes, as long as you build the hospital, you can say what you like.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The estimates are in the process of being brought down, but I can tell the honourable gentleman that a vote is in the estimates for the coming year for the hospital. I know he will say it was in the previous year, it is true it has not been spent and it may not be spent in the current year but the vote is going to be included for the hospital in the estimates for the coming year.

MR. CASHIN: I know, the vote was in here last year, now the House has the assurance of the Premier that it is going to be built this coming year.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I did not say that.

MR. CASHIN: Didn't say that, then don't cod us for another year, it does not pay off politically.

I am independent, I owe allegiance to no one except Ferryland and what you promised that District you fell down on because of a deputy minister. It is much fitter for this deputy minister to look after his job. Do what this House of Assembly wants, instead of going out and starting beer dives all over the community. I refer, now I am pulling no punches, to the Asst. Deputy Minister of Health, who is better qualified to run a beer parlour than a Health Department because, incidentally, he does not care about the Ferryland people or any other people; only in slopping that belly-wash down in him until it kills him, I know all about that, I did it myself.

That brings me to a piece of legislation, that is the amendment to the alcoholic liquor act. Now you are looking at a real alcoholic, one of those who helped to found this thing called Alcoholics Anonymous. Some people don't like their name in it, I don't care who knows; I know what is going on here, none of you have had the experience I have had during these past few months, seen homes broken up, and I am not here to preach, I am not a prohibitioner. I don't care how much rum Doctor Pottle drinks, it is none of my business. He does not drink, it would not be for his welfare that he should take it, and I am glad he does not absorb this kind of liquid.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I don't drink either.

MR. CASHIN: Well, you take a glass of sherry. If I were to take a glass of sherry I would be here all night, I can't even touch that without going on a real binge. In a week or so we will have the estimates of revenue. The greatest revenue of the Government is derived from the Liquor Department of your own Government. I say the system we have here does not meet the situation for dispensing liquor. I am a great believer in one thing English at any rate and that is the old pub and I believe it is the only way to beat drunkenness, where a man can go in at a certain hour and get a drink and walk out, and does not have to buy a crock to have a drink and end up probably down under the clock or beating up his wife. That is what is happening here and in my opinion, if the Government must make money off liquor, devise some other way of collecting it, this present system is going to destroy this city. Do you realize, Mr. Speaker, that right here in this city of St. John's there are 1500 alcoholics or potential alcoholics, men and women, and this condition exists according to statistics based on the findings of the Mainland and the United States of America, and once those poor unfortunate people (I happened to be one of them one time) start to try to take a drink, try to be sociable, that first drink is the one that does the damage, the first one.

Now there are a lot of fine people in this country, men and women, I include both sexes, particularly in the City of St. John's, who have wrecked their homes, their living, went bankrupt, losing everything in the world because they are not able to handle liquor, because they can go down to the Controllers and the Government encourages them because you want revenue; say all right come in, here is a bottle, $3.30. It encourages them, go down there, put down three dollars and a half. Now they are going to put people on a diet, three bottles a week, to cure them. It will encourage them and then they can drink brandy, a great drink for getting off the beer, and there will be a lot of that in future. Now we know the Government should devise some other method of getting its money out of that liquor without establishing four or five rum shops where people can go in and buy a bottle, and beer parlours out all over the place. Since we went into confederation, they can buy a bottle of Pinky for a dollar and mix it with beer. That is a Canadian wine, they get it for a dollar and mix it with beer and it's got a kick like a mule. I have never indulged in it, it was not on the market in my time, but I understand from those who are well qualified, it has a kick like a mule. Go into a beer parlour, haul out their pinky, mix it with their beer and they are all fixed up and can go to town in twenty minutes. But your revenue is down, they are buying pinky instead of rum. I would suggest, Mr. Speaker, in all seriousness, because in all my life, in all my sixty-one years, I have never been identified with anything I loved more or put more energy in, this helping distressed people who have become alcoholics, and can't take a drink because I know that by helping them, I am helping myself, and God knows it might be tomorrow one of them might have to help me, and I appeal to the Government tonight. I think an honourable member mentioned to me that later on we shall have a Bill brought in for amendment. That "A.A." as we call it, has done more work with respect to handling of liquor in this city than all the Churches and all the denominations combined, and in our organization this year, on Christmas Day, we had men sober who were drunk the year before. Now Sir, I am going to conclude my few remarks, I got them off my chest and

I have nothing further to say about this whole issue until the Budget is brought down.

Well Sir, I am not going to bring you back tonight, but I again repeat that I think, I feel, the honourable member, the Late Minister of Natural Resources did a courageous thing in resigning a few days ago, a very courageous thing. He mentioned the fact that he would have resigned before, but he did not have the courage; gave it a great deal of consideration. He deserves a lot of credit. Walk along the City Street and people wonder why Russell left the Cabinet. I am allowed to say that—it has been published and talked about, wonder why a man gave up seven thousand dollars a year. It is a lot of money, there is something wrong, a principle involved. Something to have changed his mind, he should have been an independent like myself. Now I got booted out of one or two Governments myself. For instance, I was elected in 1923. I believe any young member who comes into this House should first try and get into the Opposition, I am telling you because when you are in the Government the Cabinet runs you, you are just a voting machine, but over here on this side, there are all kinds of opportunities to train yourself for the future. I am speaking now to younger people in training to become public men. Every bit of Legislation has to be criticized, and no Government yet under God's blue heaven is free of criticism, we all make mistakes. The Premier is going to make them, I am going to make them over here. Therefore, the younger generation, I advise them politically, to become a member of the Opposition to begin with. That is what my father told me in 1923. It is the only place you get some training politically. If Mr. Russell gave up $7,000 a year, he had a principle. I did it in 1924, I was read out of a party at three or four o'clock in the morning over Monroe's Budget. They had gone to the country in 1923 and promised a reduction of taxation and the following year a Budget came in increasing taxation. I was a young man, fighting the party on the Budget and one night the Prime Minister, the only living Prime Minister now from the past, told me if I did not like it I had to get out. There again is an episode which when written up is going to be interesting. I have a man in mind to write my epitaph, politically, after I pass out. Again when I was Minister of Finance, the country went bankrupt. The Government could not help that, I could not help that, but certain things happened I did not like and there was no course left me but to get out, and by getting out I probably brought about the Commission of Government in Newfoundland, again the worst thing I ever did in Newfoundland when I indirectly helped in bringing about Commission of Government and the other, when I helped to elect the greatest hypocrite in Newfoundland, in St. John's West.

Now in conclusion, as I said, I am going to make further remarks when the Budget is brought down. When the debate on the Speech from the Throne resumes, I imagine some member of the Government who has not yet spoken will wish to speak when the debate resumes, so whoever wants to adjourn the House may do so and I will take my seat. You won't hear from me any further until the Budget is brought down—the Budget Speech two or three weeks from now.

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment of the debate.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the remaining Orders of the Day be deferred.

Mr. Speaker, on Monday of next week, the Fishermen's Convention opens and is expected to last throughout the week. I, therefore, move that the House at its rising do adjourn until tomorrow Monday, April 9th, that will be an adjournment for the whole week that the Fishermen's Convention is in session, so that all members of the House, Liberals, Torys and Independents—

MR. HIGGINS: Give us our official name.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, all members of the House, Liberals, Torys and Independents may be able to attend the convention.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

MONDAY, April 9th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

Honourable the Attorney General presented a Petition from the Industrial and Cost Accountants of the Province Re Incorporation.

The following Committee were Selected to consider this Petition:

Hon. the Attorney General.

Hon. Mr. Vardy.

Mr. Janes.

Hon. Leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Fahey.

Honourable the Attorney General presented a Petition from the Architects of the Province Re Incorporation.

The following Committee were Selected to consider this Petition:

Hon. the Attorney General.

Hon. the Minister of Public Welfare.

Mr. Horwood.

Hon. Leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Fogwill.

A petition was presented by Hon. the Minister of Supply, on behalf of Mr. Speaker, from Port Saunders Re Menace of Dogs.

Hon. the Minister of Labour presented a Petition from Humber Re Shop Act.

The following Committee were Selected to consider this Petition:

Hon. the Minister of Labour.

Hon. the Minister of Provincial Affairs.

Hon. the Minister of Public Works.

Mr. Miller.

Mr. Russell.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. FOGWILL: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Finance:

1. To table a statement showing the total Current Revenue received under the various headings during March, 1951.

2. To table a statement showing the total current expenditure under the various headings during March, 1951.

3. To table a statement showing the total Revenue received under the various headings and credited to financial surplus account during March, 1951.

4. To table a statement showing the total expenditure under the various headings charged to financial surplus account during March, 1951.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 81.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): I have here the answer to question No. 81, on the Order Paper, of March 29, in reply to a question asked by the honourable the junior member for St. John's East.

Question: How many miles of new road, other than Trans-Canada Highway has been constructed since April 1st, 1950?

Answer: 47 miles.

Question: Where was the work done, in what Districts?

Answer:

MILES

Burin
St. Lawrence to Epworth .....	7.0
Humber
McIvers—Gillams .....	5.0
Placentia West
Marystown—Terrenceville Rd.	8.0
North Hr.—Swift Current Rd.	1.25
Terrenceville Rd.—Rushoon .....	.75
Terrenceville Rd.—Mooring Cove .....	.75

MILES

Bonavista North
Pound Cove towards Lumsden	4.50
Bonavista South
Lethbridge towards Southern Bay .....	1.5
St. Georges
Three Rock Cove—Mainland	3.5
Twillingate
Campbellton—Loon Bay .....	1.0
Grand Falls
Browns Arm—Lawrenceton .....	3.0
Fortune-Hermitage
Terrenceville Rd.-Bay L'Argent	2.0
Placentia-St. Mary's
Fox Hr.-Villa Marie .....	.75
North Hr.-Jct. Placentia Rd. ..	2.25
White Bay
Cooks Hr.-St. Anthony .....	3.25
Rd. to wharf at Roddickton .....	.25
Green Bay
Pt. Leanington-Bobby's Cove	.50
Hall's Bay Rd. to Springdale	1.25
Question: How much did it cost?
Answer: $593,718.00
MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 85.
HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, in reply to that question, I would like to say that we have no official information as to the number of R.C.M.P. members on duty in Newfoundland, but I understand there are about 156. We only know what we pay, you see they do Federal work and don't come under our department except insofar as I understand there are 156. Newfoundland pays for 140 and there are another 15 at present undergoing training on the Mainland, whether an addition to the 156 or not, I am not in a position to say.

MR. FOGWILL: Question No. 42.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I wonder if the honourable gentleman would be kind enough to remind me what the question is?

MR. FOGWILL: The percentage of increase in the civil service.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I have already told the honourable gentleman the answer to that is in the course of preparation in the Department of Finance. I distinctly remember telling you so. I have no doubt they will be forwarded to me when prepared.

MR. FOGWILL: That was about ten days ago you said the answers were in course of preparation. I thought they would be along by this time.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I may say this is the time of the year the permanent staff of the Finance Department are especially busy, working on the estimates and revising them as the Cabinet revises the tentative estimates. These revisions are done by the Department, the permanent staff, and the preparation for the budget and all that sort of thing, they are extremely busy and there is not a big staff, when you think of the executive side of the Department, only two men Mr. Marshall and Mr. Channing, and I know they have been working day and night for months past, but I will undertake to enquire as to just what progress is made. There is no desire to escape the answering, and I am most interested myself to see the answers.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, it is really just a simple question, and would only mean a couple of hours' work for some under-clerk to prepare.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 68.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I must refer that question to the honourable the junior member for St. John's West, if he would look it up on the Order Paper.

MR. FOGWILL: There are other questions outstanding. No. 68, 70, 84.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will have the Departments check all questions outstanding, with a view to expediting the preparation of replies. They know themselves because the Order Paper goes up to them, and they know the questions. I don't ask for them, I merely wait for written replies, except in such cases where I have to give the reply myself, when it is not a case of their preparing it, in which case they leave it to me.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): There is one question the honourable member for St. John's East directed to me, one dealing with the Workmen's Compensation Committee, salaries and so on. At the time it was decided to me we had no Workmen's Compensation Board, but the question put was who were the Workmen's Compensation Committee. Well on that day the Act was passed and so now we have no Workmen's Compensation Committee, we have a board and no committee.

MR. FOGWILL: Yes, is the Minister going to answer it. There is no committee now but we will make reference to the date on which the question was asked.

Orders of the Day

MR. FOGWILL: One more question No. 75, addressed to the Minister of Labour.

MR. BALLAM: No, we don't keep that, you may be able to get it from the Unemployment Insurance Commission, that is their job, we don't keep it. I may be able to get it from them.

MR. FOGWILL: Why have we got a Minister of Labour.

MR. BALLAM: I would be glad to answer that, if the honourable member will put it in writing.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The adjournment of the debate was moved by the honourable the Minister of Education, unfortunately, he is not present, having been struck with an attack of flu or something. I imagine he would yield his place in the debate to any other member desiring to speak and take the opportunity to speak later on. If no honourable member wishes to speak, I will have to make a motion to further adjourn the debate. I have spoken to the motion, so it is not with any desire to participate again in the debate that I move now the adjournment.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I will move the adjournment if you like, I would like to speak on Wednesday. I am going out to lunch tomorrow and will not be able to speak. I move the adjournment until Wednesday.

MR. CURTIS: I think the Minister of Education may be able to speak tomorrow. He has not an attack of flu but injured his knee.

Debate adjourned until tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Third reading of Bill "An Act Respecting Survivorship."

Thereupon this bill was read a third time.

Third reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Statutes." Thereupon this bill was read a third time.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act for the Confirmation of an Agreement between the Government and the Labrador Mining and Exploration Company Limited."

Mr. Speaker left the Chair. Mr. Courage took the Chair of Committees.

MR. CURTIS: This water power is barely enough to be worth operating.

MR. FOGWILL: What is the H.P.?

MR. CURTIS: I will try to find out and give you the answer at the third reading. They have agreed to pay a minimum of 50c. per horsepower. I believe about 5,000 horsepower.

I wonder if we should put in "said company" instead of "company" and the same in the first paragraph.

MR. HIGGINS: What is usual in the Acts now?

MR. CURTIS: My department left out the word, I would be prepared to leave it out. I have just remembered the amount of horsepower is 1,500, 50c. per H.P., $75.00. The agreement provides for 50c. per horsepower with a minimum of $500.

Committee rose, reported, having passed the Bill with some amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Interpretation of Statutes."

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): I wonder if Director of Supply is the proper interpretation. Was there a Commissioner for Supply?

MR. CURTIS: No there was not, was there?

Section 8 (c) and 8 (d) deferred.

MR. HIGGINS: I would like to draw the attention of Mr. Curtis to (d). What is the word exactly, the nomenclature. I am rather indefinite on that. "Neat."

MR. CURTIS: Anyway it is technically correct, I asked my secretary to look it up. I was wondering about the word Victoria—I think the 24th of May is designated "Empire Day" but the British Empire is now more a commonwealth. There is nothing about "Empire Day" here just "Victoria Day". I think that is a little more accurate. I will look up the Statutes and see. "Empire Day" is right, the only thing is, we don't hear much talk about the Empire these days. Change it to Empire Day.

MR. HIGGINS: There are some more, what about St. Patrick's Day and St. George's?

MR. CURTIS: The others are just under proclamation from year to year.

DR. POTTLE: For the edification of the House the word in question refers to cattle of the oxen rather than the horse, as distinguished from the horse.

The committee rose reported the matter to them referred and had made some progress, and begs leave to sit again.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Accident Insurance Companies (Licensing) Act, 1939."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the bill with some amendments.

DR. POTTLE: Move the next order "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines" be deferred.

MR. CURTIS: I move the deferment of "An Act to Amend the Industrial Development Loan Act." I also move the adjournment of the "Fisheries Loan Act."

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act Relating to Local Government."

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): In moving the second reading of this Bill I will point out it proposes to give power to the Lieutenant Governor in Council to appoint an administrator to conduct the affairs of a municipality which is in financial difficulties and a receiver to wind up the affairs of a municipality which is insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency.

Several councils have borrowed money, substantial sums of money from the Provincial Government. During the past year others have received approval to sell bond issues, which, when confirming legislature is passed, will be sold with a Provincial Government guarantee as to both principle and interest. If, for any reason, the members of Councils with Government loans or guaranteed bonds were to resign and no one or less than the required number were to accept nomination, there would be no authority to collect the local taxes. On the other hand members may not resign but may spend revenues and fail to repay loans. In either case the Government would either lose the amount loaned or guaranteed, as the case may be, without having any means of protecting themselves.

Authority to appoint an administrator in any such case would enable Government to collect the municipal revenues and repay the debts. It is provided that the management of the municipality may be handed back to a Council when the Lieutenant Governor in Council sees fit.

It is not anticipated that it will be necessary to appoint administrators: The knowledge that they can be appointed will probably enable councils to conduct their affairs in a fitting and proper manner.

There is no provision in existing Local Government legislation for winding up the affairs of a municipality if it should become insolvent. If a town were unable to meet its obligations but tax resources existed to enable it to do so, the solution would be to appoint an administrator who would either increase taxes or reduce services. If, however, there were no hope of the town being able to meet its obligations because of a sharp decrease in population, for example, it is necessary for Government to have authority to liquidate the Council's assets and thereby save as much as possible.

The Bill provides this authority through the appointment of a receiver. I move the second reading of this Bill.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act to Regulate the Development of Local Areas."

MR. FORSEY: The purpose of this Bill, Mr. Speaker, is to control building along scenic routes and in other places considered to have tourist possibilities, when such places are outside the boundaries of municipalities. It is contemplated that inside municipal boundaries control will be exercised by the municipal councils.

A Committee appointed by the Government consists of the Deputy Attorney General and the Deputy Minister of Public Works, Economic Development and Supply and that the Deputy Attorney General, be Chairman. This Committee was appointed for consideration of the Bill.

Power is granted to the Lieutenant Governor in Council to make regulations under section 4 of the Bill.

(a) To control the location and design of buildings and to prohibit the erection of buildings unless sanitary facilities are provided.

(b) To prohibit or restrict the occupation or use of land where this is thought to be desirable.

(c) To require the owner of the land to remove undesirable buildings and do anything necessary for the protection of rivers and ponds.

The Lieutenant Governor in Council would define the areas to which such regulation should apply.

Section 6 of the Bill gives the Minister of Supply power to create local planning areas, and to appoint a local planning board for any one or more of such areas.

It would be the duty of the board to prepare a plan for the development and improvement of the area for which it is appointed, and when such plan is approved, to make regulations, subject to the approval of the Minister for the control of the area in a manner similar to that in which control over building is exercised by municipal councils.

It is the intention that regulations made by the Lieutenant Governor in Council would apply to areas which are either uninhabitable or sparsely populated at present or in other areas which are populated or become populated from time to time, but which are not included into any municipality, prepare a plan, make regulations and enforce them.

While the idea for this legislation arose out of the need for controlling areas likely to be attractive to tourists, it will be noted that the Bill is not restricted to these areas. The creation of new industries will build new settlements or extend old ones. Unless control is exercised, shack towns will result. The Bill provides the authority to exercise control for any purpose, in any area, except a municipality. I move this Bill be read a second time.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Boiler and Pressure Vessels Act, 1949."

MR. BALLAM: Mr. Speaker, in moving the second reading of this amendment, I might say this Bill is just in order to clarify the word "designed" and the difference between the design and the design pressure, as stated in the old Act. This amendment here just clarifies the meaning of these words. It has been recommended to us by the Boiler Inspectors and I move the second reading of this Bill.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1948."

MR. BALLAM: I would ask to have that deferred.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Distribution of Electricity in the Corner Brook Area."

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, this Bill is made necessary by the taking over by the Newfoundland Light and Power Company Limited of distribution system of Bowater's Newfoundland Pulp and Paper Limited and Bay of Island Distribution of electricity in the Corner Brook Area.

The Bill is in uniformity and gives the company the right to distribute electricity in the area defined, also the right to transmit electricity over crown lands; reserves to the Government the right to purchase the undertaking at any time after the first day of January 1950, and provides for payment of taxes. I don't think I need to elaborate on the Bill. I move the second reading.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the remaining orders on the Order Paper be deferred.

MR. CURTIS: I move the adjournment of the House until tomorrow at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

TUESDAY, April 10th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

A Petition was presented by Mr. Courage from Fortune Bay Re Protection of Herring Fishery.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill, entitled "An Act to Remove Doubts as to the Coming into Force of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1950, and the Workmen's Compensation, (Amendment) Act, 1951."

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): I give notice on behalf of the Minister of Education, that I will on tomorrow introduce a Bill, "An Act to Incorporate the Newfoundland Teachers' Association." Also a Bill "An Act Respecting Vocational Education in Newfoundland."

I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to make Uniform the Law Respecting the Distribution of the Estates of Interests."

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Supply:

1. Did the Government purchase approximately 800 pairs of boots to send to the Labrador last year, and did the Government send any boots to Labrador in that period?

2. If so, were tenders called for, and how many tenders were received?

3. Were the boots purchased from the lowest bidder?

4. From whom were the boots purchased, and at what price per pair?

MR. FOGWILL: I draw attention to Question No. 44, Order Paper of March 15. The question was answered in part.

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): The total cost of the visit of Mr. Colin Story was: Travelling Expenses $3,362.03, Salary $1,800. I have here for tabling the summary of Mr. Story's report and the report in detail. Regarding the summary, I have had copies made for all members, but the report in detail is rather voluminous, and I have but one copy, I would ask that it be returned to me.

MR. HIGGINS: I draw attention to Question No. 53, which is not answered. Addressed to the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives.

MR. KEOUGH: Question No. 31 (3) Andrews Fisheries:

Question: What was the security at date of Loan? What is security at present?

Answer: Statutory mortgage on the property of the Company including land, buildings, machinery equipment, stock in trade, and fish stocks, situated at Bay Roberts; Comfort Bight, Labrador and Frenchmen's Island, Labrador. Insurance in an amount equal to the total of the Withdrawals against the loan has been effected and assigned to the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives.

MR. FOGWILL: Part of Question No. 15, No. 68 and No. 70 still remain unanswered. Also No. 84.

MR. VARDY: Answer to No. 72.

MR. FOGWILL: May I interrupt for a few minutes. I understand the honourable member for St. John's West is to answer this question. As a point of procedure, what department would the question most suitably be supplied by? I understand the honourable member has Cabinet rank. Nevertheless, it is on procedure, what department is responsible for this answer.

MR. SPEAKER: The question was addressed to the honourable the Premier or appropriate Minister, and the Premier said Mr. Vardy was the appropriate Minister to answer the question.

MR. VARDY: The following information is supplied in answer to question No. 72, asked by the honourable member for St. John's West.

1. Question: To table a progress report on the slum clearance project.

Answer: Before any actual slum clearance could be undertaken it was necessary to have alternative accommodation provided for those who would be removed from the condemned area. Consequently no actual slum clearance has taken place up to the present time, although the programme of providing alternative accommodation is proceeding with all possible despatch. This programme has taken two forms: in the first instance it was possible to provide for the construction of 140 residential units on land already serviced with water, sewerage, etc. However, that was the extent of the land immediately available for building purposes. Another programme of land preparation was necessary, and a contract was awarded recently for the servicing of an area of land owned by the Housing Corporation which will provide approximately 350 additional lots suitable for building purposes.

2. Question: What is the total cost of the project, to the Province, to date.

Answer: The total cost to the Province to date is $264,773.21.

3. Question: How many houses have been constructed?

Answer: None.

4. Question: How many apartment houses have been constructed?

Answer: 35 (containing 140 flats).

5. Question: Where are they built?

Answer: On the property formerly known as the Ebsary Estate.

6. Question: When will they be ready for occupancy?

Answer: 4 have already been occupied and the remainder are being occupied as quickly as the construction is completed. It is anticipated that the final buildings will be ready for occupancy during the latter part of July.

7. Question: What rent will be charged per month?

Answer: The apartments are being rented on a basis of 20% family income with a minimum rental of $15.00 per month for two in family, with an income of $80.00 per month, to $7.00 per month with ten in family at an income of $80.00 per month. The maximum rental would be $59.00 per month for a family of two with an income of $265.00 per month, reduced to $51.00 per month for a family of ten, with an income of $265.00 per month.

8. Question: Who are the builders?

Answer: The Horwood Lumber Company.

9. Question: Was the work done on contract, state terms of contract?

Answer: The work was and is being done on contract. The contract is a firm, all-inclusive construction contract, awarded on competitive bidding to the lowest tender, the amount of the Horwood Lumber Company tender being $923,474.20 for 140 units, bringing the average unit price to $6,592.

10. Question: Who supervised the work for the Provincial Government, at what rate of pay?

Answer: There is no Supervisor for the Provincial Government, as such. The Provincial Government has entered into a Partnership Agreement with the Federal Government in this undertaking and the supervisory work is being done on behalf of the Partnership by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. All expenses pertaining to the supervision of the work is absorbed by the Federal Government as part of the service provided by them.

11. Question: Who represents the Newfoundland Government on this project?

Answer: The Newfoundland Government is represented by the honourable Oliver L. Vardy.

12. Question: Does the representative of the Newfoundland Government receive remuneration for his services, if so, how much?

Answer: The Newfoundland representative receives no remuneration for his services; consequently, nothing.

13. Question: What is the cost of travelling expenses to date?

Answer: The cost of travelling expenses to date has been $1,023.08 of which the Federal Government absorbs 75% making Newfoundland's share of this cost $255.77.

In this respect it is interesting to note that the entire programme of housing and slum clearance entered into during the tenure of the present Government has been on a partnership basis with the Federal Government in which all costs involved are shared on the basis of 75% Federal, 25% Provincial.

(2) I might add an elaboration to that Mr. Speaker, $43,600 has already been applied as credit against that $264,773.21 in contributions from the St. John's Municipal Council in lieu of land purchased from them for which they are going to return the money.

(7) This is worked out Mr. Speaker, on an approved basis of family income with a minimum of $960.

MR. BALLAM: I have the answer to Question No. 61 asked by the honourable member for St. John's East.

Question: To table a statement showing the number of Newfoundlanders working with the Labrador Company dealing with the iron ore in Labrador?

Answer: No information is available relative to the number of Newfoundlanders employed with the Labrador Company dealing with the iron ore in Labrador. There are several companies involved in mining exploration and the construction of the proposed Railway from Seven Islands. It is understood that the Company engaged in building the Railway has agreed to employ approximately 1,000 Newfoundlanders if they are available.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 86.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, the Budget will be brought down fairly soon, and information requested in this question will be tabled with the Budget.

MR. BALLAM: I have here the answer to Question No. 84.

Question: 1. Who are the members of the Workmen's Compensation Committee?

Answer: Mr. Irving Fogwill, Chairman; Mr. John J. Maddigan, Member; Mr. Clarence Hancock, Member.

Question: 2. What salary is paid to each member?

Answer: Chairman—$5,000 per annum, Members—$4,000 per annum.

Question: 3. How many persons are employed by the Committee?

Answer: 19.

Question: 4. Who are they, what are their duties and what salary is paid to each?

NAME	POSITION	SALARY
Mr. W. J. May	Secretary	$3,100 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Miss June Norris	Steno-Typist	$1,150 per annum plus $270 cost of living bonus.
Mrs. Bertha Gruchy	Executive Steno	$1,300 per annum plus $270 cost of living bonus.
Miss Jean Howell	Assembly Clerk	$1,300 per annum plus $270 cost of living bonus.
Mr. George T. Brown	Assessment Officer	$3,100 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Mr. Rex W. Kelland	Claims Officer	$3,100 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Mr. Jonas May	Utility Man	$1,200 per annum plus $270 cost of living bonus.
Mr. Harold Slade	Accountant	$2,700 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Mr. F. X. Linegar	Cashier	$2,600 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Mr. W. Gaulton	Assessment Clerk	$1,900 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Miss Joan Kirby	Steno-Typist	$950 per annum plus $180 cost of living bonus.
Miss Dorothy Horwood	Receptionist P.B.X. Opr.	$750 per annum plus $180 cost of living bonus.
Miss Ruby Andrews	Steno-Typist	$950 per annum plus $180 cost of living bonus.
Miss Nancy French	Steno-Typist	$950 per annum plus $180 cost of living bonus.
Mr. William Udell	Auditor	$1,900 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Mr. R. Fagan	Assessment Clerk	$1,800 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.

NAME	POSITION	SALARY
Mr. P. Barry	Pensions & Statistic Clerk	$1,800 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Mr. Samuel Brace	Computing Clerk	$1,800 per annum plus $360 cost of living bonus.
Miss Mary Greene	Steno-Typist	$1,150 per annum plus $270 cost of living bonus.

Question : 5. What is the total cost of the Committee to date including travelling expenses?

Answer : $24,367.51, which includes recoverable expenditure for equipment and office supplies for Board's permanent setup.

I may say relevant to this question, this Department will handle all the Workmen's Compensation throughout the country and will do approximately a million dollars worth of business on assessment basis a year. This staff here is not quite sufficient, they will need a few more, but to date this is as far as we have gotten and it is quite comparable to similiar staffs in other provinces.

MR. HIGGINS: Is that Act in force yet.

MR. BALLAM: Yes on April 1.

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, before we proceed to the Orders of the Day, may I speak on a point of privilege. There appeared, Sir, in yesterday's Evening Telegram an editorial entitled "Blueberry Cultivation" and because the editor, unintentionally, I am sure, reflected upon my common sense as Minister of Natural Resources and, most certainly, upon my ability while in the Cabinet, to give to the Crown the type of advice I was being paid $7,000 a year to give. I would like, Sir, to correct one or two very, very wrong impressions the editorial must have conveyed to the public.

The editorial is short, and with your permission, I will read it.

"Having first decided to lease certain blueberry grounds to a business corporation and financially to assist in the cultivation of the areas in which the berry pickers would be paid on a wage basis, under strenuous opposition to the plan the Government has abandoned that scheme. Instead, in the areas which are to be taken over and cultivation assisted by public funds, the people will be free to gather the berries and to sell them to the firms that handle this product.

There is much to be said in favour of the change of plans. The expenditure of public funds to increase the productive capacity of areas under the control of private concerns for whom the pickers would work at wage rates, would be open to criticism on various grounds. To cultivation of the areas in the public interest, no such objection may be raised. Further it has the advantages of stimulating production, to the benefit of communities as a whole, and it also affords the pickers the opportunity to remunerate on the basis of their ability to reap the harvest as well as to sell the product in a competitive market."

I want to make it clear Sir, I have no grudge whatsoever against the editor who wrote, I believe, honestly and fearlessly on the facts, or such information as had been supplied to him. But I do wish to enter a complaint of the people who supplied him with that information.

The truth of the matter is that in an agreement with which I was intimately connected as Minister of Natural Resources, in an agreement discussed but not finally ratified, there was no intention whatsoever on my part to give nor on the part of the companies to ask that one single dollar of Government, Public Funds should be spent to assist in burning over and cultivating areas that would be leased. Not one cent.

Had arrangements gone through the company would not only have undertaken the whole expense of such fencing and burning and any other form of cultivation, not only undertake this whole expenditure, but would have done other things besides. Would have paid a rental for the land, would have paid a royalty on berries picked on the land but would have co-operated with the Government and stood half the cost of whatever such burning or cultivation the Government might have wished to do outside these leased areas for the benefit of the public at large.

We did not offer, they did not ask for any rights to hiring people. I doubt very much people would hire out to pick by the hour, if they could make more money by picking by the gallon. It is not only a reflection upon my conscience, but also upon the public spirit and patriotism of the group of business men, all of whom, with one exception, and they will know which one I mean. I entertain in the highest respect.

I say, Sir, I believe this was written in all sincerity, I believe the editor was grossly misinformed. I do not wish the House to take any further action but rather permit me to table a copy.

MR. SMALLWOOD: On a point of privilege: On the article read by the honourable member for Bonavista South, I would like to add just this single word: That this is not the first time that the editor of a daily newspaper in St. John's had published editorials critical of the action of the Government upon the basis of completely inadequate information.

MR. HIGGINS: I trust, Mr. Speaker, the opposition is not going to be blamed for this. The member, the department nor the public don't know. Our hands are clean.

Orders of the Day

MR. BUTTON: Mr. Speaker, in rising to take part in this debate, I wish to congratulate the mover, Mr. Horwood, and the seconder, Mr. Janes, of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. I join with the honourable members who have already spoken and have made good Liberal speeches. This afternoon it is my intention to make a good Liberal address, everyone may not agree that it is a good Liberal address, however, I can assure you it will not be a Social Credit address or a CCF address or Tory address, therefore a Liberal address, good or bad.

I am going to deal first of all with that part of the Speech from the Throne with reference to the program of Economic Development to which the Government is directing its energies. I may say that I am proud to have lived to see this program of economic development enter the final stage and well underway, at least we have gotten beyond the stage of introduction of empty talk about our natural resources. The Premier and the Government have given us action. All down through the years I have listened to high-sounding talk about the wealth of our natural resources but never was there an attempt made to do anything about it. Nothing but hot air. Now, at last, we have a man at the tiller who is prepared to work, to burn the midnight oil, to give all he has in order to transfer the hopes of so many generations into something tangible and worthwhile. I remember thinking to myself while viewing the activity of the birch mill site that this project would continue to support thousands of Newfoundlanders and their families long after all of us here had been gathered to our fathers.

I realize that some of our political opponents don't think the projects will be successful and I must say, and I hate to think this of any of my fellow countrymen, that it is obvious in more ways than one, that the wish is father to the thought. I would not be sure, not too sure it would be a political satisfaction to some people if the Government's Economic Program were to end in failure; it might indeed, provide a political advantage. Everyone knows they are politically badly in need of a shot in the arm, but any political advantage that would cost the people of Newfoundland a portion of their bread can never be an enduring advantage. When the Newfoundland producer loses, everyone in Newfoundland loses. So, I would say to these political opponents of ours that these pessimists and prophets of doom, financial doom, it would be far better for Newfoundland and far better for them too if they would help with the constructive instead of obstructing with destructive and unjustified criticism.

The policy of economic development has been undertaken with the idea of helping all Newfoundland of every class and creed, of every shade of political opinions; Newfoundlanders North, East, South and West. So, let us all get our shoulder to the wheel and help out when and where we can. If some of us cannot be of much assistance, at least we should be able to say we have not tried to hinder our Island and its people by criticism and groundless doubts as to our financial position. Do the people who create such doubts ever stop to realize that for the sake of a political advantage they may be settling Newfoundland's financial future, they are discouraging those who may be inclined to invest their money in Newfoundland.

There has been some criticism, Mr. Speaker, of the Government's liquor policy, so let us have a look at this policy. What course has the present Government adopted with a view to restricting the sale of liquor? In the past year its aim has been to restrict sale by increasing the price and since the records show that the sale of spirits for 1950-51 is considerably lower than the previous year although profits are up, it can hardly be said the Government has adopted the most sensible course possible. Yet there is a lot of boot-legging going on particularly in St. John's. I know the Police Department is not to blame, because as a former policeman, I have first-hand knowledge of the difficulties encountered in trying to prove a case of illegal sale. I believe, however, there is an easy and sure way of wiping out the illegal liquor trade in St. John's. The reason people patronize bootleggers is easily explained. All Government stores close at 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon. When they cannot be sure of purchasing at Government stores people will get it anyway, patronize the bootleggers and pay double for what they get and so the illegal sale is encouraged. If it were customary to obtain liquor through legal channels until nine or ten in the evening, people would hardly go to the bootleggers and pay them outrageous prices, therefore, I suggest that one of the city liquor stores would be allowed to remain open until nine or ten in the evening, then the bootleggers would be wiped out of existence and the hard-working police would be relieved of a lot of futile work. I do not know if the House agrees with this suggestion but I sincerely hope they will give it consideration.

Re my reference to the Police Department, I would point out that in the year 1807 the St. John's Constabulary consisted of a number of tavern keepers, yearly given a license before the issue of which they had to agree to perform the police duties. This went on until 1831 with this make-shift police force until there was appointed one high constable with eight assistants and in 1833 a Bill was passed providing a night watch for the town and on July 22, 1856, the Constabulary sallied forth, arrayed for the first time in a regular uniform, and for accoutrements and aids to subjugation of the lawless, our local "Bobbies" sported a Bull's Eye lantern, a toggle which did duty as handcuffs and a stick. From that day to the present, the police force in Newfoundland compared favourably with that of other countries, and with this in mind I bring before this House the subject of our present police.

Of all those things that come up for discussion in the House I do not hear many members speak of the welfare of the Police. I suppose they have no reason, as probably they don't like getting mixed up with the law, which is, no doubt, a good thing.

Mr. Speaker, here is my sole reason for speaking this afternoon on the police, I was once a policeman and for this reason, I deem it necessary someone in this House of Parliament should be their spokesman and I know the Attorney General who is their commander is not going to get up and talk about the policemen, he is going to let someone else do that. Since Newfoundland became a Province of Canada the RCMP have taken over the duty of policing the Province except in the City of St. John's. Now that the RCMP are taking over, what is going to become of 150 constables and 24 non-commissioned officers. Mr. Speaker, if the Government intends keeping these men on the force, are we going to continue paying them such a low wage, that when they are pensioned after 25 years they have then to apply to the Welfare Department for assistance? Some of you here this afternoon may say, what has he done with his money after 25 years? I will tell you. The police have been receiving such low wages all these years that after paying rent, educating their children and so on, he is left penniless. For instance, a sergeant pensioned recently received $82 a month, has to pay $ a month rent, has a daughter taking Grade XI and one studying to be a nurse, what chance has this man to help his children? I can tell you, Mr. Speaker, this is a serious matter, therefore, I am fighting for the welfare of our present police; therefore I am asking that the present cost of living bonus be included in their salary and further increase be granted so that when they complete their term of office, they have sufficient to live on and not go around begging as some of them must before long.

Mr. Speaker, I am not speaking on behalf of the police to receive any special favour because only last week I received a ticket for parking, breaking the parking regulations. I am speaking here, Sir, because I was once one of them, I know what they have gone through and how unfairly they have been treated in the past, but now-a-days they are getting away from the eighteen hundreds. For instance they were recently granted an eight-hour shift by their new commander, the Attorney General. It was asked for years ago but always a deaf ear was turned to them.

Mr. Speaker, I am not criticizing this present Government, but only bringing the matter to your attention, and I feel accountable that this Government will do all in its power to assist these men.

Before I discontinue, Sir, the subject of the Police, I am going to ask the Attorney General to see that the police will be given an issue of a light raincoat. Now they have to wear the long black coat, rain or shine, and I feel the Attorney General has the welfare of the police at heart but due to many duties he probably has not had time to attend to their welfare, but let us pray that from this very day he will pay special attention to the best police force in the world, in giving them a fair deal.

Mr. Speaker, when the children attend the House of Assembly, no doubt there may be some, not many, but Mr. Speaker, while on our trip on which you accompanied me, while in Ontario, I was talking to the Premier and asked him about the children while the House was in session. In the House of Parliament in Ontario special privileges are granted to school children. In that Province they are given sole right to attend meetings of the House while in session and seats are reserved for them. I am of the opinion some arrangement should be made in this Province. One day a week should be set aside and the pupils from grade six up should attend. This would be part of their education, and by attending the sessions they would learn and see the way the affairs of their country are handled.

I would suggest that arrangements might be made, that all schools in the city and outside be made to this effect through the honourable the Minister of Education.

MR. VARDY: In speaking to the Address in Reply I would like to join with other members of the honourable House who have already spoken in tending my congratulations to the mover and seconder for the very admirable and enlightening presentations they made at that time.

I would like, Mr. Speaker, at this time, to take advantage of this opportunity of expressing very sincerely my congratulations to the members of that new Fishermen's Union here today, for the very advanced and forward step taken in bringing their followers into line with the other workers of the Province, these members of organized trades and crafts which have done so much to improve the standard of living of their members and to bring about the uplifting of their entire industry at large.

I was very much taken, the other day, Mr. Speaker, in speaking of the fisheries, with a clipping I noticed emanating from the near-by Province of Prince Edward Island, in which criticism was voiced over the fact that Prince Edward Island was not getting what it considered to be a fair share of the business offered in Newfoundland, and I was very much taken with reading a newspaper comment on the consumption of fish in various parts of the world, and various parts of the Dominion of Canada to note that Prince Edward Island, our neighbour, the province which looks to Newfoundland, and stated Newfoundland is their most natural market, that it has, from the standpoint of Newfoundland at least, the name of being the lowest fish consuming Province per capita in the entire Dominion, and one of the lowest aggregated in the entire world.

I was so much impressed that I had prepared some statistics on this matter of fish consumption and I will elaborate on the point as to the purpose for that in just a moment. I feel sure the honourable House will be interested in hearing some of the rather interesting figures these statistics disclose. For instance, Iceland, which, of course, is a fish producing country like ourselves, has a per capita consumption of 60 pounds a year; Norway a per capita consumption of 59 pounds per year; Sweden 40 pounds per year, the United Kingdom 33 pounds per year; Portugal 20 pounds per year, the United States of America 10 pounds per year, the Dominion of Canada as a whole 12.8 pounds per year; the province of Newfoundland 76 pounds per year. Now I am not sure whether those who compiled those statistics gave an accurate account of fish consumption in Newfoundland, but it does indicate that Newfoundlanders are consuming, to a very large degree, the merchandise they produce themselves.

As compared with that, Mr. Speaker, we have the Province of Prince Edward Island consuming 4.5 pounds of fish per year, Nova Scotia 16.8, New Brunswick 9, Quebec 5.38, Ontario 5.19, Manitoba 9.40, Saskatchewan 4.26, Alberta 7, British Columbia 4.33. All of which goes to prove that, when we talk of foreign markets for the products which we catch, produce and offer for sale, we have in our own Dominion of Canada one of the most natural markets, readily accessible, which have the where-with-all to pay for our products, and which, if we are to believe legend, could still stand some very valuable brain food.

Mr. Speaker, if we are, by the same token, to accept that legend that the consumption of fish tends to increase the braininess of the individual consuming it, then I take it we in Newfoundland should have a very high rating over the rest of our neighbours in the Dominion of Canada and in the United States of America. I am sure, Mr. Speaker, most of us will agree at least that we can hold our own in that respect, and I would just like to pursue this point a little further.

An editorial appeared the other day in a Mainland paper which I think leaned very kindly to what I am trying to present when it said, that with the price of meat moving from peak to peak, Canadian housewives were turning to other proteins for their families, and fish seemed to be becoming a very popular food. It is hard to understand that Canadians bounded by 3 oceans and having the largest lakes on earth eat so little fish as only two other countries consume less fish than Canada—they are America and China. Canada has been eating 12.7 pounds per person per year, while in the United States 10 has been eaten and in China 6 pounds, and I am going on to say this compares with 46 pounds in Norway, 65 in Iceland, 29 in Britain and 83 in Japan. It is a good thing the legend about fish being a brain food has been shattered. I won't labour that point any further, Mr. Speaker, but I feel they are important and impressive figures which undoubtedly could be used to advantage by those responsible for the development of fishery markets, and I am not certain, it is now time an effort was made in the Dominion of Canada as well as the United States of America, the two most natural markets for Newfoundland, to have a greater proportion of our products of the sea brought in to this market and their dollars brought back into our Province.

I was very much impressed Mr. Speaker, with the manner in which the representatives of the fishermen of Newfoundland gathered together for the past week in this town, here in the capital city of St. John's. During that past few years, it has been my privilege, as it was of many other members of this honourable House, I feel sure, to attend various conventions, and I think that we all are agreed the majority of individuals going to conventions, go for one thing only, to enjoy themselves to the ninth degree. Others go with a determination to get as much information as is available, but also to have a good time while doing so. But I must say that it was conspicuous that on the part of those individuals who came from every nook and cranny in Newfoundland to attend this historical meeting, applied themselves diligently and with devotion to the effort of bettering their own welfare and bringing into being an organization which would be of benefit to themselves, their families and their industry. I think the congratulations of this House should go to them for the manner in which they conducted themselves in that respect.

I notice, Mr. Speaker, that the address from the Throne omitted to make any reference to the question of housing, and I take it that was possibly because the matter of housing has been taken for granted here in the Province of Newfoundland. But I do not feel it is something that can be shoved aside very lightly. It was my privilege to present the answers in this House to a number of questions which had been tabled in relation to the manner in which the Housing Program in the City of St. John's is developing. Some of these questions were in detail and others in not so great detail. I think it only fitting, and perhaps expected of me, that I spend a few minutes at this time, giving a somewhat more detailed account of just what is being done or is proposed to be done.

I think it will be recalled that in the Estimates last year, an amount of $750,000 was set aside for slum clearance and re-housing. It was not suggested that entire amount be spent in the City of St. John's itself, because housing problems are not something exclusively the problem of St. John's, but I am afraid of many other parts of this Province of ours.

As a result of this realization an agreement was entered into with the Federal Government to take advantage of the National Housing Act which empowered the Provincial Governments, who in turn are empowered under the Act to enter into partnership with municipalities for slum clearance and development of re-housing projects. Requests have been made of the Government from various other sections of Newfoundland, but for one reason or another, it has not been possible up to the present time to bring about any tangible result for any program, but it has been possible to start in the City of St. John's. The start was made by delineating an area on the East by Carter's Hill, the West by Casey Street, the North by Monroe Street and the South by New Gower Street. That took in a very comprehensive area embracing in all, practically one thousand units. But before it was possible for anything to be done, as to the elimination of the undesirable features of that area; in order to determine what the necessities were, it was necessary to have some sort of organization set up which could assess, make a survey, tell what was required, tell something of the situation of individuals concerned, with the families concerned, what was their feeling on the matter? Were they Welfare problems, or were they respectful producers. As a result of that the St. John's Housing Authority was created, under the chairmanship of Mr. Harry Powell, retired Manager of the Imperial Oil, and with the assistance of another group of volunteer members, a survey was started. Three surveyors were employed to make a detailed survey of the area and find out all the information which, I say, should have been available for any project of this nature.

During the eight years I have served as a member of the St. John's Municipal Council, I was, with others, presented time after time, with the problem of what to do with families living in condemned houses. A report would be submitted to the Council by the City Engineers saying such and such a house is condemned, unfit for habitation, a menace to the community and the inhabitants. But unfortunately there was no place for the family to go, and what were they going to do about it? Well the responsibility was passed over to us, the members of the St. John's Municipal Council; we were not hard-hearted individuals, had the usual amount of compassion for fellow beings, particularly if this happened during the winter months, or unpleasant weather, and we said: Well, what will we do, let the poor fellow stay until he finds some place to go? Unfortunately, and I take full blame for it as well as anyone else, nothing was done to determine whether the individual was worthy of that consideration, to determine what was his situation, his income, could he afford to live in the Newfoundland Hotel while looking for other accommodations? We did not do that, unfortunately. We merely said the man can't be put out on the street; he is going to have to stay, and he stayed there. Only now, Mr. Speaker, when this survey was made and these reports were coming in, we are finding that, living in this distressed area termed the slums, are condemned houses, a menace to the community and the inhabitants, and the city as a whole—with families whose total income is $6,000, $7,000, $8,000, yes, and one over $10,000 a year. Do you, Mr. Speaker, or does any honourable member of this House, feel the St. John's Municipal Council, or anybody, is justified in allowing a family to live in that type of housing whose income is $7,000, $8,000, $9,000 and $10,000 a year? I feel, Sir, I know what your answer would be.

As a result, Sir, of this investigation we have made—445 families have been investigated—there are now 145 units available and nine families have already been established there. Now, you may ask why not more than nine families. Well, first of all, some of these families living in condemned houses, like to own their own homes, and until they receive very substantial compensations for houses already condemned they are not prepared to move out. We also find families who are eligible and do not qualify for removal to the apartments being prepared gradually for their occupation, they may have too large a family and the Federal Regulations say we can only put so many members in a certain area and say only so many can occupy a bedroom. Some others are disqualified also, a very large proportion have incomes not in the bracket permitted by the Federal Government to occupy units with subsidized payments and are subsequently disqualified. But we have found a definite reluctance on the part of these individuals in condemned houses who have for the past number of years paid no rents at all—a very definite reluctance to move out into decent, clean, modern, respectable shelter because they "got to pay rent."

That rental is allocated on the basis which I have outlined very briefly in answer to a question asked here. That twenty percent of income is accepted as a universal basis for subsidized housing values throughout the whole world. In Norway, Denmark, and the United Kingdom countries they are far ahead of either the United States or Canada in development of housing. They have been operating for years, building houses for their less fortunate citizens, and they have arrived at this basis for rental assessment. Twenty percent of income, in some places twenty-five percent is normal, but more universally adopted, as quoted, twenty percent. Now what does that amount to? It means that for a family of two, with a welfare income if you like, the old age pension where the husband and wife each get $40 a month, making an income of $80 a month between them, $960 a year, should pay $15 a month for rent. Now that is shelter, and adequate shelter, Mr. Speaker. But, if that same couple have been accustomed for years and years past to living in such circumstances as would not be permissible for you to keep a dog in, and have paid no rent for it, they have a very definite reluctance to move into a decent habitation.

Now take the other side of the question, we have been—and I say we advisedly—jaded day and night, Sunday and Monday, with telephone calls, personal interviews, letters, people walking up and down the sidewalk in front of our homes, from all over the City of St. John's anxious and willing to pay any kind of rent. But the very people, the very people they are designed to help, undoubtedly have a very definite reluctance to take advantage of it.

Which suggests, frankly, Mr. Speaker, a very difficult problem and one that has no possible solution at this time. It seems to me that the St. John's Housing Authority which is the body invested with the responsibility of administering has got one alternative only, which is this. Having determined that a certain family, qualified, coming within the income bracket and are the type we want to help, living in condemned houses which should be torn down for the sake of the community as a whole not only for their sake, should be removed. I don't see for this authority any alternative but to say to Mr. Jones or Mr. Smith or whatever his name may be: You are living in a condemned house which has to be torn down and is going to be torn down. The only reason it was not torn down before is that we had no alternative accommodations to move you into but now we have alternative accommodations. Ebsary Estate, Apartment so-an-so, now available. Move up there. You will pay 20% of your income for rent. If Mr. Jones or Mr. Smith says "no, I am not interested," then the authority has no alternative than to say: Well, the house is going to be torn down now, you will have to find your own accommodations. I don't see how the slums of the City of St. John's are ever going to be cleaned up until a very definite and firm action is taken.

It surprises me, Mr. Speaker, to hear reports brought in by surveyors of individuals, eligible, qualified, living in distressing circumstances but won't move out because they do not like the area or because there is only an upper apartment at the moment and they want a lower flat or vice versa. These are the sort of things I have to contend with in dealing with problems of this nature. It is not a simple one and taxes the patience of those concerned to the utmost; on the other hand there are compensating, satisfying features as well.

I was very gratified to hear that one family living in one of the condemned houses on Flower Hill, I believe, is now in there paying $48 rent a month. The family income justifies that, and they are tickled to death with it, happy as larks and so pleased they can't say enough in appreciation. It is gratifying to have people like that a deal with and to know that in spite of obstacles we are doing some good.

I don't know what is being done about extending it to rural areas, not just St. John's, in order to achieve this purpose which the Federal Program started. I know it is going to be necessary before any definite decision is made to enlarge the scope of operations. With the Federal Government paying 75% of the money for conversion, I am sure we will be able in the final analysis to work out a solution to the satisfaction of all concerned. But Mr. Speaker, in speaking of that. I would like to take this opportunity to pay tribute to the organization to which the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland made reference during the course of his remarks some days ago. I don't suppose it is any great secret to members of this House that certain individuals living in that area are brought to the conditions in which they find themselves as a result of partaking of strong drink and it is very refreshing to be advised by someone responsible for the development of the program that Alcoholics Anonymous has been called in on the job in a number of instances and aided immeasurably in redeeming some of the bread winners of these families, who previously contributed nothing to the home, going out and coming home rosy-eyed and breaking up everything. It is obviously impossible to put a family like that up in the apartments before referred to. Now it looks like some of these individuals are going to be shown the light of the effect of liquor and already there are indications that at least one is going to be given the opportunity of moving in. I know this man, he wants to, in his better moments, but unfortunately there are periodic disturbances and we are very reluctant to take a chance until some assurance is given that there will be no recurrence of this, and I think that full credit should be given to the organization for the excellent work done in that respect.

Mr. Speaker, so much for the City of St. John's. It is not the only place, and I do feel, and I speak as an individual now—I do feel it is going to be necessary for the Government to proceed with the enlargement of the program very soon to take in outside areas as well. I do feel it will be necessary, before very long, to give very serious attention to the situation in Gander. I was in Gander ten days ago for two days waiting to get into St. John's and during that time had the opportunity of seeing some of the conditions under which people are living in slummy, shoddy quarters. I am sure we are all familiar with the history of Gander, know there has been no housing development, what happened to it. We know that most of the buildings are temporary, never meant to be permanent, never meant for occupation for permanent habitation, in fact, are beginning to fall down and even the most optimistic will admit that another two or three years will see the end of those buildings being used now for living quarters by residents of that area.

I discussed the matter with the Department of Transport on behalf of the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives while in Ottawa a little while ago and they are very concerned and conscious of the situation. They want to take all the residents in the area of the airport and set up a community, but that is going to take a long time. In the meantime while talking to a number of people in Gander, I find these people naturally seem to have become obsessed with the idea that they are forgotten, overlooked, for the simple reason they feel now they are in such a position of division of authority that they don't know whether they are fish or fowl, but they are very cognizant of the fact that they do pay taxes in Newfoundland, and feel entitled to Newfoundland representation. They have been trying for a long time to get some sort of housing program developed but there again it seems there is some sort of division of authority between Ottawa and the responsible officials here in St. John's. Now I know that the matter is under advisement, I know that the member representing that district is very conscious of it and no doubt will be dealing with this matter in due course but I do want to call attention to the fact that on April 15, only a few days from now, 140 people in Gander living under the most distressing and deplorable conditions in an old MacNamara construction shed, are being evicted and put out on the street.

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Speaker, you will be happy to know that decision has been repealed, they will not be evicted.

MR. VARDY: I am sure they will be glad to hear that. It will be gratifying for the people involved as the situation is such, that unless the Department of Transport gets down to business in Gander and becomes serious from the viewpoint of getting some action on the housing conditions, the housing problem in Gander is so acute that it is going to be necessary for the Provincial Government to step in and do something about it.

Gander, unfortunately, has become a problem child. It is one of the few points of dictatorship, I think, in Newfoundland. A dictatorship of individuals who are using power to the detriment of the residents of the community. There are certain small, isolated cases which are going to add up to make a very serious situation nurtured in the bosom of these people. Take for example, a young lad out in Gander who had initiative enough and ambition enough to start a little shoe-shine operation there in the main terminal, and he is ejected, booted out; and yet a Mainland firm is allowed to come into this terminal and set up shoe-shining machines all over the place. A small thing but I feel sure you or I or any member of this Government, if we had the final say, our first consideration would be for the individuals in Gander, and any young lad showing initiative enough would have been encouraged instead of being booted out. I would further say, that the novelty booth in the Gander Terminal Building is a disgrace to Newfoundland, filled up with gimmicks and junk you can find in any novelty store in any part of Canada or the United States.

There is nothing there indicative of Newfoundland, representative of Newfoundland and it could be used for the benefit of advertising this province. Newfoundland never intended that it should be put up for anyone else to have the opportunity to take over this operation and be given exclusive rights to set up shop and shut out the bit of Newfoundland merchandise which was there when they came.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have a letter received within the last day or two from the Minister of Transport, in reply to a formal protest made by me to him on the matter of that very booth, and the fact that products of Nonia had to be removed from the booth. Mr. Chevier now offers the section previously occupied by TCA in the main terminal for use of Nonia, and I tried to get Nonia on the phone but have not succeeded, and the first they will hear of it unfortunately will be the newspapers, but before that, I hope to be in touch with them.

MR. VARDY: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, that is very encouraging news and I am sure that only by bringing this matter up, can we get the information that these things are being given consideration by the authorities in Ottawa, who have the final say. I know I have the consent of the Premier, and I am sure we are all gratified to hear he is getting some results.

MR. HIGGINS: That is only Nonia, what about the boot-black? That was an attack on the liberty of one man.

MR. VARDY: In reference to the comment of the Premier, the Minister of Transport is going to turn over the Booth. I don't know if it is permissible for the Provincial Liberal Government to criticize anything being done by the Federal Liberal Government, but I am taking that insubordination. I do feel it is fantastically ridiculous for the TCA booth to have remained idle so long while TCA travellers had to travel long the duck walk to get into the main terminal. That is a matter, I know, for the officials concerned. I cannot understand Canada's own airline being shoved over in a corner isolated from the rest of them in the terminal building, and yet be afforded all the privileges of the bar and certainly the necessary use of the dining room. Yet TCA itself, the operating company of the whole airport, is not permitted in the main terminal. I think Mr. Chevrier would do well to put TCA in there and give them back the booth proposed for the display of Nonia's benefit. However, all that, I feel, will be adjusted in time. But I do want to say in reference to the housing situation in Gander that that problem is growing so acute now that I feel, unless something is done within the next few months, the Provincial Government is going to be faced with the situation, we are going to be called upon to take some very definite action, and I hope that when that time comes it will be treated with all due isympathy, as I feel sure it will be.

Mr. Speaker, in speaking of housing or slum conditions, we have a situation in Corner Brook which is going to require attention, and I know the matter when presented will receive sympathetic consideration but during the past years the slum conditions in the city of St. John's has been the subject of very much comment by foreign newspapers and writers. We have had some of our poorest buildings picked out for special attention and photographing and broadcast through the press from one end of the continent to the other. Well, during the past few weeks, under date of March 24, there is a case of the worm turning. Here is a case of a Newfoundlander who goes to Montreal and picks out some of their beauty spots and photographs them and publishes them in the Montreal Gazette. Done by a newspaper man, Mr. Brian Cahill, and here he shows how bad the situation is in the city of Montreal, and I think it serves, Mr. Speaker, to bear out a statement I made on the Floor of this House a year ago after making a very intensive study and survey of slums through the Provinces and in the United States and in which I saw as bad conditions as there were in Newfoundland. I have seen some in other cities throughout that area that far exceeded them. Now, that is no excuse for a continuation of the slums in Newfoundland and I am sure no one would wish to see them continue but I would like to refer to the concluding paragraph of this article which deals with the matter we are dealing with now.

Under Section 35 of the National Housing Act, the City could go ahead with a low rental housing project for which the Federal Government would pay 75 percent of the cost with the other 25 percent being paid by the Government.

"The Corporation may pursuant to agreements made between the Government of Canada and the government of any province undertake jointly with the government of the province or any agency thereof, projects for the acquisition and development of land for housing purposes and for the construction of houses for sale or for rent.

An agreement referred to in subsection one, shall provide that the capital cost of the project and the profits or losses thereon shall be shared seventy-five per centum by the Corporation and twenty-five per centum by the government of the province or an agency thereof, and shall contain such other provisions as are considered necessary or advisable to give effect to the purposes and provisions of this section, and notwithstanding section eighteen of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act, shall be executed on behalf of the Government of Canada by the Minister with the approval of the Governor in Council."

In other words, I think, we in Newfoundland can feel proud of the fact that we have shown more progress in dealing with that matter, and in fact, I believe we are the first Province to avail of this section of the National Housing Act and the agreement entered into by the Province of Newfoundland and the Federal Government is the first of its kind in existence and much of the work we have to do is missionary work with no precedent to guide us. Most of the legislation and most of the Act produced here in consultation with the Federal Government are being used now as a guide in a number of the other provinces who are finally coming in and taking advantage of this opportunity.

I may say in conclusion that we all hope (I have hoped but I have never gone so far as to suggest it to the Cabinet or any member of the Cabinet) that we may embark on an additional program this year to provide additional rental units. I don't mean subsidized housing of the type we are engaged in at the present time. But I mean to make units available to those who can afford to pay an equitable rent for decent housing.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): What provision is being made for a family of six children where the father has fairly continuous work but is earning not sufficient to even support the family—how is he going to live?

MR. VARDY: Mr. Speaker, in answer to that question, that is a welfare question, the Minister of Public Welfare will have to deal with that, and in that respect too, the Welfare Department is working very closely with the Housing Authority, they deal with these problems as they develop by close co-operation and discussion of problems, and I feel sure information will be made available at a later date as to the outcome. The Federal Government says that under certain figures we are not interested, but I would like to develop that theme a little further. I have said there is a minimum of $960 income per year or a rental of $15 a month. That is as far as the Federal Government will go and the extra rental they will divide with us on a 25%-75% basis. But if a family has no income and pay a rental of $55, then the first $15 would have to be paid by the Provincial Government. That would mean the first $15 entirely and the $40 would be divided on a 25%-75% basis.

I think that is all I have to state at the present time, Mr. Speaker, concerning those facts but would repeat the situation is one that has been given a lot of serious thought on the part of all those involved and concerned and I believe the outcome will be for the ultimate benefit of the individuals concerned and the community as a whole.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In the absence of the honourable Minister of Education who still is absent, I move the adjournment of the debate. He adjourned the debate the day before yesterday and has not since been present on account of the fact that his health would not allow him, but he will, I believe, be present tomorrow. I therefore move the adjournment of the debate in his behalf.

MR. SPEAKER: "An Act Further to Amend the Act No. 41 of 1938, entitled "An Act for the Confirmation of an Agreement between the Government and the Labrador Mining and Exploration Company, Limited."

Bill read a third time and passed.

"An Act to Amend the Accident Insurance Companies (Licensing) Act, 1939."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Interpretation of Statutes."

MR. CURTIS: This Bill passed the Committee with the exception of two clauses, they are still under consideration by the Department and therefore ask it be further deferred. I think it would be well to divide that "C" in two parts.

MR. SPEAKER: Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Relating to Local Government."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

Section 7 read and passed.

Section 8 read and passed.

Section 9 read and passed.

Section 10 read and passed.

Section 11 read and passed.

Section 12 read and passed.

Section 13 read and passed.

Section 14 read and passed.

Section 15 read and passed.

Section 16 read and passed.

Section 17 read and passed.

Section 18 read and passed.

Section 19 read and passed.

Section 20 read and passed.

Section 21 read and passed.

Section 22 read and passed.

Section 23 read and passed.

Section 24 read and passed.

Section 25 read and passed.

Section 26 read and passed.

Section 27 read and passed.

MR. CURTIS: I wonder if we could revert to clause No. 1—after the word Local Government put the word "Receivership" in brackets.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

MR. SPEAKER: Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Further to Regulate the Development of Local Areas."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read.

MR. HORWOOD: What is the meaning of "District." You have been saying "Area" and now it states "District."

DR. POTTLE: District is a subdivision of an Area.

MR. HORWOOD: Another point, it seems a bit impracticable prescribing the maximum density of population it is not the same as the maximum number of buildings.

Passed.

Section 7 read and passed.

Section 8 read and passed.

Section 9 read and passed.

Section 10 read and passed.

Section 11 read and passed.

Section 12 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill with some amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Boiler and Pressure Vessel Act, 1949."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

MR. FAHEY: Referring to Clause 3—Until such time as the next certificate is issued. Suppose it is not issued for 18 months, a boiler should be inspected not less than every 12 months at least. This new Act may be for two months may be two years.

MR. BALLAM: The original Bill states from date of certificate until next inspection or such shorter period as may be specified. It is laid down, the inspection should be taken once a year or any shorter period, that two inspectors may decide. It is supposed to have an annual inspection unless the Chief Inspector provides otherwise. I am not quite sure on that but this amendment provides only they could certify the boiler for a shorter period.

MR. FAHEY: It is stated in the certificate, unless sooner cancelled.

MR. BALLAM: That is right, if for some reason they are called in to inspect it, for any reason they can cancel their certificate.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

It was ordered that the said Bill be read a third time on tomorrow. Carried.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Might we just pass on over the next two items and come to the second reading of "An Act to Amend the Industrial Loan Act." And in that connection Mr. Speaker, there is very little that I need to say I think, if the honourable members have the Bill before them. The principal purpose of this amendment is to add two or three things and put an amendment into section No. 7. The original clause reads as follows:

"The Board shall, in accordance with the regulations, administer the Fund and such other monies as from time to time come under its control for the purpose of developing and improving, any industry devoted chiefly to the production in Newfoundland of a product derived directly from the resource of Newfoundland, or any industry established in Newfoundland and based primarily on raw materials which are the product of Newfoundland, and in particular but without restricting the generality of the foregoing, may make loans to any person, partnership, association or company engaged in producing such product, or in processing, manufacturing, refrigerating or otherwise dealing with such raw materials for assisting in the construction of plants and the purchase of plant equipment generally, and other types of capital expenditure which in the opinion of the Board are proper expenditures for which loans should be made by it."

Now the board has found since it began operating that on a number of occasions where applications for loans were received by them, they have not been able to make the loans because in certain marginal cases, only in certain cases, clearly the clause does not permit the loan to be made, in others it does, but in some it is not too clear whether they are permitted to make the loan as a result there are several very worthy cases where dependable people with good projects have been refused a loan and the only purpose of this amendment is to remove that doubt by giving the board a little more initiative and elbow room to make the loans. Now that is the principal change, the remainder is merely to add some clarity to the financial statement referred to in Section 14 of the original Bill. These are the purposes of the Act and finally, deemed to have come into force the 7th day of December 1949.

MR. HIGGINS: Retroactive?

MR. SMALLWOOD In this respect only.

Bill read a third time. Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Fisheries Loan Act."

MR. SMALLWOOD This is purely formal to tidy up two or more odds and ends which we overlooked with the original Bill when passed. I think it is self-explanatory and I move the second reading.

Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD The next three I think we might defer in the absence of the honourable the Minister of Education, and come finally to a second reading of "An Act to Amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1948."

MR. BALLAM Mr. Speaker, I ask to have that Order withdrawn from the Order Paper. It is on the Order Paper in error.

The House adjourned until tomorrow Wednesday at 3 of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

WEDNESDAY, April 11th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

Honourable Dr. H. L. Pottle presented a petition from the people of Carbonear-Bay de Verde District, re road.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. HORWOOD: I give notice I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a resolution to request the Parliament of Canada that steps be taken to relax the provisions of the Migratory Birds' Convention Act so as to prevent undue hardship to the fishing population of Newfoundland and Labrador.

MR. COURAGE: I was going to say something, I think it would be out of order.

MR. FOGWILL: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Labour:

1. To table the annual report of the Labour Relations Board.
2. To table the annual report of the Minimum Wage Board.

I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Health:

Is it true that the heating system in the Corner Brook Sanatorium had to be re-arranged, if so, who was responsible and what was the extra cost involved?

I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives:

Has the Provincial Government taken any steps to ascertain from the Federal Government if dollars will be available for 1951 exports of salt codfish to non-dollar areas, if so what is the result?

I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives:

1. Did the Government purchase a Carrigut scallop dragger?
2. From whom was the dragger bought?
3. What did it cost?
4. Table a report of her operations for the 1950 season.
5. Where is she at present?
6. What arrangements have been made for her operation in 1951?

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I have a reply to a question asked me by the honourable the junior member for St. John's East.

Department	No. of Civil Servants as at 30/6/49	No. of Civil Servants as at 28/2/51	% Increase
IV Finance (including Consolidated Fund) .....	43	61	41.9
V Provincial Affairs (including Legislative and Executive Council) .....	25	28	12.0
VI Education .....	93	100	7.5
VII Attorney General .....	448	376	—
VIII Natural Resources .....	214	109	—
IX Public Works .....	149	139	—
X Health .....	1,515	1,673	10.4
XI Public Welfare .....	150	244	62.7
XII Board of Liquor Control .....	62	72	16.1
XIII Supply .....	26	31	19.2
XIV Fisheries and Co-operatives .....	15	41	173.3
XV Economic Development .....	—	13	—
XVI Labour .....	6	12	100
	<hr/> 2,746	<hr/> 2,899	<hr/> 5.5

Now I may say that is a little misleading, that is the question asked and that is the answer but it does not actually explain the situation. There is a decrease of 72 for the Attorney General's Department. On the other hand, contracts with the Mounted Police for police officers are not included in the Civil Service of Newfoundland. The Ranger Force and a number of the police ceased to be civil servants and became members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (in addition three or four wardens, river wardens, ceased to be Provincial civil servants and became Federal). And the decrease in the Public Works accounted for by the additional new hospitals, and two years ago they were understaffed but in the meantime they were able to get the additional staff they needed. Public Welfare: At first when the Rangers ceased to be Provincial Civil Servants and became Federal, they, or those of them who had been doing relief work now do none and someone had to be appointed to take their place and, due of course to a considerable increase in the work of Public Welfare and while the new system of Public Welfare itself had been in the course of introduction there has been, and still will continue for another short while, an overlapping. That is to say there are both welfare and relief officers and will be for a time to come. The increase in the Board of Liquor Control is due mostly to taking on inspectors for the Board of Liquor Control.

There were none before the new system came in. Under the Department of Supply, local Government affairs come and the increase in that number of employees in this Department is due to this. Fisheries and Co-operatives Department: Two years ago there was no Co-operative Department, it was a division of Natural Resources. Due of course to the fact that an entirely new department has been set up and for which staff are being recruited, and the end is not yet. The Department will be building up to more than 41. The overall result, therefore, is a total increase in the whole civil service in the two years of 153 or 5½%.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 87.

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): I have here an answer to Question No. 87, asked by Mr. Higgins on the Order Paper of April 11th.

Question 1. Did the Government purchase approximately 800 pairs of boots to send to the Labrador last year, and did the Government send any boots to Labrador in that period?

2. If so, were tenders called for, and how many tenders were received?

3. Were the boots purchased from the lowest bidder?

4. From whom were the boots purchased, and at what price per pair?

Answer: The Government did not purchase approximately 800 pairs of boots to send to the Labrador last year, but the Government did purchase exactly 652 pairs of Rubber Boots on behalf of the Labrador Trading Operations last year. The position was this. The vessel engaged in the Labrador Trading Operations arrived here in St. John's with a cargo of produce and the Department was given the requisition which had to be filled in four days as the vessel would have had her cargo discharged in that time. If the goods were not delivered in time for the vessel to leave four days after her arrival, the position would have been that the cost to the Government for the vessel lying up here in St. John's would have been $150.00 a day. Tenders, therefore, had to be invited telephonically and the lowest tenders were accepted.

Tenders were invited from the three firms here who represent the three Rubber Companies, namely, Parker & Monroe, Limited, Halley & Company, Limited and Ships' Stores.

254 pairs of Men's Rubber Boots were purchased. Of this quantity 150 pairs were purchased from Ships' Stores at $5.95 per pair. It should be obvious that the reason the total of 254 pairs were not purchased from Ships' Stores at the lower price was that they were not in stock and we could not wait for the balance of the Order at the lowest price for the simple reason that we had to avoid delay to the vessel sailing for the Labrador.

290 pairs of Boys' Rubber Boots were purchased. Of this total 108 pairs were purchased from Halley & Company, Limited, at $2.75 per pair and 182 pairs from Ships' Stores at $3.48 per pair.

108 pairs of Childs' Rubber Boots were purchased. Of the total order 96 pairs were bought from Halley & Company, Limited, at a cost of $1.92 per pair and 12 pairs from Ships' Stores at $3.10 per pair.

The Rubber Boots were purchased in the manner I have stated above. The lowest tender was accepted in each instance and where additional supplies were required the balance was obtained from the next lowest.

All the items purchased were on account of the Labrador Trading Operations and, of course, were for re-sale.

MR. FOGWILL: Question No. 68 and 70 have not been answered yet, on the Order Paper of March 28.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, Question No. 68 directed to me to answer and at the moment the answer is that all that information is within a week or two of being tabled in the House in the course of bringing down the Budget and I won't know if the purpose of the House, or of the public would be served by putting the Department of Finance to the time and difficulty of compiling information which has to come in with the Budget in any case.

Question No. 70: Mr. Speaker, that too will be brought down in full detail in the Budget. I may say it is not at all customary in any Legislative House to ask, and still less answer questions asked requesting information at the very eve of the Budget when it is a matter of days, within measurable distance of bringing down the Budget which can answer these questions, in a very thorough and detailed account of these financial statistics.

MR. FOGWILL: I am not very concerned about No. 70, but about No. 68, relating to expenditure of money and revenue in relation to our surplus account and I do understand the Minister of Finance gave an undertaking that he would give that answer with the exception of expenditure in connection with the building of several new plants. He was going to give the expenditure with the exception of that, or that was my understanding. Of course, Mr. Speaker, this was tabled over two weeks ago and I don't think it is too much on the Department to give the answer of the expenditure for the first 11 months of this financial year.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Remove Doubts as to the Coming into Force of the Workmen's Compensation Act 1950, and the Workmen's (Amendment) Act, 1951."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. BALLAM: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Incorporate the Newfoundland Teachers' Association."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Respecting Vocational Education in Newfoundland."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a bill "An Act to make Uniform the Law Respecting the Distribution of the Estates of Interests."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

Debate on Address in Reply

MR. HEFFERTON: I should like at first to concur with words spoken by my colleague, the honourable Minister of Public Welfare, in congratulations extended to you for the able manner in which you represented us at the meeting of the Empire Association, and at the same time to the members for Labrador and Fogo in recognition of their somewhat provocative addresses they gave because they evidenced deep personal conviction and serious consideration.

In a recent issue of the Atlantic Guardian, Bert Mayo, a former Newfoundland, a native of Fortune, Rhodes Scholar and Professor of Political Economics at the University of Alberta, put forward a suggestion that many of the difficulties confronting this Province of ours would probably be solved if the population were stabilized at somewhere around 250,000, that is to say 100,000 fewer than we have today, and went on to outline a proposal that Newfoundland will remain a national park. Under those conditions he thinks our national problems would be solved. This Government does not subscribe to that theory and evidence that we do not subscribe is found abundantly in the Speech from the Throne.

Any Government coming into power is faced, as all governments have been faced, by two alternatives, either a policy of continuing things on a routine basis, not upsetting the apple cart, trying to balance the budget with a minimum of service rendered to the electorate who have put them into office. The other alternative, trying to overcome some of the evils that they as well as the people are all cognizant of. These alternatives confronted us when we came to power. It is a problem which has confronted us ever since whether we should deliberately as a government, follow a "Laissez Faire" policy of sitting down and letting things run as they will. On the contrary we have tried the utmost in our power to solve some of the economic difficulties which have been with us in Newfoundland since the days of John Cabot.

Our difficulties in Newfoundland are not only economic, they are social as well. When we finally became a Province we set in motion the machinery whereby certain social benefits came to us because of our provincial status, benefits which we are convinced could not come to us because of our own standing, but implementation of these only tended to serve one section of the people. It was necessary that we should try to meet all ways and means whereby there should be no return of depression which has been such a frequent visitor amongst our people in previous ages. The problem was one of great difficulty. Many of us were convinced that in Newfoundland we had resources which had never been tapped. We all have heard loose talk for a number of years of certain potentialities we possessed but were not developing in full. Our Departments, some of them, particularly the Department of Natural Resources contained a scrap of information of this, that and the other thing but not sufficient to give us a clear picture, a clear cut idea of what we possessed or are able to do to attract available outside capital and consequently it was necessary to try and get an accurate survey of these possibilities which we felt and believed that we did have and therefore you find the first three pages of the Speech from the Throne deal largely with summation of what we have been trying to do during the comparatively short time we have been in office and that record will stand for itself, and the end is not yet.

It was fundamental that we should be able to appraise the wares, the resources that we have. There are two recognized ways of conducting business in the ordinary mercantile procedure. One, for shopkeeper or merchant to display his wares in a store to the best advantage and invite his customers to come in and choose for themselves, and the other is to prepare your prospectus, the only available data you have and go out and seek capital. And if the former is not practicable it is necessary that you collect what information you can and then go out and seek for those who might be interested in putting their capital into the business you have to offer. Consequently we have concluded that it was necessary we should with the least possible delay try and find out just what we have. The members of this House are very well aware that the blunt necessity for this prompt action was forced upon us almost overnight on September 21, 1949, when the devaluation of the pound brought about a serious change, in what up to that time had seemed to be some what of a boom in the marketing of all of our natural resources. That recession was brought about by events outside our control. Fortunately or otherwise, national events outside our control brought another change during the next four or five months, and today we find, with one exception, that these events had helped us again and our primary producers were reaping good wages, with one exception, our salt cod fishermen.

During the course of the past six months, on different occasions, our Premier has made public statements to the extent that this Government is committed to a more or less do or die policy. It was necessary to expand or else we immediately and for all time committed ourselves to be hewers of wood and drawers of water. He ha-been criticized for making that statement. When the honourable the member for Labrador was speaking a few days ago in a similar vein he referred to the necessity for experimentation to be carried out by this Government to prove if there was something there to change the face of this Province, give to us industrialization and raise our standards of living. He was once again criticized but the history of mankind shows us all progress has come from experimentation by individuals and Governments. In recent years, there have been many examples of experimentation being carried on by the Government with public funds, a great deal of economic research. Fishery experiments are going on at the present time by the Provincial and the Federal Government paid from Government funds and even if they do try and sometimes fail, if we want the projects we have to carry on experimentation. Naturally in experimentation the pros and cons of each venture have to be considered realistically and mistakes are bound to be made as has been pointed out in this House when we made a mistake in the Icelandic venture. But, unless we make some attempt to bring about changes in the industrial pattern of this Province we are committing our people to the same old story of years ago when external market difficulties immediately plunged us into the depths of despair.

Sometimes I think of the Premier, whom I am very glad to serve, as the people of Athens one time said: These people have an insistent power driving within them which allows them to take no rest themselves or permit any to others. Now, speaking as one member of the Cabinet I am glad it is so because he has brought to his position a special knowledge of the conditions of this country and a knack of getting around and making contacts, and the art of salesmanship invaluable if we are going to make this Province something more than merely a tenth province.

It is almost impossible to speak at a time like this without some reference to the high cost of living. It seems to be on everybody's lips and everybody is talking about it. The budget brought down within recent hours, reflects a rising cost. No man yet has been able to find a remedy or has been satisfied to apply a remedy, but there is a partial remedy, in the imposition of controls. But the imposition of controls presents many difficulties of which those who have had experience during the World War Two are only too cognizant, and they deem, and Mr. Gordon who is the controller, has put himself publicly on record as saying, that an excellent job had been done but at the end things were getting very thin when they didn't know if they could continue to function much longer. Some six weeks ago the United States imposed price control and in three days came out with a revision.

Incidentally there is some idea of the rising prices during the last few years which give evidence in one or two quotations of what we consider to be common essentials. For instance prices on rubber, wool, and tungsten advanced considerably. And these prices have been reflected on some of our regular commodities. One of the clearest illustrations I have seen to the high cost of living was given by Senator Paul Douglas, one of the presidential prospects: He put a glass of water on his desk and took three one dollar bills and laid them alongside it. Then, he said, in normal situations there is one unit and there is water. A dollar per unit. Now there are 3 units and the same quantity of water. That, I think, is a very good illustration of the soaring cost of living. The remedy is not easy to find, the greatest minds of the world have been attempting for a long, long period to apply some solution, some palliative but no one is able to overcome it, this great tremendous task.

There is a certain amount of remedy in our hands, in the hands of every consumer. The position in Newfoundland is made somewhat more difficult by our unbalanced economy. When we look at the ordinary trading picture of this Province, we find the ratio of our exports to the national economy is comparatively three times as great as that applying to the Federal Dominion, and if we look at the other side, our imports, the ratio of imports to our national economy is comparatively four times as great as that of the Dominion. Now there is one serious thing about that, that is our imports on paper are much greater than our exports are but when we consider it further it must be borne in mind it does not give a true record because in Newfoundland, as in any other province or country, there are many intangibles in imports and exports that do not appear in those figures at all. In Newfoundland we have records of hundreds of men going to the United States year after year, spending six or seven months and coming home with their wages in their pockets. That is an intangible not being statistically recorded, but a statistical prop in the balancing of our national economy.

I say the remedy today lies in our own hands. It is advice already given time and time again by people more experienced than myself. To produce more consumer goods and not buy unnecessary goods. When we are in the habit of buying things from day to day we find it difficult to carry that out, yet in provincial economy as a whole there is something to be said for this consumer spending.

However, at least in trying to bring down the high cost of living in this Province of ours in the successful issue of the freight rate dispute, we have gained for the economy of this country some three, four or five million dollars a year. But there are other things too which possibly we might consider. There are two things that can be done in this Province; speed up industrialization to create more industry, more employment, and secondly there is the increased consumption of local products. I understand the honourable member for St. John's West in his speech yesterday mentioned that our consumption of fish is about the highest on this side of the world. That is commendable and probably a very good reason for thinking we should consume these other things in which our consumption is much lower than it ought to be. I am speaking of local products particularly of agriculture. In poultry raising it is comparatively easy, even though a number of poultry farmers have given up, there seems no valid reason why two millions dozens of eggs were sent from Canada to Britain and last year another million dozen of them came here to Newfoundland. A million dozen of eggs does not seem to be a very important item but yet remember that for egg purchases at least some half million dollars went out of this Province which might very well have been kept in if more people were interested in the poultry business.

It is interesting to note that in addition to the industrial action as portrayed in the Speech from the Throne quite a bit of work is going on in other directions and from the Department of Natural Resources we noted last year some 90 thousand additional acres of ground is ready for cultivation. This year efforts are being made to improve the breed of sheep and although I do not think for a moment we will ever see the Southside Hills white with sheep, I do know of many areas where sheep could be maintained and made a profitable industry. For that matter it would go a long way if we were to rear in sufficient quantity for ourselves and yet we have large imports year by year. But in one particular field, that of peas and beans where every gardener knows it is quite simple to rear peas and beans, we have often done so. Yet it seems incredible that we import three and four million pounds a year, and people as a rule adopt the attitude it is all right to go into a store and buy a tin of beans yet hesitate about bottling the same for themselves, so once again, just by that kind of thing it is possible to decrease our imports by a great deal of money spent on those two articles. I am glad to note the Jubilee Guilds put on an activity during recent weeks to encourage people about local consumption, and I think they may be able to have a great measure of success in the immediate years because these things, small as they may seem, can play a vital part in stabilizing the economy of this Province.

If we look at things from another viewpoint, Mr. Speaker, and think about the occupational pursuits of our people we find that, roughly, we have a labour supply of one hundred thousand people. We have probably twelve thousand people engaged in the paper business and if we are fortunate enough to get a third mill this number will be augmented another five or six thousand. Our mining industry at the present time probably employs four to five thousand people. Then we have a large number of civil servants, people engaged in district trades and so on, so that our biggest problem is that of finding some greater compensation for those who occupy our biggest occupational risk, that is the fishermen themselves. The solving of the fishery problem is indeed complicated and I am not going to make any comment at the present time except this. In 1929 Cape Breton's fish markets dropped almost a third and the people were in despair, and as one writer said in a commentary on conditions at that time: "There they were, and a black robed priest walked among them and said to them, you can get your profits, men, if you have education, if you learn how to co-operate." That was the beginning of a miracle. That same enthusiast, Monsignor Cody spent two or three days with us last week and gave to the fishermen's convention one of the most inspiring addresses possibly ever heard. In his words, in co-operation is, I believe, hope for some remodeling and some reformation of the fisheries in this particular Province.

Industrial activities and actual progress are both dependent upon many factors, one of which is communications. The policy of this Government throughout its regime has been to encourage as far as finances permit, the construction of roads, not only of the Trans-Canada Highway but of secondary roads, making it possible for people within these areas to take advantage of marketing possibilities. Road construction in this Province of ours must continue to play an important role for many years to come. I think this is particularly true about the tourist possibilities as well as for the ordinary farmers and fishermen, people who have children attending these schools. Fourteen percent of the whole population attend those schools.

In three or four other letters dealing with salaries they are fairly and reasonably written but there is one respect which mars the whole picture presented by them. In discussing the salaries of licensed teachers every one omitted to mention that in addition to salary there is placed to the credit of each teacher each year $100 which can be used by them in further study or in a training school. It is quite true they are not able to cash it in but the $100 added to the salary is a most important factor to be borne in mind when looking at the salary picture. This is for the information of the House and I think it is extremely important. I think you should know that during the last fifteen years or from 1934 to 1935, the school enrollment in this country advanced some twenty odd percent, the number of classrooms went from fourteen hundred to twenty-four hundred and the number of teachers from seventeen hundred to approximately twenty-six hundred which gives you some idea of the difficulty we have in education thrust upon the resources of this country. Coming back to that $100 business it is interesting to recall that the very first effort made by a Government of Newfoundland to pay anything for teacher-in-training was in 1876 when by Statute of this House roughly $600 was voted by this Province. In 1951 we voted $145,000 for that very purpose. From a point of history too, it is perhaps interesting to recall that the basis of our education dates back to 1876 and there was no major change in that Act until 1949 when summary proposals were put forward and adopted, a change of system of payment in vogue for years. That was passed only after we had received previous sanction from religious authorities.

Now getting back to the honourable member for Fogo, the biggest factor in our entire educational system today is the one-room school. Out of some twelve hundred schools in this Province, eight hundred are one-room schools. Now I am not denying that contour barriers and denominational control may aggravate some of the difficulties but it is only an aggravation, the main trouble is the one-room school, and how are we going to place in them mature and experienced teachers and give to the children an equality of educational opportunities which they get in large centres. It is not a problem of this Province alone but occurs in others.

When it is recalled that last year some five million tourists visited Canada, and when it is recalled that in 1949, twenty million dollars came into Nova Scotia alone through tourist industry, I see no reason whatsoever, why, upon the completion of some of our most necessary roads and suitable accommodations that the national revenue of this Province of ours should not derive anywhere from one twentieth to one tenth of its total from the tourist industry. I believe it is capable of contributing to our economy four or five million dollars a year.

At the beginning I pointed out it was necessary for us before embarking upon industrial activities to secure a survey of things which we have in order that we might ask who would be interested in our industries. That conviction of ours was not ours alone, the Chairman of the Newfoundland Industrial Development Board in the 1947 annual report used these words :

"An urgent need for Newfoundland is competent and scientific survey of resources on which industry may be built. By survey I mean not only knowledge of things we have but just as important, the gathering of all facts every investor requires to know before deciding to lay out money." That opinion, Mr. Chairman, is the conviction of this Government and we are trying to make available for the best possible use the industrial resources of this Province. Before I sit down, Mr. Speaker, I want to refer somewhat briefly perhaps but objectively to education in this Province.

The honourable member for Fogo in his address expressed the opinion that denominational education was the greatest fault in our system. The Premier himself pointed out that our policy of education was governed largely by the Terms of Union of Canada.

On the subject of the question of denominational education I remain quiet except to point out, I think the honourable member is wrong and I will come back to it in a moment or two.

During the past three or four weeks several letters on educational matters appeared in the press, and with one or two I take exception. For to state that all amalgamated schools are Godless is, in my opinion, an insult to the intelligence of religious authorities who represent us and we have an Act 1944 which does that, and it is an insult to the Provinces all through Canada and in the United States and England and Australia. Objectively, I want to deal with two ways they have tried to overcome this problem elsewhere. First of all by correspondence courses. Now we have a full correspondence division in the Department of Education, we have had it for years, in which we do help children in isolated areas by correspondence but in Alberta where the teacher situation is as acute as here, they are unable to get qualified teachers, they have placed in schools a supervisory teacher whose job is to teach lessons sent out directly from the Provincial Department of Education, worked out under the supervision of the school and then the lessons are transmitted back to the Department for correction and examination. Thus they are able to overcome some of the difficulties. This problem has been under discussion for years but it seems to us impracticable to expect that a teacher without high qualification and little or no training should have to teach the higher grades in these one-room schools.

Two: Possibly there seems to be a way out by using a correspondence course much more freely than was done before so that teachers may carry on work as teachers up to grade nine but the rest of the work with pupils in grade ten and eleven may be done by supervisory courses from the Department of Education.

The other way which has been used by some provinces is much more effective and is much more widely used where they have the same problem as we have, the one-room school. They have gone to work and selected an area and have gotten a central high school. The smaller schools still remain as they are but teachers in these schools are not allowed to take children above the grade of eight or nine. The other children, grade nine and over are taken to the larger areas and were given either dormitory accommodations, boarded throughout the term or what is more common still, a daily bus transportation takes children, all the children in the higher grades every morning, takes them to school, gives them lunch at a cafeteria and the buses take them back in the evening. That method has proved most successful and more and more places in the Provinces are availing themselves of the regional school idea. In order to carry out the latter of these two methods, the idea of regional schools in Newfoundland would, I am afraid, take much more money than we find it possible to find at the present time.

The implementation of the school services already in existence call for a tremendous increase in expenditure, and if we are to give to our people the equality of educational opportunities, it requires a much greater outlay than anything we have been capable of up to the present time. We are not alone in that either, most of the Provinces, with two exceptions, are finding they are unable, with ordinary current expenditure, to find the answer to all their undertakings. As a matter of fact, some are generally depending on bond issues of 20 years, and only a short time ago the Legislatures extended that term to 40 years because of the need for more financial assistance. There has been a clamour throughout the years for Federal aid to assist in the building of schools and to carry out the ordinary routine work and for the extension of education throughout the Provinces. At the Dominion Provincial Conference held last Fall, in a brief presented to the Federal Government by Premier Douglas Campbell of Manitoba, we find these words:

"Federal grants could be made to the Provinces on the understanding that they will be used by the provinces in support of a specific but fairly broadly defined type of service. For example: grants might be made for education or for health services.

"In our view education is a subject which has now assumed such major importance that it should be dealt with in accordance with one of these three methods. Education is a subject which is of fundamental national concern because it far transcends the interest of any local community that the utmost use should be made of all our human resources; and that no child should be penalized as to the education which is available to him merely because he happens to live in one part of Canada rather than another.

"We therefore strongly advocate that the Federal Government should accept responsibility for a substantial part of the cost of education."

There are many of us who know some of the works of the Educational Department in this Province, and some of the difficulties with which they have to contend, and the heavy expenditure involved if we want to get a better system of education, who echo these words. Mind you, in the House of Commons, during the last three years, it is extremely striking to note the changing attitude towards Federal aid for education. In 1949, Mr. R. R. Knight, member for Saskatoon, tabled a resolution calling for Federal aid to education. Three members spoke on it and the motion died a natural death: In 1950, Mr.

Knight tabled the same resolution, seventeen members joined in the debate but were talked down: In February of this year, Mr. Knight again tabled the same resolution, forty-one members joined in the debate including the Prime Minister himself. The vote was defeated, although this time, forty-five voted in favour and one hundred and twelve against. Nevertheless the change in these three years gives evidence of a change of thought right across the Provinces as to the importance of education and the desire of the Provinces to give the people educational services which are theirs by right.

In the Speech from the Throne reference was made to vocational education, and we are hoping that we may be able in the shortest possible time to have a building at our disposal, which will offer at least a beginning to students in St. John's, and those we select and bring in from the outside and give a chance to supplement their education. I use that word supplement advisedly because I agree with the Minister of Public Welfare that there is this danger in vocational education. After all, as an American writer pointed out some years ago, the case should not be based on a suggestion that the student is not good academic material but rather has an additional aptitude for technical and manual skills. The fact remains that he needs a thorough grounding in what we call academic education. We have evidence of that day after day in our school on the Southside. Evidence of pupils who want to prepare for a navigational course and have not the necessary mathematics that they may be able to study thoroughly and properly the course laid down in order to get a captain's ticket. It is the same in other walks of life, in training for diesel engineering and motor mechanics—there is a certain amount of mathematics which they must have.

The Vocational Training is merely a supplement to round out the education, to give to the boy or girl privileged to take it, whether a course in mechanics or economics, a chance to give to his duty the very best of which he is capable, because he is being trained to do that very thing by academic and vocational school combined.

To sum up what I have been trying to say in a few words: The future of this country depends upon two things: industrialization providing ways and means whereby it is possible to raise the standard of living among our people, so that they are not subject as hitherto, to the cross currents of supply and demand, making them self-sufficient. There are certain things within our own reach we can do in order to become a little bit more independent. Secondly, I believe that no matter how much industrialization we have there is still something else to be done and that is: I would like to see the Fishermen's Convention, held last week, try to organize themselves into a strong unit because the two things go hand in hand.

That is the policy of this Government—to try and make industries and to make people think a little more of themselves, and by so doing and with true cooperation, there is hope that this Province of ours may not be merely the tenth Province but the land to which we are proud to be long.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): Mr. Speaker, the old order changes yielding place to the new. But the Government side always welcomes the new so—Ring out the old, ring in the new, but I am afraid things are not going to be the same. At last notice has been served and I hear no notes may be taken and it is out of order to make a joke and a smile would be contempt of the House. It would be a terrible thing if the Sergeant-at-Arms were to draw his sword because of a smile or a raising of an eye-brow. No longer now can we convey our feeling by frown or wink. All gone. The old days are gone forever. I am very glad, the honourable Minister told us on the other side, in his few short remarks, the old is not met with respect. He, like all the rest, likes the new, and let him have it.

Now there have been many expressions and resolutions of loyalty in the picture. They might just as well go ahead and pass resolutions in order to show people all is fine weather when the Government gets together but to me it is reminiscent of other times, times of boxing days and one man is introduced as Honest John and Honest Bill and he challenges anyone to deny his honesty. There is always a great doubt, we think, when we hear this harping on loyalty and honesty.

And my old friend, the Minister of Provincial Affairs is happy. Probably, he says, he will be with the Premier until he fails, and probably he will be. But we were surprised to know he is going to fall some time. The time is indefinite. He does not say five years time he will fall, but—until he falls. It is indefinite. Later he say: I am prepared to go down with the Premier. You will notice the preparations are made already. He is prepared. Then he often gets conscience stricken. Men of that age have a conscience, we younger men don't think much of these things. He does not say—will not—but doubtlessly to ease his conscience he adds—I do not think the Premier will go down. He will be with the Premier when he falls, the Premier has already prophesied that he will be in power for twenty-five years, but at the end of that twenty-five years, the honourable Minister will have shuffled off his mortal coil. One can't expect him to live out 102 or 103 years.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): I did not know you were a prophet until now.

MR. HIGGINS: Well, I will be a prophet again. I might not have the happy knack of you or the Premier, but I am going to prophesy and for that I will borrow from the famous lines: "Tis my sense of proposition gives me common sense and Liberal failure casts shadows before."

MR. SMALLWOOD: We realize that, we on this side of the House can see the shadows over here.

MR. HIGGINS: Maybe the men of the past on the walls are casting shadows over here to us saying you are going to fall eventually, Sir. You can't see those shadows but we can over here.

MR. SPRATT: Why not say—Coming events cast their shadows before—

MR. HIGGINS: No—that would be too commonplace.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The only shadows you feel are those of the cold shades of the opposition.

MR. HIGGINS: Now let me say at the outset; my old friend, the one-time Minister of Natural Resources is no longer on your side of the House. I know I used to like that long face when he put his chin on the desk there and when some member got up to say something, I would get a wink from him, but I could not hear the words the Saucy Member would whisper in his ear. I think I can speak for all my colleagues here when I say we were glad when he got up to speak. He had fluent delivery and always spoke with sincerity and common sense, and constructively. Above all he had a very great sense of humour. He made particular effort always to help the farmer. We were sorry because he could help the farmer better as a Cabinet Minister than as an Independent. But one thing I confirm he is a man of great virtue, of sincerity and integrity.

Now, the Premier made a bitter attack on a reporter here, because he was supposed to have said that Mr. Russell is the right hand man of the Premier. He spoke so bitterly and at such length that I came to the conclusion that he was. The more he spoke and ranted, the more I came to that conclusion.

MR. RUSSELL: That phrase embarrassed me more than it did the Premier.

MR. SMALLWOOD: There was never a thing more untrue.

MR. HIGGINS: I am very sorry I passed the remarks then about my learned friend, about the member for Bonavista South. I am sorry I have repeated that, in view of the fact that he does not want to be called the right hand man. I wonder, he must be a very important man for the Premier to spend so much time talking about him. His opinions must be valuable and he must be afraid people might listen to him too much. The Premier called him an intellectual anarchist and gave the impression he was carrying a bomb. An anarchist is one who comes with bombs and some intellectuals started throwing bombs and landed in Siberia. The Premier called him trouble-minded, unfit for a Cabinet; referred to him as muddle-headed. But that word should never have been used, as I know from being in this House. He called him strong-minded, independent. Then I say if such characteristics are unfit for a man in the Cabinet, I say God help the Cabinet. Mr. Russell —

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, to a point of order, my honourable and learned friend knows by now, just as well as I do, the members of this House are not to be mentioned by name. Surely he has enough respect for the rules of the House to carry them out.

MR. HIGGINS: I wonder if you would mind bringing me to order any time I am out of order. It is your prerogative.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Any member of this House has a right to arise to a point of order. I have done so. The honourable member is not supposed to refer to any member of the House by name. No honourable member is supposed to do that and he knows it as well as I do.

MR. FAHEY: I sat here during the last three sessions and I challenge any member here that he has not at some time referred to Mr. so-and-so rather than honourable member and the Premier more often than anybody else.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Not once, the Premier did not. He knows the rules too well.

MR. SPEAKER: Even if the Premier had, it is still out of order. The use of a member's name is a privilege reserved to Mr. Speaker, which I hope I will never have to use. Members will refer to Ministers by Portfolio.

MR. RUSSELL: Can't they agree any better than that, Mr. Speaker.

MR. HIGGINS: I will, Mr. Speaker, and I thank you if you would draw my attention to the fact that I am breaking a rule. I would sooner have your magnanimous, charitable, reminder.

MR. SPEAKER: It is in order for any member to rise to a point of order.

MR. HIGGINS: To come back to my colleague, the honourable member of Natural Resources, he is a man who always seems to take things very seriously and seemed to be worried over findings of the condition of his country. Now the Premier told us that he had a dual personality, and I am not going to say Jekeyll and Hyde, he did not go so far as that, but when he is persuading Ottawa he paints one picture and for financiers and bankers he at the same time paints rosey, colourful pictures of this country and many believe what he is saying. When he says Newfoundland is a fine thriving country in a good financial position with a rosy future lying ahead, is he still just playing a game with us as he does when he appears before the Government of Canada. Is he playing a game when he talks that way?

Now we have come back to the House, gotten down to duty after a long week in which fishermen sat and formed a union. A wonderful week for some of us. The men of the Government party tried to make hay while the sun shone, made out of the meeting a wonderful occasion of political propaganda.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable gentleman will retract that statement. It is unwarranted. It is a lie. A lie is a statement made for the deliberate purpose of deceiving. It is a lie and I fire that statement back in the gentleman's face. He lied, which means he is a liar.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker—

MR. SMALLWOOD: He is a liar, a cold calculating liar, anything for a bit of politics. He will withdraw that statement. Will my honourable friend withdraw his foul and rotten and lying statement. It is untrue. He was asked to speak.

MR. HIGGINS: I was asked to speak, a joke—were my colleagues asked to speak—

MR. SPEAKER: Order—otherwise I shall leave the chair. What is the remark to which the honourable the Premier took exception?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I took exception to the remark made by the honourable and learned gentleman that the members of the Government went to this convention of the fishermen of Newfoundland and made political hay. A false statement, and furthermore, Mr. Speaker, the honourable and learned gentleman is not going to go on until he takes it back—He is not going on.

MR. HIGGINS: You are going to frighten us.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is not a matter of frightening. Don't let the honourable gentleman think he is going to get away with it. That is going to be taken back. Mr. Speaker, I ask that it be taken back.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable the Leader of the Opposition has made a comment to which the honourable the Premier has taken exception. I ask the honourable members to disregard anything else that has been said in the heat of debate and confine themselves to that one point only, as probably, in the heat of debate, the honourable the Leader of the Opposition may have allowed words to escape him, which may be interpreted to mean something obnoxious to the honourable members of the Government. I feel quite sure he will have no objections to withdrawing an obnoxious statement, or offer some explanation.

MR. HIGGINS: My, my, I was going on to say that none of the rest of our colleagues were asked to speak. The honourable member for Bonavista South was not asked to speak nor the member for White Bay. They were there and the member for—

MR. SMALLWOOD: To a point of order: I asked the honourable gentleman to retract that statement. I asked the honourable gentleman to retract.

MR. HIGGINS: I am not going to retract it.

MR. SPEAKER: I have already pointed out to the honourable the Leader of the Opposition that he will be willing to explain or retract the statement and the House is to take no cognizance of what was said afterwards in the heat of debate. As for certain members being asked to speak or not, that has nothing whatever to do with the question, for that matter, I was not asked myself.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, do you ask me to withdraw the words.

MR. SPEAKER: I would order you to withdraw the words or re-state them.

MR. HIGGINS: If you ask me to withdraw them?

MR. SPEAKER: I do.

MR. HIGGINS: In that case I withdraw them, Sir.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Then, to a point of privilege, I have pleasure in withdrawing the statement I made about the honourable gentleman. I withdraw it unreservedly.

MR. SPEAKER: Are both the honourable members satisfied?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I am satisfied.

MR. HIGGINS: I am satisfied, Mr. Speaker, I don't want to be called a liar, Sir.

MR. FAHEY: I presume Mr. Speaker, the House is satisfied.

MR. HIGGINS: The fishermen were allocated 20 thousand dollars by the Government to form a union.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable gentleman is quite wrong, the fishermen were not allocated one cent. The speech merely said; the House would be asked to vote the expenses of the Convention.

MR. HIGGINS: Alright then, it is as the Premier just said, I don't care. But how about the five hundred thousand dollars of a fund belonging to the fishermen. I remember the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives last year, in that Bill, getting up and making a speech—it was something wonderful I thought, and I believed it, got up like a boob and asked about it. I did not know what it was about, and I found it was this five hundred thousand dollars to be allocated for death and accidents of fishermen. He also mentioned something about a conscience; a Bill with a conscience and this was one, I should think, giving back to the fishermen what belonged to themselves. What about that five hundred thousand dollars? Why not give that to the fishermen, that is their money.

Now following the convention, I must pay tribute to the proposer and second of the motion, the members for Labrador and Fogo, they made wonderful speeches for the Government, could not speak better for the Government, everything the Government did was right, no trouble to them at all. And I must say, as far as defence of the Government goes, they were both very good speeches. The member for Trinity South referred to the fact that they made good Liberal speeches with a capital "L." He also made a good Liberal speech. There are not Liberals with a small "l" and the other members were wonderful on that too.

The member for Trinity South is eighteen months late now in supporting the police. If he is such a staunch supporter why did he not support the police at the time of the Act? I also like our police system, think it was wonderful. They have rendered more mercy than justice, no man committing his first offence was dragged off to jail. I am very sorry our old police system is gone, and I say our old way of living went with them. I feel that if we had some support at the time the Bill was brought down we may have fought that and saved the finest institution in this country, the police.

MR. MARINSON: It is only eight or ten years old.

MR. HIGGINS: You have been out of the country too long. That is the Ranger Force you are talking about. The police force has been wiped out in the outports, it is only left in St. John's. I admire the Mounted Police, they are a great institution, but the police force of this country was founded in 1871 by Timothy Mitchell. Among his successors we had McGowan, Carty and Sullivan and others, all good men. No, we were not afraid of our policemen at all, if anything happened—go over and tell the police. They are afraid of the Mounties. I know one district where they were told if you do not do this and that, the Mounties will do this and that.

MR. SPEAKER: Let me interrupt the honourable member. I want to inform the visitors, they are to make no comment whatsoever, no matter what happens. They are not to make exclamations of approval or disapproval, otherwise I will be forced to clear the Gallery.

MR. HIGGINS: The time is coming when the Sergeant may have to raise his arm.

MR. SPEAKER: I was only trying to get a clear floor for you.

MR. HIGGINS: The member for Trinity South stated that the school children should come here once a week. Have a regular Roman holiday for themselves. That would be a real Government day and there would be a regular dress parade for those on the other side. The children would come and listen and go back to Daddy and say what a wonderful crowd the Liberals are. You will take care, Daddy will know that. And he will say, what about the men on the other side. Seven men over on this side, five Progressive Conservatives and two Independents, said nothing but just sat and listened. Had no chance to talk at all, the other side did all the talking.

Now yesterday, Mr. Vardy, the honourable member for St. John's West, made a very fine speech, particularly the section on export facts. The speech was very well delivered. On the subject of eating fish, he gave a clipping from a paper showing how little fish is eaten in the United States and Canada, and this clipping he said, exploded the theory that fish eating produced brains. Now, Mr. Speaker, that is alright but it is always possible to find another clipping and my heart rose greatly when I found this other clipping called "Cod and Dulse" in Nova Scotia :

"London Free Press : Nova Scotia has rightly plumed itself on the historic fact that its greatest export has been brains. The record proves it. Now we learn from Government records tabled in the House of Commons that Nova Scotians eat more fish than any other Canadians. Second are the British Columbians.

It is fish on which the brainiest people in Canada feed—fish which live on plankton, and the sea weeds and dulse, and fortify themselves with essential liver fats, and have their being within the element which scientists tell us is the source of all life;

Not only brains but brawn, and vigor, and durability seem to emerge from those raised on sea food so that even when they move to the effect inland provinces the original force remains with them. Perhaps we should include cod and mackerel and halibut and dulse in our diet."

That is the very opposite, Sir, just shows that any argument can be actually reduced and broken down. Sir, I am not a fish eater myself but I don't like to admit I have no brains at all.

It is not out of place to tell a decent story I suppose? In court one time, back in the days of Mansfield, there was a case, and the first witness called was John Elm. At the end of John Elm's evidence given in a clear voice he gave his age as 90 years of age and the judge said: "I suppose you take a drink?" "No, Sir, never in my life." "Go to bed late?" "No, Sir, always before dark." "Oh," said Mansfield, "early to bed and sobriety is conducive to longevity of life."

The next witness followed, his brother Donald, 92 years of age, and gave evidence in the clearest way. The judge also asked him: "Take a drink?" "Never sober in my life, Sir." "Go to bed early?" "Never before dawn, Sir." So Mansfield said, just shows heavy drinking and going to bed late is conducive to longevity of life. No, said the council, just shows Elm is tough wood, whether wet or dry.

So I say, fish is good whether salt or fresh, good for eating and good for those who don't eat it because the more fish eaten the better it is for the country.

Now the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland made a very bitter attack on Mr. W. J. Browne, called him a hypocrite. Mr. Browne is quite capable of looking after himself, but all I know is that he is a very honest, decent man, a religious man, that he should be called a hypocrite because he is religious is too bad. Then the honourable member attacked Mr. Drew, called him streamlined and said he wore corsets. Cheap talk. Mr. Drew went from the ranks to Lieutenant Colonel in the first world war and as a result has a badly shattered arm. No man of that type is streamlined or wears corsets. It is cheap to hit at an old soldier. But I don't know what the honourable member for Ferryland meant, I would like him to be here to answer that question, when he made remarks about being kicked out by the Progressive Conservative Party, I don't know anything about that. I was not a member of the party at the time, I was, like himself, expecting a National Party.

Now there was a question about the American Aerated Building. I know it was worth the money possibly, a fine building, a fine concrete building and if it were put on the market maybe a bargain if somebody wanted it and no doubt the replacement value is true. But the Government, like Caesar's wife, must be above reproach and we have a lot of liberal supporters of the Government. The question remains, did the Government need it? I do not think they wanted a bottling plant, they may have wanted a warehouse, and I say a hundred dollars would build a fine big warehouse. It would have been very much better if the Government had spent a hundred thousand dollars on a warehouse. At the same time I say, undoubtedly that building is worth a lot of money.

Now Dr. Pottle made a fine—

MR. SMALLWOOD: For a gentleman, a lawyer all his life, and not able to learn one simple rule and carry it out.

MR. HIGGINS: I am here in the House only two years, and have been in court for 30 years. I apologize to Mr. Speaker.

Now, Dr. Pottle.

Well, one time, first when I was in court I kept saying to the judge "yes My Lord," and the judge said "don't say My Lord to me, say Your Honour." And I said "pardon me My Lord." I was just as unfortunate now in that remark.

Now the honourable the Minister of Public Affairs—The honourable the Minister for Public Welfare—all right, I don't know what the honourable Ministers do, I only meet them for a short time each year, I can't remember.

As I said, the honourable Minister for Public Welfare made a very fine speech, very interesting, and in very fine language, though there were a few things I could not follow which may have been my own fault. I was going to rise up at one time to uphold the dignity of the House but his eyes were on the gallery, not you, Mr. Speaker. I don't know what he means by peaceful revolution. What does he mean by peaceful revolution?

It may be our fish forbears. One section of my family came out in 1797, Sir, my family started from that time.

The great English Divine, Rev. Sydney Smith, one time when he was at a dinner and a young chap was boasting about his ancestors, said: "Don't go talking about ancestors, my grandfather disappeared after the national trials of 1779 and we never enquired the reason why." So I suppose my people started in 1797 and I could not tell the reason why.

He said he liked the old St. John's better than the new St. John's, but I believe he preferred the new. I give him the benefit of the doubt. He talked about our rugged individuality, I concluded he was the one man on the other side true to the days of old, the old way of life, because he liked them, liked the boastfulness and rugged personality, virtues akin to independent people.

Now he talks of the welfare state in most glowing language. No one doubts it, but as I said before, the welfare state goes so far then becomes a restriction when it interferes with the private freedom of people as it did in Australia where the people feared it would become a servile state, and they rose against it. Now I don't think there is a welfare state in this country, I admit it is not big enough. The honourable Minister was in the Commission Government when they accumulated all that $40 million. They should have raised the benefits and given better old age pensions. But I understand that in the days of commission it was quite good, people got blankets and everything else.

There was lots of welfare work in this country, orphanages were kept up by private subscriptions, private in the sense they were not Government. The clergymen did wonderful work, men with small salaries raised up large sums for the people's service, large numbers of charitable organizations, we had all that, and it was private in the sense that it was not Government. Now there are other more important things than the providing of family allowances, most of all work, Sir, to carry on, work for the people, that is important. Now regarding the history of family allowances. The Liberal Government can not take praise in that respect, the system came before we joined Canada. MacKenzie King did not have any high motive for it, he did it as a subterfuge. It is common knowledge he did it for no lofty reason at all. It was different in Australia and for the people of Belgium. There it was no doubt not for war time but for the logical purpose of helping people with children. They decided that of two men working side by side and paid the same salary, one man having five children and the other single, some way must be found to help the married man out, the company must not be expected to do it, so the Government must help him. In ancient Rome a mother with three children or more always received an allowance.

He got bitter about it last year, the honourable Minister for Public Welfare spoke about it.

Now we come to the other words: The words rubber stamps. Now I don't know what the members of the Government think. The mind of man is not triable.

MR. SMALLWOOD: You just tried the honourable Minister of Public Welfare a few minutes ago.

MR. HIGGINS: I can judge by action. I judge him just as I judge you, by his actions. The Premier did not agree with the honourable member for Fogo's remarks about denominational education but talked about the freedom of speech. Did he give the freedom of speech to the honourable member for White Bay? Apparently when anyone says anything against him he is up in arms.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If one of your colleagues attacked his party in public, would you like that?

MR. HIGGINS: He did not attack the party, he came out just on White Bay. He only said the people of White Bay were not being treated properly and rightly and he is the member for White Bay. You are all slaves, not rubber stamps. Last year we saw the Prime Minister pass a note to a gentleman speaking and the gentleman sat down and eventually voted against his convictions. When the Certified Accountants' Bill was brought in, the Premier got up and said this has to go through.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable gentleman is wrong, completely, entirely, unfortunately wrong. There is not even a syllable of truth in the statement.

MR. HIGGINS: All right, I put it this way, he got up and made a speech in his own democratic way, said he would like to have the support of the party, made a pretty strong speech in favour.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I think it is very wrong for the honourable member to attempt to quote from a speech made a year ago. My recollection is that the honourable gentleman made a speech himself last year, but I can't remember one word he said.

MR. HIGGINS: I can remember, and I can remember the Attorney General getting up right after and going against what the Premier said and then the Premier getting up and making a very clever and caustic speech, and he said this Bill must go through.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I ask that my honourable friend retract that statement that I got up and said this Bill must go through.

MR. HIGGINS: I will retract that he said it, but I am saying he implied it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable gentleman is entirely wrong again. He can't remember this and that and now he can't remember what the Bill was about. It was not the Certified Accountants Act. The Certified Accountants Act was not a party measure, therefore, I could not say it had to go through.

MR. HIGGINS: All right I withdraw that, but you practically told the Party it had to go through.

MR. SPEAKER: Order.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If he had said that I said that, in connection with a certain Act, but this Bill was not a party measure. He is confused, he is mixed up. It was the Garage Closing Act.

MR. HIGGINS: When the honourable the Premier gets up and makes a speech of that kind it is nothing more than an intimidation to his party. I remember quite well, I remember the vehemence of it, everything about it.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable members, I think there is some bickering about the subject of the Bill. The honourable Leader of the Opposition said the Premier made a speech to a Bill, and said the honourable the Attorney General spoke on it.

I may point out that if the honourable the Leader of the Opposition wishes to criticize the Government he has a perfect right to do so. The term "rubber stamp" has been permitted here, but I would like to inform honourable members that that very expression, the term "Rubber Stamp" has been ruled out of order in the House of Commons in Ottawa.

MR. HIGGINS: I rise to a point of order: I am talking about the Public Accountants' Bill.

MR. JANES: The honourable the Leader of the Opposition is absolutely wrong in his contention. I think it was myself and the honourable member for Green Bay and the member for Fortune and Hermitage who brought in the motion, and the member for Trinity South voted against that Bill. As a matter of fact, when the vote was cast there was only a margin of eight to ten. You have not got ten over there. Where did they come from?

MR. SPEAKER: The Honourable member will have to apologize to the House.

MR. JANES: I apologize. I would still like to know where they came from.

MR. HIGGINS: I will tell you who spoke, the Prime Minister, the Attorney General, the honourable Minister of Supply and Mr. Russell all spoke, I can tell you the whole thing. The other, the garage Bill, the honourable Premier said: This is a party measure. It was not brought in as a party measure, they had to get the opinion of the House on it. Some of the members on the other side spoke against it, while one member was speaking the Prime Minister said it was a party measure and the member sat down and later voted for it. No, Mr. Speaker, I am as sure of this as I am that two and two make four.

MR. SPEAKER: Before this thing goes any further, I will remind the members of this rule: It is not competent to refer, to make any reference to Bills passed in previous sessions, unless the honourable member makes a motion that it be repealed.

MR. SPRATT: To a point of order: I would like to remind the honourable member that the members on this side of the House have not been accustomed to dictatorship and I say members of the Government indignantly resent that suggestion. As a member of the Cabinet I know that we express our views on anything brought before it before it is brought in here, as a Government measure it must naturally be approved and every Cabinet member submits his opinion at Cabinet meetings. I think it is a direct insult and I speak for myself and every one of my colleagues. It is an insult to me and to them to call anyone a rubber stamp. I have never been a rubber stamp for anyone in my life as anyone who knows me as Jimmie Spratt (I suppose it is all right to use my own name) in this City of St. John's knows. I never took a back seat for anyone for fire or tongue. I can stand on my own feet and am a rubber stamp for nobody.

MR. SPEAKER: The point is already ruled out.

MR. HIGGINS: Talking about attacking people, I heard the Premier attack a reporter here in this House in the strongest language and I am told he did nothing that he was accused of. I heard an attack on a well-known man here, a gentleman in Corner Brook, and I think it was without foundation. A well known architect, A. J. C. Payne, a man famous all over Canada and in the United States, a man presented with the gold medal in the Province of Quebec, for work he had done there and saved money for this country.

A Newfoundlander—who went away and did well. I have heard him mentioned in many places on the mainland, a fine citizen and a wonderful architect with a fine reputation and I am told he did very good work here in connection with the Corner Brook Hospital.

MR. SMALLWOOD: He did indeed—the hospital in Corner Brook, which according to answers tabled here today, is costing thousands to undo his work right now.

MR. HIGGINS: Give the man a chance to answer. Say it outside and give him a chance to answer. It is funny he should come down here and do that while on the Mainland he has the highest reputation.

I won't be finished for another hour, shall I go on or move an adjournment until tomorrow, Mr. Speaker, I will go ahead if you like.

MR. SPEAKER: Continue.

MR. HIGGINS: To some of the questions, Mr. Speaker, we have asked, we have received a reply, to others we have received the reply that it was not in the public interest to give that answer. Now such an answer may be given in time of emergency or on some very important issue when it is not right that matter should be made public, but to say that information about a cement mill and a gypsum factory must be secret, in my estimation, is farcical and the Government is making a mockery of parliamentary rule. The Government decided to build a cement factory for three and a half million dollars, with no parliamentary sanction. There is no emergency, it is not sanctioned by the House of Assembly. The Government got over that, I claim, illegally. The House is not opened, the House is not informed, the public is not told about it. Now when all the money is spent and the mill is finished, the public will be told about the whole program, and then told too late to make any objections. Now the House should know all about these ventures before the money is taken and spent, the money should be voted by the House of Assembly before these projects start and not arranged in the secrecy of the Cabinet, with the public not knowing one word about it. Yes, I am saying this was done wrongfully. Now it is time these things were change and the public should be informed what projects are in view and what money is to be spent by the Government. When the Government comes in here and asks for a certain amount and overspends by three or four million dollars, I tell you they are making a farce of us and a farce of the system.

Now take for instance the cement factory. Three weeks ago the Canadian Cement Company held a meeting in Montreal.

MR. SMALLWOOD: They are now planning to import cement from Britain.

MR. HIGGINS: I don't know what they are doing but what is their report?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I can tell the honourable gentleman that the Company is now planning to import cement because all the cement mills put together can't meet the demand for cement for years to come. And I can tell the honourable gentleman, Canada Cement tried to buy our mill, approached me and asked if the Government would sell them our mill and I said, No.

MR. HIGGINS: I know there was a cement mill built in Ontario and they went down there and bought it out and did not operate it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: They haven't got enough money to buy ours.

MR. HIGGINS: If it turns out all right that is fine, but one good result may bring about a number of bad speculations.

Returning to the Order in Council, let us get the record straight. The Government signed a contract without legislative authority and the Prime Minister puts the burden on us every time to support those contracts he made telling us he can not carry out his commitments unless the House passes the money. Now, Sir, that is putting the horse before the cart. If he wants to have money, let the House know all the facts and pass on the money, not come in here and say: I have made a contract for three million dollars for a cement mill.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I did not say I, the Government is not I.

MR. HIGGINS: He very often says the word "I" Sir—I this and I that. He said one time here—I am the Government.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I did not.

MR. HIGGINS: You turned on us one time and you said that. Now you say you must get the cement factory finished and I want you to pass on the money. You must give me the money to pay for a special warrant. I want you to pass it and hand it over to me. Say nothing but give me this money for the machinery is held up and the cement factory is held up and the country—Now gentlemen that is making a farce of parliamentary government, when the General Assembly is told it has to hand over the money for those projects and not be told anything about it but that they have to pass it. I am afraid this House of Assembly will be of no consequence if the Government holds that this House of Assembly here is just for the sole purpose of passing money for projects that the Cabinet decides on. I don't see the necessity for this House at all, Sir. What is the good of estimates. What is the good to bring them in when the government undertake vast projects which overpower everything. What is the good of passing estimates if the Government takes carte blanche for doing anything they wish? What is the Audit Act for but to stop this very thing? The Government is allowed to spend certain amounts of money for the completion of a project started and passed on or authority for repair to some building but it certainly was not intended for the purpose of giving the Government a chance to involving an amount of 30%, 40% or even 50% of the estimates.

Now the Premier told us he is fair in his treatment of political opponents. They are treated just like friends. Now I say that is not my experience. I say that today for a man to get a job he needs a letter from the Government. I have given people notes for work on ventures government run or semi-government run without success.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Well, I have given notes myself and not gotten jobs.

MR. HIGGINS: What is happening with work on birch and mental asylum factories?

MR. CURTIS: You say the Mental Asylum Factory, are we producing mental patients?

MR. HIGGINS: I sent a chap in there with a note and one man told him, you go down to see the Premier, we had notes from him and we got jobs today.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will answer that, my honourable friend will be interested to know this. Out of a possible 250 men taken on, I was able to get jobs for five men and they were from my own district. Four were laid off and had to go back to their homes. I have one man from my district on the mill in there.

DR. POTTLE: I haven't any.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Probably my honourable friend has more men and the member for Harbour Main more men than all the rest of us put together.

MR. FAHEY: Why shouldn't I, it is in the Harbour Main District?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I don't say you should not, but the point is we are not ramming them down the contractor's throat.

MR. FAHEY: Do men from Harbour Main and Conception Bay go to other districts for work.

MR. HIGGINS: I can tell you every one of them had a note from the Premier.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Five men.

MR. HIGGINS: Well, it is very strange it should happen that day, and they went the next day and were told the Premier's men had to be taken care of. And I have an affidavit—

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend can tell the public I got jobs for five men, no more, no less. Four were laid off and had to go home.

MR. HIGGINS: I tell you this, the following day they came back to me and said that to be accepted for a job in there one had to have a note from the Premier, as the company was told they had to look after the Premier's letters.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I wish I could hear that I could get a job for men in my district.

DR. POTTLE: My remark had to do with the mental hospital.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will say this for the record, I did not get one job on the mental hospital.

MR. HIGGINS: Who gets the work then? The building is built out of public funds.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The contractor engages his men. I can't get a job for a man in there.

MR. HIGGINS: I give up now.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have given up too, I am fed up with it.

MR. HIGGINS: If public money is spent this way there should be some enquiry about why men can't get jobs.

MR. SPRATT: I don't think there is any discrimination. If a man comes to me I do not ask him what he was or who. If he wanted work I should give it to him. That is the policy I have pursued all along. If a man wants a job he engages the sympathy of any right thinking men.

MR. HIGGINS: I wonder if there is anybody working at those factories.

MR. FAHEY: Only about ten men from Harbour Main.

MR. HIGGINS: Where do they come from? I don't know one from my district.

MR. JANES: There are two from Fogo.

MR. SPRATT: I think there are fifteen or sixteen up from Petty Harbour.

MR. HIGGINS: One thing, I caused an uproar. Members are not reading their newspapers now, they are paying attention.

Now, denominational education was attacked by the member for Fogo. Now building up education in this country was done by experience. Some people condemn the denominational school system without going into the matter at all, attacking it without knowing anything of the subject. And there are many, I would think, who believe that once this system of denominational education was done away with and all would attend one school, children would be very much better educated and we would save money.

Now let us see what the situation is:

On the whole the population of the country is divided up into Roman Catholic, Church of England and United Church. In places you will find a certain number of Roman Catholics and Church of England, for example, attending the same school. The honourable member for Hermitage told us there are only 15% of the places in this country which have two schools and in most cases where there are two schools it is because of geographical features of the settlement rather than denominational division. There are a few cases where there are not enough children of one denomination to have one school so the school is amalgamated. The Minister of Education said there were eight hundred one-room schools. There are seven or eight amalgamated schools outside of Corner Brook and Grand Falls.

MR. HEFFERTON: Roughly about twenty.

MR. HIGGINS: Out of twelve hundred schools, eight hundred are one-room schools. Prince Edward Island is full of one-room schools and the Dominion as a whole is talking about one-room schools.

MR. JANES: How many in one community, that is the point. How many schools altogether, no matter how many rooms?

MR. HIGGINS: So there are twelve hundred schools and eight hundred one-rooms out of twelve hundred, two-thirds of them one-room schools. I don't see anything wrong with that.

Now, what these people forget is that this denominational system saves the country thousands of dollars every year in building as well as in running expenses. It is not so when the government runs them; things are always a bit higher when the government runs them. There is great value being received for money spent on education. We have schools here the Government never could have afforded to build or run, and if the Government takes over these colleges or finds it necessary to start rebuilding, you must realize the education of this country costs millions of dollars of capital and millions of dollars a year. Take in the City of St. John's, there are very fine schools here built by the untiring zeal and industry of clergymen who spent a lot of time getting money together to build them and I will say again that the schools and colleges we have in this City are really fine schools, and on the Mainland, as the Minister of Education can point out, they think very highly of the standard of education in the city of St. John's from St. Bon's, Bishop Feild and Memorial Colleges.

Now I don't deny that in the smaller schools in certain places it is not so good. But it is the same on the Mainland and in the United States. In the last war when taking the educational qualifications as routine army information, an enormous amount of illiteracy was found among the troops.

Considering how efficiently well run this system is in comparison to other countries, I can't see how anyone can make an attack on that system.

MR. SMALLWOOD: You left out the most important angle that due to our population distribution by denominations, the actual amount of overlapping is insignificant. We have settlements and sections with Catholics, United Church and Church of England and the vast majority of the settlements are all one denomination, so there is no overlapping.

MR. HIGGINS: Very good, you use the very argument I used at first.

I will go on if you like, Mr. Speaker, but I really feel tired.

I move the adjournment until tomorrow, Mr. Speaker.

MR. HORWOOD: I second that motion.

MR. SPEAKER: Third reading of Bill "An Act relating to Local Governments."

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Third reading of Bill "An Act to Regulate the Development of Local Areas."

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Third reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Boiler and Pressure Vessel Act, 1949."

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Interpretation of Statutes."

Mr. Speaker left the Chair. Mr. Courage took the Chair of Committees.

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

MR. CURTIS: We are on, Mr. Chairman, Clause No. 7. I have re-drafted clause No. 7, and if the clerk will read the amendment?

Thereupon the amendment was read by the Clerk.

MR. CURTIS: I have checked up on (d) and there is no need to amend that. Now if the Committee will revert to clause No. 6: I suggest a slight amendment to section No. 6 which reads:

"Printed copies of Acts published in the Newfoundland Gazette or purporting to be printed by the King's Printer for Newfoundland are evidence of such Acts."

As you know it very frequently happens that various departments of the Government get copies of regulations printed and it might be desirable that these published regulations be admissible and therefore the point is—

In the appendix of the Act, I would suggest after Newfoundland be added: "or by any person appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council," only if printed by a printer who so publishes by the authority of the Lieutenant Governor in Council.

MR. HIGGINS: Only the original Act will be published.

MR. CURTIS: I am thinking of the outport where they have only a pamphlet and it will contain in it a copy of the Act.

MR. HIGGINS: But that is the original one filed with the clerk, that is the Act.

MR. CURTIS: Well as a matter of fact at any time we might get an Act printed and there might be two or three mistakes in the printing. That is possible even with the King's printer.

MR. HIGGINS: The King's Printer is the only one who prints the Acts.

MR. CURTIS: That is the point, I think I will make that amendment too. Instead of "Printed copies of the Act and Regulations—" put in the words: "Printed copies of the Act and Regulations or purported to be printed for the people of Newfoundland."

DR. POTTLE: Should you not say only printed copies.

MR. CURTIS: No because we still have in force the Act of 1919 which makes provisions for certain evidence being admissible.

My honourable friend probably remembers when prohibition cases were on in 1916 several failed because the Crown did not produce the proclamation. They had to do some racing up to the Attorney General and he had to produce it.

The object of the amendment is to produce satisfactory copies of the Act.

DR. POTTLE: Suppose there is a disparity between the original and the printed copies?

MR. CURTIS: In that case the Department would withdraw them.

DR. POTTLE: Suppose the regulation is printed by other printers.

MR. HIGGINS: That is the point I raised.

MR. CURTIS: This is copied from the original Act, that clause is in force for many years.

MR. HIGGINS: Suppose the first Act is printed and accepted by the House, then sometime later is reprinted incorrectly, can that be put in as evidence?

MR. CURTIS: Yes, but it could be contradicted. This is merely to facilitate matters, and if there is any suggestion that it is not accurate, a case could be held up while the accuracy of the printed copy is determined.

MR. HIGGINS: That is just as well.

MR. CURTIS: After the word "Act" in line one: Add: Printed copies of the Act, and Regulations made thereunder and published in the Newfoundland Gazette or purporting to be printed by the King's Printer for Newfoundland or any other person by leave of the Governor in Council are evidence of such Acts and regulations.

There is one other point which has come up during the debate: On page 15 of the Bill. "Victoria Day" we have discovered that it is designated by Canadian Statutes as "Victoria Day", but in Newfoundland, by our own Act, it is "Empire Day," which means it is both. Victoria Day stands and we should ask the Federal Government when repealing the next bunch of Acts to repeal our Empire Day Act and call it Victoria Day.

MR. HORWOOD: It must be referred to Empire Day somewhere in Canada as it is always referred to in public as Empire Day.

MR. CURTIS: Still by Statutes it is Victoria Day.

MR. HORWOOD: Well, can't we refer to it as both in this Act.

MR. CURTIS: Yes, amended to read Victoria and/or Empire Day.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill with some amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Distribution of Electricity in the Corner Brook Area."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

MR. HORWOOD: When it says: any street, road, highway and such things, does that include private roads?

MR. HIGGINS: No street or highway means a public highway. If I have a road through my property, I can call it a road or whatever I like but it is really private property.

MR. CURTIS: I would like to move an Amendment: After the words "Municipality" in Clause 6: Put in the words "now or hereafter" and two lines lower, take out "Not exceeding" and put in "of."

MR. FAHEY: What is Section 7 (3), could the Attorney General explain that to us?

MR. CURTIS: No I really cannot. I am afraid I will have to refer to the statutes.

MR. FAHEY: I must raise a point. Suppose the Telephone Company were given permission to erect a pole and it interfered with private enterprise, does this Act provide protection? I remember a case similar to that and would like to raise the question because of it.

MR. CURTIS: I think the board acts as referee between the two. It acts as arbitrator and sees that the rights of the individual are protected and that the work of the company is not held up. I think the effect is to have a permanent board.

MR. FAHEY: Suppose there is to be a line installed and there is a village nearby but the Company does not consider it worth while to run wires down there; could the people of that settlement make application to the Public Utility Board and have them make a decision as to whether or not power lines should be run down to that settlement? Then again there is an individual in that settlement and the poles interfered with his business, would that individual be protected? It is difficult to explain the point, for instance the pole may be in a street but shutting off his display.

MR. HIGGINS: I can give a better instance: where an individual has a private road, can they put a pole right there?

MR. SPRATT: They are not allowed to place a pole where it interferes with an individual or a business.

MR. FAHEY: The point raised is: where does the individual get protection?

MR. CURTIS: The point raised is a good one, and in view of the lateness of the hour, I move the committee rise until tomorrow, report progress and beg leave to sit again tomorrow.

On motion the remaining Orders of the Day were deferred.

It was moved and seconded that when the House rises it do adjourn until tomorrow Thursday at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

THURSDAY, April 12, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

None.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, the first session of this honourable House appointed a committee to consider the Rules of the House and recommend a new set of rules. That committee has met and largely with your help has drafted a new set of rules for the House. I ask leave to table these today and move that provision be made on some future Order Paper for these rules to be considered by a committee of the whole House.

On motion the order was referred to Committee of the Whole House.

MR. MILLER: May I ask if each member will be presented with a copy of these? I think, in fairness to the members they should have such copies before the committee sits as it would be unfair to ask the members to sit without proper study of the memorandum.

MR. SPEAKER: The point is well taken, and I think the honourable member will see that honourable members opposite will have a copy before it is brought up to Committee of the Whole. The House will take care that the Committee has all the time needed.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to file copies of the Report of Child Welfare for the year ending March 31, 1950 and the annual report of the St. John's Juvenile Court. I should like to draw attention to the fact that I have taken the liberty to have distributed copies of four pamphlets published by the Department of Public Welfare. (1) Facts and Foundations. (2) Which gives the point of view of the Department of Public Welfare which outlines the structure, organization and factual information about the operation of the Department. (3) Draws attention to one practical undertaking of the Department namely: Adoption of Children and

(4) The more generalized features of placing of foster children. These last to signalize the way the Department endeavours to get the co-operation of the community in this very worthwhile enterprise. These documentary reports of the Department's duties subscribed by Statutes and illustrate one branch of public service which Public Welfare tries to place a point of view and facts of public interest before the community which it serves.

MR. MILLER: I don't know if it is in order to make a comment on this report or not.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think the law requires that these reports be merely tabled and any questions arising out of them come by way of the Budget or else by motion.

MR. SPEAKER: I think it is hardly competent at this time, since the honourable member has had no opportunity to study the report. If the honourable member would reserve comments unto future date.

MR. MILLER: That is quite all right.

Notice of Motion and Questions

MR. FOGWILL: In reference to question No. 68 tabled in this House March 28th, relative to revenue received on surplus account and expenditure of surplus account, it was my understanding yesterday that the Minister of Finance undertook to answer when he brought down the Budget specifically, and undertook to answer question 86 relative to expenditure and revenues in both surplus and current accounts and current expenditure and revenue for the month of March 1951. I understood he undertook to do this, I just want assurance that he undertook to answer No. 68 and No. 86.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): In connection with question No. 68, I don't remember. I do not remember what question No. 68 is.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 86 is exactly the same as No. 68.

MR. FOGWILL: It is not identical Mr. Speaker, one part dealt with capital expenditure and revenue from surplus account for the fiscal year, but No. 86, the same account for the month of March, 1951.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, the one to which I have the answer is the one asking for statement of revenue and expenditure for the month of March on both current and capital account.

(Statement on opposite page)

Statement of Revenue and Expenditure for the Month of March 1951

Head	REVENUE		EXPENDITURE
	Current $	Pre-Union	Current $	Pre-Union
		Surplus $		Surplus $
Consolidated Fund Services			1,370.82	51,431.59
Legislative .....			55,515.48
Executive .....			4,089.86
Finance .....	2,508,665.08	12,871.86	93,136.86	141,707.90
Provincial Affairs .....			3,622.22	252,510.44
Education .....	22,228.90	1,151.21	352,806.11	73,928.29
Attorney General .....	9,014.71		96,778.84
Natural Resources .....	17,797.93		109,134.58	62,198.98
Public Works .....	6,660.29	548,286.47	216,397.82	882,721.01
Health .....	204,176.76		428,799.36	34,892.10
Public Welfare .....	45,192.83		1,116,849.76
Liquor Control .....	700,000.00		16,491.36
Supply .....	1,756.90	500.00	48,669.13	259.55
Fisheries & Co-operatives .....	46.71		21,990.43	844,604.01
Economic Development .....	43.73		10,972.16	238,874.67
Labour .....	2,252.28		16,227.48
	$3,517,836.12	562,809.54	2,592,852.27	2,583,127.54

NOTE: The above figures are subject to final audit.

The figures that appear for revenue and expenditure from time to time throughout the year must be taken with a great deal of caution, I did notice that both daily newspapers jumped, very unwisely, to the conclusion there a month ago that we would have a deficit this year, of one million dollars. My honourable friend has come to the same conclusion. I will not attempt to say what happened in respect to the financial year which came to an end at 31 of March at that time; when I bring down the Budget I will give figures as exact as they can then be. But in view of the fact that we have been a province for only two years—our system of public finance is undergoing very considerable changes—I ought to utter a word of caution to the members of the House and to the Press and the public not to jump to conclusions when certain figures are published in the middle of the year, or quarterly, or three parts of the way through as they are tentative and not final. They are not final for one month alone, particularly the month of March, because they are subject to final audit.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, I am forced to make reference again to question No. 68, in the Order Paper, of March 27, dealing with expenditure and revenue of the first eleven months of this fiscal year. I would like to have those figures.

MR. SPEAKER: I have a notice here to the effect the honourable Minister said they would be given at the bringing down of the Budget Speech.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, I rose in the first place to ask that assurance could be given by the Minister. He has just now given to the House, the figures for the month of March, and I think he might be prepared to give us the figures for the first eleven months of the fiscal year. That is, I would not want to have included the amounts spent on the several plants I would be satisfied with an amount of ordinary capital expenditure except of course the several plants like the birch and gypsum mills.

MR. SMALLWOOD: On that understanding, I think there should be no difficulty whatever. We did not, as the honourable gentleman knows wish to publish just yet any figures which will enable anyone in or out of Newfoundland to come to a final conclusion as to what the cement mill and gypsum plant are costing. We don't mind if they think a million or three million and a half dollars so long as they don't know, and on that understanding, with the honourable gentleman which he is fair enough to state himself, I think these figures can be obtained.

MR. FOGWILL: I wonder if the honourable member would be prepared to bring them down tomorrow or the next day, so that we over here may have a better opportunity to study the financial structure of the Government.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think very likely I will be able to get out of the Chamber this afternoon for a moment, and I can telephone to the Department and ask to have these figures prepared and have them here for tomorrow's meeting.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 88.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): The answer to that question, Mr. Speaker, is in the course of preparation. I will probably have it tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 89. This has been referred to the Department of Public Works.

Question No. 90.

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Representatives of the Government of Newfoundland have frequently discussed with officials of the Government of Canada the question of currency difficulties in respect of export trade for salt codfish, and continuous liaison is being maintained in regard to this vital matter.

No specific result can be stated at this time.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 91 is being compiled and will be answered tomorrow.

MR. HORWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to introduce a motion of resolutions. I don't know exactly what the form is from here on, but I presume it will eventually get on the Order Paper for the Day. "To ask the Parliament of Canada that steps be taken to relax the Provisions of the Migratory Birds Convention Act, so as to prevent undue hardship of the fishing population of Newfoundland and Labrador.

MR. SPEAKER: You will introduce your motion. It will come up for discussion of the House, who will decide to accept or reject.

MR. HORWOOD: Would it be in order, Mr. Speaker, since the motion is not yet ready and the petition is in the hands of the Department of the Attorney General, who are preparing it, to have the motion adjourned?

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member may have it adjourned.

MR. HORWOOD: I adjourn.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member now has the right to begin tomorrow or any other day.

Orders of the Day

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): Now that the heat engendered by the debate yesterday has gone away, and the calmness of the aftermath has come, it is time for us to ask where we are or whither tending.

We, on this side of the House, must uphold the dignity of Mr. Speaker, as the sole arbitrator of the rights of the minority. Yesterday, a statement was made—you shall not go on—you would not have allowed the opposition to go on unless retraction was made, this is an infringement upon the rights of Mr. Speaker, and I look very gravely on this statement. Where is freedom of speech when anybody in the House, high or low, can say to another member—you can't go on, you can't proceed. We can say to you, the dignity of Mr. Speaker shall be upheld, and no members shall transcend his authority and nobody will say to me—you shall not go any further, I say that, Mr. Speaker, just in reference to the most important part of your rights.

One thing I must say to the member for Trinity South. He said certain opponents of the Government want to sell this country down the river. I do not know what he meant. It is already sold down the river.

MR. SMALLWOOD: To a point of order: I ask the honourable gentleman to withdraw that statement. The implication is there clearly, that those of us who started and helped to bring about Confederation, sold Newfoundland down the river. Imputation of motive, unparliamentary. I take personal objection if meant for me, I ask him to withdraw that statement. I did not sell Newfoundland down the river. Nobody did, it has not been sold down the river.

MR. SPEAKER: I do not think the honourable member's remarks are directed at the Premier of this House or at the Government.

MR. HIGGINS: My speech is open, there is no difference between opponents of the Government and people I refer to. Am I going to be sent to the bastille? Is there no freedom of speech in this House? I am getting tired of things. The Prime Minister attacks me, calls me an unmitigated liar, I'm unproductive, have a 14 or 16 century mind of the middle ages. But as soon as I attack him he springs like a spider from the cobweb. It is time for freedom of speech. If I can't give implications, it is just as well to disperse and let the Cabinet run themselves. I am getting tired of being attacked. Mr. so-and-so attacked me yesterday, because I did not use the proper term. Two days ago or four days ago, I heard the Premier refer to Jimmie. I can't remember where the member came from, I can't recall, I can't even say his name, and I can't remember the District he is the member for. It is just my memory fails me, I can't remember the various names, I don't mean to insult you or the House of Assembly, I just can't remember. I have a lack of memory for names. I can remember dates just as well as anybody and other things, but I can't remember names. Mr. Speaker, we just came from lunch and at my time of life we suffer afterwards, at my age and somehow or another I prefer to sleep off my speech today, I don't want to get up and talk in my sleep. Once a member of the House of Lords dreamed he was making a speech in the House of Lords, and he woke up and he was. I would hate to make an address and wake up and I am. But I have to resume the debate.

Now I will speak on something less controversial. I am mellow now. I may not be in a few moments. I want to speak of the museum. I hope it won't be a modern museum. I hope they bring in the ancestry and the aboriginals, all the old pieces. Everything was nicely started, Sir, I hate a modern museum. It is alright to have modern paintings, yes Sir, but all our nice things, let us have them. I submit this is a very vital thing in the culture of a country, so important, I put it down first. We must take steps immediately that no record or historical release whatever will be permitted, whether aboriginal or anything to show former occupation should be allowed to pass out of the country without the consent of the Historical Association of Canada. Historically, I feel we are right in saying the Norsemen landed here. It is the first country they would strike if they came on ships. This idea of saying Great Britain came there first, I believe they must have struck Newfoundland first. So must the Norsemen, who came to Greenland, have landed in Newfoundland; there are sites here, one supposed to be a stone in Bonavista which is supposed to have been signed or engraved by Sebastian Cabot.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): They are not being allowed to be carried out, Sir. They are all being protected, all at our disposal at the present time.

MR. HIGGINS: I am glad to hear that, there was no Act passed in my time to insure that this should be done.

MR. SPRATT: As far as the architecture setup is concerned, all that architecture will be there to be seen and the things will be properly set up.

MR. HIGGINS: Now, Mr. Speaker, to come back to things of the House, leaving the culture of the country. I was rather sorry to find attacks upon the merchants, we have among us, in this House.

Do you know it was the aim of Karl Marx to place class against class to raise up Utopia and it was he who coined the phrase "Toiling masses." Why all this? People here, it seems to me, having a destructive idea of everybody of importance, a clear hatred of patrimony.

Let us favour capitalism, but let us destroy their errors. Let us do that if we want to.

The member for Labrador, last session, made a terrific attack on the merchants, but this year the Minister of Supply carried on the torch. He made a tirade against the merchants, and all the time he meant the merchants of Water Street. The Outerbridge family, head of which is the Lieutenant Governor, all fine men, gave without stint to public service, helped every charitable purpose, and I may say the same thing of the Jobs and McPherson and Bowrings' and why unleash the poison of hatred against decent gentlemen like that? Then think what have they done for Public Welfare, for order and decency, I would rather check myself from attacking men with such worthy family connections behind them.

MR. SPRATT: Perhaps the profits were too high.

MR. HIGGINS: That may be, but these people carried on the business of this country and they were honourable and decent families.

Then we would have to pass on to the various members who failed, the various mercantile failures and ruin of merchants. Indeed even the honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs must pay respect to families like the Outerbridges and Harveys and so forth. We come from a different race, but as we are Newfoundlanders we must pay respect to highly decent, honest, religious men. I must say I do, I pay respect, I like the Harveys and the Outerbridges. Of course I never mix with them, except when I go to lunch—was there this afternoon—but when I do meet them I find them perfect gentlemen. The merchants of Water Street, I say the merchants are the merchants of Water Street, of whom there are only a few left. There is a new crowd coming up now, I am talking about the merchants of the past, of the days of Responsible Government.

MR. JANES: You are talking about those who were here since the Norsemen's days.

MR. HIGGINS: No, merchants of the present time, Harvey and Job are still here. They are the merchants who were attacked during the Commission of Government, and I say I am not of their class. I am a different class entirely and I am decent enough to pay tribute to men to whom tribute should be paid.

There are those who quarrel with every individual and successful endeavour, those who want to regiment business endeavour. To those people prosperity is a crime and the individual who succeeds is a criminal or one whose character is open to impeachment.

Now gentlemen that quotation was not written, in your generation or mine, not in the past generation, nor in the past century, but was written by Socrates the greatest teacher of all, 354 years before Christ, when civilization was crumbling. Mr. Speaker, history repeats itself. We are not decent enough to realize that people in the past were once in the same position as we are now.

MR. SPRATT: It may not be sound.

MR. HIGGINS: Do you stand there and say there is no soundness about that, with your views and principles. I am going to tell you that Greece in these days, this day is going into a morass, the same as in the days when Greece was declining.

I was rather surprised by the Minister of Supply uttering such declamatory remarks about the long-shore men. I like to see him get up and speak. He speaks rather nicely, except once or twice, he got rather caustic towards the honourable member for Ferryland particularly. But I was amazed by these remarks, Mr. Chairman, about longshoremens standing about with hands in their pockets looking on, getting high wages, and that is the reason for the high cost of living in St. John's. Why did he not go and tell the Premier that, and thus avoid the heavy expense of some fifty thousand dollars to have a Royal Commission decide on the cost of living?

Mr. Speaker, I must pay very great tribute to the two young men at your disposal, I wondered what was happening when the next thing I knew I got a nice drink of water.

He also told us, Mr. Speaker, that the surplus is being spent on social security. If so, I am wondering how long this surplus is going to last. Certainly this should come out of ordinary revenue. There will come a point of saturation, a point of running out of surplus. You can't use the surplus to the saturation point. It will mean more taxes, more money from our people already taxed very highly. Where is it going to end? That brings me to the question of taxation.

Now there is no doubt that taxation has been heavily increased since Confederation, in St. John's more so because municipal taxes necessarily increased at the time for reasons quite evident and people in St. John's are paying 50% more taxation than in past years and taxes will be increased further. That is unfortunate. There are people here, Sir, among the toiling masses who own their own little houses and I am going to tell you, I am just as much interested as the member for Fogo, in the toiling masses. I was never wealthy, was brought up by my poor old mother.

My father died when I was one year old. I knew not what real prosperity was, certainly not what wealth was. I survived and I look back upon my youth with great delight and pleasure. I did enjoy what little money we had. I had my holidays, my trouting rod, my books. I went off fishing with my cake of hard bread in my pocket. And I think after all with all due respects to anybody who thinks otherwise, I fared better than many of a better class today. I did enjoy life of the past day, and I would like to see my children enjoy it as I did. Many times I would have liked an excursion and could not, but I had the regular pleasure with rod and line and my cake of hard bread in my pocket and the Lieutenant Governor told me the same thing, though he could have bought any amount of stuff better than I could. To go on, unfortunately, Sir, this is not true of the present day, or of the poor people of St. John's who have a house, for everyone of those people who loses his house, loses a part of his personal interest in the country. Any man who owns his own house, that man owns a part of the country and that is the one person we must protect. We must see that no man loses his house.

MR. SPRATT: I agree with you, Sir.

MR. HIGGINS: Thank God you agree with me at last. I often think of those people. If I lose my house I might get a smaller one, but the man who has a small house has nothing left if he loses that house, that is the sad part of it, the sad part of civilization. The honourable member for Labrador may laugh; but the honourable member knows well enough that the people of his district want first of all a house to live in—That is first of all.

MR. JANES: We get them and we don't have to go to lawyers to get them.

MR. HIGGINS: That's enough about lawyers. A lawyer here in this country never denies a poor person, I am going to tell you, and if a man can't afford to pay him the lawyer will help him out as best he can and I am going to tell you Mr. Curtis is no different from me in that respect and has taken many a case for nothing. Let the slurs on lawyers go, we are not a pharisaical class.

MR. JANES: You asked if we had houses.

MR. HIGGINS: I am not speaking here as a lawyer, I am speaking as a member of the House of Assembly, and not as a lawyer. As to the lawyer you need one if you are to have a clear title of the house to make sure the house will be passed on to your own children, and if you can't afford to pay for it, you will find the lawyer will take nothing. The honourable the Attorney General will bear me out in that.

Now we have joined a big country with a heavy national debt, we have to carry our share of the burden which we have thrust upon us, the biggest part of which was garnered during the war of 1939-45. During the last war we reduced our debt, the only country in the world which reduced its national debt, but not only that—we had a surplus. If there is another war, we shall not emerge with a surplus, but shall carry the yoke of increased debt, this time our poor country will find its national debt increased.

There was recently a lot of talk of increased taxation from Ottawa. The Head of the Bank of Canada told us that there was going to be a need for increased revenue to pay for re-arming the forces and because of defence measures, and this must be met and that would fix us for years to come. Now we find it is true, Finance Minister Abbott's last Budget was an effort to get further money to defray the expenses of mounting defence. Some items are subject to 20% increase, income tax and sales taxes are increased. There was 30% recently on carbonated beverages and chocolates, which has been decreased, I think, and there is a dollar a gallon on rum.

MR. VARDY: They did not decrease carbonated beverages.

MR. HIGGINS: Oh that is a shock, Mr. Speaker, I turn to water henceforth. Mr. Speaker, that is frightful.

Now the Canadian Press indicated to us there was going to be further taxation and yesterday morning we woke up and found, unfortunately, it was true. But there was a tremendous red herring to take people's minds off the taxes—that MacArthur has been taken from the command in Korea. After all, budgets and things like that are of little consequence when the lives of men are at stake, and the security of the nation at stake, and very little thought is given to the Budget in the face of that eternal principle and when our day of death approaches that is the time we will forget about the House of Assembly, Confederation and Party Government, and perhaps our conscience may trouble us a little before we pass that eternal border from which no traveller returns.

Now at the opening of the Provincial Conference last year, Prime Minister St. Laurent predicted an increase in Federal Taxation. In the past we were free from such taxes, free from international situations. Social security, Sir, we could have the same social security if Confederation had not taken place. We all talk now of security, I have a feeling that most of us may be paupers in the future just the same as England. It is just as well to see the future and not look with rosy colours; we may have a hard struggle, and we may be better off if we find we have to make a struggle to live. It is the prospect in England that there will be heavier taxation and these men who are used to a little more in life may find themselves in the same situation.

MR. JANES: And what about those who did not have the essentials of life?

MR. HIGGINS: They may find themselves having to pay more and won't enjoy half the essentials of life. We who have the essentials of life can go back and get the essentials but the people who had nothing before will find themselves with half the essentials. I want to tell the member for Fogo, I think just as much about the common people as he does. I remember I was once told one of the essentials of life in this country was salt port and corned beef. It was then $28 a barrel and is now $78. One of the essentials.

MR. JANES: But you are talking about the people in England.

MR. HIGGINS: I tell you once upon a time the price of tobacco was 20c. and it is now 47c., and that is entirely the result of Confederation, ordinary tobacco has gone up probably 70 % or 80%.

MR. JANES: Our boys going into service will be paid $150 monthly instead of two and six, 50c. a day.

MR. HIGGINS: I have a son going to Korea tomorrow. I don't care if he gets two and six or one hundred and fifty dollars, it will be all the same to him and I hope to God, that he is that way about it, that is all I got to say.

Now in spite of all this talk about Federal Authority, we can see no attempt to make some sacrifice, any attempt made to bring down the high cost of living. As we have been joined to a bigger nation, we must accept the disadvantages with the advantages and there are many grave disadvantages and our people must know they must also get the disadvantages.

Is the Provincial Government giving us any evidence of saving their assets or is there a serious attempt on the part of the Government today to curtail, any attempt at all. Cannot a certain amount be saved each year.

The honourable the member for Bonavista South told us we could do without two Cabinet Ministers, we could do with ten or less and save the money but no, the spending goes on. We learned yesterday the Civil Service has been increased five per cent and that does not take into account the Ranger and Police Force absorbed by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. New jobs made and payment made for extra work which is really a part of regular work. Sure we have millions—let's make hay while the sun shines.

We are now a part of Canada and as a part of a very large political unit we must take up our burden, our share of the cost of running, we must pay our share of taxes, we must remember that this country during the last war piled up a terrific debt, we are responsible for this too though we had nothing to do with running up the debt. We cannot call the piper but we must pay the tune.

MR. JANES: Who kept the submarines off, you don't know but you are paying for them now.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, if the honourable gentleman wants to interrupt me, he should get up and speak out.

MR. JANES: The point I make is this. The per capita debt of Newfoundland decreased during the war and the per capita debt of Canada increased because of war. I ask the honourable member since he lived here during the second world war, I ask him who kept the submarines off the coast of Newfoundland?

MR. FAHEY: Uncle Sam,

MR. SPEAKER: All interruptions are subject to the member speaking.

MR. HIGGINS: We had nothing to do with that as a small country. We had in this country the smallest per capita national debt in any country in the world but what has that got to do with the question, we sent men overseas; the honourable member for Fogo went over, and I am proud of that. Went over and I presume did quite well, came back with a good conscience. But why ask a very foolish question. We did not build submarines.

MR. JANES: We lived in peace while the rest of the world was at war. We are here now and did not bring the debt up.

MR. HIGGINS: In the days of peace following the war, the Canadian national debt increased, and now the rearming program will increase this heavy debt very substantially and our share will naturally be increased. Newfoundland had no great responsibility for defending in the last war. In the first war we paid heavily for it. We came out of the second war with a reduced national debt, Sir, and a heavy surplus. If a war takes place now we won't increase our surplus, but the very opposite. During the war we had heavy work here making Newfoundlanders the hewers of wood and drawers of water but the day of reckoning will come and the heavier the national debt will be and I say the lone fisherman on the Bill of Cape St. George won't be able to get his radio.

Now Mr. Speaker, I turn to the question of farming. The farming class of this country is a hard working class, their hours are long, their work is hard, back-breaking. Maybe it is because they are close to nature; few farmers belong to the criminal class. There are no criminals among the farming class, somehow the farming class stand out with dignity. Go down to the White Hills for instance, and you will find as fine a group of men as anywhere in the world. Farmers for many generations, making a success of farming, people whose forebears came from places like Kent and Cornwall, and built up wonderful farms. There are nice houses and they are fine decent honourable people. These are the class, the kind of people whom we talk so much about with pride, bold, proud, free—our country's pride and if that class is finished, then Sir, the pride of the country is going to go. For instance look at the people in the other parts of the District of St. John's West or in Harbour Main; take around this nearer part of St. John's, Seal Cove, Manuels, and Topsail. Another fine class of people.

MR. FAHEY: The best people in the world. That is fine, I am confirmed by the members of my side, Sir.

MR. HIGGINS: I was just wondering if this was water, I did not see the Speaker was not there. Taking a glass is most exhilarating. It is very rarely I am abroad in the early morning, except while I am in my camp at Gambo.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is my district.

MR. HIGGINS: Yes, Sir, that is your district. I go up there.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is my native home, my birthplace.

MR. HIGGINS: A great country Sir, and I hope you see it is preserved, and not cut over by the commercial interests. I have a camp up there.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The first word I ever heard my honourable and learned friend say against the merchants. The very first word.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, there is only one kind of fish recognized in this country, codfish, and according to a ruling once from the Supreme Court. Fish means codfish.

MR. JANES: The Supreme Court must not be up to date.

MR. HIGGINS: Let me tell you, the day may come when you go down there and you may want me to defend. I have defended many people not always criminals. And I am going to tell you fish is codfish and merchants are merchants of Water Street, and I don't care what anyone says I would like to see the banks of that river preserved. The merchants of Water Street are the only ones being attacked and when other people attack them, I defend them, if necessary.

There are two thousand farmers living out of their farms and ten thousand living partly out of their farms, an enormous number of people. What amount do these people represent. If a cement mill factory worth three and a half million gives employment to only three hundred, let us judge then by production. How much more important are the farmers than the birch or cement plants which can only give employment to two or three hundred men. The sad part of all this is since we became a part of Canada, agricultural products of Canada are brought here at a very cheap rate. I will talk to that later, Mr. Speaker. The fisherman or what we term the fisherman-farmer gets money from his fishing and existence from his farm. In Norway, I understand, the fishermen farm part-time and though the soil may be poor they make the best they can out of it and the fishermen therefore live well, and know what they should eat and like most Europeans the wives are good cooks. I must admit the wives of France and other European countries are really good cooks. They have nothing more in front of them than the people of this country, but they know what to do with it. They reap the grain and reject the chaff; make the best of what they have because God placed it in front of them. Now if we look around in the out-ports we find that certain people are better off than others, they were all alike to begin with, but you always find a certain number better engaged, better looked after. I remember one time talking to the brother of the Minister of Health and he told me he was going up north for the winter and I said to him: "Do you get enough food up there?" and he told me, "Yes, I get the best of food." I said: "The best of food up there, away from transportation?"

He told me they get fresh raspberries and cranberries and rabbits and fish, fresh duck and chicken, turkey, and he told me he lived like a lord, like a fighting cock. You can get that here in this country without going anywhere outside. A man in the city can starve, die or go to jail; if he wants to live, he must toil. It is right that we must toil to live but in this country we have everything in front of us—fish, caplin, herring, berries, but unfortunately in big cities there is nothing and the Minister of Public Health's brother can live better up north than he or I can live down here in winter.

HON. JAMES R. CHALKER (Minister of Public Health): Yes, I have tasted the food.

MR. HIGGINS: Now we say the fisherman and farmer need never starve but you can starve in the city, but not where God provides everything, but a man who does not try deserves to starve. When you walk up against poverty there is a reason for it. We do the same today as we did years ago. Live from day to day by the sweat of our brow. It is just the same now as in the past. Keep your powder dry and put your trust in God, is just as true today as in the days of the past.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to tell you, not to finish the debate, the truth is that God helps those who help themselves. And, Mr. Speaker, we only have our share of physical energy to do it.

Mr. Speaker, if I am to go on I wonder if we could have a recess for a few minutes.

The House recessed.

MR. HIGGINS: Farming has become a very important industry in this country. I have said two thousand jobs. It has become a million dollar a year industry, and apart from that there are a large number of part-time employees and those people who own their own gardens. Last Autumn the Secretary of the Federation of Newfoundland Farmers gave a lot of information about agriculture and I presume all members here realize the importance of agriculture in this country. In the old days, I hate to say the good old days, it was possible to set up barriers against foreign importations; when the Maritimes were ready to drown our markets with vegetables we barred them off—when the Maritimes had a big crop and could get rid of their surplus by exporting to this country at the expense of the farmers and ourselves. The result was that in those days prices were kept at a level with protection for the farmer and the buying public. These days are over now and the Maritimes are able to flood this country's markets any time they like. It is a very sad thing that the public will buy where they get the cheapest though not the best and that is more particularly done by the ladies who like to buy a $1.20 shoe because the heel looks bright and it is red and blue rather than buy the best shoes three times that price even though a decent pair of shoes lasts longer than a cheap pair.

Now the saddest part of all that, although people are helped along by public funds in most cases they will not try to help those very people who bring money into the country and thus help those people who get the money, farmers and others who produce. Nobody really seems to give a thought to the vast amount of money paid for labour on the mainland that could be kept here. For instance mail order houses on the mainland spend vast amounts of money in making up parcels for the post office and sending them down here and people here are often out of work because they have not got that labour. One thing they don't think about at all—if they buy a suit of clothes in our own stores they might have to pay two or three dollars more. But don't make this mistake, very often we can buy things cheaper here than on the mainland. We can because I found it out myself by experience. We can get a tailor-made suit here cheaper than we can on the Mainland, just as good and pay much less for it.

MR. CURTIS: I would not go so far as to say that, I wish it were so.

MR. HIGGINS: I will. I have this blue suit, I know I have not that new form, am built rather on battleship lines, but last year in Halifax a tailor told me I would pay $100 for that suit and I paid $70 and he admitted it was cheaper than I could get it there and better material, good English serge. I had a tweed suit and he said they paid a heavy amount of money for that and didn't get it at all.

People ought to be patriotic and pay four or five cents more on the dollar in order to help out people here.

We now turn to the fisheries and I will say what a wonderful crowd of people are the fishermen. I spent my boyhood holidays in the outports, went out to catch fish and squid in a boyish and energetic way. I caught fish and smoked with them and in later days I went up and had a drink with them, and in my younger days I smoked with them. I say that I have the fishermen in my blood. They are the same as I. The same decent goodness, God forgive me, for boasting, I hope, honestly, I hope I have the same as they have. They are the same kind of people, no matter if they are poor or not they have that innate hospitality you can't take away from the fishermen. As many American servicemen and others have told me one thing they admired about the Newfoundland fishermen, they talk to you, they are not subservient but show decent, genuine friendliness.

A General once told me he lost his road and came to a place where there was a poor fisherman getting his tea ready, a bit of bread and fish and he said: "I am sorry I have nothing more to offer you, would you mind having some of this." The next day the General sent him a quarter of beef. He knew that man had that instinctive decency that he would accept a gift. You don't find that in other places in the world. I love this country, and the kind people who sit down and talk with you, and when the brother of the Minister of Health goes up north he is just going among his own people. Here we have men of dignity, of pride, men who look after their children well. Now the sea is part and parcel of them and all they ask is for a living and they don't mind the knocks—a hard living never hurts a man. Proud men, free men, honest, because they own their own homes, capitalists in a small way for four hundred years or more—the backbone of this country, not looking for pity. The strange thing about it, the educated men of this country don't come from the merchants, but from the fishermen. Go to any part of the United States or Canada and you will find the university men there are the sons of fishermen who decided that if they have not the education themselves they saw to it that at least their sons had it. The fathers are that type.

Now the unfortunate part of it, the fruits of their labour have to be thrown away because of some financial reason. The fishing industry of this country was primary before the paper mills, and is still the major industry. Now the Premier is optimistic of projects which he founded although the first one was brought to failure with heavy losses to the country—the Icelandic venture. Yet somehow or other someone is always trying in the fishing industry. Now I'm not going on to talk about fishing out around Bonavista; we could go on for weeks but the fishermen must be helped in some way, a union itself is not sufficient. You can have co-operation in connection with lobster, in any part of the world it can be sold and we must fall in line. The rest of the world realizes that lobster is a luxury not like a lot of other fish, but rather for the wealthy and can be dealt with in that way. Go up to any big restaurant in the United States and you will pay $3.00 and $4.00 for lobster. It consequently can be looked after in a co-operative way. At Wood Island when working co-operatively the fishermen the first year got 7c. a pound, 12c. the next year, then 30c. Lobster can be handled co-operatively and perhaps certain other kinds of fish. I think caplin could be looked after co-operatively. I eat caplin and halibut, but I don't eat codfish. They should be looked after like Norway sells sardines, co-operatively. I don't know how you are going to do it, but you must have markets. That is the main difficulty—we have to get the markets. People now-a-days with mass production of tinned goods are off-setting us and we have to have some scheme to sell fish in the same way.

Now let us turn to the expenditure of the day. We learn of new projects and always of spending of more money and the rising cost of Government. Now we are told all this money will be spent and expenditure next year will be higher than this year. Now the worst part of it, by 1953 we will have falling revenues because the transitional grant will be decreasing. If revenue declines, how is the Government going to meet daily expenditure? That is a question very pertinent. Money is needed for education, we have not enough money from taxes, and people are crying out for roads and further public services, they will demand new roads, new wharves, and certainly we will need more money for education. What are we going to do? Do we realize we may go bankrupt? In a sense Government is a business. We could not balance our budget and outside of that we have spent from our surplus, then when the surplus is spent there is nothing to stop our going insolvent. Now where is the money to come from to carry on the rising cost of Government? The Province is restricted in a manner to carry on provincial services. Most of the money in this Province goes to Ottawa, we know that the Province is left with only a few sources of revenue; the gasoline tax, and the sales tax and of course there is the tax on liquor. And we are told by the Premier that the tax on liquor may go up, if necessary, he said. But there is a saturation point in liquor, and if that goes up too high, nobody is going to buy it. The people are not going to pay $6 and $7 a bottle for rum and when a friend comes in they will realize people are not going to have liquor at that price and we will have to cut it out and the cost of liquor will be too high.

MR. SPRATT: The development of our natural resources.

MR. HIGGINS: Can you tell me of any natural resources that develop rum or whiskey?

MR. SPRATT: I just made the remark that development of our natural resources will offset that by producing revenue.

MR. HIGGINS: I would like to see that, Sir, I would like to see that but until that time comes, people are not going to pay $7.00 a bottle for rum or whiskey.

It was different a few years ago when our taxes were fewer. Confederation resulted in rising taxes and the public do not seem to realize it. The Federal tax puts 7% upon objects sold in the stores. The public does not realize that. It does not realize we are paying more for certain supplies because we could not import them from the United States. A dealer told me yesterday, a radio costing about $37 a year ago, now sells for about $68. In 1947 there was a very small percent on radios and we now pay $68 for a radio which sold for $37 or $47, I don't know which.

Now the cost of living has gone up since the days of Confederation or whatever you wish. The Government index shows an increase and this does not take into account supplies which are not necessary, and the index is very much higher and still rising considerably. If the fishermen must have tobacco, he is paying 47c. for what cost 27c. before. You will admit he is now paying for rum $3.20 for which he paid $1.50 before.

MR. JANES: He does not pay much revenue, there is not very much rum sold in the outports. There were two hundred sober men up here for a week.

MR. HIGGINS: I don't care—a poor man now pays for a bottle of rum $3.50. Lots of fishermen come in here and buy it, I am not going to stop any man from buying it.

We have, for instance, a sales tax, 3% and that is going to be increased.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Who said that?

MR. HIGGINS: I heard it around. Well they are talking about an agreement with the Provinces and Newfoundland is mentioned and other Provinces are mentioned, and you know well enough the Provinces are trying to get a right to tax further. Do you mean to tell me that is not true about increasing the tax?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I don't know.

MR. HIGGINS: Do you mean to tell me as Premier of this country you did not discuss this tax agreement?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I am talking about increasing the 3% tax. I don't know.

MR. HIGGINS: You want the right to put other taxes on the country. You don't care about the 3%, you would not bother with that 3% if you were not allowed to put it above 3%.

MR. CURTIS: There is a ceiling on it of 3%.

MR. HIGGINS: What other taxes do we deal with in Ottawa besides that? I saw in the paper the other day, the Provinces agreed to that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Agreed on what? There was no suggestion to increase it.

MR. HIGGINS: What is it about?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Not about increasing it.

MR. HIGGINS: I heard the rumour.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is the tax my honourable friend spoke of, there is no other tax we know of. No provision that we heard of with regard to that 3% tax. That is the tax.

MR. HIGGINS: There is talk of other taxation besides the 3%.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I would say, without anticipating the Budget, we know of no increase of taxation. There is no desire for the right of taxing anything; nothing new about the 3%.

MR. HIGGINS: Fine, I only got the newspapers and thought there was some truth in it.

Now let us turn to development. Was the Premier properly quoted when he warned the Federal-Provincial Conference, last fall that Newfoundland might have to seek annexation to one of the Maritime Provinces in ten or fifteen years, if we did not get rapid economic development?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Approximately, that was what I said.

MR. HIGGINS: Did you find fault with some Federal speakers because you expected there would be a cut down, because there was a war in prospect, and people like you can't stop a war? Did you say a slow down in Government spending would mean retarding economic development; that a large number of people would have to leave Newfoundland and consequently the collection of taxes would go down. Now a large number of young men in this country are leaving for the Mainland and the two boats are filled every time they go over. Every ship carries with it young men and we are losing a large number of people.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Do you know that in the two years before Confederation, twenty-five hundred of our people left, twenty-five hundred in one year and twenty-four hundred the next year? That is 4900 people, in the two years before Confederation, the two years before we were a Province. There must be half a million people who are Newfoundlanders or of Newfoundland descent in the United States and on the Mainland.

MR. HIGGINS: There is always a number of people leaving this country for a certain number of months each year and coming back, but I might add a large number of people went over in the early nineteen hundreds and stayed, but a large number each year go and come back, I would say twenty-five hundred people go for the harvest, or for the winter and come back fishing. I say at least twenty-five hundred people come back every year, but I know that twenty-five hundred will go up now and won't come back. That is my opinion and I hold to it.

The Premier raised a question—Develop or Perish—Told us he was gambling on the future, that is correct, I heard him myself. The dangerous part of this is rushing, this rushing of the C.C.F. and the Liberal Party, always in a hurry, seems always to be rushing. What is the necessity for such hurry? To save people from going away. Development of industry takes a long time and careful expert advice is necessary. The Government cannot carry on business as well as private individuals.

MR. JANES: How about a navy?

MR. HIGGINS: A Navy can be carried on because money does not count, does not come into it at all and always at times when we are at war we overspend and the nation always goes bankrupt. Spend money in order to support a navy and an army, nobody thinks of money at the time, and many countries became bankrupt as a consequence.

There is a possibility of some good but might prove a possibility of evil and such industries might be carried on just as well by private enterprise.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Go back a few years to the St. John's Water Company.

MR. HIGGINS: I am talking about things of the present day. St. John's was run better under a municipality of five or six one time. We know that Nationalization in Britain is not so successful as private enterprise.

MR. SPRATT: Services are at a minimum, you can't draw comparisons at this time under present conditions.

MR. HIGGINS: They passed the Nationalized steel industry in England, what good has come out of that? The Government are apt to spend too much money and give too little employment. A cement mill costing three and a half million dollars and employing three hundred men is not going to compare with business costing half as much and employing twice the people. Take the Butter Factory, when they finish their six hundred dollar extension they will employ 250 people on a business which cost six hundred thousand, they are able to employ 250 people.

MR. VARDY: That is a question. You are entirely wrong. They intend by installing machinery to reduce the necessity of labour, reducing it to the minimum.

MR. HIGGINS: I was told they would employ 250.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The birch mill will employ three hundred all the year around and twenty-five hundred for part of the year.

MR. HIGGINS: I was told that the addition meant they would employ two hundred and fifty people.

MR. VARDY: I would say less than fifty.

MR. HIGGINS: I will ask them and I will be up in the House tomorrow. But I heard this from a person who must know.

MR. JANES: How many are employed there now?

MR. HIGGINS: I would not know. All I know is that I asked somebody in the business. I understood they would spend another six hundred thousand and employ another 150 people.

Now the member for Labrador would like to see the Premier go on. He said he would prefer to have money wasted rather than have it kept.

MR. HORWOOD: I did not say anything of the sort. I never said I want to see money wasted. I would like to get Hansard.

MR. HIGGINS: I would like to get Hansard too, but where is Hansard? I would like to get Hansard produced and see the words, Sir.

MR. FAHEY: But where is Hansard?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Can't you take an honourable gentleman's word? If the honourable member says he did not say that, does he have to bring in witnesses to prove it.

MR. HORWOOD: If you want to know what I said—I said, I would rather see the government take our surplus and put most of it into development, and gamble it on development and see most of the money that went into development wasted, looking back, wasted and some having paid off, rather than see the Government sit on the surplus like a nest egg waiting for it to hatch out.

MR. HIGGINS: Then I am right. That is the proper interpretation I put on it. I ask him if I am right?

Where is the foreign capital you would produce? You told us in the referendum that millions of dollars of Canadian capital would be coming in here from Canada. I repeat—millions—now where is all that money that was to be brought in here? I am afraid that promise did not turn out very well, like many of the other promises made. I am not discussing the future but the present. I want to see this coming in. But we remember a lot of those things we were told. Remember our surplus cannot last long. But—we must have industries, and if some of these ventures fail we must take the long view—that is what we are told.

Well, take the Icelandic Fishing venture. These men were to come here and tell us the proper manner of fishing, and were to revolutionize the herring fishery.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I still think that.

MR. HIGGINS: You told us the other day that you have no explanation for that failure.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We did a lot of things—that is the only thing we have failed on.

MR. HIGGINS: I don't care. It cost four hundred thousand dollars. We were told they would catch a million tons of herring.

MR. FOGWILL: Then they came in here and said the herring fishing in Iceland was a failure this year too.

MR. HIGGINS: And now we find that even the boats were not in good condition, and we will probably realize very little on them.

Then we asked the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives whether it was true that it was possible that the Icelandic fishermen may bring in a large number of fishermen to this country. He made the answer—that is not likely. That is no answer to make.

We had the seal fishery to ourselves twenty years ago, had nobody else fishing here, then came the Norwegians 2,500 miles across the ocean. They are apt to spoil our seal fishery unless some steps are taken. I understand these men are actually killing seals in the embryo stage.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have been told by our own men who talked with the Norwegians that they are as disgusted about that as our own men, and would welcome, and their Government would welcome, an international treaty to stop it.

MR. HIGGINS: If that is so, why do they kill them. They have done this for the past three or four years and before the second world war there was trouble over it. They kill them at four and five days old, when they are only about 10 lbs., three weeks later they are 45 lbs. This year it was the same thing again. Why do they not put their preaching into practice. Why not all get together and do something about it, do it while there is still time. It is pretty well time for something to be done about it.

MR. JANES: Why not put out a buoy.

MR. HIGGINS: I don't understand you at all.

MR. JANES: Why do our trap fishermen put out buoys to mark fish areas before the fishery begins?

MR. HIGGINS: You had better ask the fishermen that.

MR. JANES: They do it for place rights, they own the place if they get there first. It is exactly the same thing.

MR. HIGGINS: What are you trying to tell me is that our sealers should go out and stay on the ice in order to put out marker buoys, that there is nothing to prevent our fishermen from going out to the ice and anchoring there until the seals come down. Talk sense, man, talk sense.

Now Mr. Speaker, to get back to sanity: Again, Sir, I apologize for carrying on an argument.

The Premier objected when we asked questions about the Latvians brought in, said, don't ask me, you will be sorry you asked me, sorry you criticized me. He must think we are foolish enough to be lulled into a sense of false security in this way. We are not children. I know he thinks we are children. He tells us these are very important people. A lot of people can't spell their names, but we are told they have the best brains and the best ability in the world. And I may say this, re this contract which the Prime Minister paid for building bridges, we never paid a cent for architects to plan bridges. Mr. Robinson and Mr. Knight and Mr. Whelan paid fine expert builders. I'll admit you have to have an engineer to get the bridge in place and set it up, and I hear they are drawing plans. Mr. Max Whelan and his father did some marvelous work on bridge building; on the Grand Codroy River they built a bridge which I understand cost $90,000, Newfoundlanders could build that bridge. Mr. Robinson was the engineer and that is a beautiful bridge and any Newfoundlander who can build a bridge like that is an expert in his field. I remember going over that bridge and thinking it was too good a bridge for so small a place and I remarked it to an American and he said it was good enough for Brooklyn, and he was right. He asked how much it cost and I said about a quarter of a million dollars. I went back and asked and found out it cost only $90,000. So we have really good bridge builders here.

There is a feeling here confirmed by the Prime Minister himself who said he wanted to get a cost accountant here, but he said he could not get a competent one here.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I wish the honourable gentleman would learn one thing; to listen with his ears open and I say now again, he misquotes me. I will tell you what I said, and gladly, and at the same time ask you in future to listen intently. I said we had not in Newfoundland a competent cost accountant with Mr. Feather's experience. That is a lot different from what the honourable gentleman said and—

MR. HIGGINS: And you also said: One not under the thumb of Water Street, and I am not so far wrong.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable gentleman quoted me as saying there was not a competent cost accountant—I said no such things.

MR. HIGGINS: And; he was under the thumb of Water Street.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I did not say that, I said this: In reference to Mr. Feather: That Mr. Feather had experience as a competent cost accountant in the very business for which we engaged him, spent several years engaged in examining the merchants' accounts to see the costs in the fishery, that is why we got him for our service and not a Water Street man.

MR. HIGGINS: I took it down, I can tell you that you said, under the control of Water Street, that is what you said. I don't see the necessity for saying anybody is under the control of Water Street. We have accountants here, good cost accountants, and you have some here on the high cost of living. I don't care about the exact words, I say what I think right and as near as possible. You said—We have not got a cost accountant with the exception of Mr. Feather who is not under the control of Water Street and he gets $7,500 a year. You can get men here for that not under the control of Water Street.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The point was he had had several years experience investigating fish merchants accounts to see their costs. That is why we got him; there is no other cost accountant in Newfoundland who has had that experience, that is why we brought him back from Ottawa, for that reason.

MR. HIGGINS: That is a matter of opinion, in my opinion, and my opinion is just as important as the Premier's. When he gets up and gives an opinion, it is not going to be shoved down my throat, and I say there are just as competent cost accountants here as Mr. Feather, on the mainland or anywhere else.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have not denied that, that never arose until the honourable gentleman just raised it now. I said a competent cost accountant with his experience investigating the merchant's books.

MR. HIGGINS: I move the adjournment of the debate. I am tired of it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: So are we. Sick and tired of it.

MR. SPENCER: I don't know if I would be in order, there has been a great deal of interruptions, many of which I did not agree with. If I may possibly ask a question, some time I would like to say the honourable Leader of the Opposition in his remarks has referred to a point which effects the Department over which I have the honour to preside, and with your kind permission, Mr. Speaker, I would like to give an explanation.

MR. SPEAKER: All interruptions are at the pleasure of the member who has the floor.

MR. SPENCER: Have I your permission to proceed?

MR. HIGGINS: I am delighted, Sir.

MR. SPENCER: My explanation was in reference to the construction of concrete bridges. The honourable member paid a tribute to the work of some men with whom I was very happy to be associated, and with one of whom I am very proud to hear a word of commendation. These men have had, and those who are still living continue to have my very greatest respect in their several abilities. The time referred to, however, was back in 1924. The honourable gentleman referred to a certain bridge which has withstood the test of time and was constructed more cheaply than any other of its time in North America or up to this time and for that reason I am very glad he referred to it. I take it, however, the reference was meant to refer to present day methods. He referred to seeking this year for bridge designers for special bridges which we propose to build in connection with the Trans-Canada Highway. I merely want to clarify this and to say it is an entirely different matter. The bridges built in that day were built for traffic of that day, and if I were to use technical terms, the bridge load at that day was H. 15 ton load. We are now building the Trans-Canada Highway and we are building bridges according to the standard demanded, the standard H. 20 ton load.

The two gentlemen of the Government referred to—Mr. Robinson, now retired, and Mr. Knight a present member of the staff, both of whom were competent and Mr. Knight is still with us, is still a very competent official but he does not profess to be in a position to produce the designs necessary for this. He is of very great importance to us in the position on the staff he now occupies, and has no time at all; we could not even spare him, he is going around like a blue fly at mine and everybody else's beck and call, trying to do various things demanded of him and he is a very competent official.

There was not a man, in this Province of ours. I am proud to be a native son, and always will be. Unfortunately there was not a man in the Province of Newfoundland capable of designing this bridge. We tried, as the honourable gentleman knows, to get men elsewhere on the North American Continent, and we were successful in getting a designer in Europe, a Latvian, and we are proud to have this professor with us. His job is to design the bridges and our men will build them according to the design. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say the men referred to worked well in their day, but there were no men available today, and we brought in a European designer and I wish to assure the House and the honourable gentleman that if a more thorough search could be made in North America, then the Department over which I preside would have made it. We advertised in the Canadian Engineering Journal and everywhere else.

MR. HIGGINS: I am glad to get this information, I was told he was the bridge builder.

MR. SMALLWOOD: You were told?

MR. HIGGINS: Our men here can build bridges as well as anyone.

MR. SMALLWOOD: With his notorious bad memory, the honourable gentleman quotes me as saying Professor Johnson is a bridge builder.

MR. HIGGINS: These gentlemen could not recall two Acts passed here yesterday, and I could recall every word with my notoriously bad memory—may not turn out to be so bad.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable Leader of the Opposition still has the floor.

MR. HIGGINS: I move the adjournment of the debate.

MR. HORWOOD: I second that, Mr. Speaker.

MR. SPEAKER: Moved by the honourable Leader of the Opposition, seconded by the honourable member for Labrador.

MR. SPEAKER: Third reading of a Bill "An Act Respecting the Statutes."

Thereupon this Bill was read a third time.

On motion, the remaining Orders of the Day were deferred.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move that the House at its rising do now adjourn until tomorrow at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

FRIDAY, April 13th, 1951

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

None.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

Honourable the Minister of Labour tabled the following:

"Report of Newfoundland Labour Relations Board for the year 1950."

"Report of Minimum Wage Board established under the Minimum Wage Act, 1950."

Notice of Motions and Questions

HON LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to have "An Act Respecting the Statutes" re-committed. It has already passed third reading but has not been assented to and one paragraph has been omitted.

I would like to have it inserted when it comes up on Monday.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): I give notice I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Respecting Apprenticeship."

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Teachers' Pensions' Act, 1950."

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Mr. Speaker, Question No. 91 is in course of preparation, will arrive in the course of the afternoon, and I ask leave to table it later.

MR. CURTIS: When the orders were read I omitted this: I beg leave to table a report of a Select Committee appointed to consider the introduction of an Accounting Act for Newfoundland.

1. That the Rules of this House with respect to Private Bills have been complied with.

2. Your Committee recommends the introduction of a Bill as prayed by the Petitioners.

(Sgd.) LESLIE R. CURTIS
OLIVER L. VARDY
GORDON W. JANES
R. J. FAHEY
J. G. HIGGINS.

Dated at St. John's,
this 12th day of April, 1951.

HON. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): To ask the honourable Minister of Economic Development:

1. Has the Government started a project to cut ice at Gaff Topsails. If so, when?

2. Why was this done?

3. How much has been spent to far on the project?

4. When will the project finish?

5. Has there been any loss so far, and, if so, is it expected there will be a further loss?

Orders of the Day

Address in Reply.

MR. HIGGINS: I do not wish to proceed any further, Mr. Speaker.

MR. SPEAKER: Am I to understand that the honourable Leader of the Opposition has completed his speech.

MR. HORWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I probably should not have spoken to this motion, but for two interesting events which have occurred during the past three or four weeks. I might, in the normal course of events, answer some of the arguments put forward by members of the Opposition, but their criticisms of the Government policy have been made in such a spirit of good will and their arguments have in the main been so trifling and inconsequential as hardly to merit a rebuttal.

There are, however, just one or two small points which I wish to take this opportunity to answer.

First of all, let me refer, to the honourable the junior member for Harbour Main-Bell Island. He has taken issue with me because I said it was the proud boast of this Government that it has fulfilled all its promises to the people, and he instanced what he thinks are three examples of broken promises. He said this Government had promised, first of all, under Confederation that Ottawa would buy our fish; second this Government promised there would be no extra taxation and thirdly, this Government promised the cost of living would be cut in half.

Now, I must tell the honourable member that this Government never made those promises. First of all, if any of the promises were ever made, which they were not, first of all because this Government was not in existence prior to Confederation and consequently could not have made any predictions or reports as to Confederation. Individual men, some of whom happen now to be sitting on this side of the House, did promise under Confederation, the cost of living would come down. I for one, made that promise and under Confederation the cost of living did come down. We never said, neither I nor any other member sitting on this side of the House ever said the cost would be cut in half, nor that it would start coming down forever and ever. We promised it would come down and one of the first results of Confederation was an immediate cut in prices.

Does not the honourable member remember that in 1949 the price of clothing on Water Street dropped thirty percent; does he not remember that in 1949 the price of coal on Water Street dropped $3.00 a ton from $23.90 to $20.90 and does he not remember that the cost of soap was cut approximately in half. These are merely incidents. Does he not realize that even today, the cost of sugar is something like one and a half cents a pound less than in 1949?

Many items are still, even after two years of climbing prices, not up to a level with prices which they reached prior to Confederation. It is not a result of Confederation that prices have gone up. Confederation cannot be blamed for that, they have gone up all over the North American Continent, the United States and Canada and all over the world. But this is the thing to remember: If it were not for Confederation the cost of living, had we retained the old form of Government or gone back to Responsible Government, would be sky high because we would have our present day prices plus the old customs duties, plus profit on duties, plus taxes which we should in all likelihood have had if a Tory Government or Water Street Government came in; one of their first acts would be to abolish price control and let prices soar where they would.

MR. MILLER: I take objection to one word which the speaker just used. A Tory Government, a Water Street Government. Now, Sir, I really object to that, and every man over here, and I take personal objection.

MR. HORWOOD: If the honourable member objects, I withdraw the remark, as unimportant. My personal opinion may be a Tory Government is synonymous with high taxation and could not be the Government of the toiling masses, purely an opinion, and if the honourable member takes exception as it applies to him personally, I withdraw it without reserve.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): My honourable friends opposite object to Tory, claim they are Progressive Conservatives and claim they are not Tories.

MR. HORWOOD: I am not attempting to accuse the honourable member in any respect, I have the highest personal regard for him, believe he is honest and has the interest of the people at heart.

Now, the second point made by the honourable member for Harbour Main and Bell Island; we promised under Confederation, Ottawa will buy our fish. The answer to that is we never promised anything of the kind. No one on this side of the House ever said that.

MR. FAHEY: Point of order: Mr. Speaker, in my remarks I said the people were told, Ottawa would buy our fish and I did not, to my recollection, say that the Government on that side of the House said it.

MR. HORWOOD: I accept the honourable gentleman's word for that. I will say, however, that it was not said by any member on this side of the House, we never implied that, never said anything calculated to give that impression. What we did say, (I probably said and other members said) was that Ottawa would be in a position to convert sterling to pay for our fish and Ottawa has done that. Another thing I did say and other members said, that the Fisheries Support Board would help to keep up prices of fish and the Fisheries Prices Support Board has done that. I wonder if the honourable member will tell me what he thinks we would have received last year for Labrador Fish, if it were not for the Canadian Government? Would it average $7.00 per quintal for fishermen or $4.50? Gentlemen, I know the answer to that if he does not know.

His other point: We promised there would be no extra taxation,

Now that again is simply not true. We never promised there would be no extra taxation, but we said, under Confederation, taxation would be lighter on the toiling masses of the people, on the common people, on fishermen, that their taxes would not be paid in their grocery bill, that they would not be taxed for every mouthful of food that went into their mouths and every stitch of clothing on their backs; and that has come to pass. We promised no property taxation and there are no property taxes and there will not be any property taxes as long as this Government remains in office.

Now the honourable, the junior member for St. John's East, has criticized me because of something I said about the merchants. Because I don't like those scallywags, the fish merchants, he thinks I am a little socialist.

MR. FOGWILL: Now, Mr. Speaker, I did not say that.

MR. HORWOOD: You quoted the Premier.

MR. FOGWILL: Now keep to what you said.

MR. HORWOOD: I wonder, if you felt free to do so, would you like to call me somewhat of a Communist?

MR. FOGWILL: Until such time as I do — — —

MR. HORWOOD: I don't mind, it would not be the first time I was called a Communist. Nor the first time the Premier was so called.

MR. SPEAKER: He has not done so, the honourable member has not done so.

MR. HORWOOD: No, he has not done so, I give him credit for that. Mr. Speaker, I here and now reiterate everything I said about the fish merchants. There are some good fish merchants, but there is that outfit called NAFEL which contains some of the scum of the earth. The fishermen of this country have been robbed wholesale and retail for that matter. If pointing out that fact that some bloody-handed profiteer charged 16c. a pound for turnips as they have on the Labrador; if pointing out the fact that some ruthless monopolist charges $18 a barrel for potatoes as they have on the Labrador, if pointing out the fact that some conscienceless crook charged $50 a barrel for flour as they have on the Labrador, if that is socialism then I am a socialist, if that is communism then I am a communist; if that is being an atheist, then I am an atheist; if I have to join the Devil's party to be allowed to stand up and speak the truth, if I have to sell my soul in order to stand up and plead for justice, then the devil can have my application tomorrow, for speak the truth and plead for justice I will, just so long as I have breath and God gives me strength.

Now the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland—I am sorry he is not present, I want to criticize something he said. He made a speech which was, for a pleasant change, rather friendly to the Government. I give him credit for that, but do not give him credit for some of the other things he said in reference to Government members as little better than voting machines. He made much of his own independence. Now that remark about Government members being nothing but voting machines may have been true in the far distant past. The honourable member has sat in this Chamber through many long and weary sessions, has seen governments come and go and assisted both at their coming and going, and it might have been true of some of these governments that the honourable and gallant member helped to defeat. These governments may have looked upon their members merely as voting machines but it is not true in respect to this Government. Every member on this side of the House helps to form the policy of this Government—even I, the youngest and least of all. The members all help to form that policy and the people who elected me help to form that policy, and the people who elected all of us help to form that policy.

The honourable and gallant member went on to say that he disagreed with the IBEC report favouring Labrador as a site for a paper mill. He condemned that report without ever having seen it, read it, laid eyes on it in his life—condemned it purely on the face of it. Yes, he was gazing in a crystal ball. He gave no facts or figures, not the slightest shred of evidence but proceeded to condemn Labrador as an area unfit for economic development and gave the shipping season as three and a half months which is pure rubbish as everybody who lives on Labrador knows, pure unadulterated rubbish. He still believes the old fables, still believes it is far away to the North Pole with Esquimaux climbing in and out of igloos, and polar bears. If he had been down there in the summer time and seen the tomatoes and cabbages and gone swimming on the first of June he might revise his opinion, which is based purely on ignorance, superstition and fable.

Now I have this to say, I must inform the honourable and gallant member (in his absence it is true) that the subject of Labrador timber is a subject upon which I, if necessary, will assert my independence. I am not going to sit here as representative of the Labrador people and see another Gander deal pulled in Labrador. I am not going to sit here and see that done by this Government or any other Government. Fortunately this Government is not the kind of government that pulls that sort of deal. The old fallacy, the old attitude which the honourable and gallant member still voiced, this regarding Labrador as a great heritage which the people of Newfoundland have to exploit and skim the cream off, that attitude is dead and as far as this Government is concerned will remain dead. They are not pulling any Gander deals in Labrador or anywhere else.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I began by saying that except for two interesting events of the last few weeks, I should probably not have spoken at all on this occasion. The two events to which I refer are these: The honourable member for Bonavista South has seen fit to cross the floor of this House, and a great national convention of fishermen, Newfoundland Fishermen's Federation has passed into the stage of organization.

Now the honourable member for Bonavista South resigned from the Cabinet and made a statement about the Government which automatically placed him across the floor. That is his right. I don't take issue with the honourable member on that course; he has a perfect right to do so, to leave this House altogether if he sees fit, but I do take issue with him on some of the statements which he made in explaining his action.

He saw fit to attack the principles of cabinet solidarity. He left the impression with me anyway, and I don't think he will get up and object if I say he inferred that our Premier is a dictator, strong willed and high-handed demagogue, ruling the government with a rod of iron and he advised the honourable Premier to relax the rules governing cabinet procedure, to relax the principle of cabinet solidarity as far as Newfoundland is concerned. In doing so, Mr. Speaker, he showed only his own ignorance of the fact of parliamentary history.

The principle of cabinet solidarity was not invented by the honourable Premier, he did not dream it up as a vehicle for expression of dictatorial urge or a way of giving vent to Napoleonic complexes. The principle of cabinet solidarity grew up with the system of responsible government evolved out of it and is inseparable from it. Destroy cabinet solidarity and you destroy the whole system of party government. The whole of that system is so closely and painfully evolved, forged in so many fires, which so many fought for and even died for, men who were truly great. Now you don't have to take my word for it when I say cabinet solidarity is the very basic principle of parliamentary system. I quote from Halsbury's Laws of England:

"The members of the Ministry are jointly and severally responsible to Parliament for every legislative and executive act of the Crown, as also for every legislative measure introduced in Parliament with the authority of the Government."

The members of the Ministry are jointly and severally responsible. I quote also from the Laws and Custom of the Constitution by Sir William R. Anson :

"Another principle and this was of slow growth was that of the joint responsibility of ministers. If a body of Ministers stand or fall together, the influence of the Crown upon the working of government is obviously much diminished, and that of the Commons is increased. If the King should be dissatisfied with the working of a particular department he cannot now, as the King could and did during the eighteenth century, dismiss the Minister responsible for the department unless he has lost the confidence of his colleagues as well as of the Crown; to do so would bring about the retirement of the entire ministry. The Crown has to deal with a body of men who stand or fall together, because they represent common interests and the opinions of a party. They can only remain ministers while a majority of the House of Commons is willing to support their policy, and is not willing to support any other. They are collectively the nominees of that majority, or rather, of the majority of the electors who on the last occasion of a general election chose the party who should hold office until the time came for the country to reconsider its decision."

I quote again, Sir: Arthur Keiths: constitution unity and Administration of the Laws of the Empire :

"The doctrine of Cabinet unity and collective responsibility was slow to develop. It was not clearly recognized as late as 1806, when the idea of the cabinet as necessarily confined to a group of members working in harmony was asserted by Addington who excluded Lord Loughborough from its membership on that score but Pitt clearly saw that there must be an avowed and real minister possessing the chief weight in the council, and the principal place in the confidence of the King. The Power of the Prime Minister has grown with the transfer of power from the House of Commons to the electors in consequence of the Reform Acts. The election now of a new House of Commons, is essentially coupled with the obligation, more or less avowedly, undertaken by candidates to support some great political leader's claims to the Premiership, and the man thus favoured is clearly in a position of dominant strength as regard the Cabinet. The responsibility of the Cabinet being elected, its advice to the Crown must be unanimous."

Now I have one more quotation from a great authority and this is in case the honourable member might think his proposal has never been tried before. He proposes the loosening of the rule of cabinet solidarity and that the laws of cabinet conduct be relaxed. He may not know it but that has already been tried in England and proved a failure. I quote from A. V. Dicey—Laws of the Constitution." Now he is referring here to the abolishment of free trade in England. In 1932 when the Cabinet brought in a report which was not unanimous concerning the abolishing of free trade and the imposition of certain customs duties. The Cabinet then formulated in 1932, an agreement to give authority, while remaining united to break with precedent demanding that the Cabinet should speak with unanimous voice collectively responsible to the Commons.

"The Cabinet has accordingly determined that some modification of usual ministerial practice is required and has decided that ministers who find themselves unable to support the conclusions arrived at by the majority of their colleagues on the subject of import duties and cognate matters are to be at liberty to express their views by speech and vote.

The Cabinet being essentially united in all other matters of policy believe that by this special provision it is best interpreting the will of the nation and the needs of the time.

It is to be observed that the justification purported to be the belief that the Cabinet was best interpreting the will of the nation and needs of the time. This is the ultimate justification for all conventions modifying or regulating the use of the prerogative of Government."

Now note this:

"The dissenting minister, in spite of the fact that he was given permission to dissent, goes in there and by his speech and vote airs his dissenting views; the dissenting minister resigned after a few months on the cognate issue."

As a result the convention of Cabinet unanimity was reinforced.

MR. RUSSELL: Would the honourable member yield for a moment on a point of fact. This attack which I am supposed to have made, although the word attack is used, was merely a personal appeal from one friend to another, maybe not political friends but we have a lot in common, that the rules of cabinet might be relaxed a little and that if he could not do this, maybe he would in the interest of good fellowship and happier feelings among human beings who, after all, live for most of their years without the opportunity to belong to a cabinet, make a little greater effort at unanimity. I don't think I attacked this all-hallowed system so violently that it needs all this criticism I gave a friendly tip to the Premier, and asked him, out of the goodness of my heart, to relax a little but I quickly said, if that could have been done, I would be over there yet and that is why I am here. If he could, maybe in future he would try to get a little more unanimity.

MR. HORWOOD: I appreciate the honourable member's explanation. Thousands of people are wondering why the honourable member is over on that side instead of on this side and I am helping to explain why he is on that side instead of this side of the House. I want to emphasize this subject of cabinet solidarity. I imagine it has not been sufficiently clearly put and I want to quote the authority for it.

Now, if you will indulge me, Mr. Speaker, and the honourable members, I have yet two more authorities, I would like to quote very briefly. They are much more recent, if you don't want to go back into history.

During this past month this principle, in Ottawa, was reiterated, restated, by the Right Honourable St. Laurent in a debate which had something to do with agriculture. Now these were his words: I am quoting from official hansard:

"Obviously in any government under a parliamentary system, all men do not always necessarily have the same thoughts nor necessarily use the same speech in communicating their thoughts. There are many matters of interest to human beings about which we do not always have the same views. If it were otherwise it would be very much simpler to have a one-man government. Our system is cabinet government and cabinet government involves cabinet responsibility and cabinet solidarity. As I understand it cabinet solidarity requires agreement on policies and on conclusions."

Five days later in the same House of Commons in Ottawa, another statement was made by Mr. George Drew while criticizing the Minister of Agriculture, the honourable Mr. Gardner, for some holding of policy.

In his criticism Mr. Drew again demonstrated this great principle of cabinet solidarity in these words in referring to Mr. Gardner:

"I regard the fundamental principle of cabinet solidarity as the very foundation of our system of responsible government."

It is this principle, Mr. Speaker, which is the very foundation of our system of responsible government, that the honourable member for Bonavista South expected the Premier or suggested or hinted or tipped off the Premier that he ought to relax or abolish or do away with. Our system of government is not something we just got. It is not something new, not something the Prime Minister in Great Britain, the Prime Minister in Canada can mold or shape to his own will or do what he likes with. Out of the confusion of the dark ages our system emerged, out of the evolution of facts, the boiling rack of all civil rights and warfare this principle developed and evolved. As I said before it was fought for and even died for by men who were truly great and saw beyond their own time into the time when constitutional government should no longer be a dream but take root and flourish when full dominion of Kings and of Lords would be curbed and when, to quote the words of the immortal Bartholomew:

"Man should be no longer a Wolf but a man."

Now, Mr. Speaker, I think I have said enough on that subject, probably more than honourable members think I have any right or need to say.

No, I will not call the honourable member an anarchist, or perhaps I might say an anarchistic intellectual.

MR. SMALLWOOD: An anarchist as far as his intellectual processes are concerned.

MR. HORWOOD: Now, the other event, Mr. Speaker, of great importance, of very primary importance which has occurred recently, is the organization of the Fishermen's Federation of Newfoundland.

Now, we on this side of the House have been accused of going up there and making political hay while the sun shone. I admit that we went up there and made political hay while the sun shone, if helping the fishermen of this organization, of this Province to form for themselves an organization which they have badly needed for so long, if assisting them in every possible way, going up and working seven eight and ten hours a day on the platform on the committees is making political hay. Making political hay, true, but the right kind of political hay, the kind this party believes in, helping the people, taking the part of the toiling masses, of the people of this Province and in furthering this organization we are helping the people, that is the kind of political hay we made and intend to go on making, please God, for many, many years to come.

I must congratulate the honourable the Premier personally on having conceived and carried out the plans for this badly needed and long overdue organization. As most honourable members know, I have been connected with the working men's organizations from the time I left school. I have spent hundreds of hours, literally hundreds of hours, sitting around conference tables negotiating, fighting, for the rights of what I consider to be the rights of the working men, trying to get a few extra cents in their pockets or food on their table, trying to see to it their children got a better chance in life than they had beforehand and, for several years past, hoped for and planned and talked about an organization of Newfoundland fishermen. I never saw how it could be brought about until now. It required a greater man than I was to formulate the plans and put them into operation, to formulate and develop the plans for bringing that organization into being. And our local merchants love me for it, for the work I have just spoken of and the things I stood up for. If I attacked them they attacked me plenty before I came in here. They did not come along and congratulate me for the work I was doing, they hated my very guts; they said that fellow Horwood, why he is a red communist, the personal agent of Joe Stalin in Newfoundland, in the pay of Moscow, he ought to be in jail. I did not worry too much about that, I was in good company. They were saying the same thing thirty years ago about the young upstart named Joey Smallwood and many in this town in those days did not call him a communist but a Bolshevik and wanted to take and throw him out of the court house but today he is the Premier of this Province.

But this organization, this Newfoundland Federation of Fishermen is going to meet opposition, it may be subtle, not obvious, it may be hidden but it will be there and they will have to be prepared to meet and fight it just the same as we did in other organizations, and the honourable members of the Opposition who were or are labour leaders will bear me out in this, the same as all organizations of this type meet opposition and fight for their rights if necessary. Because the merchant class, the people Monsignor Coady last week in his inspiring address referred to as men at the top, have not yet gotten used to sharing the wealth of the world with the men who toil and you can't blame them because they had everything their own way for so long. The world has been going on for thousands of years and it is only recently that workmen's organizations have been started. Do you know it is only about a hundred years ago since the working men of the world began to get up on their hind legs and stick out their chests and through workingmen's organizations to assert for themselves the rights of free men in a free society.

The movement began in Europe and especially in England. It is essentially a British institution. Growing out of the fever and torment of the people it came forward to dig down and to uproot and to build again and to plan to prepare the ways and to make straight the paths for better things to come. That movement arose out of unrest and discontent of oppression of down trodden people with power of new vision, forward and upward.

Like all new movements and especially those that aim at fair distribution of wealth, taking from those who have already more than their share and giving to those who have less than their share, like all movements of that sort, it meant at first violent and prolonged opposition. Union leaders were jailed, unions themselves for all practical purposes outlawed, conspiracy acts were passed which in effect forbade all working men to organize and a part of one of those conspiracy acts was consolidated in 1910 as a part of the law of this country and remained in force until repealed by our trade union organization last year, a law which under certain conditions and in certain situations forbade the right to strike, and little by little, step by step, until in the face of opposition, in the face of that kind of opposition the aims of the unions, of the workmen's organizations were realized—first of all the right to organization, then the right to speak with a united voice, then the right to collective bargaining and last of all, and only quite recently, the right to make that voice heard, the right to make it heard by legal process, if necessary to go to court and force them to listen to that united, collective voice.

In a world as highly recognized as in our day, and we have been told repeatedly it is a highly organized world, it may be difficult for us to visualize the amazing brevity of trade unions history, yet it is a fact that the first successful union on a national scale was organized exactly one hundred years ago this year, in 1851 in England, I am sorry I don't recall off-hand the name of that union, possibly the honourable the Premier may know, I don't recall it but I do know it was in 1851. In that brief one hundred years, the trade unions, the workman's unions accomplished more good than any other organization from its beginning as a back-room conspiracy, a little group of men hiding away, talking things over—afraid to show their noses to the light of day. From that kind of beginning one hundred years ago it has today reached to every free corner of every free country in this world, one of the most important factors and influences in modern life. Organized labour, the working man's movement has taken its place today in this Province.

No doubt, Mr. Speaker, some of our more backward merchants, some of our more reactionary merchants will gnash their teeth in private, they dare not in public, but they will do it in private, but let them, that is their privilege. They must learn by experience if necessary, we are no longer living in the age of industrial slavery. Learn, by experience if necessary, that this is the century of the common man and that the so-called merchant prince—the absolute ruler of his own private little empire whether down on Water Street or in an outport or harbour, the absolute ruler of his own little private empire—is as outmoded as the coach and four in which he used to drive.

This Federation will be hailed and welcomed by every man of good will in our midst. It will confer upon the fishing population of Newfoundland, if successful, and I am sure it is going to be successful, some of the rights they have long known to be theirs but of which they could never take advantage, and will at the same time, impose upon them certain responsibilities which some of them might be glad to shirk, but which will, in the long run, be good for the economy of this Island.

I envisage this organization, this new great Federation of Fishermen, as one of the great architects of freedom, great builders of freedom in this Island. When I talk about freedom, Mr. Speaker, I don't mean the freedom to live on bread and tea and an occasional plug of Beaver tobacco. I mean freedom to have a tight roof over their heads and a sound boat under their feet, to eat enough without wondering where the next meal is coming from, the freedom to give their children decent education, to enjoy their share of good things, the decencies of life. That is what I mean when I talk about freedom. I envisage this new organization, which has been set up as a result of the policy of this Government, as an important step on the road of social progress. Only a step, it is true, but a step towards that time which is coming whether we think for it or against it, the time which is coming and which we can hasten if we work for it, a time when all of us can live freely together in a free system, when the voices of poverty and oppression and the voices of greed and degradation and ill-will are heard no more in this land of ours but are memories out of a darker past that has blossomed into a new day.

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, since it seems apparent that no other member wishes to speak to the motion before the House, I propose a recess for ten minutes.

The House then recessed for ten minutes.

MR. CURTIS: It is customary for the honourable the Premier to close the debate, but he has waived his right by speaking already.

First of all I would like to congratulate the mover and seconder of the motion that an address in reply be drafted to His Honour the Lieutenant Governor by this House.

MR. RUSSELL: To a point of information on procedure. I am probably wrong, is the debate closed when the mover talked again, I assume it is. I am not sure.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion was moved and seconded by the member for Labrador and the member for Fogo, that a committee draft an address in reply. The motion is that the address be adopted, and, as the honourable the Attorney General just said, it is the honourable the Premier's right, but he saw it fit to waive that right and spoke in the debate as an ordinary member.

MR. RUSSELL: There are two motions?

MR. SPEAKER: Yes that motion disposes of the first.

MR. CURTIS: First of all I would like to congratulate these two young men, both new, as are most of us to this House. These young men have the advantage of being younger than most of us and I am sure the intelligent manner in which they performed their duties which fell upon them will indicate to us they are coming men, and we will all, I am sure, look forward to their future.

I would like also to congratulate the speakers who preceded me and then your good self, Mr. Speaker, upon your appointment to represent Newfoundland at a recent conference of speakers or other representatives of parliament at New Zealand. I have had the pleasure of listening to your own report of your experience during that visit, and I am happy to feel that you had had a pleasant visit, and I am sure one that will be profitable to you and ultimately the province you had the honour to represent.

As the Speech from the Throne indicates there were several Dominion-Provincial Conferences during the year. You will remember, Mr. Speaker, the first was to devise the method of amending the Constitution. These conferences may not appeal to the rank and file of this House or to the people of this country as a whole, but I would like to assure you these are very important conferences and the time spent there has not been wasted. The Constitution, as you know, Sir, is in the form of an Act of the British Parliament and can, at present, be amended only by the British Parliament. The hope is that in time, Mr. Speaker, this Act will be brought across the water and made an Act of the Dominion of Canada. But before that is done, some method must be agreed upon as to how in that instance it is to be amended. For that reason the conferences have been long, we have had sub-committees working on the various details. I wish to assure you that progress is being made and ultimately, we hope, that a satisfactory solution will be reached. When that has been done and a means of amending procedure has been devised, then and only then will it be safe to bring the British North American Act across to Canada. If it is brought across without any amending procedure, we will have a very rigid Act which will not suit a growing country such as Canada, the country of which we are now a proud province.

We have had other conferences during the year, which have also been mentioned during the Speech from the Throne, with reference to renewing the tax agreement. I was fortunate, Mr. Speaker, in being there and I would like to tell the House on that occasion our Premier represented Newfoundland truly and well. I don't think, Mr. Speaker, that Newfoundland has another son which she could have sent to that conference who could have spoken with such fervour and received the endorsement that our Premier did on that occasion. While that conference was in session other matters were discussed which are of importance to Newfoundland. We discussed the question of old age pensions and discussed the possibility of having pensions made payable to those who needed them and are between 65 and 70 years of age. The plan, Mr. Speaker, was that the Federal Government would take over and pay entirely all pensions owed to those over 70 years of age, without a means test and without any contributions from the Provinces. It was hoped then that Canada would take a step forward and have a pension, with a means test, for those between 65 and 70 years of age. I am sorry my honourable friend, the Leader of the Opposition, is not quite ready to come under that category but I think in six years, if he can pass the means test, I hope to have it working.

We also discussed at that conference, Mr. Speaker, a plan for collecting the sales tax on the turn-over level. It is called Social Security Assessment in Newfoundland, in other Provinces just a sales tax. We will be glad to make our Social Security Assessment collectable in the same manner. I think my honourable friend, the Leader of the Opposition, got it wrong when speaking of what was contemplated as a new tax. It is not a new tax but simply a replacement of the present tax which need not necessarily be limited by the Act creating it to a 3% levy. Now at the present time we pay 3% social assessment on a retail basis. If we get the necessary legislature we will be able to collect it in the form of a turn-over tax which will have several advantages, considerable advantages, because some Provinces are afraid the Government may take advantage of the fact it is a hidden tax. They object as it may be a hidden tax, but that is not the reason, Mr. Speaker, that we will welcome the ability to collect it under the new guise. Money will be saved if we do, it will be easier to collect and we can be more sure of collecting the whole amount. It is very difficult to collect the present tax, but we hope, with the new method, we may be able to collect from everyone and be quite sure there are no defaulters.

I am not going to discuss, Mr. Speaker, the international situation, I am not competent, it is causing us a great deal of worry, but there is one thing, one statement made by the Minister of Finance of Canada of which we will have to take notice and that is the recommendation that the Provinces spend as sparingly as possible. Now that does not mean, Mr. Speaker, that we must let down on our present plan of spending what is necessary for economic development. We must continue this expenditure until the very last minute and not stop until we have gotten employment for our people, continual employment for our people, until we have improved our fisheries and until we have gotten work for every man willing to work. To that purpose we will devote every bit of our energy and if necessary every cent of our surplus. We have a surplus, we came in with a surplus, that surplus is not in a chest, we cannot sit on it and we have no intention of sitting on that surplus, that is not what it is for, but to be spent for the benefit of Newfoundland and the people of Newfoundland, and we intend to see that it is spent in just that way. And because that surplus is diminishing, Mr. Speaker, people must not conclude that Newfoundland is going to the dogs and the Government is going bankrupt, and people need not feel they must forfeit confidence in the Government, we are doing with that surplus just what should be done and what, indeed, the Commission of Government should have done rather than hold on to it as they did and hoarded it as they did.

I regret that the honourable the Minister for Bonavista South has left us, and that it became necessary for us to read him out of the Party. I assure you it was with very mixed feelings that I participated in this action, but I think after what was said during this debate by the honourable member and others, the honourable the member for Bonavista, himself, will realize that no man who has publicly denied confidence in the present Government could possibly continue to sit on this side of the House and be expected to endorse the policy. The very fact that he was willing, suggests very strongly he did not mean what he said, when he added he had no confidence in the Government. The very fact that he was willing to sit over here and support us must show that; otherwise how inconsistent would he be?

Mr. Speaker, let us be quite sure of one thing, the financial position of Newfoundland is not flimsy. In fact, as the Premier has told us, it is sounder than that of any other Province of Canada. The financial prospects of Newfoundland are good and give cause for satisfaction. We have abiding faith in Newfoundland, we have faith in our people; we have faith in our fisheries, faith in our forests, and have faith in our minerals. All we lack, Mr. Speaker, is development of these fisheries, the harvesting of this timber, the recovery of these minerals and the harnessing of these water-powers. For that purpose, Mr. Speaker, this Government has worked, day and night; Sunday and Monday and holidays. We have not spared ourselves. The Premier himself, Mr. Speaker, has taken few, if any holidays, many of my colleagues have taken none, and I myself, have not been able to take any holidays but, I must say, I have given notice to the Premier that if I don't get some holidays, I am going to walk across the House and see I get some. We are working, Mr. Speaker, to get the middle syllable, rad. out of Labrador and leave Labor. And we are working hard to get the despair out of Bay D'Espoir and bring back the hope into that name—working hard to expose our hidden minerals and produce our hidden assets. Those are the objects, Mr. Speaker, of this party and this Government is working on and will continue to work with that sole object in view. Under the energetic leadership of the Premier we are working and, as I say, will continue to work.

Ever since I was a boy, I have been hearing about Newfoundland's wonderful resources, what wonderful resources we had, but it was all talk. Now we are beginning to see this talk replaced by action and with that action, and to help bring about that action we intend to use our surplus and the fact that it is being used should not encourage any member of to believe that because this surplus is diminishing, we are near bankruptcy and that we are not capable to run affairs. I don't think it is at all likely to suggest that, Mr. Speaker, we have the money and we are going to spend it.

The honourable the junior member for Harbour Main-Bell Island suggested we have not lived up to our promises. I think the honourable member for Labrador answered him fully this afternoon. I would like to see, Mr. Speaker, the cost of living that we would have in Newfoundland if it were not for Confederation. The cost of living in the countries from which we get our supplies has risen and normally costs here would have risen very much more, a great deal more than they have during the past two years. Newfoundland has reason to be very happy that she went into Confederation when she did. If she had not, the taxation burden on the people would be enormous.

I am not going to discuss the fishery. Mr. Speaker, I am not a fisherman.

MR. MILER: You would not like to see the cost of living high, would you?

MR. CURTIS: No, that is why I am glad we went into Confederation. We would be paying much more, if you had had your way.

MR. MILLER: Would you grant me an opportunity to answer that now?

the last speaker just said, if I had my way we would have had certain results. I just want to tell that last speaker that in this House my record here shows that I voted for the delegation to go to Ottawa to get the terms of union. I voted against them when I did not think they were good enough and I am sure history will prove I was right. They then went back and got better terms and I am still not satisfied and I presume when we get a royal commission to investigate I probably will not be satisfied then. But that proves but one thing: I wanted the best deal for this country, the best deal wherever it came from.

MR. CURTIS: I am very happy I did give room for this explanation. Apparently, the honourable member was a Confederate at heart, and just got cold feet as we got near the border line. We would be glad to welcome him across this House with the true Confederates at any time he wants to come.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I say the best possible terms procurable at that time were procured at that time. They are not final.

MR. CURTIS: I say, Mr. Speaker, whatever my honourable friend did, the people of Newfoundland were never as well off as they are today. I think my honourable friend will admit that. The people of this country as a whole country, were never as well off as today.

MR. MILLER: I will enlarge on that, Mr. Speaker, there is one section in my District where 45 men went up to Ontario and I am sure they are better off. I am not quite so sure about the fishermen who are left.

MR. CURTIS: I say the people who are left are better off than ever before. Every settlement represented by the honourable member is better off than ever it was, and I challenge him to deny it. The standard of living of every person in this country has risen since Confederation, is better than ever and we are proud to be in a Government that would sponsor such conditions. You got the old age pensions. What did we find when we came in? $30 a quarter. Now it is $40 a month. Family Allowances we never had before. This Government has been a party to bringing in old age pensions, dependents' allowance, mother's allowance. I don't think my honourable friend (and I have the greatest respect for his integrity) I don't think he will deny that. The people would never be as well off, never get the breaks the Government has given them and we are glad we have been privileged to serve the people in that way.

MR. FAHEY: May I have a word there. I would like to make this point clear that I don't see why the speaker should give the Government of today credit for social security conditions which are brought around due to changes in world conditions and it was not until 1944 Family Allowances came into Canada, brought about by world conditions, and I think this country is backward due to the fault of the Commission of Government giving away free of interest our money instead of spending it on our people who then could have better than $30 a quarter and these policies are not due to this Government or that Government. It was due to the fact that we never had a surplus and gave what we did have interest free. These changes in social services are due to a change in world conditions over a lapse of 14 years when we did not have our own Government.

MR. CURTIS: The honourable the Premier has reminded me, Sir, that the terms of union are not final, they can always be amended, it was that fact that my honourable friend did not think of when he was prepared to oppose them as they were made.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I do wish that my honourable and learned friend, the leader of the opposition, would cut out the nonsense which he inserted into his address wherein he explained what the Audit Act is for. Yes, I say to him what we did in financing the cement mill and the gypsum plant and in financing the birch plant were contrary to the provisions of the Audit Act. Now I could be very nasty to my learned friend but I don't like to be, yet it is only fair to say that the Audit Act to which he referred was amended in 1933. Now, then, Mr. Speaker, who was the Government of 1933? The Conservative Government, or the Tory Government, or the Progressive Conservative Government, or whatever they like to call themselves, (Mr. Alderdice was in power in 1933) and in 1933 that Government, not a Liberal Government, amended the Audit Act, and made it possible for us to do those things we do, and Sir, it is surely the irony of fate for the successors of these men to question what we have done under the Act that they themselves amended.

MR. HIGGINS: That is nonsense.

MR. CURTIS: The Act says, Mr. Speaker, the subject of expenditure, one for which no legislative provision has been made "then upon the report of the Minister of Finance and Customs that there is no legislative provision and of the Minister having charge of the service in question that the necessity is urgent, the Governor in Council may order a special warrant to be prepared, to be signed by the Governor, for the issue of the amount estimated to be required, which shall be placed by the Minister of Finance and Customs to a special account, against which cheques may issue from time to time in the usual form as they are required." Until the necessary legislative provision had been made that was done. That report is here. Then upon the report of the Controller of the Treasury to the same effect, that is there. The Government in Council may order special warrant to issue.

I say, Mr. Speaker, and I am satisfied now concerning the fact, I am addressing this House as the Attorney General and I say definitely, finally, and without any prevarication that each and every step enumerated in this Act has been carried out, conscientiously, carefully and scrupulously and expenditures that were made, were made legally and without any questions whatever and I hope my honourable friend will not again suggest any such laxity on the part of the Government. I want to tell him that this Government is as honest as any Government that ever sat in this House. We have said that a dozen times and the honourable member does not like it.

MR. HIGGINS: It has nothing to do with honesty or dishonesty.

MR. CURTIS: If it is a question of the legal point, anybody in this House can read that. I say it is clearly given and not a question of opinion and any man who needs a lawyer to read that phrase is wasting his money. We could have read that just as well if we had not qualified for the bar.

As I said, Mr. Speaker, this is as honest a government as ever sat in this House. I know my honourable friend does not like it, and he told us in his speech that our suggesting that we were honest was only trying to emphasize our own honesty. Well, I want to tell the honourable member why on this side we emphasize our honesty.

MR. HIGGINS: I never said honesty at all. I said you were uttering resolutions of loyalty as in the old boxing days when fellows had to say they were honest.

MR. CURTIS: Well we are going to insist on rubbing the noses of the members opposite in the fact that we are honest. I remember the campaign of 1949, The honourable member got up in the C.L.B. Armoury and made a speech which was broadcast over the air. I was not at the meeting, I would not waste my time being there, but I listened, my honourable friend on the other side of the House referred to us as having itchy palms. Now he referred to us as having itchy palms. Now, Mr. Speaker, what does that mean? He got up and said we had itchy palms, not in the House, in the C.L.B. Armoury during the election, he got up and said we have itchy palms. I heard him say it over the air, and I made up my mind that as soon as I got a chance I would expose it and assure him that on this side of the House there are no itchy palms, that is the reason we emphasize our honesty and will continue repeating it ad nauseam that we are honest, and my honourable friend has only himself to blame. When he goes home he should get some old copies of the "Daily News" and read the statement I said he made.

MR. FAHEY: I rise to a point of order: Any suggestion that the speaker made outside of the House of Assembly, is it proper to bring a member up about that?

MR. CURTIS: What about the promises we were supposed to have made, were they made in this House or on the outside?

MR. FAHEY: I said the people were told. I did not say that the Government here made any. I also said that Ottawa's budget was millions and Newfoundland's only a drop in the bucket, but I could go so far as to say the members promised outside the Government, I could go so far as to say that.

MR. HORWOOD: You said that in reference to my speech when you said —

MR. HIGGINS: I would like the honourable the Attorney General to tell me when that speech was made.

MR. CURTIS: I wish to assure my honourable friend I am not trying to misquote him and if I were I would be very happy to apologize. But in the C.L.B. Armoury, my honourable friend, in the course of his speech said the Government had itchy palms.

MR. FAHEY: Well, Sir, another member said, in the C.L.B. Armoury, that there would be three jobs for every man if the Government were elected.

MR. CURTIS: We probably will have that. However, I am trying to point out when my honourable friend made that statement.

MR. SPEAKER: Let me state, strictly speaking, it is not proper to argue about what is said outside the House. In this debate great laxity has been permitted and I am sure I have allowed no greater brief to this side of the House than the honourable member on the other side.

MR. CURTIS: Now, Mr. Speaker, I am glad that speakers have made reference to the freight rate case. That, Mr. Speaker, was a most fortunate decision for Newfoundland. In fact, it might well rank with the decision of the Privy Council in the case of Labrador. As a result of the Government's act in this case the country has been saved two million seven hundred thousand dollars a year. That was undoubtedly a marvelous victory and that amount of money, $2,700,000 a year, is more than we will ever receive from the Labrador during the lifetime of any of us. The beauty of the decision, Mr. Speaker, is this, the more Newfoundland grows, the more business Newfoundland does, the greater amount we will save. $2,700,000 is not the maximum, if our trade doubles, that saving will be $5,400,000 and so on. So you see, Mr. Speaker, as time goes on the savings as a result of that decision arrived at will pyramid greatly. That is a great decision and personally I feel proud in playing some little part in carrying it out and the Premier of this country was behind us every step of the way. True he only had declared what was in the terms of union, we must have had a good case to have won it but many a good case can be lost by bad representation of the facts.

I was going to refer, Mr. Speaker, to the cost of living, but I think my honourable friend, the member for Labrador, has done that and the House is well satisfied that the cost of living in Newfoundland is much less than we could have hoped it would be had we not gone into Confederation.

It is very good indeed to see in the Speech from the Throne a reference to the Alcoholic Liquor Act. The Bill we passed last year was productive of much good and reduced considerably the consumption of hard liquor. But I can not forget the people of this country voted for total prohibition but while it is not practicable, the people are justified in bringing in the most temperate liquor legislation they can possibly have, and for that reason I trust that when the Premier brings in the Alcoholic Liquor Act it will have some word as to still further reduction in the consumption of liquor. My own opinion is the more money we get for liquor the more we have to pay out for institutions of correction which exist largely because of the sale and consumption of hard liquor.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I have no intention of prolonging the debate, it has already dragged over five weeks and you and I and the rest of us are pretty well sick of seeing it on the order paper. I would like to emphasize one thing in closing, that is this: When this House closes at the end of this month or the middle of next or the end of next month, this Government has no intention of stopping its plans for economic development. When this House closes we will have more time to devote to that work and if the Audit Act is going to cripple us in doing that, there are only two alternatives, to vote the entire balance or to keep the House in continuous session. We are not going to be stopped in our efforts to rehabilitate this country by the Audit Act. We think and are sure that what we have done and plan to do and will do is in compliance with that Act, and if there were any question, if I thought there were any question of our compliance

I would bring in an amendment and have the offending clause wiped out. We are here to serve the people, to bring prosperity to this country and we are not going to let one section of one Act stop us.

MR. CANNING: I move the adjournment of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

MR. SPEAKER: Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Distribution of Electricity in the Corner Brook Area."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

Section 7 read and passed.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendment. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

On motion the second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines" was deferred.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Industrial Development Loan Act, 1949."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Fisheries Loan Act, 1949."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Educational (Departmental) Act, 1939."

MR. HEFFERTON: Mr. Speaker, when the Act was amended last year, we omitted to repeal one of the sections. This was really an oversight and this Act simply calls for an addition to the Bill last year.

Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the School Attendance Act, 1942."

MR. HEFFERTON: Although this is an extremely important matter I do not intend to speak at length on it. I would simply ask the House to increase the school leaving age to 15 years of age. I have much pleasure in moving the second reading of this Bill.

Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Memorial University Act, 1949."

MR. HEFFERTON: In the appointment of the Board of Regents the Act calls for fourteen members to be appointed, this raises the number to fifteen in order to make the board more representative of the Province and we even might be able to appoint one or two outside the Province. I move the second reading of this Bill.

Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act to Remove Doubts as to the coming into Force of the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act, 1951."

MR. BALLAM: Mr. Speaker, last year when the Act was passed it was stated it should come into effect on the date proclaimed and this year we brought in an amendment to the Act, and it was stated in the amendment that the former Act and the amendment would come into force together on a particular date. The first of April was the date on which it was to come into effect. There seems to be a little question of doubt as to whether that was so or not, so we bring in this amendment, to remove any doubt as to the date of coming into effect. I therefore move the second reading.

Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act to Incorporate the Newfoundland Teachers' Association."

MR. HEFFERTON: For some time the teachers of Newfoundland have been banded into an association, the Newfoundland Teachers' Association. During that time they have had an effect on the education of this Province, but they have been handicapped by the fact that membership fluctuates from year to year depending on the situation. They have made several obligations in order to have the association become statutory as is common policy in the Dominion of Canada, the United States, Australia and England. The request of the association is similar to one granted elsewhere. I have much pleasure in moving the second reading of this Bill.

Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. COURAGE: I have much pleasure in seconding this motion, I was a teacher for years, and most of the time a member of the Newfoundland Teachers' Association. I have as a former Newfoundland teacher a consciousness to promote the proficient standing of teachers in this country. I think it is not only desirable but absolutely necessary. I understand from my honourable friend, the Minister of Education, the Newfoundland Teachers' Association, which represents by far the majority of the teachers, certainly of the better qualified and more experienced teachers has requested it. As a former teacher I second the motion.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of a Bill "An Act to make Uniform the Law Respecting the Distribution of the Estates of Intestates."

MR. CURTIS: I beg to have the second reading deferred, Mr. Speaker.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting Vocational Education in Newfoundland."

MR. HEFFERTON: As already indicated in the Speech from the Throne, it is the intention of the Government of Newfoundland to make available a vocational school as soon as possible. In order to build that school, we have to do it within the foreseeable future in order to take advantage of the per capita grant given by the Federal Government, in our case an amount furnished on a fifty-fifty basis, $150,000, in order that we may be able to set up several schools within the Province, if and when the occasion rises. In order that we have the proper legal machinery, it is necessary that this Act be in force. This Act is modelled upon those of other Provinces, where vocational training is a part of regular procedure. I have much pleasure in moving the second reading.

MR. SPEAKER: Resolutions to request the Parliament of Canada that steps be taken to relax the provisions of the Migratory Birds Convention Act so as to prevent undue hardship to the fishing population of Newfoundland and Labrador.

MR. HORWOOD: I move that order be deferred. It will be ready on tomorrow.

MR. KEOUGH: In reply to Question No. 91: Early in the afternoon, I said it would be on my desk during the afternoon. I now beg leave to table the report.

1. The Government did buy a caraque dragger.

2. The dragger was purchased by arrangements made through the Fishermen's Loan Board of the Government of New Brunswick.

3. The cost was $22,000.

4. Tabled herewith.

6. The dragger is at present operating out of Burin.

7. Arrangements have been made for the charter of the dragger to Hollett Sons and Company, for the period of one year, to be used chiefly in scallop dragging operations, and with the option to purchase.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move that the House at its rising adjourn until tomorrow Monday at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

MONDAY, April 16, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

Mr. Courage presented a Petition from the people of English Harbour West, Re Roads.

Mr. Vardy prohibiting Dogs in the Portugal Cove Area.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): The Select Committee to consider the Bill for the Architects of Newfoundland beg to report as follows:

1. That the Rules of this House with respect to Private Bills have been complied with.

2. Your Committee recommends the introduction of a Bill as prayed by the Petitioners.

(Sgd.) LESLIE R. CURTIS
H. L. POTTLE
H. HORWOOD
FRANK D. FOGWILL
JOHN G. HIGGINS.

Dated at St. John's this 12th day of April, 1951.

The Committee also begs to state that the results of the Committee do not commit ourselves to the support of the Bill.

Giving Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill entitled "An Act Respecting Proof of Death of His Majesty's Military, Naval or Air Forces."

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): To ask the honourable the Minister of Supply or other Minister:

1. Does the Government own, operate, control or have any interest in any store in Labrador?

MR. FOGWILL: I refer again, Mr. Speaker, to Question No. 68 directed to the honourable the Minister of Finance and I wonder has the answer been prepared? That is the one dealing with revenue of surplus account for the first eleven months and expenditure, with the exception of extraordinary expenditure.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I may say, I phoned a moment ago to the Deputy Minister to ask if he had that ready, and he said he did not but might have it during the afternoon, in which case he will send it down, otherwise I assure the honourable member it will be ready tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 92.

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): The answer to that, it is being prepared by the Department. I had hoped to have it available to present to the House but it has not arrived yet, it will be brought down tomorrow.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): I have the answer to question No. 89 on the Order Paper of April 12.

Question: Is it true that the heating system in the Corner Brook Sanatorium had to be re-arranged, if so, who was responsible and what was the extra cost involved?

Answer: No. It was, however, advisable when possible saving in fuel costs became apparent. The cost of conversion is estimated at $1,800.00.

I would like to add, Mr. Speaker, for the information of this honourable House, when the Corner Brook Sanatorium was being planned, enquiries were made as to the possibility of obtaining delivery of bunker C fuel oil. That, incidentally, as I have no doubt honourable members know, is a type of fuel oil less expensive than ordinary fuel oil in use. At that particular time that bunker C fuel oil was not obtainable nor was storage available in Corner Brook, and it was decided the use of furnace fuel oil though more expensive was cheaper than coal, and as a result the decision was made to put in oil burner installations suitable for use of furnace fuel oil because at some later date, if and when bunker C oil became available, conversion could be made at a comparatively small cost. Last year, 1950, Bowaters decided to convert their mill in Corner Brook from coal to bunker C oil and in doing so provided two large storage tanks and arrangements have since been made by them whereby delivery to the sanatorium can be obtained and an order was placed for the necessary heating coil for the tank and this conversion, as previously stated in answer to question, is to cost $1,800 which will mean an annual saving of about $14,000. I have no doubt honourable members, and the House, will consider the spending of $1,800 sufficient justification for saving $14,000.00 annually.

Orders of the Day

MR. CANNING: Mr. Speaker, in rising to take part in the debate, I wish to congratulate the mover and seconder, the member for Labrador and the member for Fogo on their addresses in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Before I go on, Mr. Speaker, I would like to defend myself and my fellow colleagues on this side of the House in regard to our program of making speeches for voicing our opinion. The Opposition very sarcastically called us rubber stamps, told us we have been dictated to and so on. I am about to make a speech this afternoon and nobody on this side of the House has any idea what I am going to say. The Premier does not know, nor any Minister nor any of the private members. I am absolutely free to say what I wish, to express my opinion. And I can safely say now, that any policy the Government puts forth, if I were to tear it apart and then offer some constructive ideas, I would not get a note from the Premier to walk across the House. I say if I were to offer something constructive. That is our policy here.

A few days ago the honourable member for Labrador during his speech attacked NAFEL and when expressing his opinion said; it is my opinion, NAFEL was not the thing. Sir, I did not agree with him. He was free to express his opinion, and I am free to express mine, to voice mine now. In my opinion, Sir, up until now NAFEL has done a good job. That is my opinion. Now the member for Labrador may be right, I may be right. But I feel it is the only organization that can deal with the marketing of fish, up until now.

Of course if we can replace it with something better, well and good.

Mr. Speaker, I have been very attentive to previous speakers, particularly to those from the other side of the House. Some of them had ventured to condemn some of the Government's actions, but not in one single instance have they had any constructive remedy. During the previous sessions in the last three years, they told us; you should not do that, vote money for that, rush this, rush that, but in not one single instance did they offer any remedy. They told us we should not do it, but have not come across and told us what we should do. It is very simple, Mr. Speaker; to tear down and condemn. The tearing down and condemning of policy is worthless unless he who condemns is justified by offering something better than that which he condemns. For example, the Opposition is always worrying about our spending the surplus. Well if we are not going to spend the surplus and get new industries going, what does the Opposition suggest? Again they have nothing constructive to offer. I believe they mean to keep the surplus hoarded up. They should like for us to leave it there, do nothing, get no birch plant, no cement mill, let the fishery go on, then by the time the election rolls around they could go before the people and condemn us for not having done the very things our Government is doing now, or trying to do.

Now if I were a member of the Opposition, I would not condemn the Government for such projects unless I could prove they were going to fail and could show them how to spend for something more profitable. I am sure if we were to have an election on the issue whether the surplus should be spent to develop industry now, or be left to accumulate interest in the Savings Bank or the Bank of Montreal, practically one hundred percent of the people would vote in favour of spending it as the Government is spending it in an effort to insure a better living for all of us. That is what it was collected for, and the only thing it is any good for. Mr. Speaker, this is my personal opinion, and it is also the opinion of the people I represent.

Since I have been elected to this honourable House, Sir, I have lived in my district, I have mixed with my people from all walks of life. I am fairly friendly with the merchants, know the younger crowd also, the fishermen, the working class, the housewives and so on, and during the last year I have been questioning them and getting their opinion as to what they thought of our new industries and the development of the fisheries, modernizing the fisheries, and I assure this honourable House and the honourable the Premier, the people of Placentia West are one hundred percent behind him, I know. As I told this House in my maiden speech some years ago; long enough have they lived in poverty and now they can see their way of living, their standard of living raised and I assure the Government, that when speaking of my district, I imagine I am speaking for the whole of Newfoundland.

The honourable member for Bonavista South said as a result of this expenditure, we are doomed to financial ruin; which in other words, means the cement mill, the gypsum plant and the birch plant and various fishery developments will end in failure. But, the honourable member has not told us how he arrived at this conclusion or where he got that knowledge of economics that justifies this opinion, which would be worth much if his experience and training qualified him to discuss such things. As a former Director of Co-operatives the honourable member had an opportunity, over a period of years, to put his own ideas into operation. May I be permitted to ask him, in his absence, what his ideas were and what has become of them. It is futile to condemn without offering some better alternative. In other words, if one is not capable of doing so, offering something constructive, it were better one held his peace and said nothing at all.

Let us say for example, the Government continues to hold the surplus during its term of office, we would find at the end of the term, we would still have our nest egg, but the fishermen would still be in the same condition of bankruptcy and poverty as before we took office. Does the Opposition believe any Newfoundland fisherman who was then on the dole would be consoled in his misery by the knowledge that the Government still has $40,000,000 in the bank? No it were better to spend some, or in fact, all, in my opinion spend all and spend it fast, get our resources going, on some kind of fisheries and development of resources. It is better to spend some of the $40,000,000 in creating new industries to give employment to loggers and miners and fishermen and give security in Newfoundland, security as there is on other parts of the mainland. I contend the failure to spend and create profitable employment will result in a depleted population. Surely our people will not remain in Newfoundland if we can't offer some hope of security and assistance. What was it accumulated for anyway? It must be for the idea of using it for the purpose to which this Government has applied it. It is not sensible to assume it should be hoarded away in an official mattress while our people seek employment in Canada and the United States or remain at home on the dole.

In conclusion, Sir, may I be permitted to say to the Premier and to the Government: carry on the good work you are doing for the long forgotten producers of Newfoundland. Please God, our efforts will be blessed with success and I assure them the workers of Newfoundland are behind them. I believe the future, Sir, is full of promise and long years hence our children's children will bless the day that Hon. J. R. Smallwood was Premier of the Province.

MR. JANES: I did not intend to speak in this debate at all, and I would not have, I suppose, had not the honourable leader of the opposition provoked me to do so.

Before coming to that, Sir, I have to congratulate the honourable member for Labrador on delivering in this Chamber on Friday what must have been one of the finest speeches ever delivered here and the thing that amazes me, Sir, is how he is able to sit on this side of the House with his back to all those great men from which the opposition seem to be drawing such inspiration. That the honourable member is able to stand over here and make a speech like that is a great and a wonderful thing. I don't know what he would accomplish over there with all the inspiration the other side of the House derives. We are not reminded too much of the past, either.

Now, Mr. Speaker, beginning on Wednesday: When this House was meeting last year the honourable member for Ferryland had the bad habit of waiting for Wednesday and every Wednesday starting a little bit of fun here knowing he had quite a nice gallery. The honourable leader of the opposition, Sir, kept putting off his speech until finally Wednesday arrived and then he started. He was supposed to have finished on Thursday; no, Friday, but he forgot himself and finished on Thursday. After sitting here for two days listening to it, at the end of the two days I was trying to find out what had been omitted. After sitting here for two days and listening, Sir, I suppose I must go to the White Hills and gather up the yeoman bedecked in leather jackets and poles and on the double run them up from the White Hills to St. John's, I suppose, to the C.L.B. Armoury, or somewhere in that vicinity. Then, undoubtedly, Sir, sitting on a fine black stallion, not snorting fire but misquotations, like some Don Quixote inside a visor and with a little skull cap on my head and a cake of hard bread in my pocket, and undoubtedly, Sir, with the little bit of courage of the familiar yeoman, dash down over Carter's Hill on this snorting black stallion, and at the point of a trouting pole, mind you, demolish the slum areas in St. John's. Just to add a little backing to that I am required to take my pack down shore to some cove and sit on a rock awaiting the arrival of the Armada sailing out of Spanishroom. Beside me the valiant old man, the valiant old captain with a cake of hard break in his pocket telling me tales of Francis Drake and Nelson while I, listening as boys through all ages have done, to the great tales of heroes, heroic men, but never a word of the men who built the ships nor of the men who sailed the ships but always the men who captained the ship. Never a word about these men who forged the cannon or the cannon ball, but always about the men who directed the fire. What an example of Tory theories was expressed in this atomic age when the social and economic rights of mankind are crying to be asserted even at the point of the bayonet. For two days I listened to the most ridiculous things I ever heard in my life and I never want to sit through two days of it again and then the imagination of the press, Sir, which could take up columns with it and make big black headlines, amazes me.

One thing, Sir, in regard to the honourable leader of the opposition's address that struck me very forcibly was when the honourable the leader of the opposition referred to recent taxation, increased cost of living in this Province and blamed the increased taxation on the Federal Government. The honourable member, Sir, with his knowledge of history should know better. I am not defending the increased taxation on the part of the Federal Government, it is none of my business yet I will pay knowing I am probably paying for something worthwhile. We are paying for men who must go into the armed forces, and paying them better than men who went in the army from this Province in 1940 for 50 cents a day and lived for five or six years on little better than that. We are part of the Dominion of Canada; we could very well as a country on our own have had to raise here a battalion for the Army, a squadron for the Navy. We would probably be in a position where we would have to pay them 50c. a day.

MR. HIGGINS: You got more than 50c. a day.

MR. JANES: I did not, Sir, I got 50c. a day.

MR. HIGGINS: The Patriotic Association arranged for a fixed amount for you.

MR. JANES: They did not, Sir, I sailed from here in January, 1940.

MR. HIGGINS: After you came back, something was done.

MR. JANES: After I came back we received some rehabilitation, but after Confederation, we did get the rehabilitation pay of Canada.

How are we treated today in comparison with two years ago? If we must have increased taxation in order to do that, by all means let us have increased taxation.

Now, Sir, there has been much belly-aching about spending the surplus, on the other side of the House; much belly-aching and what they expect the Government to do with the surplus, I don't know. Undoubtedly if we built another road to Topsail everybody would clap and say a fine project. Another railroad to Random so that on week-ends everybody could go fishing. We would all clap for that, but it is not good enough to build a hospital at Fogo or at Springdale, not good enough if we build one in Port aux Basques, and we will probably build one in Ferryland, too.

MR. FOGWILL: It is about time it was started.

MR. JANES: Now there were three little niggers one time and then they were eliminated one by one.

Now, Sir, the surplus is being spent but on the part spent on Government industries I am no judge. But so far that part of the surplus being spent in the districts of Newfoundland, if you want to know what the Newfoundland people think about it then, for God's sake, get outside the Narrows and go elsewhere than the Codroy Valley. There are other places in the country and along the coast where people live. As the Attorney General said a few days ago, I have an abiding faith in this Province and in the ability of the Government of today to govern this Province. I wish, Sir, that my faith in Gordon Higgins and his turrs was as great as my faith in this Government. Now if there was ever a smart piece of political propoganda that is it, I don't know if Gordon Higgins knows the difference between a turr and a pigeon, whether they are killed singly or by the punt load.

MR. FOGWILL: That is one item the Liberals forgot.

MR. JANES: Let me tell you this: that since we went into Confederation not one single prosecution has been taken in this country for killing turrs, not one fisherman in Newfoundland has been fined for breaking the Act.

MR. FOGWILL: What is the kicking about?

MR. JANES: Because they have been stirred up by Tory politicians.

MR. FOGWILL: There have been letters in the press from all parts of the country.

MR. JANES: I could tell you on the other side, it is good politics but nobody is being impressed by it. Let us see you stand on your feet in a few days time when the new regulations are brought in, regarding turrs when the Government of Newfoundland will start in the only possible way to have an agreement brought about between the United States and Canada for this amendment, for certainly this Government has to make the approach. I don't know what Gordon Higgins is going to do about it. If he used as much energy to get this Act amended, he should see that he gets something done for the fisheries.

MR. FOGWILL: Are you afraid someone else will get some credit for doing something good?

MR. JANES: I won't say it, I will tell you confidentially after. I will tell you about turrs, and what I know about turrs. If Mr. Higgins, Sir, up in Ottawa spent as much time and devoted as much thinking and energy to finding out about the salt codfishery of this Province as he has talking about turrs it might have been appreciated more by the fishermen of this Province. We know and others know the turrs will be all right, the turr situation will look after itself.

MR. FAHEY: What are the five Liberals up there doing about the salt cod fishery?

MR. JANES: I can tell you that too, they are not shouting about turrs.

MR. FAHEY: Not shouting about anything, I think they are all rubber stamps.

MR. SPEAKER: I ruled that remark out of order the other day, that honourable members would not apply it to one another.

MR. JANES: The Government has been accused of making political propaganda out of the Fishermen's Convention last week. The honourable member for Labrador has answered that, but I am not going to elaborate on it, only to say I enjoyed it immensely and only this morning a very prominent St. John's citizen who probably has not had very much interest in the fishery or the fishermen, said to me, "I know since that convention I have the feeling that a lot of new life, a lot of new thinking is going on amongst the fishermen." I said, "I guess you are right, I guess you are right."

I was very proud, Sir, to see the fishermen come in here. Two hundred men from our fishing communities in Newfoundland come up here and 99.9% of them attend every meeting of the convention and not a smell of a bottle of rum or even a bottle of beer off one of them for the whole time. They are a credit, Sir, to the fishermen of Newfoundland and we of the fishing districts are proud of it, proud to see them come in and be able to do it. It is to be hoped, Sir, the Fishermen's Federation will become a permanent organization. Standing up here this afternoon, I would be saying a lot more about the fishermen than I am going to say, I am getting a little sick of it, it is a job today and not my job to steal any thunder the federation will have.

The honourable member for Labrador, Sir, levelled a very logical and a very reasonable opinion on NAFEL. As regards to NAFEL, my mind is not clearly made up. My mind is not clearly made up, but it is to this extent, though, that NAFEL was a private, not Government monopoly. It was not promoted by this Government, but by the Commission of Government. — a Government - promoted monopoly on which neither the Government nor the producers are represented on the board. Whose fault it is, Sir, that that was overlooked? I don't know, but it is the greatest tragedy that ever happened to the fishermen of Newfoundland. If NAFEL goes, freedom goes, unless something better takes its place. I think the fishermen of Newfoundland should know what is going to happen to the substantial reserve NAFEL has been able to build up. When the Government built up a reserve of this sort from taxation on fish it was put here in a fund, is kept in a fund, even though it was offered to the fishermen in the form of insurance and I hope some day they are going to accept it and they probably will some day in the not very far distant future. I wonder if NAFEL is going to do something? Don't let anybody say or even suggest that their profits, the profits they have made over the last few years, do not permit them to do it. It is a very interesting question, Sir, a question to which I hope the Fishermen's Federation will find the answer, it is rather interesting, I don't say they will be successful, I don't think they would, as a matter of fact, but it is interesting, for down there is a fund the fishermen of Newfoundland should have. During the convention and since, every time a member stands up in this House to speak, who is not going around with a cake of hard bread in his pocket and a scull cap on his head, there are shouts of communism and socialism. It is a little sickening, Sir, a little sickening. The fact is I sometime wonder if we are not back with the yeomen with leather jackets and feudal lords or are living in a world ruled over by reactionaries like the great MacArthur. That is the sort of world we are asked, as the old fellow says, to bide in, not live. live. Well we are not going to bide here, we are going to get out of it whatever lesson the past has meant for us, and I don't doubt the past has lessons to teach us, but we are here and we are going to take out of this world everything we put into it and it is just as well for the world to know, the Government to recognize it and everybody else to recognize it. You can talk of socialism, communism, anything you like, but a spade is a spade and as the honourable member for Bonavista South said, a black cat is a black cat, and that is true—we are going to call this by the proper name.

That brings me to another point. I could have almost rolled under the chair with laughter when the honourable member of the Opposition said they were happy to see him over there, see the honourable member for Bonavista South, see what happened now, we got him. If I live long enough to see the day that Ted Russell, the honourable member for Bonavista South, becomes a Tory, I will eat my hat. If they get him, but don't ask me to elaborate on that either, don't tempt me now. He is an independent, sure he is an independent.

The high cost of living, Sir, since Confederation, the honourable member for Labrador answered that quite effectively, and when are you fellows over there, the honourable members of the Opposition, going to give up talking about Confederation? I don't know.

MR. FOGWILL: When we want to, we will do it.

MR. JANES: You got it chewed over so often now.

MR. FOGWILL: It is still a juicy morsel, don't forget that.

MR. JANES: Every time you chew over it, it gets sweeter and sweeter, you must keep it up, you have nothing else to talk about. Ask the honourable member for Placentia West, he has gone ahead and criticized and criticized every time he stood up, and nothing constructive ever comes from it. Confederation is the greatest thing that ever happened in the history of Newfoundland—Says me, wyes and so says you, oh no, you don't say it here, probably often say it in your own mind.

MR. FAHEY: When I got to pay more taxes.

MR. JANES: It is alright when it gives our men $150 a month instead of 50c. a day, I am happy to do that.

MR. FAHEY: Are you happy to pay off the national debt of Canada which they had before we became a part of Canada, are we happy to do that?

MR. JANES: Utter trash, utter nonsense. It does not mean a thing, Sir, I am not going to take any more time of the House.

MR. FAHEY: That is fine. Tell us some more about the merchants, we would love to hear it.

MR. JANES: I could tell you that too.

MR. FOGWILL: The broken record going on and on and on.

MR. JANES: Do you want to know something about the merchants?

Right you will get it. Fish has been exported by NAFEL today, paid for to exporters one hundred percent more than they paid fishermen for it. Put that in your pipe and smoke it, and don't tell me I don't know. One hundred percent more than fishermen were paid for it in 1950.

MR. FOGWILL: Tell us some more.

MR. JANES: I am not interested in the merchants at all, I am interested in what people are going to do for themselves. We will find a way to get over the merchants, to do without them altogether eventually, not today or tomorrow—it is going to do no good at all to talk about them. It won't do us any more good to talk about them than it does the fishermen who smoke their pipes and talk about them. What we will do is get out and do something about them? That is what you are going to get from the fishermen of Newfoundland and it will redound, Sir, to the credit of this Government in the history of this Province. It was this Government led by the honourable the Premier who gave the fishermen the opportunity to do it.

MR. FAHEY: And spent the $40,000,000.

MR. JANES: And spent $80,000,000 if we had it.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is that the address be adopted and presented to His Honour the Lieutenant Governor. Carried.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Attorney General asks leave to rescind the Third Reading of a Bill "An Act Respecting the Statutes," and to recommit the said Bill.

Order rescinded recommitted to a Committee of the Whole House forthwith.

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Chairman, the honourable members will please refer to this Bill which is a Bill entitled, "An Act Respecting the Statutes." The position, Mr. Chairman, is this, in putting through that Statutes an omission was made, and my motion now is that there will be a new paragraph 4 (a) and 5, and the present Paragraph 5 will be renamed paragraph 6. All Acts will be numbered consecutively from the beginning to the end of each calendar year, thus No. 1 of 1951 or as the case may be and Acts may be cited by reference to a short title or by reference to its number and year in which it was passed. That is simply a re-enactment of the present law. I would move that amendment, as a new clause five to replace the existing clause.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill with some amendments.

MR. CURTIS: I move, Mr. Speaker, that the Bill be read a third time now.

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Minister of Labour asks leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act Respecting Apprenticeship."

On motion bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Minister of Education asks leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Education (Teachers' Pensions) Act, 1950."

If there is no quorum I shall have to leave the chair.

On motion Bill was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I think it would be acceptable to the House if we had a recess for five minutes.

House recessed for five minutes.

House resumed sitting.

MR. SPEAKER: Third Reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Distribution of Electricity in the Corner Brook Area."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third Reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Industrial Development Loan Act, 1949."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Fisheries Loan Act, 1949."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Committee of the Whole on Revised Rules of the House.

On motion this order was deferred.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Education (Departmental) Act, 1939."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Further to Amend the School Attendance Act, 1942."

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the honourable Minister, I am not quite clear at the moment and probably the Minister will enlighten me. Where children are attending school and in some settlements it may be seven miles away and there may not be bus facilities, during stormy weather or through no fault of the children, for instance if the bus could not be there, has it anything to do with family allowance?

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): No, this Bill merely raises the age one year from 14 years to 15 years, but in the main Act provisions are made for children if they are not attending school.

MR. FOGWILL: It is compulsory to attend school at Grade one.

MR. HEFFERTON: Yes, at the age of six years.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

On motion the bill was ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. SPEAKER: I would like to remind the honourable members of the House it is quite legal to commit two or more Bills to Committee at the same time if the House so desires.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think perhaps we might take the hint and allow Your Honour to get out of the Chamber for a little relaxation and go into Committee of the Whole on the next four.

"An Act Further to Amend the Memorial University Act, 1949."

"An Act to Remove Doubts as to the Coming into Force of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1950, and the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act, 1951."

"An Act to Amend the Newfoundland Teachers' Association."

"An Act Respecting Vocational Education in Newfoundland."

MR. SPEAKER: Each Bill will be reported individually and separately.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Memorial University Act, 1949."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Remove Doubts as to the Coming into Force of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1950, and the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act, 1951."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Newfoundland Teachers' Association."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read.

MR. FOGWILL: Section 6—Membership Fees—These may be paid annually? Mr. Chairman, I think that section is one that does not belong to this Act at all. It makes it compulsory that if a person is a teacher he is compelled by that Act to be a member of the association. As I have served as a member of trade unions for some years, I don't believe in this at all. No organizations makes it compulsory by law to become a member of any organization, you are curtailing the freedom of this country by putting it in and I move it should be scratched out.

MR. HEFFERTON: Under Section 5, sub-section 2, there is a provision where anyone can write oneself out of the organization.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Besides which it is not competent for any member to discuss the principle of the Bill at this stage, the principle has been adopted by the House. The principle of any section is not debatable but only the wording, since the principle of the Bill itself has been accepted by the House.

MR. FAHEY: I second the motion that this clause be stricken out and may say while rising to second that motion I say it is not the principle but that this clause two should be stricken out, and for that reason I second the motion.

Motion lost.

Passed.

Section 7 read and passed.

Section 8 read.

MR. FAHEY: With reference to regulations, section "C" Selection of members of General Council, how would members be selected?

MR. HEFFERTON: General procedure, annual meeting.

MR. FAHEY: Should not the word elected be used, rather than selected?

MR. HEFFERTON: I don't think it makes very much difference.

MR. FAHEY: The point is, this selection of members of the General Council. If you select them it must be done before the meeting otherwise I take it it would be election by the general meeting of membership or whoever has the right to attend meetings.

MR. HEFFERTON: May I go back to section 8: By-laws are to be made the General Welfare of the Association.

MR. FAHEY: But who makes the by-laws, I presume the General Meeting which selects the membership to the general council.

MR. HEFFERTON: In the by-laws we have procedure to be followed by the members of the association, which takes care of the schedule later on.

MR. FAHEY: Again I would like to ask the honourable minister, who selects the committee?

MR. HEFFERTON: The schedule contains the constitution and the officers to be elected, that is all written down in the schedule of the Act. We will come to it in due course.

MR. FAHEY: It is still not clear to me, perhaps I am a bit dense. I don't see how a committee can be selected—they should be elected by the general body, in my opinion.

MR. HEFFERTON: You must remember the Act that has been in force now for some years and there is an executive existing now and if this Act goes through they will call a general meeting and it is all laid down under this Act.

MR. FAHEY: They remain in office.

MR. COURAGE: Refer to page 9.

MR. FAHEY: I am only asking for a point of information, I am not interfering with the Bill going through. But it should read there in my opinion, until the new executive is elected.

MR. HEFFERTON: Page 9 talks about the election of officers.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Would not elected be a better word?

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): The Act provides, shall be elected under the provision of the Act.

MR. FAHEY: It does not matter what it says there.

MR. HEFFERTON: The Department of the Attorney General drew up this Bill.

MR. FAHEY: Personally, to make my meaning clear, I don't like the word selected. If it is to be run on democratic lines, it should be elected, no selected.

MR. HORWOOD: Would it help any to point out the fact, selecting is merely one means of electing somebody for something.

MR. FOGWILL: It may be, but, elected is more plain and a much better term.

MR. COURAGE: Honourable members will please rise and address the chair.

MR. HEFFERTON: Selected means chosen deliberately. Most officers are elected, but the secretary is appointed and there may be one or two others.

MR. FAHEY: First we refer to St. John's City and then to St. John's East External, and Bell Island and then later in 22, the Head of Conception Bay. Where does the region of the Head of Conception Bay start and end? It would be different if it said Bell Island and Harbour Main included in St. John's Extern, then I could understand the distribution. It is divided in 23 rather than 28 districts, I would like to get that point clarified.

MR. HEFFERTON: I may say this was worked out by the association and the officials of our Department. We refrained from delineating exactly as there may be need to make some modification later.

MR. HIGGINS: The Head of Conception Bay means nothing.

MR. FAHEY: Under 21 you define it as from Carbonear to Brigus, but in 22 you don't define it. It really comes in between Brigus and the boundary of St. John's.

MR. HIGGINS: We are just wondering, for your own sake,

MR. HEFFERTON: We found it very difficult to get it specific.

MR. BUTTON: I don't know, Sir, if the honourable Minister forgot to put in Trinity North.

MR. HEFFERTON: Bonavista Peninsula. We could not be more specific on this point.

MR. HIGGINS: Might we not say that these are districts that may be changed by the Board? They might want to change it if they find it more convenient.

MR. HEFFERTON: That would have to be a part of the work between our Department and the parties.

DR. POTTLE: What we really mean is the electoral district of St. John's.

MR. HEFFERTON: No.

MR. FAHEY: The point is, Mr. Chairman, if the Minister is quite satisfied, it is alright.

MR. HEFFERTON: That is as close as we can go at the present time.

MR. HIGGINS: How many do you expect to attend the meetings, approximately I mean?

MR. HEFFERTON: 50 members probably.

MR. HIGGINS: They might decide on a place and find no accommodations.

MR. HEFFERTON: The whole purpose is that all meetings may not take place in St. John's.

MR. HIGGINS: They might be held in Trinity, then find there were no accommodations.

MR. FAHEY: You have a clause there—notice of all meetings—that would take care of it.

I am just going to ask the honourable Minister would it not be detrimental to the association to have it confined to two vice-presidents. Would it not be better to have it read, better to have a president and as many vice-presidents as may be decided from time to time as something like that may react later and you will have to come back and get the Act changed.

MR. HEFFERTON: There are three main denominations. If the president is Church of England, then the two vice-presidents are Roman Catholic and United Church.

MR. FAHEY: That is alright unless you get more denominations.

MR. SPENCER: We seem to be doing alright on that score.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Chairman, in a sense we have no business criticizing any of this, because the teachers themselves made it up and they passed these terms and it is really a private matter, but there is just one thing. That first clause about fares, now that is not expenses, only train fare, they are surely entitled to food when coming from the West Coast, for instance. I wonder if those who passed this matter have taken that into account.

MR. HEFFERTON: I assure you that matter and quite a number of others were taken into account, and for the moment we thought that was best.

Passed.

Section 9 read and passed.

Section 10 read and passed.

The Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill with some amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting Vocational Education in Newfoundland."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

Section 7 read and passed.

Section 8 read and passed.

Section 9 read and passed.

Section 10 read and passed.

Section 11 read and passed.

Section 12 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

On motion the remaining Orders of the Day were deferred.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the House at its rising do now adjourn until tomorrow at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

TUESDAY, April 17, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

None.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I give notice, Mr. Speaker, I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce certain resolutions asking for supplementary supplies.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Respecting Proof of Death of members of His Majesty's Military, Naval or Air Forces."

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Supply with regard to Question 87:

1. What type and brand of men's rubber boots and boys' rubber boots were purchased on behalf of the Labrador Trading Operations last year?

2. What type and brand were supplied respectively by Parker and Monroe Limited, Halley and Company Limited and Ships' Stores?

3. What Rubber Manufacturers do Halley and Company, Limited and Ships' Stores represent in Newfoundland?

To ask the honourable the Acting Minister of Natural Resources :

1. Was anyone brought in last year from outside Newfoundland for the purpose of surveying and making a report on Birch and its possibilities?

2. Was a Report on the survey made to the Department and, if so, the Department is asked to lay this Report on the table of the House?

3. What was the cost of the Survey and Report?

MR. FOGWILL: I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Finance for information in respect to the Board of Liquor Control :

1. What is the amount of cash on hand as at April 1st, 1951?

2. What is the balance, Bank of Montreal, as at April 1st, 1951?

3. What was the total amount paid for the purchase of spirits, beer and wine, etc., for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1951?

4. What amount is held in bond?

5. What is the cost value of stock on hand as at April 1st, 1951?

6. What was the total value of sales for the year ending March 31st, 1951?

To ask the honourable the Minister of Economic Development :

1. How many assistants has the Director of Economic Development, who are they, and what salary is paid to each?

2. Has the Director any part-time assistants, if so, who, at what salary?

To ask the honourable the Minister of Finance :

1. To table a statement showing the total amount of salaries paid under Appendix One of the 1950-51 Estimates of Expenditure.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 93.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In the absence of the Minister of Supply I would give the answer, and the answer is yes.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 28.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): Question: The total number of miles constructed under the Trans-Canada Highway plan during the year 1950—the total cost to the Province of such construction—the total number of miles of such road to be constructed over the next few years under such plan, and the estimate of cost of such plan. Give an estimate of what amount this whole Trans-Canada Highway plan will cost the Province when finished and whether the Province is actually committed to finish this project.

Answer: (a) Total number of miles constructed under the Trans-Canada Highway plan during the year 1950—51 miles.

(b) Total cost to the Province of such construction—$1,150,000.00

Question: (2) What amount of money was expended in the form of relief work on public highroads during the autumn of 1950? Give this information showing the amount expended in each district.

Answer :

SPECIAL WORKS

Expenditure as at February 28th, 1951
Bonavista North .....	$ 17,181.67
Bonavista South .....	59,683.02
Burin .....	68,757.65
Burgeo-LaPoile .....	5,127.08
Carbonear-Bay de Verde .....	106,016.01
Ferryland .....	60,448.26
Fogo .....	23,790.64
Fortune-Hermitage .....	58,068.93
Green Bay .....	26,195.11
Grand Falls .....	55,160.79
Harbour Grace .....	81,227.42
Port de Grave .....	51,499.43
Placentia-St. Mary's .....	64,620.28
Placentia West .....	50,815.85
St. John's East .....	62,857.69
St. John's West .....	22,644.50
St. George's .....	13,718.97
St. Barbe .....	9,605.89
Twillingate .....	20,365.02
Trinity North .....	104,121.93
Trinity South .....	170,697.53
White Bay .....	18,215.40
Humber .....	10,610.50
Hr. Main-Bell Island .....	77,009.91
Total .....	$1,238,439.48

In connection with this, if any of the honourable members would care to work out the figures, they would find the actual average cost per mile to be $26,000. The second part deals with our commitment or otherwise to complete the Trans-Canada Highway. In that respect I need not go any further than to point out that in the recent Budget presented in Ottawa, honourable members will have noticed, I am sure, requests by the Federal Government for curtailment wherever possible of expenditures which might not be considered of an urgent nature where Provinces are concerned, and as a result, we of this province have passed some information to the honourable Minister of Finance, who will present that to the House in connection with the Budget. I don't think I need elaborate further on that.

MR. CASHIN: I take it the answers should be tabled without being read, which is wasting a lot of time and I have never seen it done before, until this Government took office last year. Answers should be tabled in reply to questions, i.e., No. 2 so and so, whatever it might be. They are tabled and talked over now, every Minister answers a question, reads the whole thing over and the whole afternoon is occupied in that respect.

MR. SPENCER: I respect that opinion.

MR. HIGGINS: I think it is a very good thing, because what happens is one copy is filed. We would like to get the information, I and my party.

MR. CASHIN: They are published in the House. When any individual member asks a question, it is public once tabled and is the property of every member of the House. If I ask a question and an answer is tabled, it does not belong to me, but to every member of the House. Whether I ask it or any other member, once it is tabled it belongs to every member in the House, just the same as to the member who asked the question. As a matter of fact the Government has supplied copies to every member of the House, and it takes an awful lot of time without making speeches on them.

MR. FOGWILL: The procedure we have been following, since we came in, was that questions have been tabled and a copy provided for every member and the honourable Minister concerned reads it out, unless it is involved and contains a lot of material. It may not be customary but the rule has been established here and I think we should carry it on, unless it takes a lot of time to read it when the Minister should take the question as read, but usually it only takes a few minutes.

MR. SPEAKER: Should we leave it to the discretion of the Minister who answers the questions or to the pleasure of the House?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think, Mr. Speaker, we have no choice but to leave it to the Minister concerned. He has the privilege to decide whether he should have the answer typed and laid on the table or read it out. If it is long and involved, then it should be at the pleasure of the House.

MR. SPENCER: I have no particular choice in this case. I am not so fond of hearing my own voice and I take it honourable members don't want to hear my voice. I have prepared the necessary copies so that each member will receive one, so in this particular case it won't matter whether or not I read it. I therefore place it on the table of the House and every member will have a copy. Actually were we to read this it might be to the advantage of the Government, but we have lots of advantages and I shall not take advantage of this reply.

Question No. 28 (3) the answer is also provided and involves three contracts, one to the Newfoundland Engineering for construction of an additional wing to the mental hospital. There were tenders in that case and the figures for all three are there.

The following tenders were received for the construction of the South Wings, Mental Hospital.

Newfoundland Engineering & Construction Co., Ltd., St. John's .....	$1,208,000.00
Terminal Construction Co., Ltd., Montreal.....	1,237,000.00
Concrete Products (Nfld.) Ltd., St. John's	1,243,000.00

The tender of the Newfoundland Engineering Company, Limited, being the lowest, was accepted.

Orders of the Day

Third reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Education (Departmental) Act, 1939."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the School Attendance Act, 1942."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Memorial University Act, 1949."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of Bill "An Act to Remove Doubts as to the Coming Into Force of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1950, and the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act, 1951."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third Reading of Bill "An Act to Incorporate the Newfoundland Teachers' Association."

Bill read a third time and passed.

Third reading of Bill "An Act Respecting Vocational Education in Newfoundland."

Bill read a third time and passed.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That concludes the third readings and I suggest that the next five orders be deferred for the time being and that we move on to the final item on the Order Paper. Should that be finished today then we may revert to the first of the orders presently deferred.

MR. SPEAKER: Pass over the second readings and proceed to the "Resolutions to request the Parliament of Canada, that steps be taken to relax the provisions of the Migratory Birds' Convention Act, so as to prevent undue hardship to the fishing population of Newfoundland and Labrador."

MR. HORWOOD: Mr. Speaker, these resolutions ask the Government if Newfoundlanders inhabiting the coast of Newfoundland and Labrador have long depended on migratory seabirds as their principal source of fresh meat during the greater portion of the year and since the rules restrict entirely the killing of game species these resolutions therefore call upon the Government of Canada to take such steps as may be advisable to regulate the provisions of the Migratory Birds' Convention Act, to the end that killing of these birds under adequate controls may be permitted in the Province of Newfoundland.

Now, I have no doubt, Mr. Speaker, various honourable members will avail of the opportunity to debate this issue. There is no doubt that those especially who came from fishery districts especially on the North East Coast, where they are such an important item of food, will avail of the opportunity to comment on these resolutions.

I personally have very little to say about the resolutions, other than what is contained in the resolutions themselves, as I consider the resolutions entirely self-explanatory. It is something we have all worried about on this side of the House anyway. I can't speak for the other side, but it is something we on this side have worried about for a long time and only recently, while members of the Fishermen's Convention were in town and discussed that matter with me, did it occur to me that it would be quite within the rights of this House to introduce and pass resolutions to call upon the Government of Canada to do something about it. It simply did not occur to any of us sooner. These resolutions are now introduced.

Mr. Speaker, I have now one or two brief comments to make, aside from the fact that everybody knows the resolutions are sound. To begin with it struck me to suggest that previous to the day of union Newfoundland was not a party to the Migratory Bird Conventions Act and had no act of its own. Maybe Newfoundland was asked to take part in the Migratory Bird Convention, but as far as I know it was never requested by the United States or any other Government party to that convention to become a party and I thought that being so, it seems to me not unreasonable to assume, that these governments were approached with the fact that Newfoundland was not a party nor asked to be, to ask that we continue in the position we were previously; that is to say they must have felt the birds were not being slaughtered to any extent previous to the day of union or they would have required pressure to be brought to bring Newfoundland into the convention, if it were necessary for the preservation of the species.

The second point: Indians and Eskimos are already excluded from the provisions of that act. Any Indian or Eskimos may go at any time of the year and kill all the sea birds he can make use of, both in the migratory and non-game species. Now the position of the Indians and Eskimos is exactly the same as our fishermen and trappers in Labrador and on the North East Coast of this country. They both depend upon the birds they can kill for their food and it is only reasonable and fair. Since the Government of Canada now permits Indians and Eskimos to kill them and take them for food, that other inhabitants of the same areas on the North East Coast of Newfoundland and Labrador be permitted to do the same. They are just as dependent upon these birds as our Indians and Eskimos.

The Migratory Convention Act, Mr. Speaker, was, I believe, conceived as a sportsman's measure, for the protection of sportsmen; to prevent their running amuck our fauna and helping to destroy the species. It was never intended for conservation in the far northern districts, where they are not pursued as sport, but only as a matter of need. Our people do not kill those birds for sport, they simply kill them to eat and I have never known anyone to kill more than he could use or needed. I do not think it is fair or reasonable that a sportsman's measure, devised for the protection of sportsmen, should be made to apply to our fishermen and trappers who are not sportsmen and do not hunt and kill for sport but only for what they need. Doctor Tony Paddon in Labrador put the matter very clearly when he said: "That is not a question of game preservation but merely a question of which is more important, the conservation of the Canadian duck or the conservation of Canadians."

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is that the House do adopt these regulations.

MR. COURAGE: Mr. Speaker, a few days ago, when the honourable member for Labrador brought in this motion, I was so anxious to support it, that I rose somewhat precipitously, then remembered I could not support it, because he was merely giving notice of motion. But, today, Mr. Speaker, I have much pleasure in wholeheartedly supporting these resolutions. I represent a district, I come from a district, where sea birds play a large part in the diet of the people. I have killed in my time a great many turrs and ducks and other sea birds and I agree with what the honourable member just said: They are not slaughtered wholesale; our people do not kill them for sport; every bird that is killed is eaten, there is no waste. This will interest the honourable Leader of the Opposition, I know; in the outports people still keep up the good old tradition of hospitality, their idea of sharing with their neighbour. If a person goes out and gets a fine bag of turrs or other sea birds he shares with his neighbour. In other words if three or four men killed sea birds on Saturday, practically the whole harbour has a good meal on Sunday. I know that tradition is still kept up in Fortune Bay.

Mr. Speaker, this Migratory Bird Convention Act imposes a hardship upon the people in the outports of Newfoundland. I read in "Time Magazine" of a very recent date, few people could say this, but I must contradict that great magazine, and I say without fear of contradiction: that practically all of the people of the Newfoundland outports will agree with me, that this Act does impose hardship upon our people.

In my district there is not one single butcher shop, not one. That does not mean the people don't eat fresh meat, but it does mean they get very little, they have to depend to a very great extent upon game and sea birds are the most important of that game.

I would like at this time to say that Mr. Gordon Higgins was not the first person, not the first member of the Federal Government to try and have this question of migratory birds convention Act changed. The representative for Burin and Burgeo, Mr. Chesley Carter showed me, a year ago, a long memorandum he had prepared on the subject and which he intended to pass along to the government Minister concerned.

I should like to repeat for emphasis, Mr. Speaker, that unless this Act is repealed or modified to some extent, and I hope that we can put it across, to the Canadian Government, unless this is done, there will be great hardship for the people of the Newfoundland Outports. Such a great hardship, that their health may be in danger and for that reason I think that we can make those concerned see that this Act must be relaxed. I have a great deal of pleasure, Sir, in supporting these resolutions.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, I rise to support these resolutions.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, I also support the resolutions. Perhaps I am not so conversant with the details of shooting of sea birds, as my honourable friends opposite, nevertheless, I do hold to the fact that as we Newfoundland people, particularly those of us concerned with the shooting of sea birds and have shot them for so many years, in fact centuries, and on that grounds alone, the rights that we have enjoyed for all these years should be protected, and people should be allowed to shoot these birds for the purpose outlined by my honourable friend opposite. At the same time, as far as I am concerned, the nearest time I ever got to killing a turr was to remove the head off a chicken.

Nevertheless I do support the resolutions and I hope and pray they will be given heed to by Ottawa and those concerned in the United States, so that our people in Newfoundland may maintain the rights they have enjoyed for the past centuries, and that they be allowed under proper regulations to take these birds for the purpose they have always taken them.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, I beg to support the resolutions before the House. I know that when we came into office and found, that under Confederation, we could not shoot these birds it was a great shock to us. The position is, as I understand it, subject to correction, there is a treaty between Canada and the United States, whereby Canada undertook that these birds would not be shot and I understand, consequently, it is not possible for the Canadian Government of its own notion to amend the Act and allow killing of these birds. Before they can amend the Act, they have of course to negotiate with the United States for leave to amend the terms of the treaty. Now I am not sure that is the position but it is as I understand it. As stated here yesterday, there have been no prosecution taken in Newfoundland yet for killing these birds, and I can't go beyond that, I cannot speak for the future. I do hope the Government of Canada will engage with Washington and in due time grant the prayer of that petition. I heartily support the resolutions, Mr. Speaker.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the resolutions. Not that my district is very greatly dependent upon the use of these sea birds for food. But I do know that around the coast farther north and on the North East Coast and Labrador these birds have been a great source and indeed, one of the main sources of supply of food for our fishermen.

I don't know how long it will take to get this convention act changed but at least we are making an effort, and it is something that probably should have been done before but as the honourable member for Labrador mentioned something has been done by the honourable members in the House of Parliament, in Ottawa, and by both sides, I think. All members up there on both sides are trying to do something about this. Probably this is the right procedure, what we are doing here now, and we will probably get somewhere with it.

I remember well, when a lot of my friends, who live in the Town of Corner Brook, first came from other parts of the country around the North East Coast and so on, one of the things they missed most was their shooting of birds and their sea birds in the fall of the year.

Because it is an article of food and not just game, and something our fishermen enjoyed for so many years. I think it is very necessary that we should do what we can to have this position remedied.

I may say that whilst it does not effect my district very greatly, at the same time I know it does practically every district in the country and Labrador of course is included. I have great pleasure in supporting these resolutions.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): I rise to support the resolutions, Mr. Speaker, which are now before the House and it is not because I participate in shooting birds of any kind and, as far as I am concerned, I would not know a turr if I saw it. But it is because of the principle involved which is an interference by law of a privilege and right, which the fishermen have enjoyed down through the ages. I feel that the resolutions are, therefore, justified and I join with the previous speakers in hoping that the return of their privilege, resulting from these resolutions, will bring about the peace and happiness to the fishermen as it existed in the past.

I have much pleasure, Sir, in expressing my views in support of these resolutions.

MR. JANES: I was supposed to have said my piece on turrs yesterday, Sir, but there was something I said yesterday regarding the sea birds, the turrs, which I was sorry for. Now I said, there has not been one single prosecution in Newfoundland since we went into Confederation in the matter of killing sea birds, especially turrs. I would like to add to that, Mr. Speaker, I am quite sure there has not been one killed since we went into confederation. Just to make sure, Sir, nobody is breaking the law.

MR. CURTIS: Nobody has been reported to us.

MR. JANES: None have been killed, there has simply been no reason to prosecute.

Now, Sir, with reference to these resolutions here, I have grave doubts as to how soon the convention, to which the resolutions refer, can be amended. I sort of feel that the sportsmen, who caused this Act to be passed, are a little stronger than the fishermen who want the turrs. That does not mean we should not give these resolutions our support. The honourable member for Labrador in his speech referred to Indians and Eskimos of Labrador. This may be a good time to assert, what has often appeared in papers on the Mainland, that we are all Indians and need the sea birds.

In Fogo district, Sir, sea birds have always supplied no small part of the family food, especially on Cape Freels and Fogo Island. Every year great quantities are canned and bottled and they have them for the whole season. It seems too bad the day should come when they are not permitted to kill these birds and the day could very well come, when our people would be at a tremendous disadvantage in finding meat. I have great pleasure in supporting the resolutions, Sir.

MR. MORGAN: Mr. Speaker, having the honour to represent a district, which would be affected very much by these resolutions, and has been affected very much, it gives me great pleasure to support the resolutions.

As a matter of fact, I can't think of anybody sitting in this House who would oppose it.

I understand that during the past year the area from Cape Bonavista right around to Cape Race has had more or less a temporary permit to shoot these birds. I also have a feeling even if this had not been given, several sea birds, turrs particularly would have met their death by various means around Green Bay District. Now, though we are not quite so backward as the District of Fortune Bay, we have at least one meat shop in the district, yet turr and other sea birds form a very important part of the diet in the Fall and Winter season. It gives me, Sir, very great pleasure to support this motion.

MR. BUTTON: As representative, Sir, of Trinity South, I beg to support these resolutions, put before the House by the honourable member for Labrador.

In connection with this, there is not a great deal I can say in this matter, because most of the honourable members have already given their views in this connection. But I support it because I am a lover of turrs. I have eaten more turrs this year, I suppose, than any member in the House. That goes to show you, Sir, the kind of people we have in our District. Well, I heard that certain areas, the honourable member for Green Bay said there are certain districts where you can kill turrs, and I believe Trinity South is one of them.

MR. CURTIS: If you say that, I may have to disinter the turrs.

MR. BUTTON: That is all right. I beg, Sir, to give my hearty support to the resolutions.

MR. VARDY: Mr. Speaker, as the representative of St. John's West, a district not too vitally concerned with this matter, although it does affect certain sections of it, but speaking principally as a Newfoundlander and a native West Coaster, I do say the resolutions now before the House certainly merit the most sympathetic consideration of the authorities.

As a boy, I knew exactly what the turr meant to the diet of people of the West Coast because my own father—in my own family, I can recall my own father going out and bringing back a bag of turrs and a few ducks and when he did, it filled a need in the house. I think that same situation prevails to a large extent in the small communities of Newfoundland today. It is not the only meat but the principal meat obtained is that obtained by the use of the gun by the head of the house and not through access to any butcher shop, where you can go in and pay $1.00 and $1.25 for a pound of steak. I think we all have sympathy for the member for Trinity South, and the Attorney General should not take too seriously remarks made by him.

I have great pleasure, Sir, in supporting what has already been said. It is a measure of vital importance to the people of Newfoundland.

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): Mr. Speaker, as a representative of one of the constituents, in which the people depend to a large extent upon the killing of sea birds, I feel I can not do otherwise than support the resolutions the honourable member for Labrador has brought in.

I have been trying to do some research into the matter, and I find no record that Newfoundland was at any time asked to be a signatory to this convention but the conditions were entirely different. While there may be some truth in the assumption, that this measure came into action because of the sportsmen's idea of preservation, I think it goes a little deeper than that. The carrier pigeon is gone, the great Auk has gone. Not so many years ago there was a very great danger that some others of the migratory birds, the duck for instance, particularly the Mallard species, might be going the same way. Now these migratory birds, which were killed for game purpose, were largely killed in inland areas and it was chiefly because of destruction that this Migratory Birds Act was passed, in order that there might be some conservation and prevention of the loss similar to that which had happened to the carrier pigeon. The main purpose of that Act, I think we must agree, was conservation. We will all find ourselves in agreement because for one reason Jack Miner, who had been a very great hunter in his earlier days, saw all the danger of wiping out certain species and spent the latter years of his life in conservation matters and the policy he did so much to formulate, worked out to good effect.

We are not a signatory to the original Act and, at the time of union, we went into a set of conditions entirely different than those in existence among those actual signatories of the Act. Nowhere in the United States or in Canada, except possibly in the Far North, do you find people dependent upon bird life as a means of food such as you find here in Newfoundland. The killing of ducks, for instance, in the middle States and in Canadian prairies was a sport and the people were not dependent upon it as an article of food, as we in Newfoundland are. As has been pointed out by many speakers already, it does play a very vital part in our food diet and as one speaker already pointed out, I think the honourable member for Fortune and Hermitage, it would be a serious step, from the health point of view, if people were debarred altogether from the variation of diet which they get from delectable sea birds. I have very much pleasure, Mr. Speaker, in supporting the resolutions.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Mr. Speaker, I should like to give my somewhat more than formal approval to the substance of this series of resolutions. I am happy to do that because of the principle involved and because I represent one of the more popular districts, which would be affected positively by the resolutions themselves.

Now, Sir, the point has been amply spread before us and I have no intention of elaborating on the point already made but to rise and support the resolutions in principle and detail.

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries & Co-operatives): Mr. Speaker, the Migratory Bird Convention is, I believe, an international agreement to which both the United States and Canada are signatories, and I take it, the consent of both those high contracting parties is required if the convention is to continue in effect and Newfoundlanders are permitted to shoot turrs, ticklacs and stern.

Now if the Government of Canada should decide to move in this important matter and the turr fleet off the Funks become objects of international concern, such a development would at least be free from the things that usually accompany the development of a national situation. We would at least know in advance that no matter what came of it, there is no danger of civilization being shaken or nobody is likely to take a shot at anybody or anything except perhaps the turrs.

I cannot hope that the citizens of the United States and the remainder of Canada will ever come to appreciate the situation of sea birds in this Province. People who live in highly mechanized civilization and push a button to serve men's needs even so simple as a cup of coffee; have never seen the ocean and know nothing of those who make their way of life from the sea, are possibly likely to wonder, if they ever hear of it, what the fuss is about turrs and what are turrs anyway. Even here in St. John's, where most citizens pick up a phone and have the butcher deliver a T-bone steak, it is difficult to appreciate the fabric of people's lives around our coast, of those who can't pick up a phone and can't call the butcher and baker, have no electric light and no refrigerators and must depend upon, to vary their diet of salt fish and potatoes, the right to take sea birds for the difference whether they have fresh meat during the year or not.

Now we have had the right to take sea birds from time immemorial. Candidly I have no doubt that had Newfoundland been a party to union, when the resolutions were accepted, steps would have been taken to protect the historic rights of Newfoundlanders.

Now I have heard it stated that Newfoundland would not have entered Confederation, had it known the effect of this Convention. Candidly that is stuff and nonsense. Newfoundland would not forego the privileges of union for a mess of pottage or a dish of turrs. As I have said, I am quite confident had Newfoundland been in union at the time the convention was ratified, necessary arrangements would have been made at that time to permit, under the Act, killing these migratory sea birds, non-game, and I believe the citizens of the remaining provinces of this nation will not deny us that right now.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, may I elaborate on just one point not mentioned and a very important point. We are given dominion over fish and fowl but have to be guided by justice and when men went too far, the state came in and passed laws, that is the reason for the migratory law.

MR. SPEAKER: I am not sure, when the honourable member first rose he supported the motion.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, it is only a point but of very great importance which I was going to bring in.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It would be a second speech.

MR. HIGGINS: I know.

MR. SMALLWOOD: You are only allowed one speech.

MR. MILLER: Mr. Speaker, after all that has been said on the opposite side of the House, I feel like some one who had a good look at a good flock of turrs seen by someone else first. There has been a lot of shots fired and I am just another one but there is one point I would like to enlarge upon. The Attorney General more or less suggested that this might take considerable time to adjust to the satisfaction of everyone. I do agree with it, though I feel I should recommend that perhaps some resolution may have to be brought along as well. We would not like to see any bird destroyed entirely, that would be a tragedy; and neither, I feel, do these people who shoot the birds wish that either, when they are quite dependent on them. It is the duty of our legislature to see that that day will never come. But I do feel that this thing can be brought about rather quickly. Now I must congratulate the member for Burin-Burgeo and the member for St. John's East for the fine thing they have done in bringing this to the forefront and if the world saw fit to have a little laugh at us we will live it down but the fact remains somebody somewhere, whether politician or civil servant, last year brought severe pressure to bear on the authorities to have a certain area exempted, while the law went into force elsewhere. I do feel, that if we can engage such a party again, we will have exemption all around the coast and then the matter can be laid aside and there need not be any further controversy over it.

HON. JAMES R. CHALKER (Minister of Health): I would like to speak in favor of these resolutions, Sir, on behalf of the people of the district of Harbour Grace. During the past few months I have had many requests asking me if it were possible to have the Provincial Government to have these resolutions raised, so that they, in the district of Harbour Grace, could go and shoot turrs. Unfortunately I had to inform them that the Provincial Government had no jurisdiction over the matter. I was glad, Sir, to see it taken up at the Federal level in Ottawa and also glad to see the honourable member for Labrador bring in these resolutions in this honourable House.

It is needless for me to go on, Sir, it says what it means to the average Newfoundlander, especially on the North East Coast and the Labrador, and the Leader of the Opposition in his speech referred to certain parties bottling various meats for use by them over the winter, I would like to inform him that turrs was one of these things bottled.

I would like to support these resolutions and I do hope the Newfoundlanders may be able to continue to hunt the old turr.

MR. CANNING: Mr. Speaker, I wish to add my voice to all the other speakers in supporting this motion before the House. I come from a district, which has not the benefits of refrigeration and electricity, and the turrs provide our chief source of meat throughout the winter time.

I take great pleasure in supporting these resolutions.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Practically every member of the House present has now spoken in favour of the resolutions, and I have no doubt whatever that it is the overwhelming sentiment of the House that the resolutions now before the House should be adopted and indeed, though every last member has not spoken to the motion, although they may yet do so, I have no doubt the vote will be unanimous support of the resolutions. We are going therefore to the Government of Canada with the unanimous support of the House and the resolutions ought to carry fairly considerable weight. It is not a party measure. It is not a matter upon which the House divides upon party lines at all. It is a matter which affects the whole of the population of Newfoundland living along the sea shore, along the coast and when I say Newfoundland, of course, I naturally include Labrador.

The position now is extremely well known. Frankly, I do not know just what are the chances of getting modification made in the treaty or agreement between the United States and Canada, but that will be better known to the Government of Canada and if they should be lacking any desire at all, on the part of the Canadian Government, to take all possible steps to secure modification of that agreement, this request from the legislature of Newfoundland ought to go a long way to strengthen the desire of the Canadian Government to make the request of the Government of the United States. But I doubt very much, that the Canadian Government needs to be prodded in this matter. I think they are fully aware of the matter. These resolutions will be most valuable as an indication to the Government of the United States of the sentiments of the fishermen of Newfoundland. Now I have some reason to suppose that the Government of the United States would like to maintain the friendliest relations with the people of Newfoundland; they have these great bases in Newfoundland, they have hundreds of their armed forces in Newfoundland and they are, I submit, quite anxious to maintain the friendliest possible relations with the people of Newfoundland. A request of the representatives of the people of Newfoundland, regardless of political opinion, will not, I venture, fall on an entirely deaf ear in Washington. So that if the Government of Canada approach the Government of the United States and is able to point to a unanimous request, expressed by the elected representatives of Newfoundland, for some modification of the agreement, my belief, certainly my hope, is that that fact will go some considerable distance towards persuading the Government of the United States to agree to relax and modify the existing agreement along the lines of the present resolution. So also I am glad, as are all of us, to give my cordial support to these resolutions and I believe it will receive the unanimous assent to this house.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the resolutions and I feel that they will be of benefit to the fishermen of this country and perhaps to the benefit of those not clearly classified as fishermen. Much has been said here this afternoon and it leaves little room for me to elaborate, any more than to say I support, but there is one point I would like to make clear. The honourable member for Fogo yesterday intimated that the Progressive Conservative member at Ottawa, who brought forward this resolution, was playing politics. Now I hope, if this House passes these resolutions unanimously, it won't be accused of playing politics. From my point, Mr. Speaker, whether I am accused of playing politics or not, I rise to support the resolutions.

MR. JACKMAN: Just to make this unanimous, Mr. Speaker, I have great pleasure in supporting this resolution.

Resolutions adopted unanimously by the House.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move a recess for ten minutes.

House resumed sitting.

MR. SPEAKER: Second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

Order deferred.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Make Uniform the Law Respecting the Estates of Intestates."

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, I move the second reading of this Bill. It is a legal measure; nevertheless, a Bill, I think, which will interest every member of this House. It deals with the title of estates of people, who die without having made a will, and alters the existing law rather considerably. As a matter of fact, our present law is an antiquated one, and must be over a hundred years old.

MR. HIGGINS: Three hundred and fifty, I think.

MR. CURTIS: Well, however, the main point is this, the time has come, when in common with many other provinces of Canada, we feel this entire law should be revised. It was revised in England in 1925. Now out of the ten Provinces of Canada—the only Provinces that have not enacted this particular Act are Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island; but I could not say their law has not been amended, though they have not adopted this Act. I refer to this particular Act which has been drafted and submitted to us by the Committee for Uniform Legislation.

You will note, Mr. Speaker, if you refer to the Bill, if an intestate dies now, leaving a wife or widow and one child, one half goes to the widow. The present law is if a man dies leaving a widow and one or more children, the widow gets one third and the children divide two thirds; this amends that law, so that, if a man dies now leaving a widow and one child, the estate is divided equally between the two.

MR. HIGGINS: The widow is entitled to half.

MR. CURTIS: I think it is rather fair they should get one third each to two children, but we are anticipating the committee and I am trying to show the general support of the Bill.

It goes on to say, if the child dies leaving issue, the widow shall take the same share of the estate as if the child were living at that date, Sub-section 3—section 5 reads:

"If an intestate dies leaving issue, his estate shall be distributed, subject to the rights of the widow, if any, per stirpes among such issue."

The distribution, Mr. Speaker, is per stirpes rather than per capita. In the case of distribution per stirpes the children take among them the father's share, if it were per capita, each would share alike, but if per stirpes, the only child takes the father's share, but if there are five grandchildren, the father's share among them. Now, Mr. Speaker, the Bill goes on further and protects the widow. If a man leaves a widow with no issue, his estate goes to the widow. In other words the widow gets the entire estate, under the present law all widows get two thousand dollars clear and half of the rest. Now if a man leaves no children, the widow is entitled first to $20,000 under section 6, 7, 8 and 9. The net value of the estate is defined, the only difference is the funeral expenses are looked upon as a deduction before the estate is distributed. Under the present law the funeral expenses are not deductible before.

Now under the present law, if a child dies leaving a father and a mother, the money goes to the father. The law is now changed here, and if a man dies leaving a mother and father they share equally, but if either one is dead the entire estate goes to the survivor. In other words the estate goes per stirpes. Under section No. 9 the estate does not go per stirpes, but per capita, that is the exception to the usual detailed distribution referred to a few moments ago. It then goes on, Mr. Speaker, to children of half-blood inheriting. Under section 13 is a provision which, I think, is properly made law at the present time, whereby if a father said to a child, I give you five thousand, the gift is included in the estate. This applies purely to intestates, since a man can make a will and do what he likes with it.

No. 15 does introduce a new principle, and one I think worthy of explanation. I think, Mr. Speaker, that is a very proper clause, there is no such thing as an illegitimate child, the illegitimacy is on the part of the parents, therefore if a mother has an estate, it is only proper her illegitimate children should rank with any other children in its distribution.

Section No. 17 has a brand new feature, which we have not had under the laws of Newfoundland. Under the law we have had up to now in Newfoundland, if a woman died, all her estate went to her husband and nothing to her children, if she left no will. That is one of the big arguments of the suffragettes, but when the children died, everything went to the husband. It was changed in England in 1925 and has taken us until now to get to it. Now if a woman dies, the husband gets exactly the same treatment as she would have gotten. Under the law a man was responsible for the support of his family, therefore it followed if a woman died and the estate went to her husband automatically it went to support the children, but such is the frailty of human man, cases appeared where the money was kept at the expense of the children, therefore, he now gets up to $20,000 and anything over goes to the children.

Item 18 is also new and very desirable.

MR. HIGGINS: There will be a number of law cases arising out of that.

MR. CURTIS: Well we are not adverse to creating new law cases. At the same time, I think the principle is right. I would move the second reading of this Bill, Mr. Speaker and recommend same to the House.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act Respecting Apprenticeship."

MR. BALLAM: Mr. Speaker, I have great pleasure in introducing this Bill an "Act Respecting Apprenticeship." I don't think that we have ever had anything in our statutes regarding apprenticeship or apprenticeship training and it is very necessary, in my opinion, to have legislature to regulate and to set down the requirements for apprentices in training.

This Bill is also supported by the Newfoundland Federation of Labour, who submitted a draft Bill to us. The introduction of a properly supervised apprenticeship scheme is desirable, in my opinion, and it is our wish that assistance be given to training of workmen in various trades.

We do have now some very good apprenticeship schemes in the bigger industries which are very well worked out and this Act is not intended to interfere with schemes they have, rather to encourage them and encourage employers generally to introduce newer and better schemes if possible.

The Bill will regulate the powers required for apprenticeship in various trades and it will also give additional training, that is from the Department of Education in their vocational training scheme. It will also provide for the agreement with the Government of the Dominion as they do with other Provinces who help in vocational training and they are lying in apprenticeship with vocational training. I may say that this Bill here is patterned after the New Brunswick apprenticeship act, which is probably the best in the whole Dominion and has been working there for many years and has done a fine job.

I think this Bill will be welcomed by employers, because the standard of workmanship of tradesmen will be improved, and I think employees themselves will welcome the training they get during apprenticeship term and prove their ability to get more quickly in to a trade and make more money for themselves.

I have great pleasure, Mr. Speaker, in introducing this Bill and I now move its second reading.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Bill and probably may say this, the Bill perhaps is 30 years too late. I notice that the board set up under the provisions of this Bill if it becomes an Act, has a right to set the wages or remunerations paid to apprentices. Now, I don't know how this Bill will fit in with agreements already in effect between the employers in Newfoundland who work under provisions of the Federal Act and perhaps there will be no conflict at all. I have not had time to read it through, though I think it is a good Bill and I think we should have something in this country to regulate the hours and wages of apprentices. Nevertheless, I do say that maybe later in the life of this country to have such an act come into effect, may help our young men going into new trades and professions during the next few years. That would naturally depend upon how the act is applied. I notice there is a board to be set up to carry out the provisions of the act and also many other rules dealing with hours of work, which they shall work in each year, also dealing with the amount of pay an apprentice gets in this Province.

I was wondering, Mr. Speaker, if the honourable Minister in Committee, would bring forth at that time how this Bill would act as reflected upon the Federal Act dealing with the same subject. There is no doubt there is probably not in this country a big field for apprenticeship to train people to learn the trades and the trend is today that people don't learn their trade any more but I still agree that there are some who must but most people I know today who engage in some trade or profession did not go into a shop at all and learn the trade or serve a regular apprenticeship for four or five years. For instance the trade I am working in, an electrician, in many cases the people who did not serve time as an apprentice in many cases turn out better tradesmen than those who went and served time, that is a well known fact. We have in fact today, in many places in Newfoundland, in Canada and the United States where tradesmen today most likely are machine operators, there are very few places today where an apprentice goes in and serves time, perhaps a stone mason or bricklayer but today a person goes in at any age and works so much time at the job and becomes conversant with the rules of that trade and leaves after a year or years and goes some place else and sets up as a tradesman or contractor. It has happened in Newfoundland and everywhere else. Today we are faced with the fact that everybody gets out and earns a living in the quickest way possible.

There is one way though this Bill might serve a purpose and might help young men here in Newfoundland but I will say again it is a long way behind at this time in the age of this country. But I do support the Bill with these remarks, it may help our young men and it may not, it may restrict them to working four or five years in a place where under ordinary conditions after working two or three years they could get out and earn a living for themselves contracting, which has happened and in Newfoundland men have made a success of it, particularly during the past fourteen or fifteen years. Though I support it, Sir, in principle, I am afraid some of the provisions of the Bill will not work out to the advantage of some of the young men who would go into the trades, which this Bill will cover.

MR. JACKMAN: Mr. Speaker, first of all I would like to congratulate the Minister for bringing in this very important measure. It is bound to be of great help to the younger people growing up in Newfoundland.

I wish to say that I support the Bill in principle one hundred percent. There is, however, one matter the Bill covers which I'm concerned about. In our working agreement today with the company we have a clause covering apprenticeship. I am not quite sure—I have not the contract in my pocket—I think the starting rate for apprentices is 80c. an hour and after three months it is raised to $1.00 an hour. I believe the Act gives power to determine the wages paid. Will the board consider we have an agreement on wage rates covering apprentices? For instance in our case the starting rate for apprentices is 80c. Apart from that I certainly support the principle of the Bill.

MR. BALLAM: I think in introducing the Bill I stated it was not intended this Bill should interfere with existing apprenticeship schemes and I go along with the junior member for St. John's East in saying that this is long overdue. I think years and years ago we should have had such legislation and we should have had something to guide young people, when they set out to learn their trade. But I can't agree that it is too late. It is never too late to do good, and if it helps or gives guidance to any young people it is still doing good. I don't think there will be any conflict with Dominion Legislature because this Act is the same Act in force in New Brunswick and almost every Province and I don't think there could be any conflict. One section of the Bill, No. 27, I think, it is: "The Minister may from time to time, with the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, enter into such agreements with the Government of the Dominion of Canada, municipalities and other parties as he may deem necessary for the administration of this Act." So that I don't think there can be any conflict and I am sure it will do a lot of good. It is long overdue and I am very proud to have the privilege of introducing it.

MR. HIGGINS: I presume it is all meant for the public good.

To be referred to Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the Education (Teachers' Pensions) Act, 1950."

MR. HEFFERTON: Mr. Speaker, in moving the second reading of this Bill I may say the amendment came as a result of certain representations by the teachers' organization in the light of experience they have had during the past year since the original Act was passed. The amendments will be taken up as we go into committee. I move the second reading.

To be referred to Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I move that the House at its rising do now adjourn until tomorrow at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

WEDNESDAY, April 18, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

Hon. J. R. Smallwood presented a Petition from the people of Pinchard's Island, re Road.

Mr. Jackman presented a Petition from the people of Bell Island, re Public Wharf.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I beg leave to table a report of the Accounts of the St. John's Municipal Council for the year ending March 31, 1949, together with the report of the Auditor General thereon.

Reports tabled.

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): Mr. Speaker, in reply to Question No. 94, by the honourable member for St. John's East.

Question: 1. What type and brand of Men's rubber boots and Boy's rubber boots were purchased on behalf of the Labrador Trading Operations last year?

2. What type and brand were supplied respectively by Parker and Monroe, Ltd., Halley and Co., Ltd., and Ships' Stores?

3. What Rubber Manufacturers do Halley & Co., Ltd., and Ships' Stores represent in Newfoundland?

Answer: 1. The types of rubber boots purchased on behalf of the Labrador Trading Operations were—

- Men's Hip Rubbers.
- Men's Thigh Rubbers.
- Boys' Knee Rubbers.

2. The types and brands supplied were—

Parker and Monroe Ltd.—Men's Hip and Thigh Rubbers (Bluebar and Suprex Brands).

Halley and Co., Ltd.—Boys' Knee Rubbers (Lifebuoy Brand).

Ships' Stores—Boys' Knee, Men's Hip and Men's Thigh Rubbers (Action Brand).

3. Ships' Stores represent the "Action" brand, which is purchased through the Toronto Shoe Co., Toronto.

Halley and Co., Ltd., represent the Kauffman Rubber Co., Kitchener, Ont. (Lifebuoy Brand).

Parker & Monroe, Ltd., represent the Dominion Rubber Co., Montreal (Bluebar Brand) and the Hood Rubber Co., Kitchener, Ontario, (Suprex Brand).

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Mr. Speaker, in reply to Question No. 95 the report to which the question refers is an extensive one and it will take some time to copy. That work is being done and the answer is being prepared.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In reply to question No. 96 and two questions following 97 and 98 are in course of preparation.

Mr. Speaker, I announce receipt of a message from His Honour the Lieutenant Governor.

The honourable the Minister of Finance:

The Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Newfoundland transmits estimates of sums required for the public services of the Province for the year ending March 31st, 1951, as Supplementary Supply, and in accordance with the Provisions of the British North America Act of 1867, as amended, he recommends these estimates to the House of Assembly.

(Sgd.) LEONARD OUTERBRIDGE,
Lieutenant Governor.

April 18th, 1951.

Mr. Speaker, I move the House into Committee of the Whole to consider certain resolutions which is the first step in bringing in a money Bill to vote this supplementary supply to His Majesty in respect to the year which came to an end on March 31, 1951. The amounts are set forth in resolutions by departments and the total is approximately three and a half million dollars, to be exact $3,550,700.

In Committee of the Whole on resolutions, I will be, of course, glad to give the House an explanation of the amounts required and requested. I may say this, that figures which have been published in the House here of expenditures for the year in question, of expenditure in excess of the amount of expenditure shown in figures tabled in the House from time to time. The House will recall in reply to questions I tabled figures showing the total expenditure of the Government for the first eleven months of the year and that, a few days ago, I tabled further figures showing the total expenditure for the final month of the year, the month of March. So that, at this moment, the House has before it figures showing the total expenditures of the Government for the twelve months in question. Then members may ask: Why a supplementary supply bill in the amount of three and a half million dollars, if it is not an additional amount over and above the figures already tabled and the answer, of course, is this; that in the first place this money has been spent, this three and a half million dollars has been spent but, spent without legislative authority. That is to say, when the House last voted supplies to His Majesty in respect of last year, the year ending March 31, 1951, it did not supply these amounts, nor did it vote these amounts of money for the purpose for which it was spent, and now we come asking for legislative sanction of the spending of this amount which has been spent and which amount is included in the figures already tabled in the House.

Now, furthermore, I ought to draw the attention of the House to the fact that this has no bearing whatever on interim supply, which the House has already voted in respect to the current year which began April 1, 1951, when the House recently voted some $8,000,000 interim supply to His Majesty, pending bringing down of the Budget and Estimates for this present financial year. That has no bearing whatsoever on this supplementary supply which has a bearing only on the past fiscal year, in an amount of three and a half million dollars for which legislative sanction was not given when the Estimates were presented last year and for which legislative sanction is now requested of the House.

I may say that the presentation of a supplementary supply after a year has passed to sanction expenditures made is not undue practice. It is not a practice introduced by this Government, it is a practice carried out, I would think, by most Governments that ever held office in Newfoundland and furthermore it is a practice carried out by most governments in the world, the reason being of course, in the course of the financial year expenditures are made by every government with regard to things not anticipated when the Estimates were brought down and therefore they are not sanctioned. Now that happens in Governments throughout the world, democratic, parliamentary governments who are answerable to parliament almost constantly in session and governments who have much better opportunity to know, to be able to anticipate its expenditures. During the course of the current year they are able to follow a practice which we don't have in this House and that is the practice of asking for additional estimates.

Now, I will state that in the House of Commons at Ottawa and also in the House of Commons at Westminster, the practice is for the Government to come before the House with estimates and after they have been approved by the House in respect to the current fiscal year they then come forward maybe weeks or maybe a month later with an entirely new set of estimates in respect of that same current year. So that in respect of each year, it is quite commonplace for two sets of estimates to come before the House, the reason being that the first set they find it is impossible for them to anticipate a whole year in advance as to what money they will require or what money to ask the House to sanction. They bring forward what they do anticipate and get sanction for those and then later on when they know still more about what they will need they bring in additional estimates and sanction is given to these. Yet, in spite of the fact that their estimates for a given current year are brought down in two sets of estimates, in two instalments, they bring in other additional estimates. It is their practice to come in when that year is over and ask for a third set, namely supplementary supply.

In our case we bring down one set and in that set we anticipate as far as we can, what expenditure is likely to be needed for the coming year and we let it go at that, then when the year is over and we find that we needed to make additional expenditures not anticipated in the one set of estimates we take sanction in the lawful way by requesting His Honour the Lieutenant Governor to issue a special warrant from time to time and then when the House meets, bring in supplementary supply bill asking the House to concur, to sanction the supplementary expenditures made in the past year.

The reason for that, of course, is that unlike the House of Commons at Ottawa or at Westminster our House is not in session for most of the year. In Westminster the House is in session the whole of the year with the exception of Easter Holidays and Mid-summer Holidays, and at Ottawa they are in session for more than half the year for which reason, we, who are in session a matter of two or three months find it necessary to bring supplementary estimates in after the passing of the year in question.

I move the House into Committee of the Whole in relation to the granting of supplementary supplies to His Majesty.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Chairman, I have listened to the honourable Premier hold forth on this supplementary supply and here is what it means. Mr. Chairman, last year the House voted expenditure under ordinary account of $26,000,000 but the Government spent $3,500,000 more. Yes, here is your vote for 1950-51, voted last year in the House.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable gentleman is quite wrong.

MR. CASHIN: I am not wrong, take for instance Economic Development; the expenditure in 1950-51 was $2,000,000. The House voted $32,700.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If my honourable friend will allow me, he said this three and a half million is expenditure in addition to $26,000,000 which the House authorized last year. I say it is not so. Some of this three and a half million is indeed excess expenditure over and above the $26,000,000 but the three and a half million is not an expenditure over and above.

MR. CASHIN: Just take the Department of Economic Development, the vote was $23,000 last year in the House laid down in the Estimates. The Department spent two million more.

MR. SMALLWOOD: There was more than that voted last year.

May I say this so that the honourable and gallant gentleman may not be under any misunderstanding. This three and a half million is not all current account expenditure, it is current account and surplus together, and if the honourable and gallant gentleman will look at the Estimates for the Department of Economic Development last year, he will see the amount is more.

MR. CASHIN: Yes it is $277,000 and they spent in addition $2,000,000. In other words the department has spent for 1950-51 over two million dollars in addition to what was asked the House for. I forget the exact amount, I haven't got the figures here, but it is going to be charged up to the fiscal year. You spent last year in the Department of Economic Development over two million dollars but only took a vote from the House of $277,000. Now the total vote for the House last year including capital account and every other kind amounted to $38,000,000. You are asking now for three and a half million in addition for supplementary supply. Supplementary Supply, as I understand, is an additional expenditure to the amount voted in the previous year.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If the honourable and gallant gentleman will allow me: When the House votes money to His Majesty, it does not set a specific amount. Now I ask the House to take careful note of my statement: Here are the estimates. These estimates were not voted by the House. They were not voted by the House, they never are. The House votes an appropriation Bill which consists in this instance of twelve items of expenditure, or rather more than that amount, one for Legislative, one for Consolidated Revenue and so on for each of the Departments of the Government coming to fourteen items. If the House will look it up, what is the number of the appropriation Bill? I will show the House what the House voted last year.

This is not time wasted. It is necessary that one and every member be thoroughly familiar as we begin shortly to consider the estimates, and will again be voting an appropriation Bill and going through the same procedure. It is just as well that we should all understand quite clearly what we do when we vote this money. Now here is the Bill which was passed May 13, 1950, by the House in respect of the money which the Government asked the House to vote to His Majesty for the year ending March 31, 1951. "May it please Your Majesty that the sum hereinafter mentioned to defray the expenditure of the public service of Newfoundland." May 13 is the date on which the Lieutenant Governor gave Royal Assent to the Bills enacted by the House last year.

Now what are the estimates for if they are not passed on? Why are they printed? Why are they tabled? Why read out item by item and debate them, if we don't adopt and pass them. We did not, we never did; no House ever does. The estimates are a guide to the House to indicate as closely as the Government is able to anticipate at the time what is the order and what is the nature of the expenditure the Government proposes to make in the coming financial year. It is merely a guide, within the limits of the total appropriation for each department. There is no necessity on the part of that Department or on the part of the Government to spend the amount that is authorized. There is no necessity to do that. I will give my honourable and gallant friend an example of what I mean, and this will touch him very intimately. We put into the estimates last year an amount of $90,000 for a hospital for Ferryland and similar amounts for cottage hospitals in other places. The mere fact an amount is shown in the estimates is not to be taken as meaning that that amount must be spent, indeed, there is no obligation upon the Government to spend any money authorized by the House with the exception of Statutory amounts; that is to say the salaries of the Governor, of the Judges of the Supreme Court and the Central District Court and the Auditor General and the interest on the public debt. These are statutory but with the exception of these amounts there is no obligation whatsoever upon the Government to spend the total amount voted to it and still less obligation to spend the particular amount shown in the estimates. There is no obligation whatsoever. Now here is the result: If in the course of a finished year, although the Government has had the money voted to it for the purpose and though the amount may be mentioned in the estimates, the Government may decide not to spend any of it or may spend part of it. It may find it has overestimated the amount they will need for a given purpose and it is permitted where this money is a countervailing saving in a given Department, that saving may be spent on something else in the same department which has been overspent or has to be done calling for more money than given in the estimates. For instance, here are two items, one for $100 and another for $100. On one item the expenditure was $50 and on the other item $150, the amount is taken from one and applied to the other. Now in the course of the year the countervailing savings in the various departments may run up to one or two million dollars and if it is not applied to underestimated items, it would mean a total over-all surplus at the end of the year. That is why I say this amount does not represent additional expenditure for the year—I am speaking of the total of three and a half million dollars. It does not represent a net increase in the expenditure of the Government for the year, perhaps some of the items do represent an over-expenditure over and above the amount voted for the Department in question when the appropriation Bill was approved in the last session.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Chairman, I appreciate the lengthy explanation of the Premier. It always happens when estimates are brought down, the estimates are approved and then an appropriation Bill is brought in and later the estimates are discussed. That is procedure, has always been procedure. It does not necessarily mean that this three and a half million is additional expenditure to the $38,000,000. I know that, the Premier did not have to get up and tell me, I know it. But, unfortunately, it is an additional three and a half million. In other words the total expenditure for the year 1950-51, when they bring down the budget surplus or capital account development, will amount to over $41,000,000 against which you show a revenue of approximately $29,000,000—in other words a deficit of $12,000,000 for the year 1950-51.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Very good, suppose there is only a deficit of $2,000,000 on ordinary account.

MR. CASHIN: But I am telling you, you are going to have $12,000,000.

MR. SMALLWOOD: How do you think, on surplus account?

MR. CASHIN: I don't know if you charge up to current or capital account. This Economic Development, I take it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable gentleman is beginning at the last item.

MR. CASHIN: Well, the first item, Legislative $100, I don't imagine that is on capital account.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will explain them one at a time.

MR. CASHIN: The point I want to put over, Mr. Chairman, I don't want this House to be misinformed in this respect. They are brought in when debating the estimates and an appropriation Bill is brought in to cover the amount and that is the Bill the Premier read here. True, we don't vote for the estimates, that Bill is the thing and that Bill covers the total amount in these estimates. That has always been done since 1855. It is nothing new. We don't have to hold a night school over that.

MR. FOGWILL: The fact is according to figures I have here presented from time to time, on current account, it seems to me the Government intends to show a small surplus. At the same time some of them don't jive at all. For instance the vote for the Department of Health. In that department for the first eleven months the expenditure is less than the vote, still they ask for another $100 on that account. I think we should look into these figures we have. I can't see that we will be in a position to deal most of the money this has to deal with now comes out of current account.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will be glad to explain it, if we take it item by item. Mr. Speaker, the position with regard to that one hundred dollars is this: that is a total provision to give legislative sanction to a larger amount than that. There was the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and we paid the subscription of $800 which was not provided in the estimates of last year and Mr. Speaker's expenses while attending the New Zealand Conference. But there were contravening savings for the year in that vote and what we ask for now is $100.

MR. CASHIN: Drop balance.

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, my honourable and gallant friend is familiar with the term drop balance which is an amount the department has and does not spend up to the end of the year; it then becomes a drop balance and goes back into the treasury. These are not—these are countervailing savings. But this hundred dollars is quite important, the answer is the expenditure during the financial year, not authorized by this House, was $1,550 but we saved that amount, there was no net increase, we saved it out of the money voted, the money to pay the annual subscription to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and Mr. Speaker's expenses as our representative. Now we ask authority for doing so by putting in that token vote of $100. If the House agrees it was all right for Mr. Speaker to go to New Zealand to represent us and for the Government to pay his expenses, if the House agrees it was all right for us to join the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and pay $800 annual fee, which we did out of saving, if the House agrees, they will not give sanction by voting this $100.

MR. FOGWILL: Is that an addition to the total voted?

MR. SMALLWOOD: It may be an addition of $100.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Chairman, the figures I have here, presented by the Minister of Finance giving the expenditure for the first 11 months, were voted, but there was a saving on the total vote of just about $900.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Yes, and the token vote of $100 will give the legislative sanction for what we did to take some savings and apply them for these two purposes. Now we ask for confirmation and the form is to ask the House to vote a total amount of $100.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): Mr. Chairman, I think, as my colleague said, this thing has been thrown at us all of a sudden. We have not had a chance to compare it with the Estimates.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is quite futile to compare it with the Estimates.

MR. HIGGINS: We have not had time to think it over, I would suggest that the Committee sit, rise and report progress.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is quite right, I agree thoroughly to that. I think it is a pity to lose the afternoon. Today we will discuss the items and get an explanation, but will not pass the title of the regulations.

MR. COURAGE: The House will rise and report progress.

House resumed sitting.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Item No. 2 $305,900 under Finance Department. This amount is made up of several items, $15,000 for Railway Pensions. The amount provided in the original Estimates, $260,000, proved to be inadequate by the amount of $15,000, $50,000 deficit on Clarendville Vessels. An amount of $40,000 had been provided in the 1949-50 Estimates, but had not been used as the amount of the payment could not be exactly determined. A compromise agreement was eventually reached whereby they agreed to take $50,000 for full payment. They first claimed for more than $100,000 on this account. This is another $50,000 which would come from surplus. There was a figure of $70,000 in the Estimates for that purpose but it proved to be quite inadequate. Now, as the House will remember, before we were a Province we had customs revenue which people paid on certain goods but certain goods were exempt from duty and were subject to refund. For instance barrels for packing herring, they came in and duty was paid but when exported the duty paid on the barrels was refunded. Ever since we have come into office we have been confronted with bills from various firms for refunds of revenue and in the Estimates last year we made a guess—that is all we could do. We guessed that in the forthcoming year we would need $4,000 to pay back customs duties which had to be paid back by law, but we found instead we required another $65,000. The next item $2,200 that is in respect to secondary United Kingdom officials. It is not finished yet, we have to vote another $200 in respect to Mr. L. J. Machim as auditor general which were not received in 1950-51. His services terminated in January, 1950, and we subsequently get this bill from the British Exchequer and the auditor general and paid it, we now ask the House to confirm our act. We paid it. Another amount $150,000 interest free advance to the St. John's Municipal Council, out of surplus account in addition to the $100,000 outright grant provided in the 1950-51 Estimates to aid the Council in its difficult post Confederation finance. This $150,000 came from surplus account. $150,000 Newfoundland Fair and special current account not provided for in the original Estimates. $8,700, it became necessary during the year to acquire one more payroll machine required to provide against any mechanical breakdown of this equipment to cope with very heavy additional duties, contingent upon the decision to make deferred payments upon the relief program which accounted for almost 15,000 workers. As the House knows, all cheques issued now are issued in one department and that has necessitated the installation of very modern and up to date mechanical means of accounting and that amount of $1,000 covers a machine for the Finance Department. $100, and this will interest my honourable and gallant friend the member for Ferryland as well as the honourable member for Placentia and St. Mary's and other members of the National Convention. $100, National Convention. During the year we paid long outstanding bills amounting to $3,200 on account of the National Convention. The amount of $100 is to give legislative sanction, there is no payment necessary since the bill has been paid by money saved out of countervailing savings, $78,000 teachers' salaries, original provision of $2,600,000 proved to be inadequate and this amount was needed to meet the needs of teachers' salaries. It was spent and we now ask the House to ratify it. Pardon me, I have gone away over. Machines was the last item under Finance, that explains the $305,900. Provincial Affairs, $15,000. That is the outstanding cheque in respect to the National Convention, outstanding cheque presented for cashing and this amount is now asked as a total vote. Education; under this item we have $78,000 teachers' salaries. $5,000, school buildings and $5,000, examination costs. These three items make up $90,000 all on surplus account. Attorney General—$100, that is deferred pay for ex-servicemen, that is the total amount of a late received claim for about $600, that comes from surplus. $500 out of countervailing savings from Attorney General Services. $24,000 Northern Labrador Trading Operation. $100 acquisition of land at Gander and $5,000 Diamond Drilling. With regard to the Labrador Trading, it was found necessary during the year to extend the operations south of Hopedale and re-open the Post at Mackovik. $100 acquisition of land at Gander, total of cover purchases at Gander to enable Newfoundland ex-servicemen to avail of the Veterans Land Act. The amount available for actual diamond drilling we overspent by $9,000.

Public Works: That is a total vote to cover items for which there is no vote; chiefly the Portugal Cove Wharf, I hesitate to mention this but must do it. We spent the money to repair the Portugal Cove Wharf under protest and without prejudice to our contention that it ought to be spent by the Government of Canada, not Newfoundland. We still contend, though, that they should maintain that wharf, but the wharf was falling down and without prejudice to our own claim, our own contention, we did repair the wharf. The amount was not voted, but we ask the House to confirm our action.

MR. HIGGINS: What did it cost?

MR. SMALLWOOD: $14,000.

MR. CASHIN: In other words, we did Ottawa's job. They did not care whether the people got out of Bell Island to the Mainland here or not.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Well, it was a long drawn out argument.

MR. CASHIN: It gives us an idea about what they think of Newfoundland in Ottawa. For $15,000 they fell down on a job—it was lousy.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): I think it was worse than that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Public Welfare: This is made up of a number of items. For the information of my honourable friend, the member for St. John's East, I think I can say that all of it is current account, none of it is surplus.

MR. FOGWILL: The million and a quarter is not in addition to the total vote for the Department in the estimates last year?

DR. POTTLE: Yes, mainly it is.

MR. CASHIN: In other words that department spent nearly $11,000,000 on us.

MR. SMALLWOOD: $5,000 travelling under the heading of Mothers'

Allowances Division. The original estimate of $7,500 was not enough. We spent another $5,000; $8,000 instead of $7,500. Dependents' Allowances $195,000. The number of allowances for payment proved to be greater than actually estimated for 1950. The vote had to meet a number of payments in respect to 1950 because it was difficult, practically impossible, to figure payments under this system until after the opening of the 1950-51 year. The whole scheme of Mothers' Allowances and Dependents' Allowances had necessarily when the estimates were being prepared to be largely in the nature of guess estimates rather than estimates. We could not know how many widows and mothers would become entitled to get an allowance nor did we know how many dependents would become entitled to receive allowances. Anyway we underestimated on mothers' allowances and $15,000 public assistance. That leaves for salaries $69,000 and for travelling for relieving officers and welfare officers we underestimated by $2,000. Public Assistance $9,000 and for widows and orphans and infirm the original estimate was predicated upon the assumption that a great bulk would terminate upon the introduction of dependents' and mothers' allowances. It proved not to be so and it was necessary to spend this $145,000 on widows and orphans and the infirm. Relief, $445,000. This additional provision was required in the main to liquidate liabilities carried forward from the previous year in respect to Public Relief, Old Age and Blind Persons: Old Age $370,000 and Blind $15,000. The original estimate of the number of people in receipt of such pensions of $400,000 and $100,000 was under-calculated. The total cost of this service is shared with the Federal Government and the Committee will understand that this expenditure of $370,000 and $15,000 for old age and blind pensions; 75% of this comes back from the Federal Government and later we will recover it from Ottawa but we did spend it so we ask for confirmation of it. The Manitoba Flood and Rimouski fire disasters; a contribution of $10,000 to Winnipeg and $5,000 to Rimouski were made during the year. The amounts were covered by contravening savings within the Department. Total vote $100 to get legislative sanction. That is the explanation of the one and a quarter million in the Department of Public Welfare. That is gross not net.

MR. FOGWILL: How much is net?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Three-quarters of $400,000 we get back; $350,000—$950,000 net and I believe all on current account. Supply, $18,000; that is made up of two items $10,000 office equipment. The original estimate based on normal demand from supplies proved to be inadequate, and $8,900 for an annual grant to local councils, local town councils, original estimate of $70,000 proved inadequate by that amount.

Fisheries and Cooperatives: These are total advances against the fisheries enquiry. We don't know exactly what that is going to cost; that is the enquiry into the fishery prices received by fishermen and received by the merchants. The enquiry straddles two years, began one year and extended into the next, not calendar years but financial years. Some of the expenditure, only a small part in the fiscal years passed and the bulk will be in the current year. Fishermen's Convention: of the total over-all cost of fishermen's convention estimated $20,000

$5,000 will be paid out of countervailing savings in the year past and the balance will be paid out of the current year, this present financial year.

The Fisheries Development Committee, that is the committee of which Sir Albert Walsh is Chairman, there is a total amount there for preliminary expense of about $2,000 incurred but paid for out of countervailing savings, and we again ask the House to confirm our action in setting up the Fisheries' Development Committee and paying money to them.

Economic Development: $1,850,100. Now, here I am not going to be as specific about the details of this amount for Economic Development. It covers payments made during the past financial year on account of the cement mill, the gypsum plant and the birch mill, the three new industries. Yes, in the interim supply the House voted, as I recall, there was a lump sum for economic development, just a lump sum of two million, in that case I think it is all right, too; it won't enable any one who ought not to know to find out what the total will be for each mill. Cement Mill: $1,240,000; Gypsum Plant $300,000; Birch Mill $300,000.

MR. FOGWILL: That was spent, part payments spent in the last financial year. The balance of the cost of these three mills will of course be in the interim supply which the House has already voted in respect of the current financial year.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If that is given in a lump sum, nobody can figure out what each cost as we want to withhold that information for another week or two anyway.

Total $4,550,700.

Mr. Chairman, I move the committee rise, report progress and beg leave to sit again on tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

Committee of the Whole "An Act to Make Uniform the Distribution of the Estates of Intestates."

MR. HIGGINS: I don't like section 4 (2); I think the widow should get a half in every case. Suppose she has a half dozen children, what difference does it make if the widow carries on the house and has to make a living. However I am not going to move an amendment.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Well the idea is to make the law uniform with other Provinces but I think it is fairer too. I don't think a widow with one child should have half, it is fairer to have one-third and the children get the rest. You must remember you are only providing for fellows too lazy to make a will.

MR. HIGGINS: That often happens, no man is ever going to die.

MR. CURTIS: If my learned friend is very strong on it, I will take the matter up with the Government, we don't have to rush. The point is if a man dies leaving a widow and one child, the widow and child get one-half each; if more than one child the widow gets one-third and the children, no matter how many, two thirds. That is the existing law.

MR. HIGGINS: What is the amount judgment carries? Is it 5%?

MR. CURTIS: I think it is 4%. The legal interest in Newfoundland is always 4%.

MR. HIGGINS: 4% I think, in judgments.

MR. CURTIS: I will check up that point.

MR. CURTIS: In clause 15, the word "Chattel" should be written in before the word "real."

MR. HIGGINS: That is the one I talked about. Suppose a woman deserts her husband there is no difference whether she is living in adultery or not. Suppose she leaves voluntarily and is living in adultery but again, suppose she has been kicked out and is starving, what is the difference once she deserts the husband? I mean where a woman voluntarily leaves her husband she is in just as bad a position as though she committed adultery. I think it is a hard position, it is a hard job to prove those things.

MR. SPENCER: I take it the honourable member wants the words "living in adultery" struck out.

MR. HIGGINS: I mean she may have good reason to leave, it makes no difference in the legal sense. Suppose I mistreat my wife, she is entitled to leave me.

MR. CURTIS: She still gets your estate.

MR. HIGGINS: But how are you going to prove the other.

MR. CURTIS: I think you can assume the proof. I have come across many cases of divorces. In all cases there were co-habitation and children. It is a very simple matter to prove, difficult to lay down for every case but I think it is a good law.

MR. HIGGINS: I know in England a man is bound to support his wife during his lifetime. Now he is supposed to support her after death. If a man dies and leaves a heavy estate he was once allowed to cut his wife off entirely but now Buckingham put an end to that and a wife is allowed to come into court and claim she is entitled to support out of her husband's estate. Now the other claimants can claim she is a bad woman and deserted her husband. If she can claim she is a decent wife living with him at the time of his death and there is no reason to cut her out she will get a certain amount of the estate. There are cases where she is entitled to it but she is not entitled to it while living in adultery at the time of the man's death.

MR. CURTIS: I move the committee rise, report progress and ask leave to sit again.

MR. HIGGINS: I wonder might we get an interpretation of section No. 9.

MR. CURTIS: I don't know what it means.

For instance, British Columbia might pass a judgment on this and our judge could say, we don't care about British Columbia but the Supreme Court of Canada binds us all.

MR. HIGGINS: They do that in any case.

MR. CURTIS: That is the object in having Acts made uniform so that a decision on one might be a guide for all.

MR. HIGGINS: It is not so now. On certain interpretations the judges of the different provinces give different decisions.

MR. CURTIS: But my learned friend must therefore see the value of having the wording the same in all provinces as they eventually go to the same court.

MR. HIGGINS: It means nothing unless it goes to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Committee rose, reported some progress and beg leave to sit again.

Ordered to sit again on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on a Bill "An Act Respecting Apprenticeship."

DR. POTTLE: Mr. Chairman, I would like to draw attention to sub-clause Paragraph A—Apprentices mean a person at least 16 years of age. I would like to draw attention to this particular fact; the definition of "child" in the welfare Act is 17 years and it is worthwhile to see that the provisions of that Act do not conflict with the provisions of Child Welfare Legislature. In many cases there are provisions laid down covering the employment of children. That is the main body, there may be other effects on the employment of children and it may be wise to see that this Act may not interfere with the other Act.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): It was taken that is the school leaving age and that is the time to start apprenticeship.

DR. POTTLE: But may be employed by an employer before seven o'clock in the morning and after seven o'clock at night.

MR. BALLAM: I think as we get on with this Bill we will find sections that control all those things; control the time worked and the number of hours.

MR. FOGWILL: In connection with that clause—Age 16, I believe most apprentices serve between the age of 16 and 21, and it provides for hours of work. I would like the honourable Minister to give some explanation of Clause 9 (D).

MR. BALLAM: You follow on, you see, Trade experience as a workman or as a member of the Armed Forces, may be taken into consideration in considering the time of apprenticeship.

MR. FOGWILL: How would that conflict with the Act. The board might give a man credit for two years, then in what rate of pay would he start? Would it be on the third year, what should be the position? If he gained the credit would he be stepped up in the number of years and wages adjusted accordingly? What is the position in relation to his fellow employees? Another man would come in with one or two years' credit and get a higher rate of pay.

MR. BALLAM: That would create dispute and the board would settle the matter. I think generally all points are covered in the Act.

MR. FOGWILL: You are going to have trouble with that.

MR. BALLAM: I don't think so, I don't anticipate any as yet.

MR. JACKMAN: I would like the honourable Minister to give some guarantee in positions like ours where we have already an agreement and the starting rate is 60c. an hour and after three months $1.00 an hour.

MR. BALLAM: I think that is taken care of later on in section No. 4.

MR. FOGWILL: Section No. 24—Establishing wages or setting up right of wages by collective labour agreement. What particular agreement would you take? There are various ones in the trades.

MR. BALLAM: It means in any trade. For instance in any trade being carried on now if they have a collective agreement regarding apprenticeship, this Act would not conflict with it.

MR. FOGWILL: What I mean is this, for instance in Grand Falls there is one agreement and a different one in another place and there is a different wage scale in Grand Falls and Corner Brook, and in the Act established in St. John's, and you have a different set-up altogether, a different collective agreement for wages than that provided in other sections. Some places pay higher and other places less, both established by labour agreements.

MR. BALLAM: I am sure all the existing arrangements have been taken into consideration by the board. Right now they covered in the collective agreement. It will be maintained and lived up to.

MR. FOGWILL: I would like to point out the difficulties the board may be faced with. Now for instance, right here in St. John's, what would you take to be the established wage by collective agreement, would it include the railway and some of the employees in the city? What would be the established rate by agreement?

MR. BALLAM: It would be a matter which would have to be worked out by the Board.

MR. FOGWILL: I think you will have trouble under that clause.

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

Section 7 read and passed.
 Section 8 read and passed.
 Section 9 read and passed.
 Section 10 read and passed.
 Section 11 read and passed.
 Section 12 read and passed.
 Section 13 read and passed.
 Section 14 read and passed.
 Section 15 read and passed.
 Section 16 read and passed.
 Section 17 read and passed.
 Section 18 read and passed.
 Section 19 read and passed.
 Section 20 read and passed.
 Section 21 read and passed.
 Section 22 read and passed.
 Section 23 read and passed.
 Section 24 read and passed.
 Section 25 read and passed.
 Section 26 read and passed.
 Section 27 read and passed.
 Section 28 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Third reading of Teachers' Pensions, 1950.

MR. CURTIS: I move, Mr. Speaker, the next item on the Order Paper be deferred.

Second reading of Bill, "An Act Respecting Proof of Death of members of His Majesty's Military Naval or Air Force."

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I will explain this Bill very briefly. It is an Act to Amend and take the place of Proof of death of Members of the Armed Services Act, 1945, and provides for the production of a certificate in writing signed or purported to be signed by certain Military men in the Department of National Defence. The person referred to will be deemed to be dead. It is purely a formal Act just to clarify the position and make it clear without other proof that there has been a casualty. I move the second reading of this Bill.

Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. CURTIS: I move the adjournment of the House until tomorrow at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

THURSDAY, April 19, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

MR. SPEAKER: I have the honour to inform the honourable House that today we have been in attendance on His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, and he saw fit to give Royal assent to a Bill "An Act for the Confirmation of agreement between the Government and the Labrador Mining and Exploration Company, Limited."

Presenting Petitions

None.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motion and Questions

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Old Age and Blind Persons' Act, 1949."

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, Question No. 95. The answer is still in course of preparation and may arrive here during the course of the afternoon, if not, I have no doubt it will be here tomorrow at the latest. It is being prepared in the department.

Orders of the Day

Third reading of Bill "An Act Respecting Apprenticeship."

Bill read and passed.

Third reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Education (Teachers' Pensions) Act, 1950."

Bill read and passed.

Committee of the Whole on Resolutions Relating to Granting of Supplementary Supply to His Majesty.

Thereupon the House resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I believe it was decided to read over today, all clauses explained yesterday. I move that this vote be carried.

MR. FOGWILL: Is the schedule now passed?

MR. CHAIRMAN: We could go back.

MR. FOGWILL: I move the Committee refer back to schedule.

Mr. Chairman, there are several things in connection with the schedule, which I don't understand. We tabled questions here on certain days and received answers in relation to the revenue and expenditure for the year ending March 31. Now, I would like to know, Mr. Chairman, is this amount embodied here in addition to the amounts listed in the answers we got to questions, the total amount spent, in the answers we got from the Minister of Finance $26,966, are these amounts in addition to that on current account?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The answer is no. The amounts shown in the answers to questions of expenditure for the twelve months, in two instalments, first for eleven months, and then for one month, give the actual expenditure for the year, and the amounts shown here in the schedule to these resolutions are not to be added to the total amount shown in the answer to questions. The amounts shown in the answers to questions are inclusive of amounts given in these resolutions.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Chairman, from the answers I received here, there appears, on current account, it is the intention of the Minister of Finance to show a small surplus.

MR. SMALLWOOD: To answer, Mr. Chairman, would be to anticipate the Budget. The proper time to announce results is when the Budget is brought down and I would not dare to anticipate the Budget. The honourable member and honourable members of the House, of course, draw their own conclusions. We have tabled answers to questions showing the revenue of the Government and what was spent for the twelve months and the honourable gentlemen will draw their own conclusions. They may be correct or incorrect. The final statement of the Government's finances for the year will be shown in detail when the Budget is brought down, and I am sure my honourable friend will appreciate the fact, that I can give no other answer.

MR. FOGWILL: On the answers given by the honourable the Minister of Finance, I can assume nothing else, then to say on current account, the Government will show a small surplus. But there is one thing here to which I must draw the attention of the honourable the Minister of Finance: In answer to questions in respect to current revenue for the first eleven months ending February 28, 1951, under heading, Board of Liquor Control, the revenue is listed as $1,600,000 and in another answer some time later it says; revenue paid from April 1, 1950 to February 28, 1951, $1,800,000. That is $200,000 difference. Now there may be an error there.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I can give the honourable gentleman an answer to that, Mr. Chairman. In fact the revenue of the Board of Liquor Control passed into the treasury as trading profit at the year end was $2,300,000, for the year, to the end of the year, that was the total of the trading profit. The Estimates, as my honourable friend can see if he looks at the Estimates for last year was $2,200,000, actual receipts amounted to $2,300,000 of trading profits by the Board turned in for the year to the Treasury. Now in addition to that, there was surrendered by the Board to the Treasury an amount of $700,000 on capital account. That is return of capital borrowed by the Board from the Government, and now paid back, so that the total received by the Treasury from the Board for the year consisted of $2,300,000, on account of trading surplus and $700,000, on account of borrowed money returned to the Government.

MR. FOGWILL: That would make it agree to the answer here, and I am satisfied as to that.

I understand now, from the honourable the Minister of Finance, these amounts in the schedule here are not in addition to the amounts set forth in the Estimates for 1950-51.

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, I did not say that. What I said was: these are not to be added to figures of expenditure shown in the answers to questions. Because, if my honourable friend will compare the answers to his questions, and the expenditure for the year passed with the Estimates of a year ago of what would be spent in the year then ahead, he will see more was spent, according to the answers to his questions, than was estimated to be spent when the estimates were brought in a year ago. What I said was: that amount is not in excess of the answers to questions. It is partly in excess of the Estimates, but only in part.

MR. FOGWILL: Now, Mr. Chairman, I believe I understand the honourable Minister of Finance's answers. Now, as far as I can see, where they estimated $26,500,000 they received $26,900,000 or approximately that amount and while expenditures were estimated at $24,000,000 it actually was such as to leave a small surplus on current account, and on surplus the exact amount estimated.

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I say something at this point. The House may remember, Mr. Chairman, that in the first session of this Assembly an Act was passed, an amendment to the Audit Act, and that amendment provided that any revenue refunded by the Government of Canada in the month following the close of the financial year, may and must be credited to the year preceding it. Revenue from the Government of Canada and any other revenue received in the month following the close of the financial year is automatically credited to the year of which that month forms part. Any revenue received from that source one month after the close of the financial year is credited to that year, so that it will be clear that when the honourable gentleman takes our answers to questions and adds up the revenue received by the Government for twelve months, he must add to that any revenue which might be received in the month following the close of the year. Is that point made clear?

MR. FOGWILL: Yes, Mr. Chairman, that is clear. Is there any?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The month is not up yet, but this revenue, any revenue by the Government from the Government of Canada is credited to the year in question and not to the year, of which that month forms part.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): We got money for pensions and family allowances.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Any money received from the Government of Canada in respect to anything received within one month after the close of the year of which the month forms part.

MR. FAHEY: In other words if they took from the Provincial Government $1,000,000 in a given month and at the close of the year were reimbursed for benefits by the Federal Government, that would be credited to the year ahead.

MR. CURTIS: All amounts received up to April 30.

MR. FAHEY: Now, I want to get one point clear. I am not clear on this $1,500,000 estimate. Last year the expenditure was $38,000,000, now you are asking us to vote another $3,500,000 and all that makes a total, in my opinion, of $41,500,000, but you may have a drop balance from the various departments.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If the honourable gentleman's assumptions are right, his conclusions would be right.

MR. FAHEY: We are asked to vote three and a half million here which makes $41,000,000 roughly, then if there were a drop balance the total amount would be in the vicinity of $40,000,000.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In reply to my honourable friend from Bell Island, that is not quite correct. This three and a half million is only partly in excess of amounts shown in the Estimates. For this reason some of the money represented in that three and a half million, which we now request in the present resolutions, some of it is money spent but not authorized, but not representing new money.

Does my honourable friend follow me? But represents savings made in different departments during the year and spent not on the purposes indicated, but rather on other purposes not voted by the House but spent on different purposes in the same Department. We are not permitted to transfer from one Department to another but are in any given department, if we have two items, a hundred dollars for one and a hundred dollars for the other—two items. One item costs $50 and the other item costs $150, we save fifty on the one and so take what we save on one item and apply it to pay the additional cost on the other item. That is what is known as countervailing savings, a well known practice in all governments.

Now, some of the money in this three and a half million represents countervailing savings, therefore, the whole of this amount is not an amount in excess of the amount shown in the Estimates, it is not all new money. Some is money voted last year by the House, but spent on purposes different from the purposes indicated. There is a net increase but it is not three and a half millions.

MR. FAHEY: I can understand that, the point where you get a total vote of one hundred dollars.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is to authorize, but the money spent was more than one hundred dollars shown.

MR. FAHEY: I understand that, but when you add it all up, the total vote still comes to three and a half millions, there may be more spent from savings in the departments, but the actual vote will be three and a half million dollars, as I see it. We vote a total sum for argument's sake of $100, there may be $3,000 spent and with that $100 and various other items down through, it still adds up to three and a half millions. I will admit you may have spent more than you are still asking for, a vote of three and a half millions, as I see it.

MR. FOGWILL: One further point, Mr. Chairman: I would like to have the honourable the Minister of Finance explain, for example, the Department of Education, current account so much the actual expenditure, estimated so much leaving a drop balance of $14,106, and in surplus account there was a sum voted estimated and expenditure in the answer I got a saving of $25,000, total somewhere around $46,000 and you still ask for an additional vote here.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Well, I assume that must be a case where in addition to the spending of countervailing savings rather than allow them to become drop balance in addition to that $90,000. More than that was spent and $90,000 is the amount we now ask for.

MR. FOGWILL: Well, Mr. Chairman, that would be in addition to the total estimated expenditure?

MR. SMALLWOOD: It might well be, and that $90,000 might be split up in current and surplus account?

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, in this particular account none are surplus, all are current.

MR. FOGWILL: You got a saving, but this $46,000.00 is spend and you ask for an additional $90,000?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Yes, and $67,000 of that is for teachers' salaries.

MR. FOGWILL: I am not concerned about what it is for.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The whole schedule has to do with current and surplus account, and I indicated yesterday which was which, with regard to this $90,000 it is made up: $78,000 for teachers' salaries paid out of current account, $5,000 school buildings. That might be surplus, and $7,000 examination costs. It is conceivable that $5,000 of the $90,000 would come from surplus, I would not say that it will.

MR. COURAGE: I might mention here, we have passed this schedule, but when an honourable member wishes to speak after we have passed, we can then move, that we revert back.

MR. HIGGINS: I think, Mr. Chairman—I did not hear the schedule being passed, it must have been done very fast. I was going to ask one question. There are total payments down here, no heading, amounts allocated to Departments to certain Departments which have not been spent, will that $100 in Legislative, will that cover with the amounts saved the exact amount?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Exactly.

MR. FOGWILL: In that case, will it more than cover in other cases? It will not cover that but Legislative will be covered because you got a savings of $9,600.

This is off the point, Mr. Chairman, I would suggest to you and to the honourable the Minister of Finance that when bringing in a supplementary supply bill dealing with two accounts, when dealing with total amounts to pay for the expenditures not voted under the estimates, that the honourable Minister of Finance bring in a more comprehensive explanation, so that we here will be able to vote on each particular item.

MR. COURAGE: I might mention, as chairman of the committee, that yesterday the Premier made a rather full explanation of that matter, and it was decided then, by the honourable Leader of the Opposition, that today we would merely put the total amounts.

MR. HIGGINS: Not at all, we said we could not discuss it intelligently then until after hearing the explanation and thinking over the items.

MR. COURAGE: I can assure the committee, as far as the Chair is concerned there is no hurry whatever, but every member will be given opportunity to express his opinion, when he rises to address the chair.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I may say in reply to my honourable and learned friend the leader of the opposition, I am quite agreeable to accede to his request, a very reasonable request in my estimation. I may say, in presenting the supplementary supply resolutions, I have followed the normal procedure, the same exactly as in the original estimate. The details are not shown so much in these resolutions in the printed word but the verbal explanation is every bit as explicit, I think, and I am prepared to explain any point that is there. I do not pretend I carry all this information in my head, the honourable House would not believe me if I said I did, but with the help of notes I think I can explain. It is a perfectly normal procedure in every House and naturally the minister is obliged to give all necessary information in detail and I am only too pleased to do that and have no desire in the world to rush this money, what we seek is legislative sanction for what we did, there is no hurry, the money came in and we spent it and now we seek for confirmation of what we did. There was hurry when we asked for interim supply for the month that began April 1, if we had it we could not spend any after April 1, unless the interim supply were granted. Now this amount does not effect this year at all. Last year is over and done with. What we seek is legislative sanction for it. There is no hurry, we are not pressed for time. If the House says it was properly spent, perhaps the House may not agree it was properly spent in the strict sense of the word, but in the sense that rightly or wrongly we did it according to our lights in the public interest. If they feel that there was no theft or robbery or misappropriation of funds or anything of that character, the House may be contented to vote authority to us for having spent this amount.

MR. FAHEY: I was just wondering if every member could get an explanation in writing it would make it easier, take for instance in Fisheries and Co-operatives. I understand there are four different items of $100 each. I think the honourable Minister gave a good explanation but if each member had a copy in writing it would simplify things.

MR. SMALLWOOD: To have to do that for all of the estimates would take at least three months in addition to the preparation and getting printed and taking to the House and making verbal explanations, in addition to have to prepare an endless description of what the various estimates were for. It is gigantic task enough to prepare them for printing, without having to prepare written descriptions of what the amounts are.

MR. FAHEY: I was referring to the heading under the estimates here. They are detailed more or less under the various departments in the estimates anyhow, what I was referring to in this case there is a new vote on the total amount for various department. My idea was if we had to get a copy of the explanation we know there is a drop balance or saving from other departments and that it is used but we did not get that in writing. I am not referring to the estimates or the general budget at all but to this supplementary amount.

Committee rose, reported having passed the resolutions.

On motion resolutions were read a first and second time.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable members ask leave to introduce a Bill based on same resolutions.

Thereupon the resolutions were read a first and second time and referred to a committee of the whole.

Committee rose, reported having passed the resolutions without amendments.

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting Proof of Death of Members of His Majesty's Military, Naval or Air Forces."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the bill without amendments. Ordered to be read a third time presently.

Bill read a third time and passed.

Second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, we are not prepared to go ahead today or perhaps for some short while on the next two items. The one respecting the safety of workmen in mines has been referred to mining unions and companies for their comment and the one to make uniform the laws respecting the distribution of the estate of intestates has been referred, I think, to the legal fraternity and we are awaiting word from them. For which reasons I move consideration of the two next items on the order paper be deferred.

That being all the business for the day, I move that the House at its rising adjourn until tomorrow Monday, April 30th, at three of the clock. That means, Mr. Speaker, that the House will not meet tomorrow or next week if the motion carry, it will give the members of the Government more opportunity, than they have had in recent weeks, to concentrate on preparation for legislature that must come before the House and preparation of the estimates and budget for submission to the House. I dare say the honourable gentlemen, who are not members of the Government, may also appreciate the opportunity to attend to neglected private affairs, that claim their attention.

MR. SPEAKER: Moved and seconded that the House at its rising do now adjourn until tomorrow, Monday, April 30th, at three of the clock.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, I know this motion is not debatable, but I was going to suggest to the honourable House that if this motion carries it would be the third time the House has adjourned for one week since the first day of the session. Now I have some idea of the amount of work the members of the cabinet have to deal with but nevertheless I do think the honourable Premier should undertake now that the next day of sitting we should continue until the end of the session.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Yes, I think, Mr. Speaker, I can give that assurance. I see no reason why when we resume we should not go straight ahead to the conclusion of this session.

MR. FOGWILL: It is almost into the summer time now.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

MONDAY, April 30th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

MR. RUSSELL: Point of privilege concerning an article which appeared in the Sunday Herald, May 6th issue, which was prejudicial and maligned me as a member of the House of Assembly.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Objected as the matter did not involve a point of privilege.

MR. SPEAKER: I think the procedure is to have the article in question laid on the table of the House and read by Mr. Clerk.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think the proper procedure might be to have the necessary paper submitted to his Honour to ascertain whether any privilege of the House had been attacked through the honourable member. Your Honour is the proper one to decide.

MR. SPEAKER: Without having seen the article in question, I cannot give any decision. If the honourable member would lay the article in question on the table, I would like to have time to look it over because it is a different point to get a ruling on. I shall give a ruling on that question tomorrow.

Presenting Petitions

Hon. the Minister of Education from Burgoyne's Cove, re road.

Hon. the Minister of Education from Kerley's Harbour, re road.

Hon. the Minister of Public Welfare from Carbonear, re road.

Mr. Russell from Canning's Cove, re road.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow beg leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act to Amend the St. John's Housing Corporation Act, 1944."

I also give notice, Mr. Speaker, that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Slum Clearance and Development of Housing Accommodation Act, 1950."

I also give notice, Mr. Speaker, that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Exploits Valley (Closing Hours) Shop Act, 1938."

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): I give notice, Mr. Speaker, that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Grant Certain Powers to Public Utilities," and a Bill "An Act to Further Amend the Act 5, Edward VII, Chapter 10, entitled, 'An Act to Encourage the Manufacture of Pulp and Paper in this Colony.'" Also a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Law Society Act."

On behalf of the Minister of Supply, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Local Government Act, 1949", and also "An Act Respecting Elections in Municipalities."

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): I give notice, Mr. Speaker, that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act entitled the Poultry Products Act, 1951," and also a Bill "An Act to Provide for the Establishment of Family Courts."

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): I give notice, Mr. Speaker, that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Memorial University (Pensions) Act, 1950."

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Department of Public Works Act, 1950."

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow beg leave to introduce the following Bills:

"An Act further to extend the operation of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1945, and the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1947."

"An Act to Amend the Co-operative Development Loan Act, 1949."

"An Act to Amend the Co-operative Societies Act, 1939."

MR. FOGWILL: There are answers to four questions outstanding Nos. 95 through No. 98.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I beg leave to table a reply to a question which was asked by, I know not whom, and I know not what number, but it has to do with the Buy Newfoundland Campaign. When the question was asked, I asked the honourable member, if he would mind waiting for the report of the Director of that campaign to be completed and submitted to the Government. That has now been done and I have pleasure in tabling the report and in so doing, I would like to read a letter received by me, from the Associated Newfoundland Industries, which is the organization of the local manufacturers :

"Dear Mr. Premier :

At a recent meeting of this organization, we received an oral report from Mr. Don Jamieson, Director of Buy Newfoundland Products Campaign, of the program carried out during 1950, to stimulate and foster the sale of Newfoundland made goods.

The Association wishes me to convey to you our very high appreciation of this campaign. We are of the opinion that it was well carried out and that it could not but be of value to local manufacturers generally, and thus to the Province as a whole.

Your Government's interest in support of Newfoundland manufacturers is a source of real encouragement to those who are sincerely endeavouring to meet and overcome the various difficult problems, with which they have been faced in recent years.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) H. T. RENOUF,
Secretary."

This report also, Mr. Speaker, contains some letters from manufacturers and others, expressing appreciation of the Buy Newfoundland Campaign.

There is only one copy and I suggest the honourable member, who asked the question, be responsible for the return of the report as it happens, at the moment, to be the only copy we have. I think additional copies are to be mimeographed for the benefit of the members of the House.

Would the honourable gentleman who asked the question indicate, so that I know where the report is to go.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I asked the question, Mr. Speaker, but the main thing, I asked for was the audited account, which the honourable the Premier said was forthcoming.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That has not yet been received. I assume the Auditor General is the one who either conducts or arranges for the audit and when it has been received, it will be tabled without delay.

MR. SPEAKER: Hon. the Minister of Public Welfare—To ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Old Age and Blind Persons Pension Act, 1949."

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

Committee of the Whole on Revised Rules of the House.

DEPUTY SPEAKER: I think that since Mr. Speaker is not here we are not prepared to take this one up at this time.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Excuse me, Mr. Speaker have the revised Rules been mimeographed or printed for the benefit of the members of the House?

DEPUTY SPEAKER: I think they have been delivered to the Clerks Office.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think, Mr. Speaker, that copies, if available in the building, might be distributed to members so that we can proceed without undue delay to consideration of them. I may say, while on my feet, it is my hope to bring down the Budget on Wednesday of next week, that is one week from Wednesday of this week, and at the same time the Estimates for this current year. I would imagine it is the desire of the House now the business is laid before it to proceed as quickly as possible to our consideration of the Revised Rules of the House. I don't know when the honourable the Speaker will return to the House. My understanding was that he would be absent today and tomorrow and perhaps be here again on Wednesday. There may be certain preliminaries in consideration of these Revised Rules, that might be met and complied with, so that by the time Mr. Speaker returns, we would be ready to proceed with the active consideration of them.

DEPUTY SPEAKER: I have been informed, the copies of the Revised Rules are not in the Clerks Office, however, I will make enquiries and find out where they are and if they can be distributed, I will have it done this afternoon.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Make Uniform the Law Respecting the Distribution of the Estates of Intestates."

Deputy Speaker left the Chair. Mr. Horwood took the Chair of Committees.

Section 1 read and passed.
 Section 2 read and passed.
 Section 3 read and passed.
 Section 4 read and passed.
 Section 5 read and passed.
 Section 6 read and passed.

Section 7 read and passed.
 Section 8 read and passed.
 Section 9 read and passed.
 Section 10 read and passed.
 Section 11 read and passed.
 Section 12 read and passed.
 Section 13 read and passed.
 Section 14 read and passed.
 Section 15 read and passed.
 Section 16 read and passed.
 Section 17 read and passed.
 Section 18 read and passed.
 Section 19 read and passed.
 Section 20 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting Safety of Workmen in Mines."

DR. POTTLE: Mr. Speaker, I move this order be deferred.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, that concludes the Order Paper for the day, therefore the business of the sitting. When we last met, we had cleared up just about all the business then outstanding, and today we met with virtually nothing to do, as we are not prepared to go ahead with consideration of the Revised Rules. We have, however, given notice of a large number of Bills, but unfortunately for first readings and virtually no debate unless we are ready tomorrow for second reading of a Bill "An Act Respecting Safety of Workmen in Mines." So that I think I ought to warn the House that besides having nothing that we can legally do today, tomorrow we will have very little more because on first readings there can be no debate and the Order Paper will consist mostly of first readings. First readings can be debated only by unanimous consent, and it is a little early in the session to ask the House to waive the Rules of the House, which is never done as a standing thing, it may be done for one Bill or one item of business, but for general business of the House, waiving rules is never done until the last few days of the session, and then it is done in just about every elected House under the British Government. So that tomorrow, I take it, there is very little to be done as well.

I move the House at its rising adjourn until tomorrow, Tuesday, at three of the clock.

DEPUTY SPEAKER: Before putting that motion, I think we might distribute the copies of the Revised Rules. I have here some copies of standing order which will be distributed now.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

---

TUESDAY, May 1st, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

MR. SPEAKER: Before proceeding with the Orders of the Day, I have a ruling to give:

On Monday, April 30, the honourable the member for Bonavista South claimed a point of privilege concerning an article in a newspaper, the "Sunday Herald." The honourable the Premier thereupon rose to a point of order, and stated the honourable member did not have a point of privilege, since the privileges of the House were not concerned.

I stated that to constitute a breach of privilege the article must concern the conduct and character of a member in that capacity, and must further be based on matters arising in the actual transaction of the business of the House. I said further, it was the usual procedure in such cases that the newspaper be tabled, and the Clerk read the article complained of to the House.

The honourable the Premier thereupon suggested that the Speaker read the article and give a ruling. Since no honourable member objected I took the newspaper passed to me by the honourable member for Bonavista South, but stated that since I did not know the article in question, I would have to consider it carefully, and give a ruling tomorrow.

I am now prepared to give that ruling:

Since to constitute a breach of privilege the article must concern the character and conduct of a member in that capacity, and must further be based on matters arising in the actual transaction of the business of the House (Beauchesne, Page 86).

I ask the honourable members to note this carefully "Matters arising in the actual transaction of the business of the House."

My ruling must therefore be based on the question: Was the honourable member criticized for anything which he said or did as a member or with regard to transaction in this House. I find this is not so, rather this is a published account of a dispute arising between two honourable members as to allegations of facts outside the House; the Cabinet is not the House. Therefore this hardly fulfils the condition of a privilege. (See Beauchesne).

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, I do not intend, Sir, to have any disrespect whatsoever for your position or your ruling, but I wonder if you find it that this ruling applies to the whole article or the article concerned in parts?

MR. SPEAKER: I read the whole article.

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, I wonder if I could call your attention and respectfully suggest that there is definitely an inference there, and at least one of the statements alleged to be made by me on the floor of this House was a lie.

MR. SPEAKER: I must at this point inform the honourable member, if he wishes to, he may appeal the Speaker's ruling to the House, but the question, should the ruling of the Chair be sustained, would be put forth with and without debate.

MR. RUSSELL: I so move, Mr. Speaker. May I speak in support of my motion?

MR. SPEAKER: Not without debate, but since the House must judge and some of the members may not have read the article in question, I will have it read by the Clerk, then I will put the motion.

MR. RUSSELL: Without any disrespect to Mr. Speaker, I move the Speaker's ruling be not sustained and that I be permitted to speak on the article.

MR. SPEAKER: You would not be allowed to speak if the motion were defeated.

MR. RUSSELL: Well is this motion in order? I think the honourable House has power if it so wishes to allow me to speak. Is a motion in order that this House give me permission?

MR. SPEAKER: You must first upset the Speaker's ruling.

MR. RUSSELL: I so move; Mr. Speaker's ruling may not be sustained.

MR. JACKMAN: I second that motion.

Article read by the Clerk of the House.

MR. SPEAKER: Now, I would like to inform the House that the honourable member for Bonavista South has appealed the Speaker's ruling. Now in such cases the question is always put: I refer members to Beauchesne's "Speaker Decisions" The form is: Shall the ruling of the Chair be sustained? That is the formal way to put the question.

MR. JANES: Mr. Speaker, before you put the question it should be clearly understood what we are voting on: The decision of your honour of the validity of the article in question. Could we have the ruling read again please?

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is shall the ruling of the Chair be sustained?

Division:

Favour: Mr. Spratt, Mr. Ballam, Mr. Hefferton, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Mackinson, Mr. Button, Mr. Janes, Mr. Horwood, Mr. Forsey, Mr. Keough, Mr. Curtis, Mr. Smallwood, Dr. Pottle, Mr. Chalker, Mr. Vardy.

Against: Mr. Russell, Mr. Higgins, Mr. Fogwill, Mr. Jackman, Mr. Miller, Mr. Fahey.

MR. SPEAKER: The ruling of the chair is sustained.

MR. RUSSELL: To a point of Order, Mr. Speaker, that vote just taken was on the decision taken, the decision rendered by this House. Does that now rule out my appeal to the sportsmanship and fighting spirit, that is over now, is it?

MR. SPEAKER: That was to come afterwards, in the event the Speaker's ruling was not sustained, the honourable member would then have had the right to ask Mr. Speaker's permission.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I might be of some help. If the honourable member would like to discuss the matter dealing with the article, might I make a suggestion, a very practical suggestion—that he resign his seat and go back to his district and let his people decide.

MR. HIGGINS: There is no debate.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, there is no debate and the Premier is also out of order. I might say last year, in a similar matter, the House would not listen to me when I attacked that rag and I intend to have something more to say about it when the Budget comes down, and about these two crooks that run it.

Presenting Petitions

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, on behalf of your Honour who is not, while in the Chair, in a position to do so, I present a petition from the people in Fortune Bay in the Province of Newfoundland signed by a considerable number of names of fishermen of St. Jacques, Belleoram, and Corbin, and on behalf of Boxey by a considerable number of names as well.

Mr. Speaker, you have informed me that you have already, in the present session, presented a petition from another part of Fortune Bay on this same matter of herring protection, that you have taken the matter to the attention of the Newfoundland Fisheries Board, headed by Mr. Gushue, as the matter is within Federal jurisdiction and not Provincial, I am sure the petition will be forwarded to the department to which it relates, which will indeed probably be very happy to assist your Honour, as the member for that District, in connection with the Federal Authorities concerned.

Reports of Standing and Select Committee

None.

Notice of Motion and Question

DR. POTTLE: I give notice I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill entitled "a Bill an Act Relating to Wild Life."

A Bill "An Act to Provide for the Acquisition of Lands for the Purpose of National Parks and for the Transfer to the Governor General in Council of lands acquired for such purpose."

MR. HIGGINS: I give notice of question on tomorrow.

MR. FOGWILL: I want to refer, Mr. Speaker, to some questions on the Order Paper of April 18, which up to the present have not been answered. Question Nos. 95, 96, 97, and 98. Those questions have not been answered yet.

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Speaker, I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the St. John's Housing Corporation Act, 1944."

Read a first time. Ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the honourable Minister has a copy of that Bill ready. I know it is first reading, but he might have those bills printed now.

MR. SPRATT: I made enquiries this afternoon. They will be ready tomorrow. I could not do any better.

Read a first time. Ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPRATT: I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Slum Clearance and Development of Housing Accommodation Act, 1950."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPRATT: I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Exploits Valley (Closing Hours) Shop Act, 1938."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. CURTIS: I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Grant Certain Powers to Public Utilities.

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Law Society Act."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

A Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Act 5, Edward VII, Chapter 10, entitled, 'An Act to Encourage the Manufacture of Pulp and Paper in this Colony.'"

Ordered read a first time tomorrow, second time on tomorrow.

MR. FORSEY: I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Local Government Act, 1949."

Ordered read a first time, tomorrow.

A Bill "An Act respecting Elections in Municipalities."

Ordered read a first time on tomorrow.

DR. POTTLE: I beg leave to introduce a Bill entitled "The Poultry and Poultry Products Act, 1951."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

"An Act to Provide for Establishment of Family Courts."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. HEFFERTON: I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Memorial University (Pensions) Act, 1950."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SPENCER: I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act to Amend the Department of Public Works Act, 1950."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. KEOUGH: I beg leave to introduce a Bill, "An Act Further to Extend the Operation of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1945, and of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1947."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

"An Act to Amend the Co-operative Societies Act, 1939."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

A Bill, "An Act to Amend the Co-operative Development Loan Act, 1949."

Read a first time, ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

Following Bills were read a third time :

A Bill "An Act to Make Uniform the Law Respecting the Distribution of the Estates of Intestates."

Ordered passed and title be as on the Order Paper.

Committee of the Whole: Revised Rules of the House.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, we might defer consideration of that matter, for the time being, and move on to second reading of a Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

Second reading of a Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

Moved and seconded this Bill be now read a second time.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, has this Bill been distributed?

MR. SPEAKER: Yes it has.

DR. POTTLE: Mr. Speaker, in moving the second reading of this Bill, I should like to say to the House, the remarks I shall make on second reading will be in the main divided into three parts: First I shall give a general statement of the objects and reasons which will provide some brief history and background for the Bill; the second phase of my remarks will deal with some of the specific elements of the substance in the Bill, some of the practical features the Bill includes; and in the third instance undertake to make some general observations on the character and significance of the Bill.

Now for the objects or reasons, the background of this Bill having to do with safety of workmen in mines. The reason, in part, why this Bill comes to us at this stage is because the present legislation most directly related to administering the code; namely: Chapter 132, Consolidated Statutes 1916, entitled "Regulations of Mines" is obsolete. It is forty-three years old and, as far as we know, is patterned after the British Coal Mine Act of 1855.

In the next place, for fifteen years now, the Government of Newfoundland has engaged various inspectors from the Mainland, mainly from Ontario and Quebec, to make periodic surveys and reports on this subject. Every one of these reports has, in its turn, recommended a change in legislation relating to safety of workmen in mines, and their recommendations concur in subject as well as in principle with the suggestions which this Bill contains.

In the third phase, the recommendations which are provided under section 9 of the prevailing laws, namely: the Chapter 132, Consolidated Statutes 1916, are not sufficiently detailed or adequately geared to the new conditions of mining operations. Consequently, the critical matter of safety of workmen is left to be a matter of individual judgment on the part of various managements and, therefore, the whole subject is one that might be one of dispute in a very important matter, no less important than a matter of life and death. Moreover, as against the regulations of the 1916 Statutes, the Bill now proposed for second reading contains 274 regulations.

Now Sir, from the point of view of management, it is very important that there be a code which the management can lean back upon as being a code which is desirable for the efficient and safe operations of the working of its industry. There are the advantages to the operation that such a code provides in protection for Workmen, which is the basic substance of the Bill and, therefore, the Bill is of advantage not only to management but also to the Workmen themselves.

Every miner would have a feeling of more security, greater personal safety, when he knows the mining code under which he does his work, in his daily routine of mining, conforms to the best known safety practice.

Furthermore, Sir, in order to indicate the importance of the Bill, or the worthwhileness of the Bill, I should like to say it has been devised and recommended to us by an authority in the field, namely Professor A. C. Corlett. I shall read his credentials for the House: He has had some twenty years experience as mines manager in Quebec and has developed a reputation as the best operator in the whole of Canada. In 1950 he received the gold medal of the Canadian Institute of Mines and Mineralogy for his contribution to the industry. For the past two years he has been a Professor of Mining at Queens University in Kingston, Ontario, but is still actively associated with a number of operations. As an authority then it would be difficult and perhaps impossible to find a more competent person for our purpose. In the actual preparation of the Bill considerable assistance was received from Departmental personnel of Manitoba, Quebec, and Ontario.

Mr. Corlett made an inspection of Newfoundland mines in 1944. Now Professor Corlett has not only proposed the Bill in question, but he has also made a very comprehensive study dated 1950 which outlined, which is, in fact, the end result of a number of inspections and reports which have been made on Newfoundland mines, over, I should say, the last fifteen years. Those reports have given Newfoundland the advantage of continuous and sustained, progressive attention to our basic mining industry, but this report as well as its predecessors has no statutory basis, is not compelled or ordered by any law, it is a voluntary undertaking.

Now, in the next place, Sir, the regulations follow closely the regulations of the Mining Act of Quebec and follow them for two reasons: One, because that Province has one of the newest mining codes developed in 1949. That code follows and takes advantage of the principle of the mining laws of all the Provinces of Canada, the United States, of Australia and different European countries and can be called a kind of eclectic work, the choosing of the best out of a variety, or the synthesis of the best work in the field.

The second reason is that, as the House and the public well know, this Province will shortly be undertaking operations in the Canadian, Quebec and Newfoundland region, where the two provinces of Newfoundland and Quebec will be closely related in a joint enterprise. The ore bodies there lie directly across the boundary, and it is considered advisable the two mining codes for the two provinces, affecting the safety of workmen, should be as closely similar as possible.

Now I come in the second instance to the subject of the Bill. This Bill which is composed of 23 clauses provides for administration, provides for structure, provides for making general provisions for the setting up of the proper services of the department concerned to administer and see that these provisions are carried out.

The regulations which are the heart of the Bill, 274 of them, constitute a mining code, they are a comprehensive standard such as we have never had in Newfoundland, and these I shall enumerate in some detail later on in this address.

Specifically, the Act or Bill is concerned centrally with the safety of workmen, and more precisely has to do with such matters as insuring that proper head-dress is worn in the mines. It is a safe presumption that many accidents, fatal and near fatal, would be avoided largely if not entirely by one simple fact or one simple act of having proper protective head-dress, a helmet. One clause which has to do with that, clause 22 reads: "Every person employed underground shall wear an accepted and approved protective head covering."

Another aspect of safety has to do with reducing the possibility of fatigue, because fatigue, Sir, is very directly related to incidence of accidents and one of the clauses has to do with reduction of fatigue. For instance, for the benefit of honourable members, it has to do with proper position of runs and ladderways and implementation of ladderways. In the third instance another factor is concerned with the use of rope for hoisting and particularly the careful, limited use of spliced rope, and these provisions, which will be examined more carefully in committee, are contained in clauses 63 through 73.

There is another aspect having to do with safety which is concerned particularly with a technical term called "face cleaning." That is not a domestic phrase but rather a mining phrase in this connection, Sir, it has to do with proper preparation of the face of the mine by proper clearing, that is to say, that there will be no over-burden of dangerous rock and the whole matter of keeping the walls of the pit in a safe condition.

Now in Newfoundland the tendency is very largely, I understand, for the miner to leave safety to the face cleaner whereas in good mining practice the face cleaner is really only a help to the miner's own efforts for his own safety, in other words: in good mining practice, the individual miner looks after himself, it is a good place for individuals to work looking after his own safety. While the face cleaner does some extra duty, which while useful, it actually does not take the place of the miner, as far as his safety is concerned.

I mentioned just now, I would indicate how comprehensive these regulations are where they have to do with the following topic: There is a provision for age limits of employees, a very important welfare concern. There is a section having to do with occupational work; signals, cages, shafts, passageways, leaders, underwater ground haulage, ventilation, protection from water, protection from fires and use of explosives, boilers and compressor air tanks, use of electricity, comprising, Sir, in all a comprehensive mining code. Moreover, in order to insure that the Act will be adaptable to existing conditions everywhere, this range of topics does not suffice, there is provision even beyond that for the Lieutenant Governor-in-Council, under section 20, to make other regulations such as it deems necessary.

Now, in the last phase, Sir, I come to some general observations on this Bill. The House must expect me to say this, where there is an opportunity to say it, that this Bill is broadly speaking a welfare measure having to do with preservation of life. Probably passing laws is not the ideal way to preserve life, or to bring home to people the importance of compelling them or having them to do what they should do voluntarily for their own good. But there is a place for legislature in this matter, Sir, and management and labour both, when they are properly enlightened, and they are becoming far more, each in its own way in this land, they will regard legislature of this kind as being in their best interest. Hence the crux of the Bill has to do largely though it is not explicitly so, with education of workmen in safety mindedness, that is the first essential.

I have drawn attention already to the necessity of this in the matter of face cleaning, the workman should not trust his safety to another workman known as a face cleaner. As I have indicated, the face cleaner's work should be supplementary to the miner's own individual efforts to protect his own life. Education in safety mindedness with regards to wearing of helmets—this is a central feature of the Bill and is regarded as being altogether necessary to enable the Bill, in its entirety, to achieve the end it has in mind. Now Corlett, who has given us a statement in his 1950 report on this matter, says: "Education in safety-mindedness is urgently needed in Newfoundland and both workmen and employers will prove thereby one of the most prolific causes of accident is not the underground mine conditions but daring workers prone to take a chance rather than do a job the safe way. It is important that all workmen be instructed in the safe way." One example, that work is the result of safety, is, I submit, Buchans Mine which has been run six months without a lost time accident, only two lost time during 1949, the whole being an example of the importance of safety mindedness on the part of the management, and of the workmen. In the long run it might be stated that management is entirely responsible for accident records in spite of careless workmen or any other factor. Management is responsible for maintenance of work so that there are no accidents under certain situations, which could produce an accident and if allowed to prevail will produce an accident. The responsibility of training of employees to do work required and do it safely, is one of management. Newfoundland underground working men have bad working habits and it will require intensive work to cure them of those habits. Most trivial accidents and most not so trivial are not contributed by mine conditions.

On the same page he say: "A useful form of education for the employers will be the necessity to report all lost time accidents to the Division of Mines." That is the phrase he uses which does not quite accord with our organization here. There is no Division of Mines as such but in clause 5 and clause 6 of the Bill provision is explicitly made for every lost time accident to be reported by the management. And in clause 6, in cases of fatal accident, a report forthwith by telephone or telegraph by the Chief Inspector is provided by the Bill. Now he goes on to say in the preliminary part of his report: "The main requirement for improved safety of men in mines is education of men, and in some cases of management. More careful instructions in the proper ways to do mining work, and on page three he further says: "Education in safety fire practice is urgently needed in Newfoundland mining."

Now, I have just referred, Mr. Speaker, to this question of accidents. We are dealing here not with abstracts but we are dealing with matter of life and death, which involves a large part of our population and the accident rate we must regret to say is higher in Newfoundland than it ought to be. I am going to take the liberty, if I may, Sir, to make a statement here on accident rate which will not be comforting to this House, but this is not time for sentiment. Rather if we can profit by this state of affairs, so much the better. There is in this table, appendix "1" Professor Corlett, the accident reports of 29 metal mines of Quebec for 1950. When we take our best record, the record of our best mine in Newfoundland, the best accident record in the same year in Newfoundland, there were 20 of the best mines still better than our best and our next best record is worse than the worst of the 29. I should like to state a principle here, as far as I can understand it, that the high accident rate goes hand in hand with low efficiency. It is a fact, Sir, based upon world experience in mining that strict adherence to good safety practice will increase rather than diminish production. It is also a fact that those mining operations which adhere to a sound mining code are always the lowest cost operations in their particular field. These facts gather more and more importance when we realize that under present day operations such facts as unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation insurance, provisions of adequate safety are a substantial part of the total cost of the mining undertaking.

Now, Sir, next I should like to discuss, before I sit down, briefly, the economy of mining in Newfoundland.

It is safe to say that everyone of our main mining operations in Newfoundland can be regarded as a high cost operation. If we may specify without harm, and I think we can, we are all Newfoundlanders together. In the case of Buchans the situation is hopeful, largely because the product which Buchans exports is in demand and it has commanded a high base metal price, consequently can allow a high cost of operation without seriously endangering the margin of profit. It is still a fact, however, that even there the cost of production of a ton of ore, when compared with similar operations elsewhere, must be regarded as high. The same might be said of fluorspar at St. Lawrence and there we have to add the extra feature of cost of underwater operation, as I understand the mines are very wet. Still closer home, at Bell Island, the situation is different. It is true that the demand is great and becoming greater for this sort of product, but it is a cheap commodity, one of the cheapest because the great bulk of world iron ore is not produced from underground but from open pits where the supply is mined at relatively low cost. Underground operations on the other hand are costly in any case. We have the further advantage of being at tide-water but to process the ore by the phosphate from Bell Island adds another element of cost. Consequently the product of Bell Island is not classed as premium ore and will secure only the lowest price obtained for the less desirable type of iron ore. I say this as in order to compete with any hope of success over a long period, the ore cost must be reduced and the production per man per day stepped up. I understand it to be a fact that Bell Island output is between two and a half and three tons per man per day, whereas, in one of the best mines of Lake Superior Region where the conditions are fairly competent, the output is eight and a quarter tons per man per day. And in this regard the anticipated output for Labrador operations where the mine is an open mine, will be sixty tons per man per day.

I must come back to the point, Sir, in order to compete successfully we will have to, in this particular field, increase our efficiency, and increase our productivity by better methods of work and lower overhead cost of products.

Now summarily, Sir, this Bill is designed to assist and protect three different groups. It is obviously designed to protect the workmen, that is the central character of the Bill which has to do with safety of workmen in mines. In the second case it assists and protects the management in that under a code, such as this, they have assurance the operation is being carried on with due regard to safety, as long as they can conform with the law and all together collectively benefit. Where the Act is honestly carried out the possibility of contentions and friction is reduced, and in the third instance it protects and assists the Government which has an overall duty to concern itself with the well-being of all people. Furthermore when operating under a sound mining code, there is a possibility first of less accidents and secondly of more efficient production.

This Bill, it should be said, while it is new, is not new. It is new in the sense that it is law but not new in the sense that we are already operating a good deal of what the law contains, and have the advantage of having our present practice or most of it provided by law. You can maintain and conduct mining operations on good will when there is satisfactory relationship between management and labour, but this legislation largely gives it statutes of law, whereas we have gone on a long time on good will and gentlemanly agreements.

I instanced before, Sir, that these reports, good as they are, have not been ordered by any statutes. We could not order them, we have no way of ordering surveys or of conducting any as they have no statutory basis, but this Bill will provide for the machinery. All inquiries on accidents in the past have been incomplete.

Now, before I conclude, Sir, I would like to pay tribute to the management of our mines, who I understand on very good authority have co-operated excellently and intelligently in bringing about better working conditions in the mines of this Province, and the fact that we have before us a mining code for consideration today is in a large point a tribute to their point of view, their interest and alertness to the need of this thing.

Before I sit down, Sir, I should like to say to the House that the House must be quite aware that I probably feel more at home discussing the shadowy figures in the clouds than the practical things of earth and indeed, it is all a foreign subject to me but it is nice to be earthy sometimes; it is not to be frowned upon.

I should like, Sir, the House to know that these are not comments originating with me. Wherever a factual statement has been produced for my benefit and therefore for the benefit of the House, it has been the work of Mr. Claude K. Howse who is present here today. It is largely through his sustained efforts that we have this before us at this moment for consideration and I should like to make that commendation as I proceed to close. The original draft, I think, of the Bill was presented to the companies, August 17, 1950 and revised on November 1, 1950. We have had one comment, and it is my view, Sir, that can be answered by correspondence and need not make any difference to the Bill. Unions were informed also and given copies. From these we have received no comment. There may be questions affecting the principle of the Bill, if so these could be noted and debated and second reading adjourned, if there are questions only to sections of the Bill it could be taken up in committee.

I reiterate this is a welfare measure and will denote a step forward of our life in Newfoundland, especially the life of workmen in our mines who are directly concerned in this measure, I believe it will mean a great deal in carrying forward in a field where enlightened legislation is most essential.

I submit this Bill to the favourable consideration of the House and move its second reading.

Moved and seconded this Bill be read a second time.

MR. SMALLWOOD It seems to me, Mr. Speaker, it would be a great pity if this occasion were allowed to pass with no more than a comment from the Honourable the Acting Minister of Natural Resources, and if other members of the House do not say at least a word or so to express their concurrence in the principle of this Bill.

I have no hesitation whatsoever in expressing my own personal support of the Bill because the presentation of this Bill in the House today represents for me the realization of a wish that I have held for many years past. I called it always, in my own mind, The Mines Regulations Act, by which title I believe the legislation we already have is known, and has been known for many years past. The need to modernize that legislation was as great as was the need to modernize our Workmen's Compensation Legislation, which has been done.

It is quite likely that mines will increase in this Province. It seems now that the Buchans Mine is likely to have a life of at least twenty-five or thirty years more. It seems extremely likely that the new mine producing copper will be established at Gull Lake this year, and practically certain that a new mine will be established this year at Pilley's Island and there is an extremely good possibility of mines starting in several other places in Newfoundland this year or next. With the growth of mining activities in Newfoundland it becomes increasingly important that our legislation for regulation of mines in respect to safety of workmen should be modernized and brought into line with the best they have on the mainland of Canada and particularly in the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario. It is a particular satisfaction, a particular gratification to me personally after believing as I have done for so many years past in the necessity for this very legislation, to live to see the day when I should be associated with a Government that has the honour and the opportunity to bring that Legislature before this House. I am sure my honourable friend, the Minister of Labour, must be feeling similar satisfaction to see this legislation here today and I am sure that my honourable friend, the member for Labrador, with his well known interest in the labour matters now and in the past, must be very deeply gratified indeed to see this Bill before the House. I am quite sure my honourable friend the junior member for St. John's East and my honourable friend or friends the two members for Harbour Main and Bell Island must be at least as gratified to see this modern and progressive and very necessary legislation brought before the House today. I am sure, too, that it must be a matter of considerable satisfaction to the general organizers in Newfoundland for the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada who are present in this Chamber this afternoon. All around then it must be a matter of some pride and considerable gratification that this Bill has been brought forward. In conclusion I think I could well anticipate some amendment or improvement in the Bill in Committee of the Whole for detailed consideration. Here now at second reading I feel that the whole House must agree that there can be no disagreement on the desirability of the principles set forth in this Bill today.

MR. BALLAM: Mr. Speaker, I must associate myself with the introducer and also the honourable the Premier who have just spoken on this. I would say it is a first class piece of necessary legislation which, in my opinion, I am quite sure has been needed for some years past. We did have in our Public Works, I think, an Act or some Regulations regarding the safety of workers in mines and I recall with great interest just last year or early in this year we had quite a major dispute arising because of an accident in the Bell Island Mines, where we saw the necessity, if you like, for a more up to date and newer legislation respecting the safety of workers. That accident, you may recall, shut down the mines for quite some time, and if through lack of safety a big industry of that sort is shut down, it creates a hardship for all concerned. As a matter of fact, I spoke myself about it, and I thought I might have the honour of bringing this piece of legislation into the House but as it is connected with mines, etc., it was decided to bring it in from that quarter. However, I do associate myself with the necessity for it and I congratulate the honourable Minister for his excellent presentation of it this afternoon. It will certainly have a great effect, it is practically certain of a great effect on various parts of my Department as it affects very seriously the payment of Workmen's Compensation in case of accident. Safety is one of the greatest and biggest issues in industry today. You will find in all big industries that one of the many departments is that dealing with safety etc. Safety, especially in mines which is very hazardous and it is very desirable indeed to have these regulations.

Once again I should like to commend the honourable Minister for his excellent presentation which he made this afternoon and those who have assisted him in bringing about this excellent Bill. I have great pleasure in associating myself with them and I move that it would be accepted by the House.

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Speaker, I feel that this particular piece of legislation of which the second reading has been moved today by the honourable the Acting Minister of Natural Resources, is, as has already been stated by one or two speakers, something of a very timely nature. I too was very happy to sit so close to my colleague, the honourable Minister of Public Welfare, when he introduced this Bill. I paid very particular attention to his comments, and my mind could not help going back, on listening to him, to my early days as a young lad and to the mines of Bell Island where accidents were far more frequent than they are today. I recollect when I went to Bell Island in 1908, the Company on that occasion was in dire stress and worry over the continued, week after week, series of accidents that were occurring. It became so bad and so continuous that the Manager, a very respected friend of mine, the late R. E. Sumner, was just about frantic in his efforts to urge his shift to exercise all possible care with a view to trying to avoid too many accidents. It was just racking his nerves and the nerves of all connected with the mines on that occasion. It became so bad that every Friday, superstitious or otherwise, the men expected that on Friday there would be an accident and it was a very remarkable coincidence, week after week, I recall as a youngster over there assisting in my humble way the medical doctor day after day in trying to clean up or do some little thing to help and alleviate the suffering, during that continuous period of accidents. Very shortly after that the Company inaugurated a special safety committee. I believe they always did have a safety committee on Bell Island. I am sorry my honourable friend, the junior member for Bell Island-Harbour Main, was absent when the honourable Minister of Public Welfare introduced this Bill as his comments were well worth remembering and the statistics given for the benefit of this House, particularly for those who had not read the report of Mr. Corlett. Most of us have read it. But their presentation was certainly well done and, certainly, I am sure our friends of the various unions present in the Chamber this afternoon, will remember and possibly be able to pass on to some of their fellow unionists that information.

On the occasion of these safety committees I spoke of, it was my privilege as a young man to act on this and a number of safety committees over there for many years, and if by any chance the introduction of this Bill would convey the impression that this is the first effort it certainly was not so intended, and this introduction certainly did not intend such.

Prior to 1910, or about that time, we did under the Department of Public Works, organize a mining act. We did, in those days, have a mining inspector, something that was dropped as time went on and I think regretably so. The Mines Inspector could have been very well continued as he did in many cases contribute to the safety of his fellow workmen. I contend the companies have tried to do their utmost and I am glad some credit was given to them in Mr. Corlett's report as referred to by the mover of the second reading.

It is my pleasure to represent a district where there is another very prominent mining operation, and we have here this afternoon, visitors from Buchans representing the labour organizations up there and know something about that great industry. Well and deserving tribute has been paid to the companies and people there for work, which while good, is yet not quite good enough.

I am happy that conditions on Bell Island have improved and the fact has been stressed that too many accidents occur there. We know that is so but have not lost sight of the fact it is quite an extensive industry and has not even begun to slacken over a period of some 40 years and this piece of legislation is something to be proud of, something of which the Department introducing it and those responsible for and those who helped to formulate it, have every reason to feel proud.

Though I may not seem much of a miner, I spent some time as a mining engineer, some 20 years in underground mining in Bell Island and had, during that time, good reason to observe many things that bear out the remarks of the writer of that report, Mr. Corlett, with regard to carelessness of workmen. It is unfortunately true, I have often seen men unfortunately floored, with my own eyes, not once or twice but on a great many occasions. I actually saw a piece of mineral fall from the hanging wall on several occasions and by Divine Providence luckily was not standing underneath it but it has been my sad task from time to time to aid men who had suffered such accidents. The honourable Minister referred to the face cleaner and to the fact that the face cleaner could not be entirely responsible for the safety of workmen. Those who work in the mines where face cleaning is a common practice know it is so and moreover the little book of regulations published by the various mining companies holds one of the first regulations is that the safety of the workman is his own first duty. It is true the face cleaner contributes largely to it and it is all very well that we see this made law with this legislature.

Mr. Speaker, I have much pleasure in supporting this Bill as moved by the honourable the Acting Minister of Natural Resources this afternoon, and I feel sure it will be received by the House and we trust will be of great benefit to the mining interests and industries of this Province.

Moved and seconded this Bill be read a second time. Ordered referred to Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Old Age and Blind Persons' Pension Act, 1949."

DR. POTTLE: Mr. Speaker, this amendment carries one amendment which provides that the Old Age Pensions Board should make an annual report to the Minister of Public Welfare. It is minor but of some importance in that it makes that division uniform with the other divisions of the Department and it is very convenient for making the annual report of the Department. It is a formal amendment and I move the second reading.

Bill read a second time, ordered referred to committee of the whole on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The remaining order not disposed of today is the Committee of the Whole on revised rules of the House. Now, we here are prepared to go ahead with consideration of the regulations and indeed are prepared to go into committee of the whole on the revised rules, however although it is true they were tabled here before the long adjournment, they were tabled in one copy only, since which time, on yesterday, copies were tabled for all members of the House and it may be that some Honourable gentlemen would prefer not to proceed at once to committee of the whole on this matter. So far as the Government are concerned, they are prepared to go ahead but there is no desire whatsoever to rush the matter or press the matter, and if it is the desire of the honourable members not to proceed today to committee of the whole on these resolutions I would be perfectly happy, and I think in that I speak for my colleagues, in which case we might perhaps proceed tomorrow. Now, His Honour the Speaker, will, I understand, be back tomorrow or he expected to be when he left for the Mainland. Although it is not perhaps necessary that His Honour should be present at the very commencement of the committee of the whole, it is admittedly quite desirable that he should be present throughout most of the period of consideration. Although, as I say, we can commence without His Honour being present amongst us. Now I am in the hands of the House in this matter. It is now ten minutes to five and if the House is prepared to go forward with this order of business I am perfectly satisfied, if not I am perhaps almost as satisfied. Could we have some indication from my honourable and learned friend, the Leader of the Opposition, as to where he stands in this matter. We could then govern ourselves accordingly.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, on this committee of revised rules of the House, Sir, I understand there was a committee appointed for the purpose of going into the matter. I was wondering about the progress of the committee of the whole on these resolutions as to where the report of the select committee comes in, I don't think there has been any report up to this time.

MR. SPEAKER: I don't know, but I know it was moved and seconded that we go into committee of the whole House and it has a prominent place on the Order Paper.

MR. CASHIN: I recollect I was supposed to be a member of that committee. I did not, Sir, draft these new rules and this is the first I knew about it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is the usual thing with committees.

MR. CASHIN: With respect to the Rules of the House I expect the committee met some time, I did not know they met. I think my name was mentioned, I am not sure, but in this case it is the rules of the House and not a Bill being introduced.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I understand the committee is to allow for more debate. They could be considered far more in committee, there the debate is more informal and gives the members more elbow-room. That is why the committee moved into a whole and they have appeared on the order paper yesterday and again today and it is the next order at this moment before us. I am now trying to ascertain whether the House is ready to go into committee of the whole to revise those rules, and if the Honourable Leader of the Opposition would indicate his party's feelings, we would be quite happy on our part to concur with regards to that.

MR. HIGGINS: There was a select committee appointed, I don't recall the names on the list but I was on it myself. Only last night I heard from my colleague here, the Member for St. John's East, that he never signed it. I know I went over some of the rules with Mr. Speaker at night but we did not finish them but I know there were certain corrections he suggested and I suggested, and last night I found from the copy given me that these corrections were not made. But two members cannot possibly carry out the duties of a select committee. Since it was appointed I think it should give in a report, so that the House can criticize these rules intelligently, I don't think we were three hours the first night and three hours was not enough to get us half way through, and I have heard not a word since, I presumed all the other members did, but I only went over half the rules with Mr. Speaker.

To go through this intelligently is a most difficult thing to do.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It might take more than three or four days. I notice in the new section here there are two or three things which we had agreed to cut out.

MR. SPEAKER: I put it for the honourable member and the House in general, this has been on the Order Paper now for a considerable time, before we adjourned for four days and the Honourable Speaker referred to it two or three times and said it was not quite ready, so I presume as it is on the Order.

MR. HIGGINS: I move this be referred back to a select committee.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I don't know, I was not a member of the committee, I don't know if they met, how often they met, where they met, who drafted it. I have no knowledge but suspect Mr. Speaker had a lot to do with it, with the actual drafting of these rules but to what extent or if he referred his draft to the members of the Committee I have no knowledge. I do know that most committees appointed to draft bills do so, bringing it before the committee as such and then submitting a report which may have been written by one man but approved by the select committee; whether this was done or not I have no knowledge. All I know is that I am confronted by this order of the day. How it got on the order paper, I don't know. Here it is and has been for several days, in fact, more than a week. The report has been tabled in the House for more than a week and yesterday additional copies were tabled for all members of the House. How it all happened I don't know. All I know is that I am confronted with that Order now and as leader of the House I have to make this motion and I have asked for suggestions.

MR. CASHIN: I suggest that a

Mr. Speaker will be back and as he understands it, let it stand over until tomorrow.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, it is quite true I was a member of that committee, and quite true the Honourable Speaker did draft most of the rules, but only yesterday the final draft came to this Chamber, that is, each member got a copy of the final draft. That was the first time I had seen it and I should think that the committee would be given the draft before being presented to the House, that is customary.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the order stand deferred. Carried.

I move at its rising the House adjourn until tomorrow Wednesday at 3:00 of the clock.

WEDNESDAY, May 2nd, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

Hon. the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives from Heatherton, re Electric Service.

Mr. Drover from Wild Cove, re Snowmobile Trail.

Hon. the Minister of Public Welfare from Spout Cove, re removal of Sand from Beach.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, I want to make reference again to several questions on the Order Paper of April 18th, Questions Nos. 95 and 97.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Mr. Speaker, with reference to question No. 95.

the delay in answering arose partly out of the fact that the paper or report concerned originated in the first instance in the Department of Economic Development. It is a long report which is now ready to be tabled. The question is in three parts asked by the honourable the leader of the opposition. The answer is yes, Mr. Moffatt of New Brunswick was asked to make a report. He is a member of the Economic Institute of Canada and well qualified in the field of birch stocks and an experienced operator. He was asked to make a report, which he did in November 1950.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Question No. 96. That referred, I believe, to the Board of Liquor Control and would go in the normal course to the Department of Finance, who would prepare the answer and forward it to me. They have not done so, at all events I have not received the answer. I will contact the Department to hurry them in preparing it and table the reply, the moment I receive it.

MR. FOGWILL: Question No. 96 if I recollect correctly, appeared on the Order Paper of April 18th, and the honourable the Minister of Finance said at that time, that it was in the course of preparation.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is a perfectly normal thing to say. When the Order Paper is printed each day, a copy is sent to the Department to which a question has been directed and it is perfectly normal for the Department in question to prepare the answer. Therefore it is a perfectly normal statement to make, that the answer is in course of preparation. Even if I did make that statement that day, I was quite correct. I may state it must still be in the course of preparation, as I have not received it.

MR. FOGWILL: Question No. 97 has not been answered.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That one should be quite easy. There again the Department of Economic Development ought, I think, to have compiled the answers and handed it to me. As I have not received it, I will check on it.

MR. SPEAKER: Question No. 99.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I have the answer to that question.

1. The full amount, whatever that may be, has been paid back into the Treasury with interest.

2. The Minister of Fisheries could give the answer to that:

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Mr. Speaker, the answer is that no amount has been paid back into the Treasury. No amount went out in the first place and no amount was paid back. What did happen was: that authority was granted for a guarantee to the bank for a loan to the Andrews Labrador Company in the amount of $160,000. The company availed of that guarantee in the amount of $150,000 and in March of this year $20,000 was paid back, reducing the outstanding amount of $130,000.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Question No. 100. To begin with, I have no knowledge that the Government has made a statement, that it has given the sum of $500,000 for development and secondly, no knowledge of a public statement of the Minister of Economic Development to the effect, that the said mill is to cost one million dollars. I have a very definite recollection of stating in a public address: that this was a million dollar industry. I might have doubled this or even trebled it and could have said it is not a one million but a three million dollar industry.

Speaking from memory, I think when the plant at Donovan's is completed this summer and ready to operate and certain saw mills, financed with the help of the Industrial Development Loan Board, are in operation, the total outlay on the plant will be something of the order of three quarters of a million dollars. I don't think I have anything to add to that. The Government together with the Industrial Development Loan Board, should they indeed make loans to people for the purpose of assisting them to buy saw mill stock for the Birch plant then that expenditure together with the direct expenditure of the Government will run to something of the order of three quarters of a million dollars. That is when all the plans are completed and it is ready to operate.

Question No. 101. I can say at once, that the Government has made no loan to the Guardian Press. I believe that the Industrial Development Board has made or is about to make, or has agreed to make a loan. I believe that, I don't know it. The Industrial Development Loan Board as also the Fisheries' Loan Board and Co-operative Development Loan Board are set up by the Government under the Chairmanship of Mr. Baxter, the secretary is Mr. Callahan, with certain prominent citizens as members. They operate as virtually an autonomist body, making its own decisions within the dominion of the Act, which was passed in this House and do not come to us whenever they make a loan and I believe that they have made various loans, and I did hear the Guardian Press or Guardian Associates, which is the publisher of the Atlantic Guardian, had made application to one of the boards for a loan and did hear, quite unofficially, that the board was sympathetic to the idea of setting up a very modern printing establishment, at which the Atlantic Guardian would be printed as well as various other magazines and publications. Incidentally, I do not know whether that loan has in fact been made.

MR. CASHIN: And where do they get the money?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The money was voted by the House and under the Act in each case the Loan Board is required to report and the law requires that these reports be available. As soon as the Government receives them, they will be tabled here in the House.

DR. POTTLE: I beg leave to introduce a Bill "An Act relating to Wild Life."

It was ordered that the Bill be read a first time on tomorrow.

Also a Bill "An Act to Provide for the Acquisition of Lands for the purpose of National Parks and for the Transfer to the Governor General in Council of Lands Acquired for such purpose."

It was ordered that the Bill be read a first time on tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

Revised Rules of the House.

MR. SPEAKER: Is it the wish of the House to proceed with that Act.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I repeat what I said here yesterday. For our part we are prepared to go forward if the honourable and learned leader of the opposition is ready to go forward with it. We might make some progress on it.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): Mr. Speaker, I raised the point yesterday that a select committee had been appointed of which you were Chairman. I spent two nights going over the report with you and one night with Mr. Fogwill, but I understand there was never any other meeting. Now, in going over the old rules I find certain things, we had agreed on, had never been changed in the new rules. The present position of the matter I don't know. But when a select committee is appointed and never called, personally, I should say refer back to the select committee in order to have it finalized quicker as some difficult explanatory points could be taken up there.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, that would be perfectly satisfactory to me now, but I begin to see the need for some night sessions as there is still, I think, a very heavy program ahead of us unless we contemplate with any pleasure spending the summer here and I don't imagine anybody does. So it seems we will have to begin very shortly to have night sessions and get through with our business. Even the revised rules will take some little time and the sooner we get at it, the sooner we will complete the work. I am agreeable to what the honourable member says.

MR. FAHEY: To a point of information. This committee on the rules of the House did not report back to the honourable House yet.

MR. CURTIS: I have filed a report but it was not signed by the committee. I imagine the committee would consider the report as filed.

MR. SPEAKER: For the information of the honourable member, I might say, the reason why there was no meeting of the select committee, as such was called, was in order to save time and avoid duplication of effort. At the beginning, I did consult with the honourable leader of the opposition and his Lieutenant with a view to getting his reaction to certain points, which cropped up. The report of the committee can contain nothing else other than the revised rules. However, it is quite agreeable to me to have a special meeting, if the house so desires. I might say it is made up entirely on the present rules of the Newfoundland Legislature plus enlargements from the United Kingdom and where it suits our purpose, from Ottawa.

MR. COURAGE: Mr. Speaker, I believe, that if the rules are first thrashed out in committee and the rules then brought in, we will have to sit down and go over the same thing again in the House, which would be merely a waste of time. The committee to consider this should be the committee of the whole House.

MR. SPEAKER: I wonder if the honourable leader of the opposition cares to make a motion referring back.

MR. HIGGINS: I make a motion, Mr. Speaker, not in order to be controversial but some sections are most difficult to understand, especially two or three there. My previous and original question concerned the fact, that I don't know if the suggested amendments are included and I would certainly like to have an explanation to some of these.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is what the committee of the whole is for.

MR. HIGGINS: I ask a question: If we were to get together to settle this as a select committee, where is the report?

MR. CURTIS: Won't they have to be answered in the House anyway?

MR. SPEAKER: First, I will say for the information of the honourable members, if you have a copy of the rules, you will notice some gaps in the pages, for instance page 2 and page 7. I have written a page or so of explanation on them and I confess to a little selfishness in leaving it for committee of the whole and place it at their disposal.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It seems to me I don't know if the motion was made to refer back.

MR. HIGGINS: I think if we had a couple of nights.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The difficulty about that is, that no matter what meetings the Committee may now hold, it will have to be all gone over again here in Committee of the Whole, because it is the property of the House and every member has a right to deal with it and pass on it, and the sections are read aloud by the Clerk and every member is permitted to discuss the clause and seek for information on it. That has to be gone through, in either case and there would be no time saved by referring the whole thing back to a Select Committee. I know it is no secret that it was Mr. Speaker who drafted this, the proper person, if I may say so, to do it. Nevertheless it has to be debated on here in Committee of the Whole, where debate is more informal than at any other stage, and I don't see what is the point of having it referred back again to the Select Committee, when it has to be thrashed out here in any case.

MR. HIGGINS: There is another point. It was referred to a Committee which was never called.

MR. SPEAKER: It is sometimes impossible to call a meeting. Five men will never sit down and revise rules. But any member could see me any morning, as the honourable Leader of the Opposition and the junior member for St. John's East did. As they did not contact me, I assumed they were agreeable to the rules as written. However, as the honourable (the Premier has intimated), he is willing to accept the motion, to have it referred back to a Select Committee.

MR. FOGWILL: The only thing is, the fact still remains that this is the Select Committee's report and there may be something in the revised rules, some member of the committee would not agree with, but it is still their report and he would have to object.

MR. CURTIS: I think, Mr. Speaker, the honourable member is generally correct; the Committee should have signed the report and under the circumstances, I think a lot of time would be saved in Committee, if we allowed any disputed rules to stand over. At least we would know just where we were.

MR. SPEAKER: One point I must make in justice to myself: the members do not sign the report, only I do and from the fact that I circulated it, I assumed they would take that in lieu of a meeting. However, I am quite agreeable to have a meeting. I am not prepared to say when, but it will not be until after the 10th of May.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If you can't have a meeting until the 10th of May, Mr. Speaker, I certainly think we ought now to proceed to the proposed resolutions. It will be thrashed out in Committee of the Whole, and informally, with members permitted to speak as often as they like and debate it in a democratic way. I have some responsibility for endeavouring to get the business of the House concluded, and if the Select Committee could not meet until after the 10th of May,

I foresee our being here in this House when we ought to have our work here completed and be attending to other work.

I wish my honourable friend would agree to go ahead in Committee of the Whole. I would suggest that, I will not refuse to agree with the honourable member if he insists; I think we will fall in line with their wishes, but I do wish they would agree to have it go forward to Committee of the Whole.

MR. HIGGINS: The 10th of May.

MR. RUSSELL: I was going to ask the personnel of the Committee.

MR. SPEAKER: The Deputy Speaker, the Attorney General, the honourable Minister of Finance, that was Mr. Quinton, the honourable Leader of the Opposition, and the honourable the junior member for St. John's East.

MR. RUSSELL: My attitude is this, that there was a Committee appointed to do a certain job and a report has come in here. They may be willing to admit that that is their report, but if any member of the Select Committee objects on the grounds it is not his report and he has not had a chance to make a minority report, he should be given a chance to speak.

MR. SPEAKER: Minority reports are not permitted.

MR. RUSSELL: Well, if he did not have a chance to study it. It is then, Mr. Speaker, entirely up to the members of the Select Committee.

MR. HIGGINS: I say, we should go ahead. The main difficulty I am up against is: that the main rules have been drafted and we discussed some sections very carefully and had agreed to them and last night I found two or three amendments agreed on are absolutely different than on the first paper and, so far as I am concerned, it is all new to me.

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I take it, Mr. Speaker, if we went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Speaker would be prepared to guide us and sit in on the Committee of the Whole and answer any questions that might be directed to him and point out certain differences in these and other rules and generally to give us the background of the matter.

MR. SPEAKER: I would be glad to do that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Well, in that case we could safely go into Committee of the Whole, we are not committing ourselves to anything but just that we have to consider the matter.

Committee of the Whole on Revised Rules of the House.

Standing Order Read.

MR. HIGGINS: When referring to the presence of at least twelve members of the House, does it include Mr. Speaker?

MR. SPEAKER: Twelve members, the Speaker does not count. 4 (B) that, Mr. Chairman, was put in for the information of members. If a member notices there is not a quorum, he gives notice and he may leave the Chamber.

4 (C); if it is noticed at three o'clock there is no one here, the Speaker does not have to wait 15 minutes according to the previous rule.

MR. HIGGINS: What is the meaning of 3:00 o'clock here?

MR. CURTIS: If there is not a quorum at 3:00 o'clock, Mr. Speaker waits for 15 minutes.

MR. RUSSELL: Let us suppose that at 3:00 o'clock there was a quorum, but later on it is reduced to five or six. If he calls attention to the fact that there is no quorum, the Speaker then goes ahead and transacts the business of the House, because no one wished to call attention to the fact that there is no quorum.

MR. SPEAKER: If there is not a quorum, it is competent for members to draw attention to it and in case of a division, for instance, Mr. Speaker will then wait five minutes.

MR. RUSSELL: Suppose at the beginning there were twelve members and at the end of an hour only three left, I am told the Speaker has no right to take the initiative then. He takes it at 3:00 o'clock, but either one of the three members present can call attention to the fact and then he must act. Supposing no one of the three members wishes to do so?

MR. CURTIS: I would say until the House has actually opened and has come to order at the call of Mr. Speaker, he may not take the initiative.

MR. HIGGINS: It says the only occasion is at 3:00 o'clock and 8:00 o'clock.

MR. RUSSELL: I think there is a terrific gap there which should be cleared up.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): Mr. Chairman, the context seems clear and to me it seems to cover the point. I don't profess to be such an authority on English, as many gentlemen present, but I read this paragraph as follows:

"The only occasion when the Speaker takes the initiative in this matter is at 3 o'clock, or at 8 o'clock, after the intermission. If he does not see a quorum, he refrains from calling the members to order and asks the Clerk to count the House. If there are not 12 members present, he declares, without question put, that the House stands adjourned until the next sitting day. This procedure must be duly recorded in the Journal." Paragraph 3 to me, seems to cover the point:

"The presence of at least 12 members of the House, not including Mr. Speaker, shall be necessary to constitute a meeting of the House for the exercise of its powers.

Whenever Mr. Speaker adjourns the House for want of a quorum, the time of adjournment, and the names of the members then present shall be inserted in the Journal."

The honourable the member for Bonavista South takes the view, that if there were twelve present and the House went into session and it dwindled down to half a dozen or less, as low as three and nobody called attention of Mr. Speaker, I contend paragraph 3 takes care of this and I do not see the necessity for anybody to call Mr. Speaker's attention. It is specifically stated: that twelve should be necessary to call a meeting for the business of the House and specifies the power as to conducting the business of the House.

MR. HIGGINS: And if a division arises and somebody draws attention to the fact that there is no quorum, could you tell me what happens when though there may be fourteen or fifteen in the House there may be only eleven here in the Chamber at the time?

MR. SPEAKER: I don't think that is the point.

MR. HIGGINS: I draw attention to the fact, the only time when the Speaker takes the initiative is in (c).

MR. RUSSELL: If he sees afterwards there is no quorum and no member specifies this, the Speaker should be expected to take the initiative.

MR. SPEAKER: The initiative here referred is taken by Mr. Speaker, without any motion being put to the House. When Mr. Speaker enters, he counts the House. It is stupid to have Mr. Clerk count them in a small House, if there were five or six hundred, yes. Seeing there is a quorum, he calls order at 3 o'clock. If, however, he sees less than twelve present at 3 o'clock, he will take the initiative, wait until 3:15 and will then declare the House adjourned until the next sitting day. If the House is in session at 8 o'clock the same thing happens, the Speaker waits until fifteen minutes after eight then the House is adjourned. If while the House is transacting its business, it is noticed by any member that a quorum be not present, he may call attention of the Chair to the fact or leave the room if the Chairman says there is not a quorum. Simply ask the Page to call members, the party whip will keep his eyes open to see that members are present and it is to their advantage to have them present: but the only time Mr. Speaker takes the initiative is if the quorum is not present at a certain time. That is the wording of the rules, as I have found in practically all Provinces. I did not read them all, but most of them and the United Kingdom and the Dominion of Canada as well.

MR. RUSSELL: I understand if Mr. Speaker or Mr. Chairman would, if they notice no quorum—

MR. SPEAKER: It is their duty to see it carried out in a parliamentary manner.

MR. SPENCER: That too is included in paragraph 5. As far as I see the phrase in paragraph 3, if not redundant, means the presence of any number of members not including Mr. Speaker, shall be necessary, what is meant by, for the exercise of its powers?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The exercise of the powers of the House is to conduct its business, as far as I see if the House is not meeting to transact its business, what is the point of its existence? That would be superfluous, but it certainly does no harm.

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): I think in some cases you could assume then that anything less than twelve members, including Mr. Speaker, could constitute a meeting of the House, I mean that phrase there "for exercise of its powers" qualifies the whole sentence.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is a little difficult to imagine a meeting of the House for any purpose other than the exercise of its powers.

Clause 1 read and passed.

Clause 2 read and passed.

Clause 3 read and passed.

Clause 4(a) read and passed.

Clause 4(b) read and passed.

Clause 4(c) read and passed.

Clause 4(d) read and passed.

Clause 5 read.

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): Does Mr. Speaker ascertain that twelve members are present.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It means the same thing.

MR. CURTIS: That should be in the affirmative not the negative.

MR. SMALLWOOD: As it stands now there is no human possibility of misunderstanding it. If it is ascertained that twelve are not present: If there are thirteen present there are twelve, if there are twenty present there are twelve present.

MR. RUSSELL: Why not use the same wording as in "(C)".

Clause 5 to read: Ascertains there is not a quorum.

Passed.

Clause 6 read and passed.

Clause 7 read.

MR. FAHEY: Under that clause Mr. Speaker would take the Chair, whether there was a quorum present or not. Would it be legal then to do business without a quorum while the Lieutenant Governor was here?

MR. CURTIS: Only to receive a message, there is no action there.

MR. FAHEY: It says there, Mr. Speaker should take the Chair whether there is a quorum present or not. Suppose he were to take the Chair and there is certain business to go before the Lieutenant Governor, would it be legal to do it, if there were no quorum?

MR. SPEAKER: This is only for the purpose of receiving a message.

MR. HIGGINS: Suppose the Lieutenant Governor came in?

MR. SPEAKER: The Lieutenant Governor will come only on invitation of Mr. Speaker, and there must be a quorum present. In the event of a message sent through the proper channels, yes, but there can be no business transacted in the House until the following day.

MR. FOGWILL: Paragraph 2, Section 7: What would happen if for instance Thursday were a holiday?

MR. CURTIS: The House would have to sit just the same. Today is a half holiday. Unless we adjourn over it. This only implies, nobody needs turn up. It merely forbids night sessions on Wednesdays, and of course that could be altered by unanimity of the House.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The House of Commons for example has a night session on Wednesday as a fairly common practice, but it is commonplace in other Houses not to have night sessions. It is customary in Ottawa to have night sessions throughout the week. The House meets, ordinarily at 11 o'clock in the morning, adjourns at 1 o'clock; resumes at 3 o'clock; adjourns at 6 and resumes at 8:00 and adjourns for the day at 11:00 except on Wednesday, when there is no night session. The point of this would be better taken, if we were in the habit of having night sessions.

MR. SPEAKER: Let me say, Mr. Chairman, in going over these rules, that when I worked on them I had to keep in mind two very important things: One, if adopted they would probably be in existence twenty or twenty-five years from now, and the other point, with which certain members might not agree, some years from now say twenty members may be returned in this House and there may be thirteen on the Opposition. Such power given to the Government could force members to come back every night. Paragraph two safeguards the right of the minority. The rules, of course, could be changed by the consent of the House.

Passed.

Clause 8 read and passed.

Clause 9 read and passed.

Clause 10 read and passed.

Clause 11 read.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, on one point in (a), when a member is speaking, no member may pass between him and the Chair. This is almost impossible sometimes. Suppose a gentleman is speaking right there where the Prime Minister is, he has got to go around the House, he can't, he can't pass here. Suppose he is sitting over there.

MR. CURTIS: Suppose he wanted to speak to the Minister for Trinity South or the member for Labrador, he would have to go around there and down, he could not pass between the Premier and the Chair, if the Premier were speaking.

MR. HIGGINS: No that is too easy, suppose the member for Labrador or the member for Placentia West is speaking, and some member comes into the House, whose desk is near them. He has got to come up here before going to his seat. We can't enforce that rule too quickly.

MR. HEFFERTON: Does sub-section (c) mean we have to join that certain society?

Passed.

Clause 12 read.

MR. RUSSELL: What does that mean; are strangers people who don't behave properly?

MR. CURTIS: No. They have no right to meet here.

MR. RUSSELL: I never understood it before, I do now.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, on that point of explanation, long ever before we were born, visitors to parliament were known as strangers and they are still known as strangers. There was a rather interesting event in the House of Commons a few weeks ago: Mr. Drew, the leader of the opposition, wanted to have a private session of the House and the Government was not agreeable, in fact, no private session was held. But Mr. Drew attempted to get a private session by availing himself of a very ancient rule in British Parliamentary Procedure. He stood in his place and directed Mr. Speaker's attention to the fact that there were strangers present, and according to that same old rule, when Mr. Speaker's attention was drawn to the fact that there are strangers present, that is in the public galleries, not members of the Government, he is then required to clear the galleries and order the withdrawal of all strangers. If that had been done Mr. Drew, of course, would have gotten his way and have the session without any stranger being present. That particular attempt did not succeed, but it illustrates very well indeed a principle. The words you use by the way are: Mr. Speaker, I spy a stranger. Mr. Drew stood in the House there a few months ago and said: "Mr. Speaker, I spy a stranger." He expected the rule would be carried out and the galleries would be cleared and the speaker would order all strangers to withdraw. In the House of Commons in Westminster and also at Ottawa the galleries may be cleared; now we will take the upper gallery here, there are three sections in it and there is a policeman for each section and he does nothing but stand there and sees that strangers, the public conduct themselves according to the rules of the House. One of these rules is that you are not allowed to touch the rail there, which runs right along in our gallery and so in other galleries in other Houses and they are not allowed to touch that rail, can't lean over it and look down into the Chamber, not allowed to lay a hand on that rail. The reason for that probably began a hundred years ago, so no one could drop a bomb or rock down on members' heads. That probably was why the rule was made, but there is not much likelihood of that today, although the rule remains that no one is allowed to touch the rail.

I have seen it here, as my honourable and gallant friend, the member for Ferryland, remembers when that gallery would be crowded and where there was no room for the policeman to get in to do work or attend to his business and casual visitors to this Chamber could well be classified as being in charge and not the elected members. If the public in the gallery liked what a member was saying they brought the House down, they were packed so tight they could not clap their hands so they took it out on the floor and a cloud of dust could be seen rising to the ceiling and the place was a bedlam, not once, but hundreds of times, I have heard and seen this in this Chamber. So it is not inappropriate that this rule should be there. It is not inappropriate, that at the very first sign of interruption, or laughter or murmuring or talking; whispering, yes; but for one member of the public to talk to another so that visitors can be heard, that is wrong. This is the people's House, from the bar of the House to that wall belongs to the elected representatives of the people of Newfoundland. Not more than 150 people can get inside as visitors and 150 out of 360,000 is a small proportion, and not they but the elected members should speak, should laugh, should be heard. They must have absolute liberty to be heard and they can't be, if members of the public are talking to each other. That might sound like splitting hairs but I honestly have a horror of what I have seen in this chamber, and it might happen again; the horror I have is, that I will live yet to see again what I have seen, when the public entered this Chamber, here on this floor and danced on the table there and kicked the king to the floor, (the mace is the symbol of the king), and I have seen it kicked off on to the floor, seen somebody sit up in Mr. Speaker's Chair. Now if that is democracy, deliver us from it. It is a long way from two members of the public turning and talking to each other so that visitors may be heard, a long way from that to dancing on the table and sitting in the Speaker's Chair and kicking the king, King's mace on the floor, a great gap, but it has been bridged, I have seen it done. That is why, having seen what I have seen and heard what I have heard in days gone by, that I am so anxious as just one man, not to allow even the thin edge of the wedge to get in. That is why I object when there is a laugh from the public. Let them laugh once or twice and it becomes a right and then we have a theatre here, a farce, a play, a drama. We are the actors and they are the audience, they laugh when they find us funny and jeer when they don't like us. Applaud when they agree and jeer when they don't. Then what have you, the French Revolution where the mob entered the Chamber of Deputies, when the mob took over. Now the public themselves, I believe, the public of Newfoundland are far more anxious than we are in this Chamber to preserve the ancient and honoured rights of this House from attack and will be the first to say, let there be no disorders in the gallery, let there be no laughter, jeering and noise, rather let the public come and listen. That is all the public has a right to do inside these four walls—to listen and I hope to God we will never again see what I have seen on at least one occasion in this Chamber.

When a member turns his back on Mr. Speaker, for instance, there is nothing wrong with that, physically if he stands here and talks in the direction of an honourable Minister he is still addressing Mr. Speaker, there is nothing wrong with that but I hope I will never again see what I have seen at least a hundred times in this Chamber, when an honourable member turns to the gallery with "You men up there, says you, you know I am right" and brings down the whole House. Appeals direct to the gallery. I have seen that happen here and that is the sort of thing we have to avoid, that is why it is so important that these rules be made known and strictly adhered to.

Now, we ourselves fall out, get out of order and lose our tempers and break the rules. But they are still the rules and the Chair can admonish us, reprimand and punish us, but let us see that we are at least the only ones to do it and the public is not allowed to do what we are allowed to do in this House.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): Mr. Chairman, that reminds me I was once an offender when as a boy I visited the House one night and I leaned on the rail. A policeman came up and told me to sit up and that I could not touch the rail.

MR. HIGGINS: I have been informed by Mr. Speaker, that in Ireland they have a wire meshing in front of the gallery and, if the Premier is afraid of what is going to happen and to ease his mind, I would suggest to put up wire mesh henceforth so that, if visitors become too obstreperous and start throwing things, they can be stopped by the wire meshing. I would be quite willing to support any motion in that direction.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Chairman, so I understand from the remarks of the honourable the Premier, that it is unethical to make any reference to visitors. I have heard that done here.

MR. CHAIRMAN: No there is nothing wrong about that.

MR. HORWOOD: On a point of information. In this clause is it not a fact that the order of business is normally set by the Government or is it normally set by the House?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The Order of Business is set by the Government. Some Houses go even much further than that. In Westminster, for example, they not merely set the order of business but apportion the amount of time which may be spent by the House on each individual order of business. When that term expires the clauses are called and the vote is taken. They divide the time at the disposal of the House for that particular item of business on that particular item so that it will allow three or four speakers of each side to participate in the debate and between them they are not to take more than a certain time. There is no suggestion, that should be done here but in a large House such as Westminster, where there are over seven hundred members and two main parties, the Liberal party is now very small, and I think they have one or two communists and a number of independents. The two main parties have their right wing and left wing, so that if they had no restriction it would take them possibly three months to get the order of business through the House, also the House at Ottawa sets a maximum time for all orders of business; but in a small House under the British System the Government sets the time table and may rearrange it from time to time, throughout any sitting. Now in the House of Commons in Ottawa, I think, when the House adjourns at 11 p.m., the leader of the House who may not be the Prime Minister—As a matter of fact, at Ottawa the Prime Minister is not the leader of the House, the present leader is the Minister of Public Works and before him the then Minister of Veterans' Affairs, who has since died. The leader of the House, not the leader of the Government stands in the House and states for the benefit of the House, that on tomorrow we hope to take up, this, that or the other thing, take up a Bill, an Act entitled so and so, indicating the night before the particular business to be dealt with on tomorrow. That is the principle which is very firmly established. The Government sets the time table for the business of the House because the principal purpose of the House is to enable the King's Government to carry on the King's affairs. We are the King's Government and all of us together are the people's representatives, and the purpose of the people's representatives is to give authority to the King's Ministers to carry on the King's Government, therefore, the King's Ministers have the right to set the time table for the House.

MR. HORWOOD: Mr. Chairman, I believe that to be so but this clause precludes the Government from doing what is intended. No. 14 in its present form prevents the Government from setting the time table of the House. As I understand it the time table may be set outside the House and the only authority for that is as the Premier just stated it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend, the member for Labrador, is perfectly right and at the same time I suggest, perfectly wrong. Section 14 does not refer to this or that particular bill or resolution or motion, it merely sets the authority for the general order in which business will be transacted. Now, within any one of these headings, there may be half a dozen bills on the Order Paper. It is not the right of the Government to say take today's Order Paper and— do the honourable gentlemen follow what I mean? Say on Order Paper of May 2, we had (1) Presenting Petitions (2) Reports of Standing and Select Committees. The Government does not upset that, they have no authority to change that, that is the general order of procedure but where the Government has the right to change or re-arrange from time to time is the Orders of the Day. Do you follow the distinction there?

MR. HORWOOD: I understand this but supposing the Government has a notice of motion to which it wants to give priority, under these rules they are not able to give priority over the third reading or second reading of notices of motions.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable member has me there, I don't know if the right of the Government to set the order of business is written in or is a convention, which is just as binding as a written rule, and it is quite likely to be the case that it is a convention rather than a written rule. Maybe my honourable friend, the Leader of the Opposition, can say?

MR. HIGGINS: I don't know, but I believe it is a convention.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Even if it is a convention, it is just as binding as a written rule.

MR. SPEAKER: The rule is quite clear. It does not infringe the rights of either side of the House and it says the ordinary routine business of the House should be as follows: Presenting Petitions, then Reports of Standing and Select Committees, then Notices of Motions and Notices of Questions and finally the asking and answering of questions. That is the ordinary daily routine. However, priority may be given by the House previously to other orders, for example: Suppose it is known that a certain committee report is of advantage to the House, that a committee report be presented immediately after strangers are admitted. Then it could be, by Order of the House instead of presenting petitions. It is necessary to set the order of business for the consideration of the House day by day, but the daily routine may be as follows: First, Committee of the Whole on reports of Standing and Select Committees, if there are any, next Committee of the Whole on Bills read a second time and so on. But now, instead of going on to third reading, which is the proper procedure, the Government finds it necessary to take up a second reading, it is only necessary to say, "Mr. Speaker, I move this item be deferred," and proceed to the next item or move third readings be deferred and so go on to second readings.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Would Mr. Speaker yield a moment. That presupposes the House doing it and not the Government. If it is necessary for the Government to move on the majority of the House on actual motion and vote, then it is not the right of the Government, but the right of the House and it is my understanding it is in fact the right of the Government to re-arrange the order of reading.

MR. HEFFERTON: Order 16 on top of next page reads:

"All items standing on the Orders of the Day (except Government orders) shall be taken up according to the procedure assigned to each on the Order Paper."

MR. SMALLWOOD: That covers it. Yet that does not preclude the right of any member on any side of the House, whether in the Government or not, from moving a given order be deferred, but the Government has the right to give precedence to particular business of the Government. You see, business of the House, and business of the Government have quite a distinction.

MR. SPEAKER: Mr. Chairman, the reason there is an exception on Wednesday, is to provide an opportunity for private members to bring in their Bills, or any business they might have. It is all quite clear, as the honourable the Minister of Education has moved on into 16. No. 14, of course, could not be understood if taken by itself. No. 16 is fairly important, for example; items standing on the Order Paper of the Day except Government orders shall be taken up according to precedence assigned to each Order Paper. Private business must follow the rules and regulations under Section 16, which provides that whatever business the Government has proceeds and Government orders may be called in such sequence as the Government sees fit, but there is nothing to prevent any member from moving any item may be deferred.

MR. HORWOOD: Mr. Chairman, there is still one point. I don't want to appear stupid, but our practice up to now has been to take these before the Orders of the Day.

MR. SPEAKER: The procedure followed so far has been a bit slipshod on the Order Paper of the Day; Notice of Motion, a Bill is to be read a first time, due notice has been given yesterday. Following the new plan, that would not receive first reading until we got down into the second part of the business of the day. First of all, we have petitions, reports of standing committees, take notice of motions from Ministers, take notice of questions from members of the Opposition and, incidentally, questions may be asked from this side of the House, but there are certain things you may not ask of the Opposition. Then asking and answering questions of which notice was given yesterday, then carry on to third readings and reports of committees read a second time, then second readings, then to pick up the motion on which the Government gave notices of first readings.

MR. CURTIS: Will the Speaker state what kind of questions?

MR. SPEAKER: May not ask what is intended by the Government.

MR. HORWOOD: Mr. Chairman, would I be in order in asking that final vote on this clause be deferred? That we come back to it and take a final vote at a later time?

MR. CHAIRMAN: Clause 14 deferred final vote until later.

Passed.

Clause 13 read and passed.

Clause 14 deferred.

Clause 15 read and passed.

Clause 16 read and passed.

Clause 17 read.

MR. FOGWILL: What is meant by questions?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think what is meant is this, when a member gives notice that he will on tomorrow ask such and such, and tomorrow arrives and Mr. Speaker calls his questions, he may just call the number on the Order Paper then the member who has given notice, if present, to be absolutely proper, stands and bows, normally, the member looks at the Speaker and nods his head and this is taken to be a bow. Now, if he is absent, usually a friend or colleague will ask it for him by bowing to the Chair. But if anybody does, then the question is not answered because it has not been asked, only the notice was given, no one present has asked it.

Passed.

Clause 18 read and passed.
 Clause 19 read and passed.
 Clause 20 read and passed.
 Clause 21 read and passed.
 Clause 22 read and passed.
 Clause 23 read and passed.
 Clause 24 read.

MR. FOGWILL: What does that mean?

MR. CURTIS: It means what is done now.

MR. SPEAKER: On the adjournment of the House to discuss a matter of public importance, Mr. Speaker's responsibility in this instance, is to decide whether or not it comes within the scope of standard Order 23. In doubtful cases the question of urgency is left for the House to decide. A statement asking leave to move the adjournment to debate grave charges against a department does not come within S.O. 23. The debate on the "urgent matter" cannot be adjourned as the motion before the Chair is "that this House do now adjourn." If the debate ends at an early hour it is customary for the mover to withdraw it and the House proceeds to its business. The debate may also be brought to an end by the adoption of a motion, that the House now pass to the Orders of the Day.

Passed.

Clause 13 read.

MR. SPEAKER: Mr. Chairman, I said just now that after each section I would like to include a line or so of explanation.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I have put the motion on clause 13, carried.

MR. SPEAKER: Following immediately on standing order 13, members would read this for their information: If the House intends to sit later than 11 o'clock P.M. a motion may be made during the sitting and without notice having previously been given in the House, that the House do not adjourn at 11 o'clock P.M., I might say, gentlemen, I did not make this up, it is standard parliamentary practice from both May and Beauchêne who have pointed out there are always enough members in the building to constitute a quorum at the time. It is not the practice in the Canadian House of Commons for the Speaker of his own accord to order the withdrawal of strangers. In Westminster and in Newfoundland the old order was always followed in Newfoundland and it is retained in standing order 12. If an individual or a group of persons misconduct themselves in the galleries, it is the duty of the Sergeant at Arms to eject them or take them into custody without any specific instructions.

No. 25, 26, 27, 28, 29 read; carried;
 No 30, read.

MR. SPEAKER: A motion may, in case of urgent and pressing necessity previously explained by the mover, be made by unanimous consent of the House without notice having been given under standing order No. 29.

No. 31.

MR. SPEAKER: A Minister may decline to answer a question without stating the reason for his refusal, and insistence on an answer is out of order, no debate is permissible. A Minister may refuse an answer on the ground of public interest. The refusal of a Minister to answer on this ground cannot be raised as a matter of privilege.

A member can ask a question, but cannot insist on an answer. Answers should be brief and confined to the points contained in the questions, although a certain latitude is permitted to Ministers, and supplementary questions without debate or comment may, within limits, be addressed to them. A supplementary question must refer only to the answer out of which it arises and must not refer to a previous answer or be addressed to another Minister. Strictly all supplementary questions are irregular and they are only permitted in order to elucidate any ambiguity in the reply of the Minister.

Notices: Notice is not required from a Minister prior to making a statement on some official or important matter. Such statements are merely indications of the Government's intentions and are settled without passage of any resolutions.

32, 33, read, carried; 34 read:

MR. FOGWILL: On the main question referred to Committee, if there has been an amendment made to the question before it was referred, does the amendment go?

MR. SPEAKER: If the motion is made and carried for this Bill to go to Committee of the Whole, there cannot be any amendment of the question at this stage.

MR. FOGWILL: If there is an amendment before going into Committee?

MR. SPEAKER: I think the amendment belongs to the motion and goes into Committee with the motion.

35, 36 carried.

MR. FAHEY: Would it be in order, Mr. Speaker, in that case to move that certain words or a certain word be deleted and others inserted in place?

MR. SMALLWOOD: You could do either or both.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is made, this Bill is now read a third time. Somebody objects to the Bill and offers an amendment. "Move this Bill be read a third time six months hence." The Speaker then makes the motion: That the word "Now" stand part of the question. If the motion is lost then the motion is the words "six months hence" be inserted and the word "now" deleted. The motion is that the word "now" do stand part of the question, if everybody votes aye, the motion is lost and it stands as is.

36 read, carried.

MR. FAHEY: No private member shall have more than one notice of motion at a time on the Order Paper; could that be explained Mr. Speaker? Is that clause confined to just one motion at one time? That could be laying there for two months and bar the member from making another.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We have provided a private member day when motions by private members are taken and presented and that day is Wednesday. So it is not likely the motion of private members could hang around on the Order Paper for two months. The idea is one member, one motion at a time and that cannot be lost because on Wednesday motions of private members are given precedence.

MR. HORWOOD: That would not be so if motion were made on Wednesday or Thursday and called on Friday and Monday only unless there were time after completion of Government business, so that the only safe thing is that a private member should give notice on Monday or Tuesday.

37, 38, 39 read, carried.

MR. FOGWILL: In respect to No. 40; if the main question has an amendment to it and the main question is called for and voted upon in the affirmative, what happens to the amendment. Is that voted upon before the main question or does it prevent it?

MR. SPEAKER: When the previous question is moved, it is done so with the object of withholding from the decision of the House, a motion that has been proposed from the Chair, by a motion which compels the House to decide in the first instance whether the original motion shall or shall not be submitted to the vote of the House.

The mover of the previous question does not want it to carry and votes against it, for his object is to prevent the Speaker from putting the original motion.

It is moved in the form "that this question be now put" because motions are properly expressed in the affirmative even when their purpose and effect are negative.

It cannot be amended, but it may be superseded or withdrawn. The previous question cannot be moved upon an amendment, but it may be moved after the main question has been amended or after an amendment has been negatived.

Except in the case of the "previous question," superseding motions cannot be applied to one another, e.g., if a member moves "that further consideration of this question be postponed . . ." a motion for the Orders of the Day or for the previous question cannot be made to suppress that motion.

Suppose the motion before the House is that this Bill be now read a second time. The debate has been long and motion is now made. What is the form now? That question be now put, that is called the previous question, which closes the debate. It is better understood if taken in the group. It really supersedes a motion by; moving adjournment, or moving debate adjourned or moving previous question, or moving an amendment. Now when the previous question is moved, it is done so with the object only, with the object of withholding from the decision of the House a motion, that has been proposed by the Chair, by a motion which compels the House to decide, in the first instance, whether the original motion shall or shall not be submitted to the vote of the House.

For instance, I say, Mr. Speaker, I now move the question put, then suppose I lose the motion, the question cannot now be put, I have prolonged the debate by obstruction or the other way around.

MR. HIGGINS: There is no further debate on it then?

MR. SPEAKER: It is really done to lengthen the debate. That is a two-edged sword.

The mover of the previous question does not want it to carry and votes against it, for his object is to prevent the Speaker from putting the original motion.

It is moved in the form "that this question be now put" because motions are properly expressed in the affirmative, even when their purpose and effect are negative.

Except in the case of the "previous question," superseding motions cannot be applied to one another, e.g., if a member moves "that further consideration of this question be postponed . . ." a motion for the Orders of the Day for the previous question cannot be made to suppress that motion.

Carried, 41 carried, 42 read.

MR. HORWOOD: That wording is very bad.

MR. CURTIS: I move the Committee rise, report progress and beg leave to sit again.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The hour is well advanced and I think the members would probably like to get away. I suggest, therefore, that all further orders be deferred down to, but not including the last two items. Which gives merely two first readings and then we could go home.

MR. SPEAKER: A Bill "An Act to Amend the Local Government Act, 1949," read a first time. Ordered read a second time on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the House at its rising adjourn until tomorrow, Thursday, at 3:00 of the clock.

The House adjourned accordingly.

THURSDAY, May 3rd, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

MR. DROVER: I beg leave, Mr. Speaker, to present a petition from the residents of Quirpon, in White Bay, requesting able-bodied relief. The petition is not in the usual form but rather in the form of a telegram.

MR. SPEAKER: I don't know that you can present such a petition. A telegram is not a petition and may not be read in the House. I think the proper procedure would be to pass it directly to the Department concerned.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Where is it from?

MR. DROVER: At Quirpon.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, there is a point I would like to rise to, if allowed to do so in the House. I think Mr. Speaker, I am only rising to a point of order. We get a great many telegrams, all of us, and if we begin to present telegrams to the House, there has always been a lot of petitions and always will be, but if we are to begin presenting telegrams and letters, which are not actually petitions, asking the House to do such and such we would be lost, but if it is delivered to the Department, it will get as much attention as here in the House.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): May I rise, Mr. Speaker, in order to make a point? I believe I have the correspondence on my desk now, which relates to that point the honourable member raised, and my conviction is that the point in question can be dealt with adequately by reference to the Department for following up. I believe the honourable member could do that without loss of face or prestige.

MR. DROVER: That will be agreeable to me, Mr. Speaker.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

None.

Answers to Questions

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I have here one of the answers requested by my honourable friend, the junior member for St. John's East.

I have since the House opened, had word conveyed to the Department of Finance to the effect, that I would like to get the answers this afternoon to the other two. The one I am able to answer is the staff of the Director General of Economic Development.

The Government has contracted with Dr. Alfred A. Valdmanis, former Minister of Finance, Trade and Industry of the Republic of Latvia, to be Director General of Economic Development of Newfoundland. The contract is for four years' dating from January 1, 1951. The salary is $25, 000 per year. He is paid his travelling expenses. His assistants are paid by the Government. No fees or emoluments other than his salary are paid to him. Dr. Valdmanis, in the few months he has been with the Government, has earned for Newfoundland several times his total salary for the whole period of his contract.

The only variation is in the secretarial department. Miss Bennett was, I think, seconded from some other department into that section to assist in the rush of correspondence, and she carries the normal Civil Service salary and that includes the cost of living bonus. Miss Rowe is said to be, and is engaged as, a specially high classed stenographer for rush stenography. Miss Leikucus has five languages and as the Department has correspondence with a number of countries, she does all the translating and a letter can be dictated to her in English and she translates it back into German, Danish, French or Latvian, five languages, I think, other than English and $1,800 a year I think a little scandalously low for an employee of that particular qualification, but there has been no request for an increase, and if so, I think the Government would find it a little hard to refuse the application.

Orders of the Day

Committee of the Whole on Revised Rules of the House:

- Clause 43 read and passed.
- Clause 44 read and passed.
- Clause 45 read and passed.
- Clause 46 read and passed.
- Clause 47 read and passed.
- Clause 48 read and passed.
- Clause 49 read.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Does that include Committee of the Whole?

MR. DROVER: What about interruptions?

MR. SMALLWOOD: They are taken out.

MR. FAHEY: That rule, in my opinion, since some members have spoken here previously for two days, should not be cut down to 45 minutes which puts the House in an awkward position. There are many times when a member wishes to speak in the interest of his District, and I contend it is too short a time and I move this clause be deleted.

MR. CHAIRMAN: That would not be necessary. If I put the motion the clause will be passed.

MR. FAHEY: Is it in order for a member to make an amendment?

MR. CHAIRMAN: Yes, but not that it be deleted.

MR. FAHEY: I see your way is to test it by a vote, mine is to make a motion to delete it, which means the same thing.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Chairman, in connection with this particular section, 45 minutes on some outstanding matter such as the Budget or Estimates or the Speech from the Throne, 45 minutes is a very short time, I know for myself, if I started to try and make an intelligent address on, for instance, the Budget Speech which reviews the whole financial position of the Province, I would find it most difficult to work it all into 45 minutes. But according to this thing the Premier and the Leader of the Opposition are privileged to talk as long as they like whereas other members with just as much interest have not this privilege. I look upon this section as very unfair and unjust. Whilst I appreciate that sometimes a member of the House comes in for no reason than to hang-her-down and hold up business, in which case I would be prepared to agree that that speaker should not be allowed any more than 45 or 60 minutes but, on the matter of the Budget or the Speech from the Throne or some big contract coming into the House, which would involve probably some financial backing, well 45 minutes or an hour is not giving a fair show. Now from a personal angle, I spoke last year, for instance, on the Speech from the Throne for two afternoons, for three or four hours, three afternoons, I believe. I have not yet spoken this year, but I do intend to have a few words on the Budget and to review the whole position. Certainly, if the House wants to pass it then, the only thing is to just move the adjournment of the House on a matter of urgent national importance or public business, so, as we don't want to have to do that, this section should be fixed up in some way. I don't know if it should be deleted or not, I forget what was in the old rules.

MR. SMALLWOOD: There was no time limit in the existing rules, the honourable member may remember the National Convention.

MR. CASHIN: I remember that. I can never forget that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: There was no time limit whatever.

MR. CASHIN: We were sixteen months doing six days work. I don't want to be in here 16 months. The Government will do what it likes, but I suggest the clause be struck out altogether. I am prepared to second the motion, there are only three or four people who will speak more than a half hour.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I cannot accept the honourable member's motion. Those who are opposed will vote against the clause anyway, so there is no need of a motion.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have a great deal of sympathy for the viewpoint of the honourable member for Ferryland, at the same time, I confess frankly, that I also have a great deal of sympathy for the general principle contained in that clause. I say the general principle, not necessarily the detail of it. I think practically every elected assembly in the British Commonwealth has a fixed time limit on speeches. In the House of Commons at Ottawa I think it is 40 minutes. That is five minutes shorter than the 45 minutes suggested in this clause. I noticed many times personally in reading the Canadian Hansard, that whenever any member of the House goes over his forty minutes, he can be permitted to continue and, in fact, he is permitted to continue by the assent of the House, what happens, being merely this: The Speaker or Chairman says the honourable member's time is up and thereupon there are cries from one or two members of the House "Go on." The Speaker then says that at the assent of the House the member may continue for, not another forty minutes but for another ten or fifteen minutes, say to 55 minutes. Then the members of the House begin to get a little impatient, and show their feelings that the member who has been given their assent to continue is rather overdoing it, taking advantage. So that it is extremely rare in that House and other Houses for parliamentary speakers to go beyond that 40 minutes. Actually, it is astonishing how much a member can say in twenty to fifty minutes, if he marshals his argument or facts. Personally I have never heard a speech in this House in the past thirty years or more (as off and on I dropped in), which would not have been a lot better if it was half as long, and I have myself made speeches here which I am quite sure would have been half as good again if they had been half as short again, and I have never made a particularly long speech. I think the longest I have made is an hour and a half. That is the longest I have ever made in this room.

MR. FAHEY: You were longer than that this year, you were two days.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I was about an hour and a half, and then the following day perhaps an hour, that is true. I remember the Late Sir Michael Cashin, Leader of the Opposition, speaking in this House for, if I recall correctly, four days.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): He had the gift of gab far better than his distinguished son.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I tell you he is not the man his father was, though he is not a bad man himself. But in that case it was deliberate, followed by such able speakers as the Late Judge Higgins and Sir John Bennett, Judge Fox, Col. Sullivan, all able speakers, and they all set out to keep the House here until August, the famous hang-her-down session. I saw the Late W. J. Walsh propped up against the desk until the crack of dawn and he happened to see the Prime Minister lean back to say something to the Minister of Finance, and he stopped as though paralyzed in his tracks and said "Mr. Speaker, it is none of my business what the Prime Minister is talking about to the Minister of Finance and it is far from me to ask what he is talking about" and he spent the next three quarters of an hour pointing out that it was none of his business. Just hanging her down on some political point. Just hanging her down is sometimes politically a good point. Senator LaFollette spoke for 18 hours without a break.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): The Late Judge Henderson spoke here for eight hours and when he was about to sit down he said: "With these few remarks."

MR. SMALLWOOD: LaFollette came in with a glass of water and a sip of brandy in it and kept going. That was not to discuss something, it was to obstruct something, filibustering. So, I have a lot of sympathy with the view-point of the honourable gallant gentleman. Some day, a miracle may happen, and I may find myself over on that side of the House, I will have a long white whisker, but nevertheless I may be there, and I may want to talk for three, four or five hours, though I will possibly be too old and feeble.

MR. SPRATT: Why a long white whisker? I haven't one.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I am not a kill-joy, but I think, frankly, very plainly and very sincerely, if this House, and that includes all of us on this side, if at the end of this term, we can go out, and whether the members come back again or not, we may all be dead, some may be back, some probably not, but when we go out after the first term, the first elected House in Newfoundland for so many years, if we go out, having improved this House, the people's House, the conduct of business, the way of doing business, raised the level, and go out and say, well whatever else, we set a pretty good basis for our successors to keep up with. Then we will have done a great thing for Newfoundland.

Now, the members don't like 45 minutes. I can imagine occasions when members of this House might want to speak for an hour. A speech of one hour, even on a political platform, is a long speech. I can, myself, go on a political platform, and in about four hours am not warmed up, but here we are doing business. We are here as a business organization, the Province's business, and after all, I don't think there will be any occasion when any of us want to speak as much as four hours, but I think, if we set a limit of two hours, we are preserving both the principle of limiting the time, and the principle of not limiting it too much.

MR. CASHIN: That principle, I like, and I quite agree.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Actually, very few members, probably not the honourable and gallant gentleman, the Leader of the Opposition, because he is not given to long-winded speeches, but there may come some time later, when some member may want to speak for two hours, on some important matter.

MR. CASHIN: The Leader of the Opposition, is allowed to speak as long as he wishes, there is no limit.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Then his lieutenant, the Leader of the Opposition as with the Leader of the Government, has various lieutenants, each of whom is told off, to concentrate on certain matters—for instance, now you are the finance man, I depend on you in financial matters, and I want you to concentrate on labour, etc., and it may really be necessary to make a full-dress speech. There will be something coming up in this House, I believe, before this session ends, of great importance to this House and for the Province, after the Budget. A very important matter, and God forbid we should try to strangle debate on it, or indeed on any matter, so if the House shares my view, we could amend that to read two hours, instead of 45 minutes. Now, I know, Mr. Speaker is not going to be offended, if we amend the clause. He put something down, and the figure he put down is the figure usually used throughout the Commonwealth, and if we amend it to two hours, I don't think he will take any offense whatsoever. I move the words 45 minutes be stricken out, and that it be changed to two hours.

MR. FAHEY: I take it, that my motion to delete that paragraph is not accepted by the Chair.

MR. CHAIRMAN: That is correct.

MR. FAHEY: Well, in speaking to the motion before the Chair now, I have no intention of going on, I am not a Huey Long or anybody like that, and my firm belief, is that filibustering does not do any good anyway, but I had in mind, to make an amendment to three hours, due to the fact the Premier himself made a three and a half hour speech, on the Speech from the Throne this year. I agree with the amendment, but it is my contention, that once a member goes over an hour, he is repeating himself anyway, unless it is done for some specific purpose. This will give members ample time, therefore, I agree with the motion before the Chair; two hours.

Clause 49 amended.

Clause 50 read:

MR. SMALLWOOD: That 20 minutes caught my eye. What is that? Does that have the effect of preventing the House meeting after 2:00 A.M. in the morning?

MR. SPEAKER: If a member rises to speak at 1:55, he may speak until 2:15. A member may finish 20 minutes up to a-quarter-past two.

MR. HIGGINS: Suppose it is a debate on the Budget, I don't understand, Mr. Speaker, what is it meant for?

MR. SPEAKER: The explanation is much clearer, if you delete the words "relating to committee" and read it thus:

MR. HIGGINS: You mean debate on any subject?

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): It is really just a closure.

MR. SPEAKER: I think, at this stage, I should read from my notes. "Immediately before the Order of the Day for resuming an adjourned debate is called, or if the House be in Committee of the Whole, or of Supply, or of Ways and Means, any Minister of the Crown, who, standing in his place, shall have given notice at a previous sitting, of his intention to do so, may move that the debate shall not be further adjourned, or that further consideration of any resolution or resolutions, clause or clauses, section or sections, preamble or preambles, title or titles, shall be the first business of the Committee, and shall not further be postponed; and in either case, such question shall be decided, without debate or amendment; and if the same shall be resolved in the affirmative, no member shall thereafter speak more than once, or longer than 20 minutes in any such adjourned debate; or if in Committee, on any such resolution, clause, section, preamble or title; and if such adjourned debate or postponed consideration shall not have been resumed or concluded before 2 o'clock in the morning, no member shall rise to speak after that hour, but all such questions as must be decided in order to conclude such adjourned debate or postponed consideration, shall be decided forthwith."

MR. SPRATT: I would like to ask, how this law is going to apply on Saturday evening, or say, we might go on until Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. Personally, from my long experience in this House of Assembly, not as a member, but as a visitor, I see no reason for it to be open after 1 o'clock at all, and the long speech may not have been in any way beneficial, but purely a game of politics and it is time for some real serious laws to be brought in, to have proper respect for law and order particularly relating to concerns of the House.

MR. HIGGINS: I don't know what the law is but, this is only providing for a last resource, this may happen at mid-day. God forbid, that we sit Saturday nights, and go into Sunday morning. At my age I would find it hard to have to stay here Saturday night, I don't know, what about the Minister of Provincial Affairs. This has nothing to do with Sunday morning, this closure may happen anytime at 3 or 4 in the evening.

MR. SPRATT: That is the proper time in my opinion.

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): I thought the House did not meet on Saturday. The second rule says adjourn on Friday until Monday.

MR. CURTIS: You can always suspend a rule in case of emergency. I have seen the House sit here until Sunday morning. I remember being here when the House sat on Saturday up into Sunday morning.

Passed.

MR. HORWOOD: I wonder if we could revert to No. 45. I have a question: Motion the Chairman leave the Chair, is that a motion to go into Committee of the Whole?

MR. CURTIS: No, in Committee it is not debatable.

Clause 51 read and passed.

Clause 52 read and passed.

Clause 53 read and passed.

Clause 54 read and passed.

Clause 55 read and passed.

Clause 56 read and passed.

Clause 57 read and passed.

Clause 58 read.

MR. SMALLWOOD: On that clause, Mr. Chairman, I don't suggest any change, but I have been interested to note in the Houses of Westminster and Ottawa the Committee of the Whole stage, is followed immediately without any question by a third reading, when the Committee of the Whole stage is completed, the Committee rises, reports to Mr. Speaker, and Mr. Speaker, then puts the motion for third reading, and the Bill always gets third reading immediately following the Committee of the Whole stage.

MR. HIGGINS: It is customary only.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Well, I am not suggesting that we do that.

MR. HIGGINS: There are sometimes, I understand, here when we have to refer back two or three times. That is one reason, why it could not be done. We have to stand back now.

Passed.

Clause 59 read and passed.

Clause 60 read and passed.

Clause 61 read and passed.

Clause 62 read and passed.

Clause 63 read and passed.

Clause 64 read and passed.

Clause 65 read and passed.

Clause 66 read and passed.

Clause 67 read and passed.

Clause 68 read.

MR. SPRATT: What is this?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Any person whose rights, interests or property may be affected by any private Bill.

MR. CURTIS: That would not be a private Bill.

MR. SPRATT: I would like to get the explanation, if it is problematical, we could leave it now. A Bill could be private and be introduced by a member of Parliament.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If the honourable Minister does not follow clearly, it is possible other members of the House similarly fail to understand, and we ought to have it thoroughly understood. This has to do only with private Bills, to begin with. It has nothing to do with any Bills brought in by the Government, as government policy. It has purely to do with private Bills, and any private Bill brought in, where any person's interests, rights or property may be affected by that Bill, in such cases then, these private parties, when required to do so, shall appear before the Committee, touching their consent. I presume that means their consent or non-consent, and if they don't appear, may send their consent in writing. It does not say they have to consent, but may be required to send proof, and verification in writing, may be demanded by the committee. It is all for the protection of the person whose interests, rights or property, are effected by that private Bill. It is not an attack but a deliberate effort to protect them.

MR. SPRATT: I understand that, but any Bill brought in, concerning an individual, or a private Company, whether by the Government or a private member, is, in my opinion, a private Bill.

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, that is not the definition of it. A private Bill, is not a Bill affecting a person or a corporation. The definition of a private Bill is that it is a Bill brought in by a private member, not by the Government. A private member may bring in a Bill about a number of things affecting a private party, a company, on organization; a Government may bring in a Bill affecting a private party or a company but it is not a private Bill. Now this clause deals only with Bills brought in by private members of the House.

MR. SPRATT: I appreciate the explanation, but there is something still remaining. A private company is set up in accordance with the law and they may be called a Housing Corporation or any other name, they are private and any Bill, which gives them ex-officio power, that is a private Bill. I hope I am not talking offensively, but it is not satisfactory to me that a private Bill is not private because a private is concern is affected.

MR. SMALLWOOD: No it is private only if brought in by a private member. The Government brings in Bills every day, affecting private corporations. Does that make them private Bills, because they affect a private corporation? If the Government brings in a Bill, it is not private though it may affect a private individual.

Passed.

Clause 69 read and passed.

Clause 70 read and passed.

Clause 71 read.

MR. FAHEY: The Chairman has a vote like any other member, and if there is a tie, he has the casting vote which gives him two votes. The Chairman does not represent two districts, any more than any other member in the House. I will agree, he should have the casting vote, but not a vote in the committee and a casting vote besides. To do that he should represent two districts.

MR. CURTIS: I think the honourable member will find that is the common practice. I do not agree either, but it is the recognized rule.

MR. SPEAKER: We have a rule, a committee may not consist of five or seven. I submit, we could have a committee of six with one member absent, in which case the Chairman has the casting vote.

MR. FAHEY: On principle. I think he should have the deciding vote.

MR. SPEAKER: It is the general practice?

MR. FOGWILL: Let us be different.

MR. CURTIS: If we make it a motion that the clause be deleted, the Chairman then has not a vote at all.

MR. SPEAKER: I must offer a word on that. It would be contrary to any practice in the known world. In that event, when we appoint a member as Chairman, that member is deprived of his right.

MR. CURTIS: The Chairman has a right to vote.

MR. MILLER: I agree, the member should not be deprived of his vote because he is Chairman of a committee. I can see no objection to giving him the casting vote. The position still remains—it is then brought forward to the House, this is only the committee stage. But very definitely, in my opinion, the Chairman should not lose his vote.

MR. FAHEY: I don't see it, he does not lose it, he has it in case of a tie. If there were not a tie, his vote would not count anyway. If you have a committee of five or seven, if a committee of six or four he would have the casting vote.

MR. CURTIS: Suppose we let that section stand as it exists.

Passed.

Clause 72 read and passed.

Clause 73 read and passed.

Clause 74 read and passed.

Clause 75 read and passed.

Clause 76 read.

Passed.

Clause 77 read and passed.

Clause 78 read.

MR. FAHEY: Should not that be taken care of in the Election Act rather than in the House? On what basis would the House proceed? Any time the Government, which has a majority of the House, could put any other member out under that clause. Does not say whether it is by unanimous decision or otherwise.

MR. CURTIS: The Election Act expires after a period of one month.

Clause 78 deferred.

Clause 79 read.

MR. HORWOOD: The wording of that is still not correct. Does it mean all orders not complied with, during the session?

MR. CURTIS: It is badly worded. We will let it stand over now.

Clause 80 read.

MR. HIGGINS: Does that mean every member must be here every day? Supposing the Attorney General has to go to Ottawa on business. Does he not merely ask Mr. Speaker?

MR. SPEAKER: Members are paid a sessional fee and their duty is to attend the House every session. If a member knows he cannot be present, he stands and asks for leave of absence or in case of illness leave is also granted. Then the other members concerned know the member is absent with leave.

MR. HIGGINS: Why does he ask the House, could he not ask the Speaker?

MR. SPEAKER: It is usually asked for one member by another.

MR. HIGGINS: Why not ask Mr. Speaker instead of the House?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Surely, the less said about that the better. Who is going to stand up and say the member for Harbour Main and Bell Island is about. It would be too contemptible and he would never live it down. It is usually done through the whips. The party whip knows how many are going to be on deck. I assume my honourable friend opposite does the same thing.

MR. CURTIS: I would say under this section, it would be the Speaker.

MR. FAHEY: The only thing is, it would put the Speaker in an awkward position.

MR. SPEAKER: In the House of Commons, in Ottawa, a man is docked $25 for every day he is off without leave.

Passed.

Clause 81 read and passed.

Clause 82 read.

MR. SPEAKER: When a debate is on, and the question is put: Is the House ready for question? If it is, the Clerk takes the census of the House. Then the question is put, those in favour, Aye, contrary Nay. The Speaker declares the motion won or lost, as the case may be, or in some instances, may say, I cannot decide. If the latter, then a division must take place. If he decides the Ayes have it, and a division is called it must be by two or more members, calling for division, in which event the Speaker will say: Call in the members and the Sergeant at Arms takes steps to bring in all the members. In England two minutes only are allowed to call in members, in Canada, there is no time limit, but it is time for voting when the Sergeant at Arms returns. In Newfoundland, under the old-time method, voting began at the moment the Sergeant at Arms returned. The Speaker asks the question, and those in favour rise. The Speaker then puts the question again.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think, in Ottawa, there is no time stated in the Standing Orders, but there is actually a time limit. It is the time during which the bell rings and that bell rings, in fact, for ten minutes all over that great building, so it is impossible to be on any floor, without hearing the bell which is electric, and when the button is pressed it releases the bell throughout the entire building and rings with a noise that would awaken the dead, and rings incessantly for ten minutes, causing a tremendous uproar throughout the entire building, and during that period members hurry in from committee meetings and from meeting their constituents. From all over the building they come hurrying, and in some parts it takes them four or five minutes to get to the Chamber. As soon as the bell stops all doors are locked. No one can then enter or leave until the division is taken. While waiting for the Chamber to fill up they carry out a practice, one I would like to see here if occasion arose. They start singing, and the singing goes on for ten minutes, and everybody joins in, because, of course, a division means the Government may fall, and finally the division is taken, and members begin slamming their desks. Three minutes in this building should be long enough for members to get into the Chamber from any part of the building. I don't know if we should have a buzzer for that purpose or not, but it would be worth considering to put in a division bell, which would ring only in case of a division. It is always a source of some worry to me when a division comes up, to know that the members may be outside the Chamber and not know there is a division, and it could happen that we could be defeated with enough members in another part of the building—we could be defeated and have to resign.

MR. FAHEY: You would not get your 25 years then.

MR. HIGGINS: I think the time limit should be set by an hour glass.

MR. CURTIS: An egg timer.

MR. FAHEY: I appreciate the explanation as to what takes place in Ottawa, but suppose a member is out an hour and a half while a debate is going on, how can he vote intelligently—he can only vote with the party.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If the honourable and learned Leader of the Opposition, could bring in here an hour glass, one not less than one hundred and fifty years old, a real antique hour glass, it might be worthwhile. It would have to be a three minute hour glass.

MR. HIGGINS: That would overshadow gifts from the other provinces.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It might be a Newfoundland product.

MR. HIGGINS: Some members may be able to vote more intelligently for not having heard the speech.

Passed.

Clause 83 read.

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): On that question, I cannot see the point. I noticed not long ago, what happened here when we had a division. The independents did not vote at all.

MR. FOGWILL: No. 83, I think, conflicts with No. 80.

MR. SPEAKER: No member is permitted to vote on any question, in which he has a direct pecuniary interest. On a division, every member in his seat will be required to vote, unless debarred, but the interest that disqualifies him must be immediately personal and direct. The member whose vote is in question might before the question is put make a successful fight.

MR. HIGGINS: Suppose for instance the Architects Bill comes up, why should we be forced to vote on that?

MR. SPEAKER: It is the rule now that everybody must vote.

Between the words "House" and "When" insert "Not affected by standing Order 81."

Passed.

Clause 84 read and passed?

Clause 85 read and passed.

Clause 86 read and passed.

Clause 87 read and passed.

Clause 88 read.

MR. HIGGINS: On motion of the leader or any other member of the Government.

MR. SPEAKER: Mr. Chairman, a Committee of five members is to be appointed on the opening of the session to prepare a list of members, to compose the following standing committees. I just set down those merely as a suggestion, we will certainly need one on Standing Orders, and on Private Bills, you may add any other, you may think fit, or delete these.

Passed.

Clause 89 read and passed.

Clause 90 read and passed.

Clause 91 read and passed.

Clause 92 read and passed.

Clause 93 read and passed.

Clause 94 read and passed.

Clause 95 read and passed.

Clause 96 read and passed.

Clause 97 read and passed.

MR. HORWOOD: I wonder if we could revert back to No. 88.

MR. MORGAN: There are four listed there, and I think it would be desirable to have at least one other. I suggest the clause be amended by adding (e) Fisheries.

MR. HIGGINS: Why not woodsmen as well. Are Municipal Affairs so important to us. Surely not as important as fisheries and woodsmen and paper making. I think (a), (b) and (c) sufficient.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Following amendment moved by member for Green Bay: Add (e) Fisheries.

MR. HIGGINS: I move we strike out Municipal Affairs.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Moved by the honourable Leader of the Opposition: Municipal Affairs be wiped out.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That depends on whether we think of municipal affairs in rather a restricted way. It is not now merely the City of St. John's, but there are 31 of the larger towns of Newfoundland, who now have Town Councils and are all comprehended under the heading Municipal Affairs. It is a fast growing development in Newfoundland, and there may be a special purpose to be served.

MR. HIGGINS: But they do not affect the House at all. This does not affect the House, as for instance, the first two do, part and parcel. In that case there is room for another class of committees; matters affecting the House itself and for that reason, a new clause altogether might be inserted. Why a committee for fisheries, unless you appoint others. There is always a good reason for (a) and (b) which relate to the House, Powers of the House. These two are really part of the House, while the other committees are outside.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I agree, but the point I make results in this, that there ought to be another class of committees set up, in which case (d) would be stricken out and put in the new class. Let it stand over for today and we will come back to it.

MR. HIGGINS: I withdraw the motion.

Clause 98 read and passed.
 Clause 99 read and passed.
 Clause 100 read and passed.
 Clause 101 read and passed.
 Clause 102 read and passed.
 Clause 103 read and passed.
 Clause 104 read and passed.
 Clause 105 read and passed.
 Clause 106 read and passed.
 Clause 107 read and passed.
 Clause 108 read.

MR. HIGGINS: Does that mean the Librarian has to stay here until 7 o'clock?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Make it after the hour at which the sitting of the day terminates.

MR. CURTIS: We can't do that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: But not in any case before the hour. It certainly means when the House is in session the library should be open and during a night session, you never know when you want to look up something.

MR. SPEAKER: The old order was the librarian had to be back by 7 o'clock but members may not introduce persons to the library after 8 o'clock.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Move that 7 o'clock be stricken out and 8 o'clock inserted.

Passed.

Clause 109 read.

MR. HIGGINS: A month is a long time for a book.

DR. POTTLE: It is two weeks in an ordinary library.

MR. HIGGINS: Should books be allowed to be taken out at all?

Passed.

Clause 110 read and passed.
 Clause 111 read and passed.
 Clause 112 read and passed.
 Clause 113 read and passed.
 Clause 114 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported progress and asks leave to sit again on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

Section 1 read and passed.
 Section 2 read and passed.
 Section 3 read and passed.
 Section 4 read and passed.
 Section 5 read and passed.
 Section 6 read and passed.
 Section 7 read and passed.

Section 8 read and passed.

Section 9 read.

DR. POTTLE: Section 9: Delete "The" and insert "And". Reports of diamond drills: I understand, Mr. Chairman, that it is rather an abundance of caution to make this mandatory, it is ordinarily done but this is to insure it is done.

I suggest an amendment to make it more definite there. Insert "On or before the 31st day of March between the words "shall" and "each" in the first line and add the words "for the preceding year" at the end of the paragraph.

Passed.

Section 10 read and passed.

Section 11 read and passed.

Section 12 read and passed.

Section 13 read and passed.

Section 14 read and passed.

Section 15 read and passed.

Section 16 read.

DR. POTTLE: Section 16—Delete the words "and of this section" at the end the paragraph.

Passed.

Section 17 read and passed.

Section 18 read and passed.

Section 19 read.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): In connection with 19 and referring back to 16 (3) what do the penalties provide?

DR. POTTLE: We have changed that word to offense.

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Chairman, I would like to refer back to 19 (2) with regard to heights, I wonder if the Minister can obtain the information for us with regard to the regulations covering height. My point is Bell Island today is operating at the present time, sinking sometimes as low as 28 to 30 feet, and the honourable Minister referred to the fact that face cleaners are sent in after each blast to clear the roof, and the workman has to follow the cleaner and has to depend for his safety entirely on the face cleaner or the superintendent as the cast may be. For instance, if the ceiling is 20 feet high—it could be forty feet but the ceiling in some cases is down to 20 feet and I wonder if there is any regulation to protect the workman other than that provided by the cleaner. I wonder if by any chance we might obtain further information on that point?

DR. POTTLE: As far as I can understand there has been no attempt made in the legislation to limit the height of mines. These in Bell Island, I understand, are as high as 30 feet, but there is no directive in the mining code to limit the height of the ceiling.

MR. SPENCER: In lieu of that, what protection is there for persons? My point, Mr. Chairman, is this, if there be not some regulation then the very valuable point the honourable Minister made, in reference to face cleaners, is to some extent lost and in Bell Island mine the ceiling is 30 feet high. I happen to know, I have been a practical miner there for 20 years and there they operate by taking out a seam underneath until it is 10 or 12 feet high, and in the main run they level off those feet then come back and do what they call back-chopping in the section from the ceiling to the hanging wall, until the height is some 25 or 30 feet. My point is: since the safety of the miner to some extent is involved I contend it is utterly impossible when men must walk in and out under a ceiling of 30 feet when they have no knowledge whatever that hanging walls can collapse, or what margin of safety there is for them. In other words, if he does not take the face-cleaners' or foreman's word what protection has he and how does he know whether or not it is safe. What particular provision is made in the Bill whereby safety can be assured or otherwise the Company accepts the responsibility or the operator, if you like, accepts the responsibility.

DR. POTTLE: The best answer we can give is that in such circumstances as these the responsibility seems to be the company's to see the face cleaning of the walls of mines is carried out. That was a point of dispute last year. I understand the miners refused to go into the mine after a certain incident.

MR. SPENCER: I accept the explanation that that is as far as possible to go and I have no desire to hold up the Bill. I am quite sure the company takes every possible precaution, but every possible precaution is not sufficient sometimes, as proved to be the case last year and on many other occasions of which I am very well aware.

Section 20 read and passed.

Section 21 read and passed.

Section 22 read and passed.

Section 23 read and passed.

Section 24 read and passed.

Section 25 read and passed.

Section 26 read and passed.

Section 27 read and passed.

Section 28 read and passed.

Section 29 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported progress and asks leave to sit again.

On motion the remaining Orders of the Day were deferred.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn until tomorrow at 3 of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

FRIDAY, May 4th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

Hon. the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives presented a petition from the people of Rock Harbour re Road.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, some time ago a committee was appointed by this House to consider if the rules of the House had been complied with in connection with two private Bills: "An Act to Incorporate the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Newfoundland" and "An Act to Incorporate the Newfoundland Association of Architects and to Regulate the Use of Architect Designations in Newfoundland." The committee reports, Mr. Speaker, the rules of the House have been complied with and there the matter seems to have been dropped. I think, in due course, the proposed Bills should be read a first time and in doing so I would like to say I am not sponsoring these measures but as Chairman of the Committee I draw them to the attention of the House, and move this Bill be now read a first time.

Bill read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on tomorrow.

Notice of Motions and Questions

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Question No. 98.

Answer: (1) $5,806,122.

Question No. 96.

(1) Answer: $24,977. I will leave out the odd cents contained in the answer.

(2) $34,977.43. (3) $2,295,811.96.
(4) $278,010.63.

(5) Not available as tabulations unfinished.

(6) $5,039,778.40.

I may say, Mr. Speaker, that figure is somewhere between one and two million dollars less than the profit made during the same period by the Government of Nova Scotia. Last year their profit for the year was something between six and seven million dollars. Something between one and two million more than our gross sales in the same period.

Orders of the Day

Committee of the Whole on revised rules of the House.

MR. CURTIS: I think we have gone right through, Mr. Chairman, except that the honourable member for Labrador asked to let No. 14 stand.

MR. HORWOOD: I move that Order pass as it stands in the paper.

No. 14 passed.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): 14 (a) does that refer to precedents?

MR. CURTIS: Precedence is referred to again in No. 20.

"All questions before a select committee on a private Bill are decided by a majority of voices including the voice of the Chairman; and whenever the voices are equal, the Chairman has a second or casting vote."

There are two ways of looking at that: If the Chairman only has a casting vote and three committee members may vote one way and two another and his personal belief might be with these who voted two, in that case the vote would then be three, vs. three. Then if the chairman is not given a vote he is dis-enfranchised and may as well not be there. Therefore I think the clause should remain as drafted. Supposing the committee had six members and the chairman was one, in a case where two members were in favour and three against, then the chairman is really dis-enfranchised.

MR. FAHEY: He loses that by being chairman. Take Mr. Speaker when the House is in session. Every member has a vote except Mr. Speaker who has not, only in case of a tie when he has a casting vote. He is automatically dis-enfranchised by his position as Speaker of the House. The same thing applies to the chairman. It is his right to exercise a casting vote. I don't envy either of them as they may be placed in an awkward position where they have to offend probably half the House, but I contend, Mr. Speaker, who is a member of a district loses his vote, and the chairman should be in the same category.

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker is in a different position as he is not on either side, he is supposed to be impartial, his position is neutral while in the Chair. That is different from Committee of the Whole. What does the leader of the opposition think?

MR. HIGGINS: I understand that is the practice and it is still the practice here.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, I don't want to delay the Committee on this Clause but I may say this, the fact that this is the practice on the Mainland, in Prince Edward Island or Nova Scotia, does that make it right? We are supposed to eat more fish and therefore have more brains. I contend the Speaker of the House only has a casting vote and is disenfranchised, and the chairman of Committees should be in the same box whether that practice is adopted in Ottawa or somewhere else. Is it right? That is the main thing. Should a member have two votes?

MR. CURTIS: This deals with select committees only. We are not talking about a committee of the whole House. The House is not bound in any way by the regulations.

MR. FAHEY: What takes place in regular committee? Does the same procedure take place there as in a select committee? There is no ruling here on it.

MR. SPEAKER: In committee of the whole the chairman has no vote except in cases of a tie.

Passed.

Clause 76 read.

MR. CURTIS: There were two words left out and we amended it.

Passed.

Clause 78 read.

MR. CURTIS: The election act does have this power but the House protects its own rights.

MR. SPEAKER: That is our Standing Order 78 but in the Dominion

Orders it is No. 79. It is just a reiteration of the election act, if we decide to copy it, its terminology might be amended. The fact is even without it the House still has that authority. Manitoba has just included this new section in their Standing Orders. Whether it is there or not the House still has this right, it is still its duty.

MR. FAHEY: I would like to make a point: If the Government were in power or for argument's sake; if the opposition should carry the Government next time and some member on the opposition —

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I compliment the honourable member on his imagination.

MR. FAHEY: Think what you like, I can say what I like. You may imagine you will be there for the next twenty-three years, I may not agree. Supposing any government has two or three seats of a majority and wishes to bring up a charge against some member of the opposition. It could be easily arranged the way politics go on and that member could be unseated and it is only natural if the government should go back to the district it could easily carry that seat. That clause could create an awful lot of problems in time to come. In my opinion, I feel all those things should be covered by the election act. I don't see why this House can unseat a member.

MR. CURTIS: Don't you think this House should have the right to punish persons who do the bribing, not the member? That includes the briber.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It includes the member if he does the bribing. Of course we all know actually it never arises, there never has been anything like that in Newfoundland nor is there likely to be so; we are really talking about a highly theoretical problem.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): Yes, Sir, it has happened right here.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It must have been a technicality. Actually I don't know of any British House that has that power. I know the Senate of the United States has it and has unseated Senators because of bribery or corruption or some such offense. There was a case, just two or three years ago, when a Senator was unseated by the Senate. It is true under the American Flag they have not the system we have under the British Flag. Maybe the British Commonwealth Houses have the same power, I don't know, maybe Mr. Speaker could advise us on that point. I don't think we could get after the people who did the bribing but only after the members who did.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, say a member ran in a certain district and the member opposite him did some bribing, it should be taken up under the Election Act.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is in force only for a certain period after the election.

MR. FAHEY: If it is not done in three months it is just as well to forget it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: But if the evidence should crop up only after six months and it is then found the member is sitting here as a result of bribery. Is the House to do nothing about it? With this clause they could do something about it.

MR. FAHEY: The answer to that is that we should amend the Election Act to run for a year and a half.

MR. SPEAKER: I have referred back and we are doing exactly the same as Manitoba only it is No. 90 which reads: "If it shall appear that any person elected and returned a member of this House or endeavoured so to do by bribery or other corrupt practice, this House will proceed with the utmost severity against all persons who shall have been concerned with such bribery or any such corrupt practice."

MR. SMALLWOOD: I notice, Mr. Chairman, from the document Mr. Speaker just read, this Standing Order in the Province of Manitoba is copied from the Dominion Standing Order No. 79, Standing Order of the House of Commons. It is apparently not without precedent.

Passed.

MR. CHAIRMAN: We now revert to No. 88:

MR. SMALLWOOD: I don't see any objection to leaving (d) in as we have a lot of town councils. I suggest that in front of (d) there be inserted Fisheries. Thus (d) would be Fisheries and (e) Forests and Woods Industries and (f) Agriculture and Wild Life. (g) Mining and Geology and (h) would be on Municipal Affairs. Could some other member suggest some other committees, such as labour. I may say that is well known and a well established practice in other Provinces and in both Houses at Ottawa and at Westminster also, to take virtually all the members of the House into one or other of a large number of committees, some members even serve on several and few members fail to get on at least two committees. In this way a great deal of work of the legislative body is done through its committees and the main purpose of such a committee is to initiate things which perhaps would not otherwise be initiated at the time. Take my honourable friends on the opposite side of the House, they are in a position which they have not sought or created and it is a position into which members on the opposite side of the House would normally find themselves under any administration, that is to say where they have to sit back and be subject to the initiative of the Government of the day as the legislation comes into this House in every case, virtually, is brought in by the Government. The exception to that, of course, is the privilege of private members to bring in any private Bill but no Bill may be brought in by a private member involving an expenditure of public money and it might be a pretty sound idea for better administration of the Province if there did exist a number of committees with the special function of studying this or that aspect of Newfoundland life with a view, perhaps, to drafting and submitting to the Government ideas and suggested programs which the Government might or might not adopt and submit to the House as official government policy. There is far more chance of the Government adopting a program if it had been drafted. Hence it seems to me it would be wisdom on the part of this House to follow the universal practice in British Houses and indeed Houses not British as the same system of committees applies in the House of Representatives in the Senate of the Congress of the United States. There I think the committee principle has been carried to excess in the British system. So it seems to me; I am not hot about it, not fanatical about it, but it does seem to me that this House would be wise to follow the practice in effect in other Houses throughout the British Commonwealth and indeed throughout the world. We could have a number of committees set up at the beginning of the session for the purposes of giving special attention to particular phases of the life of the Province such as fisheries, agriculture, wild life, wild fruits and mines and geology and any number of fairly comprehensive subjects, but I do not suggest we may not add quite profitably one or two others.

I have one other observation. The clause, as need arises, has to do with special committees and select committees set up for in particular, a point probably non-recurring or to deal with things arising which are in a quite different category than those that have been suggested as standing committees, which continue throughout the life of the session and would have a much wider field in which to operate.

MR. FAHEY: We know that the fisheries and other matters are very important but none of these matters can be carried out without finance, and I suggest we add a committee on finance which could advise the Government on the financial aspects of various enterprises. I don't know if the committee would consider adding this or not.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is so much a governmental function that the Government could not abdicate that authority. Even if it wished to do so it could not as it has no authority to do. I think that would be setting up a committee which would in a sense usurp or attempt to usurp the functions and authority of the Government itself. I am not just being an obstructionist now, but I think, quite frankly, and I am looking ahead here to the fact that this is probably the final and last revision of the rules for another thirty years or maybe forty years. This, I think, is the third revision or the fourth revision since 1855. The rules of the House are not revised very often and we have to look ahead for more than the present time, rather for possibly thirty or forty years. My honourable friend's suggestion, which I know is intended in good faith, does not appear to be practical. 1893 was the date of the last revision of the rules. So, looking into the distant future, a committee such as my honourable friend suggests might lead to serious clashes and inconveniences to say the least. It would be a sort of a second Government in a way within the House of Assembly.

MR. FAHEY: I did not have that in mind but my opinion is this, the fisheries or agriculture committees for instance may make certain recommendations to the House and a finance committee could advise them. I don't mean they could run the affairs of the country but in their report, say for instance, they felt the province could afford it this year, it would still be up to the Government to decide. It is just a suggestion merely, committees may make recommendations but the outcome depends on the finance and a finance committee could advise them.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The financial committee could not possibly hope to have the information and data upon which to base sound recommendations, unless it were made up entirely of members of the Cabinet. A financial committee of this House, could not possibly have the definite dependable information, that would enable it to make recommendations, involving public expenditure as the case might be. A committee could not hope to equip itself with the necessary dependable knowledge that would make its recommendation on financial matters worth listening to.

MR. FAHEY: It was just a suggestion, not a motion.

Passed.

MR. CHAIRMAN: That is the end of the Standing Orders.

MR. SPEAKER: Mr. Chairman, there is one more Standing Order, No. 114. Standing Order 115 is not written, that will only be done when the House finally adopts the revised rules. That is, that all the rules and Orders heretofore in existence are hereby repealed. It is unnecessary to write that.

MR. FAHEY: What date will that be repealed?

MR. SPEAKER: The House will do that, if they do adopt these rules, the House will pass that in Order No. 115.

MR. SMALLWOOD: There is one thing I have just discovered, the Speaker has shown me the Manitoba rules and I notice, under private Bills, they are much more up to date than we are. When Private Bills are written on incorporation of a company, they charge the same fees as the Supreme Court or Registrar, and under these rules a company could come in and ask to be incorporated for one million dollars, in other words it is cheaper to come to the House, than to go to Court.

MR. HIGGINS: A company should not be allowed to make use of this House in order to save fees.

MR. SPEAKER: It was not an oversight. It was just that I was not at all competent to set down these fees. The scale is but a tentative one, laid down on the scale of fees paid to officers of the House at the moment. The clerk is working for the House, but when he has to devote his time to private Bills, he is then working for private concerns. Therefore a scale of fees, and a very moderate one, has been set down in that Standing Order, but it is not an attempt to assess what the House of Assembly should set up and of course the committee may alter it, at its own pleasure. It does not apply to charges the House might make to private companies.

MR. HIGGINS: The point is, should a corporation be permitted to avail of the services of the House of Assembly, in order to avoid paying fees which would ordinarily go to the Province. In this Province, any persons desiring to be incorporated have to pay certain fees depending on the capital value of the company, and the Registrar of Deeds and Companies takes care of this. Now this means, a company comes in here and gets incorporated for a small fee, and the Province gets nothing at all.

I think we ought to talk this matter over, and I think the thing started because in the olden days a company had to have a certain capital, and usually came to the House to be incorporated in those days.

MR. CURTIS: I suggest the committee rise, report progress and ask leave to sit again after the next order.

MR. CURTIS: I move we refer back to 76.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

Section 29 read and passed.
 Section 30 read and passed.
 Section 31 read and passed.
 Section 32 read and passed.
 Section 33 read and passed.
 Section 34 read and passed.
 Section 35 read and passed.
 Section 36 read and passed.
 Section 37 read and passed.
 Section 38 read and passed.
 Section 39 read and passed.
 Section 40 read and passed.
 Section 41 read and passed.
 Section 42 read and passed.
 Section 43 read and passed.
 Section 44 read and passed.
 Section 45 read and passed.
 Section 46 read and passed.
 Section 47 read.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): The words "or in a quarry to be deleted." (Sec. 47).

Passed.

Section 48 read and passed.
 Section 49 read and passed.
 Section 50 read and passed.
 Section 51 read and passed.
 Section 52 read and passed.
 Section 53 read and passed.
 Section 54 read and passed.
 Section 55 read and passed.
 Section 56 read and passed.
 Section 57 read and passed.
 Section 58 read.

DR. POTTLE: In No. 58, the word "Hoist" to be inserted in last line of (1).

Passed.

Section 59 read and passed.
 Section 60 read and passed.
 Section 61 read and passed.
 Section 62 read and passed.
 Section 63 read and passed.
 Section 64 read and passed.
 Section 65 read and passed.

Section 66 read and passed.
 Section 67 read and passed.
 Section 68 read and passed.
 Section 69 read and passed.
 Section 70 read and passed.
 Section 71 read and passed.

DR. POTTLE: There is an amendment to sub-clause (2). There are two or three inserts.

Instead of the last sentence, we could make it another clause 72 (2) Begin "after to," and delete the rest of the sub-clause and substitute the following: "Where the total weight supported by the rope consists of the material hoist, plus the weight of the conveyance, plus the weight of that portion of the rope, that extends from the head sheave to the conveyance."

Section 73 read and passed.
 Section 74 read and passed.
 Section 75 read and passed.
 Section 76 read and passed.
 Section 77 read and passed.
 Section 78 read and passed.
 Section 79 read and passed.
 Section 80 read and passed.
 Section 81 read and passed.
 Section 82 read and passed.
 Section 83 read and passed.
 Section 84 read and passed.
 Section 85 read and passed.
 Section 86 read and passed.
 Section 87 read and passed.
 Section 88 read and passed.
 Section 89 read and passed.
 Section 90 read and passed.
 Section 91 read and passed.
 Section 92 read and passed.
 Section 93 read and passed.
 Section 94 read and passed.
 Section 95 read and passed.
 Section 96 read and passed.
 Section 97 read and passed.
 Section 98 read and passed.
 Section 99 read and passed.

Section 100 read and passed.
 Section 101 read and passed.
 Section 102 read and passed.
 Section 103 read and passed.
 Section 104 read and passed.
 Section 105 read and passed.
 Section 106 read and passed.
 Section 107 read and passed.
 Section 108 read and passed.
 Section 109 read and passed.
 Section 110 read and passed.
 Section 111 read and passed.
 Section 112 read and passed.
 Section 113 read and passed.
 Section 114 read and passed.
 Section 115 read and passed.
 Section 116 read and passed.
 Section 117 read and passed.
 Section 118 read and passed.
 Section 119 read and passed.
 Section 120 read and passed.
 Section 121 read and passed.
 Section 122 read and passed.
 Section 123 read and passed.
 Section 124 read and passed.
 Section 125 read and passed.
 Section 126 read and passed.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): In that connection, I would like to ask the honourable Minister, while I know that is a good safety measure, I don't think that rule is carried on to the letter of the law in most cases if a person places a one foot hole, a 2 foot line would be the outside.

DR. POTTLE: I am advised that it is a rule adhered to now.

Section 127 read and passed.
 Section 128 read and passed.
 Section 129 read and passed.
 Section 130 read and passed.
 Section 131 read.

DR. POTTLE: "B" and "C" should be one paragraph instead of one and two.

Passed.

Section 132 read and passed.
 Section 133 read and passed.
 Section 134 read and passed.
 Section 135 read and passed.
 Section 136 read and passed.
 Section 137 read and passed.
 Section 138 read and passed.
 Section 139 read and passed.
 Section 140 read and passed.
 Section 141 read and passed.
 Section 142 read and passed.
 Section 143 read and passed.
 Section 144 read and passed.
 Section 145 read and passed.
 Section 146 read and passed.
 Section 147 read and passed.
 Section 148 read and passed.
 Section 149 read and passed.
 Section 150 read and passed.
 Section 151 read and passed.
 Section 152 read and passed.
 Section 153 read and passed.
 Section 154 read and passed.
 Section 155 read and passed.
 Section 156 read and passed.
 Section 157 read and passed.
 Section 158 read and passed.
 Section 159 read and passed.
 Section 160 read and passed.
 Section 161 read and passed.
 Section 162 read and passed.
 Section 163 read and passed.
 Section 164 read and passed.
 Section 165 read and passed.
 Section 166 read.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): One of these items must always be certified by the Boiler Inspectors.

Passed.

Section 167 read and passed.
 Section 168 read and passed.
 Section 169 read and passed.
 Section 170 read and passed.

DR. POTTLE: If the House agrees, Mr. Chairman, I would suggest that the regulations under the general heading of "Electric" be deferred, which would embrace from 171 to 264.

MR. FOGWILL: I would like to draw the attention of the Minister, to 213, page 36. I would like to suggest that it should provide for guards on lamp holders made of metal, covered with guards. We can come back to it tomorrow, I just mentioned it now. It does not provide for the protection of the fittings themselves. All lamp holders should be approved and of metal construction. It might help the committee to get the electrical code.

Sections 171 through 264 were deferred.

Section 265 read:

MR. FAHEY: It says: "If it had been prepared by that mine." Suppose the mine does not prepare. The miner should be given a copy free. Should not the Company be compelled to give out copies of the regulations?

DR. POTTLE: Paragraph (2) takes care of that.

MR. SPENCER: It very definitely was a regulation, back as far as 1910 and since, and I have personal knowledge of it because I have worked with them and every man is provided with a copy on employment—provided with a book of the rules and regulations. I take it that is what is referred to, that the copies should be provided free. That very definitely was the case back as far as 1910. It is a very good point, and I don't think a company would object, it is a small thing in a way, and I agree with the honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs they should be compelled to give them if necessary.

DR. POTTLE: We might reconsider 165 and what is now 265 become 266 and insert 265 (1) Copy of such approved work of special rules shall be supplied by the operation, to each workman employed free of charge. No. 266 says a sufficient number of the regulations shall be supplied by the Department.

Section 267 read and passed.

Section 268 read.

DR. POTTLE: In 268, put in a phrase after Act: In addition to any other penalties imposed by this Act or regulations.

Passed.

Section 269 read and passed.

Section 270 read.

MR. SPENCER: That particular clause is ridiculous, in itself. In my opinion, every person who enters a mine or nearby working place or on the surface nearby is guilty of such offence. What happens to him? The customary thing is just dismissal, or is it in the hands of the operator.

MR. HIGGINS: Does that apply to workmen or anybody?

DR. POTTLE: The clause is wide enough, it is covered by 271. I think it should be added, at the discretion of the employer, to instant dismissal or something like that.

MR. HIGGINS: Is the offence applicable to visitors?

DR. POTTLE: Any person would include anybody.

MR. HIGGINS: Suppose I went to Bell Island Mines, under the influence, would I be included?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Everybody is included, the penalty is under 271. Liable on summary conviction for every day continued or repeated. Well now any man may get drunk once, he may kill a dozen people while drunk, he may need to be drunk only once, one part of a day, where is the penalty?

MR. HIGGINS: There is no penalty. According to this, every dog is entitled to one bite.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is pretty serious, and may involve the life of a number of people, and if as a result of the offense, people are killed. It may happen just once, but what is the penalty there?

MR. SPENCER: It appears to me that that matter should be left to the discretion of the employer.

Passed.

Section 271 read and passed.

Section 272 read and passed.

Section 273 read and passed.

Section 274 read and passed.

Committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The earlier motion was that the Revised Rules be reconsidered presently, it is now near the closing hours, and I would like to move it be considered tomorrow instead of presently. I move the remaining Orders be deferred.

Carried.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I move that the House adjourn until tomorrow, at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

MONDAY, May 7, 1951.

The House opened at three of the clock.

MR. COURAGE: Point of privilege: I have here, Sir, a copy of the "Daily News," May 3rd, on page 7 of which there is an anonymous letter to which I take strong exception. It is signed "Justice." Mr. Speaker, shall I pass it to the Clerk, or shall I read it?

MR. SPEAKER: Whichever the honourable member prefers.

MR. COURAGE: It reads as follows:

SAD STATE

"Editor, Daily News,

Dear Sir,

When ex-Natural Resources Minister, Edward Russell, attempted to speak on a point of privilege from his seat in the House of Assembly, on Monday last, he was told by the Premier, that he was out of order, and the Speaker, or the deputy, who was filling in, was asked to give his ruling.

The Speaker, then unable to give the necessary ruling off hand, came back on Tuesday, and upheld the Premier's verdict, which was not unexpected by those who were listening in.

Have we not reached a rather sad state of affairs, when an elected representative of the people, cannot rise in his seat, "in the peoples' House," and defend himself against an attack, made upon him in a newspaper? Such procedure, I feel certain, cannot be equalled outside the Iron Curtain.

A few weeks ago, we listened to the Premier launching a vicious attack from his seat upon a newspaper man, who made an honest attempt to write a true story.

When Aneurin Bevan and Harold Wilson saw fit to launch an attack upon their own Labour Government, in England, a few days ago, when they disagreed on policy, they were not fired out of the Government, why? Because they too were elected representatives of the people and were entitled to their opinions.

Mr. Russell is entitled to his opinion, under democratic rule, and has a perfect right to free speech. It is one of the principal points in the four freedoms.

There is but one answer to it, that the little man with the bow-tie is fast becoming a dictator.

—JUSTICE, Bonavista."

Mr. Speaker, I would like to begin by saying that I do not relish the thing which I have to do, rising to call this most serious breach of privilege, to the attention of the honourable members of this House. I would like to say that, as far as I know, it is an absolutely unheard-of thing for Mr. Speaker's ruling or the ruling of the Deputy Speaker ever to have been criticized within the British Commonwealth of Nations. I have never heard of such a thing before. Sir, this is not a party measure, it goes beyond that, I have not consulted with any member on any side before rising to this point of privilege. I would ask the honourable members to weigh this carefully, and I say here, that I am certain the honourable member for Bonavista South had nothing whatever to do with this, and I am certain he would be the last one to defend the action.

An anonymous letter is the most poisonous and cowardly of all forms of attack, which may be made on anyone. The writer is not liable; it is the publisher who is liable; it is the publisher who publishes it, and draws it to the attention of whoever reads this newspaper. I believe firmly in the freedom of the press; I am fully convinced that the freedom of the press is necessary to democracy. But, Mr. Speaker, this is not criticizing liberty but it is a case of taking license.

Let me refer back to certain words, to which I take exception ". . . upheld the Premier's verdict." "Not unsuspected to those listening." Now, Sir, this suggests the verdict given was such because the person who made the point of order was the Premier. This is not true. When the Speaker fills that Chair, or the Deputy Speaker, he is conscious of the high position he holds; I know I am perfectly conscious of it, and when a ruling is given, it is given by the Speaker of the House, and not the member of any Party. The Speaker has no friends, any more than a supreme court, and certainly, as I said before, it is not the right of any person to impute such motive as favouritism to the Chair of the House of Assembly.

As I said before, Mr. Speaker, this is a vicious attack upon the dignity and privileges of this House, and such procedure, I feel could not be equalled outside the Iron Curtain. When a Speaker gives a ruling, it is not his own, but based upon the authority recognized by Canadian Houses of Parliament. May, the great British Parliamentarian, Beauchesne and also Professor Bowinot, are the three authorities, and in giving his ruling, the Speaker, whether I or Your Honour, always quotes chapter and verse from such authority, which I did, and I gave the ruling which has been questioned. I had no desire whatsoever to stop any member from speaking; none whatsoever. I gave the ruling as I saw it, and as my conscience allowed.

Mr. Speaker, it is important that the freedom of the press be maintained, but it is also as important, that the Speaker of this House, when handing down a ruling, be not exposed to venomous and cowardly attack by anonymous letter writers. I do not know what the action of the House will be in this matter, but I felt in duty bound to bring it to your attention.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member must conclude with a motion.

MR. COURAGE: I move, Sir, that this House demand a public apology from the publishers of the "Daily News." That is the least that can be done.

MR. SPEAKER: Just what is the pleasure of the House? The House has three courses open, if I may say so: Take the matter into consideration here and now; postpone it to some other day, by referring it to a Select Committee, or ignore the matter by moving Orders of the Day.

MR. CASHIN: I think there was a similar case about a year ago, when I as a member of the House objected to a somewhat similar attack by another journal and at that time, it was referred to a Select Committee of the House, and I never heard any more about it after that. At least personally or officially, I did not hear. I have not read the letter in question, I probably should apologize for not reading the paper more thoroughly. I generally read the outside page and the editorial. The anonymous letters I never read, letters where the writer has not the guts to come out under his own signature. I would suggest therefore that this matter be referred to Committee of the House, to be investigated, and I hope it does a better job than it did in my case, a year and a half ago, if the House accepts my suggestion.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, it does seem to me the House must take a very grave view of the attack made upon any member of it, in connection with anything he does or says in the House in pursuance of his duty as a member. The responsibility to do something about it is clearly all the greater, when the attack is made upon the House itself. Mr. Speaker represents the House and if an attack can be made upon the honour and impartiality of Mr. Speaker, by the same token, an attack can be made upon the honour and impartiality of the Chief Justice of Newfoundland, upon the Lieutenant Governor. Indeed I do not know, but that an attack upon Mr. Speaker is far more serious an offence than one upon the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Surely Mr. Speaker can make rulings in this House without subjecting himself to attack in the public press, more especially this venomous kind of attack by an anonymous writer who works in the Daily News Office, I think I recognize the style of writing, so much so that I think I could name it outright, the author of the letter, as well as all other anonymous letters of the same person in the Daily News Office, because they have something which gives them away in every one. If, as I say, the Speaker of the House cannot make his rulings without opening himself to attack in the public press by an anonymous writer, then we are sinking very low indeed, because an attack upon Mr. Speaker is an attack upon every member of this House. If every member of this House could not feel sincerely, that Mr. Speaker is impartial while he sits in the Chair and while he fulfils his duties as Mr. Speaker, then, Mr. Speaker ought not to occupy the Chair, and the moment that any member of the House forfeits his respect for Mr. Speaker, there is something wrong either with Mr. Speaker or with the member. I think the best procedure to take is the one suggested by the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland. I do not know, I have no particular views on that matter, but that we ought to do something I am quite sure. Whether it would be the suggestion contained in the motion of the honourable member for Fortune and Hermitage, that a public apology be demanded of the Daily News or some other course, I frankly admit I do not know. Perhaps members of the House would care to express their opinion in that matter as it is a matter affecting every member of the House regardless of party ties or anything else.

Now that we are two years or slightly more under restored responsible legislative government, we can already see the thin edge of the wedge of scurrilous attack, scurrilous anonymous attack upon no less a person than the great commoner of Newfoundland, the Speaker himself. How long will it be before the same scurrilous, obscene, anonymous letter writers will begin to attack the private character of the members of this House, for things they say or do in the House? I refer not to what may be said in the public press by any member of this House, without regard to any deeds or utterances outside the House. If I were to come in here and raise as a matter of privilege every attack made on me, in the public press, anonymously or otherwise I would keep the House busy dealing with them. In fact I have not the right to do that, but only to object when my deeds or utterances in this House are criticized in the public press, and I have far more right and duty to protest when an attack is made not upon myself, but upon the person of the House itself, on the honourable Speaker. It is not a party measure. I was just about to make a statement, when I found the honourable member was on his feet; I did not know what he was going to say. But this is an attack upon all of us who are members of this House.

MR. JOHN G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I presume, Mr. Speaker, this is going to be followed out in the case of any other attack made upon anyone else. I have heard private members attacked here. I know nothing about the letter. I have nothing to do with it, I never saw it.

MR. SPEAKER: It is the duty of Mr. Speaker merely to declare a prima facie case of privilege existing or not. I have declared that prima facie case does exist. My own personal feelings do not enter into it at all, as the honourable Deputy Speaker said, he never heard of a case of an attack on Mr. Speaker, neither have I. In the present instance I have searched for it but can find no reference either in May nor Beauchesne.

But honourable members must distinguish and understand what does constitute a point of privilege. Page 83 of the third issue of Beauchesne Parliamentary Rules and Form reads as follows:

Libels upon members and aspersions upon them in relation to Parliament and interference of any kind with their official duties, are breaches of the privileges of the members.

On that one sentence alone I base my decision. Let me read another sentence for the benefit of members:

Libels on members have also been constantly punished: but to constitute a breach of privilege they must concern the character or conduct of members in that capacity, and the libel must be based on matters arising in the actual transaction of the business of the House.

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, if I, while speaking here, make a statement and a paper either on its own initiative or quoting someone else reports it wrong, could I bring that up in the House again and contradict it? Would that come within the ruling you just read, Sir? I am all confused on the matter of privilege.

MR. SPEAKER: I can not answer; Mr. Speaker may not answer a hypothetical question.

Did I understand the honourable member to second the motion of the honourable member for Ferryland?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I prefer to hear further expressions of opinion in the House. I do not actually second it.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the only thing we can properly do is second the motion made by the honourable member for Ferryland. This thing has come up rather suddenly. I have not seen the letter and I have heard of it now for the first time. It seems to me, under the circumstances, the proper thing would be to appoint a committee to make recommendations. I second the motion of the honourable member for Ferryland.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is that the matter of bringing a point of privilege be referred to a select committee.

MR. HORWOOD: I submit that no notice be taken, that the House do not take cognizance of the motion until the document is laid on the table here.

MR. SPEAKER: That is quite true. (Document tabled).

The motion is now in order.

Might I name the select committee to consider standing orders as the committee to consider this motion, with the addition of the honourable member for Ferryland to replace the honourable Mr. Quinton, who is no longer with us.

MR. CASHIN: What is that you say, Mr. Speaker?

MR. SPEAKER: If you have no objections, I appoint you to this committee to consider this matter, replacing Mr. Quinton.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I take it there is a committee already to deal with it.

MR. SPEAKER: Honourable the Attorney General, Mr. Higgins, Mr. Fogwill—unfortunately I have not the list. I will read the list before we adjourn today.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, in response to my invitation telegraphed to Mr. Timmins, the General Manager of Labrador Mining arrived in St. John's Friday night by private aircraft, and spent some hours with me on Saturday morning. We discussed conditions under which Newfoundlanders have been working on construction of the railway from Seven Islands to Knob Lake. The General Manager was authorized to speak for Mr. Timmins and agreed that the Government of Newfoundland should appoint a special representative to be stationed on the construction job to act as liaison officer with a view to removing differences and making agreeable relationships. He undertook also to have the expenses and salary of the special representative paid by the Company, so that this will cost the treasury nothing. I expressed on behalf of the Government the hope that this arrangement will result in much more pleasant conditions for Newfoundlanders working on the construction job in Labrador.

Presenting Petitions

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I have the honour to table a statement today which was made in the House of Commons in Ottawa. This statement has to do with United States Bases in Newfoundland. It reads as follows:

STATEMENT BY THE PRIME MINISTER

on the

NEWFOUNDLAND LEASED BASES AGREEMENT

House of Commons, Ottawa,
May 1, 1951

"I have a statement relating to the United States leased bases in Newfoundland, about which the Permanent Joint Board on Defence has made certain recommendations.

In March 1941, as hon. members will recall, the United Kingdom leased to the United States for 99 years land for naval and air bases in several colonies and territories including Newfoundland. This Leased Bases Agreement empowered the United States to establish and operate naval and air bases, and also provided extensive rights and privileges for the United States forces to be stationed at these bases. These rights related to such things as the jurisdiction of courts, customs and excise taxes, income tax, and military postal facilities. Pursuant to this agreement the United States established and still maintains four bases in Newfoundland. These are :

Pepperrell Air Force Base near St. John's.

Harmon Air Force Base near Stephenville.

McAndrew Air Force Base at Argentia.

The Naval Operating Base at Argentia.

On February 10, 1949, in the course of the debate on union with Newfoundland, I made a reference to these Leased Bases. It might be useful if I repeated what I said then. It is as follows :

"If and when Newfoundland becomes a part of Canada, those leases will still be valid leases affecting the lands described in them. They contain provisions which go beyond the provisions to which the Canadian Government has agreed with respect to anything done by the United States Government in the territory of Canada, and we hope that it will be possible to get the government of the United States to agree that it will not exercise those rights in a manner that would offend against our rights of sovereignty in Newfoundland. But that is something that will have to be brought about by negotiation and agreement with the government of the United States. The situation is the same as if the hon. member, having a farm, leased a building lot on it for ninety-nine years and then sold his farm. The acquirer would have to take the farm and respect the agreement the hon. member had made with regard to the building lot. But he could go to the man who had the lease on the building lot and try to make a new deal with him. That is what we intend to try to do with the government of the United States. But if they are not disposed to make any change in the arrangement, we shall be obliged to respect the rights that exist there, just as we shall be obliged to respect as a fact the existing situation in the territory of Newfoundland.

Before the union with Newfoundland we informed the United States Government that the Canadian Government hoped the United States would consider relinquishing some of the extraterritorial rights conferred by the 1941 Agreement on United States forces in Newfoundland. The Canadian request said, in part :

"In the opinion of the Canadian Government the prospective change in the status of Newfoundland justifies a modification of the 1941 Bases Agreement in respect of the Newfoundland Bases in order to bring that Agreement into accord with the principles which, for many years, have governed the defence relations between Canada and the United States.

Thus the joint statement issued by the Prime Minister of Canada and the President of the United States on February 12, 1947, refers to the 'underlying principle' that 'all cooperative arrangements will be without impairment of the control of either country over all activities in its territory', and the Recommendation of November 20, 1946, of the Permanent Joint Board on Defence, which has been accepted by both governments, states that defence co-operation projects in either country should be agreed to by both governments, should confer no permanent rights or status upon either country, and should be without prejudice to the sovereignty of either country."

In seeking the modification of provisions of the lease, the Canadian government realized, as I have indicated, that we were asking the United States to give up legal right of undoubted validity. As is customary in our discussions with the United States the request was considered by the United States authorities on a higher plane than the plane of strict legality.

Our two governments decided to ask the Permanent Joint Board on Defence to examine and report on the Canadian request. The Board undertook an exhaustive study of the complex questions involved, and the United States members, on behalf of their government, co-operated in the spirit of friendship in the search for a solution.

In March 1950, the Board formulated a Recommendation which has now been officially approved by both governments. This approval, which it is proposed to incorporate in an Exchange of notes, will constitute a modification of the Leased Bases Agreement. I am sure that all hon. members will share the appreciation felt by the government of the decision of the United States to give up voluntarily certain rights which were legally conferred for 99 years by the 1941 Agreement, before Newfoundland became a province of Canada.

The Recommendation of the Joint Board is in four parts which relate to Income Tax, Custom and Excise-Postal Privileges and the Jurisdiction of the Courts. I shall now table the Recommendation and give a brief explanation of the effect of each part.

First: Income Tax

On June 12, 1950, a new Double Taxation Convention between Canada and the United States was signed. It has been approved by the Parliament of Canada but is awaiting ratification in the United States. When it comes into force it will replace certain exemption provisions now in the Bases Agreement. In addition the Board recommends that the United States waive the exemptions given by the Bases Agreement on contractor's profits, on United States civilian employees of such contracts and on the families of these employees. This part of the Recommendation will place income tax exemptions of United States personnel in Newfoundland on the same basis as in the rest of Canada.

Second: Customs and Excise

The United States will also waive duty and tax exemptions given by the Bases Agreement on:

- (a) contractor-owned equipment,
- (b) personal belongings and household effects of contractors and their United States employees other than on first arrival, and
- (c) Individual purchases in Canada by United States personnel.

Customs and excise exemption for Post Exchanges and Service Clubs will continue, it being understood that the United States authorities will endeavour to increase purchases for these institutions in Canada and will take special steps to prevent abuse of privileges continued under the agreement.

Third: Postal Privileges

Originally Canada asked for replacement of United States military postal facilities by Canadian Post Offices. Although the United States authorities were not prepared to accede fully to this request, under the Board's recommendation the United States will not establish normal civilian postal offices and will limit the use of their Army Post Office system strictly to mail destined to United States territory or to other United States Army Post Offices.

Fourth: Jurisdiction of the Courts

This part of the Recommendation covers four matters:

(i) The United States waives all rights of jurisdiction permitted under the Bases Agreement, over British subjects and over aliens other than United States citizens;

(ii) The United States suspends for five years exercise of rights of jurisdiction over United States civilian personnel and all other rights conferred by Article IV of the Bases Agreement, subject to revival on notice thereafter or in event of war or other emergency;

(iii) The Canadian government will seek to amend the Visiting Forces (USA) Act to permit of compulsory attendance of witnesses at United States courts-martial;

(iv) The Canadian Government will seek legislation to protect security interests of the United States forces in Canada, as required under the Bases Agreement.

The Recommendation that the United States give up or suspend jurisdictional rights under Article IV of the Bases Agreement is conditional upon the Canadian Government, with the concurrence of the Newfoundland Government, giving to the United States Government assurances that the new arrangements will in practice give United States officials in Newfoundland a degree of jurisdiction comparable to that which they have in fact exercised up to now. The Attorney General of Newfoundland has been consulted and he advises that there will be no difficulty about giving these assurances because, in fact, the United States officials have exercised in a reasonable manner their jurisdictional rights under the Bases Agreement. They have not, for example, attempted to exercise the jurisdiction over Canadian citizens which the Bases Agreement gave them.

What the condition and the assurances mean is that, in practice, members of the United States forces in Newfoundland will generally be dealt with by United States service courts, which is a reasonable and sensible arrangement in the circumstances. Corresponding treatment is in fact given to Canadian forces which may be stationed from time to time in the United States.

The Board's Recommendation will provide the occasion for the extension of the Visiting Forces (USA) Act as revised to Newfoundland and remove what is perhaps the most objectionable feature of the Bases Agreement, namely, the right of jurisdiction by United States courts over Canadian citizens.

Referring to the Recommendation as a whole, it meets most of the specific requests which the Canadian Government originally put forward. Obviously, a negotiation of this kind required a willingness on both sides to give and take. In the view of the Canadian Government, the Recommendation removes the features, most objectionable to us, of the taxation and jurisdictional rights conferred by the Leased Bases Agreement.

The government will in due course be making to the House five legislative proposals following in whole or part from the Recommendation.

In connection with the Customs Tariff it has already been proposed, in the Budget Speech, that Item No. 708 of the Customs Tariff should be revised. At present it deals with customs privileges for the United Kingdom Government only.

In connection with military post offices, an enabling clause will be included in the proposed Bill to amend the Post Office Act.

In connection with the Recommendation for security legislation, there will be two measures. First, a Bill along the lines of the Official Secrets Act is proposed for the protection of allied governments. Second, a new section in the Criminal Code for the protection of property of allied forces is also under consideration.

It is proposed to add to the Visiting Forces (USA) Act a new section under which the Governor in Council would have authority to provide by regulation for compulsory attendance of witnesses before United States court-martial of the Canadian forces. This amendment will, for convenience, be included in a Canadian Forces Bill which will deal with a number of other subjects related to defence.

Of the five proposed legislation measures, only one will refer expressly to United States Forces, and that is the amendment to the Visiting Forces (USA) Act. When the time comes to examine the other four it will, I think, be agreed that, quite apart from the Recommendation of the Permanent Joint Board on Defence, they are useful and possibly necessary measures to enable Canada to discharge obligations under the North Atlantic Treaty.

The Government believes that on consideration, hon. members will agree that the solution which has been recommended by the Board is a reasonable compromise in an admittedly unprecedented situation."

HON. S. J. HEFFERTON (Minister of Education): Mr. Speaker, I beg to present a petition from the residents of the district around Elliston, petitioning for the erection of a cold storage plant at Elliston. I can only repeat what has been already stated here that this matter comes under Federal, not Provincial, jurisdiction, but it contains an alternative prayer for erection of a drier suitable for drying salt fish which comes primarily, I believe, under Provincial jurisdiction.

Since the people of Elliston and neighbouring settlements constitute one of the bigger settlements for prosecution of the fishery and as the fishery is still an important industry in this province and these people are trying to improve the conditions so that they can continue the work which they are accustomed to. I move this petition be tabled and referred to the department concerned.

Petition received and referred to department concerned.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

MR. SPEAKER: I have here a letter from the Secretary of State for Canada, dated May 2, 1951, re resolutions Migratory Birds Convention, signed Gordon Bradley, Secretary of State:

Ottawa,
May 2, 1951.

Dear Mr. Speaker:

I received your letter of April 19 enclosing copies of Resolution adopted unanimously by the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Newfoundland, concerning the Provision of the Migratory Birds Convention Act. I am bringing this Resolution to the attention of my colleagues here.

I may tell you that earlier this year I discussed this matter in Cabinet with the result that the Secretary of State for External Affairs has entered into discussion with the United States Government, with the view of ascertaining whether the terms of the International Convention may be relaxed in so far as restrictions of seabird shooting are concerned.

Yours sincerely,
(Sgd.) GORDON BRADLEY.

Secretary of State.

Hon. R. F. Sparkes,
Speaker of the House of Assembly
of Newfoundland,
St. John's, Newfoundland.

Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on Wednesday move the House into Committee of the Whole on Supply and Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Minister of Finance:

1. To table a statement showing the total amount of revenue collected through the Social Security Act up to March 31st, 1951.

2. To table such information by Districts, showing the amount collected under this Act from each Electoral District.

3. It would be appreciated also, if the honourable the Minister of Finance would table a statement showing the amount of Loans made to various Fish Companies by the Commission Government, giving the names of the Companies and the amount each received. Then another statement showing the amounts guaranteed by the present Government for Industrial Development, the names of the Persons or Companies to whom these guarantees have been made. Also, if any Cash Loans have been made by the Government, to give the names of those receiving such Loans. This information to be given up to date, so that a full financial statement of Loans and Guarantees can be available to the House.

Also to ask the honourable the Minister of Finance:

1. To table a statement showing the amounts of Loans granted by the various Loan Boards under the Chairmanship of Mr. James Baxter,

2. To table the names of the individuals or corporations who have received such Loans, together with the amounts each Individual or Corporation has received.

3. What are the terms of such Loans and what security has been given the Government? Give all particulars in connection with such advances.

Also to ask the honourable the Minister of Finance:

To table a statement showing under the various revenue headings the amount of monies received from the Federal Government for Old Age Pensions, Hospitals, etc., this information not to include Transitional Grants and to cover the revenues for the fiscal year 1950-51.

Also to ask the honourable the Minister of Economic Development to table the following information :

1. The total amount paid to Dr. A. Valdmanis for travelling expenses and hotel bills since his appointment by the Government last year to date.

2. State the various places where Dr. Valdmanis visited on Government business as well as the amount of travelling and hotel expenses incurred on each of these trips.

3. Give a statement showing the amount of travelling or living expenses paid to other members of the staff of the Director General of Economic Development.

4. Table a statement showing the total amount paid to IBEC for conducting a survey in Newfoundland on the prospects of various industries being established in the Province together with a copy of any such report made to the Government on such matters. Did IBEC or any of the Rockefeller Interests expend any sums from their own resources to assist in any of these surveys? If so, give the amount.

5. Give a statement showing the amount paid the Power Corporation of Canada in connection with its work in carrying out a survey of the possibilities of the development of the Water Power in Bay D'Espoir.

6. Is it the intention of the Government to introduce legislation during the present session of the Legislature to give effect to plans for the establishment of a Newfoundland Corporation in which the Government and certain United States Financial interests, outlined in the Speech from the Throne, would co-operate financially and otherwise with a view to further development of the potential natural wealth of the Province of Newfoundland?

7. What progress, if any, has been made by Dr. Valdmanis and the Government in securing financial interests, which would be interested in the establishment of a Pulp and Paper Mill either in Newfoundland or Newfoundland Labrador? Table any correspondence that may have taken place between the Government, Dr. Valdmanis or Financial Interests with reference to the development of such a project.

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, I give notice that I will on tomorrow ask the honourable the Acting Minister for Natural Resources to table the following documents :

1. Copy of letter dated January 12th, 1951, from the then Minister of Natural Resources to the honourable the Minister of Fisheries at Ottawa re a proposal for mink development in Newfoundland.

2. Copy of the above mentioned proposal which was enclosed with said letter.

3. Copy of the proposed estimated expenditure, item by item, to implement the said proposal.

Also to ask the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives to lay on the table the latest report (or reports) of the Registrar of Co-operatives on Credit Unions and Co-operative Societies.

Also to ask the honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives what progress (if any) has been made since March 22, 1951, in negotiations between the Government and the Bonavista Cold Storage Ltd., re the possible expansion of existing facilities for fish processing at Bonavista?

Orders of the Day

Committee of the Whole on Revised Rules of the House.

MR. COURAGE: I believe standing order 67 is outstanding, the one regarding payment of fees for people bringing in private Bills.

MR. CURTIS: I have an amendment, Mr. Chairman, which I propose to make to that section.

MR. HIGGINS: I think the honourable the Attorney General should explain to the House why such corporations would avoid payment of revenue to the country.

MR. CURTIS: As you know, we have a Companies' Act in Newfoundland and a Registrar in the Court House. Any private persons desiring to incorporate a company must pay certain fees. Now the fees outlined in this section 76 are much less than fees payable where companies are incorporated under the Companies' Act, and while it is unusual for companies to apply to the Legislature for registration when they can register under the Companies' Act. Nevertheless if honourable members would refer to the Consolidated Statutes they would see several companies were incorporated by act of parliament. The Eastern Trust and the Avalon Telephone Company were so incorporated. I suggest numbering the present section 76 as No. 76 (1) and adding 76 (2) as follows: "Before a private Bill incorporating or increasing the capital stock company is reported by the Committee to which it is referred, the petitioner, unless the House shall otherwise direct, shall deposit with the Minister of Finance a sum equal to the total amount that would be payable as fees were the company a company incorporated under the provisions of the Companies' Act." I would move that amendment.

Carried.

MR. COURAGE: Are there any points any honourable members would like to raise before the committee rises?

MR. FOGWILL: No. 34 for a point of information: I understand by this rule the motions we go into, supply and ways and means are under one motion and there can be only one amendment allowed altogether during all the period.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think actually there are two motions. I don't think there is but one motion. There is a motion we go into committee on supply and another we go into committee on ways and means. Two separate motions. Maybe the revised rules provide otherwise but normally we go into committee each by separate motion.

MR. FOGWILL: I understand that, but it does not say so in this particular rule. I was just wondering how it would be here where both are together.

MR. SPEAKER: It really is an insignificant point, I think, asking for the authority for one amendment and one sub-amendment. On the budget there is only one amendment officially: Motion is the Speaker leaves the chair. It is either carried or not carried. Only one amendment can be made. It is not a new rule, but one that has been in existence for a long, long time. Only one amendment and one sub-amendment is made to the motion; Mr. Speaker leave the Chair.

MR. FOGWILL: I understand this, but I did not. In Hansard in Ottawa they did have an amendment and sub-amendment by Drew and Coldwell and later when the budget was presented at a later date, another amendment by Mr. Bonell.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Were there any amendments and sub-amendments on committee on supply?

MR. FOGWILL: The supply came before the budget.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I can understand the committee on ways and means as the House does not, in fact, go into committee on ways and means, that is the budget committee until, I think, finally when the debate is concluded. Go in formally and rise again and that is the end of that committee. On committee on supply—that is the estimates—they actually go into committee and there can be an amendment. But on committee on ways and means the amendment or sub-amendment must be along the line of amending the motion to leave the Chair. That is the only motion there is.

MR. FOGWILL: There were two, by two different people.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I am just trying to visualize now, on Wednesday for example, I stand here having given notice today, and move the House into committee of ways and means and having made the motion I speak to it and in so doing deliver the budget speech. Other members then are at liberty to speak to that motion and in so doing are really speaking to the budget and throughout the period of that debate surely have the right to move an amendment and therefore carry the right to move a sub-amendment. Now on supply and ways and means, what amendment can there be?

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Drew made an amendment that the House go into committee on supply.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That was done after they go into committee on supply?

MR. FOGWILL: No on motion. Mr. Drew made the amendment and then made a speech and at the end of the speech made an amendment.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That could surely be only at some point throughout the debate because it is necessary daily to go into committee on supply and take up various departmental votes. It may have been a week or more after the debate proceeding that the amendment was moved, surely not to the original motion because the effect of that would be to have the House not go into committee of supply.

MR. FOGWILL: That is the effect of the motion that "all the words after that be stricken out."

MR. SMALLWOOD: There seems to me to be something wrong with that. In clause 34 I suggest we change the word on to "or" in the last line.

MR. FOGWILL: Does this confine the House to one amendment all through the whole period as it goes through the committee stage?

MR. CURTIS: Any amendment could be made all through the committee stage but only one amendment and one sub-amendment.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Since my honourable friend objects, would it not be better if it were read this way?

MR. FOGWILL: I have no objection, Mr. Chairman.

MR. SMALLWOOD: For the purpose of clarification: Only one amendment and one sub-amendment may be made to the motion that Mr. Speaker leave the Chair for the House to go into committee on supply or into committee on the whole, one motion. If the motion were accepted, the Speaker would have to leave the Chair, that is all. That has been the parliamentary procedure down through the years.

MR. COURAGE: I have the Premier's amendment here.

MR. SPEAKER: Mr. Chairman, I do not want to debate, but I would hate to have that terminology associated with my name. I hope you understand what I mean. It is perfectly clear to all members of the House what is meant, it is not necessary to make it clear to other people. There is one amendment and one sub-amendment: The motion is: I do now leave the Chair, and in making an amendment all the words after are stricken out. The motion is put that the word to leave the Chair ought to stand part of the question. If they stand part of the question Mr. Speaker must leave the Chair. The motion is covered by amendment.

MR. RUSSELL: What would happen if an amendment were passed in the House? "Mr. Speaker would not leave the chair on tomorrow." Supposing an amendment were proposed and passed.

MR. FOGWILL: The Government is then defeated.

MR. RUSSELL: No, no.

MR. SPEAKER: If it is intended to read the word "Now" and that amendment is carried, the House has prevented the Speaker from getting out of the Chair on that day. The amendment takes all words after that which amounts to a vote of sanction of the Government.

MR. RUSSELL: I am not quite clear on the amendment to the motion, "Mr. Speaker leave the Chair for the House to go into Committee," which is not necessarily a vote of sanction at all. The amendment is that the word be stricken out and others substituted.

MR. SPEAKER: If the Government decides to accept the amendment then they are not treating it as a vote of censure. If the Government refuses to accept—

MR. RUSSELL: Is this the intention, Mr. Chairman, that there can be two separate amendments and one sub-amendment to each motion which means a total of two amendments and two sub-amendments?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I may tell my honourable friend right now it would be defeated in any case.

Carried.

MR. FOGWILL: There is one other point I would like to get clear: On a motion the rules of the House are suspended so that Bills may be read a first, second and third time during today. What would be the vote on the suspension of the rules?

MR. SMALLWOOD: I must say, Mr. Chairman, my memory does not serve me on that point but on the general question of suspension of the rules, if I were permitted to refer to remarks of the honourable and learned Leader of the Opposition on the reason, which I am not, I would say he was rather less than fair when he complained of the fact that the House decided at the last session and the session before, toward the close of the session, to suspend the rules. That is the practice universally and has been the practice in this House since this House with probably not even one session as an exception since this House began in 1832 to the last day of its existence including the period since resumption two years ago. It has been the universal practice towards the close of the session to suspend the rules. I have seen it myself, done at least on a dozen occasions. What happens usually is this, after a long and weary session and the summer begins to emerge and members are anxious to get away to their private business, having devoted considerable time to the House away from their private duties, they all agree that the rules be suspended so that they can get the business remaining done more quickly than in the other part of the session. That is universal and has been done in every session of this House held since 1832; it is done in every provincial legislature in Canada and in the House of Commons and the Senate of Canada, in the House of Commons and the House of Lords of the Parliament of Britain, everywhere in the British system. The rules of the House are suspended to enable Bills to be put through various stages in one day or maybe two instead of the normal three or four days. We mean to do it and have done it here in the last two sessions. The suspension of the Rules in the dying stage of the session is a precedent than which no precedent is more universally established. If members are not aware of that, that is not my fault. It is a fact. Now what vote or portion, what majority, what proportion of the total vote enables the suspension to take place? I am afraid on that point my memory does not serve me. Perhaps there is something on it in the existing rules of the House. Let us look up the existing rules and see.

Now this I will say, would like to have on record; it would be a shameful thing and shamefully wrong to utilize the majority to bring about the suspensions of the rules of the House to enable legislation to be rushed through. That is a general principle which no one can contradict. It would be a shameful thing if a Government used its majority to force the suspension of the rules for the purpose of railroading legislation through the House and such a course is never taken. I am glad my honourable and learned friend is back in the Chair, he can confirm my statement when I say it has been the universal practice in the dying hours of a session or in the last three or four days of the session to suspend the rules to clean up the accumulation of outstanding legislation. He nods to say that has been so since 1832 in Newfoundland and in every other British Legislature. At the same time, I do say it would be criminal on the part of any Government, except in those circumstances, to use its majority to force the suspension of the rules for the purpose of railroading legislation through, and this Government has no such intention, and if my honourable and learned friend, the Leader of the Opposition has any fear that the Government has any such desire I can only say I regret that he has any such fear as it indicates in him a complete lack of faith in our good faith, good intentions and he has had no evidence whatsoever to think we would do that kind of thing. There has been no evidence and he should give us the benefit of the doubt.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, I would like to say one thing. I am not denying that this motion when through session after session and when the honourable member for Ferryland nods and agrees he does not need to do so, we all know that. The fact that the members here hear the birds chirping and the sounds of summer in the woods makes them want to leave the House. My point is that it has always been done by unanimous consent and the honourable member for Ferryland should be able to bear me out in that.

MR. CASHIN: With respect to the matter under discussion, it has always been done by the Leader of the Government generally discussing it informally with the Leader and other members of the Opposition. They have usually been just as anxious to finish up as anyone else. I don't believe any Government including this one would bring in any important legislation with the idea of railroading it through. For instance during this session I have asked a question regarding the possibility of legislation on an important matter, and I am sure the Government would not want to suspend the rules of the House to put that matter through. But there was one time in this House I remember when a certain company now doing business, a public utilities company, had a little bill and members on both sides of the House made quite a joke of it at that time when this public utility company would always manage to have a little Bill to rush through at the end of the session. I don't imagine it has any coming through this year. I don't wish to mention any names but the honourable the Attorney General and the Premier know what I am referring to. But I am sure no important legislation would be brought in here under suspended rules which generally come about a week before the closing of the House and are agreed to by both parties on both sides of the House.

MR. FOGWILL: That is my understanding, but I remember in our first session, if my memory serves me correctly, at the end of the session, during the last week, notice was given that the Rules be suspended, and after the Rules were suspended, it was intimated by the Government that the House would close on Wednesday of the week following, but on Monday preceding Wednesday the Social Security Bill was brought in. We did not know one thing about this important piece of legislation, a tax passed to collect three and a half million dollars from the people. I know it was for a very worthy purpose, for the old and infirm, and those who can't work and so on. Nevertheless the rules of the House were suspended the week before this Bill was brought in. That is why we don't want that to occur again. That is why I put the question about the vote to suspend the rules, and I quite understand it is done by the method described by the honourable member for Ferryland, and it is agreed the rules are suspended by both sides. That is in order, provided no important legislation is to be brought in.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I don't recall whether the Social Security Assessment Tax was brought in after notice of suspension of the rules. I don't recall the fact, and there is no reason I should doubt the honourable gentleman's word or question his memory but, this I will say, that I doubt very much my honourable friends opposite were not given as much time as they wanted to discuss the clauses of the Bill. My recollection of that session is this, that if all the speeches made had been applied to one Bill, one of many, it would not have constituted a good debate, on the part of my honourable friends opposite. That is my opinion, that is all I can express, because if he told me what his opinion was, I could not be sure it was in fact his opinion. I can express my own and my own is that all my honourable friends in that session of the House who spoke between them for the entire session would have covered half a debate on one Bill. So, therefore, I have the conviction that if, as my honourable friend says, that Social Security Assessment Act was brought in after the rules were suspended, they were none the less given the opportunity and all the time they wished to take to discuss it, I recall definitely trying repeatedly, asking my honourable friends opposite to get up and debate this, that or the other thing which they did not do while Bill after Bill became law without the utterance of one word from the opposite side of the House.

MR. JACKMAN: It was useless to say anything.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I saw this House in two groups, the Government and the Opposition, consisting of two men who made it pretty miserable for the Government, while it lasted. Two men did that. Now my honourable friends number five, and I say in that first session the session to which my honourable friend refers when the Social Assessment Act was brought in after the rules were suspended, they had all the opportunity they wanted, and may I make this final point: Does it really matter whether first reading is finished today, second reading tomorrow, committee of the Whole the third day, and third reading the fourth day, or it is all done in one day providing every member of the House has all the time he wants to discuss it? Does it really matter in the dying hours of a session?

MR. HIGGINS: That Act was produced in the afternoon, and passed in the afternoon. I was in a committee meeting and it was just about to be passed when I came in.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Again and again, I spoke here on second reading and said if the honourable gentlemen are not ready to proceed they should move adjournment of the debate. If I pointed that out once, I did it at least a dozen times, and it was not my fault, if my honourable friends did not take advantage of it.

MR. JACKMAN: We are political children.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We are all that, all children politically, all two and three and four years old, but if it is the last thing I do on this earth I am going to educate you politically.

MR. COURAGE: I must remind my honourable friend that no mention is supposed to be made of a Bill passed in a former session unless it is to be amended.

MR. SPEAKER: The question seems to be how are the rules of the House suspended and on what occasion. Now I might ask a man for information and believe him when he gives his answer. It does not follow it is correct, and it does not follow I am going to apply that rule. I want several people to tell me, I must have good solid authority for any rule or decision.

Now it is a rule of the House, that every Bill shall receive three separate readings on different days previous to being passed, but when it is desired to advance a Bill two or more stages in any one day then Order No. 61 applies. The old one reads :

Before I came into office, I started to question people whom I thought would know how this is done and I was told it had been done here in Newfoundland by unanimous consent. Now, I have questioned speakers from all over the known world, I have not gotten to Mars, and they tell me we are the only people under the sun who ask for unanimous consent for this motion to advance a Bill two or more stages in one day. However, I would like the House to inform me what procedure they would like carried on. I left it to the House to ascertain in this way its decision. Whenever a member presents a petition therefore, I go on and say who seconds it. If any honourable member says "no," I should put the question and decide by a majority. But the question is shall we continue to supply unanimous consent to rule 58. Towards the end of the session the Premier having given due notice, do so move that all rules be suspended. People who know have told me that is done by putting the motion, "that the rules be suspended for the remainder of the session." That is the authority on which I have been acting.

MR. HIGGINS: Who told you that? The party I asked said no.

MR. SPEAKER: If that were true it would mean I changed procedure on the request of the Premier. What is absolutely true is that I would not change procedure for all the Prime Ministers in the world. At least three different people, some of them past speakers, said when notice is given toward the end of the session, that the rules of the House be suspended, it is by majority vote. For my part, I shall not ask for unanimous consent unless the House tells me so. I ask to have the position clarified.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If my honourable friend the junior member for St. John's East does not object to my being a wind-bag again.

MR. FOGWILL: I did not say you were a wind-bag.

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend is critically correct, as a former Premier said; he did not say I was a wind-bag, but implied it, and if he does not object to my being a wind-bag again, may I make this point: my honourable and learned friend the Leader of the Opposition is such an admirer of tradition and as in the present point that on a majority vote moved by the Premier the rules of the House are suspended, I ask him to accept that tradition when it serves his purpose.

MR. HIGGINS: Now that is going very far with it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: At least I brought the honourable gentleman to his feet. He is not talking away in his seat as usual like a man chewing tobacco in the fore-castle of a schooner. The proper thing to do is to stand on one's feet and speak. I say again, my honourable friend, and I admire him for it, is one who respects tradition especially Newfoundland tradition, and now we hear Mr. Speaker, speak not as Mr. Speaker, but as a member of the House, sitting at this committee table, say that speakers of former governments here have informed him, and others, not speakers, but presumably authorities, former members of this House, that towards the close of a session, on motion of the Leader, that rules be suspended, it is carried by a majority.

MR. HIGGINS: It is always carried by unanimous consent.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In other words, you are telling Mr. Speaker, he is talking through his hat. Mr. Speaker has just told us that various former speakers of the House have informed him, that it was passed by a majority vote, now you say that is all wrong.

MR. HIGGINS: I was speaking to one of those speakers myself. I never heard anybody object, that is the point, it is always given unanimously.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Now, if I were in court, and acting as a lawyer and confined to categorical statements, I must take the statement of Mr. Speaker, that the motion was by a majority vote, and my honourable friend steps in and contradicts this statement and tells us that one speaker says, in fact, it is usually by unanimous consent.

MR. FOGWILL: The Government has the majority, and can carry the motion, is that proper?

MR. HIGGINS: I told the Speaker, exactly what happened. I think Mr. Speaker himself is just as much in the dark. It is very hard to find out what is customary, but I imagine it was unanimously done, and I can see why, as everybody was tired, and the Prime Minister and the Opposition talked together. Anyway, the position is what is the meaning of it now, that is what we are asking?

MR. SMALLWOOD: In fact, the only living former speaker of the House, is Justice Winter, who presumably has been consulted by Mr. Speaker, on this particular point. Now, if my honourable and learned friend, the Leader of the Opposition, who is a respecter of tradition, wants to do as was done in the past, let us do so now and stick strictly to tradition.

MR. HIGGINS: Get the three, and ask them here in the House.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): May I ask, Sir, whether in the period, you are discussing with regard to the last stages, whether it should be a majority vote or unanimous, let us decide whether it should be by a majority or unanimous vote. We could make a debate about anything. I could stand up here and be called a chew mouth also.

MR. HIGGINS: I think, Mr. Chairman, we ought to get this settled. I dislike being told, I try to make things suit my own case. Traditions may vary, as do people's minds, and I went around asking some people, and I am not a bit the wiser, yet I tell you candidly it is never a majority, but unanimous in every case. It may have been the rule, nobody seems to know.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Now, Mr. Chairman, if that is the case, in other words, if there is not a decided voice, one way or the other, why not adopt it as it now stands, namely by a majority of the House?

MR. FAHEY: There is one point I would like to make. If it is agreed upon previously, that is by the Leaders of the Government and the Opposition, that it would be agreeable to suspend the rules on a certain date, then naturally, it would be carried unanimously. Now, while on that matter, I would like to refer to something said earlier this evening; that is the fact, that all that was said here by the members of the Opposition, during the first session, would not make a good debate. The point I want to get at is this, I have just as good a memory as anybody else. We opened in July, and continued until the 7th of December, and the second last day before we adjourned, after the rules were suspended, the Minister of Finance, Mr. Quinton at that time, brought in the Social Security Assessment. I don't think it was very sporty. It should have been brought in at the regular time, and not left until the rules were suspended. But, insofar as all that was said would not make one good debate, the reason why, I might say, was that some of those Bills had nothing we could disagree with, and did not call for debate. Our job is to criticize and ask for explanation, and ask questions, when we have reason. We don't make long speeches. We are certainly not prone on this side to make long speeches. We are not rubber stamps on this side of the House.

MR. COURAGE: That word has been ruled out of order.

MR. FAHEY: We are not dummies on this side of the House. We make up our minds to speak if we think it is necessary that we do. The fact that we were told here this afternoon, that all that was said by the members of the Opposition would not make one good debate, while only last Thursday, the rule was brought in to bring the time down to 45 minutes, it was amended afterwards to two hours, but why should it be brought down to 45 minutes, unless someone must have thought there was too much talk coming from this side of the House? Then we are told, all that was said would not make one good debate. Now, that does not seem like common sense, nor does one part of the statement bear out the other. But getting back to the point before the Chair, the point I want to make is if it is agreed that it is traditional that it is done through both sides of the House, that the rules should be suspended in the last stages, I don't see why we should change. There were no filibusters or hanging up, and until such time as it is impossible to work that way, it would be time enough then to change it.

MR. CURTIS: Thirty-five years ago, I first came into this Chamber, to this House as a reporter, and I think I have attended twenty years at least, either as a reporter, as a visitor, or in some other capacity. In my experience, anytime a Bill was read, and passed more than one stage in a day, it was done by the unanimous consent of the House. But at the end of the session, suspension of the rules is brought about, though I can't remember a division by a majority vote. The only difference in a suspension like that and from day to day, notice of motion is given, and when it comes up, surely goodness, the House can have authority to vote on it. In other words, if I give notice the rules be suspended, obviously, the majority ought to decide. It calls for a division, and a division by the majority. If that were not so, some sessions of this House would never be closed.

MR. HIGGINS: To close the House requires a two-thirds majority. Let us get some certainty about it.

MR. CURTIS: Well let us declare the majority shall suspend the rules.

MR. HIGGINS: To change one rule requires a majority, to change all rules requires a decided majority.

MR. CURTIS: Let us write it in now and be done of it.

DR. POTTLE: Our experience with regards to waiving of the rules, as I recall from last year and the year before, was unfortunate, I am quite sure on one occasion a Bill was held up, because of lack of unanimity but in my view nothing was gained whatever by the deferment of the Bill in question. There was no point of principle involved as I recall and for all practical purposes the Bill might have passed the following stages on that particular day. I think we may as well take precedence and guidance also from other sister Houses throughout the Commonwealth, which have had as much and more experience as we.

MR. FAHEY: Let us look on it the right way, I don't say it would happen with a Liberal Government, (they are too liberal) but the House need only open for a week and adjourn with a majority vote, and the Government could suspend the rules one week after the session opens. Now, I don't say the Liberal Government would do that, but it could happen, and in the past when both sides agreed after the session had dragged on so long, it was time to suspend the rules, it was agreed upon privately by both sides, then the motion was put and naturally carried un-animously, because there was nobody against it. Now, I don't care what they do in Nova Scotia or Ontario, but what is done in Newfoundland, and to me that seems to work out pretty fair, and I think we should carry it on from here on, until such time as we find it is not working, and then change it. The principle laid down in the past was agreed upon by both sides, but with this amendment the Government could suspend the rules the second day of the session. I think the way it was done in the past was the fairest way when both sides agreed to suspend the rules.

MR. SPRATT: I can't agree that that mode of procedure was carried on down through the ages. It was not, I am older than any member here today and though I may not have had the privilege of sitting in this House as long as some of them. I do know as much as the average member today, and I say it was not the procedure. A majority vote carried the motion all down through the years. There is no written statement, nothing to support it, nothing whatever. I am only expressing an opinion, but I say right here and now, it is more sensible to have a written law than to presume that it was done 20 years or 50 years ago. We have no proof whatever. Let us run the country intelligently, and it is fairer to Mr. Speaker and every member to have specific regulations, set up intelligently. The idea that we should do as grandfather and grandmother did is childish.

MR. CASHIN: I don't know whether a motion is in order, but I move that No. 57 and No. 58, as here, stand.

Carried.

MR. CURTIS: There is no necessity to second a motion in committee.

MR. RUSSELL: Is the effect of that motion that the Government may change the rules whenever they wish? I suggest it is a funny position. I would have suggested a two-third majority. I wonder, if it would be in order, if I were to move an amendment that the rules be suspended by a two-third majority.

MR. CASHIN: I would like to point out that the Government whoever they may be, maybe the next time it may be those over on the other side; if they were political fools, they might suspend the rules of the House in order to railroad a Bill through; some important legislation. But it would mean political suicide. A government does not do that; as I see it that rule has gone on for half a century or more, and the Opposition did not object, and to bring in important legislation and push it through after suspension of the rules would be political suicide but they have never done so, to my knowledge.

MR. CURTIS: I move the committee rise and report having passed the rules. I don't want to rush it through. But, I move we rise and report having passed the rules with some amendments.

Revised rules adopted.

MR. SPEAKER: Now, either Mr. Premier or the honourable the Attorney General may name the day on which that report shall be taken into consideration.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I believe the next move in connection with these revised rules, is that the House should name a date on which Standing Order No. 115 will be adopted. In short, name the day on which the rules now passed in Committee of the Whole would be adopted by the House. I do not know how my honourable friends opposite feel, but for my part, I never again want to see a revision of the rules. We have been at them now for several days, and I don't want to have anything more to do with them, I would like therefore to have them adopted now, and the date fixed as today, or tomorrow, or next Monday, or sometime, and be done with them for another 30 years. It was in 1892 they were last revised, and I hope there won't be another revision in our time, and we can go on to more fundamental work. I don't know how my honourable friends opposite feel, but we could put them into effect say Monday next. A bit difficult, I suppose, in the middle of a session, but they are virtually the same as the existing rules, just that there are a few points tightened up and improved.

MR. HIGGINS: I think it is poor procedure to change the rules in the middle of the session. I think they should not be passed at all or go into the whole session. It does not make much difference except on the limitation of speeches—most of us would not want to speak two hours. Personally, I think we should go in and start the next session. It is peculiar to have half the session under one set of rules and half under another. I think we should let the standing orders run for the remainder of this session.

MR. SPEAKER: I might say this—it is out of order as there is no motion before the Chair, but May does not say definitely that standing orders may not be revised or adopted at any time in the session. All that remains now is to name the day on which this report will be taken into consideration, and consider the motion that these rules be adopted and the existing rules repealed.

MR. HIGGINS: I would make a motion, Mr. Speaker, that the revised rules come into effect on the closing day of this present session.

MR. CURTIS: To do that, Mr. Speaker, raises the point of procedure where we would have to go back into committee and write that in. I have been looking here at the back of the existing rules, which tells about the last amendment made May 8, 1893, moved by Morine and seconded by Winter. Now obviously the revised rules come into effect immediately after the amendment is passed. I move that these rules be adopted forthwith.

MR. HIGGINS: There were quite a number of changes in 1931, here.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member has already spoken. As I said a moment ago it is entirely out of order as there is no motion before the Chair. The honourable Premier is trying to suggest a day, and somebody will have to move to consider it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move that the report of the Committee of the Whole, be taken into consideration tomorrow, Tuesday.

On motion "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines" was deferred.

Committee of a Whole on Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Old Age and Blind Persons' Pension Act, 1949."

Section 1 read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

On motion the second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the St. John's Housing Corporation Act, 1944" and the second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Slum Clearance and Development of Housing Accommodation Act, 1950" were deferred.

Second reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Exploits Valley (Closing Hours) Shop Act, 1938."

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Speaker, in moving the second reading of this Bill, I have only to say it is a formal nature. It falls into two parts, the first is designed to include Millertown in the Exploits Valley shop closing area, and secondly to enlarge the said schedule of items permitted to be sold in shops, which are allowed to remain open after the usual closing hour in that area.

Representations have been received from the employees of Millertown as well as the management of one of the long established stores, requesting the inclusion of Millertown in the area, and this legislation will effect this purpose.

As far as the enlargement of the schedule of items to be sold by those stores, which are allowed to operate after the usual closing hours, is concerned, I have only to remark, that this amendment is designed to extend to the Exploits Valley Shop Closing Area, the concessions granted under the amendment of the general shop Act, which passed this legislature a few weeks ago. With these few remarks, Sir, I have much pleasure in moving the second reading of this Bill "An Act to Amend the Exploits Valley (Closing Hours) Shop Act, 1989."

Bill read a second time. To be referred to a Committee of a Whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act to Grant Certain Powers to Public Utilities."

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, the object of this Bill is to enable Public Utilities to acquire lands and rights of ways and other necessities incident to operations. The main paragraph, my honourable friends will notice, is paragraph 3 which refers to the necessity of operations:

"3. Wherever it is necessary for the erection, construction or operation of a main, telephone line, tramway or transmission line or of any road or right of way in connection therewith by a public utility, that the public utility be vested with land or any interest therein, or any rights, privileges or easements in respect thereof, the public utility may by its servants or agents, enter upon such land for the purposes of preliminary surveys and examinations without liability other than for actual damage, and if after such survey and examination no agreement can be made for the purchase of the same, the public utility may acquire the same in the following manner:

- (a) The public utility may apply by petition to the Board showing,
  - (i) The situation of the land affected and the description of the land by metes and bounds;
  - (ii) the names of the owners and occupiers of the land;

- (iii) any encumbrances on the land that are known to, or can be ascertained by the public utility;
  - (iv) the property, rights, easement or privileges sought to be expropriated;
  - (v) the amount which the public utility has offered to pay the person or persons owning or occupying the said land.
- (b) When the petition is presented to the Board, the Board shall forthwith at the expense of the public utility, publish the petition in four consecutive Saturday issues of a newspaper, published in the City of St. John's, and if there is a newspaper published in the locality where the said lands are situate, in four consecutive issues of that newspaper, and in the same issue of the newspaper or newspapers in which the Board publishes the petition, the Board shall publish a notice that at a time and place named in the notice, which shall not be earlier than thirty days after the date of the first publication and notice, the Board will hear any and all objections to the proposed expropriation or expropriations, and a copy of the petition and notice shall forthwith be served on the owner or owners, and occupier or occupiers of the land affected, unless such service be dispensed with as provided in paragraph (a) and the Board for the purpose of the hearing, has power to summon before it any persons, and to require them to give evidence on oath or affirmation, and to produce such documents as the Board deems requisite.

- (c) At the time and place so named the Board shall hear all parties interested and take such evidence as may be adduced and if satisfied that the property, rights, easements or privileges proposed to be expropriated are necessary, it shall thereupon by order declare the same or such portion thereof as may be found reasonably necessary, to be vested in the public utility in fee simple or in such other estate as may be sought by the said petition and which may be deemed advisably by the Board, free from encumbrances, subject to the payment of damages as hereinafter provided.
- (d) Upon the making of such order, the public utility shall cause a certified copy of the order to be filed in the office of the Registrar of Deeds, together with a plan and description of the lands affected by the order.
- (e) Before the fixing of the time and place for a hearing, the Board may require the public utility to deposit with it a sum not exceeding $100.00 to reimburse any expenditure made by the owner or occupier on account of the petition, and in case the application for the order referred to in paragraph (c) is refused the Board may order that a reasonable sum be allowed out of the deposit to defray the expenses of the owner or occupier of the property sought to be expropriated.
- (f) The Board shall without delay proceed to assess the amount of
- the damages for the property expropriated, and on payment of the amount to the owner or occupier the property expropriated shall vest in the public utility in fee simple or in such other estate, as may be deemed advisable by the Board free of encumbrances.
- (g) In case any property sought to be expropriated is found to be encumbered by mortgage or judgment, or where the title thereto is in dispute, payment of the amount of the damages to the Registrar of the Supreme Court shall have the same effect as payment to the owner or occupier and a Judge of the Supreme Court, on the application of any person interested therein, may order the payment out of Court of the amount to the person or persons entitled thereto.
- (h) If the petitioning public utility is in any case unable to ascertain the name of the owner of any property, rights, easements or privileges sought to be expropriated, or if the owner is absent from the Province, or is an infant, or if such ownership is in dispute, the Board may order that the publication of any notice in accordance with this section shall be sufficient service and that the notice need not state the name or names of the owner or owners."

If the Public Utilities want land it may apply by petition to the Board of Public Utilities. A public date of hearing is arranged and the Board proceeds to hear interested parties and decides what would be the fair compensation to give to the owner of the land. There are also provisions, Mr.

Speaker, where the Board finds itself unable to act, and it may refer the matter to the nearest district court, and the district court has power to ascertain just what amount shall be paid by the Public Utilities, to the owner of the land in full compensation. Further, there is a provision for an appeal from the decision of the Board or the district court to the Supreme Court. So I think it fully protects any person affected. I move the second reading of this Bill.

Bill read a second time. To be referred to a Committee of a Whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Law Society Act."

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I would like to move the second reading of this Act which is really an Act with two purposes in mind. In the first place, Mr. Speaker, the Memorial College has been converted into a university, but it is not the intention of the Government to make it a university with a faculty for law or medicine, therefore they feel that arrangements should be made to assist students from Newfoundland, who are interested in taking up the study of law. At the present time, students from Newfoundland who go to universities on the mainland, and take a course in Law;—the Law Society here does not recognize the course they get at Dalhousie, and one or two steps has been necessary. In the first place a student has to join the Law Society of Nova Scotia, and be called to the bar of Nova Scotia, and then get a transfer to Newfoundland. That means the student has to go to the expense of being called to two distinct bars. As a result, the student from Newfoundland, who intends to study law, has to go to Dalhousie, join the Nova Scotia Bar, and pay about $300 for transfer to Newfoundland, and it had already cost him $300 to be called to the Bar of Nova Scotia.

Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, the student has to put in an additional six months as an articled clerk in Nova Scotia, or other such place as the university may be located. Now, we feel, Mr. Speaker, that Newfoundland students taking a course in law at other universities should get the same assistance from the Law Society here and receive the same recognition as would be afforded them, by the Law Societies of the other Provinces. In Nova Scotia, the Law Society recognizes the Dalhousie Degree, and calls its students to the bar when they receive that degree and serve their period of articles. In Newfoundland in the past we have not recognized that degree and students had to come back here and take local exams. We feel our students should receive just the same treatment in Newfoundland as Nova Scotians receive in Nova Scotia. We therefore propose this amendment, which will enable the Law Society here to recognize the Dalhousie course, and the law course in any other provincial university having a faculty of law.

Now in the second instance the Act gives certain protection to the public:

"75A (1) Any person who is a Barrister or Solicitor, who carries on the profession of Barrister or Solicitor is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars and in default of payment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month."

Now the effect of this section is not to prohibit a layman from doing any of these things, but the object is to stop those who are not barristers and solicitors, from carrying on these occupations for a reward. In other words, there is nothing to stop any member of this House or of the public from making a will as long as he does not charge for it. If he is to charge for it, make it a business, we feel he should be a qualified barrister and solicitor and should be able to give service to people paying him. I had a case some years ago, a very old respectable man in this city went out to a nearby cove, and made a will for a man charging $25 for it, and when it was brought back, it was not worth two cents, he forgot to have it signed by the necessary witnesses. To protect people from things like that we are moving this Bill, and it will protect the general public. I may say there is a clause in the Bill which provided if there is no barrister or solicitor in the neighbourhood, there is nothing to stop a layman from acting and in such case asking for payment. I would move, Mr. Speaker, the second reading of this Bill.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): I merely would like for clarification, to ask the Attorney General, in his explanation here—he does not mention a certain section of people, Justices of the Peace. In this Province we know these people have in the past been making up and drafting wills and bills of sale and various other documents, which actually have not been properly drawn up. I do not want to refer to a case, where I myself was a victim but there are a number of us who, have been victims. The Attorney General remarked that, in the event of a lawyer not being available in any particular community, a layman or Justice of the Peace would have authority, to compile such documents but in such case should not have the right to charge a fee for it, and from that point of view, it looks to me merely a matter of trying to turn a little extra business to lawyers, and I am not very keen on that particular bit of legislation. Bpt I feel that if these persons have power or authority to make or draft a document they ought to have the right to collect a fee, and what are we doing now, taking from them that authority? That is the point I would like to have made a little more clear.

MR. SPEAKER: That is a point which would be very well debated in Committee of the Whole.

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, there is still nothing here, to prevent a Justice of the Peace, in a locality where there is a barrister, to prevent him taking affidavits.

MR. CURTIS: No.

MR. RUSSELL: And in isolated areas, they are allowed to do this work and charge a fee.

MR. SPENCER: That is not implied. "This Act shall not be construed to prohibit."

MR. SPEAKER: It is only proper to question the principle of a Bill at second reading.

MR. RUSSELL: It is definitely important to the principle of the Bill, I have had numerous experiences where people came in and charged a man some dollars for doing something not worth five cents.

Bill read a second time. To be referred to a Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Speaker, I ask permission of the House to take up the two Bills that were deferred.

Motion carried.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the St. John's Housing Corporation Act, 1944."

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Speaker, in moving the second reading of this Bill, I do not intend to make any lengthy remarks. The amendments to the St. John's Housing Corporation Act are necessary in view of the fact that the Corporation is rapidly becoming merely a real estate office and the heavy responsibility entailed during the construction period no longer exists. It is felt the number of members constituting the boards should be reduced and section two of the new Bill enables the Lieutenant Governor in Council to appoint whatever number it is felt desirable for the control of the Corporation affairs. Section No. 3 deals with the same matter and simplifies the making of appointments and filling of vacancies on the Board. Section No. 4 is proposed in order to enable the Corporation to co-operate with the Federal and Provincial Authorities' plans, which are proposed for the development of land presently held by the Corporation. Section 5 in the Corporation Act as presently worded makes it impossible to transfer any lands on a fee simple basis since neither the Federal Government, the Provincial Government nor the Municipal Council is permitted to purchase land under existing restrictions. The amendment proposed under section five would enable the Corporation to transfer land on a fee simple basis. Section 6 is proposed in order to enable the Corporation to assess private property in the Housing Area in respect of any improvement resulting from the laying of water and sewerage pipes and the construction of roads, etc., resulting in improvement in the area of private property which, until such assessment can be made, can operate to the detriment of the Corporation. Section No. 7 is a repeal of section 24 of the Housing Corporation Act so as to enable the Government of Newfoundland and the St. John's Municipal Council, if it felt desirable to do so, to make an arrangement regarding the final disposition of the entire Housing Area. I feel, Mr. Speaker, that it is really very important that these amendments should be made and I have much pleasure in moving second reading of this Bill.

MR. RUSSELL: The Corporation may make an assessment, for what purpose? It says here an assessment may be made under subsection (1). Now although I am one of them, I am not speaking for myself at all, but I am just wondering how it would work in the case of an occupant in there with his own house. Can that assessment possibly affect him and what is the purpose?

MR. SPRATT: I would like to the best of my ability to give the information sought by the honourable member.

MR. SPEAKER: However, if the honourable minister speak now he will end the debate.

MR. VARDY: I want to take advantage of the opportunity to interpret that amendment which has reference to private property in the area controlled by the Housing Corporation, which was not taken over by the Corporation, but certain developments took place such as laying of water and sewerage, insertion of culverts and gutters, laying of streets and so on, which as a nett result has improved that property to such an extent it is possible for individuals who own the property to exploit it to the detriment of the Corporation as a whole, and for the purpose of some control on such operations this amendment is brought in. It deals with such activities as the selling for private construction purposes of what was formerly undeveloped land, by the simple means of hooking in to facilities put in by the Corporation. As it stands at the present time there is no authority to say, now, you must pay for the use of these facilities for hooking in to water and sewerage. There is no law providing for it as it does not come under the Municipality, and the Corporation cannot give authority to do it, yet they cannot go to the Municipality and get the authority.

MR. RUSSELL: That answers my question, Mr. Speaker.

Bill read a second time; to be referred to a Committee of a Whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Slum Clearance and Development of Housing Accommodation Act, 1950."

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Speaker, in moving the second reading of this Bill I would like to point out that with regard to slum clearance areas I have no real definite knowledge, but having made a survey of the area a couple of years ago I do know of the requirements, and I am very much interested in the slum clearance, and I would support any suggestions which would tend to promote the work going on in connection with cleaning up the City, particularly in the slum area. Now Section 3 of the Slum Clearance Act, 1950, is removed under this amendment, and a new section substituted, which restricts the Minister representing Newfoundland to deal only with the Minister of Resources and Development, administering the National Housing Act, 1944. The present amendment enables the Government of Newfoundland, if it was felt desirable to do so, to make an agreement with co-operative societies for construction of houses for use of members and acquire them for that purpose. There is no proposal at the moment to implement this section, but it is felt desirable to have the power to do so, if considered to be in the best interest of the original purpose for which the Act was desired.

Section 5 is an amendment of section 9 of the Slum Clearance Act; it is for the purpose of simply fixing the rights of the partnership to expropriate land where a slum clearance project is being proceeded with. The amendment to be inserted after section 28 provided for assessment of land in or adjoining a development area, improvement of which has tended to increase the value of such land and to protect the partnership from being exploited by individuals who could take advantage of the improvements made by the partnership, and reap large profits on such land to the detriment of the program. The amendment simply enables the authorities to make regulations relating to maintenance of water systems, and control of buildings passed over to them for management by the partnership. Section 6 provides penalties for those contravening the regulations, while section 7 exempts housing under management by the authority from rent control restrictions. On this latter amendment it is necessary because this project operated on a rental based on 20% of earnings, and obviously could not be placed in the category of fixed rent, either minimum or maximum, set by anybody other than those responsible for the program. The amendments, Mr. Speaker, and honourable members of the House, are made for one purpose and one only, and that is to bring about better conditions in the slum areas, not alone in the way of making the place better than it now is, but making it better and easier for people who will have the good luck to live in those houses, to work more co-operatively with the Housing Corporation. Mr. Speaker, I have much pleasure in moving the second reading of this Bill.

MR. HIGGINS: While this Act may be meant for the purpose of helping our poor people, clearing away slums, at the same time it may impose burdens on people who have nothing to do with the act. Some other persons who have built up some little bit of property may find themselves in the position of losing that property. In my estimation section 4 and section 2—in on Topsail Road, for instance, there are a number of farm people living there for years and years, for generations, and the Government decides to start building a scheme whereby water will be brought in, pipes laid, houses built and perhaps a sort of residential district made. The people on the opposite side of the street who have the farms find themselves assessed such an amount that the farm is absolutely useless to them. All Housing Corporation Lands are valued at so much a foot and these people who have been farmers for generations find the assessment so enormous they are wiped out. It may be valued at $20, $30, $40 a foot. It is not worth it but owners find their land gone up from $1 to $30 probably, and that is the finish of them.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Does it hurt them if the value goes up?

MR. HIGGINS: Yes, if they want to carry on their farm. The milkmen, particularly in this country, have spent long years bringing milk in the early hours of the morning to various factories where milk is processed. They have done that for generations, the East End people have been there for three or four generations. Now these people would be either forced to give up and let the Housing Corporation take over or carry on their farming until eventually—the Housing development is all right, but this Act is too far ahead of us. For that purpose I could not agree at all. There are certain sections all right, but to get confiscatory powers into effect is going to ruin the farmer. This Act can be used any time, they will have to go out into the country eventually and those people who have carried on the farming industry for generations will have to sell out and the whole of St. John's is going to suffer in that way.

MR. VARDY: Mr. Speaker, I think the purpose of the Act is being misinterpreted. That section there applies exactly the same as the one to which second reading was given a moment ago. This section of the Act, and I admit it is an important one, developed out of the shortsightedness, if I may say so, of the Housing Corporation, in not setting up properly. They left isolated areas of private property. Now what this Act proposed to do is exactly what has been specifically requested by the Federal Government before they will come into partnership.

There is roughly one hundred odd acres of land bounded on the East by Bonaventure Avenue, North by Elizabeth Street, South by Empire Avenue and West by Anderson's Avenue, and there are in that area some two or three private blocks of land. It is the intention or at least the hope of the Federal-Provincial Partnership to be able to develop that land at a substantially high cost. And in order to bring down to a reasonable basis the sale price of the developed land they are going to have to take into consideration a number of isolated privately owned sections which at the present time do not have any road, sidewalks, gutters, water or sewerage but when these are installed these lots which are valueless immediately become highly valuable. It is not the proposal however, to assess any part of the cost of this development against this private property until and unless the owner of that private property attempts to sell it in competition with the Federal-Provincial Land made available to low cost housing in that area to which they have contributed nothing. If it is placed on the market then the Provincial Government would have the right to say to the owner before he sells such land now made valuable, before you sell your land you must contribute your proportionate share of the cost of the development. Otherwise the partnership could be put at a serious disadvantage for the simple reason the lot adjoining would probably sell at a profit of six or seven hundred dollars.

MR. HIGGINS: That is not in the Act, Sir. I quite admit you are right there but the farmer who tries to make a living should not be taken advantage of where building land is made available, but there is nothing in the Act to say that.

MR. FOGWILL: This Bill here is not confined to any particular area, it covers the Island, as I see it. This amendment will give the Authority the right to set up anywhere in Newfoundland and will give the right to assess the land or the property, as the case may be, on the amount the land has increased in value. Now that may be anywhere, Corner Brook, or Grand Falls, and a building lot may be worth a hundred dollars today and next year a thousand or fourteen or fifteen hundred, as the case may be, and the improvement of the land should be assessed and paid by the owner upon the sale of his land. The Crown should not have the right to assess until such time as the land is sold.

MR. VARDY: I would like to say in answer to the point raised by the Member for St. John's East as to limitation of the assessment equal to the amount by which property was increased by reason of such development that these words are the words of the farmer here in Newfoundland and in Ottawa to adequately cover the suggestion that all that would be charged against the land would be the actual cost of the improvement, because they don't want those who contributed nothing to sell their land at a profit in competition with the partnership.

Bill read a second time. To be referred to a Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If it suits the convenience of the House we might recess now and meet again at 8:00 and I so move.

MR. SPEAKER: I have here the list of names for the Select Committee.

MR. COURAGE: Mr. Speaker, since I was the one to raise the question of privilege, probably I should not attend this committee. I suggest I be allowed to withdraw.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member for Fortune and Hermitage is replaced by the honourable Minister for Education.

Recess until 8:00 P.M.

NIGHT SESSION

The House met again at 8:00 p.m.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Act 5, Edward VII, Chapter 10, entitled 'An Act to Encourage the Manufacture of Pulp and Paper in this Colony.'"

MR. CURTIS: I move this Bill be read a second time. I was surprised the other day, in looking up the Act under which Buchans is operating, to find that certain clauses should remain. This amendment asks that the time for filing of returns should be at a set date on or before the 30th day of June in each year. I do not think any explanation is necessary.

Bill read a second time. To be referred to a Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

On motion the Bills "An Act to Provide for the Establishment of Family Courts" and "The Poultry Products Act, 1951" were deferred.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the Memorial University (Pensions) Act, 1950."

MR. HEFFERTON: Mr. Speaker, there is no new principle involved in this Bill other than the one passed a year ago, but during that period certain clauses require some clarification, which are covered by this amendment. I move second reading of this Bill.

Bill read a second time. To be referred to Committee of a Whole on tomorrow.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the Department of Public Works Act, 1950."

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Speaker, in moving the second reading of this Bill, I realize the actual printed copy is only now being distributed, but in an effort to expedite the work, I had the preliminary copies distributed to several of my honourable friends opposite, with a view to giving them an opportunity to study it.

It is a very small matter—this particular amendment covers two very slight points, and I feel they are not of a very contentious nature. Section 10 of the Act is intended to give the Minister of Public Works power to make regulations for the management and maintenance of all public works, of which he has the management and control. There is now public works property vested in the Minister of Public Works, and an amendment of the Act is necessary to provide that the Minister may make regulations for such public properties as are under the control of the Minister of Public Works. That is the meaning of Section 10.

As it now stands, the Minister of Public Works may only expropriate if the owner refused to accept the sum offered. In other words: If we want to expropriate land belonging to John Jones, and John Jones will not accept the sum set down as standard in Public Works, for instance $150 an acre for unimproved land, and about $400 an acre for improved land, we can do so. Incidentally, for information of the House, that is an unheard of figure on the Mainland. I personally compared it with the Minister of Public Works for Manitoba, and the Golden Wheat Fields of the West, and there, when land is required for building a highway, they simply say: We will take a section perhaps two hundred feet wide, down through that field, and they have power to do so, and pay $150 an acre. Now, I realize, our lands are not so fertile, and not so plentiful, and as a result, if a person had a very valuable piece of agricultural land, I think we would hesitate to try and take it away even for public use, and of course when we want to try and make progress on public roads for the benefit of the public, we would hesitate to take that land, and offer our fellow citizen $150, so $400 should be satisfactory. Now if he should refuse to accept that figure, we have the power to expropriate. That is the only condition under the present law, which gives us the power, consequently we want it amended to give us new powers. As it now stands, we are only permitted to expropriate, if he refuses to accept the sum tendered, or if for some other reason, agreement cannot be reached. There are cases where the owners cannot be found. We had a case recently in the Cement Mill Area, in Corner Brook, where the actual owner was out of the country, and had transferred the property to a guardian who had not been appointed legally, and who had been acting for a minor and we were unable to expropriate that land, until the courts had legally appointed a guardian on behalf of that child. These conditions too often come up to cause delay of the work. The amendment provides that the Minister may acquire land by expropriation, when he deems it necessary. Now, that does not mean that as Minister of Public Works, I am going out as such, to take a piece of land, because I think, it is necessary to do so. It always has been and always will be the practice of the Department to try and reach an agreement, an amiable settlement with the owner of the property, which we might need, and only after all such attempts fail, will we resort to expropriation. Consequently I do not think anybody need fear anything on that point. Section (cc) gives the assessors power to administer oaths, and gives the assessors power to accept evidence under oath. That is the third point covered in this Bill, Mr. Speaker, and I think, it is clearly understood by members. I have pleasure, therefore, in moving the second reading of this Bill.

MR. HIGGINS: Before you go any further, there is one point I want to raise, that is to enlarge on the valuation being set, by the Department, on land. Suppose the land is heavily wooded and heavily rocked, and it costs $400 to make it arable. Now when I was, during the war, on an arbitration board, I knew the cost, because you have to cut down trees and dig out the rocks and shake the roots in order to get the earth off them, and clear away the rocks, and two years later more rock come up, so that an acre of land cannot be cleared for less than $400. Up on the mainland it is different, the land is there and they got it for nothing. By the way, I would like to ask—all the land was vested in the Crown before, and now you want to narrow it down to your Department?

MR. SPENCER: Confined to the Minister of Public Works.

Bill was read a second time. To be referred to a Committee of a Whole on tomorrow.

On motion second reading of Bill "An Act Further to Extend the Operation of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1945, and of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1947," was deferred.

On motion the second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Co-operative Development Loan Act, 1949," was deferred.

On motion the second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Co-operative Societies Act, 1939," was deferred.

On Motion the second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Local Government Act, 1949," was deferred.

On motion the second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting Election in Municipalities," was deferred.

On motion the second reading of Bill "An Act to Provide for the Acquisition of Lands for the Purpose of National Parks, and for the Transfer to the Governor General in Council of Lands Acquired for Such Purpose" was deferred.

On motion the second reading of Bill "An Act Relating to Wild Life," was deferred.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act to Incorporate the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Newfoundland."

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I beg to move the second reading of this private Bill. I understand, according to the ruling of Mr. Speaker, it is for some private member to sponsor a private Bill, and it will have to be referred to a Select Committee. I do not think the House would object though, if I introduced the Bill. The Bill, is a Bill authorizing John B. Angel, George Burling, Edwin J. Burnell, C. Alexis Collins, Bruce B. Feather, Wilfrid E. Furneaux, Thomas M. Hopkins, Walter F. Hutchinson, Archdale S. Lewis, Albert G. Miles, John C. Newland, Eric G. Pittman, Alec H. Ritcey, Arthur L. Sumner, Walter B. Tucker and Eric G. White, all of whom are members of this society, of Nova Scotia, and such others, as may become associated with them, or offer to become part of, this society, to be members of the Cost Accountants Society of Newfoundland, namely, the organization of a Society, which is to promote and increase knowledge, skill and proficiency of the members, in all things relating to accountancy. The head office of the society, regulates the membership.

"An annual general meeting of the members of the Society shall be held annually at such time and place, and upon such notice, as is provided by the by-laws."

I move the Bill be read a second time, and that after second reading that instead of being referred to a Committee of the Whole, it be referred to a Select Committee, as is the rule for private Bills.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Before you put that motion, may I make it quite clear that, it is not a Government measure. As the honourable the Attorney General said, it is a private Bill. The Government, as such, is not responsible for it, and any member of the House may vote as he pleases on it.

Personally, I have not even read it, I do not know whether I am for it or against it. I am prepared to have it get second reading, and if the honourable members of the House read it, and feel there is nothing particularly wrong with it, and it is a Bill which ought to pass, in principle, I will follow the majority in the absence of any personal knowledge of it.

MR. CASHIN: It is not worth having a fight over.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I do not even see the chance of a fight on it. I just want to make it clear, it is not a Government Bill.

Bill read a second time. To be referred to a Select Committee.

MR. COURAGE: Is there a standing committee or do I have to appoint one now? I appoint the following select committee to consider this Bill: Honourable Attorney General, Honourable the Minister for Public Welfare, Mr. Fogwill, Mr. Russell, Mr. Horwood.

Second reading of a Bill "An Act to Incorporate the Newfoundland Association of Architects and to Regulate the Use of Architect Designations in Newfoundland."

MR. CURTIS: This too is a private Bill, and has not been circulated in this session. The Clerk tells me it is now being printed and I move to have it deferred. I wish to say it is a private bill and not sponsored by the Government. It is the same one as we had last year.

End of the Order Paper.

MR. SPENCER: Could we revert to the second reading of a Bill "An Act to amend the Poultry and Poultry Products Act, 1951."

DR. POTTLE: Mr. Speaker, this Bill is one which in substance is largely regulations contained in clause 9 of the Bill. In both clauses 9 and 13, in fact. The Bill would have been introduced during the last session at the time when the House considered the grading of vegetables but it was not then ready and was therefore deferred to this session. The House recalls the benefits of the Grading of Vegetables Act, and we consider the same kind of advantage will follow upon the adoption of the legislation in this respect relating to poultry and poultry products. This is enabling legislation, to enable the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to provide for a great deal of regulations concerning the whole gamut of consumption coming under the Act which relates to poultry and poultry products. I understand the Bill is one which agrees in principle and substance with comparable legislation in positive and negative features, but the positive are those which mainly come under the regulations, that is the Act provides for and provides against certain things, so I say they are negative and positive, and it is an enabling bill which will insure the regulations which are the main concern of the Act. Along with the enabling features of the Bill there are the usual stipulations in the organization such as the appointment of necessary staff. I think these are the features of the Bill and I have no further comments and move second reading.

Bill read a second time. To be referred to Committee of the Whole on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, may I confess to the House that this afternoon when I suggested that we meet tonight I was very definitely under the impression that there were a number of these Bills with which the Ministers concerned were prepared to go ahead. It turns out, however, that some of the Bills are not even printed thus not distributed to the House for which very good reason they could not very well be discussed, but now we are here, it is too late to go to a show if any member had that in mind. On Wednesday the budget will come down and the estimates, and these will let us in for some very considerable debate and discussions, and it does seem to me, if the House is of the same mind, we might be better prepared for that on Wednesday and on the subsequent days if we could clear up as much of the outstanding legislation as possible and put it through as many as possible of the necessary stages here tonight. Now, if my honourable friends will look on the Order Paper of the Day, down to item No. 6 or No. 7, second reading of a Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Exploits Valley (closing hours) Shop Act, 1938," they will note that second reading took place today, the second reading of "An Act to Grant Certain Powers to Public Utilities;" then "An Act Further to Amend the Law Societies Act," that too has been given second reading this afternoon and finally second reading of "An Act Further to Amend and Encourage the Making of Pulp and Paper in this Colony." There is nothing contentious and very little to object to in them and if the House is agreeable we might spend a half hour or three quarters of an hour putting them through the committee stage. I think we all feel we can in that way cut short the total length of time we will have to spend in this House and may let us out a day or two earlier if we now went into Committee of the Whole on these Bills. I take it my honourable friends opposite are agreeable to that.

MR. COURAGE: I may mention it is allowable and has been done in this House to take three or four Bills for consideration at one time and report them separately.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I know that is the system but generally speaking it is not desirable, and except in an emergency or urgency we ought perhaps not to follow that practice but rather to go through the regular procedure.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is I do now leave the Chair.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Speaker, I think the motion should be to waive the rules.

MR. CURTIS: Has not that motion been put that these Bills be referred to committee on tomorrow? It seems to me that motion should be rescinded first, then with the unanimous consent of the House we go into committee now.

MR. SPEAKER: The motion is that the motion to consider in committee of the whole on tomorrow of Items 6, 7, 8 and 9 be rescinded.

The motion is the rules of the House be suspended.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In respect, Mr. Speaker, only of the committee stage of these Bills.

Committee of the Whole "An Act Further to Amend the Exploits Valley (Closing Hours) Shop Act, 1938."

MR. SPENCER: Mr. Chairman, in respect to this Bill, very briefly I want to refer to one or two points in connection with the Exploits Valley which happens to come within my constituency. When the Shop Act, the Act to amend the 1940 Shop Act, came down in this House a few weeks ago, it actually passed the committee stage on the 14th of March. I called the attention of the Attorney General and the Minister of Provincial Affairs that that Act gave great powers and larger liberties to storekeepers on the Avalon Peninsula than to the storekeepers in the Exploits Valley. The honourable the Attorney General was quite happy to assure me that the Government and the Department were quite happy to bring in an amendment to the Exploits Valley Shop Act and the honourable Minister for Provincial Affairs very readily agreed to co-operate and endeavour to bring in this Bill for the Exploits Valley. I have a copy of the old Bill in my possession and my main reason for bringing forward the amendment was that under the schedule there are several amendments. For instance the sale of refreshments for consumption on the premises. Now that matter was referred to before but not in regard to the Exploits Valley. In the constituency of Grand Falls one could go into a store and buy a bottle of Orange Crush or Pepsi-Cola but had to consume it on the premises. But to buy a bottle of aerated water, or anything the honourable member for St. John's West is interested in, and take it home to the family just could not be done. It was illegal to do it and it appears to me to be ridiculous to have a storekeeper penalized to that extent. That is my main reason for asking that the restrictions be lifted, and I am very happy now that anyone of these stores has the privilege of selling to Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones so that he may take home to the children and use it when they want to. I am very proud the honourable Attorney General saw my viewpoint there and presented this Bill as, in the ordinary spirit of fair play, I feel they were entitled to it and I support this bill very heartily on their behalf.

MR. SPRATT: I wish to thank the honourable Minister for Public Works for his very kind remarks and I can only say, anytime I can do anything to make any minister of the Crown happy, or any member, I am always at their disposal and am very pleased to do it.

Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. CURTIS: I move that the order with respect to Granting of Certain Powers to Public Utilities be rescinded and that we now proceed, with the unanimous consent of the House, and refer the Bill to Committee of the Whole House forthwith.

Committee of the Whole "An Act to Grant Certain Powers to Public Utilities."

MR. SPENCER: May I please refer back to section 2 (5) where the words "gas" is referred to. I can't find in the preamble to the Act that "Gas" has been defined, and while possibly it may be very clear in the minds of most people that this particular gas refers to gasoline and may possibly be natural gas. on the other hand, in this Province and in other places in the Dominion, the word gas applies to gasoline.

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Chairman, that does not mean gasoline, that means gas procured from coal or bought in condensed tubes or holders. I might add there is no danger of that being interpreted as such. Gasoline could in no sense be misinterpreted as being part of the meaning of this Act.

Mr. Chairman, I think the amount of $1,000 in section 5 is quite small, there is an appeal to the Supreme Court and $1,000 might limit them to a very small piece of property. I move we make it $5,000 instead of $1,000; there is protection anyway in an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

Section 7 read and passed.

Section 8 read and passed.

Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill with some amendments.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Committee of a Whole on tomorrow, on Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Law Society Act," to be rescinded. Ordered to Committee of a Whole now.

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read.

MR. CURTIS: I think, we should add after (a) on the last page "Or Justices or Justices of the Peace, or any officers of the armed forces, if defending a member of the armed forces in such cases."

MR. RUSSELL: I still do not feel happy about (f) on the last page. It seems to me that where anyone does any of those things, those legal services, without having the ability or experience, should do them without fee. He is doing something he is not capable of, and I prefer to see it cut out altogether, because if it is wrong to do something one cannot do properly, it is equally wrong to do it in places where there is no one qualified to do it. It seems to me if it were cut out altogether people unqualified should not be allowed to make wills and bills of sale and charge $5. They should not be allowed to carry on at all. Although I have no brief for lawyers, I am not one, and I do not suppose I will ever be one now, I would be willing to go a little bit further and cut it out.

MR. CURTIS: I wonder, Mr. Chairman, are there any other views. Although the Government is sponsoring the measure, they were asked to do so by the Law Society, and I am sure they would not mind having (f) cut out.

DR. POTTLE: Is there not the necessary safeguard in sub-clause (c), which provides also for Justices of the Peace? Would it not be the responsibility of the Attorney General to see there were enough Justices of the Peace in every part of the Province?

MR. CURTIS: Yes, but a J.P. could not draw a deed. But they are called in to make wills, and do other work they are not qualified to do.

MR. HIGGINS: I do not know, most certainly if it cannot be done in one place, it should not be allowed in another, and really they should do it for nothing.

MR. RUSSELL: I am making a friend of the man of all righteousness.

MR. HIGGINS: I do not mind, if it should mean undue hardship, I would say leave it in, but I think they should do it for nothing.

MR. VARDY: Mr. Chairman, I think there is a lot in the point raised by the member for Bonavista South, but the thing has been put up at the instigation of the Law Society, and I feel, they made adequate protection in presentation. They are not subject to undue modesty in pursuing their own case and they, at least, can't see very much danger in permitting this to continue, or they would otherwise have raised the point, on presentation of the Bill.

MR. CURTIS: I feel I may be responsible for putting in that clause.

MR. HIGGINS: In certain places there are no lawyers, at the same time there is some danger to the public. In fact, it is a great danger, I have seen many cases of land being sold without a title which is a rather serious position.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That has happened even here in St. John's.

MR. CURTIS: I think it had better be stricken out.

MR. SPRATT: I don't see anything wrong with it, and we should leave it in. In other quarters, persons are even permitted to marry in cases of emergency. Emergencies may arise in this department, and it is really providing for extreme cases. I don't see anything wrong with it, but think it is only right and fair and truly democratic.

MR. CURTIS: I support the Bill and would even be prepared to support it if that were stricken out, that is as far as I will go in sponsoring it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Has the Law Society agreed?

MR. HIGGINS: They have an open mind. They did not see how the public is going to be protected, who is going to do it, if the party who does, has no knowledge of title.

DR. POTTLE: Not only that, but it does more, it does not debar any person.

MR. RUSSELL: I have seen the danger in the practice in places where I have been a magistrate, Green Bay for instance: It is most important, and there is not a place so isolated, where a man may not write a letter, and in order to save $15 or $20. I have seen tangles that could never be untangled again. A classic case was an estate worth at one time, $32,000—all tangled up, between three brothers, who had three padlocks, each on a key, and they could not get in unless all three came to get in, which was all the result of some quack who probated the will, and I think, the whole information should be sent in to some lawyer. There are numerous cases like that which can never be untangled.

MR. COURAGE: Mr. Chairman, I was just going to make the same motion. I am a very junior member of the Law Society, a Law Student, and a very modest one, but it was put in, although the members of the Law Society felt they were assisting people out in the more isolated parts of Newfoundland, where a barrister or lawyer would not be practising. There is a danger, yet they felt the honourable House might see some way they could get a deed drawn up. But the honourable member for Bonavista South has pointed out an even greater danger, and I would therefore second the motion, that the clause be stricken out.

I am certain that anyone who wanted to, today, could get a lawyer in many sections of Newfoundland.

MR. SPRATT: One extreme has been cited, but there is another extreme, and where there is no serious offence committed or no serious interference with the Law Society, why take it out? It only provides for extreme emergencies, and there are people in the Island, who are not lawyers, who in case of emergency could draw up an intelligent document which could be properly and correctly understood in a court of justice. There is nothing wrong with it at all.

MR. FOGWILL: It still does not bar anyone from doing the work, only that they would have to do it for nothing.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Just before you put that motion, Mr. Chairman, may we know just what effect the striking out of that clause would mean, what would then be the position in Newfoundland?

MR. CURTIS: The position would then be that any person in Newfoundland, could draw up a deed, could do any of these actions, such as draw a will, but he can't charge and profess to be a professional man, just the same as you and I can't tomorrow write a prescription as a druggist.

MR. HORWOOD: Might I ask, is it a fact that the act of receiving money for a service, does that constitute setting up as a professional?

MR. CURTIS: It is so defined here.

MR. HIGGINS: You could draw a deed and not charge for it.

Amendment carried. "Or any Officer of the Armed Forces from defending a member of the Armed Forces in such cases or trials or before a magistrate or Justice of the Peace." Motion carried.

Section 3 passed.

Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill with some amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole tomorrow of a Bill "An Act Further to Amend Act 5, Edward VII, Chapter 10, entitled 'An Act to Encourage the Manufacture of Pulp and Paper in this Colony,'" be rescinded. Ordered to be referred to Committee of the Whole now.

Section 1 read and passed.

Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I hesitate to impose on the good nature of the House, so I will not do it. I think perhaps the House has put in a good and useful day, and I think we might now call it a day. I move the House at its rising adjourn until tomorrow, Tuesday, at three of the clock.

The House adjourned accordingly.

TUESDAY, May 8, 1951.

The House opened at three of the clock.

Presenting Petitions

MR. VARDY: Mr. Speaker, I beg leave to present a petition regarding a pension for Mr. James Forbes, retired marine engineer who prays for the payment of a superannuation allowance.

Since this is a private petition, Mr. Speaker, with which I personally have very great sympathy and if the honourable members are so inclined I move it be referred to a select committee to study the prayer.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, I have great pleasure in supporting this petition. I know the petitioner quite well; as a matter of fact, before he became an employee of the Government he worked for a company of which I happened to be managing director at the time. He is an efficient engineer, and I know efficiency. There is no finer citizen and I feel certain the members of this House would be only too glad to cooperate in his behalf. He has worked with the railway but the railway is owned by the Government. He worked on the Priestman, the Daisy and other ships owned by the Government but I feel if the railway is not morally bound to it, the present Provincial Government are morally bound at any rate to see that proper compensation is given to Mr. Forbes for his service of practically 25 years.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I would like to express a word of support of this petition. In so doing I would like to tell the House that Mr. Forbes' application for consideration by the Government was rejected, as it had to be. It would have been unlawful for the Government to grant Mr. Forbes a pension, it would not be lawful for the legislature to grant Mr. Forbes a pension. For the Government to grant him a pension would contravene the law providing for pensions. Under that law the Government cannot give him a pension, so we had to reject his application. It was one of a number of former employees of the Newfoundland Railway which came before the Government, some of which were accepted and some of which were rejected. We accepted all that complied in their service with the requirements regarding service. Mr. Forbes was one of those we had to reject under the law as it is.

Now Mr. Forbes has taken the step of petitioning the House and it is within the competence of the House to grant Mr. Forbes a pension—it is not within the competence of the Government. The Government cannot do so without breaking the law, the House can because what the House does is law if it makes it so. So the committee to which the petition is referred on the honourable Minister's motion can of course take all the facts into account and make here to the House such recommendations as they might feel the justice of the case requires. I want to make it perfectly clear that the Government had no recourse but to reject his petition for a pension as it would be unlawful as the matter now stands.

MR. FOGWILL: I do also support the petition to the House that Mr. Forbes may receive a pension after such long service as he has given to the country as an engineer on various steamers during his life-time.

I am personally acquainted with him and have been for 25 years. He is a very honest and able man in his profession and I agree with the honourable member for Ferryland, one of the best engineers we have. I am surprised to see brought here this afternoon this petition as I thought this man had received a pension. I give my whole support to the petition and I sincerely hope the House will accede to his request and give him his pension now that he is old.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): I join, Mr. Speaker, with my colleagues who presented this petition and with the previous speakers in supporting this petition. I have known Mr. Forbes since childhood, played with him as a companion, and have maintained contact with him down through the years, during the whole period of his life as an engineer on various boats referred to, and I was one of the very disappointed members of the Cabinet who found it impossible to grant him this request and I feel now that, as the honourable the Premier pointed out, it is within the capacity of the House to do so and therefore I can not add more than to say that I wish and hope that the House will decide in a favourable manner to Mr. Forbes' petition.

MR. JOHN G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): Why is he not yet receiving a pension, are not former employees of the railway regarded as civil servants?

MR. SMALLWOOD: We are now paying pensions to hundreds of rail-roaders.

MR. HIGGINS: What is the reason he has not received his?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Broken service.

MR. JACKMAN: Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the House in respect to pensions, I know this is an individual case, but a lot of our miners at home for example who have been shoved aside, thrown overboard. This question here, Sir, I understand is for one certain person, I hope he gets it but I am rising here now to talk about so many of our own miners with fifty years of service, some of them, but they receive no pension. I wonder if the Government will take this into consideration that so many of our old worn-out miners—after all they are all in the country—one man is on the railroad, another in the woods, and I am asking here now are we to vote for one man's pension? I am not kicking against that but I do say this, let us look over all our old pensioners and not see only one gets it. I am not trying the case but at the same time I could not sit down, I have been sitting down too long, I imagine. The Premier told us yesterday that what we said since we came here did not amount to one good debate, probably I will have more to say later but this thing hits me very closely. Even yesterday a blind man came to me. I think the honourable Minister of Welfare is acquainted with this case of a blind man with a helpless family and nobody to look after them. Now we are asked to consider this man in particular. While I say I will vote for it, are we going to look after the rest of them as well? There is not one but dozens of cases and the one in particular I am referring to now I am going to bring to the attention of the Minister of Welfare and the Minister of Health again. I support the motion here but at the same time I would like to know if the House is going to do anything to cases similar to this. In that case I would say, yes, give this man a pension but I would like to refer the matter back again to the House and to the Department in particular, to look after a few of the others which I will have to bring forward in a private manner.

MR. SMALLWOOD: You will realize Mr. Forbes is our own employee.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable Premier has already spoken.

MR. RUSSELL: Before the selection of a select committee I would like to ask a question. There may be others besides this man, as a matter of fact, the honourable the Premier suggested there were others. Our Standing Orders provide for one signature to a petition but is there not something in Beauséne which requires three signatures?

MR. SPEAKER: It is the right of every subject to petition the King.

MR. RUSSELL: Has there not been petitions turned down because they did not have three signatures? It may be well to make certain there is nothing in our rules to prevent petitions. It would be unfortunate if there were anything in our rules. I notice my honourable friend the member for Ferryland looking through the new ones to see if one signature is specified. If not, I think it is something we must clear up as others in the same position may find a petition is required.

MR. SPEAKER: I appreciate the remarks of the honourable member. However no rules we make could ever take away from subjects the right to petition the King.

I will name the following committee: Mr. Vardy, Mr. Canning, Mr. Drover, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Miller.

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): If the House sees fit to take the matter of the prayer of the petition and makes a law, are all the other people in the same category covered by that law automatically. Is it an individual or a general law?

MR. SMALLWOOD: To that point of information, it would be competent for the House to bring it in here with the Government's consent. It would be a money Bill, a Bill to pay a pension to Alexander Forbes. That bill would affect only the person named in the Bill. No other person would be affected.

MR. HIGGINS: How many more are there?

MR. SMALLWOOD: There are two or three others. We brought one in for Matthew King last year. I would be pleased to answer privately but you may understand why I can not answer from the floor.

MR. HORWOOD: I presume, from what the honourable Premier says, it must be a Government measure and the committee can only make recommendations to the House, which in turn may make recommendation to the Government, which would come back and make recommendations to the House.

MR. SPEAKER: As far as the Chair is concerned there is nothing to discuss other than: Shall this be accepted or not? The question was: Shall this petition be referred to a select committee which can either reject it or make any recommendations it wishes to the House?

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Giving Notices of Motions and Questions

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I think all the information sought in question number 102 will be forthcoming in the budget no later than tomorrow, and it would, I think, be just a little unusual to give today information which will in any case be contained in the budget tomorrow, and I am sure the honourable member for Ferryland will appreciate that and accept that. As for part 2 of the question, that information I know will not be in the budget speech on tomorrow, and assuming the information exists, which perhaps it may, it will be answered as soon as compiled. I rather doubt it is compiled by districts.

All the information in section 3 is being compiled and the information will be tabled as soon as possible.

Question 103: All of that information is being compiled and will be tabled as quickly as I get it.

Question 104: I think just about all of that will be in the Budget Speech on tomorrow. Insofar as it is not, I would be very glad to table any information not contained therein.

Question 105: Mr. Speaker, that information is being compiled, with the exception of section (6). It is not customary for the Government to be asked whether or not they intend to table legislation. Section (7): Considerable progress has been made. I am quite sure my honourable and learned friend will appreciate my answer when I say that it is unheard of, unthinkable, that during the progress of negotiations, with negotiations still proceeding, that correspondence should be tabled and made public. I think my honourable and learned friend will agree that persons, with whom we are negotiating, would be rather surprised to take up a newspaper one day and read copies of correspondence and replies while negotiations are still proceeding. Surely he will not insist upon having that part of the question answered.

MR. CASHIN: With your permission, Mr. Speaker, I presume there is a supplementary question I might have asked; would there be any legislation or possibility of legislation covering such progress during this session of the Legislature.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, so that no precedent may be established, we are not obliged to answer that and it is slightly improper to ask it and, Mr. Speaker, I know you could properly rule the question out of order.

MR. CASHIN: I know it is out of order.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Nevertheless, I will say the Government expects to introduce into this House some very interesting and some very important legislation concerning industrial development in this session; I think I ought not to go any further except to say it will not be in the dying days of the session or under suspended rules.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): The answer to question number 106 is being prepared.

HON. WILLIAM KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Mr. Speaker, with regard to questions number 107 and 108, I was not in the House yesterday when the notice was given and I spent a considerable portion of this morning in Cabinet and did not see the questions until today. I will have the answers as soon as possible.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, with reference to number 107, the answer to that will be contained in the Budget tomorrow.

Orders of the Day

Third reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Old Age and Blind Persons' Pension Act, 1949."

Bill was read a third time and passed.

MR. SPEAKER: I must remind the honourable members it is not permitted to leave the Chamber or move about while Mr. Speaker is putting a question.

Third reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Exploits Valley (Closing Hours) Shop Act, 1938."

Bill was read a third time and passed.

Third reading of Bill "An Act to Grant Certain Powers to Public Utilities."

Bill was read a third time and passed.

Third reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Law Society Act."

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): Mr. Speaker, I move this order be deferred, to come up after Committee of the Whole on Bill entitled "An Act to Amend the Department of Public Works Act, 1950."

Motion carried.

Third reading of Bill "An Act Further to Amend the Act 5, Edward VII, Chapter 10, entitled 'An Act to Encourage the Manufacture of Pulp and Paper in this Colony.'"

Bill was read a third time and passed.

Report of Committee of the Whole on Revised Rules of the House.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, it seems to me we ought to proceed with that order now and dispose of it. Motion is that this report be adopted. I think Mr. Speaker, I have here the form in which this motion, I think, should be put; I am not too sure of it myself.

MR. SPEAKER: May I say that the report of the committee of the whole has been received.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Then I understand, Mr. Speaker, the final step is that the House names a day on which standing order 115 will be adopted. I suppose that number 115 would be the standing order stating the date on which these rules come into effect.

MR. SPEAKER: Yes, it would.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In fact at the moment there is no number 115, and it would be number 115 that would state the date the revised rules would come into effect.

MR. SPEAKER: And all previous standing orders are hereby repealed or words to that effect.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In that case I move the report of the committee be adopted, and that standing order number 115 be adopted repealing the existing rules bringing the new rules into effect on adoption.

MR. CURTIS: I second that motion.

MR. SPEAKER: It has been moved and seconded that the reports on revised rules be adopted and that rule 115 be added, to the effect all previous standing orders be hereby repealed, and from this day be the rules of this House. Is the House ready for the question?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, to a point of information, is it necessary that the names of the members present be reported. I notice in the former revisions in 1931, the names are recorded.

MR. SPEAKER: There must be two-thirds of the House present. I saw to that myself.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Would it not be sound practice if Mr. Speaker were to record the names of all present?

MR. SPEAKER: I had better do that: Mr. Spratt, Mr. Ballam, Mr. Hefferton, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Button, Mr. Janes, Mr. Horwood, Mr. Forsey, Mr. Keough, Mr. Curtis, Mr. Smallwood, Dr. Pottle, Mr. Chalker, Mr. Vardy, Mr. Courage, Mr. Canning, Mr. Russell, Mr. Drover, Mr. Cashin, Mr. Higgins, Mr. Fogwill, Mr. Jackman, and Mr. Miller.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the St. John's Housing Corporation Act, 1944."

MR. VARDY: With reference to 15 (a) it says "Construction done to the satisfaction of the Chief Engineer. Since this is dealing with the Municipality of St. John's, should it not be substituted by: "Chief Engineer of the Municipality of St. John's?"

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read.

MR. CASHIN: This provision indicates to me that the Provincial Government may be able to unload the Housing Corporation on the Central Mortgage. As it stands the Corporation may, if the opportunity arises, sell the Housing Corporation to the Central Housing.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I did not know my honourable and gallant friend was so optimistic.

MR. CASHIN: What I am trying to get at, the Housing Corporation has cost the Treasury four million dollars or rather six million, and the City Council one million. In recent months the directors resigned and practically the entire Cabinet became the Housing Corporation. Forthwith notices were sent out to tenants in there. I am fortunately one who has privileges in there. But notice has been sent out to tenants in the Housing Corporation indicating rent raises in the vicinity of 34% and 40%. Whereas a person paid $70 a month he now had to pay $100. That is over 40% increase. Now what I am trying to get at is this. Is it not a fact, Mr. Chairman, I see you looking over here, I am not out of order but I maybe in a few minutes. What I am trying to get at is this: Is it not a fact that in order for rents to be increased in the Housing Corporation Area, certain legislation would have to be introduced in the House which would give privileges to the Housing Corporation over private landlords in the community? I understand a rent control board is in existence in St. John's and if I own property I might rent to my friend the Minister of Provincial Affairs, but there is a maximum amount indicated which I am supposed to charge and beyond this I cannot go. Now I have never read the Act, that is my understanding. Now in the Housing Area rent is $70 and so on a month, does not that come under the rent control board?

MR. SPRATT: I am not in a position to answer that.

MR. CASHIN: I think, in view of the fact that the Housing Corporation or someone representing it has written to tenants including myself, and I am, as I said, in the fortunate position; they can't raise my rent because I happen to be a veteran. There are departments in there for veterans but $70, $80 or $100 from the general veterans' point of view is too high, and a $100 a month is too much to pay for the shacks in there. They are only half built anyhow and will tumble down in four or five years. They were built by a crowd of crooks. And talk about putting people in jail for robbing fishermen, I wonder what about an investigation into the Housing Corporation, what would happen to some people identified with it? If these buildings are indications of their qualifications, well then, God help them. They are built out of shingles, tar-paper, wall-board. There is not a piece of decently constructed building in the whole Corporation except the basements. They are neither wind tight nor water tight, still people got knighted for their construction. They are not worth $45 a month, not an apartment in there worth $45 a month. On the Mainland in the City of Verdun for instance, on the outskirts of Montreal $40 or $45 is high rent. Still our people have got letters and now the rent is going up from $70 to $100 and on top of that, if you are a war veteran or someone else, if your income is such and such you will pay 20 percent of your income as rent. That 20 percent was taken from budgetary programs, I know, on the Mainland you see this thing advertised in the paper. A man with $3,000 a year pays $600 a year for rent and so on. A man here getting $4,000 a year according to that budget plan, would be capable of paying $800 a year. Now what about the high cost of living? This was in effect twenty years ago on the mainland, but now everything is gone up since, including rents. How much can you afford to pay according to income?

Now as a veteran I don't want any privilege in this Community not given to other persons. True some veterans probably should get them; for myself personally, I don't want any privileges in the Community or the country that the ordinary individual does not get. Why? Because it was part of my job, I got paid for doing it myself. My original service gave me $4.00 a day and found, more than I was making before on the Mainland, mind you, and I'm going to say right here and now, I was lucky. I put in the best time of my life for four years that I spent in the army, from 1914 to 1918. True some other poor fellows were broken up. But I did not expect to be taken and given everything for nothing and some people, including myself, have prostituted the name in order to get something we were not really entitled to. I feel everybody is entitled to. I feel everybody is entitled to the same consideration as veterans and I happen to be one of them, and under this plan I would get off the same as now, my rent would not be increased, but someone living next to me who had not joined the army, maybe had not been physically fit, but nevertheless had perhaps done quite as much for the country, has to pay more than I. That is not fair. Mr. Chairman, I know that might be an unpopular attitude amongst veterans but a person living next door may have done just as much as I for the country, yet his rent is going to go up 40 percent. I noticed the other day if you go down and take an affidavit your income is so and so, and produce evidence, you can get away with a reduction in rent. It is ridiculous, the whole thing, and I would like to pronounce it so this afternoon. As to what is being done in connection with this housing I know this; I have been lambasting it since 1945-46. I know I would love to have the opportunity to investigate the whole thing, it might rock some of the most important public positions politically if gone into properly, but that is dead. I would like though to hear the honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs tell us what happens to higher rentals. Do we have to bring in legislation to cover the letter sent out? Or does he think it is fair and just that the Government which is just the same as the Housing Corporation, has all Cabinet Ministers on it. What is going to happen, are you going to bring in legislation giving the Housing Corporation privileges over the ordinary landlord down town or not? I would like to hear from the honourable Minister on that.

MR. SPRATT: I would like very much to be able to give you the desired information, but I am really not in a position to give it to you at the present time, and I am not in a position to explain in detail this Bill I am now putting through the House.

MR. CASHIN: That is very peculiar that you are not in a position to bring in a Bill. Heave it out if the Minister is not in a position to explain, we are talking about something we know nothing about. Mr. Chairman, on a legal point, as far as I am concerned, I want to know now if the Housing Corporation is going to have privileges under the rent control Act. There are two lawyers in this House.

MR. COURAGE: Point of Order, I have given the honourable gentleman quite a bit of latitude. But you will appreciate, also the honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs, that the question is not in order.

MR. CASHIN: No but I was just about to ask the honourable the Attorney General for his opinion, as to whether or not they would bring in legislation covering the raising of rent for the Housing Corporation, without giving the same latitude to ordinary landlords in the community.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, if I am permitted, I would like to explain what may appear to be an anomalous position. The honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs just stated that he was not in a position to explain this particular point with the clarity that the House would want, the Committee would want. Now the position is this: Housing has come for some years past under the Department of Provincial Affairs. That is a fact well known to the Committee. But having become a Province of Canada and desiring very much to avail ourselves of the special services and advantages that the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation of Ottawa were offering, we decided this; that it was necessary for some one minister to concentrate within the Government on the matter of housing. Now who should that minister be? He would need to travel fairly freely back and forth to Ottawa, to various cities on the mainland and in the United States. The honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs has vigorously resisted every invitation of mine to go gallivanting off. He says, no, he wants to stay right here in town in his own home and so my honourable friend just did not want to go and who am I to force him? I am not a dictator.

MR. JACKMAN: They blamed you.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I know, I am blamed for many things. My honourable friend, therefore, did not want to take on this new aspect of Housing so entirely new and over and above what existed up to then in his Department. So we found ourselves in the position where we had two ministers concerning themselves with Housing, the Minister of Provincial Affairs who continued to carry on his Department's normal concern with housing and the honourable member for St. John's West who began to concentrate, at my invitation, with the new scheme of housing. So side by side we had two Ministers of the Crown who concerned themselves with Housing.

MR. FOGWILL: And getting nothing done.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I would not say getting nothing done. At the moment we have 145 families shortly to be taken out of the slums, if they will go; at least we have been the means of providing housing for them, and my honourable friend the junior member for St. John's West is the member who tackled that job, and a fine job he has done. In addition this Committee will hear later on in the session of a large land assembly project with which this very Bill is concerned, is about to be undertaken in the Housing Area and where physical provision is to be made for six hundred and twenty-two houses. So to say that nothing much is being done is rather an exaggeration. Now this particular Bill has to do, I believe, more with the new housing project than it has to do with the older one, with which the honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs concerns himself. Therefore as the honourable the junior member for St. John's West is not a Minister with portfolio but without portfolio, and while the financial side of housing is carried through the Provincial Affairs, it falls to the lot of the Minister of Provincial Affairs to bring in this legislation. It is actually legislation which affects his colleague, the junior member for St. John's West. My honourable friend, the Minister of Provincial Affairs, did not want to say this, but actually the position is that it is the baby of the honourable the junior member for St. John's West, though officially it naturally comes under the Minister of Provincial Affairs.

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Chairman, I fear I made myself feel ridiculous in the eyes of the public, incompetent to preside over the duties of taking upon myself the responsibility of the Housing Corporation. I can build houses, know more about it than any man connected with it today. I was formerly and for forty years in the building business here in St. John's and have handled over seven million dollars of building in the city and my position is rather anomalous and I feel today, in the eyes of the public, they imagine I am incapable, which I am not.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Nobody thinks it.

MR. SPRATT: I don't want anyone to think that. I am simply piloting this through on behalf of my colleague.

MR. CASHIN: I never indicated anything like that. But what I am trying to get at, the Premier has not answered my question yet. What is the position with respect to the Housing Corporation and the notices they sent out with regard to increases in rent? Legally, illegally or some other way I know we were told they were to be increased the first of May, if my memory serves me right.

MR. SPRATT: The Government has taken the power out of the rent control board.

MR. CASHIN: The Government has taken the power away from the rent control board which I know correctly has power to say whether you can raise your rent. Now won't there be legislation to cover that, and consequently we must look forward to legislation to amend that Act that brought about the rent control board. We have no legislation in here yet, giving the Housing Corporation power to supercede the rent control board, and at the present time those people living in these departments, under the law, don't have to pay the increased rental that has been demanded of them until such time as legislation is brought in to cover it.

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Chairman, I would say in reply that if the honourable member will refer to the various rent control Acts, he will see that the Minister in charge, the Minister of Supply, has the right to reserve or take out any houses or group of houses. It did seem a bit ridiculous for a government controlled body to have to go in turn to another government body to fix the rents. The Rent Control Board is a board to stand between tenants and landlords. That is not the case in the case of the Housing Corporation, which was a board set up by the Government to operate these houses, and because of the very nature of the ownership the Minister signed an order taking the houses in the Housing Corporation area out of the Act. The apartments also have been taken out under the authority of the Act. There is no need for any legislation.

MR. CASHIN: Very well, we now know there is no need for legislation, the Minister of Supply can except these apartments out of the Act and can say; now you fellows can charge what rent you like but the other fellows on Water Street or Hamilton Avenue are not allowed to raise the rent 45 percent. Now the honourable the Attorney General says the Rent Control is expected to keep landlords from squeezing people. I take it now the present administration is taking advantage to squeeze people themselves and that the ordinary landlord is not permitted to do the same thing. In other words they are raising the rent 40 percent.

MR. CURTIS: I don't think you ought to put it that way. They have been losing too much, they cost too much to build.

MR. CASHIN: Well you should cut down your capital because you are not going to get it back, neither is the Municipal Council. Here is the position of the Housing Corporation Administration in there. I am not going to reflect on any one, I know it can be operated much more economically than it is at the present time. I tabled questions here some time ago with respect to the Housing Corporation and the reply was tabled by the Minister of Provincial Affairs, and I find the interest on the sinking fund charged up, and then we are told they are to give help to war veterans, they give the war veterans nothing.

MR. CURTIS: They were only meant to provide shelter.

MR. CASHIN: If you get a good shower of rain or gale of wind they are not shelter, they are likely to blow away. Why the outfit that built that, headed by Sir Brian Dunfield, the greatest crowd of cods in the country, gave authority to build them and now we have to pay for it. I know they were inherited and you inherited a lot of things but you did not inherit the power to stick on 45 percent. We were told there would be a lower cost of living.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Order. I think at this point I am going to state; the point under consideration is the Housing Corporation and many points being raised here would be more properly dealt within the Budget.

MR. CASHIN: This section gives the Government, which is the Housing Corporation, power to hand-over, sell, give away or something like that to any outfit it thinks fit. What is the present value of the Housing Corporation?

MR. CURTIS: This clause only deals with land not the Houses.

MR. CASHIN: These places are built on land. I would like to know now, are we going to have to pay this rent. I know I don't have to pay but I don't consider that I should be treated one way and the fellow next door another way. It is unjust and indecent. There are people in there who have done just as much for Newfoundland as I have and they have to have their rent jacked up 40 percent. That is what it means, and to pay for mismanagement going on at the present time. Why the heat is on the year around, and this budgetary rent 20 or 30 percent on the mainland takes other things into consideration. The heat is turned off from the first of May until the end of October, and you will find that in every lease of apartments in Montreal there is no heat after the first of May. Well if you go into the Housing Corporation in the middle of August—

MR. VARDY: It is very often needed.

MR. CASHIN: It is often needed in Montreal as well.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): That is the type you get for $35.00 a month.

MR. CASHIN: That type, you were not allowed to live in that type. I know Montreal, I lived there for 14 years.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Order, we are not considering Montreal housing.

MR. CASHIN: No, the Housing Corporation it is a joke; and now as an avenue of escape, the Government, after mismanaging it, say to the tenants, you have to pay the piper. Stick on 40 percent on your rent to do it.

MR. SPENCER: You referred to $45 a month rent in Montreal, but you won't get that at the present time.

MR. CASHIN: I could take you to the City of Verdun and I could show you a duplex, a beautiful duplex in Verdun for $45 a month. I was in one only four or five weeks ago. Why those things in there are shoe boxes built by someone they brought in from Florida, a wop from the toe of Italy; slapped up cardboard houses, and I don't know how much money they cleaned up on it.

Now here is the position, as I see it: the Government has power to take unto itself to increase rentals, but if I own a house on Hamilton Avenue or LeMarchant Road or Circular Road I am not allowed to do the same thing, and now you are going to tell us that is fair play.

MR. SPENCER: I would like to deal with other phases of it.

MR. CASHIN: I know it is up to the Rent Control, are they accepting any suggestions? They are not allowed to do it, no.

MR. VARDY: There are people who own private houses who have rented them and gone in there.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The honourable member for Ferryland has the floor.

MR. CASHIN: Yes sure, Mr. Chairman, but I am having a friendly chat with members across the floor.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The only trouble is the honourable member has a bad case.

MR. CASHIN: You have the bad case, a white elephant on your hands, and try to get rid of it. Did the honourable Attorney General sell his and go in there? He is in the real estate business and noted for being a very shrewd business man, very noted. Well I want to say, if I know the honourable the Attorney General, I have not seen him moving out of his place in St. John's West to go into the St. John's Housing Corporation.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I must ask the honourable members to be more relevant.

MR. CASHIN: I am trying to point out the injustice to the people living in the apartments, giving me privileges over them, I don't see it.

MR. SPENCER: Do you recommend they write off the investment?

MR. CASHIN: I would. It is going to be written off in four or five years anyway. It is going to fall down. The honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs told us he built houses, I am sure he never built anything like that, if he did, he should right here and now go back and learn his trade, but they brought in some joker from Florida, from the toe of Italy and he squandered six or seven million dollars. Why if they had gone into the Superintendent of the Mental Hospital and let the people in there loose, and let them work there, they would have done just as good a job as Dunfield and his crowd has done. Dunfield Folly they call it.

I had to get that off my chest.

MR. FOGWILL: Will the honourable Minister make an explanation in respect of No. 22 (1).

MR. VARDY: I think, Mr. Chairman, this clause was explained yesterday during second reading of the Bill. The purpose of this amendment is that in the event private areas have the advantage of water and sewerage facilities, owned by the Housing Corporation and not by the Municipality, as it stands at the present time, there is no organization that can assess them for the right to hook on, nor is there any organization which can charge them their proportionate share of the setting up of these facilities, water sewerage, curbing and other improvements of the land. Therefore where the land has been improved and it is the desire of individuals adjoining to take advantage, there is no one with whom they can deal. The property is not the property of the Municipality but of the Housing Corporation. It is owned by the Housing Corporation and only by insertion of this clause can they legally hook on and pay the proportionate assessment on the work done.

MR. FOGWILL: Is it not a fact that in some places in the Housing Corporation Area, curb and gutter improvement and improvements of that sort come under the control of the Housing Corporation, while on the other hand the sewerage and water main were put in by the Municipality?

MR. SPRATT: There is a certain area under the Council's jurisdiction.

MR. FOGWILL: That does not answer the question.

MR. VARDY: Rightly speaking, water and sewerage were in on, for instance, Allandale Road, but the bulk of the services were put in by the Housing Corporation as part of the development. There is no problem there, they already pay to the Municipality.

MR. SPRATT: The Housing Corporation has made the improvements and put in the sewerage and water and they have improved the streets and put in the curbs and gutters and the landlord owning the land would have to pay that assessment. If you came and bought a piece of land and put a house on it, you would not have to pay a second time, so I don't see anything wrong with it. You have to pay the assessment anyhow if you bought a piece of land in there tomorrow and the Municipal Council went in and put in curbs and gutters and sewerage. You would have to pay so much per frontage for improvement to the Municipality, so what is the difference in the Housing Corporation assessing in a similar manner?

MR. FOGWILL: There are, I believe, on the land adjoining the Housing Corporation a group of houses built long before any sewerage or water. In one instance it was put in by the Housing Corporation and in the other instance the sewerage and water main was put in by the Municipal Council outside the city limits. What is the position in that respect?

MR. VARDY: The Municipality does not put in water and sewerage outside the city limits.

MR. FOGWILL: How far in does it run? I understand anything beyond the junction of the Portugal Cove Road is outside the City Limits.

MR. HIGGINS: I think the whole trouble in the section is the assessment on property increase. I think outside the City the property has not been increased in value.

MR. VARDY: It has to the extent that money has been expended to put in facilities.

MR. HIGGINS: It is badly worded. The value of the land has increased to the extent of the facilities made available. What you mean is that these people must pay if they want to connect up to the sewerage, pay the cost of the culvert and the cost of the road, but that does not increase the value of the land.

MR. VARDY: In answer may I point out to the honourable member, the Leader of the Opposition: A private property has been increased in value by the installation of the Corporation facilities to the extent that the land was of little or no value prior to the installation. Today that property is being sold for $45 a foot, yet the purchaser of that land has no right to hook into the facilities under existing conditions. We want to have that right, in the hands of the Housing Corporation, to give him permission but in giving that permission it is only fitting and proper that the owner of that land, now getting $45 or $50 a foot for the land which was only worth $10 before, should pay the proportionate cost of the installation which brought the land up to its present value.

MR. HIGGINS: That is my objection, the land has increased from $10 up to $45. According to this act you are charging him at the rate of $45 but at the time it was worth only $10, that is the interpretation. I don't care what is meant, I am perfectly aware what is meant, that is not the wording. You mean to say you have this land here, the land has increased in value, you should pay your proportion of it, your share of the road, your share of the water, your share of the sewerage. That is perfectly all right but that is not the increase in value of the land, that is an increase in the amenities of life in that area. You bring the amenities of life there and say you have to pay your share.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Is that not expressed in increased value of the land?

MR. HIGGINS: I see no reason why a man should not pay for these amenities of life but I think you should say that in some other way.

MR. VARDY: I wonder how we would alter it. The point is this land in there which the Housing Corporation developed and sold, interest free, as a community service for $800 and $900, is now a little higher but still much less than market value, as a community service. On the other hand the individuals to whom we refer, charge (for a 50 foot lot) as high as $2,000 and have contributed absolutely nothing towards the services put in, which was the source of making this land valuable. Now we are asking in this Act for the power to recover from the owner of this land the amount equivalent to what it cost to bring it up to that value.

MR. HIGGINS: Make an assessment equal to what the water, sewerage and improvement cost?

MR. FOGWILL: It not only deals with land but with private property. I would like to ask the honourable Minister how would the assessment be collected in a case where land now improved before the coming of this Act, improved in value ten-fold and then sold, perhaps to the Leader of the Opposition or the honourable the Premier at the increased price. How are you going to assess that section, states the person who holds the improved land, how are you going to collect?

MR. VARDY: Collect from the original owner.

MR. FOGWILL: What if he sold the land four years ago at $50?

MR. VARDY: Still after the improvement but several years ago?

MR. FOGWILL: How is he going to pay, how are you going to get him? He may not be here.

MR. SPRATT: I might point out the authority, the Municipal Council, would assess that anyhow, but not being the Council, the Housing Corporation has a perfect right to collect from the person who is getting the benefit of that water and sewerage.

MR. FOGWILL: But how are you going to collect, are you going to put the burden on the person who has already paid the increased price?

MR. SPRATT: It is problematical.

MR. FOGWILL: You may have a piece of land tomorrow, side by side with someone else and a purchaser comes along to that person and says: are you prepared to sell and how much? He sells for $10 or $20 a foot. My property is identical, side by side, he asks me what my land is worth, and I tell him $50 a foot. That is nobody's business but mine, I may sell my property for what I can get for it. This matter of water and sewerage, true I agree with the remarks of the Leader of the Opposition, they have no direct connection with the actual value of the land. Either the Council or the Corporation are simply imposing a tax for the improvement. The money is spent by them and they must get it back.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Would it be possible to have that clause re-worded? The honourable Leader of the Opposition says the clause, as worded, does not imply the point made by the honourable member for St. John's West with which he agrees. Now can we change it so that it does carry out that intention, can it be done? I am willing to take the honourable Leader of the Opposition's word that the wording of the clause does not, in fact, concur with the point as stated by the honourable member for St. John's West.

MR. FOGWILL: Put a limitation on it.

MR. HIGGINS: I suggest the share of the cost of water, sewerage and other material advantages.

MR. SPRATT: I suggest making it the same as the Municipal Council.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, I suggest that we have a recess for ten minutes and in the meantime let that section stand until the Attorney General and the Law Clerk have an opportunity to confer and redraft it.

MR. CURTIS: I move the Committee rise, report progress and ask leave to sit again. This is the end except for Section No. 6 and the Preamble.

The Committee rose, reported progress, and asked leave to sit again.

Committee of the Whole, "An Act to Amend the Slum Clearance and Development of Housing Accommodation Act, 1950."

- Section 1 read and passed.
- Section 2 read and passed.
- Section 3 read and passed.
- Section 4 read and passed.
- Section 5 read and passed.
- Section 6 read and passed.
- Section 7 read and passed.
- Section 8 read and passed.
- Section 9 read and passed.
- Section 10 read and passed.
- Section 11 read and passed.
- Section 12 read and passed.
- Section 13 read and passed.
- Section 14 read and passed.
- Section 15 read and passed.

Section 16 read and passed.
 Section 17 read and passed.
 Section 18 read and passed.
 Section 19 read and passed.
 Section 20 read and passed.
 Section 21 read and passed.
 Section 22 read and passed.
 Section 23 read and passed.
 Section 24 read and passed.
 Section 25 read.

MR. HIGGINS: With reference to section 25 (1) it seems to me this would be a little difficult in application. It may apply to any portion of the country. Yesterday it was understood the party occupying the adjoining land may pay a proportionate share. In other words, if opposite the Housing Area there is a big farm of fifteen or twenty acres it seems hardly right to ask the owner to pay. If he sells the farm not for farming but for building lots it would be alright. This is somewhat the same as the other one; in the first place a man has a piece of land in the Housing Corporation, but this would apply to anywhere over the Island and the housing scheme may start in front of some big farm where a man is making a living, and when the scheme had been put into effect and water and sewerage laid, it is hardly right to ask him to pay for it unless he makes use of it. If he should make use of it or sell a portion he should be made pay. But I do not think a farmer should have to pay any amount unless he does so.

MR. VARDY: What about cases where they want to hook on and take advantage?

MR. HIGGINS: Yes, but I am talking about a big farm where a man is making just a fair living and is not making use of the facilities. If he makes use of them in any way by hooking up or selling he should have to pay.

MR. VARDY: It all boils down to this, it may apply anywhere in Newfoundland but it is specifically designed to apply to this one thing.

MR. HIGGINS: You can see the great hardship of application. It is a foolish thing to do away with farms; they are too rare in this country, they make up a very important industry, for instance they supply the milk to St. John's, have brought it for a hundred years, in sunshine and storm, in all weather, and farmers are always out early. If all farms are destroyed I do not know what we would do. The Housing Corporation took Mr. McPherson's land. He was known as a gentleman farmer, everyone knows what a gentleman farmer is. He is a man who takes pride in cattle and loses on them. McPherson had as a hobby cows and bulls, he sold them around the country for $200 and $300 and they possibly cost $600. The Housing Corporation took his land and now the country is suffering for it. You cannot destroy the farm, since here in the City, milk is getting scarce.

MR. VARDY: How do you suggest we could preserve and protect them.

MR. SPRATT: We could make an agreement with the parties.

MR. HIGGINS: A farmer may want to make use of these facilities, he may want water and sewerage, if so let him pay the improvement. What I have in mind is that the scheme would ruin the land from the standpoint of a farm; if water and sewerage were made available and the land were assessed on the frontage and the farmer were unable to pay for the improvements.

MR. VARDY: There is one point you are overlooking, it is obvious such a development can only take place in municipalities. All the schemes are in conjunction with municipalities.

MR. HIGGINS: I am not denying that but they are stretching out and will be away out in a little while. Take Grand Falls, a man may have a farm a half mile away and the Town extends the boundaries of the housing system.

MR. VARDY: That is not the same thing, if there is a development of that kind going into a particular area, we would have to take the farm regardless of how he feels about it.

MR. HIGGINS: If the farm were taken it would be quite a different thing, but leave him there with his farm and he is just finished. If you are going to take the farm you will have to pay all the benefits.

MR. FOGWILL: It does not deal entirely with Municipalities. I know in Bishop's Falls houses were built three quarters of a mile from the town.

MR. VARDY: Not by the Federal.

MR. FOGWILL: The same thing may happen anywhere else. The building can take place anywhere in the Island.

MR. VARDY: No, only within regular municipalities.

MR. FOGWILL: Nevertheless the term is broad and under this Act, housing projects can put the farmers out of business, as outlined by the honourable Leader of the Opposition, and perhaps there should be a limiting clause in the Bill unless they sell the land or seek to take advantage of it.

On motion the Committee rose, reported progress, and asked leave to sit again.

MR. CURTIS: At this juncture, Mr. Speaker, I move the House take up the third reading of the Law Societies Act which was deferred. I move this Bill be recommitted.

Carried.

MR. CURTIS: This is a lawyer's Bill, drawn up by lawyers, they have provided no punishment for the offence, just what could be expected from a bunch of lawyers. The proposed amendment is to amend Section 75 (A) to read as follows:

(1) Any person who is not a Barrister or Solicitor who carries on the profession of Barrister or Solicitor is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars and in default of payment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month.

The Committee rose, reported having considered the matter to it referred, and having passed the Bill with some amendment.

Bill was read a third time and passed.

MR. FOGWILL: A point of information: Do we have to waive the rules for third reading?

MR. SPEAKER: It is not necessary; in any event a Bill may be read a third time.

Committee of a Whole on Bill "An Act Relating to Poultry and Poultry Products."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.
 Section 5 read and passed.
 Section 6 read and passed.
 Section 7 read and passed.
 Section 8 read and passed.
 Section 9 read and passed.
 Section 10 read and passed.
 Section 11 read and passed.
 Section 12 read and passed.
 Section 13 read and passed.
 Section 14 read.

MR. HIGGINS: There is one thing I would like to ask with reference to selling poultry, are poultry interpreted as domestic fowl, are turkey and geese included? The fine must be at least $25?

MR. CURTIS: I think the magistrate has jurisdiction to suspend sentence. If you make the fine too small you may as well not have the Act there.

MR. HIGGINS: Why not make it $10 for the first offence. It would be then up to the magistrate to make it $5 if he wanted to do so, but here even in a minor case the magistrate has to fine $25.

MR. CURTIS: There is no objection to making it $10.

Section 14 passed.
 Section 15 read and passed.
 Section 16 read and passed.
 Section 17 read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill with some amendments. Report received and adopted.

Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

On motion the Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines" was deferred.

MR. COURAGE: I have to leave the Chair at six o'clock.

MR. CURTIS: I move the Committee rise, and report progress, and ask leave to sit again.

MR. HIGGINS: I would like to rise to a point of order. What happened now amplifies exactly what we on this side feel is going to happen by changing the rules in the middle of a session.

MR. CURTIS: I move, Mr. Speaker, that we continue in session, with the consent of the House, until 6:30.

MR. SPEAKER: Does the House give leave to continue until 6:30?

MR. HIGGINS: In order to pay for the mistakes made, I am happy to stay.

MR. FOGWILL: I am happy to support that too.

Committee of the Whole on a Bill "An Act to Amend the Memorial University (Pensions) Act, 1950."

Section 1 read and passed.
 Section 2 read and passed.
 Section 3 read and passed.
 Section 5 read and passed.
 Section 6 read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Committee of a Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Department of Public Works Act, 1950."

Section 1 read and passed.
 Section 2 read and passed.
 Section 3 read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

On motion, the remaining Orders of the Day were deferred.

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I move the House at its rising do adjourn until tomorrow, Wednesday, at three of the clock.

The House adjourned accordingly.

—
WEDNESDAY, May 9th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

None.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motion and Questions

None.

Answers to Questions

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): I wish to table the answer to question No. 106 appearing on the Order Paper, Tuesday, May 8.

12th January, 1951.

Dear Mr. Mayhew,

I attached hereto a copy of a memorandum of fur farming which contains an outline of our plans for next year for the development of mink-ranching in the Province of Newfoundland, as well as the Estimates which I propose to present to the House of Assembly at the next session.

You will note that many of our plans, and a considerable part of our proposed expenditure, are contingent upon certain co-operation which we hope to receive from your bait depot services. I have marked the pertinent paragraphs and I will appreciate very much your comments as to whether or not we may hope to receive such co-operation.

Yours sincerely,

(Sgd.) E. RUSSELL,

Minister of Natural Resources.

The Honourable R. W. Mayhew, Minister of Fisheries,
Department of Fisheries,
OTTAWA.

Deputy Minister, D.N.R.

Memorandum on Fur Farming.

Observations of the fur farming industry in Newfoundland indicate that the industry should be fostered and encouraged to the fullest extent for the following reasons:

(i) The climate of Newfoundland is suited to the production of good quality pelts equal to the quality produced in any other province.

(ii) Supplies of fresh whale meat, whale liver, seal meat, seal liver and fresh fish are available locally in sufficient quantities to warrant a large fur farming industry.

(iii) The returns from mink farming are usually far greater than returns from the shore fishery for the same amount of effort and expenditure, and can be carried on in the same areas.

(iv) Because of the existence of supplies of meat, liver and fish at moderate prices, pelts can be produced in Newfoundland more cheaply than in any other province.

2. The main problems involved in mink ranching at present are:

(i) Distribution and storage of whale liver and meat supplies.

(ii) Individual refrigerated storage for farms to insure supplies of fresh foods at all times.

With stocks of fresh fish and meat available, the progress of the individual farmer is limited only by his desire to maintain breeding stock at a level which he knows he can handle and which will provide him a decent living. Providing a supply of fish is not a problem, cod and caplin with flesh almost free of fat are excellent and can be procured anywhere in Newfoundland. While some success has been achieved without the use of red meat, it is generally conceded that red meat should form a part of a balanced ration to ensure good production and good quality pelts. In the past, horse meat was used as the basic meat supply. The supply of horse meat has practically disappeared on the Mainland and ranchers have turned to other sources of red meat supply. Whale meat offers the best cheap meat source, and the Mainland ranchers of Central Canada are now looking to Newfoundland to supply their needs. The best whale meat for this purpose is that taken from the smaller members of the whale family such as Potheads, Rorquals, Blackfish, etc., because there is less fat distributed through the meat. Newfoundland has a sufficient supply of whale meat to warrant a large fur farming industry. At present some ranchers situated off the Avalon Peninsula experience some difficulty in obtaining supplies of whale meat. The meat can be obtained but cannot be kept frozen in transit, and the thawing of meat often results in partial or complete loss and is the cause for disease among mink. Transportation by present methods, such as C.N.R., must be discontinued as unsuitable.

When the industry was revived through the Training Scheme brought into effect in 1946, the use of the Bait Depots for storage and the M.V. Malakoff for transportation was intended as an integral part of the assistance to the growth of the industry. Since then the Bait Depots have been transferred to the Department of Fisheries, and while some use of the depots is permitted, the position is not clear enough to allow ranchers to store sufficient feeds for their use. The use of these depots or other refrigerated space is necessary for the expansion of the industry. I feel that it would not interfere with the bait policy to allocate space in each depot of 20,000 lbs. to provide for the storage of mink feeds. At present such space would be required in two depots, and it would take five years before storage of this capacity might be required in all depots. With this space available and with the services of a refrigerated vessel, whale meat could be distributed to the Bait Depots where required in good condition and made available to ranchers in small quantities as required. This matter should be taken up with the Department of Fisheries before embarking on any expansion scheme, as the success of the industry is even today badly hampered by the lack of storage for fresh meat and fish.

Individual storage is also required on each farm and the present loan system will in some measure solve this problem. The present tendency of applicants for loan is a desire to set up cold storage with a capacity of about 20,000 lbs. Using Freon, such storage equipment will cost in the vicinity of $3,000 and about double this amount for an ammonia plant. Storage of this capacity is capable of handling feeds for 400 to 500 breeders, and this number would, in most areas, be the combined stock of 6 to 8 ranchers. I think, therefore, that only one such storage should be allocated to any settlement where mink farming is being undertaken. Farms in the vicinity of this storage could operate efficiently with a three-quarter to one ton storage unit which is large enough to provide two weeks' supply in summer and two months' supply in winter for a brood stock of 40-50 females. Such a storage unit would cost about $1,000 and could be provided by loans advanced by the Government or on a hire basis from the Department. The hire plan would allow for the transfer of the unit to another ranch as soon as the first ranch outgrew its capacity. The provision of storage to replace the small unit would be the responsibility of the rancher.

A suggested loan policy could be carried out under the following plans:

- A. Loans to a maximum of $6,000 each to provide for the erection of a capacity of 20-30,000 lbs.
- B. Loans to a maximum of $1,000 each to provide individual storage units of three-quarter to one ton capacity.
- C. Loans to a maximum of $500 each for improvement of livestock only.

It is to be understood that as the industry progresses, individual farmers will wish to obtain their own storage sufficient to look after their needs for the year. A gradual build-up and then gradual reduction of the use of bait depots is to be expected, if arrangements can be concluded with the Federal Department of Fisheries.

Expansion of the Industry

The industry can be expanded in two ways only: (i) by improvement of existing ranches; (ii) by starting new ranches.

The loan policy previously referred to could take care of improvement to existing ranches on the following basis for 1951-52.

Plan A.—Provision of a maximum of $18,000 to provide storage of 20-30,000 lbs, at Beaumont, Brighton, and Jackson's Cove.

Plan B.—Provision of $20,000 to cover the purchase of 20 individual farm units. (If a hire plan were approved, Plan B would be removed from the loan policy).

Plan C.—Provision of $15,000 to provide for the purchase of breeding stock to the value of $500 for each of 30 farms. This amount should provide 15 animals per rancher.

The starting of new farms can be carried on under two plans to start in 1951.

(i) Training Scheme.

Due to the fact that a Fur Farm takes a building-up period of three years, married men and most men over 20 years of age cannot afford the time spent to undergo training, and such a training scheme would embrace young men 16 to 20 years or interested persons with an alternative source of livelihood. Due to the cost of training at a central farm, it is felt that better results would be obtained by using a scheme that will train students on an existing farm in the settlement in which they live.

Under this no payment or subsistence allowance would be paid to the student. Students would undergo training for one year beginning in July, 1951, but after 5 months all students who show aptitude and interest would receive 15 mink (5 males and 10 females). The rancher under whose supervision and on whose ranch the training is done should receive $250 for each student who completes the training period, and on a monthly basis at the same rate for each student discharged after the five month test period.

The maximum number of students to be trained on any one ranch should not exceed four. The rancher taking students should agree to permit the brood stock given to students after the test period to be carried on his ranch for the seven month period the student remains with him. The student would also be supplied with wire, etc., for cages to the value of $200 and feeds to the value of $40 to take care of mink during his training period. The total cost per student would be $990 and the maximum number that could be trained in one year on existing farms is estimated to be 40 student farmers. The amount of $750 is required to provide the brood stock. Wire and feed allowance should be covered by a return of mink over a period of five to seven years. This return could be in cash or by return of selected stock to be used to set up other ranchers.

(ii) By distributing mink to interested persons who agree to make returns of selected stock over a five to seven year period.

(a) Assuming that an arrangement is concluded with the Federal Department of Fisheries to allow space in Bait Depots for storage, this distribution plan should be concentrated in the settlements where storages are located. Twenty depots could thus be utilized and each could take care of 8 farms with a total brood stock of 400-500 females without injury or hindrance to the bait distribution policy. I consider it feasible to plan for the starting of 100 such farms in 1950-1952. Breeding stock for these should be made available in early December, 1951. The cost of breeding stock and wire to set up a ranch under this plan would be approximately $700, and the plan could apply to any settlement where storage is available including privately owned storages.

(b) The distribution of breeding stock in areas where storage is not available should only be considered as a last resort, and carried out only if the Federal Department of Fisheries refuses to give any assistance. The plan in such case would be the same as outlined for settlements where storage is available, and the cost of starting the ranch would be the same.

Estimated Cost of Fur Farming Plan outlined for 1951-52

1. Loans to improve existing fur farms :

Under Plan A.

To provide for erection of 3 storages situated at Beaumont, Brighton and Jackson's Cove .....$18,000

Under Plan B.

To provide for the purchase of twenty Farm freezer units of  $\frac{3}{4}$  to 1 ton capacity at \$1,000 each ..... 20,000

Under Plan C.

To provide for the purchase of Breeding stock by 30 farmers at $500 each ..... 15,000

TOTAL ..... $53,000

2. To provide for the training and setting up of 40 students :

Training cost at $250 each ..... 10,000

To provide breeding stock of 15 mink at $500 per student ..... 20,000

To provide wire for pens and guard fence at a cost of $200 per student ..... 8,000

To provide feed allowance for seven months at $40 per student ..... 1,600

TOTAL ..... $39,600

3. For starting of new farms.

To provide breeding stock to 100 farms at a cost of $500
each .....$50,000

To provide wire for each farmer at a cost of $200 each ..... 20,000

TOTAL ..... $70,000

4. Administration.

1 Chief Supervisor of Fur Farms ..... 5,000

1 Senior Fur Farm Inspector (voted) ..... 4,000

2 Junior Fur Farm Inspectors ..... 10,000

Travelling expenses ..... 1,000

Miscellaneous, purchase of demonstration equipment, etc. 1,000

To provide for purchase and distribution of whale meat and liver ..... 3,000 23,000

GRAND TOTAL ESTIMATED COST ..... $185,600

Wire Supply

The present world situation has resulted in restrictions on the use of steel for non-essential purposes and one is reminded of the difficulty of obtaining wire which prevailed during the war years. The expansion of the mink farming industry could be seriously affected if wire supplied were available.

It is recommended that the wire required for 1951-52 program should be ordered as soon as possible. The requirement according to the plans outlined is 420 rolls of 4 ft. wire and 280 rolls of 3 ft. wire, estimated to cost $28,000. The requirement of the present operating farms would be about 100 rolls and it is expected that this will be supplied by the trade.

(Sgd.) H. W. WALTERS,
Chief Game Warden.

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): In reply to Question No. 107 on the Order Paper of yesterday, I wish to table the report called for.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): I have here the answer to Question No. 88 asked by the honourable member for St. John's East. The answer is the report of the Labour Relations Board for 1950 and has been tabled.

Question 1: To table the annual report of the Labour Relations Board.

Answer: The annual report of the Labour Relations Board for 1950 has been tabled.

Question 2: To table the annual report of the Minimum Wage Board.

Answer: The annual report of the Minimum Wage Board for 1950 has been tabled.

MR. CASHIN: I don't know if the honourable the Premier has had the opportunity to supply the answer to question No. 105 and question No. 102 on the Order Paper of yesterday. I realize he is busy with the budget.

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): The answer is in the course of preparation, and I shall be glad to table it the moment it is received from the department.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have a message from His Honour the Lieutenant Governor.

Thereupon Mr. Speaker read the message as follows:

The honourable the Minister of Finance:

I, the Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Newfoundland, transmit Estimates of Sums required for the Public Service of the Province for the year ending 31st March, 1951, and in accordance with the Provision of the British North America Act of 1867, as amended, I recommend the Estimates to the House of Assembly.

(Sgd.) LEONARD OUTERBRIDGE,
Lieutenant Governor.

May 9th, 1951.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move the House into Committee on Supply.

Mr. Chairman, I have moved the House into Committee on Supply for the purpose only of tabling the estimates of expenditure and revenue for the fiscal year commencing 1st April, 1951. These of course will be distributed to the members immediately upon the conclusion of the budget, at which time also copies of the budget speech will be distributed to the members. I move we rise, report pro- and begged leave to sit again.

Committee rose, reported progress and begged leave to sit again.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I move the House into Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means.

BUDGET SPEECH

HONOURABLE J. R. SMALLWOOD

May 9th, 1951

"Mr. Speaker

Just over a year ago, it fell to my lot to open the budget of this Province because my Cabinet colleague was prevented by illness from performing that annual task.

Today I am undertaking that duty once again, for my colleague has in the intervening period accepted an invitation of the Right Honourable the Prime Minister of Canada and, as you are aware, is continuing his long and valued career in public life in another place. As Premier, and as his successor to the portfolio of Finance in this Province, I desire to record publicly my appreciation of Senator Quinton's activities from the first day of this country's history as a Province of Canada to the date of his retirement from the purely local political scene. I am sure that all members of this House will join with me in an expression of the sincere hope that he will long be spared to continue in his new sphere his efforts on behalf of his native province.

Outturn 1950-51

I propose, Mr. Speaker, to adhere to the pattern of presentation of the budget which I followed in 1950 and,

	Estimate	Actual	Increase
Revenue .....	$26,446,000	$28,089,000	$1,643,000
Expenditure .....	$26,588,500	$27,159,700	$ 571,200
Deficit .....	$ 142,500
Surplus .....		$ 929,300

Revenue 1950-51

The improvement in the revenue position was attributable to receipts under four of the Departmental Heads, viz., Finance by $550,000, Pub-without further ado, I now give in brief outline the result of the 1950-51 financial operations of the Government of Newfoundland.

The books of the Province for the year 1950-51 were closed off on the last day of April, 1951; they had been held open for two purposes only, first, to effect and record payments in respect of services rendered to, or goods received by, Departments to the 31st March, 1951, where the relevant bills had not been presented in time for payment by that date, and secondly to record receipts from His Majesty's Government in Canada in respect of jointly shared services such as Old Age Pensions and Blind Pensions, the costs of which are shared jointly by the Dominion and Provincial Governments.

Financial Year 1950-51

The financial data which I shall now place before the House are, it must be understood, close approximations of the actual outturn for the year and will undoubtedly vary slightly from the figures which will appear in the Public Accounts following final audit.

These interim figures reveal that revenues and expenditures on current or ordinary income account stood as follows in comparison with the figures revealed in the Estimates for 1950-51 :

lic Works by $10,000, Public Welfare by $1,000,000 and the Board of Liquor Control by $100,000.

In the case of the Department of Finance, receipts under the Tax Rental Agreement were greater by $800,000, from the Gasoline Tax by $150,000, and from the Tax on Fire Insurance Premiums (two years' collections in one) by $150,000 than was anticipated when the original estimates were prepared. On the other hand, certain revenue estimates were overstated, the most noteworthy of the under-receipts being from the Social Security Assessment where, because of the delay in introduction and the decision to exempt human foodstuffs, receipts showed at a figure of almost $600,000 less than the original estimate.

Of the increase by $100,000 in Public Works revenue, $75,000 was attributable to motor vehicle licences; the $1,000,000 improvement in Public Welfare revenue was due entirely to recoveries from the Dominion Government on account of Old Age and Blind Persons' Pensions and of this sum, some $700,000 represented recoveries in 1950-51 of expenditures incurred in 1949-50 where, for a variety of reasons, it was impossible for us to transmit claims for reimbursement in time to effect recoveries and to bring them to account in the year of origin.

In the case of the Board of Liquor Control, the increase is said to be due to an increase in the level of trading profits for the year.

Expenditure 1950-51

The total net expenditure of $571,200 in excess of the original estimates has, of course, been given Legislative sanction by the recent grant by this House of the Supplementary Vote for 1950-51.

The net over-expenditure of $571,200 was made up of excesses under five Heads of the Vote aggregating

$1,449,000, with under-expenditures on ten Heads aggregating $878,000. Excesses occurred under the Department of Public Works ($86,000), Public Welfare ($1,237,000), Supply ($33,000), Fisheries and Co-operatives ($49,000) and Economic Development ($44,000); of the under-expenditures, the Votes of the Department of Public Health accounted for $494,000, of the Attorney General $174,000, of the Department of Finance $73,000, and of the Department of Natural Resources $45,000, the balance being spread in small amounts over the other Heads of Expenditure.

Of the three major variations, viz., $1,237,000 over-expenditure and $494,000 and $174,000 under-expenditure shown on the Votes for the Departments of Public Welfare, Health and the Attorney General respectively, the causes were due, in the main, to an acceleration in the preparation of invoices, etc., for payment in the Department of Public Welfare where, I am happy to say, such progress has now been made that there is no longer a heavy residue of outstanding accounts payable, particularly in respect of relief orders, and to an under-estimate of requirements on account of Old Age Pensions, Mothers' Allowances and other similar social services. In the Department of Health, the reduced level of expenditure, in comparison with the original estimate for the year, was due, in the main, to our inability to adhere to the original program of expenditure financed out of Federal Health Grants, while the comparatively heavy saving under the Vote of the Attorney General was due to two factors viz., the reduction in the cost of the Constabulary consequent upon the advent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the provincial police sphere, and inability to purchase, in accordance with the original programme, replacement parts for the Fire Department, etc.

I do not propose to take up the time of this House with a more detailed recitation of the departmental expenditure activities on Current account during 1950-51; full details will be tabled in due course in the

	Estimated	Actual	Increase or (Decrease)
Revenue .....	$ 3,209,400	$ 3,157,200	($52,200)
Expenditure .....	12,049,400	12,053,500	4,100

Surplus Account Revenue

Variations leading to the net under-receipt of $52,200 arose, in the main, from transactions under the Revenue of Finance and Provincial Affairs where an aggregate excess of some $550,000 occurred, which was offset by lower receipts than originally estimated under the Department of Public Works, of some $6,000,000.

In the case of Finance, the excess was due to the receipt from Ottawa of the net difference between amounts receivable and accounts payable at the 31st of March, 1949, in respect of certain Newfoundland services taken over on Union by the Federal Government and the excess of receipts under Provincial Affairs was made up of larger-than-anticipated payments from Housing Services advance.

The decrease under Public Works is attributable to lower than originally anticipated recoveries on account of Trans-Canada Highway operations due in part to a retardation in progress (which, of course, was a reflection of lower-than-expected expenditures) and, to a minor degree, to late presentation of claims for reimbursement on this account.

Public Accounts and will be available to all members.

Surplus or Capital Account Transactions

The interim figures relating to Capital account (or, as we call them, "Surplus Account" transaction) show, in comparison to the figures exhibited in the original Estimates for 1950-51, as follows:

	Estimated	Actual	Increase or (Decrease)
Revenue .....	$ 3,209,400	$ 3,157,200	($52,200)
Expenditure .....	12,049,400	12,053,500	4,100

Expenditure

Variations from the original estimates on account of Surplus Account expenditure were made up of excess aggregating $1,920,200 under three Heads and savings aggregating $1,916,100 under seven Heads.

Of the total of excesses, $323,000 arose under Finance and was due to issues, not contemplated when the Estimates were framed, amounting to $365,000 (since covered by Supplementary Supply) and to an underestimate by $108,000 in the amount required during 1950-51 for the continuation of the liquidation of Pre Union liabilities—estimated at $70,000. These increases were offset by an under issue of $150,000 against the $300,000 provided in the Estimates for the Industrial Development Loan Fund.

The other major contributing Head to the total excess was Economic Development where the actual issues amounted to $1,828,100 compared with an original estimate of $245,000 of the over-expenditure of $1,583,100 on Surplus account under this head, issues totalling $1,592,900 were made in respect of construction costs of the cement plant ($1,108,200), the gypsum wall board factory ($219,800) and the birch mill ($264,900); there were, on the other hand, net reductions on the provisions made in the Estimates for Economic Development services, of $10,000.

Of the savings aggregating $1,916,100, the most significant variations appear under Fisheries and Co-operatives, Provincial Affairs and Public Works in net amounts of $324,900, $489,700 and $885,200, respectively.

Under Fisheries and Co-operatives, issues aggregating $412,100 were made in respect of an unforeseen service—Richard Limited, the popularly known Icelandic Herring Venture—which offset, by that amount, savings aggregating $755,000 on the provisions of $1,480,000 embodied in the original estimates ($600,000 on the sums provided for the Fisheries Loan Board and the Co-operative Development Loan Board, $141,300 on Shipbuilding Bounties and $13,700 under Fishery Experimental Grants).

The saving of $489,700 on the Provincial Affairs provision was entirely due to the fact that, at $750,000, the needs for Slum Clearance activities during 1950-51 were overstated.

In the case of Public Works, excesses of $249,100 arose (purchase of a building which was not contemplated in original estimates $215,400 and insufficient provision for new road machinery $33,700) which reduced savings of $1,134,300 ($231,800 on construction of buildings, $94,200 on improvement of roads and surveys and $808,300 on Trans-Canada Highway) to $885,200.

The results of the 1950-51 operations had the following impact on the Surplus Account:

	Estimated	Actual
Gross Expenditure .....	$12,049,400	$12,053,500
Less cost of liquidation of Pre-Union Liabilities .....	577,900	571,200
	$11,471,500	$11,482,300
Revenue .....	$3,209,400	$3,157,200
Less recovery Pre-Union assets .....	1,236,400	1,973,000
	1,561,400	1,595,800
Withdrawals for Extension of Public Services, etc. ....	$ 9,498,500	$ 9,886,500

Accounting Reorganization

Before I turn from our 1950-51 operations, I should like to refer to one matter which, while it has impact upon our financial operations, is one which requires explanation in words rather than figures. I refer to the system of accounting for the Government Departments.

Up to the date of Union, and for some months thereafter, each Department of Government was a cheque-issuing and self-accounting unit.

A review of the system was made by the firm of Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., under the personal direction of the senior partner for Canada, Mr. James C. Thompson, C.A., who is recognized as being a leading specialist in Canada in this field as well as in the field of Dominion-Provincial financial relationships. Mr. Thompson, as Hon. members are doubtless aware, was the Financial Advisor to the Newfoundland Delegation to Ottawa in 1948.

His report upon our accounting system, based upon his knowledge of our needs, both actual and prospective, recommended certain radical alterations which would, inter alia, greatly facilitate the work of the Royal Commission, which is to be constituted in the future under the Terms of Union, in making a comparison of Provincial expenditures with those of the other Atlantic Provinces.

That report was accepted in principle by this Government and such progress had been made to 31st March, 1951, that it may be said with every confidence that a most excellent and smoothly working central accounting and cheque issue system has been installed in the Department of Finance which now functions as accountant to the entire Public Service and is the sole cheque-issuing authority.

As an illustration of the flexibility of the system, it is interesting to note that, by adding one machine and one operator, it was possible to take in stride the accounting and payroll work of last autumn incidental to the Special Roads Relief Work programme. This entailed the opening of 10,000 earning records in the names of the individual workers, crediting earnings thereto and making deferred pay issues to the workers.

The work of revision of the accounting system has now been completed in its first stage, and the second phase, which provides for the introduction of a system of commitment control, is now under way.

Commitment control is not a new idea, although it has not heretofore been used by the Governments of Newfoundland. In the past, we have attempted to control the actual issue of public funds, but this was definitely a "cart before the horse" procedure, for what could the Government do, but liquidate liabilities incurred by officers of the Crown, other than dismissing the officer responsible for over-commitments of funds provided by the Legislature? The innocent supplier in good faith of goods or services could not be refused payment.

This defect in our system was the subject of a joint report in 1944 by Mr. G. P. Bradney, C.B.E., then Comptroller and Auditor General, and by Mr. W. M. Marshall, then Secretary of Finance, but circumstances were such at that time that, while I understand that their recommendation that we should change from expenditure control to commitment control and to a central system of cheque issue, was favorably received, the Government of that day did not feel that the time was opportune to introduce the recommended system.

There will be difficulties to be overcome and possibly some opposition will be encountered, but the Government are satisfied that the system must go in and that in the end results will be most beneficial.

General Prospects

It is expected of a statement such as this that it give some description and appraisal of the general economic and financial position and prospects of the Province, and I have no desire to abandon the practice.

I can say at once that the economic outlook for 1951 is brighter than it has been for some years past. An all-time record will be established this year in the amount of income going into the people's pockets. I give here my estimate, carefully compiled of the wages and salaries paid out in Newfoundland in 1950, and the amount likely to be paid out in 1951:

	1950	1951
Mining .....	$ 6,750,000	$ 9,000,000
Pulp, Paper and Wood .....	24,250,000	28,100,000
General construction .....	4,000,000	5,000,000
Road work .....	2,250,000	2,000,000
Transportation .....	10,000,000	12,000,000
Manufacturing .....	4,700,000	5,200,000
Communications .....	1,500,000	1,600,000
Stevedoring .....	2,200,000	2,400,000
Defence Work .....	8,000,000	16,000,000
Shop and office work .....	9,000,000	9,500,000
Newfoundland Government .....	8,040,000	8,781,000
Canadian Government .....	9,000,000	9,800,000
Miscellaneous, including municipal work, fish-draggers, private hospitals	3,680,000	4,390,000
	<hr/> $93,370,000	<hr/> $113,771,000

It will thus be seen that the huge sum of twenty million dollars will this year be paid out in salaries and wages over and above the amount paid out last year.

These figures do not include our various fisheries or the seal hunt, which I think will put several million dollars more into our people's pockets than they did last year. I estimate that when the earnings of the fishermen, and the various social transfer payments (such as Family Allowances, Old Age Pensions and other pensions and allowances) are added, the grand total that our people will pocket this year is around $150,000,000. It is an impressive figure and one that represents a condition of prosperity that Newfoundland has not experienced before.

Painting the economic picture with bold strokes it can be said that our mining industry was never so prosperous, our pulp, paper and wood industry was never so prosperous, our great transportation industry was never so prosperous, and that never before did organized government pay out so much money direct to the people in the form of wages, salaries, pensions and allowances.

The position of the fisheries is far from satisfactory, though the prospects are much brighter than they were just one year ago. Very serious thought is being given to the problem of the fisheries by the Government of Canada and the Government of Newfoundland, who have agreed upon a policy of close collaboration through the Fisheries Development Committee headed by the Chief Justice of Newfoundland, the Honourable Sir Albert Walsh. It would not be reasonable to expect quick results from the work of this important committee, for it is just as well to face the hard fact that what we have to overcome today is the accumulated neglect and short-sightedness of the past half-century in our fisheries. Many people remember vividly the desperately weak condition of the fisheries between the two World Wars. Except on the marketing side, virtually nothing was done to overtake the long neglect, and the fisheries were failing fast when World War II broke out and gave them a short new span of life. Unfortunately, the very cause of that short-lived prosperity in the fisheries proved, when the war was over, to be the further cause of their decline, and we all remember that the year 1950 saw the fishermen's earnings cut almost in half. We need only remember that about one-half of our population get most of their living from the fisheries to see what a blow that decline struck to the whole economy of Newfoundland, for we should keep in the forefront of our mind the undeniable fact that it is impossible for Newfoundland to be enduringly or truly prosperous if the fishermen are not prosperous. I shall refer in greater detail to the fisheries later in this statement.

Even in the midst of the satiation generated by the figures I have given of salaries and wages and other payments to be made to our people this year, I cannot refrain from reminding the House that much of this income is ephemeral and cannot be expected long to endure. The only safe and sure income is the income derived from industry, and we would be short-sighted indeed to allow our thoughts to turn away from the continuing need for more and ever more economic development in this Province.

Nor have we been content, in the past year or two, just to talk about economic development. On the contrary, it is the simple truth to say that more has been accomplished in the past two years than in any similar period throughout the whole history of Newfoundland. In the fishing industry we have guaranteed bank loans to every fishing firm that was able to meet our conditions and was anxious to expand and enlarge its modern facilities. We have refused no firm that was willing to expand and was able also to meet our terms, and this policy we shall continue to practice. We have gone further, for we have approached firms and urged them to expand and offered to assist them to finance the suggested expansion, provided they were willing to meet our financial terms. Adding the new deep-sea producing facilities and freezing facilities that are in early prospect to those already established, we have enabled expansion to an extent that will take about 100,000 quintals of codfish off the salt-codfish markets, or about ten per cent of the average annual catch. In short, by the end of the present calendar year our policy will have resulted in the filleting and freezing of a quantity of codfish that would, if salted and dried, amount to about 100,000 quintals, that would have to find markets in competition with the bulk of our salt codfish production.

We have lately undertaken to arrange financing that should result in two large new fish-plants being established, one at Placentia and one at Grand Bank. We have been assisting to secure the establishment of another large new plant at Gaultois. All of these are on the South-West Coast. We have urged the owners of the plants at St. Anthony and Bonavista, to double their present capacity, and the owners of the plant at Englee to reopen and considerably to enlarge. Negotiations are presently proceeding on these three plants on the North-East coast, and I have hope that the suggested enlargement and re-opening will be arranged with our financial assistance. We have in the past year prevented the closing down of three important fish plants, all of them on the North-East coast. We are particularly proud of the assistance which we have given, or are arranging to give, toward expansion on the North-East coast, for this coast constitutes the heart of the problem of the Newfoundland fisheries. We shall continue to do everything in our power to assist in solving the problem of this great coast, not out of favoritism, but because, from the standpoint of population and the quantity of fish produced, this is the most important of our three great coast. Nor are we overlooking the North-West coast and the great bank of halibut that is believed to exist there.

It is widely known by now that we have in recent months launched three important new industrial enterprises. These are the cement factory, the gypsum plaster and plaster-board plants, and the birch flooring, veneer, plywood and plywood-door factories. Thanks entirely to the genius and skill of Dr. Alfred Valdmanis, our new Director General of Economic Development, and Mr. Ernest Leja, our chief engineer under him, we are erecting at Humbermouth a magnificent new cement mill at a cost which represents a cash saving of several millions of dollars, on basis of the costs of comparable factories being built elsewhere. Let me say, in the first place, that this cement mill will be one of the most efficient in the world and will produce Portland cement of even better quality than the highest American, Canadian and British standards, and do it at a production cost that will equal that of any mill in North America. The site and the buildings and machinery so far received have recently been examined with meticulous thoroughness, over a period of three weeks, by two very distinguished European cement engineers, and they pronounce themselves as being greatly impressed by its quality and efficiency. The site and plans have been examined by a famous American cement engineer, with exactly the same result, Mr. Leja, our supervising engineer, was for twenty years one of the most distinguished cement men in his native Latvia, and in Germany. He was managing director of several large cement mills, as well as asbestos-cement and gypsum mills. The cement mill, which is now nearing completion, is being built by Mr. William J. Lundrigan, of Corner Brook, while the machinery has been manufactured by the great German firm of Miag, at Brunswick, who also are erecting the steel at Humbermouth. The mill lies close beside a vast deposit of very suitable limestone and shale estimated to be enough to supply the mill for at least the next 100 years. The whole project, on the day it commences to operate this summer, will have cost Newfoundland the incredibly low figure of $3,100,000. This includes the limestone quarry, shale quarry, and gypsum quarry. It includes the great buildings and the machinery. It includes the very modern steel-frame machineshop, the chemical laboratory building, the garage, the administration building, the emergency-power stand-by plant, the water, oil and cement pipe-lines, the storage silos, the slurry silos, the packaging plant and the great new shipping pier. I am aware of two other new cement mills, of exactly the same size, now being built in North America. Each of those other cement mills is costing almost exactly double what our cement mill is costing, a very pleasant fact for which we owe all the thanks to Dr. Valdmanis and Mr. Leja. We have been flooded by letters from firms outside Newfoundland asking us to sell cement from our mill, and the market for cement was never more brisk. We have it on incomparable authority that the cement market will continue brisk for many years to come.

The Government are now giving very careful consideration to the question of what would be the best thing, in the public interest, to do about the cement mill. Should we sell it outright, at a profit? Should we sell a part-interest to private enterprise? Should we lease it to private interests? Should we create a Crown corporation to operate it? It is a very important decision that we have to make, and our only test is our conception of the public interest.

We have been almost equally fortunate in the contracts made for the erection of the large new gypsum plaster and plaster-board and plaster-lath factories. These two factories at Humbermouth will, I believe, be the most efficient gypsum plants in North America, embodying as they do, in their design certain new principles never before employed on this side of the Atlantic. Two factories, which will need sixteen full train-loads of raw gypsum rock a week to operate, will cost, when ready later in the year to operate, $2,100,000. Mr. Lundrigan is erecting the mills and the machinery is being manufactured in Germany by the firm of Benno Schilde, whose impressive plant certain of my colleagues and I had the pleasure of inspecting last fall. We have in our contracts for these two factories saved the best part of a million dollars, and we shall have factories that will turn out a quality of gypsum plaster and plaster-board not excelled to say the least, in North America. At Flat Bay, Bay St. George, we have a vast deposit of the purest gypsum probably to be found in the world running up to 99 per cent pure. These plants will be served by the same pier that serves the cement mill.

We shall be giving to the question of the disposition of these gypsum factories the same careful thought now being given to the question of the cement mill. Again our only thought will be the public interest.

In many ways, the most impressive of the three new industries is that now being erected at Donovan's, beside St. John's. The cash outlay on this factory is in the neighbourhood of $1,000,000, but it will provide employment for far more men, and the wages will be far more widespread throughout the Province. Like the cement and gypsum plants, the birch factories will be the most modern, efficient, straight-line-production mills of their kind in North America, the very last word in modernity. It will be served by the only large stand of healthy birch left anywhere in Canada east of the Pacific Coast, and this birch is to be found in fourteen of our twenty-five electoral constituencies. I mention this latter fact to illustrate the wide-spread nature of the stand, and the wide-spread character of the payments that will be made for the purchase of the raw material for the factories. The demand for the products of these mills is very great, and there would be not the slightest difficulty in selling at a profit the output of four other groups of mills the same size as these at Donovan's. I confidently expect to see other groups of mills based on the use of our birch as raw material in the early future, and we shall not be satisfied until still other manufacturing plants are established here to turn birch into a much larger variety of saleable products. We have leased the operation of the birch factories to Mr. Chester Dawe for the first fifteen years of their life on the principle of sharing the profits with Mr. Dawe on a fifty-fifty basis. We are proud of these three new industries, but especially so of the new birch industry.

These, then, are the first of what we hope will be a much larger number of new industrial enterprises in Newfoundland. We are carrying on negotiations for the establishment of a new newsprint paper-mill and a new pulp mill. We are negotiating for the establishment of a modern new oil-hardening plant. We are negotiating for the establishment of a modern new shoe factory. We are negotiating for the establishment of a new automobile-tire factory. We are negotiating for the establishment of a new leather tannery. We are negotiating for the establishment of a new fur-processing and dyeing factory. We are negotiating for the establishment of certain other new industries.

These negotiations cannot be pushed even an hour faster than the other parties are willing to go, and there is in every case a considerable amount of research and study, that must be carried out before the economic soundness or otherwise of the project can be established with the necessary degree of certainty.

We have been seriously delayed, in some cases by the deplorable lack of reliable information at our disposal. In most cases we have had to gather this information ourselves, and this has caused delay at precisely the time when speed is needed. The situation may be described as a race between the gathering of information and the gathering of the clouds of war.

Estimates 1951-52

The estimates of revenue and expenditure for the year 1951-52, Mr. Speaker, are again exhibited under the two divisions of Current or Ordinary Account and Surplus or Capital Account. They show, on Current account, estimated receipts of $30,694,300 and proposed expenditures amounting to $29,829,100 or an anticipated excess of ordinary revenue over expenditure of $865,200 which is some $70,000 only less than the surplus of like revenue over expenditures for the financial year just closed.

On the Surplus or Capital expenditure side, the Estimates reveal anticipated receipts of $2,957,000 and proposed expenditures of $14,152,300.

The total of expenditure, Current and Surplus, is thus $43,981,400 of which amount $43,406,700, subject to the pleasure of this House will require provision by way of a Grant of Supply.

Current Revenue

No new taxation measures are presently contemplated for 1951-52 and the total estimate of Current revenue is $30,694,300, an increase of $4,248,300 over the original estimates for 1950-51 and of $2,605,300 over the actual receipts for that year.

On comparison with the original estimates of the previous year, two Heads of Revenue reveal decreases in a small total of $9,000, the estimate of receipts from the Board of Liquor Control remains unchanged and the aggregate of the remaining ten Heads shows an increase of $4,257,000.

The major increase ($2,800,000) appears under the Department of Finance, where gross increases of the order of $3,061,000 appear in the Departmental estimates with decreases of about $220,000. The increases are due to higher estimated returns from the Tax Rental Agreement which, at $8.2 million compares with $6.4 in last year's estimates and $7.2 in actual receipts during 1950-51. Gasoline Tax at $1,350,000 shows an increase of $250,000 over last year's estimated and $100,000 over the actual. The returns from the Social Security Assessment will, for the first time, reflect a full twelve months' collections and have been set at $2,250,000, in comparison with last year's estimate of $1.3 millions for a portion of the year and actual collections of $712,000 covering the period 15 November, 1950 to 31 March, 1951, or three-and-one-half effective months, an average of $200,000 a month.

The Departments of Natural Resources and Public Welfare revenue estimates exhibit anticipated increases of about $500,000 in each case. In the case of the former, $200,000 is attributable to sales of beaver pelts to be derived from trapping under license in the autumn of 1951 (this is offset by payments to trappers estimated at $180,000 leaving a net residue of $20,000 to the Crown for its services in protecting and restoring our beaver population, which, some years ago, had been practically wiped out) and to an increase by $300,000 in returns from Mineral Leases and the like. The increase under Welfare represents, in its entirety contributions on the agreed basis by Ottawa in respect of the heavier outgoings on the shared costs of Old Age Pensions.

Three other departmental revenue Heads exhibit comparatively heavy increases: Education ($150,000), Health ($130,000) and Public Works ($9,000). In the case of the first, the improvement is due, as to $100,000, to increased returns from the sale of school supplies and reflects both increased turnover in the School Book Bureau and increase by 10 percent in the average level of prices to students.

The increase under Health is due, as to $100,000, to Federal Health Grants and exactly reflects heavier anticipated outgoings in this respect under the Department's expenditure estimates, and to an increase by some $30,000 in anticipated revenues from the various Hospitals operated by the Department.

The improved position under Public Works reflects higher returns from vehicle licence fees consequential upon the increasing volume of registered vehicles on our expanding highway system.

Current Expenditure

The estimates, upon comparison with those of 1950-51, reveal an increase of $3,240,600. This, of course is a net increase as three Heads are estimated to show an aggregate decrease of $11,600 (Consolidated Fund $700, Provincial Affairs $1,300 and Labour $9,600); while increases are shown under the other thirteen Heads in an aggregate of $3,252,200. The most weighty of these increases are:

Public Welfare, $843,400: This increase may be said to be due to the costs of Mothers' and Dependents' Allowances and Old Age and Blind Persons' pension payments.

Health, $715,000: The estimates, in common with those of virtually all Departments, reveal a number of variations. It may be said however that the net addition is due to three major factors, viz., an increase by $100,000 in Federal Health Grant expenditure (fully covered by increased grant receipts); an increase by $175,000 in the grants to non-Government Hospitals made up principally of a special grant, non-recurring, of $150,000 to cover the deficit arising from the first organizational, operating year of the Western Memorial; and the provision of an additional $437,000 for the expanded Cottage Hospital and Nursing Station service.

Education, $550,000: This net increase is mostly attributable to augmented provisions, by $250,000, to meet the cost of teachers' salaries and of $60,000 for Vocational Education.

Public Works, $534,500: Of this increase, some $180,000 has origin in additional sums required for Public Buildings and some $70,000 for ordinary Road Costs.

Natural Resources, $152,000: This increase is due to the provision of $180,000 for payments to beaver trappers out of the revenue receipts of $200,000 which have already been brought to notice.

I have confined myself to broad details; further points of interest to honourable members and to the public, will, I am sure, be the subject of discussion and explanation during the course of the House's examination of the expenditure proposals.

Surplus Account Revenue

Of the total estimate of $2,957,000 which reveals a decrease of $252,000 upon comparison with last year's estimate, an amount of $1,078,400 will, it is anticipated, be derived from continuation of activities to collect receivables or to liquidate other Assets of Pre-Union origin. Of this sum, $446,000 will represent collections ($200,000) of income tax assessments on pre-union incomes; and $266,000 will be derived from sales of buildings etc., constructed prior to the date of Union. The balance, $612,400, will be obtained from repayments of loans and advances of Pre-Union origin as well as of Post-Union datings, where the required funds were obtained by drawing upon the Surplus Account.

The residue of $1,878,600 will be made up of recoveries on Housing and Slum Clearance activities since the date of Union ($243,000), and of Grants-in-Aid of construction of roads, hospitals and the like from the Government of Canada.

Surplus Account Expenditure

The estimates reveal, that, under eight Heads, decreases are exhibited in a grand total of $2,797,300. There is, however, a net increase in the total provision because of the fact that increases over the original estimates of 1950-51 are revealed under three Heads in an aggregate of $4,900,200.

The heaviest increase appears under Economic Development where provisions for the cement, gypsum, and birch plants call for a total sum of $4,575,000 of the total increase of $4,610,700 under that head.

Education requires $600,000 instead of $400,000 for the erection of schools buildings, other than the Vocational High School, for which $500,000 has been provided under the Public Works Vote.

Under Labour, the increase of $95,000 is to provide working capital for the newly constituted Workmen's Compensation Board. This advance is being made by way of a recoverable advance.

This concludes my admittedly very broad review of the 1951-52 proposals, but I should like at this juncture to refer to our sources of revenue position.

Sources of Revenue

In my Budget Speech a year ago, I gave a breakdown of the sources of Newfoundland Government revenue. It may be remembered that the revenue then forecast for the year was a total of $26,446,000. Of that total, $19,000,000 was to be paid into our Treasury by the Government of Canada, in various forms, and $7,446,000 was to be raised by the Government of the Province. The corresponding position for the current year is as follows:

The total revenue forecast for 1951-52 is $30,694,300. Of this total, the sum of $21,421,300 will be paid to us by the Government of Canada. This amount will be made up mostly of statutory subsidies and payments, due us under the Transitional Grant and the Tax Rental Agreement. Payments from Ottawa will thus constitute about 70% of our total estimated revenue. We ourselves will raise the remaining $9,273,000 or 30%.

I forecast this change in proportions in my Budget Speech last year, when I said: "While, therefore, it is a striking fact that, in the second year of Confederation, 90½% of all our current revenue comes from non-tax sources; we realize that this proportion will decrease, and that the proportion of revenue from tax sources will and must increase."

Of the $9,273,000 we expect to raise ourselves this year, $3¼ million will come from what I may call straight taxation and the remaining $15,553,000 from chargeable services, which the Government will render to the public.

I need say nothing more about my forecast of the financial position for 1951-52, other than to express the Government's satisfaction in regard to the anticipated surplus of nearly nine hundred thousand dollars.

The Surplus Account

I turn now to the purpose of giving as clear an account as I can of our accumulated surplus, or, as we have been calling it, our Pre-Union Surplus. There are really two surpluses, one being actual cash in hand, the other being the total estimated value of a number of things which have not been turned into cash or put with the cash surplus.

The non-cash surplus amounted at Union to an estimated $11,672,083, and was made up of such things as the Government's interest in the Housing Corporation, the Clarenville boats, loans to the Board of Liquor Control, and so forth. Since the date of Union, some of these items have been turned into cash and put with the cash surplus but most of them are still in the non-cash surplus. With that explanation, I turn to the actual cash surplus.

On the date of Union, our accounts showed the cash surplus to be $40,283,147.

Here is what happened since the date of Union :

We have added the following amounts to that original cash surplus :

By revision of the original estimate .....	$ 949,522
Part of the non-cash surplus turned into cash in 1950-51 .....	1,561,378
in 1951-52 .....	1,078,400
Surplus earned on current account
in 1950-51 .....	930,400
in 1951-52 .....	865,200
<hr/>
Total cash added to original cash surplus .....	$5,384,900
<hr/>

This gives a grand total cash surplus to the end of March, 1952, of $45,668,047.

But we have drawn far more money from the cash surplus than we have added to it. Here are the figures of what we will have drawn out to the end of March next year :

1949-50
Deficit on Current Account	$5,735,875
Economic development and extension of public services .....	5,632,373
1950-51
Pre-Union liabilities .....	178,631
Economic development and extension of public services .....	9,886,468

1951-52
Pre-Union liabilities .....	26,500
Economic development and extension of public services .....	11,997,200
<hr/>
Total cash taken from the cash surplus .....	$31,457,047
<hr/>

In short, the original cash surplus was just over $40,000,000. We added $5,384,900 to it, bringing it to a total of $45,668,047. From this grand total we have taken, or rather will have taken by March 31st next year, a total of $31,457,047. We will thus have left a net total cash surplus of $14,211,000, together with unrealized assets of probably about $5,000,000 in the non-cash surplus. That will be the approximate position at the end of the first three years of Union.

I must point out, however, that about six and a half millions of the total amount taken out of the surplus is represented by the three new industrial plants, the cement, gypsum and birch factories, which are worth considerably more than the amount spent on them. Approximately another million of it has merely been passed to the three new Development Loan Boards for lending by them to approved economic projects at interest. Though not now in the form of actual cash, this value of seven and a half millions should at least be borne in mind when thinking of the surplus left to us at the end of the present financial year, bringing the realistic total to about twenty-two million dollars.

I am sure the House would be interested in getting a break-down of the purposes to which the withdrawals from the cash surplus have been put.

These purposes fall under two broad headings: Economic Development and Social Development. By the latter I mean schools, hospitals, libraries, roads, houses and the like. The break-down is as follows:

Economic Development

Capital for the three Development Loan Boards	$ 900,036
Hydro-electric development	277,598
Fishery development	548,431
Bounties on ships	302,598
Industrial development	6,167,891
Mineral and timber surveys	191,930
Miscellaneous	238,342
	<hr/>
	$ 8,626,826

Social Development

Housing and slum clearance	$ 673,708
Schools, Libraries, etc.	1,173,708
Hospitals, public buildings, etc.	5,634,842
Local Government assistance	877,698
Roads	9,667,778
Workmen's Compensation Board, loan	145,000
Miscellaneous	416,031
	<hr/>
	$18,888,855

And now, in concluding these explanations and comments in relation to the cash surplus, I should like to invite your attention to that portion of the Budget Speech of one year ago, wherein I stated: that it was the policy of the Government to have the greatest possible part of the surplus remaining to us, devoted to economic and social development, and the least possible part of it devoted to the squaring of deficits on current or ordinary account.

I take pride in pointing to the speed with which we have turned that policy into hard fact. In the year since then, and again in the new year which we recently began, we are achieving our aim to: "have the least possible part devoted to the squaring of deficits." Instead of drawing on the accumulated surplus to pay off deficits on current account, we are adding to that surplus a sum not far short of two million dollars earned on current account in these two years.

This record, I suggest, should give pause to those, both within and without this House, who have not hesitated to cry general blue ruin and to hurl charges of riotous extravagance against the Government. Such baseless statements do not, I suggest, reflect much credit upon the ability of such persons to assess properly the facts of our position or their ability to arrive at sound conclusions. Very little importance need be attached to the damage that the individuals concerned do to their own reputation in the community of Newfoundland; but such wild and silly statements could conceivably have gravely adverse effects upon the reputation of Newfoundland in other parts of the world. More than once, in the past, Newfoundland's good name outside Newfoundland has been damaged by Newfoundlanders. Let us unite in the last of this sort of thing.

Public Debt

As I reported in the Budget Speech of last year, the net debt of Newfoundland on the occasion of its birth as a Province was $4,398,700.

Through the normal operation of the Sinking Funds relating to our War and Victory Loans, the amount of net debt outstanding on the 31st March, 1951, was $3,983,000; and the continued functioning of the Sinking Funds during 1951-52 should result in a net outstanding public debt at 31st March, next, of $3,756,000.

With an estimated population of 355,000, the per capita debt of the Province of Newfoundland as at 31st March, 1951, was thus $11; and it is interesting to record that this is the lowest per capita debt of any of the Provinces of Canada. The per capita debts of the various Provinces as of January, 1951, stood as follows:

New Brunswick .....	$261
Nova Scotia .....	$217
Prince Edward Island .....	$142
Alberta .....	$140
British Columbia .....	$135
Ontario .....	$130
Manitoba .....	$121
Saskatchewan .....	$119
Quebec .....	$ 82
Newfoundland .....	$ 11

Contingent Liabilities

There are certain contingent liabilities of the Government of Newfoundland, in addition to the funded debt with which I have already dealt.

The heaviest single item of our contingent liabilities is our guarantee of the Bowater "B" Mortgage Debenture Stock. The outstandings on this account as of the 31st of March, 1951, are not yet available to us but we do know that, as of the 31st of March, 1950, the outstanding stock stood at £1,461,200 which was the equivalent of $4,500,496 Canadian dollars. There are also outstanding loans of $90,700 guaranteed by Government on account of the Harbour Grace and Carbonear Water Companies.

To the 31st of March, 1951, the Government has assumed liability for the ultimate liquidation of loans to commercial organizations, largely for fishery development and expansion purposes, of a total value of $1,794,500. Corrected to the 31st of March, 1950, the contingent liability thereunder stood at a total of $1,676,000.

Legislation in confirmation of such of these guarantees, not already specifically authorized by this House, will be introduced later in this Session but, for information, I record the position as of the 31st of March:

Guaranteed Bank Loans	Overall Guarantee	Outstanding at 31-3-51
Alberto Wareham Ltd. ....	$ 65,000	$ 65,000
Andrews Labrador Fisheries, Ltd. ....	160,000	130,000
Arctic Fisheries Products Ltd. ....	125,000	60,000
Fishery Products Ltd. ....	460,000	460,000
Northeastern Co-op. Fisheries Ltd. ....	35,000	35,000
Olsen Whaling & Sealing Co., Ltd. ....	375,000	375,000
Springdale Fur Farmers Co-op. ....	7,000	302
St. Lawrence Corporation of Newfoundland, Ltd. ....	527,500	527,500
U. C. Board of Education, St. John's .....	40,000	23,229
	$1,794,500	$1,676,031

Our Public Service

It is admittedly most gratifying to end the past financial year with so substantial a surplus, and to find it possible to budget for another substantial surplus for the current year. These surpluses are all the more satisfactory as unmistakable indications of the greatly improved economic conditions prevailing in the Province; and they stand as an adequate answer to those few amongst us, who seem to delight in forecasting financial ruin and disaster in the near future.

Gratified, however, as I am to be the bearer of this pleasant news of budget surpluses, I feel that I would not be discharging my full duty to the Province if I failed to utter a word of caution. It is, as everybody knows, much easier to spend money than to save it. The demands upon the public purse are practically insatiable, and are likely to remain so for many years to come in Newfoundland. This is true of ordinary account expenditure, but it is particularly true of those types of expenditure which can only be made out of surplus. The surplus realized on last year's accounts will, of course, be placed to the credit of the accumulated Cash Surplus as will also the surplus forecast for the current year. The total for the two years should amount to just under two million dollars, and this amount will become available for economic development in the Province and for the maintenance and extension of the public services. The calls, which must necessarily be made upon the Cash Surplus for economic development and extension of the public services—roads, hospitals, schools, and the like—will continue to be such as to make the total of the two-year surplus appear uncomfortably small by comparison.

There is this further point to be remembered: In the financial year which follows immediately after the present one, there will be the start of that tapering off in the Transitional Grant from Ottawa which goes inexorably on from then until the Grant disappears altogether. Next year we shall receive $850,000 less from Ottawa under this heading, and in the year after that still another $850,000 less, and so on each year. We know now that for the year commencing on April 1, 1952, we shall have to budget for $850,000 less revenue from the Transitional Grant, and it would be shortsighted indeed not to bear that fact in mind in our present calculations.

I mention these facts, not out of any spirit of pessimism, which I do not feel, but rather for the purpose of tempering any undue elation we may be tempted to encourage over the present buoyancy of our financial position. It is plain commonsense, and ordinary prudence, to lay aside now all the cash we can in the light of needs which positively must be met so as to counter-balance, at least in part, the heavy drain which we have made, are making and will continue to make upon our accumulated Cash Surplus for the purposes of encouraging economic development, and extending badly-needed public services.

In his recent Budget Speech to the House of Commons, Canada's Minister of Finance, Mr. Abbott, made an earnest appeal to the Governments of the Provinces to go as slowly as they can in capital expenditure. The Government are not unwilling to heed Mr. Abbott's appeal entirely, and have decided not to proceed with the building of the Newfoundland section of the Trans-Canada Highway with the speed and to the extent we had hoped to do. This decision will come undoubtedly as a disappointing one to many of our people, but even the most ardent supporter of the Trans-Canada Highway will probably realize, on reflection, the wisdom of our decision in the circumstances.

We hope, on the other hand, that Mr. Abbott and his colleagues in the Government of Canada will try to understand the extent by which we are different, in the matter of improving our public services, from even the other Atlantic Provinces of the nation, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. These three Provinces have long held the unenviable distinction of being the poorest of all the Provinces of Canada, yet Newfoundland lags far behind them in many, if indeed not all, levels of public services. We have still a long way to go to overtake them.

Newfoundland, without Labrador, is 42,000 square miles in size, Prince Edward Island 2,000 square miles. Our population is practically four times as large as that of Prince Edward Island. To be up to Prince Edward Island's level in the number of miles of motorable road, we would need to have 15,000 miles. Actually we have only 3,300 miles of motorable road. To be up to her level in the number of motor cars, motor trucks, buses and motor cycles, we would need to have 52,000. Actually we have only 16,000.

Or take Nova Scotia. She is just about half the size of Newfoundland, though her population is not far short of being double ours. So far as miles of motorable road are concerned, we would need to have 8,000 miles to be up to Nova Scotia, and we would need to have 52,000 motor vehicles.

Again, New Brunswick. Her population is almost double ours. To equal her we would need to have 9,000 miles of motorable road, and we would need to have 53,000 motor vehicles. I repeat, we have in fact 3,300 miles of motorable road and 16,000 motor vehicles.

Take the matter of public health. In Prince Edward Island they have one nurse for every 550 of their population; in Nova Scotia one for every 300; in New Brunswick one for every 530. Here in Newfoundland we have one for every 2,700. The same general story is true of medical doctors. New Brunswick has one doctor for every 1,400 of their population; Prince Edward Island one for every 1,200; Nova Scotia one for every 1,200. Here in Newfoundland we have one doctor for every 2,400 people. In the numbers of hospital beds per thousand of the population, we suffer just about as badly from comparison with the Maritime Provinces.

I could cite other figures to illustrate the point. The mandate received by this Government from the people of Newfoundland was a mandate, not to slow down, but rather to speed up, the programme of extending and improving the public services. To the safe limits of our means, we shall endeavour to do so.

I doubt, however, whether a majority of our people, or even of this House, are aware of the tremendous amounts of money spent in recent years to extend and improve certain of our public services. I refer now, not to the money spent on ordinary maintenance of these services, but on enlarging and extending them.

For example, we have spent the following amounts for hospitals and hospital services in the past sixteen years

1935-36	$ 135,297
1936-37	82,107
1937-38	177,123
1938-39	147,994
1939-40	263,089
1940-41	117,505
1941-42	266,804
1942-43	338,133
1943-44	437,886
1944-45	587,696
1945-46	549,354
1946-47	638,581
1947-48	1,625,356
1948-49	1,982,033
1949-50	2,078,064
1950-51	1,437,951
	<hr/>
	$10,834,984
	<hr/>

Nor is that all, for it cost $2,130,000 to furnish the hospitals that this money built, making a grand total of almost exactly thirteen million dollars spent on extending, enlarging and improving public health services in the past sixteen years. The present Government have spent almost a third of that total in the past two years—$4,357,884, to be exact. By the end of the current financial year, over $14,800,000 will have been spent under this heading, and the present Government will have spent $6,200,000 of it. And even after the spending of this huge sum of money, Newfoundland will lag far behind the Maritime Provinces of Canada.

Again, take roads. During the past sixteen years almost exactly $27,000,000 has been spent on the maintenance of roads, the reconditioning and rebuilding of roads and the building of new roads. $9,000,000 of this amount was spent to maintain the roads we have, $7,500,000 was spent to recondition and rebuild existing roads, $7,500,000 was spent to build new roads, and over $2,000,000 was spent on the Trans-Canada Highway—$27,000,000 altogether on roads in the sixteen years. I may say that the present Government have spent exactly one-third of this total amount in the past two years, but recovered or will recover, from the Government of Canada a very considerable portion of the amount spent on new road construction. During the sixteen years, 550 miles of road have been reconditioned or rebuilt and 564 miles of new road have been built—eleven hundred miles in all. In the two years this Government have been in office, we have been responsible for more than one-quarter of the total—378 miles to be exact. This is an astonishing amount of money for sixteen years, but even at the same rate of expenditure it would take us many years to catch up with the Maritime Provinces, for those Provinces are still spending more money on roads than we are doing, or than we can afford to do.

The same general story can be told of education. Large sums have been spent on building, enlarging and equipping schools in the past sixteen years, over and above the millions spent on ordinary maintenance costs. The total is over four-and-a-quarter million dollars—to be exact, $4,263,000.

It will thus be seen that we have spent, in the past sixteen years, on hospitals and health institutions, roads and schools, the sum of $35,000,000 as capital expenditure, over and above the costs of ordinary maintenance. Ordinary maintenance has cost many times that sum. Capital expenditures on these items averaged more than two million dollars a year for the sixteen years, but that fact does not really tell the story. Sixteen years ago the actual expenditure for the year on these three counts was about six hundred thousand dollars. Sixteen years later—that is, last year—the sum was nearly ten million dollars for the year. It is only in the past five or six years, and specially in the past two years, that Newfoundland has been in a position to spend anything like adequate amount on these vital social services. Indeed, for the first ten or twelve of those sixteen years, so little was spent each year that the services in question deteriorated alarmingly, and when the money was later available, even larger sums had to be spent to repair the damages, the wear and tear, of those earlier years of neglect.

Newfoundland is still discouragingly far below the levels of even the Maritime Provinces in these services, and unless we are to resign ourselves to the position that Newfoundlanders must always do with considerably less than the people of the Maritimes enjoy, we shall have to continue, so far as our revenues and surplus allow, to expand and improve these services.

Economic Development

A few words will be in place in this statement on the subject of our policy of economic development, for I have seen several instances suggesting that in some quarters, at least, it is not really understood. By "economic development" we do not mean industrial development alone, important as that is. By economic development we mean the development of all our natural resources—our very soil itself, our water-powers, our forests, our minerals, our fisheries; in short, all of our natural resources, be they large or small.

Newfoundland's economy has long been based mostly upon mere extractive industries. We extracted trees from the forests, minerals from the earth, fish from the sea, seals from the icefloes. It is true that most of the trees now extracted from the forests are fabricated or manufactured into pulp and paper, and this manufacturing process has created very real prosperity for us at Grand Falls and its many associated towns, and Corner Brook and its even more numerous associated towns. The cutting of soft-woods for the paper mills is an excellent example of continuing the extractive process to its logical conclusion of manufacture.

On the other hand, when we consider our hard-woods, we see an excellent example of the sort of thing that will keep Newfoundland poor and weak just so long as we continue to practice it. For centuries we have had vast numbers of birch trees, but what use have we made of them? In the first place, we never cut more than a trifling proportion of them; and those we did cut we merely sawed into birch junks for open fireplaces in private dwellings, and into ties for the railway. Both uses are the very lowest form of economic value. We must get the greatest possible value out of our birch. We must manufacture it into flooring, into veneer, into plywood. The plywood, in turn, must be manufactured into doors and furniture and a variety of other saleable products. We must manufacture our birch into dowels, bobbins, toys, bowls, and at least a hundred other good and valuable articles of sale. Divine Providence placed these great numbers of healthy birch trees in Newfoundland to be a help to man, and it is entirely man's fault if he fails to make the maximum use of them. It is a mark of stupidity and lack of vision when we have vast numbers of valuable birch trees rotting away or blowing down on the one hand, and large numbers of people suffering from a low standard of living on the other hand.

And exactly as we must get the last dollar of value out of our birch, through intelligent and vigorous planning of its utilization, so we must get the last possible dollar of value out of our minerals. At St. Lawrence there is some beneficiation of the fluor spar extracted from the earth, but not enough. We are still shipping untreated fluor spar to the mainland of this continent, to provide work and wages for others. At Buchans there is some beneficiation of the valuable ores extracted from the earth, but the time has surely come when further work-giving treatment must be given these ores in Newfoundland. New mines are very likely to open in Newfoundland, and we ought to be thinking along the lines of ensuring that they will yield up, and be made to yield up, to Newfoundland the greatest possible returns of work and wages.

And need we stop at merely smelting or refining these ores? Might not a wedding of our hydro-electric power, once developed, to these refined ores provide us with certain metallurgical industries, that would give still more work and wages?

Must we always be satisfied with the returns we get for raw oil and raw skins derived from our great seal-hunt? Should we not be planning to manufacture this oil, together with the oils derived from the whale hunt and the herring fisheries, into a more saleable and more profitable article of merchandise, and our seal-skins into valuable articles of sale? And for that matter, must we stop at manufacturing these oils into the finished state as leather or furs? The finished oils are the raw material for other products, and the leather and skins are the raw materials for still other even more valuable products. Should we not try to get the last dollar's worth of value out of all our raw materials?

This, then, is what we mean by economic development—developing all our natural resources to the ultimate degree, and getting the maximum value out of them for our people. It is a policy which comprehends all of our natural resources: the fish in the sea and the seals on the ice, as well as the minerals in the earth and the trees on the land, and the land itself. Nor does it envision merely large-scale industrial development, but includes activities employing as few as half a dozen men. Many hundreds of families get a good living in the Province of Quebec from carving hard-woods into toys and souvenirs, into salad bowls and ornaments. If the ranching of mink could give a good living to a thousand families, and the rearing of sheep a good living to several thousand others, there would be nothing industrial about it, but it would strengthen the economy of Newfoundland at least, as surely as the employment of almost as many in some large new factory.

This is the spirit of our policy of economic development, and there remains but one other comment to make. Who shall carry out this economic development? Ideally, perhaps, private enterprise. But if private enterprise is not enterprising? Shall Newfoundland go without this development for the lack of enterprise where it should be? The Government would be happy to stand back and from the side-lines observe a considerable drive by private enterprise to accomplish these good ends; but if that drive enterprise is lacking, then the Government feels it to be incumbent upon them to set the pace and set the example. Certainly we feel that we are easily justified in employing large portions of the accumulated cash surplus, and even the public credit, to bring about that development. And in every case where private enterprise is enterprising and competent enough to undertake the work, but lacks sufficient capital to do it, we are happy to help the good work along with financial assistance. This we shall continue to do to the last day we administer His Majesty's Government, and on this policy we are cheerfully prepared to stake our political fortunes in this House or in this Province.

The Fisheries

Every Newfoundlander is concerned in the fisheries, whether he realizes it or not. Every Newfoundlander's standard of living is largely determined by the state of the fisheries. In communities such as St. John's, Gander, Grand Falls, Buchans, Corner Brook and Bell Island this fact is not always clearly seen, but it surely requires very brief thinking on the part of any man, even a man apparently far removed from the direct operations of the fisheries, to realize that his own financial condition is very intimately affected by the financial condition of the 175,000 Newfoundlanders who get most of their living directly from the fisheries. The ability of the Government to collect revenue with which to build roads, hospitals, schools and other public conveniences is limited quite largely by the tax-paying capacity of those who get their living from the fisheries. By the same token it ought to be said that the financial condition and general prospects of those engaged in the fisheries are very much affected by the state of thousands of our people, whose living comes from development of our forests, minerals, water-powers and other resources.

Fisheries being the concern of all Newfoundlanders, it is fitting that all Newfoundlanders should know their Government's outlook upon the fisheries. I feel that the Government owe it to all concerned to state clearly and unequivocally their general attitude toward the problem of the fisheries. This attitude has been misunderstood in some quarters.

First, then, let me say that this Government have abiding faith in the ability of our fisheries to continue, and to expand, and to grow. We believe that our fisheries can be developed to the point where they will stand in the very front rank of the fisheries of the world.

It may be gross exaggeration to say of our other natural resources that "their surface has scarcely been scratched," but it is not exaggerating to say that we in Newfoundland have never even begun to exploit our fisheries to their limit.

Second, intelligent and sustained effort could develop our fisheries to the point where they yielded a decidedly better living for the toilers who engage in them.

Third, the most modern methods must be introduced into the operation of the fisheries. This means boats, engines, gear, methods of curing and processing, and methods of holding and packing. Fish is food, and in few fields has science advanced further than in the food field. The best techniques of handling food must be applied to fish.

Fourth, the fishermen must come to enjoy what they are fully entitled to have, a more equitable share of the fruits of their toil. Prosperous fisheries without prosperous fishermen is a contradiction in terms and a mockery of common sense.

Fifth, the co-operative technique must come to the fisheries. This will not be easy, and it will not be quick. It is easy to imagine many failures in the applications of this technique before at long last it operates with complete success. Blockheads may shrink in fear from the thought of a healthy co-operative movement developing slowly in the fisheries, and lump it ignorantly with such horrors as Communism; but it must be obvious to any honest, clear-headed thinker that if it is acceptable for one man or one group of men organized as a company or partnership to engage in the fisheries as merchants, it is at least equally acceptable for twenty or a hundred or a thousand fishermen to do precisely the same thing as co-operatives.

Sixth, the fishermen should in any case become strongly organized as fishermen, so as to have an intelligent occupational body to represent them, almost exactly as farmers, fruit-growers, loggers and other occupational groups are collectively represented.

Seventh, there should be the closest and friendliest collaboration of the Governments of Canada and sustained effort to evolve and direct Newfoundland in an intelligent and a modern programme in our fisheries.

Eighth, a strong Department of Fisheries is needed in Newfoundland. This need not necessarily be a very large department. But its personnel must be the best obtainable, and even the best may not be quite good enough.

Ninth, fresh thinking, and bold action are needed from all the important human elements engaged in the fisheries—merchants, brokers, fishermen, Federal and Provincial Governments, all.

Tenth, too much time must not be lost in achieving all these ends. Fisheries cannot be carried on without fishermen, and many of our fishermen have become discouraged. This is particularly true of younger men. Permanent solutions will not be reached in a month or a year, and it is during the interim period that something concrete, some short-term palliative, is needed.

Our fisheries have failed to keep abreast. If agriculture in Canada as a whole, or the United States, had similarly failed to adapt itself to the latest and best that science offered, the plight of the farmers today would be little if any better than that of our fishermen, and they would be paying the same penalty that our fishermen are now paying. This long heritage of neglected opportunities must now be ended, and the fisheries deliberately headed in new directions. What was thought to be good enough in the past was not good enough even in the past, and the present generation is feeling the pinch of past neglect and short-sightedness. In our present world it is unthinkable that the old methods will be willingly accepted, and if the next few years do not see science brought into the fisheries then the fisheries will shrink to a shadow of what they are even now. The more readily this fact is accepted and practised by all concerned, the more likely are our fisheries to be that source of strength for Newfoundland, which they must be, if we are to have a sound Newfoundland economy.

The Government's Overall Policy

The philosophy and the policy of this Government can be stated without difficulty or ambiguity. It is not economic development, for economic development is merely a means to an end, a way of realizing that policy. The policy itself is that of raising the standard of living in Newfoundland until it can at least be mentioned in the same breath with the general North American standard. It is the policy of accepting frankly the fact, that Newfoundland forms part of North America, and should strive to bring herself into the general category of North American standards of living. It is the philosophy of rejecting the old defeatist attitude that Newfoundland must be content with something considerably lower than the standard enjoyed by our neighbors on the mainland of Canada and the United States; of repudiating the notion that Newfoundlanders are somehow inferior to their North American neighbours and should not aspire to something like the same level of good living.

When I speak of standard of living I mean something more than just food, important as that is; something more than clothes. I am thinking of our schools and colleges, of our roads and streets, of our hospitals and clinics, of electric light and power, of playgrounds and swimming-pools and parks, of newspapers and magazines and radio, of hotels and tourist cabins, and of a score of other things which, when they are all taken together, are the measure of our material civilization. I am thinking of a people who are well fed, well clothed, well housed, well educated, well-informed. I am thinking of people who are too well educated and too well informed to be humbugged and deceived by charlatans and demagogues—an educated, alert-minded people who take deep pride in their homeland and in their nation, in their churches and schools, in their families and in their societies and organizations.

This is a philosophy of Newfoundland with which all Newfoundlanders must agree, to which all Newfoundlanders must give their allegiance. It is an ideal which must form the basis of our aspirations as a people and as a House of Assembly.

Can it be realized? This Government are sure that it can, and this surety is the mainspring of our faith and of our programme. We believe that it can be realized through economic development, through the expansion of old industries and the creation of new ones, through jobs and more jobs, wages and more wages. By this means, we believe, we can have more and better schools, more and better hospitals, more and better roads, better transportation by land and sea, better communications. We know of no other means to accomplish these ends. Only through economic development can we, as a people ever hope to march forward to those higher standards of living to which our heritage and our long sacrifice so clearly give us title.

This is the mainspring of our programme, and this is the strength that gives such urgency to our course of action. We do not believe that it is possible to achieve enduring or adequate results by anything short of strong, positive, energetic action. Newfoundland's troubles in the past arose chiefly from the fact that economic development did not keep pace with the growth of population, but lagged always far behind. Each new industry, when at last it did come, came too late to meet the needs that had so strategically grown. As Mr. Winston Churchill said during the last war, referring to material assistance to Britain, that it was "too little too late," so we see that economic development in Newfoundland was always too little too late. The railway was started in the early eighteen-eighties; the Bell Island mines ten years later; the Grand Falls industry fifteen years after that; and the Humber industry fifteen years after that again. If those four major economic developments had come within a space of fifteen or twenty years, instead of the forty years they took, and had been followed by four other major developments, Newfoundland today would have a population of over half a million people, and our standard of living would be the envy of our neighboring Atlantic Provinces of Canada. Because forty years elapsed between the first and the fourth of those developments, Newfoundlanders suffered and Newfoundland fell sharply behind in that great North American march forward to ever higher and higher standards of living.

This Government sees so vividly the need for swift development that it is resolved to spare no effort, and lose no time in its drive. It is inevitable that we make mistakes and miscalculations, and none but the most ungenerous would demand perfection or complete success from us. And if our strong sense of urgency drives us forward, the worsening situation in the world gives very special spurs to our sense of urgency. We feel that there is no time to lose, no time at all. We prospered greatly as a people in the late war, but found ourselves two short years after almost as economically weak as before it began. Another world war would give us another fleeting prosperity, but unless we broaden and strengthen the basis of our economy in the meanwhile, the subsequent post-war era would find us once again at the mercy of every economic wind blows, a people enmeshed in misery, without sustenance and without hope.

And so in spite of criticism, in spite of scepticism, in spite of jeering when we miscalculate or fail, we shall continue to press forward with all our strength and all our energy to the realisation of the great, good goal we have set before us. As a Government we are united, as a Party we are united in this historic campaign for higher standards of living for our people, and we enter now with faith and confidence our third year of administration of the King's Government."

---

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I move we adjourn the debate.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I move the remaining orders of the day be deferred.

MR. SPEAKER: I would remind the House that on Wednesdays private members' motions take precedence.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): I move they be deferred, Mr. Speaker.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move, Mr. Speaker, that the House at its rising adjourn until tomorrow, Thursday at three of the clock.

MR. SPEAKER: Before I adjourn the House it is the wish of the honorable Premier acting as Minister of Finance to see the members of the House in the outer room immediately after adjournment.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

THURSDAY, May 10th, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

None.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motions and Questions

None.

Answers to Questions

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, I have here the answer to Question 102 on the Order Paper of May the 8th, 1951.

Answer: (1) $711,895.

(2) The information can not be supplied in that form. The returns are compiled from six areas which in many cases comprise two or more electoral districts and portions of other electoral districts.

(3) The answer to that is the reply was tabled in reply to question No. 25.

While I am on my feet, in reply to question No. 103 asked by the honourable and gallant member from Ferryland—

(1) The answer is that under the act it is required to compile and submit to the respective Minister who in turn is required to table in the House within five days of receiving them.

I speak for myself, the board responsible to me has not sent in any report as yet but as soon as it is received it will be tabled. The Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives can speak for himself, as to whether he has received any reports.

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): With regard to the point just raised, I think the date is March 31 for submitting those reports. With regard to Question 92 addressed to the Minister of Economic Development and referred to me concerning the Ice Project on the Gaff Topsails. The answer is it started in the latter part of March. The reason it was started was because the estimated ice shortage for fishery purposes in Newfoundland was 20,000 tons. The Government undertook to cut some ice at Gaff Topsails in the hope of relieving the shortage. The estimated expenditure was $25,000, on 14 April orders were issued to wind up operations. The losses can be calculated until such time as the sale of the ice is completed.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I move, Mr. Speaker, that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Speaker, do I understand now that you have notices of questions?

MR. SMALLWOOD: A point of information. Was I correct in assuming the debate on the budget takes place on the Motion "you do now leave the Chair." When the motion is finally carried, that is the end of the debate so that any member desiring to speak to the motion "that you do now leave the chair," ought to do so now. If that is the fact, that is the end of the debate.

MR. SPEAKER: With regard to this motion, that is the old way and does tend to confuse under the new rules. Both those motions would be combined, Mr. Speaker would not leave the chair until the debate is completed. I called it now because I wondered if the honourable the Finance Minister wanted to make some remarks about the Estimates.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, on the Estimates I propose in actual committee on supply, to make such remarks as I need in respect of the Departments for which I am personally responsible and each Minister will likewise in respect to his own department's estimates. What I intend to say on the Budget I will say and I shall assume any other honourable member who desires to take part in the debate will do also on my motion, "you do now leave the Chair."

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, is the motion before the Chair now that you do now leave the Chair?

MR. SPEAKER: I am about to explain now, I called notices of motions as I was under the impression the honourable the Minister of Finance has something to add to the distribution of the Estimates. Committee of the Whole on Supply.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, again if I may rise to a point of information and for the purpose of seeking your guidance: My understanding is the Committee on Supply deals with the Estimates, and the Committee of Ways and Means deals with the Budget and what I was hoping was that the House might be ready now to proceed with the debate on the Budget.

MR. SPEAKER: That is the order I just called to continue the debate. I have already said the two motions which are separated on the Order Paper, in my opinion, ought not to be. The committee cannot sit until Mr. Speaker leaves the Chair, the motion yesterday was to adjourn.

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, I wish first of all to express my appreciation to the Official Opposition for permitting me to next speak in reply to a Government Order, although I have no intention or hope or ambition of taking up any more time than the rules permit, yet I appreciate being put in the position where I don't have to keep my eyes on the clock.

I intended to speak and still intend to speak on three points.

First that the terms of union under which the present Government is operating are so hopelessly inadequate that not only have I no confidence in their ability to govern successfully but have no confidence in any other government, not under those terms.

Secondly that, apart altogether from the terms, this Government is not making the best of a bad bargain. My third point is that the one immediate salvation of the situation, the fire escape, is that within the terms of union, term 29, and I propose at the close of my address, Sir, to submit an amendment which will have to do with the immediate implementation of that term.

But after hearing so recently the Minister of Finance's Budget Speech it would be almost discourteous to go on into my address without making some reference to it. Now he received many compliments yesterday on his address, he did not receive one from me as his and my social relations are in a sort of state of flux as far as I know at the moment. But I am going now to pay him a well deserved compliment. His address was one of the ablest on the bringing down of a Budget in the history of this Province or country. I am going to pay a greater compliment; there were times when he almost impressed me and for the Premier to impress me on any subject is no mean achievement. I am sorry however that in his address there was just one thing which I felt was a little below the high standard set by the rest of the speech. It was just a sentence, not a paragraph, but I will refer to the whole paragraph so the sentence will be in proper context. He said: "This record should give pause to those within and without this House who have not hesitated to cry general blue' ruin and to hurl charges of riotous extravagance against the Government. Such baseless statements do not, I suggest, reflect much credit upon the ability of such persons to assess properly the facts of our position or their ability to arrive at sound conclusions. Very little importance need be attached to the damage that the individuals concerned do to their own reputation in the community of Newfoundland, but such wild and silly statements could conceivably have gravely adverse effects upon the reputation of Newfoundland in other parts of the world. More than once in the past Newfoundland's good name outside Newfoundland has been damaged by Newfoundlanders. Let us unite in the hope that we have seen the last of this sort of thing." Now I am sure the honourable Minister did not mean by that statement to plant anything in our minds over here that would possibly restrict debate, but there is a danger that some of the more timid of us might feel like easing up a little on criticizing him, for fear we might unwittingly or otherwise be doing some irreparable damage to Newfoundland. I want to make a comment or two on that because I think this debate should be wide-open. In the first place the Estimates and Budget and the honourable gentleman's address thereon are public documents. If there is anything in all this that is on the face of it detrimental to Newfoundland, it could not be hidden; if we had a deficit or our surplus diminished at a certain rate or anything else happened and it is contained in the Budget Speech it cannot be hidden from the people of Newfoundland or the people abroad. If something that is not evident here is added by me or by any other gentleman on this side of the House; if it is not sound, the backer, the industrialist, the financial look at the actual picture, the fellow who said that is just an idiot, a jackass not to be taken seriously. On the other hand if they hear what we say they have exactly the same opportunity to see for themselves. It is rather difficult for me to say anything about the financial position of Newfoundland that would do irreparable harm, or discourage someone from pouring a few million dollars in or starting a paper mill. We have two today, Sir, and even if I say the Government is hopelessly bankrupt, Bowaters would carry on just the same. It would not affect newspaper operations nor their markets nor paper, not my word alone, perhaps world conditions might, but that, directly, no. So in spite of that sentence which I say was a little below the standard of the rest of the speech, in spite of that I say in all sincerity, I could not admit the danger of irreparable harm from anything I may say, I could not allow that to discourage me from making the few remarks I am about to make.

Now, Sir, before I leave the Estimates, I am not going to say much about them, there is not much to say: First there was a surplus on current account during the past year. Secondly there is estimated to be a surplus on account, for the year now estimated and thirdly at the end of the third year of our existence as a province we are going to have a sizable portion of our original surplus still left.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I call the honourable members attention to page three, that is where the whole story is told, on the bottom of the page, there is a reference there to the huge surplus on current account we once had and are going to have and then the total estimated to be still left at the end of 1951-52. With regard to the surplus on current account last year, I forgive the Government for having a big surplus—it was as big a surprise to them as it was to anyone when they found they had it, I will forgive them. But to budget cold-bloodedly for a surplus on current account during the coming year and at the same time on the floor of this House to emphasize how under-served we are in this country, how our social welfare, education, health, roads are still below standards of even the Maritime Provinces, is beyond my understanding. If the honourable members on the other side do, I don't think it is anything to be proud of, it is one of the last things in the world I expected the present Premier to show pride in, that with the standard of social service, transportation and other services still far below that of the poorest of the other provinces we budget for a surplus on current account.

Well now that surplus is going to be placed with that part of the original surplus, the part that is going to be used for paying current deficits.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is not so. Will my honourable friend allow me? The surplus is the surplus that existed at the date of union and any surplus accumulated since the date of union is not subject to the Terms of Union.

MR. RUSSELL: Therefore show up as a part of the three million.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Exactly where we should.

MR. RUSSELL: I don't care where. Let us take this case, therefore there are going to be two amounts at the end of the current year in current account. Now I want to tell the honourable House, Mr. Speaker, one very disturbing factor and I can't help what harm it does, it is a fact and it is just as well to face it and know. During the next five years, the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth of our life as a Province, one little item only, the reduction of the transitional grant by $850,000 per year will just on the reduction annually of the transitional grant before the eight years are up bring us a reduction of revenue which will have the effect of a deficit unless taxation is up to offset the fifteen and three quarter million dollars. So if the terms of union just went on its ordinary way and the Royal Commission came, it has to come sometime within the eight years, but if it is not until the eighth year by that time that ten million and another two million that might be accumulated later on as current surplus if they care to put it in there will all be wiped out just by that one fact alone. Even if they don't build the Ferryland Hospital and have additional expenditures, even if they don't build new additional roads which will mean extra current expenditure if they just hold it, the whole of that ten million eight hundred thousand dollars is gone in that eight years on that one thing alone, the reduction in the transitional grant.

Another item on speaking of public services says there will be twenty-two million and a half left. That is about enough to build and pave one hundred and ten miles of Trans-Canada Highway. We are committed for more than that.

There is nothing in these estimates about economic development. True, there is some money to complete paying for projects last year, and projects still being constructed. If the program of economic development, Sir, goes ahead as actively as last year, it will mean this amount here, this item to be left at the end of the current fiscal year won't be half enough to finance the continuance. No doubt the Government has made it quite clear, it intends to carry on economic development but there is no money here for it; all I see here is for the completion of the cement and the gypsum mills and the birch plant and some advertising for local industries. I submit, just before I close this book now, not to open it any more today—I submit that the program of economic development is being curtailed, and there is not going to be all the new industries we heard about yesterday, until they forget or they can sell the cement mill and use that money because they can't take the money on deposit at Ottawa under the Terms of Union, that is there for a specific purpose and it is going to be badly needed for that purpose. Until they do that they have to borrow money, I figure, within a year. Now that is all I am going to say on the subject.

Getting back to my original point that I was going to say all the time: I say, Sir, that if we had in the government the greatest statesmen, a group of the greatest statesmen in the world, if we could resurrect some of the dead and form a government with the greatest names in history living or dead, they could not operate this Province successfully with the terms which we have. In criticizing the terms I feel I am a little bit unusual as a critic, because, Sir, I was a Confederate. After all I worked about eighteen hours a day down around the headquarters. I suppose people will believe I voted for it. I was a Confederate with no illusions and I still think I had no other course. With several honourable members on the other side of the House, including the Premier, I discussed public affairs long before ever there was a referendum. I apologize if I am wrong but I seem to remember I told the honourable gentleman, now Premier, at that time, before the National Convention was elected, that I was in favour of retention of Commission of Government, and the honourable the Premier may remember he said: "Supposing I can prove to you some day that the Commission of Government want to go." Anyway I finally had proven to my satisfaction that the Commission wanted to go. I was interested in Responsible Government. I can now tell a secret. I had gone so far, I was not in public life then.

Mr. Speaker, if you remind me I will tell you exactly why I got into public life, but I intended to live in the country and was interested in the best form of government I could help get. I have invited the honourable member for Ferryland to my home to discuss ideas as to what we could do after Responsible Government, and I talked with a good many of the leaders. Well, I chose Confederation. And I still say this that from the day it was decided to hold a National Convention, Confederation had to come. I will make another statement with which a good many disagree: As for the terms we got, we could not have gotten any better any other way. People today like myself who know they are not satisfactory and will ruin us, would say what we should have done was get Responsible Government first, and then from one sister Dominion to another we would have gotten better terms. I don't believe it has a thing to do with it. If we had had an election the party now in power would have been elected and I doubt if among their ranks, even when I was among them, they could have picked any delegates more capable than the ones who went away to discuss the terms. I don't believe we would have gotten as good terms. Well we got them. Being what they are, I have already said no government could run the province successfully with them.

Our great need today is for better terms and there are two possible hopes of getting them, one hope is through a man named Drew, who promised a couple of years ago during the last federal campaign that if he were elected, his Government were elected, he would reopen negotiations about the terms and since I have no way of knowing he was telling lies I am going to believe him, I am going to believe he was a bit ashamed of the terms and probably would have tried to give better terms if elected. I am not very optimistic about a change that way. If every one in Newfoundland unanimously agreed the terms were not good enough, if one hundred percent of the electorate voted for that, if every one in Newfoundland had voted for that gentleman's party in the last election, he would not have been any nearer or very little nearer to being Prime Minister than he is today, as our influence in federal politics is only in proportion to our size.

There is one other hope: The honourable Premier referred to Clause 29 as one he was particularly proud of and well he might be. I can quite well believe he had a great deal to do with getting that clause inserted in the terms. Now whether the Royal Commission comes next year or in six years' time it is not a matter of principle. There is nothing about the principle of their coming earlier. It ought not to be very distasteful or repugnant to the Government, it is just a matter of time. Consequently, I submit my amendment is not necessarily an amendment which would move for or constitute a motion of non-confidence. The authorities are quite clear on it, such a motion is only a non-confidence motion if the Government decides it should be so.

Now the worst feature about the terms, Mr. Speaker, the very worst feature, the killing thing about them is that we do not get any compensation for the difference between the debt that we had, the per capita debt of Newfoundland and the enormously higher per capita debt we assumed when we became Canadians. The result is (now I am going to talk about another forgotten fisherman not on the Bill of Cape St. George's, but on any Cape, Cape Bonavista, any Bill and Cape) every member on both sides generally realizes there are places in their district exactly like what I am speaking about. On one side of Cape Bonavista there is a three mile stretch where there are a good many forgotten fishermen. They are appealing for help to the Federal Government today, through me, through the Federal Representative, for some assistance to make the beach and fore-shore a fit place to barrow fish up from their boats that they have to haul up every night and they want some facilities to make it fit to wheel their barrows of fish to get them up to the stages. They are told, no, that is a Federal matter now and they have been refused continuously any Federal assistance. Meantime improvements are going on a few miles away in the main harbour. That is no help to them and never will be, they cannot get any assistance; former Governments used to keep little roads built up, but the Federal Government will not. Yet every one of the fishermen are today paying through the nose for Federal public works being done in Canada ten, twenty, thirty and forty years ago, because building Federal Works helped to create the national debt of Canada. I suppose the ordinary man, if he smokes a package of cigarettes a day about 25c. of that goes to Ottawa and anybody who smokes, smokes a package of cigarettes a day, spends almost a hundred dollars a year on cigarettes which goes to Ottawa. He is paying for the National debt, Sir, service charges on the national debt of Canada are a very, very high part of the expenditure of the Federal Government, it is only a matter of looking it up in the Budget, it is calculated to a cent on some items. These fishermen, I say, are paying for public works done in Canada years ago and still being done and they can't get a cent. They can't get a subsidy on fish, oh no, but they today are paying on their tobacco and long rubbers for subsidies given years ago, because the result of these subsidies is a part of the national debt and they wonder why beaver tobacco and long rubbers have gone up 60% and long rubbers are $10 a pair.

Now the one thing that is killing us is these terms. The economic development will not help. I don't care what economic development we have, I want to see just as much of it as anybody in this House, but it will not help this one paralyzing effect of Confederation because the faster we earn money the faster it goes. We could refuse to sign the tax rental agreement, we would be a little better off; but under these terms, Sir, all development is just like trying to fill a bath tub with the plug not in it.

Now any Government elected two years ago had two choices as to what to do about the surplus, two choices whichever Government got in, actually in one respect only. I won't say any other respect but in one respect it might have been better had the other party got in. At least they had had no part in having anything to do with them and would feel free in criticizing them, but whoever got in could only have done one of two things with regard to the surplus. I stood on that side of the House and said it belonged to the people and should be given back to where it would do most good. We could have said this: Let us stretch it out and make it last for eight years, only a little of it here and there until at the end of eight years when the Royal Commission came we would have been able to say: well we cut the cloth to fit the garment. We still have some money left, we are not broke yet; however, the teachers had to give up as they had not enough salary. Our hospitals and health services are away below that of the other Provinces, but we saved the money. That attitude could have been taken. I have heard the word "Tory" often in this House. If ever a Tory still lived I think that would have been a Tory attitude. The other thing that could have been done was this: Use the surplus to build Newfoundland up to the Canadian level supposing it was spent in five months. Use it, then say to the Royal Commission in the first year ask the Government to send down a Royal Commission and they would have asked, what have you done with the money and we could have answered, nothing except what was right to do. Our people are Canadians now, we were willing to have it so. Canadians in other parts of the country have good schools, etc., and so we used the money in an effort to bring the standard up to theirs. The surplus did not last long but what difference about that, we used it; that would have been another attitude, the Government did not take either one. They picked at the problem. Now I would have supported the Government on either one of those attitudes but I cannot say from my experience that they had their minds made up on either one. The truth of the matter is, it is already gone. What they are spending now is the same money over three or four times. The minute we signed an agreement with the Federal Government to build the Trans-Canada Highway it was as well to take the surplus, it was earmarked. We know very well we can't earmark it for one thing and go ahead and spend it for another. We are told this year we are going to curtail, naturally we are going to have less expenditure but the Trans-Canada Highway, the part built, is going to have to be built to get tourists to come over to Newfoundland, they are not going to come over dirt roads or through pot-holes. You can hide away the problem, defer it for a year or two but the problem, Sir, is like Joe Louis used to say about opponents in the ring: they can run but can't hide; it is there and has to be faced some time. Now I say they are just picking at the problem. I have a very embarrassing job on my hands, I have to refer to a particular member on the other side of the House. The problem I am faced with: someone told me not to say anything bad about anybody but I have to be careful not to say anything good, not one kind remark. I am afraid if I do that they will say I am trying to work on him, trying to seduce him, so I am not going to make a kind remark about anyone. But the honourable the Minister of Public Welfare must realize surely that what he wants to do, and is trying to do in Public Welfare, is only touching the fringe of the problem; that a home for the delinquents housing eighteen or twenty or twice that amount is more or less a laboratory rather than a practical attempt to solve the problem. The impact of a home or institute of that kind, is so tiny—and how can it hope to be anything else with the money he has. Instead of $10,000 gone into the Estimates for a home for the aged and infirm; the total vote should be more than $550,000. I hope this won't hurt but the setting up of domestic courts to deal with the terrific widespread problem of domestic relations and the contribution the domestic relations court will make towards solving the problem that the honourable Minister would like to solve, cannot please the Minister who knows that a great proportion of the revenue that makes possible the setting up of that court is derived from the very source that makes that court necessary, in a good many cases profits from liquor. Now if that is not a vicious circle I never saw one. Wayfarer stated yesterday, "We have a welfare state.", but I submit we have not a welfare state revenue.

Health: We heard yesterday, and I need not repeat, talk about how low our standard of health and medical services is compared with the Maritime Provinces. I believe the honourable Minister of Health would like to do a great deal more but he has not the money. We were told yesterday, I am not sure of the exact words, but it was plain we could not afford it. I say we should be able to afford it, we got to have it.

Housing: I say it is financial insanity to ever think of borrowing money to promote subsidized housing, financial insanity. If anyone in the world is fool enough to lend such money we should not be fools enough to take it, take it and build houses; but as far as the Government is concerned they immediately have two things, service charge and interest and sinking fund on money paid and the deficits that have to be made up in subsidizing the rents.

One of the reasons the Budget looks so good for the coming year is that there is only a small amount, probably only $600,000, for slum clearance; and the honourable gentleman on the Housing knows very well that under the present state of affairs he will never be able to do the things he would like to do and would do if he had the money.

Education: I don't need to elaborate, I don't want to rub any salt into wounds at all. The problem of education is a little too real, the papers today are full of it. I am going to say one word about education before I forget it, that is, if we could abolish the present system of denominational education it would not help a bit—only offend half the population and still would not solve anything. I am pretty satisfied with the system we have in Newfoundland today, if people want to amalgamate they are free to do so and if they don't they need not. I don't see how it can be improved on.

The honourable Minister for Public Works—I wonder how he feels when a program is curtailed. You know today we are compelled to build roads not where they are needed but in places where, if roads were not being built, the people would have to get dole. We have quite often to link road work together with relief. We have a great many requests from people asking for roads which are needed and the answer has to be: wait until next fall and if there is a good many of you in danger of needing dole, we will begin building a road, if not you have to do without it. Trying to make the same money do for roads and relief as well, I tell you, Sir, is poor economy, the same kind of economy a little boy uses when scolded for putting jam and butter on a slice of bread. "It is not wasteful," he says, "I am making the same slice of bread do for both." Well, there is hardly enough money left to build a new Provincial Government building, and they are going to need it, for in case of war the Provincial Government will be turned out on the street as they will have to give up the buildings behind the Newfoundland Hotel.

The fisheries: Quite a bit was said yesterday of good cheer and encouragement to the fisheries but no one ever yet told me why a guaranteed price for fish cannot be had. One of the terms, rather an important one, looks as if it might restrict us, I am not sure. It is open to interpretation. One man's opinion is as good as another, but it looks as if it restricts the Provincial Government from paying a subsidy. But whether they are allowed to give subsidies or not or guarantee prices or not, we have to guarantee that the fishermen and their families will not starve throughout the winter, whoever is to guarantee that. Therefore when a man needs $10.00 a quintal for fish and gets $7 and because of that he needs that extra $2 or $3 to live for the winter, we have to give it to him in the form of dole. I see no reason, and no one ever told me yet, why there can not be collaboration among the fishermen, the merchants, NAFEL and the two governments—why some scheme cannot be worked out during the transitional period between now and the day—and I hope it comes quickly—that the fisheries are modernized.

As to our new industries, let us get this fact straight. These are projects we hope will be new industries, but I refuse to say the birch mill is an industry until such time as it is turning out some products. At the present time there is only one industry—a building one. I don't know what we are going to get out of these new industries. I hope a great deal, but I do think the Federal Government has gotten plenty already. Every workman who is spending his wages is contributing lavishly to the Federal Exchequer. The one great weakness about new industries, from the Government point of view, is the difference between a new industry now in a Province and as it used to be in a Dominion. There is so little we can get out of it as a Government, the Federal Government gets it all. If a new industry does start somewhere one or two miles from here and there are a hundred or a thousand employed there, the chances are the Provincial Government cannot get enough out of that to build a school house there. Mr. Speaker, as far as the new industries are concerned we are in the position with the Federal Government, as the two Englishmen who owned the cow. One owned the front and the other owned the hinder part, and we can't afford to feed her unless we have some other source of revenue. We, of course, get something from the workmen if they drink or if they use gasoline, as such things are subject to the three percent sales tax.

Now I have to be a little more unpleasant in the next section of my talk. When I said very broadly that the Government is not making the best use of the terms as they are—in order to explain my meaning I have to use a phrase I never intend to use again so long as I live after today "Cabinet solidarity." One honourable member read me some authorities on Cabinet solidarity which I was supposed to have attacked, read them for my enlightenment. I would like to read them again for enlightenment, for one of them said: "Cabinet solidarity is in effect something that was built up in order to protect any single minister the Crown might get after." If, for example, the Crown said it objects to an action of a minister or even the political head of the House, the Cabinet says: "no, just a moment now, we are all in this together." This authority said it was there to limit the power of the Crown and promote the interest of the people. (I had ambitions at one time to become a lawyer during my time as a magistrate in the outports). This example given was an actual case where once a Government had a Cabinet member who would not agree with the majority on the matter of free trade, and they said, "all right, we have enough majority without you, you vote against it," so what difference, relax cabinet solidarity. A few weeks later what did they find? The same minister began grumbling and they said, "stop this foolishness; agree with it or leave." In other words it is a very convenient thing to have in the Cabinet "the right to relax" if it wishes. I did not mention that when the honourable member was telling me about cabinet solidarity.

MR. SPEAKER: You are referring to a previous debate.

MR. RUSSELL: I am only making remarks relevant to this one. Does this give me the right to make a motion?

MR. SPEAKER: You may refer to the authorities but not to remarks made by the honourable member.

MR. RUSSELL: So I should not proceed any longer along this line.

MR. SPEAKER: By all means but without reference to the honourable member who quotes the remarks.

MR. RUSSELL: Well, I have heard this cabinet solidarity was the life blood, the backbone almost of party politics, the party system of politics, then hear it referred to as having people who died for that, gave their lives, suffered and died for that cause. Now, Sir, I have heard about a lot of causes for which people have fought and died and gone to jail, but I have yet to hear of anyone who did so for party politics or cabinet solidarity. Probably some poor fellow got drunk and had his head knocked off and died for party politics, that would be the only case I could imagine. And I must say that he did not write "If I should die think only this of me, I died for Cabinet Solidarity." But I will tell this House of a cause the people have died for, millions of them, and are dying in South Korea today, and that is the right of people to govern themselves. The Government should not only be of the people and for the people but by the people. The sum total of all they have ever won in the struggle for liberty, the sum total of all adds up to one simple act they perform from time to time, that is all they wanted, political liberty, the right to elect a House of Assembly, not a Government. The people do not elect House of Assembly. Mr. Speaker, I don't want to overwork our stenotypist and I suggest a recess.

House recessed for ten minutes.

MR. RUSSELL: The sum total of all this means we in Newfoundland have won political liberty summed up in the right to elect a representative to parliament, to the House of Commons of the House of Assembly or whatever name it is given. The Crown seems to me to meet with the people then through their representatives and they pick the Prime Minister. He in turn picks the Cabinet

But elected members are here in this House for one reason only, because there is not room in the House for all the voters of Newfoundland. There would be no order or no business done if all who could get in were here instead and I say, rightly or wrongly, my first duty and the first duty of every member is to the people, and to put that duty before the duty to the Party, the Premier, the Leader of the Opposition or anyone else. Now, Sir, I am not going to say that the present Government are dictatorial, as they are not, but I will say that where you have thirteen Cabinet Ministers as we did all last winter and the estimates provide for twelve Department Heads the precedent has already been established to appoint another without portfolio. When we have thirteen members of the Cabinet coming into this House of the people when the House is in session to look for approval for their past acts and their future planning they only needing one private member to insure that everything goes through. They have thirteen in a House with a voting strength of twenty-seven. I say that if just one more minister is appointed without portfolio, and there is nothing to prevent the Premier from doing it, if that were done, it would mean, in effect, the abolition for all practical purposes of the House of Assembly, and the disenfranchisement of all the electors of all the districts that private members represent. It is not a dictatorship, Sir, but I say when we have thirteen in a House with a voting strength of twenty-seven, that is very near the 38th parallel. One honourable member is going to eat his hat if ever I become a Tory, so here now I want to warn him he may be exposing his digestive organs to great danger. He may—I do not care, Sir, what label he or anyone else puts on the package so long as the principles inside are principles I consider sound. I will say this, that I will never again be a member of any cabinet which is very nearly in a position to get its policies agreed to almost by sheer weight of numbers. I said, and I say again, this Government today only needs four ministers in the Cabinet, that is all there is work for and in due course if the opportunity comes I will move it. I am not picking on any one in particular, I will possibly pick the first six to reduce or delete.

That reminds me, yes I do think a Cabinet should be a study club. It is the second time I have heard a study club mentioned in a rather disparaging way; my honourable friend here won't allow me to refer back, said one time in the National Convention; there is nothing better than a study club. I wish it had been a study club. A study club is a very important institution. Thousands like it have laid the foundation of the Co-operative movement and without them we could never have the co-operative movement. There is need for a great deal of study in any cabinet. In the description I heard just after I left the Cabinet on how business is done there, I hardly recognized the old face. Now Sir, I don't intend to go listing any errors of the Government; I have not so far except for one or two illustrations, but I will make some reference to a subject being debated here. It was discussed here before but it is very, very pertinent to the budget and the estimates, that is the Audit Act.

I listened to our two legal members expressing a difference of opinion on the subject and, Sir, it is not the first time I have had to sit and listen to two lawyers give different viewpoints on the same subject and finally try and decide which one was right and which wrong or if they were both wrong. The Audit Act was passed in 1932, I am discussing the amendments, it is quite rightly a Tory Act, although it is strange to see a Liberal Government so willing to use a Tory institution. It was passed in 1933. What did the Liberals think of it then? They thought the same then as I do now. The Honourable F. Gordon Bradley, then the leader of the Liberal Party, in good Liberal fashion said what he thought of the proposed Bill, saw in it a danger to the House of Assembly and said so. In fact, he argued so elegantly that, when the debate ended, there was a sort of gentlemanly agreement between him and the then Prime Minister that the Bill would come up every year for reconsideration. Unfortunately, perhaps, anyway it happened that before another year we had another kind of government. I say today that morally that Bill is dead as a door nail; and I share the fears expressed by my fellow Liberals in 1933 that there is a danger to the proper purpose of the House of Assembly. I have to make this criticism about the Government as mildly as I can make it, that they are not taking proper advantage of the Terms of Union, whenever they duplicate a service the Federal Government is doing or going to do or ought to be made do. The real tragedy of the Icelandic Boats,—it is getting almost stylish to refer to them and their failure—is not the money lost, it is the fact that the Federal Government might have done the herring research anyway. But it is more serious than that to me when we undertake something the Federal Government ought to have done and as far as we know are prepared to do or should be made do; saying in effect to the Federal Government: keep your nose out of this business, we will attend to it ourselves. Now, Mr. Speaker, that is not diplomacy on the highest level, to say the least. There is a danger that it would almost be considered discourteous and rude to a Government that we depend on so much, and a Government that can do this that we need done and can't do ourselves or can't afford to do. I am not going to mention any effort except that one; but it certainly has not made our relationship with Ottawa any better than it ought to be. If I do that, I might list one that Ottawa does not know about yet, but that is very doubtful.

I am not so happy when I hear about the great enlargement likely to come in the Department of Fisheries. I am not so sure the Department of Fisheries, the Provincial Department, is so very necessary. Last year I lived across the corridor from them. I remember two of them up there, one down from Quebec, got a title here, Fisheries Processing technician or something. I understand his work is to go around and look over the co-operatively owned driers, two of them, one at Lourdes and one at Change Islands. He should not be very busy. The other fellow is a good man in lots of ways, his chief work to be Lord High Admiral to the Icelandic Navy.

Now, Sir, I would have liked to say something about the Co-operative Movement but I decided not to, except just this: I will agree with the Government that it is not for them to go down in history as the Government that killed the Co-operative Movement by smothering it with Government financial assistance. A good many countries made the same mistake; felt the co-operative movement should get a move on, hurry up a little. Government after Government found out to their sorrow that it can't be done. One final word on this thing, the Government is not making the best use of the time, I think. It will soon be time for honourable gentlemen on the other side of the House to make up their minds what to do about the merchants. If there is going to be some policy, something gained by eliminating them and having something else in their place, it is all right for the Government to go ahead and do it; but in the meantime we are not so rich, so well-off, so prosperous. In fact the optimism we heard yesterday seemed to me very much like the optimism of the man who fell from the top of the Empire State Building; as he was passing a window on the fiftieth floor he was heard to say, "Well I am all right so far."

I like to think we have a country where if people want to be merchants they can, if they don't want to be they need not. When people want to buy from them they can do so and those who want some other system can also have it. I have no brief for the merchants but I am going to warn the Government that, if they are not careful, the merchants won't play in their back yard either.

Now, Sir, I want to come to the last point: why the Royal Commission ought to come now. I want it to come now, Sir, first of all before the money is all gone but probably when they come they won't give us better terms; perhaps we will have to wait for Drew after all. Probably they will say we wasted our surplus and we can now stew in our own juice. If there is the least danger whatsoever, the least little bit of danger of that happening we should have the Commission now while we have money left. It is alright for them to come now before we commit ourselves further. Now I could say a lot on the whole range of government activity, but what is the use for me to say a lot; and the Premier may call me a traitor. Name calling is childish. We are getting nowhere, let's stop it. Let the Royal Commission come and I feel sure when they do come they will first of all say: what has been done with the money and what are we doing with it? They will be a friendly group, if they come now instead of five or six years hence. We are at least getting them from a friendly government, comparatively the same as our own. Let them come. If I say the Liquor Board does not do a week's work in the run of a year, anybody can criticize me and say they do twenty weeks or three weeks or twenty-two weeks. Give this Commission a chance as soon as possible, a chance to look at these hundreds and hundreds of things. Maybe they will say the board is working hard, the men are overworked and need assistants; if so they may add to what they give us in the way of better terms. Instead they may bring in recommendations, become authorities on this item and make this policy and that, and put all on a much higher level. I would like to see it come before we take advantage of the Constitutional Amendment now being discussed. I think before that we should be given a proper starting point. As for contributory old age pensions I oppose them, and I opposed Col. Drew for recommending them in the district two years ago.

One reason I liked Confederation was that there seemed to be no alternative. Profits were pouring out of this Province and we were getting nothing back. Almost anytime an old fisherman or a middle aged one could see his profits go up to Ontario; he has been contributing to them all his life and now must contribute to them again. They do not knock at the door and ask for this week's 10c. contribution, but he pays it in extra taxation and I am opposed to taxation on the "Beaver" of the fishermen. The fishermen are contributing to the richer provinces, and to the Federal Government. On his "Beaver" tobacco he is contributing plenty. I am opposed to anything that blinds peoples' eyes and incidentally, my impression of the hidden sales tax is that it will be no more than 3% for a start, but it will be on everything including food. I don't want that tax in existense when the Royal Commission comes down here because it might well happen, Sir, that after looking over our conditions, our need for money, they might be generous enough to go back and suggest as a special favour that Newfoundland might be allowed to up the three percent tax to five or eight percent. Finally, Sir, I would like to see it come before we attempt to borrow money. I don't know, Sir, I heard yesterday the onerous phrase, the Credit of the Province. I would say the onerous weight of credit of the Province. What is the credit of the Province? It is its ability to repay loans of the Government, If any money is borrowed unless for something that will make more money, I doubt very much if anyone would lend it to us. Now while on the subject of borrowing and also on the subject of doing irreparable harm; I would like to refer to a statement made by the Attorney General. He said: "The Audit Act is not going to stop us from marching toward economic development, and if it were found out that the Audit Act were restricting economic development we will amend it. We will ask to have the whole surplus voted to us, what is left of it, in a lump sum of keep the House in session continuously."

Now I hope he did not mean that, that is the sort of thing that might do harm. That is the sort of thing that makes every banker, especially any who loaned money guaranteed, say, "So that is what they are going to do." That is the sort of thing that makes me feel these Estimates are not worth discussing. How do we know the present Government's attitude towards the whole Audit Act? Well, Sir, I think the quicker that term 29 is implemented the better, and I propose, Sir, in closing, to move the following amendments.

In the original motion all the words after "that" be deleted and the following be substituted. "It is the will of this House that the Government of Newfoundland commence negotiations immediately with the Government of Canada with a view of having Term 29 of Union implemented at the earliest possible date."

If the honourable the junior member for St. John's East will second that, I have much pleasure in proposing it.

MR. SPEAKER: Amendment, that in the original motion all the words after "that" be deleted and the following substituted.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, if the Clerk would read Term 29?

Term 29 read by Clerk.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, to a point of information and to seek your guidance. It is, I believe, my right to close the debate on the Budget Speech. To my motion that you do now leave the Chair, the motion on which the debate on the Budget Speech takes place, there has been moved an amendment. In addition to closing the debate have I the right to speak on the amendment? And has each member of the House the right to speak on the motion and on the amendment to the motion?

MR. SPEAKER: The question now before the House is in the form of an amendment to the original motion, put by the honourable member for Bonavista South which constitutes an entirely new question, to which any member of the House including the seconder of the motion, who seconded the motion merely by nodding his head, may speak. Every member has the right to speak on the amendment, with the exception of the honourable member for Bonavista South. I wish to state, according to the standard procedure, there is not a limit to a Minister of the Crown when he replies to a motion of no confidence.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I intend to make my address only to the amendment, reserving thereby the right to speak also in the debate by way of closing the debate.

MR. SPEAKER: That is correct.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I want to address myself to the particular point and reasons given by the honourable member for Bonavista South in favour of his amendment. I think that all his reasoning is false; lacks foundation and I think that his reasoning is a very clear piece of evidence that he has not thought the thing through or given it sufficient study. I think that what he says shows clearly that he does not understand, he just does not understand.

Now one of the reasons that he gave is that there is not enough left in the portion of the surplus shown in the estimates as being available for extending of the public services and economic development, to do any more financing of economic development. Not enough he says, even to carry out a program of economic development equal to that of last year. Now here are facts:

The figures are $3,391,000. That is the one-third of the surplus the two-thirds being $10,600,000. He addressed himself just to this amount of roughly three point four millions, and concluded quite erroneously, ridiculously erroneously, that that is all now available to the Government with which to promote economic development or with which even to finance economic development.

First of all let me say this, that the Government can pursue energetically and successfully a program of economic development even if it has no more money for the purpose than enough to pay the salaries of the Minister of Economic Development, which happens to be nothing, he does not get any salary; the salary of the Director of Economic Development, and the salary and travelling expenses of his staff. There is enough money in that 3.4 millions to finance the Government's drive for economic development, for the next fifty years. A drive for economic development does not, as he appears to assume, depend upon the government doing the financing. Let us assume that we get a paper mill in Newfoundland, that will cost with hydro-power development and the development of shipping facilities, one hundred million dollars.

MR. CASHIN: What size mill?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Five hundred tons a day, one hundred million dollars. We have here 3.4 millions. In this one-third amount of the total surplus to be left to us, page 3 at the bottom of page three, less than three and a half millions. If we are to finance a paper mill at a cost of a hundred million dollars from there then clearly there will be no paper mill, you cannot out of three and a half million dollars finance a one hundred million dollars paper mill, it cannot be done. If we are to finance a pulp mill, a hundred thousand ton pulp mill together with hydro-electric development to operate that mill and shipping facilities, clearly we cannot do it out of three and a half million dollars. If we are to finance half a dozen other industries in Newfoundland, and that is what we mean by economic development, new industries and the expansion of existing industries, clearly we could not do it. The honourable gentleman is not right when he infers that it must be done out of this one third portion of the surplus. As he has pointed out, we could not maintain even the rate of spending we had last year along that line, because there is not that much money there in that figure of three and a half million dollars, or rather less, as we overspent, in fact last year in building industries of our own. We don't propose for one moment that we are going to build a great paper mill, and we don't propose we are going to build a pulp mill and we don't propose, in short, so far as I know now, to build any other industries ourselves with public money, industries that will be owned by the Crown. We have no intention, so far as we know, and if we did clearly in so far as the surplus is concerned it must not cost more than 3.4 millions to finance. That is a little less than three and a half million dollars. So it is absolutely fallacious, completely ludicrously fallacious when he says that our program of economic development must stop because we can't spend even as much on it as we did last year, and that having spent this 3.4 million dollars then our economic development program must come to an end.

A program of economic development can be carried on by a Government with very little money so long as it has enough to pay the salaries and travelling expenses of the men necessary to do the travelling, to approach the financiers, the bankers, industrialists etc., to persuade them to invest money—so long can the Government carry on a program of economic development, a vigorous program of economic development.

Now while I am at it, let me point out this fact to the honourable gentleman who appears not to have noticed, one of a number he has not noticed. I find it a little difficult to believe he has not noticed but I give him the benefit of the doubt and say he has not. I wish to draw the attention of the House to the terms of Union. I helped to write them and ought to know something about them. If the honourable member has the Terms of Union before him, he may follow me.

Financial Surplus: In these terms the expression, financial surplus, means the balance standing to the credit of Newfoundland, collectable at the date of union, less sums which may be required to discharge accounts payable at the date of union, any public money and public revenue including loans and bonds referred to in term 25 in respect of any matter, purpose or thing prior to the date of union. That is therefore the surplus or the cash we had on hand at the date of union, plus what we were owed, what we would collect and less what we owed at that time. But that is merely the definition of the surplus. Now these terms go on in succeeding sections to state what shall and may be done with that surplus. "Newfoundland will retain its financial surplus subject to the following conditions." These conditions are named under "A," "B," and "C." "One third of the surplus shall be set aside during the first eight years of union deposited with the Government of Canada to be withdrawn by the Government of the Province only for expenditure on current account to facilitate the maintenance and improvement of the Newfoundland public services and any portion of this one third of the surplus, remaining unspent at the end of the eight year period, shall become available to the Province." Should any be left at the end of the eight year period then that remaining would not be bound by the terms of union. "The remaining two thirds of the surplus shall be available only to the Province of Newfoundland for the development of resources and"—That word "and" is of the utmost importance as I know now and knew when I helped to write it—"and for the establishment or extension of public services within the Province of Newfoundland. Then "C" goes on to say that none of the surplus may be used to subsidize the production or sale of Newfoundland products in competition to other provinces nor in unfair competition with other provinces. Now I ask the honourable gentleman to take particular notice of the two things that appear in "A". That part, the one third of which is to be set aside with the Government of Canada to accumulate interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. What is that for? It is for expenditure on current account to facilitate the maintenance and (here again occurs the word "and") improvement of Newfoundland's public services. For maintenance, I am glad my honourable friend sees that. But my honourable friend the member for Bonavista South does not, if so why does he argue the exact contrary, as I will show he did. The one third is for expenditure on current account to facilitate the maintenance and improvement, and the word "and" improvement of public services is of tremendous significance.

Now we come to the two thirds: what is it to be spent for? For the development of resources and for the establishment of and extension of public services. Now will some honourable gentleman in this House tell me what difference there is between improvement of public services which is "A" and extension of public services which is "B." Will some honourable member tell me that? Now let us go back to page three of the Estimates and there we have a division of the net cash surplus, which will remain at the end of the present financial year. It is under two headings: current account and extension of public services. That is, except in one respect, a purely arbitrary division. The one exception is deficits. Deficits on current account must come from the one thirds, it must under the Terms of Union and that is the only exception to this statement that the division is a purely arbitrary one. We could reverse these figures quite lawfully, quite properly until someone can explain satisfactorily the difference between improvement of public services and extension of public services; so that if we choose we can say that of the $14,000,000 which will stand to our credit at the end of this financial year, something of the order of two or three millions would be in the position of the one third at the date of Union. It is not always one third, it was one third at the date of union. The division was to be made at the date of union, and what would determine the division, what is the interpretation placed on these terms: Improvements under "A" and extension under "B," in short all the money the Government has spent in the two years out of the surplus, the division is the one third or the two thirds is exactly what we choose to make it, except for one thing, deficits have to come out of the one-third.

MR. CASHIN: Is there a separate account showing one-third? In other words that term is a joke anyway. It was all our money and they had a lot of impertinence.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I might have gone on to clause 3: That the Government of Newfoundland has the right to place the other part and deposit it with the Government of Canada to draw the interest at the rate of 2½ percent. So that when my honourable friend from Bonavista South held that all that was left was 3.4 millions for economic development, he was quite wrong.

MR. RUSSELL: The other $20,000,000 is going to be eaten up anyway.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If he had studied these terms as clearly and explicitly and carefully as some of us, he would not have fallen into that trap. Now that is the first point that we are not depending on—our cash surplus to bring about economic development. We can bring it about without spending another dollar of our cash surplus. As to the phrase in the Budget Speech which the honourable member found onerous. I made a note of what he said: "Onerous weight of credit of the province." Is he aware of the fact that the Government in the last two years has already in fact pledged the public credit? Was he not party to it? Did he not pledge while a member of the Cabinet and not know he was doing it? Every time he agreed we would guarantee a loan at the bank to North Atlantic Fisheries which he did, we pledge no cash but our credit. It did not cost us one cent and when we agreed that we would guarantee a loan at the bank to John Penney and Sons in Ramea and guaranteed a loan at the bank for Wareham or for Fishery Products, was he not aware that what he was doing was pledging Newfoundland's credit, the credit of the Province which he now finds onerous? He could not bring about economic development in Newfoundland without spending the surplus or without borrowing by pledging the credit of the Province. The Government of Newfoundland once pledged the credit of the country to the extent of ten millions of dollars. There were people at that time who said that the Government were a Government of madmen and ten million dollars in 1923 was, as my honourable friend the member for Ferryland knows, a huge sum. Ten million dollars in that day could be equal to a sum of fifty millions today and that was done in 1923 and resulted in setting loose a series of events in Newfoundland which ended in having here in Newfoundland the largest paper mill in the world today, at Corner Brook. That was built by the Government of that day pledging the credit of Newfoundland. Can we do that if we want a hundred million dollar paper mill or must we have a hundred million in the till? Trash and nonsense, what else can we call it but trash and nonsense?

Here is a clause I wrote into the Terms of Union and, Mr. Speaker, we were there for three days writing, we were locked up in a room in the month of July and August and dressed in this fashion; a pair of shoes, no socks, a pair of pants and nothing else because when we went into the room I stripped off collar, tie, shirt, and coat, stripped to the waist.

MR. J. G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): Why were you locked up? Were they afraid you would escape? Why?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The honourable member asks why, well I will tell him. Doctor McKay was appointed by the Government of Canada to represent Canada and I was appointed by the Newfoundland delegation to represent Newfoundland; two of us as a committee were appointed to draft the Terms of Union. The newspapermen and others were trying very strenuously to find out what we were doing and before either of us left that office, twice a day for lunch and dinner at night, each of us had to turn in every scrap of paper. I don't mind saying I managed to get a few papers and have them to go some day into the museum. We were there three days writing the clause and I foresaw then when I wrote it and helped to write it, I foresaw this day, this debate and foresaw other debates. What if we did not have Confederation today? We were bankrupt under Responsible Government, hopelessly insolvent and bankrupt.

Now clause 29 reads:

"In view of the difficulty of predicting with sufficient accuracy the financial consequences to Newfoundland of becoming a province of Canada, the Government of Canada will appoint a Royal Commission within eight years from the date of Union to review the financial position of the Province of Newfoundland and to recommend the form and scale of additional financial assistance, if any, that may be required by the Government of the Province of Newfoundland to enable it to continue public services at the levels and standards reached subsequent to the date of Union, without resorting to taxation more burdensome, having regard to capacity to pay, than that obtaining generally in the region comprising the Maritime Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island."

MR. FAHEY: Why did you want it there at all, why mention it if we were not fixing to go bankrupt?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The answer is in here "In view of the difficulty of predicting." That is why the Royal Commission is provided. Can anybody say that two and a half years ago it was possible to predict with sufficient accuracy exactly what effect Confederation would have on Newfoundland financially? Not that we would be bankrupt, not that there might be difficulties, certainly that was foreseen.

Now the financial form and scale of financial assistance: Additional financial assistance if any that may be required by Newfoundland to enable Newfoundland to continue public services at the levels and standards—when, to the date of union? No, but to enable us to carry them on at the level and standard reached subsequent to the date of union—subsequently at the time of the review. Without resorting to taxation more burdensome, having regard to the capacity to pay rather than that obtaining generally in the region comprising the Maritime Provinces of New Brunswick, etc. Note this: It does not say that, I will put it another way, as my honourable friend for Ferryland would say, “from another angle.” The Royal Commission arrives, put up at the Newfoundland Hotel, begin their enquiry, that is what they are here for.

MR. CASHIN: I remember one before.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Quite right—to take over and deprive us of self-government. But no Province of Canada has yet lost self-government; the Provinces of Saskatchewan and of Alberta were equally bankrupt but they did not lose self-government. The Government of Canada came to their rescue at the same time that the Government of England came to our rescue in the very same year. The Government of England said, we will help you but you must give up self-government. The Government of Canada said: we will help you but did not say you must give up self-government. No Province of Canada has yet lost self-government or will even though the Government pours the money into these Provinces in millions of dollars and I sat in the House of Commons in Ottawa three years ago when the Government of Canada did this. They advanced Alberta 70 million dollars. The British Government advanced Newfoundland 18 millions. The Government of Canada advanced Alberta 70 millions and the Province of Saskatchewan 40 millions and they never paid it back.

MR. FAHEY: And now the fishermen have to pay it back.

MR. SMALLWOOD: When settlement was made the Government said: will you pay back half of it in the next fifty years? Now that is what happened with the Government of Canada.

Now they arrive here, this Royal Commission to review our financial position. That is their job, that is what they are sent here for, to find out what additional financial assistance Newfoundland need, what additional money we need to enable the Government to continue public services at the level and standard attained at the time they are making the review. So far, so good—but what is more, they have to do that without Newfoundland resorting to taxation more burdensome than the Maritime Provinces. The Royal Commission says, “Now we have to decide how much additional revenue the Newfoundland Government needs to carry on public services at the level reached, when making the review.” In other words, the higher the level reached, the more expended on roads and schools and hospitals and other services, when the Commission comes, the better, because is not the real danger that, in the eight years, we may not have reached a level and standard sufficiently high? That is the real danger at the time of the Royal Commission, if it should come too soon. We are now gradually raising our standards of public services but we are not raising them fast enough; and if we bring the Royal Commission here now, when they determine how much additional subsidies we need, they have to take into account the level of public services at the time they make the review and this level is not high enough. Give us another three or four or five years to get the level up, because they have to recommend for us additional financial help to enable us to continue the level of public services there are at the time we make the review. Now that is the first point, but they have to keep this in mind also that we must be able to continue these levels of public services without recourse to taxation here in Newfoundland, provincial government taxation, more burdensome than the Maritime Provinces, but only after they have compared the capacity of Newfoundland to pay with the capacity to pay in the Maritime Provinces. That is the great saving grace of all. If they were able to say your burden of taxation in Newfoundland is not more burdensome than the taxation in the Maritime Provinces where would that leave us? Suppose, for the sake of argument, the average family in Prince Edward Island earns $1,500 a year and the average family in Newfoundland earns a thousand a year. Let us say that is how it is, when the Royal Commission arrives. If they have to insist that the burden of taxation in Newfoundland shall be the same as the burden of taxation in Prince Edward Island, the same rate of taxation in Newfoundland would be fifty percent higher than the same rate in Prince Edward Island because of Prince Edward Island's great taxable capacity. So it says that Newfoundland is not to resort to taxation more burdensome, having regard to capacity to pay. Now what have we got to do? It is simple. Our big job is to find out how much additional revenue or financial help the Newfoundland Government needs to continue the level they have reached in public services. What have they got to do now? They have to compare the burdensomeness of taxation in Newfoundland with the burdensomeness of taxation in the Maritime Provinces, but that is not all; they have to compare the taxable capacity of Newfoundland with the taxable capacity of the Maritime Provinces and relate these two things together. My honourable friend the Leader of the Opposition, for instance, might have $10,000 a year, he might have an income of say $5,000 a year and I may have $10,000, or put it the other way, let me have $10,000 and my honourable friend $5,000 but my honourable friend might be better able to pay taxes out of $5,000 than I could out of $10,000. For this reason, I might have a far bigger family and he might have none at all. So we can not be compared; there just has to be something else taken into consideration, the capacity to pay the burden of taxation. A comparison with, for instance, Nova Scotia is not fair until our capacity to pay the burden of taxation is first compared with the ability of Nova Scotia to pay. What is the level of our public services? I showed it in the Budget Speech yesterday, and do you think I did not know what I was doing, that I did not have that clause in mind, that I did not bear in mind that that Budget Speech will be read by men, who will one day be members of that Royal Commission. What did I do yesterday? I said Newfoundland would need to have fifty-two thousand motor cars to be up to Prince Edward Island, that we would need to have 15,000 miles of road to be up to Prince Edward Island. We have 3,300 miles. That is what I was getting at. The first thing they will do, when they come here to determine what is the level of our public services, is to compare us with the public services of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, and New Brunswick, because within the next six years of union we have to do something to get our level of public services up. If it is not possible to bring them up to the level of the Maritime Provinces, when they compare them and see they are lower, they will say they were certainly not extravagant lifting the public services up so far. Now what is to be done about taxation? What has the Government done since Confederation to tax the people? So they look at it and find they have increased taxation on mining and increased the taxation on this and that and the social service assessment and they begin to measure our taxation and then compare it with taxation in the Maritime Provinces and find our taxation is lower than in the Maritimes. That is not the end of it, however, they then measure our capacity to pay taxation with theirs and then that is what determines the amount we get. To ask for that now is the last word in absurdity. Two years after union, ridiculous, comical if it were not so pathetic and utterly brainless. Two years after Union. Now what is the first thing they find when they arrive here? It is this, that we have a public debt, if we take it all into account.

MR. CASHIN: It is a pity they did not do so, when we went to get the terms.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I pointed out yesterday what the public debt is. When the Royal Commission arrives one of the first things it will do is to look at the public debt; they will find that we have a public debt of $11 a head. Well, that is a pretty low public debt. Quebec, the lowest in all Canada, has $82 a head, but they won't compare our public debt with the public debt of Quebec or Ontario or Alberta or Saskatchewan; they will compare our public debt with the public debt of the Maritime Provinces. What will they find? They will find Newfoundland $11 per head; Prince Edward Island $142 a head; Nova Scotia $117 a head; New Brunswick $176 a head. The first thing they would see is a public debt of $11 a head and the national debt a little over three million dollars. But we have cash in the till—$14 million, and another $7 million in plants we have just built, and loans to the loan boards, $22 million. We have that in cash or kind and a public debt of only $11 a head, three and a half million dollars. They would say you must be drunk, you must be crazy, you must be foolish to come running to us, you with a public debt of $11 a head, the lowest in all Canada; you with $14,000,000 in cash in the till and $7,000,000 of modern new plants and three loan boards and you came asking us to review your position. I never thought I would live to see the day, when a member of this House would stand up and advocate absurdity built on absurdity.

MR. FAHEY: Don't forget the Icelandic Navy.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I will say in reply to that: I can explain a thing but only the Almighty God can give intelligence to understand when it is given. There is a time to talk and I am willing to talk about the Icelandic boats. I am talking at the moment about a Royal Commission, if that is above the honourable gentleman's head perhaps he could read the Telegram.

MR. FAHEY: A point of order, Mr. Speaker. I only reminded the honourable Premier about one of our assets.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I thank the honourable gentleman for reminding me and helping with my argument. If he decides I need a little help in my argument and my honourable friend gives it to me, I am grateful.

MR. FAHEY: It is a pleasure, any time.

MR. SMALLWOOD: One thing I try to do is know my case. I only talk when I know what I am talking about.

Now there is no doubt there will be a royal commission, but suppose one comes here before the eight years have ended, comes here in two years, this year just ended, the year we had a surplus. How many Provinces of Canada have ended the last year with a surplus? Our surplus was $830,000. My honourable friend will need to state something more than he has stated to prove his case. It will take a longer speech than a few remarks while sitting down to prove we did not have a surplus of over nine hundred thousand dollars. We have just ended the year with a financial surplus and have just budgeted for another for nearly as much. Eighteen or nineteen hundred thousand dollars in two years. Is it now the time to go running to a Royal Commission? Absurdity built on absurdity. Now I suggest this, if I am against a Government, if I leave the Government and cross the floor and if I have previously said that the Government is heading for financial ruin, financial disaster, a financial mess, if I used these three terms and stated that I have left the Government because I have no confidence in them, they are heading for a financial mess, disaster, ruin—if I had done that, and a month later the Government produces a surplus for a million dollars then the reason I give for having no faith in the Government is going to look a little bit sick, a little bit weak; and so I am driven to invent reasons or at least I am driven to invent some further reason and the reasons, given here today, have turned out to be absurd because I doubt if even in the long history of this House since the days when John B. Garland, the first Speaker, presided, until today when His Honour presides, in the whole long history of this House, I doubt if ever a member made a prophecy which was so quickly, or clearly proved to be balderdash and nonsense. One month after leaving the Government, that Government produced a surplus of nearly a million dollars and budgets for another surplus of almost another million; that reason turns out to be pretty sick so I am driven to drawing a red herring. Now we all know what a red herring is, drawing a red herring across the trail so that the dogs can smell the fish, and the red herring is supposed to put the dog off the trail. So I am driven to drawing a red herring to take the attention away from my previous statements: the Government is heading for financial ruin and a financial mess. I must not let the people remember that, so I must get that out of their minds or I will look like a complete fool. Being a member of a Government and at the end of the eleven months, one month before the financial year is up, I leave the Government and say it is bankrupt and heading for financial ruin, a financial mess, ruin and disaster; and a month later the Government ended the year with a surplus of a million dollars and, so that I won't look like a political fool, I have to drag in something. I got to do something or I had better get out of politics or look like a complete and utter ass. So, what do I do? I pounce on something I have not read carefully and cry; let's get a Royal Commission. He read it but he does not understand it. And if he thinks this Government is foolish enough to accept his amendment. It would make us look like jackasses. two years after union with a public debt of only $11 a head and fourteen million dollars in the till and another seven million dollars in new mills and in the loan board and say, send a Royal Commission, we are heading for bankruptcy. What kind of fools would we look in the eyes of the Canadian nation? I listened last night to the news at 11.30. A provincial budget is not a tremendous thing in the light of eleven governments, the Federal Government and the ten provinces. A budget in any one province is nothing to get very excited about so the National News last night did not turn summersaults but said very simply: the Government of Newfoundland ended the year with a surplus of almost a million dollars. The day after that a member stands in the House and says let us get a Royal Commission. Who is mad? Who has gone insane? The Government—Who is a jackass? The Government—Who is a silly ass? Is it the Government?

Now there are one or two other points the honourable gentleman has made, but they are not deserving of any attention, it is enough to say they are ridiculous. We are meeting tonight in any case trying to clean up work; we are going to go on until we finish these estimates and the budget speech and economic development. This Province that is insolvent, this Province that is going broke for which we have to get a Royal Commission, we have to bring in some heavy legislation providing for new industries in Newfoundland. My honourable friend for Ferryland is not going to commit himself, but he gets a wonderful kick out of the amateurs in politics, and he thinks "How are the mighty fallen"? What kind of men are these? When he thinks back to men like Sir John Bennett, Sir Michael Cashin, Judge Higgins, W. J. Walsh, S. Foote and men like that and then sits here and listen to jackasses argue, what a kick he gets out of that. Now when the honourable gentleman gets up and tries to kick our teeth in, there is something in what he says. If my honourable friend introduces a red herring, it is at least good and wholesome.

MR. CASHIN: The Icelandic Boats got twenty herring.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is the trouble. If they had gotten some herring we might not have had to apologize.

Now, Mr. Speaker, that is all I have to say on this ridiculous amendment, this absurd and ridiculous amendment. It is not worth the serious attention of serious minded men.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, I take it the House is sitting tonight and I would like to say a few words.

The House then recessed until eight of the clock.

NIGHT SESSION

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, it was not my intention to speak to this at all; but the honourable member for Bona-vista South introduced a contentious matter here this afternoon and proposed an amendment. Usually, Sir, during my time in this House the estimates of expenditure were generally brought down first, were generally discussed and then the budget came down to say in what manner the necessary revenue could be obtained to pay the expenditure outlined in the estimates. But things have changed in Newfoundland, and now we get both estimates and budget at the same time and amendments are being discussed twenty-four hours after the budget comes down. It is impossible for any member in this House, I don't care on what side, apart from those intimately connected with it, to get up here after twenty-four hours and discuss and analyze a document, which took the Finance Minister over two hours to deliver; and it is equally impossible that the matter, now before the Chair in the nature of an amendment to that budget which relates to section 29 of the Terms of Union with Canada which section must bring about a discussion on the whole Terms of Union, can be analyzed quickly.

Now, what is section No. 29? I think, Mr. Speaker, before I go on any further I would like to draw the attention of this House to the surplus shown here, over nine hundred thousand dollars. I want to say that is not so. If we turn to the Auditor General's Report of 1949-50 there is a deficit of $2,045,000, then turn to the budget this year and find a surplus of practically a million and in the next paragraph we find that $700,000 of that should have been credited to the year before, in other words the deficit was $3,000,000 and we just about balanced this year. That is your own Auditor General and the statement made to the budget. Mr. Speaker, it is not my intention to discuss this in a general way tonight, but I would suggest that that section be read to make sure that there is no misunderstanding.

Here it is: "The decrease under Public Works is attributable to lower than originally anticipated recoveries on account of Trans-Canada Highway operations due to a retardation in progress and to late presentation of claims for reimbursement on this account." I don't know if it were returned in April or not but it belongs to the revenue of the year previous.

MR. SMALLWOOD: If the honourable member will allow me, the same argument applies to the revenue last year.

MR. CASHIN: Revenue on Housing is very small, as a matter of fact, revenue on Housing is nil; the Housing owes the Treasury $5,000,000 and they probably won't get $2,000,000 for it.

I think my point is well taken, that the $700,000 belongs in the year 1940-50 and should have reduced the deficit for 1949-50.

Now another point: I intend later to compliment the Premier on that Budget Speech except for a few paragraphs, but when we get a debate on a point of terms of union and are told by the Premier and Acting Minister of Finance that this country would have been bankrupted under Responsible Government — —

MR. SMALLWOOD: I am not Acting Minister of Finance.

MR. CASHIN: You are only acting until such time as there is another election, whatever you are. I apologize if I did not give you your full title. But, when we are told this country would be bankrupt under Responsible Government, I cannot sit down and take it. Now let us see the financial position of the country, let us see it, and I am just speaking from memory, I have very few notes at my disposal tonight. When this present Government took over they found $41,000,000 in cash and $11,000,000 roughly in other assets. You collected out of that eleven millions, three millions or three and a half millions. Now out of a balance of say eight millions, how much are you going to get back? For my part I can't see that the Housing Corporation can pay back very much. How much are you going to get back of that five millions? None. I make that statement, if you get two millions you will get a hundred. Now that brings it down another three millions.

Now regarding our financial surplus, I say again that the terms were an inperitence on the part of the Federal Government. Regarding things I have heard said here this afternoon about the Royal Commission, a delegation went to Ottawa to negotiate Terms of Union. We had, at that time about fifty million dollars in cash and other assets as I figure it. What did the Canadian Government tell us to do? Now, Mr. Speaker, here it is in these terms; the existing financial surplus.

"In this Term the expression "financial Surplus" means the balances standing to the credit of the Newfoundland Exchequer at the date of Union (less such sums as may be required to discharge accounts payable at the date of Union in respect of appropriations for the public services) and any public monies or public revenue (including loans and advances referred to in Term twenty-five) in respect of any matter, thing, or period prior to the date of Union recovered by the Government of the Province of Newfoundland subsequent to the date of Union.

Newfoundland will retain its financial surplus subject to the following conditions:

(a) one third of the surplus shall be set aside during the first eight years from the date of Union, on deposit with the Government of Canada, to be withdrawn by the Government of the Province of Newfoundland only for expenditure on account to facilitate the maintenance and improvement of Newfoundland public services, and any portion of this one-third of the surplus remaining unspent at the end of the eight-year period shall become available to the Province of Newfoundland without the foregoing restriction;"

Newfoundland, the Canadian Government tell us, will retain its financial surplus. What else are we going to do with it? Give it away? Tells us what to do with our own money, Mr. Speaker, if you have ten dollars in your pocket what would you think of me if I said; do what I tell you to do with it. They said one-third is to be set aside during the first eight years of union, deposited with the Government of Canada. Could we put it anywhere else if we wanted to? Just imagine telling us what to do with our own money only for expenditure on certain account. Just imagine six or seven people going up and listening and agreeing to do this with their own money.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That was our own suggestion.

MR. CASHIN: That is even worse. Gave them our own money and they told us what to do with it. You had no right to tell them to begin with and they were pretty impertinent up there to have discussed it with you.

"The remaining two-thirds of the surplus shall be available to the Government of the Province of Newfoundland for the development of resources and for the establishment or extension of public services within the Province of Newfoundland; and no part of the surplus shall be used to subsidize the production or sale of products of the Province of Newfoundland in unfair competition with similar products of other provinces of Canada; but nothing in this paragraph shall preclude the Province of Newfoundland from assisting industry, by development loans on reasonable conditions or by ordinary provincial administrative services."

Your deficits last year should have been taken out of money deposited in Ottawa, was that done? It was not done because the answer to a question in this House a short time ago showed it was still there. It should have been taken to pay this deficit. And other money was to be used for economic development. That phrase is being used so often in this House and this country now we can't run away from it. Therefore what we should have up there now, after putting in $20,000,000, would be $17,000,000 in round figures. No, we took that three million out of the two-thirds left down here and violated that section of the agreement to begin with, and I agree because of that $20,000,000 up there, the Federal Government has no moral or legal right to that money or the voting of it and it should be put wherever the present Government wanted it; and those who went up had no authority to go there and put $20,000,000 to the credit of Newfoundland in Ottawa, none whatsoever.

Now this afternoon also the honourable the Premier and Minister of Finance talked about this eight years and Royal Commission's coming here and about the suggestion of the honourable the Member for Bonavista South to bring the Royal Commission now. In the course of his remarks, he made on statement, which struck me very forcibly, started to describe the more development we had, might even borrow money, when the Royal Commission came here, and that in order to bring our level up to the Maritime Provinces, that Royal Commission would have to recommend to the Federal Government that we be given some more money. That is in short roughly what the Premier meant.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Except I did not say going in debt.

MR. CASHIN: Guaranteeing the credit of the Province does not naturally mean borrowing money. How much of your long term loans from the Bank are guaranteed at the present time? You can't go to any chartered bank today in this country with a guarantee from the Government for a billion dollars, a quarter of a million, or any other amount or any provincial government. I want to make it quite clear I am not among those who are going to preach blue ruin for political purposes but here is the position. The Canadian chartered banks and with this you will agree, in future are not taking Government Guarantees over one year. One year is not a long term; a long term runs three, five or ten years. One year is a short term. The position is now we got to go through a little more red tape, got to industrialize development; the Government has to give the Industrial Bank at Ottawa its guarantee before any money is invested.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Either that or bonds.

MR. CASHIN: Here is what might happen, I might come to them for $500,000 of a loan for fish plants, and not a hospital. The Canadian Government gives you the money or refuses to do it. I give my guarantee to go down to the Canadian Bank of Commerce, it is not worth the paper it is written on. Now the point I am trying to make: You outlined here several new industries started this year with financial assistance, then you will issue bonds under your credit as the Newfoundland Government and sell in the market. You guarantee the company issue, you put your name on the back and you will go out to the public and sell at discount or premium, and the Premier mentioned this afternoon the Corner Brook Guarantee of $10,000,000, at that time. It is reduced now to $6,000,000 or less. That is because of the exchange, because the pound depreciated and brought it down and paid some money in reducing the sinking fund. I know that, and the Premier pointed out it is probably the largest and most efficient pulp and paper mill in the world today and that was brought about by our guarantee. We did not guarantee $10,000,000 at that time but $20,000,000 and I well remember my first time in this House. when

I thought it was a frightful thing, as we had a sizeable national debt at that time, $60,000,000, to have guaranteed $20,000,000. We had a party meeting downstairs here, the Late Judge Higgins was the leader of that time, and my father the member for St. John's West and I, myself, and the Late Judge Fox opposed it on the principle that we should not be guaranteeing money, and I never forgot the bally-ragging the two of us got and it went from Committee up through and finally went through the Legislative Council and resulted in the establishment of the Mill at Corner Brook. And remember this, Mr. Speaker, Dr. Valdmanis is not the first individual who talked about a further mill in this Country, we did not have to wait for Latvia to tell us about another mill in Newfoundland. The Economic Report in 1949, which I was instrumental in preparing, covered a pulp and paper mill on the South West Coast with timber from the Labrador; and I will say this, that during my absence someone said I was "nuts" or words to that effect, when I slated the ridiculous idea of building a mill in Labrador; and I don't care what John D. Rockefeller said about it. I don't care and my opinion is just as good as anyone else's in Europe. It is impractical to build a mill in Labrador and I will tell you why. The longest period of navigation in the Hamilton Inlet is three and a half months. All right I will tell you, you young fellows have not done enough work in your life to baptize a fairy. Never yet in your life. God bless me, I have. I am going to tell you now, today, you ask a member of Lloyds in London if they would be prepared to insure at Hamilton Inlet and if so how long would you get it for? That is the trouble so before you make such statements like that you had better go to some business organization. Bowrings are agents for Lloyds here. Go down tomorrow and ask them to cable and ask how long you will get insurance for a ten thousand ton ship running to Goose Bay, see what you get.

MR. SMALLWOOD: To be fair, that is not what the honourable gentleman said.

MR. CASHIN: Now on the other hand, at the outset, how big a mill did you say? A hundred thousand tons; the cost of development of water power, the cost of transportation of wood from Labrador, what will that amount to, per cord? About $10 a cord. Very well, how much storage will you need? Put it down to four months a year, you will get that some years but it averages three and a half. Suppose you are putting up a five hundred ton mill, working for seven months, with an output of one hundred and fifty thousand tons of newsprint. Look at the docks in Corner Brook, each shed holds 20,000 tons. Originally I think they had two and now, if my memory serves me right, these last two years have four. But for 120,000 tons you want eight big sheds of the same type as those built in Corner Brook, to store that wood. It is nonsense.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): They have three that hold 20,000 each, 60,000 tons.

MR. CASHIN: Well, when they opened the Mill at Corner Brook in 1925, at that time they had two sheds there and I think, Mr. Stafford, who built the mills told me at that time they held 20,000. I have a fair memory for figures whatever else about me. I will give you the benefit of the doubt and say they hold 40,000 each, assume they do find storage capacity for a five hundred ton mill and the one over there in Corner Brook is a thousand-ton mill, or eleven hundred and some old sulphite. Talk about nonsense, I never heard so much rot in my life. Talk about something they know nothing about, newsprint and pulp and paper. They haven't got hair on their chest as far as work is concerned.

MR. SMALLWOOD: They would have to put other sheds in the States. Now would the honourable member allow me? After two sheds are built to store practically 12 months' production in Labrador and others in the United States to store the paper there, because you can't deliver the shipments during four and a half months; you can't deliver a year's supply in four or four and a half months; it is cheaper to produce newsprint in Labrador than it is in Bay D'Espoir as a matter of economics.

MR. CASHIN: I know the honourable member will be guided by that. I am going to tell him he does not know what he is talking about. The Government paid that IBEC outfit for everything they did down here and everyone would imagine the great Rockefeller would do something. I bet he does not put a cent into it and those men identified with him know nothing about pulp and paper. The outstanding men in the pulp and paper in Canada and in New York are not the IBEC.

MR. SMALLWOOD: They consume a large amount.

MR. CASHIN: When I was a member of the Government in 1931 we were strongly in favour of establishing another mill in Newfoundland and wanted wood from Labrador, wanted a thousand square miles of timber land in Labrador to establish a mill on the Gander, not at Goose Bay but at tidewater where there is six or eight months' navigation. And that when IBEC or anyone identified with it comes in here and says it is cheaper to produce pulp and paper in Labrador than on the South Coast of Newfoundland, I can't see it and my opinion is just as good that of any other member of this House. I would like to talk to these fellows in connection with it. However I am away from this amendment.

We covered section 29, I have discussed the financial surplus, now I suggest we should read it and try and analyse it.

"In view of the difficulty of predicting with sufficient accuracy the financial consequences to Newfoundland of becoming a province of Canada, the Government of Canada will appoint a Royal Commission within eight years from the date of Union to review the financial position of the Province of Newfoundland and to recommend the form and scale of additional financial assistance, if any, that may be required by the Government of the Province of Newfoundland to enable it to continue public services at the levels and standards reached subsequent to the date of Union, without resorting to taxation more burdensome, having regard to capacity to pay, than that obtaining generally in the region comprising the Maritime Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island."

It is not worth the paper it is written on. The Canadian Government agrees to send down a Royal Commission. Do they say they are prepared to implement the recommendations of that Royal Commission? Certainly not.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The Parliament of Canada.

MR. CASHIN: The Parliament of Canada says, send people down, but does not say we will accept their recommendations. Now this brings me to the point I want to discuss. That is the Premier this afternoon pointed out how low the national debt of Newfoundland was, $11 per head, and he feels if the Royal Commission were brought down here now and looked at this $11 a head, in his opinion it would be ridiculous. But when the delegation went to discuss the Terms of Union with Canada in 1948-49 they evidently did not—at least there is no evidence to show—discuss, at that time, with the authorities at Ottawa the comparison between the Newfoundland and the Canadian National debt per head. Why not? The proper procedure was to attack at that time. Our national debt, at that time, was about $200 per head and the national debt of Canada $1400 a head, a difference of $1200. This just goes to bear out my point. You will need the interest on $400,000 which will be $13,000 which the Provincial Government will need each year. Last year for instance how much was your deficit? For heaven's sake get away from a deficit only on current account, you are spending money and dug into the surplus; there will be only $14,000,000 left next year.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We are not separating the account.

MR. CASHIN: These should be separated in the account but you don't have capital expenditure of $10,000,000 a year, and it is gone now and you can't get away from it. You have your highroads, your lowroads, your fish plants, birch plants, gypsum mills and your other things. I wish them all the best of luck, mind you I wish them everything good.

MR. SMALLWOOD: They can't be built out of current account.

MR. CASHIN: Suppose for argument's sake, suppose they blow up.

MR. SMALLWOOD: They are insured.

MR. CASHIN: Under the terms of union, based on other Provinces, Newfoundland would have $14,000,000 a year subsidies from the Canadian Government and I put it to the Attorney General who has the reputation of being a pretty sharp operator, I put it to him; he and I for instance were going into partnership tomorrow. I know actually you would not come in with me, as you have too much money for me. Put it this way: I have one hundred thousand dollars in net liabilities and I have one hundred thousand in cash to start off and, on the other hand, I have nothing or only $50,000. Now, you and I are going into partnership. Remember we are going to make a partnership based on your assets and your cash, my assets and my cash on an equitable basis to get shares out of that company. Where are we? It is certain he would, if he had most of the money and most of the assets, want most of the stock in it. Certainly he would and I don't blame him, it is done in every business. When the International Paper Company and other subsidiaries to big combines in the United States give stock in proportion to the value of the property put in they have to assume a proportion of the liability accordingly, but in Newfoundland's case. No. And that brings me to something else I intended to discuss later on in the Budget debate. The Premier mentioned Mr. Thompson, who recommended this form of accounting for this Provincial Government. He is an outstanding accountant, whose opinions and recommendations gain recognition by all provincial governments. The Government accepted these recommendations in Finance and other departments, but did not accept those recommendations when negotiations were taking place at the time of union. It would be interesting to have a copy, but I am not allowed under the rules of the House to see Mr. Thompson's document given to the deputation to Ottawa in 1949. What is told in that document with regards to the Terms of Union? Even the Chairman of the delegation said that the financial terms were inadequate, said that the night before and in the morning signed it. That was a sorry admission.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I hope the honourable member will be here as long as I. I would not want to be here if he were not.

MR. CASHIN: I am going to be here for the next three years. However, I am talking on the financial position of the Crown and I am going to make a statement now. I have just as much right to make a statement as the Premier. I am going to tell him the financial terms of union are rotten, the Canadian Government put it all over him. And I am going to say that Newfoundland was not properly represented there at all, they did not take the financial adviser's advice. He made a financial statement to that delegation, outlining what was going to happen, in spite of which they went in and signed that agreement; and the Chairman, Sir Albert Walsh, came out next day and said he realized the terms were inadequate.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I never heard of it.

MR. CASHIN: You never heard of it, so he landed in a nice job. He told it, in Ottawa, to members of the delegation. He may not have told you but he said it and I challenge him to go up here and deny it. Not up here, he is not allowed, to come up to the CLB and deny it. I will hire the armoury to go up and tell him. He would not have guts enough.

MR. SPEAKER: Order.

MR. CASHIN: Now, Sir, let us have a look at the financial position in 1949 when we went into union. We had $41,000,000 cash assets and other assets which may or may not turn in cash. They have turned in three or four millions and have another five or six millions to turn in for the Housing Corporation. What were our contingent liabilities? Apart from Bowaters which are gilt edged. A million six hundred thousand loaned or guaranteed of some sort for Economic Development, of fisheries which they may or may not have to pay, I hope not. In addition to that another million was loaned to fish companies and fur companies for development of industries and $144,000, guaranteed or given to the Icelandic outfit. Now I understand it from the Budget, the cost to the Government was four or five hundred thousand which we can put down to experience. Here we have a group of strangers in here with a bunch of old tubs and nets practically unfit, to operate and they stick the Government for four hundred thousand dollars and they were advised, so I understand, to go slow in that matter, advised to go slow, they caught twenty herring. They got twenty herring for four hundred thousand dollars. It is acknowledged they failed in that; there is no comeback. Twenty herring and four hundred thousand dollars, how much a herring? Sir, I cannot make it up. I would have to go up, Mr. Speaker, to the Finance Department and get one machine to make up how much a herring cost. However what are we going to do? Has the Canadian Government guaranteed they will implement the recommendations of the Royal Commission, certainly not. The honourable member for Bonavista South said this afternoon Drew might do it. Drew won't do it anymore than St. Laurent, and some people thought we were getting something for nothing. If Drew were in St. Laurent's place it would have been the same thing, but it would be interesting to find out what revenue they are getting out of this place. There is no way of finding out, I can take a guess as to what sales tax, what there is on account of the Corporation Tax death duties. We don't know how much revenue they are getting out of Gander and other bases. That was the greatest steal in the history of modern times perpetrated by the Governments of Britain and Canada. This afternoon the honourable member for Bonavista South pointed out with respect to Commission of Government, how they wanted to get out of here. Yes, they did but they got well paid for it, they got well paid for getting out of here. They sold Newfoundland before 1949, before they get out. They sold her out, lock, stock and barrel. All we got to do is look at the House of Lords during the last twelve months and see a certain individual placed in there. I have seen people from Skid Row with more character and decency in them than that fellow has, the greatest reprobate ever came through the Narrows, I don't care if I am in order or out of order. He is the fellow who put Newfoundland over, brought it around through sectarianism in this country. A dirty low down cad, he did that right here in the city of St. John's. I know he will die roaring in Hell when he does pass out. One thing a man is never forgiven for, betrayal of a country, the good God does not forgive people for that. That fellow will burn in Hell for betraying Newfoundland and I would love to be there to shovel on the coal. I know he will be there ahead of me anyhow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: You won't be there. That is rash judgment.

MR. CASHIN: That is rash judgment. No, Sir, that is not rash judgment, that is good judgment. I am sorry there is a clergyman here tonight, I did not know it until a minute ago. However, Mr. Speaker, with respect to where we are driving and this eight years waiting for a Royal Commission. As we are going, Mr. Speaker, you won't have to wait eight years. Next year, at the end, and I am working on your own figures, at the end of March 1952, you will have $14,000,000 intact according to your own figures if you don't spend it for another mill or birch plant or something else, or guarantee other money, which are all contingent liabilities. I think if there comes a chance we should sell these. I have not seen any offer but the Government may have some.

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I say that here this afternoon sat a gentleman from the United Kingdom, who is here for discussion with the Government; we had to put him off until tomorrow morning.

MR. CASHIN: When you see people coming in like that after the Government has spent money it is tough negotiating. If that man is coming from a big outfit in Great Britain, I would like you to tell me where he gets the dollars from, and I hope the Government makes a profit from the sale. But at the present time you can't sell a birch plant or a cement plant. Suppose you keep the cement plant and birch mill and the gypsum plant and operate them by the Government, suppose you have to operate them.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Will you allow me to tell you?

MR. CASHIN: You don't know.

MR. SMALLWOOD: On the gypsum plant and the cement mill and birch plant there is a clean net operating profit of about one and a quarter million dollars a year to be made, net profit.

MR. CASHIN: There is to be made a net profit of one and a quarter million dollars a year. Have you a contract to show you can make that million and a quarter a year? No, you have not, but when you sit down to make a contract they know more than you or I. You are not going to get a million and a quarter a year out of a four million dollar investment. That is what percent on your money? 20%, so profiteering is the first thing you will be accused of. 20% on your investment, net profit. Look at Canada Cement, I will tell you what built them up. Bring Beaverbrook up here and I will talk to him, his name stinks in Montreal and if he ever went near Canada Cement they would put him in because he robbed Canada Cement Mill and when we come to talk about Beaverbrook, how much profit did Canada Cement make up to a few years ago? It was in liquidation up until just before the war and the Steel Company of Canada was another baby of Beaverbrook. What I can praise him for is that he made a lot of money, came from selling sewing machines to owning the biggest paper mill in Britain but robbed the Canadian shareholders in order to make it. He made $20,000,000, and you think you can compete with the like of that, that is murder, we are only babes in the woods.

Now fourteen million dollars next year and presuming then you are going to come down seven hundred thousand dollars in the transitional grant. And those days you do not know what may happen; we may have a big war, the biggest in history and then the biggest burst and if that burst comes, unfortunately after war a slump always comes and history has a habit of repeating itself. Today we don't know what is going to happen. There is a large expenditure on defence here in Newfoundland, according to the Budget $16,000,000 dollars are being spent. I don't know how the Finance Minister found that out, but I do know there is some being spent in Gander to extend the runways but I don't know where else. They are spending a lot, I understand, in Argentina but that is not going into the pockets of the people; most of that will be in equipment. Take it all in all the American expenditure will be eight million annually in Newfoundland. The Canadian Government has done nothing so far on defence, except to open recruiting stations here in Newfoundland. They have not established any bases or navy here or fortifications, dugouts or anything else. There has been nothing begun and if the Premier knows anything about it, he would not be allowed to reveal it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I would not want to, I would not be allowed to even mention it in the Budget.

Just to a point of order, Mr. Speaker, so I can make a point, I understood the honourable and gallant member is speaking to the amendment. I am beginning to wonder, when I hear the honourable gentleman, what he is saying is not on the main debate. He is really debating the Budget, using up all his data.

MR. HIGGINS: This is far wider than the Budget, this comprehends the whole of Newfoundland and comprehends the Budget too.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I insist on a ruling.

MR. SPEAKER: Order—It is impossible to define the relevancy.

MR. CASHIN: And in all good temper, mind you, too, and I have to repeat myself unfortunately, like the Premier sometimes. We will have $14,000,000 left next year, that is in 1952, and if we keep going at the same pace we will have nothing in three years; that is the position except for your cement mill which you might sell, I hope you do. I am a firm believer in private industry. Sell it, get your money, hand it over and when the headaches come as come they will, the cement and any other business has good days and bad days. Sell out the other things, the gypsum plant, get your money out, take your profit, which is the practical thing to do. You established the industry and will get the credit but if you operate and start to lose money then look out politically, you will get your teeth kicked in then by the people. The same thing applies to the Birch Plant. You put a million dollars in that industry, get rid of it if you can under the agreement.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We have been offered 10% on it.

MR. CASHIN: Take my advice: Sell your interest, take your profit and get out. Remember the old saying of Morgan: you can never go broke making a profit. Governments are not meant to speculate, it is not a Government's place to speculate. True I admire the arrangement, I wish it every success but if I were in the Government's place I would sell and take my profit and get out and I tell you now to take my advice this time, from a political standpoint that way you go up not down.

MR. SMALLWOOD: There is an awful lot in what the honourable gentleman says.

MR. CASHIN: That is the position. On the other hand if you fail nothing can save you for you are getting away with murder, and there is that Icelandic business. I believe, if I could dig up the old man from Belvedere, he would talk from now until next Christmas on that Icelandic deal.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Well we deserve it.

MR. CASHIN: Well, one thing about it, he does not try to fight his way out of it and I am not going to lamblast him for it.

Now in 1953 there will be $14,000,000 gone; we have no money and will have to send for the Royal Commission then unless we borrow money on the credit of the country and spend it on capital expenditure or to pay deficits. Mr. Speaker, I want to advise the Government in that matter. I ran into it in 1932. I was Finance Minister (Acting) and we were borrowing money year after year to pay deficits, current account deficits. We were borrowing money but there came a day when the bankers and those who loaned money and raised bonds turned us down. We went to New York and were turned down and in Britain we were turned down. Now I suggest, Mr. Speaker, in all sincerity that the Government get rid of these industries and convert them into cash, and I would advocate a revision of these terms. The Canadian Government knows they are inadequate, knows they are unfair, they know they put it all over that delegation, they know they slipped it across our people and that delegation. I honestly believe the Premier himself was the only one on that delegation really convinced that Confederation was the best thing for Newfoundland and was prepared to accept anyhow. The others were only in it for what they could get out of it—the whole lot of them. And they got what they wanted and their names are forgotten, but I say Newfoundland should receive twelve million dollars a year, not transitional but continuous for at least fifty years. They took over our national debt of $63,000,000 and it is not paid yet, and we are still helping to pay the interest on it. The people of Newfoundland are paying their share of interest on it yet. They paid the Western farmers last year; but they do not come down here and say to the shore fishermen: we will pay $10 or $12 a quintal for fish.

There is only one way out of this business, and it is going to take a mighty long time. It would be lovely, Mr. Speaker, if everything turned out as the Premier said this afternoon. Continue the road building, build up our services, getting them to such a state where they are almost on a par with the Maritime Provinces and then send for the Royal Commission and say: come down now, we are built up to the Maritime standard, now we want enough money to keep the services up. Under the Terms of Union there is no such guarantee.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is part of the British North America Act, part of the constitution of Canada, and it says the Government of Canada will appoint a Royal Commission, within eight years after date of union, to recommend the form and character of additional financial assistance, as may be required by the Government of the Province of Newfoundland to enable the Province of Newfoundland to continue public services at the level and standard subsequent to the date of union.

MR. CASHIN: The Parliament of Canada and the Parliament of Great Britain put their signatures to that; but they did not say they would send down a Royal Commission and if they say $15,000,000 or $12,000,000 a year, there is nothing in there to say that, nothing in the British North America Act. And I say right now the Prime Minister of Canada, if he is honest and sincere about these terms of union; I am prepared now to meet him here in the City of St. John's and put it right up to him, if he is prepared to do it, tell me right there and then, but it is up to the Parliament of Canada. The same thing happened with the Transportation Board; the minute there was a bit of doubt we were told to go, not to the Parliament of Canada or the Canadian Cabinet, no, here is what we must do: it is not up to them to interpret it. What did it cost us to go up there and that reminds me, you have been cheated out of a year's revenue there, you should have made that retroactive, it should have gone into your revenue. It was collected from Newfoundland and should have been returned to the Provincial Government and if I were to take any other attitude, Mr. Speaker, I would not be honest with myself. I have spoken on this matter time and time again and people say: that is only Cashin bawling, well, Cashin is going to bawl.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Long may he bawl.

MR. CASHIN: I am going to. And I am going to tell you in three years Cashin won't be the only one bawling. He will probably be laughing up his sleeve. I will be able to say: I told you so and you would not take it. I may say that to the whole House, the Opposition and all. I have been barking at the terms for a year and a half, but I am only Cashin the cracked man. Then there is Col. Drew with his corsets. Mr. Speaker, Col. Drew would do no more for Newfoundland than St. Laurent. Can you blame him? He is a Canadian out to get the best for his country, and when this came up I happened to be there. I sat beside the Premier and neither member, either Conservative or Liberal, put up a fight for Newfoundland. The honourable member for St. John's East put up a big fight for turrs but I have not heard any fight for the financial Terms of Union. These men in Ottawa are elected, go up to Ottawa and overnight forget Newfoundland. They are fifteen hundred miles from here having a fine time of it. But again, I would be dishonest with myself if I did not state that in the House and I am not in here, nor want to be one of those in here crying blue ruin.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I agree.

MR. CASHIN: I am not crying blue ruin, I am telling nothing but the truth, and every member of the Government can take what I say now: that the recommendations of the Royal Commission may or may not be taken or accepted by the Parliament of Canada. For argument's sake, if they came down tomorrow and gave us our just desserts, $12,000,000 a year, we can balance our budget on that; if they make that statement, it may or may not be accepted. Suppose they recommend $12,000,000 a year and it goes before parliament; here you have Quebec, Ontario, British Columbia and every other Province and all hands are up, we want our share. Now that it where you fell down in negotiating your Terms of Union. They wanted Newfoundland more than Newfoundland wanted them; for what? They wanted Newfoundland for strategic purposes to build up a nation. They were off-set by America particularly on the North West and the Atlantic Coast. Newfoundland, ten years ago, was the bastion of liberty for North America and Canada got it for nothing and we are going to go in debt. Next year, Mr. Speaker, the people will be fairly well off financially, but the Government will be bankrupt in a year or two from now. That is bound to come, particularly if all those industries are going to be started. The people will be well off financially, the Government will be burst; that is a perfectly correct statement but watch what happens, people will get up and argue, all right the people are well off. But the Government is going in the hole every day while the people are getting money, where is it coming from?

You ended this year technically with no surplus, there is $700,000 stuck in there belonging to last year, as admitted in the budget speech. But here is the position, Mr. Speaker, I don't care how the surplus is spent, $12,000,000 or $12,000,000 more, you are doing the same thing with it as was done in the old government; you are borrowing money from the surplus to pay for other things.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Does my honourable friend seriously argue that the Government is not paying its way and balancing its budget? If after balancing the budget and having a very sizeable surplus, it does not balance the surplus, are we supposed to balance the surplus?

MR. CASHIN: You are taking money out of the surplus and building mills, building roads, building highroads across the country in conjunction with the Trans-Canada Highway, the Canadian Government, creating overhead you will naturally have fall down on you when you have no surplus, that is what you are doing. It is plain as the nose on your face that that is what you are doing, unfortunately, and I want to remind the Premier I am not preaching blue ruin but common sense, and I have had some experience in this thing, saw exactly the same thing that is happening now and got in political trouble over it and had to bring in estimates and cut the stomach out of them. Don't tell me what it is to run into financial difficulties in a Government, but listen to me now when I say you are heading in that direction and in view of the fact that section 29 of the Terms of Union is not worth the paper it is written on, what is our job now? Politically I may say it does not matter a row of beans. I have heard people say a lot about the Liberal Party. I was a Liberal before either one in it, and I look upon this Liberal and Progressive stuff as far as this Province is concerned as a joke, because tomorrow, if it suits me tomorrow and I see where we can get a nickle for the Province I would be a Liberal, same thing applies to the Conservatives, I am here in the interest of the country not as a Liberal or Tory or any other party and that Liberal Party is going to be there for some time. I don't know if they will be down here or not; they are going to send a Royal Commission down here.

Now what should I do? I am between the devil and the deep blue sea. Should I vote for this amendment? Or should I vote against it? Do these terms commit the Canadian Government to accept the terms of that Royal Commission which would be appointed here? If they recommended say ten or twelve million dollars a year, it does not say, as it reads now, that if that commission recommends ten million dollars a year, the Canadian Government would be forced under that term to pay the Province of Newfoundland. I put it to the Attorney General as a lawyer, what would you tell me? I am only an ordinary lay-man and as I read it, it does not. There is nothing in there that commits the Federal Government of Ottawa or the Federal Parliament to accept the recommendations of the Royal Commission which may or may not come down here.

MR. HIGGINS: It would be debated in parliament.

MR. CASHIN: But does this section commit them and make it mandatory, it does not, does it?

MR. HIGGINS: No, it would be debated in parliament.

MR. CASHIN: That is no good to have it debated in parliament and it is not worth anything to have it debated in parliament. The main sections of the agreement, whether they like it or not, have to be carried out, but in this connection it does not have to be carried out, therefore I am going to vote for that amendment. Because I see the handwriting on the wall, and I am not voting because of politics. I was elected as an Independent, the rest of you were elected subject to some one's orders; but I was elected subject to the orders of the people of Ferryland and they told me to come here Independent and I am staying here until they fire me out. The rules say we have to vote for it one way or the other, for or against, and I can tell you the Canadian Government right now is not committed, and if it were committed and the honourable member for Bonavista South proposed such an amendment I would vote against it, but the Canadian Parliament is not committed. They were committed, for instance, to appoint six senators, they had to do that; to give us seven representatives in parliament. They had to do that, they were committed to do many other things they had to do but they are not committed under that section and they can tell you when you go there, we are sorry, gentlemen, if we give it to you we would have to give it to the other Provinces; and we can't afford it and neither can they, and that is a laugh.

Now I want to see if I can kill myself politically in Newfoundland. I love to see people get lots of money and we are talking now on the financial position. I love to see our people get all kinds of money but I hate to see money make them lazy. There are people in Newfoundland today that have no more intention of going fishing this summer than I have. Not because they don't think the price of fish is good, or not just because they get no subsidy from the Provincial or Federal Governments. There is going to come a day, Mr. Speaker, in the Liberal Government's time when they are going to kill the goose that laid the golden egg. The recent legislation covering baby bonus is a piece of legislation created to bribe the public. Mr. Speaker, I believe in giving help to people who deserve and need financial assistance, but I don't believe in forcing it on people who don't require it. There will come a day when we won't be able to afford it, a day when the country won't be able to stand further taxation, then there will be only one thing left, to reduce it, but where are we going to reduce. It is as plain as the nose on your face. I may be dead, you may not be here, but I predict that within the next ten years there will be no more baby bonus. Old age pensions are an entirely different thing. I agree with them a hundred percent, but no more baby bonus. It was an immoral piece of legislation at the beginning, immoral because it was devised to bribe the people. However, I am going to vote for that amendment, not for political purposes, because I have not any party but I have a sincere desire to see Newfoundland on its feet. I believe that if proper steps were taken right now, the Canadian Government would give us that $12,000,000 a year. I believe that the present administration who are devoting so much time to economic development, devoting so much money to it, have yet to see one outside dollar come into Newfoundland to develop any industry since Confederation, even one dollar. Corner Brook was expanded but it started before Confederation and they nearly went broke, but fortunately paper rose and took them out of the red. But we have heard so much about Dr. Valdmanis and this and that industry. Without Newfoundland money, Mr. Speaker, Doctor Valdmanis could not get to Montreal. The Newfoundland people put up that money. The Newfoundland people paid for that machinery and equipment. Now they come in for concessions, come in after they are built to see if they can get a bargain. In justice to the country, I still call her country, not province. I still call her country not in a nationalistic spirit but because she is my country and your country and not Canada's country; I feel they stole it and I believe it is in the best interest to get down to brass tacks.

Now if the Provincial Government knowing the situation as they do, (I am not preaching blue ruin) but I would back them tomorrow to the last ditch, if they were to appoint another delegation to go to Ottawa. They are in a position to do it, and say to the Canadian Government: Look here, these terms are inadequate; you know it, you were advised that when you made them, now what about it? Then, Mr. Speaker, suppose they turn you down. Cashin is going to try now to break away from union with Canada—I doubt if it could be done. But put up a fight to give us the money; we are going to need it with our increasing overhead, building Trans-Canada highroads and bridges and everything else on a par with the Maritime Provinces and hoping that section 29 will be implemented by the recommendations of that Royal Commission, when it comes here at the end of eight years. Now if I wanted to play good politics I could do so. I tell you what I could do, I could say nothing, let the Government go its way, let them pass the estimates, say no more. If I were playing politics I would do that because I realize, as an experienced politician, the sooner we let them go on the quicker they are broke. But I am not going to do that. I have no intention of trying it, I would not get away with it if I tried. I feel as a former minister of finance that I know something about the situation, as a matter of fact, I think I know more about it than any man in this House tonight, with one exception. There is one man in Newfoundland tonight to whom I will take my hat off in connection with this, and he is the Premier.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Don't be modest.

MR. CASHIN: I am not modest, I am frank. Mr. Speaker, I will challenge any of them to sit down and review the situation and I will take any of them up on the financial position of Newfoundland, the best they can shove along here. Canada has no interest in Newfoundland apart from what she can get out of her, and the prestige that Newfoundland gives her, after robbing two million dollars from Newfoundland in 1931. They laugh at that but it is a fact, through their depreciation of their own money and going off the gold standard they beat Newfoundland out of two million dollars in 1931.

Therefore, in conclusion of these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, with respect to this motion of the honourable member for Bonavista South, I must say that I am not voting for the motion because of any political aspirations or prestige nor anything I can get out of it. I don't care two cents for all of it, but because I feel honestly that something has to be done and done quickly. True, we can carry on for another year and another year and a half, but ultimately the time will come when we won't be able to carry on and that will be before this party retires and it will be interesting for me to walk in here, if I am still in the flesh, and watch those Ottawa characters walk in here and tell you what to do. The Commission of Government came in here in 1933-34 and the Liberal Party at that time, we were here and tried to put up a fight in the House but there was no fight, the thing went through in two days and the legislation was passed that night by a majority. The Liberal Party put up no fight and what did the Commission of Government do? They crucified Newfoundland, every man, woman and child under Commission of Government was crucified, so beware of another. It is alright for the Premier to say there won't be another, how do we know, there was no guarantee in that referendum. I don't want to go into history of that aggregation that sold out Newfoundland. Some of them, like the individual I referred to tonight, are in hell, and I am sorry I am not there to pile the coal on them for crimes committed against our poor people, particularly those in places I know in Ferryland, who destroyed their cows, cattle, chickens, horses and everything before they could get relief, then built the Memorial for people in this community. Then to hear people advocate the Commission, half her public men our own, crucified the people then brought doctors in to see what was wrong with them.

However, I know the Government are not going to accept the amendment, but I am going to vote for it and I am not talking balderdash but common sense. Concerning the Budget, any Budget, it ought not to be debated at all today but should be deferred until some people get a chance at study it; it is very confusing in some respects, and cannot be digested overnight especially for those who have no experience. We got to take the Auditor General's Report and so on and check it all up. I can tell you it will take a week if it is to be done properly. It kind of surprised me today when the honourable the Premier brought in the motion and I had not made up my mind what I was going to say; but I got into the discussion on the amendment and I feel I have to vote for it whether I like to or not. But if I were playing politics, I would say let these people work it out among themselves, it is none of my affair but I am not taking that position. The Premier wondered this afternoon what I thought of them all, if he wants to know what I think of them, then I am going to tell him right here and now and I would think a great deal more of them if they could co-operate more, not play politics one side and the other while discussing this financial position. I am entirely without political affiliations one way or the other, not wondering how many votes this is going to get me or who is for it. There is not a man here who opposed Confederation as hard as I did and got a kick in the face for doing it, but I knew what was going to happen, at least I knew that you could not get along on these subsidies. As a matter of fact I have proven it so, some members in here remember the black and grey book and gave us I think for the first three years, three and a half million dollars when the delegation first went, then when they came back the next time it was six and a half; they figured, Mr. Speaker, they were dealing with real political babes, the whole lot of them, this delegation, political babes in most respects and traitors most of them. Mind you I am not accusing the Premier of being a traitor. He was honest, he could not be otherwise from the way he talked. I can always tell when a man is speaking whether he means it or not; and I will say this: Joey Smallwood meant it, but when it came to getting down to closing the deal with a crowd up there, he and the others identified with him were like babes in the woods. Consequently we need $12,000,000 a year, and I believe before this thing closes, I am going to make another motion that he appoint another delegation to go to Ottawa to demand better and more reasonable terms, because he realizes and the House realizes, right down the line, that what I say is correct; that in another year and a half or two years at the longest you won't have a dollar. That is why I advocated the selling of the Birch and Gypsum plant and Cement plant and everything else, so that the money can carry you along for a little while. So in closing, Mr. Speaker, I regret exceedingly, to use an old political phrase of a leader of mine in the old political days gone by; I regret exceedingly that I had to take issue so independently and so strongly on a matter like this because I feel that if I did not say a few short sentences, and I have said a few in connection with this, that I would be put down as neglecting my duty. I can hear them say; that fellow Cashin during the convention time and the referendum and the election said all this and now the opportunity comes to say it in the House, to voice his viewpoint and he said nothing. What did we send him there for anyhow? And I feel that I had to say it knowing only too well the financial position. I probably would not have said a word but it is the financial position that interests me; and I am going to vote for that amendment because I believe that a delegation should be appointed immediately, as this House knows, and sent to Ottawa.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That would be another amendment.

MR. CASHIN: No I am not in here to hold up the House too long.

MR. FAHEY: If the amendment carried and a Royal Commission were appointed, would it be worth the paper it was written on?

MR. CASHIN: I don't know. Why send a Royal Commission down here why not go up and,—you have just put it in my mind now to move an amendment.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Why vote for a Royal Commission if it is not worth the paper it is written on?

MR. CASHIN: I will say the Royal Commission would not be worth the paper it was written on—but the paper is not written on.

MR. HIGGINS: I move we keep better order, I am going out.

MR. CASHIN: I am awfully sorry, Mr. Speaker, I had nothing to do with it.

MR. SPEAKER: I did not get the point of objection.

MR. CASHIN: Because we were all breaking the rules.

MR. SPEAKER: On the contrary, you were not, the honourable and gallant member has the floor and if he cares to admit an interruption it is not the business of the Chair, it is entirely up to him.

MR. CASHIN: I never object to things like that. Now I am coming to the jocular side, I invite it. If I get any pleasure coming into this House, apart from any job I might do, it is that I enjoy the repartee across the floor. I do not want to come to a wake but I do expect to attend one in about a year.

MR. COURAGE: You came to awaken.

MR. CASHIN: I came to bring some enlightenment to some of you fellows over there. I am not interested in the Opposition, they are not interested in me, I have nothing to do with them. However, I am going to vote with them on that amendment, just to see what a Royal Commission would get, and I predict a kick in the face.

MR. SPEAKER: Before the honourable member continues, I wish to say in justification that I object strongly to the aspersions of the honourable Leader of the Opposition to reflect on the ability of the Chair.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, as seconder of this motion—

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, I am sorry I did not hear what you said.

MR. SPEAKER: I said I objected strongly to the remarks you made.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, as the seconder of that amendment of the member for Bonavista South I do not intend to take up much time of the Assembly, but I must take time, however, to congratulate the Premier for his very able speech this afternoon, but there are a few points when he came to talk about the surplus and how proud and delighted and happy he was and the Liberals were to show a surplus for this fiscal year. Now it is very easy to show a surplus like this, particularly in Newfoundland, where there are so many things to be done; there are school-rooms in Newfoundland with no pupils, because they have no teachers, and pupils in other places that have no school room and still the Government shows a surplus. There are five thousand people registered with the Unemployment Office with no work and you show a surplus. I am not interested in this amendment though I seconded it, until the honourable Minister pointed out how idiotic, how silly and how childish it was to entertain such an amendment, at this time, and that caused me to reflect and think it should be done now. I am not one to preach blue ruin anymore than anyone else, but the members of the Cabinet and Private members opposite me see the handwriting on the wall, just as well as thousands of Newfoundlanders must see it too.

Since the time of Union our Provincial Government has made an agreement with the Federal Government to build a Trans-Canada Highway, which will cost the Newfoundland Government probably in the vicinity of $23,000,000; but we have not the money to pay for it.

Now I am going to, perhaps, say something that may be dirty. I am going to show you where you got some of your surplus and I am not going to take very long to do it either, $700,000 of surplus through the Department of Welfare. Now in 1949-50, Mr. Speaker, we had a lot of unemployment in Newfoundland. We had eight thousand people, 8,370 people roughly, employed at Public Works and the Administration, the Government paid them 55c. an hour for three days a week and they worked three days free. The cost of the work to the Government in that fiscal year was $1,275,353 which should have been twice as much. It should have been a half million more at least, if you had played fair with the people of this Island who are still hungry and looking for jobs, and that is where you got the surplus. It has been my experience in the last couple of months: there has not been one or two or a dozen or fifty, they have come to me in two hundreds all through the month, yes, and all through the winter seeking employment. They can't get it and had to live on dole and very poor dole at that. All through the days and weeks and months of this past winter, during the past year when you had this surplus which you are so happy and delighted about, they ate their bread and molasses and rolled oats or oatmeal and perhaps were glad enough to get it. No, don't boast of your surplus, not to me or any right Newfoundlander. Don't boast of that surplus when there is so much to be done. And then to get up and say this motion is trash and nonsense, utterly pointless and foolish and give a very nice explanation for it. I am not going to say very much about it, I feel this thing too deeply, feel too disturbed about it and too big around the middle. Mr. Abbott wants a lot of money this year, wants $3,700,000,000 and he will get his share of it out of us people, out of the fishermen, out of the loggers and out of the various tradesmen, out of the toiling masses in Newfoundland, just as well as out of the toiling masses in Canada. When we see the amount we are going to collect from sales tax this year, six million dollars, what do you think? Then the Premier gets up and tells this House and this country this is a brainless resolution. I never heard such trash and nonsense in all my life as the Premier uttered this afternoon. It is no trouble, Mr. Speaker, to produce a surplus when it is produced through the suffering of the people.

MR. JANES: Mr. Speaker, I listened this afternoon, with considerable interest to the honourable member for Bonavista South. I am speaking now to the amendment and not to the Budget. I listened to his resolutions on the amendments and his main points were (1) The Terms of Union were inadequate (2) The Government were not making a good job of what they have at hand and that was the reason actually for his resignation from the Cabinet and (3) that he saw in the Terms of Union an escape under Term 29. The third point was the reason for his amendment to the Budget Speech.

Now, Sir, I am not going to support the amendment to the Budget Speech. I think it to be as much trash as the honourable Premier does. The honourable member for Bonavista South admits openly that he does not think the services of this Province are up to the standard of the Maritime Provinces. He deplores, in fact, that the Government have a surplus accumulated and says that we do not need a Department of Fisheries and yet argues we should supply, this Provincial Government should supply, a subsidy to the fishery. Now, Sir, either one or the other is a contradiction of the facts. Does he expect this Government, this Provincial Government of Newfoundland, to provide a subsidy for the fisheries and yet not have a Department of Fisheries?

MR. RUSSELL: No he does not expect it and did not say it.

MR. JANES: Who is to pay, the Provincial Government or the Federal Government at Ottawa? Who is to determine that matter? It is a different matter altogether from P.E.I., potatoes as the former Minister of Natural Resources very well knows. You know in the Maritimes of Canada their farms are 28 acres, what is it in Newfoundland? No, you won't answer. I can tell you.

MR. SPEAKER: I must uphold the point that the honourable gentleman must address the Chair.

MR. JANES: The answer, Mr. Speaker, to all economic problems in Newfoundland is to go down in Red Cove and build a breakwater. It must be Red Cove. Why not get the people out and put them in Catalina or Bonavista? He deplores the fact that this Government should spend money on Economic Development, birch plants, fish plants but now we are to go to Red Cove and build a breakwater, that is the answer to all our economic problems in Newfoundland. It is the answer, Mr. Speaker, to which I have listened so long, gathered around the kitchen stove and listened to the homespun philosophy of the honourable member for Bonavista South. It is nice, it is a nice thing to encourage but, for myself, as I see it, I have gone through the mill and know what it is about and it is not the answer to Newfoundland's economic and social problems. Suppose the Government took their whole surplus and spent it on breakwaters. Suppose the Government took their whole surplus and spent it on roads. What have we got left after that surplus has been spent, what does it represent? In terms of capital that is going to bring in to our people a livelihood, it represents nothing. I could mention a hundred and fifty, two hundred communities in Newfoundland that want public wharves, breakwaters, but after they are built what then—what then? Is that going to mean more fish being caught and plants erected to process that fish? It is not, does not mean anything of the sort and if any man in this House were expected to stand up and make a statement of that sort, it is the honourable member for Bonavista South.

Look, Sir, I don't know—we have been friends for so long. When I was in Italy during the last war and when the war was over and I sat down and said to myself, "Janes, what are you going to do when you get back?" There was someone there who said to me: "There is a fellow I know whom you would probably like." In the meantime, I spent a couple of years in England and had come to respect and like the Co-operative movement in Newfoundland; and when he said: "Look, do you know Ted Russell?" I said "No." Then he said: "Why don't you write to him," and I did. I had seen what fascism had meant, I had seen it in operation. I had seen the organization in Italy because the people, the peasants, the good people who till the land very badly beaten down. I did not like it. I had seen the French go into Africa and exploit what there was of it and set themselves up as landlords and I did not like it. And I said there must be some answer, some way out of this thing; and in the meantime I heard of a study club a few miles from a community where I had taught school. Well, I wrote Ted Russell. And for a few years beyond that point we became very fast friends. I liked his thinking up to a point—up to a point. Mr. Speaker, when I travelled Bonavista North in a Government capacity and compiled the lobster statistics of Bonavista North and South, when I knew what lobsters were caught in Bonavista Bay and was making contacts with a lobster company in the United States. I had calculated the lobster people knew more about it than I did, about the cost of getting lobsters out of Bonavista Bay. I knew the cost of practically every cannery in Bonavista Bay, I knew what lobster was left. I knew of a firm who had supplied the fishermen with lobster traps. I had this thing all arranged and then the honourable member for Bonavista South, for exactly the same reason he left the Cabinet, came on the radio and told Bonavista North they could not get more than 20c. a pound for lobster and ruined every hope I had for getting co-operative sales. I walked that time, I walked to Gambo, I rode to Hare Bay and got aboard an open boat and got out to Fair Island to the first lobster pool; when Mr. Russell came on the radio and he said we could not get more than 20c., and we could get 26c. or 27c. And he comes up here today and holds forth that this Province is insolvent on exactly the same basis that he insisted we could not get more than 20c. a pound for lobster in Bonavista Bay. He did not know, had not taken the same trouble to find out whether this province is insolvent or even solvent.

MR. RUSSELL: That should be proved.

MR. JANES: You take exactly the same view, do you not?

MR. RUSSELL: I have lived a good many years and if the honourable member reviews all my past history—

MR. JANES: I am sorry, I have the floor.

MR. SPEAKER: I said just now, it is difficult to decide relevancy on such a question.

MR. JANES: I am very sorry, Mr. Speaker, what I am trying to do is to show that the person who made this amendment is the most impractical person in the Province of Newfoundland. And I like him, I like him, he has done more for me probably than any other person in Newfoundland can possibly do, yet I can't vote for it. It is so full of contradictions. He would take the surplus and go down and make breast-works, take the surplus and use it as a subsidy for the fisheries.

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, to a point of information, I said the people in certain fishing areas and in my district and there must be others in other districts, who wanted from the Federal Government assistance for marine works and could not get it from the Federal Government. There was not a suggestion that Provincial money be spent.

MR. JANES: He admits if subsidies are to be made to the fisheries it is a Federal, not a Provincial, matter, therefore he does not have to use up the surplus for Federal subsidies on the fisheries.

But before all that, while he states, in his address to this House today, that we have unemployment, we have inadequate education and public services, he argues that the Government should go ahead and spend the surplus to remedy matters to give us greater public services and better public services, by a subsidy on the fishery. This may be the ruination of Janes, I am not worried very much about the 60c. on Beaver tobacco. You know that is an important point of appeal to the fishermen of Newfoundland, and I will repeat that, 60c. on tobacco appeals to the fishermen of Newfoundland. But is 60c. Beaver tobacco as important as the fisheries of Newfoundland, is it as important as the factories which are being established today or is it not? I have heard the honourable member for Bonavista South talking about people standing on their own bottoms—well the bottom of their own boat. I am talking about a boat, I am talking good Fogo language. When people stand on their own bottoms we always talk about the bottom of a boat, not on their own feet. Then that can only mean we are prepared to pay our share and to pay our own way. Maybe 60c. on Beaver tobacco may be paying the old age pension, I would not doubt it, but could it also mean $7 a quintal for Labrador fish brought back from Labrador last year. Does it mean that when we are one year in Confederation we are probably paying our price for Confederation? The terms are inadequate, says the honourable member, well maybe they are. I am not a financial authority, I do not pretend to be a financial authority but I will read a balance sheet with any man in this Chamber. If the financial position of this Province is what we expect or hope for in the next few years; then it is probably not good that we should be paying 60c. for Beaver tobacco. But more important that our fishermen who went to Labrador last year are paid for their fish.

As far as duplication of services that this Province might undertake and the Federal Government might undertake, we have to remember this rather serious fact, that the Federal Government is a mother with ten children.

MR. FOGWILL: Nine children and one step-child.

MR. JANES: I only have two and I know the bigger fellow can take care of himself better than the little fellow but it is not impossible that one must wait until the month of June while the other gets a spring coat. So it is with the duplication of services. It is not impossible, Mr. Speaker, that duplication of services have been activated by this Province which should have been maintained by the Federal Government. But had the Provincial Government not inaugurated these services, then the Federal Government never would have inaugurated the services which they have started in the Province of Newfoundland.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the honourable member for St. John's East talked about the schools with no teachers. I could tell him very well why the schools of Newfoundland have no teachers. The answer is this, I told this House once before that if a teacher has to spend his lifetime in some small cove and on a salary of a third grade teacher; he will not stay there and it is therefore the obligation of this Province to replace this teacher as he moves out. The teacher who replaces him is not the teacher with university grade or an associate grade; it is the teacher who has no grade, that is the teacher replacement and the Government and the honourable the Premier will disagree with me and say we have a system here we can't change. That is all very well, I am inclined to agree with him. But you will not convince me, nor could all the Prime Ministers Newfoundland ever had convince me, because the position is this, Sir, that the one-room school, which attracts the third grade teacher, will never hold that teacher nor will there be any inspiration to the teacher in that school to go any further. He gets fed up and it takes a lot of guts to go on further. When you produce something in this Province which is attractive to teachers, you will have plenty of teachers, but for God's sake don't ask the teachers who graduate from Memorial University today to go into one-room schools and spend their life there. They will not do it, they belong to 1951 not to 1930 nor 1936. They belong to a world that has just fought a world war and probably facing another war, and they have had a lot of broadening out and are not going to do it. That is the answer to the junior member for St. John's East. If he wants teachers, produce the atmosphere in Newfoundland where that young teacher can spend a year at Memorial, and then go out and work in an environment where there is not only the job to do but the environment where the intellectual improvement of that individual goes on, and where he can move on from there to teaching in a three-room school as principal. But if you think you are going to fill the one-room schools in Newfoundland with third grade or ungraded teachers, you are always going to be short of teachers.

MR. FOGWILL: It is no trouble to get teachers, the answer is simple; pay the wages. What are the wages? The lowest in the country.

MR. JANES: The lowest in Canada, but what is the alternative to becoming a teacher? You don't answer that but I will tell you: the clerks on Water Street, the best you have down there are getting about $37.00 a week. What is the alternative to being a teacher, if I had a certain paper here now I could quote it, but I haven't got it handy.

MR. FOGWILL: Go out and get it, we will wait for you.

MR. JANES: I know. I was a teacher in a school room where I had fifty pupils and a teacher across the way with two grades higher had ten. I can go all around my district in Fogo and give you the same thing, and I think every other member could do the same thing. I am all for amalgamated schools. Schools which will give the children of Newfoundland a decent education. I am not talking about schools where you have all the people of the same denomination. I am a believer in undenominational education.

MR. FOGWILL: That is very interesting.

MR. JANES: But I do not believe in two or three one-room schools in one community. And the only argument I have heard for denominational schools is that the Province is divided by denominations.

MR. SPEAKER: I really do think you are being irrelevant. I do not see what the educational school system has to do with the amendment.

MR. FOGWILL: He fascinates me.

MR. JANES: Says the honourable member for St. John's East. He can't see how we can have a surplus when there are people in Newfoundland who are unemployed. It is ironic he says—when seven hundred thousand dollars was spent by the Department of Public Welfare for unemployment. Mr. Speaker, by whose standards, by whose standards (I repeat that deliberately) are the people of Newfoundland unemployed? What standard of wages do they get? Let me tell you this fact that in the district of Fogo, prior to 1950, the highest wages paid in that district was 35c. per hour, and that wage was paid by the only registered and incorporated society in the district, and that district is populated by ten thousand people of Newfoundland.

MR. FOGWILL: Who paid the wages there?

MR. JANES: Not the merchants, they did not pay it. I will go further and tell you that on a construction job in Fogo last year the highest wages paid was 45c. an hour. Now, Mr. Speaker, my district is a fishing community and I do not at this time want to go into the economics of the fishery, because if I do I am going to say some things you might not like to hear. Because I know enough, have enough information in this pocket here. What was the average price paid for Maderia last year? The merchants tell you they will pay 30c. an hour for labour, they will pay this for West India and this for tomcods. That is the stuff you get going on, 30c.

an hour and fish prices as low as possible.

MR. FOGWILL: The bad merchants are not all on Water Street.

MR. JANES: No, but they are very closely connected with them. They are on Water Street too, they are all over Water Street, I don't have to name them. That is the stuff you asked for, that is the stuff you want. The Fishery Department is not necessary—if you go out and subsidize fish. The Department of Labour is not necessary, yet they pay 30c. an hour for labour. If there were any brains and any knowledge ever produced in this House, Mr. Speaker, it comes from the member for Bonavista South and the junior member for St. John's East. We can have no schools without teachers; no, and we are not going to have them, because no teacher will go out and spend ten months for $40 a month and yet there are jobs in one-room schools worth $60 a month. Will the teacher get more than $60 in any office on Water Street. After all, the Government is not the center of wages, the Government at best can only be an arbitrator.

If the homes for delinquents are not necessary and the homes for the aged are not necessary—I did not say it, you just said it, I am only repeating the honourable member for Bonavista South.

MR. RUSSELL: I object, if the honourable member is going to criticize me, let him read Hansard and criticize what I did say; I cannot let that statement go out to the press.

MR. SPEAKER: Order.

The honourable member for Bonavista South has objected to a misquoted remark, now I am not sure but I have no recollection of the honourable member making this statement. The honourable member is quite within his rights.

MR. JANES: I accept the statement of the honourable member for Bonavista South.

MR. SPEAKER: Will the honourable member in future, please address the Chair.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In all fairness—

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member for Fogo interrupted the honourable member for Bonavista South making a point of order.

MR. JANES: Whether he said it or not he inferred—that probably 18 girls or whatever member might be in the home for delinquent girls and a similar number in the home for the aged were insignificant. He probably did not mean that the Government should not maintain these homes.

MR. RUSSELL: I inferred nothing of the sort. I was expressing my sympathy with the honourable Minister of Public Welfare, who has enormous problems and can only pick at them because he can't afford to take the problem as a whole as he would like to do.

MR. SPEAKER: That is precisely my recollection of what the honourable member for Bonavista South said: That the honourable Minister for Public Welfare could only touch the fringe of the problem.

MR. RUSSELL: I really must repeat that the statement of the honourable member for Fogo going out of this House is political murder for me.

MR. JANES: It is all so much, Mr. Speaker.

MR. SPEAKER: You can not interrupt the Chair. The honourable member for Bonavista South is making a point of order. It has been clearly stated he has been misquoted.

MR. JANES: It is also political murder for the honourable member for Bonavista South to infer that fishermen, who pay 60c. for Beaver tobacco are paying the national debt of Canada today.

The fact that we might have fifteen girls or twenty old age pensioners or thirty or forty, I don't know what number are in the home for the aged and infirm but it is a beginning at least, it is a start. If we were to listen to the honourable member for Bonavista South we would all sit back here producing committees, some might be desirable and some not. We would subsidize the fisheries, and mind you it would not take long to spend forty million dollars on subsidizing the fisheries of Newfoundland; and after that what then, what would the fishermen live on then when there were no plants, no markets, after being subsidized for their salt cod? Now I am not against the subsidies if they can be obtained.

MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Speaker, I must object again. The honourable member is repeating a point I cleared up long ago, giving the impression I am recommending a provincial subsidy on fish and I did not.

MR. JANES: The honourable member, Mr. Speaker, included that excuse in his amendment to the motion.

MR. SPEAKER: If the honourable member would permit me I think we should have a recess after which he may again have the floor.

Recess for five minutes.

MR. JANES: Mr. Speaker, the point I was making was not only duplication of services but wages paid in the fishing industry. I am not going to take up very much more time.

MR. SPEAKER: You have 19 minutes.

MR. JANES: But I do want to say this, that the last days of 1935 have disappeared in the district of Fogo and that we shall not be content or be satisfied with that wage rate. We are not going to be content with what is going on with the merchants on Water Street and in NAFEL, with 35c. per hour for the labour on fish. The honourable the Prime Minister spoke of $150,000 or more being distributed in the industries of Newfoundland. I do not know what that includes, but I am rather inclined to think the figure does not include what might be forthcoming to the fisheries of this Province. Last year, Sir, we had a situation in Fogo District which brought to our labour an amount per hour which was absolutely inadequate. The people themselves have endured four hundred and fifty years, if Fogo has been settled that long, I don't know if it has or has not. But this wage was disgraceful to the people of Fogo District. We were able to raise that wage. In this day, with profits made by NAFEL, the Newfoundland Associated Fish Exporting Association Limited and the people, who export fish from Fogo Island, the people of Fogo Island should not work for 35c. per hour or less. I would say there is one firm and one only which is a co-operative organization which pays 45c. per hour. To think that they or any other firm are going to be able to face the fishing season of 1951 and pay that wage is utterly ridiculous.

Now, Sir, what is the intention of the Government in the year 1951? What has been proven by subsequent events that this government should end the fiscal year with a surplus and pay wages of 25c. and 35c. an hour through causing the contractors, who were involved, to pay more. It is unthinkable that we should face 1951 with that wage in effect. Some people can blame us for not having unions, for not having this organization and that, but Mr. Speaker, it is idiotic to talk of people dying for political liberty. May I for his enlightenment say, it is a matter of historical fact, that the people who have died in wars and will die in the wars to come, did not die for political liberty. This generation at least is under no illusion whatever about the cause of war, not under any illusion as to why people should die even after being conscripted or as volunteers. There are many of the free nations of the world, at this time, Mr. Speaker, but I am not going to elaborate on that; some day or other in this House somebody or other might challenge me or induce me to elaborate and then I shall. But as far as I am concerned, there is only one cause of war and that cause is economic, it is not political and no man who ever bore a rifle ever felt that the cause was political. The cause was economic, if there was a cause. We should not, Mr. Speaker, this House should not, and this Dominion should not, impose upon the memoried dead. I repeat it is a historic fact that in all wars where people died for any freedom it was economic freedom, and I do not think this House or any other House should confuse economic freedom with political freedom; the two are as far apart as the Poles.

I am going to vote against this amendment to the budget speech, Sir.

I will vote against it for the same reason the honourable member for Bonavista South proposed it—the Terms of Union, he says, are inadequate. I maintain the Terms of Union are adequate, in as far as the people who constructed the Terms of Union were capable of seeing, and I challenge any member of this House or this Province or this Dominion to look ahead for a period longer than eight years. He is not capable of doing it. I vote against the amendment because I believe that the Government of this Province today are making the best job of what they have. The honourable member for Bonavista South says they are not making the best job of what they have. I believe they are. I believe that the plans instituted by the government, and the Department of Economic Development are utilizing the resources of this country in a way which may be beneficial to the people in the future, in spite of the situation at Fogo. They can defeat me in the next election, if they like, but I say it is better, the program which is being followed by the Government, the program of economic development is better than going down to Musgrave Harbour and setting up breakwaters. Musgrave Harbour may not be there in twenty years, who knows? I don't know. Should they fish from Cape Freels or from Carmanville and Wesleyville? I don't know, economic factors alone can determine that. No member in this House is capable of determining that—of determining whether people should remove from Fair Island in to Gaumbo. There is no man in this House capable of determining whether the people of Change Islands should move into Lewisporte. He has not sufficient economic knowledge to do it; all he is doing is in the nature of a guess. I am willing, Mr. Speaker, to let the economic forces and economic laws operate. And let the people decide where they themselves can earn a better living but for the time being let the Government go ahead with its economic program. Let us establish the Birch Plant, the Cement Mill and the Gypsum Plant, if they are for the overall benefit of Newfoundland.

MR. SPEAKER: Order. The honourable member is not permitted to use that speech in the House.

MR. JANES: I don't know whether anybody will be living on Greenspond a hundred years from now; if the people can move to more adaptable communities which will give them services more useful, they can move there with my blessing and they can fish, Mr. Speaker, from the Funks to the Grand Banks.

MR. SPEAKER: I would like to say that five minutes were taken out in recess. Under the rules at 11:00 we adjourn the House, unless the honourable the leader of the House has any announcement to make.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment of the debate.

The debate then adjourned until tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, in view of the lateness of the hour, I move all remaining orders be deferred, and that the House at its rising do now adjourn until tomorrow at three of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

FRIDAY, May 11, 1951.

The House met at three of the clock in the afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

Presenting Petitions

None.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Notice of Motion and Questions

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): I give notice, Mr. Speaker, that I will on tomorrow ask leave to introduce a Bill "An Act further to Amend Chapter 137 of the Consolidated Statutes, (Third Series) entitled of Companies."

MR. CASHIN: I wonder if the honourable the Premier has the answer to my question?

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): I have no answers. I remember one of the questions respecting salaries and expenses of the Department of Economic Development. I do not remember what the other was about. I have no answers, in fact, none have been handed to me yet. My honourable friend knows the procedure, the Order Paper goes to all departments to see that answers are prepared and sent to the Minister concerned. I have seen these questions on the Order Paper each day and I am merely waiting receipt of the answers to them. I know the travelling expenses of the Director of Economic Development and his staff ought not to take long to compile, our accounting is done by Mr. Quigley of the Department of Provincial Affairs, whether he is doing this or not, I frankly don't know; it may be in the Department of Finance.

MR. CASHIN: I also want to draw the attention of the Finance Minister and the Minister of Fisheries and Cooperatives to 103. These loans were handed out by the various loan boards, who are supposed to report on them, and they should be made give a statement now as to what money they have advanced to people and give them to the Minister concerned and not wait until the end of May. We want to have them now when discussing the budget.

MR. SMALLWOOD: One only reports to me, the other two report to the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives, consequently I am going to ask him if he would contact the Chairman and get these answers and perhaps he will take it off my hands.

Committee of the Whole on Supply:
Adjourned debate on the amendment:

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the amendment and I may say at this time that I am not going to juggle figures around like a magician, but I want to make a few points as to why I support the amendment.

In the first place, Mr. Speaker, in my opinion I think that we are trying to get too high a level in social security, not in so far as the people are concerned but in so far as the Provincial Government is concerned. I doubt if we have the reserve of taxation to match our costs against the central or Federal Government; and I feel we can't afford it unless there are some other areas of taxation and those fields seem to have been cleaned up through Federal taxation. We are in a little different position than some of the Prairie Provinces, put it that way, due to the fact that they have been subsidized for probably the last thirty or forty years by the Federal Government and they are built up to such a position, while we are only new as a Province of Canada. We have not the same resources as some of those Provinces have and therefore

I feel that this Provincial Government is taking quite a bit on, more than the Government can afford. But, as I have already said, I would certainly support social security in the interest of the people.

One member said, "Give us another two or three years until we level off our social security with the other Provinces and then ask for such a Commission." I take it that at the rate we are going now you won't be in any position to ask for a Commission. It was stated here yesterday that we only have fourteen millions left in the surplus. A year from now, I doubt that there will be very much of that because of the fact that it is already earmarked. Last year, according to the Minister of Public Works there was something in the vicinity of eighteen millions for the Trans-Canada highway, and will be twenty-three millions, so that the fourteen millions we are supposed to have a year from now is already spent in that time. Perhaps that Trans-Canada highway may spread over six or seven years; and perhaps the present government or some other government, when it comes to finishing off those roads, will have to borrow money from the Federal Government, or in other words, we are spending the same money over two or three times.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Can you tell me of any Government in the whole world, except Newfoundland, who built new roads out of current account and does not borrow money to do it?

MR. FAHEY: Referring to the question asked, I was not referring to current and capital account, I was referring to spending the same money over again. It is like a woman in the depression whose husband earned $20, and money was pretty scarce, but from that same $20 she was going to buy five times that. So it is with the Government—you are expending in three or four different ways the same money. Now sometime you are going to get to the end of that and for that reason I support the amendment.

It has been stated here that the Government does not actually spend all this money but backs different corporations through the banks or in other words floats money to start fresh fish plants. I am in accord with that. I realize the sands have run out as far as the salt fish markets are concerned but if the Government backs a note the same as an individual, and goes security for money not paid off by a corporation who borrows, the Government must find the money in the final analysis. It has its securities but if it is not paid off the Government must pay.

Mr. Speaker, in reference to the fourteen million left, that reminds me that a year or so ago we were supposed to have in the vicinity of forty-one millions, now we have to put the one before the four, which reminds me of a story of a school inspector, who went into a kindergarten class and gave a little test saying, "Will some pupil give me a number?" and one little fellow said, "29" so he wrote down 92 to find out how smart the pupils were. "Now give me another." It was 16 and he put down 61. One little fellow in the first row said, "77, and can that bluffing." It is now the one before the four, fourteen millions left and two years ago it was forty-one millions, but we still don't have that fourteen millions; as I already made the point it is practically spent somewhere else, and it will be a headache finding the same money to spend two or three times, and I say it is time that we had a Royal Commission and so I support the motion.

Now reference was made to the depression days and I remember one time I happened to be on the train going up from Sydney to Montreal, and at Truro the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland, then Finance Minister, came up on that train from Halifax also the late Honourable Sir Richard Squires, then Premier, going to the money banks of the world in 1930, the depression days, looking for a loan and I should say the money haunts of the world, and what happened. They were told to go home and clean house and cut everything to the bone before they could borrow any money, and then, I think, finally they only got enough to pay the interest on the loan we had. Now I don't want that same thing to occur again and I hope the honourable members all take that into consideration. Don't let us make that same mistake as in the thirties; and if we can avoid that by having a Royal Commission at the present time, I feel it is the best thing and that is why I support the motion.

In the past, Mr. Speaker, a lot of people supported the Government that they voted for, right or wrong and we would hear the cry; they are no worse than the last bunch. Now when we refer to extravagance on this side of the House, we are told it would be much worse if we had Responsible Government. I don't care, Responsible or Provincial or otherwise, from this side of the House or the opposite side, it is our duty to criticize them for extravagance; and for that reason many times when we get on our feet to do what we feel is right if the members on that side feel they should not be criticized, they should not be in politics. We have to take it over here when we are told that we remind them of people chewing tobacco in a forecandle.

Another point made here by the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland that we have a national party neither Liberal nor PC, and that he favoured such a national party. I might inform the House that in 1946 I happened to be elected as Chairman of a national party in Corner Brook, and we had it in our minds then that we needed a national party. It has not just now come to life. I am speaking now because of the fact it was Labour Day, five years ago, and now only a couple of days ago I heard in this House remarks passed that must be gratifying to some members to see this great labour legislation going through; and it struck me as to why the Minister of Labour in that position, or with some other member, should not be there. Some of these members only came into the labour movement after that date in 1946; and a couple of years later we get the story there has been nothing done in the interest of labour until performed by certain members of this House. I would like to say, Mr. Speaker, the ruin we are heading for is not blue ruin brought around because of the Commission of Government.

HON. C. H. BALLAM (Minister of Labour): Do I understand from the honourable member that he is inferring that I only got mixed up with labour after 1946.

MR. FAHEY: No, Mr. Speaker, to make the point clear, it should be gratifying to some other members of this House to see labour legislation going through. What is the Minister of Labour doing with all that experience of men we hear so much about?

MR. BALLAM: You are trying to pay me a little tribute.

MR. FAHEY: I generally give credit where credit is due.

When the Commission of Government came to this country because we could not longer carry on without money; through the effect of the war, this country prospered. But there was a space of fifteen years in between and we did not legislate in the labour movement. We could not lobby politicians to get labour laws passed and if we went to the Commission they told us no, they did not have to depend on labour or the toiling masses to elect them. Consequently we had no social security measures passed for fifteen years, no labour legislation passed but at the same time we were only paying $20 a quarter to people over the age of seventy, and could afford to give away money free of interest. And they did something about health. Then, when the time came around, people were offered Confederation and like a man drowning grabbed after a chip. That is the picture as I see it and I lay the whole blame on the Commission of Government, but I think right now people are more cautious, and wise enough to know we must pay for social security through taxation, 60c. for Beaver and 45c. for cigarettes, it has to be paid for. You don't get money for nothing in this world. And I think they realize that already, although they may be told there won't be any property taxes by the Provincial or Federal Government. But that will be done in another way. We have to keep up services through a system of town councils or county councils or otherwise. Now I don't want any member to think I have anything in the world against social security. I don't think for one moment that family allowance is immoral. How can you take a tradesman and a fisherman and pay them the same rate of pay for work they perform? You cannot. If you got to do carpenter work the man with a family earns $50 and the man without a family earns $50, both are doing the same work and must receive the same rate of pay. There is only one way to adjust that to take care of the man with the family and that is through social security. And I don't think for one moment it is immoral. We have fought for it since 1920 in the labour movement. Some members may get the impression I am opposed to social security, but I am not in the least; but I say in order to have it we must tax those who can afford to pay in order to help those who cannot afford to bring up the larger families.

Now I have already said the Federal Government subsidized the farmers of the Prairie Provinces. And I have a suggestion to make and that is this: That if the Central or Federal Government could afford to subsidize the farmers of the prairies they should and can subsidize the Newfoundland fisheries. There is one or two ways to get over that: perhaps the same amendment we are dealing with now, a Royal Commission may bring that about, may recommend subsidies to the Newfoundland fisheries or they may not. I would like to make a suggestion and it is this; perhaps the Federal Government does not see eye to eye with our local Newfoundland Government, I said perhaps. If that should be the case, if they can't get the same subsidies as the Prairie Provinces got last year, $65,000,000 for wheat and they will get and will continue to get it again, why not a guarantee on the price for fish so that we may know where we are heading when the fisheries start the season? I say if the Local Government cannot get it across to the Federal Government let us adjourn the House and let us all go up to Ottawa, Liberals, Independents and PC, let us all go up to Ottawa and see what we can do, and find out once and for all. It won't cost $20,000,000 and we could find out once and for all what we can do for the fishermen of Newfoundland.

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): The issue brought to the attention of this House by the amendment of the honourable member for Bonavista South is clear cut. The amendment seeks to appoint a Royal Commission forthwith to recommend additional financial assistance predicated on a certain standard of public services which we presently enjoy. In effect, the amendment says that our present standard of public services, schools, hospitals, delinquent homes, and homes for the aged and infirm are good enough for Newfoundland and that additional financial assistance should be sought now, to maintain that inadequate standard. The amendment should go down in history as the amendment of austerity, deprivation and misery. The amendment is a cloaked insult to the people of Newfoundland. No member can insult the people of my district with impunity. I shall vote against the amendment because I know that the public services of the district of Burin are inadequate and below a normal standard of human decency. Furthermore, in eight years time I believe that improvements made during the intervening period will raise the standard of public services in the Burin Peninsula to something approximating a standard of human decency, and then I shall vote to have a Royal Commission recommend additional financial assistance to maintain that improved standard of public services, which we shall have then acquired.

The honourable member for Bonavista South starts off his speech by saying that the honourable Minister of Public Welfare is only picking at his problem because of insufficient funds. He ends his speech with an amendment which says, in effect, that the honourable Minister has solved all the problems of welfare to the point, where our future financial course should be charted on the present standards the Department of Public Welfare has attained.

The honourable member for St. John's East enumerated our deficiencies and shortcomings, provincially, as falling far short of normal decent standards and then seconds an amendment which says, in effect, those standards are good enough for Newfoundland, and urges this House to use those standards as a form and as a basis for financial negotiations forthwith.

The honourable member for Ferryland declares he does not know how to vote; and proceeds to talk himself into a capricious decision in favour of the amendment, which subordinates the future welfare of Newfoundland to a cheap political manœuvre.

The cause of the amendment may be due to the cries of blue ruin or even red ruin. The cause does not concern me, I am interested in the effect. The effect of the amendment is to freeze existing standards in Newfoundland's public services, so the whole situation produced by the amendment is ludicrous and as inharmonious as an organ solo by the honourable member for Bonavista South singing: "I got them financial blues," and the honourable member for Ferryland orating: "I had no vote when I got up but I'll have a vote when I sit down," and the bass tone of the junior member for St. John's East piping: "If you aint got the money honey now is the time" harmonized by the honourable member for Harbour Main, tunelessly intoning: "What about the Iceland boats," and not to be outdone the honourable Leader of the Opposition would intone: "I got bells that jingle, jingle, jingle." As far as I am concerned, Mr. Speaker, the jingling and jangling will be done on the recommendation of the P.C.'s eight years hence but not now.

MR. FAHEY: Eight years is mentioned in Clause 29, two years have passed. If the honourable member can't add and subtract; I am only too glad to help him.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is a heavy point.

MR. SPEAKER: Is the House ready for the question?

MR. MILLER: I rise, Mr. Speaker, to support this amendment, but I must say that I do it with some reservations. Now I don't propose this afternoon to talk at all about this point at great length; but nevertheless I do ask the House to consider that they are considering now no less a weighty matter than Term 29. Term 29 serves a very useful purpose but I am in some doubt, and as I read in a magazine somewhere the other day—"when you are in doubt call the doctor." But I am in some doubt as to just when the time comes to have the best case to put before the Royal Commission.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is good common sense.

MR. MILLER: I rise to support that we do have a Royal Commission. I have been aware of the inadequacy of the Terms of Union ever since the days of the National Convention. I objected to the Terms of Union since the days of the National Convention and between the time of the National Convention and the Referendum, I feel quite certain that nothing has disabused me from it. But the people spoke and accepted those Terms and we are going to live under them until they let us down and the terms will let us down. I have no doubt. But when have we got our best case, when do we propose to close out Term 29 with the best deal this country can get under it? This amendment did not come from this House but from an Independent member; and I will speak my mind freely on it.

Suppose a Royal Commission came in today. We have shown a current surplus, we predict a surplus nearly as good in the coming year. Well a Royal Commission with such evidence before them surely are going to discredit any argument we might put up. Another matter in this Term 29 we are testing out the situation. It has been argued and I have agreed with it that, and I think the honourable member for Bonavista South will remember I told him, about nineteen months ago, that it was my intention to encourage the free spending of the surplus and I have not contradicted the Government on economic development, or on social services. But we are arriving at a level of time for the testing out of that level. Surely we all realize the money is running out, and in my opinion we must be content to see the day come when we just have not got any money, and then, of course, we really have a good case. Another thing to be taken into consideration, it will take a long time to get a Royal Commission set up. I submit the Term 29 is just about as complicated as the freight rates. They have asked today for a clarification of Term 29 and I believe it is beyond the capability of this House to determine just what it means; and I doubt if the Federal Government could give a direct answer. It is, in my opinion, as complicated as the freight rates and probably some policy of that nature would have to be arrived at. In my opinion Term 29 is a double agreement, an agreement by the Federal Government and of the Provincial Government to level up our services, we also agree we will introduce taxation as burdensome as in the Maritime Provinces, we agreed to that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: We have not to impose taxation as burdensome as the Maritime Provinces. That is not the clause. What is in the clause? Is taxation as burdensome in Newfoundland, as it is in the Maritime Provinces based on the capacity to pay in Newfoundland compared with the capacity to pay in the Maritimes. If the taxation rates in Newfoundland are $1, and in the Maritime Provinces $1, but when based on our capacity to pay, ours may be equal to $1.50. That is a very important point.

MR. MILLER: It is an important point; but there again it is something that can be twisted very much so until a definition is laid down, in my opinion it is not by any means clear. In my opinion should we now request a royal commission (it is not likely to go beyond the present Government) I feel sure the Federal Government will turn it down, simply because we have not fulfilled, as yet, the requirements on the part of this Province with respect to taxation. When does the Government propose to analyze the situation? When will they arrive at the position where they say the services are good enough, and our taxation is high enough? When they have arrived in that, then in my opinion they have completed their part of the agreement. But there too in my mind is something worth a lot of consideration.

I don't intend to make a long speech, Sir, I don't intend to speak on any matter and repeat the same statement. I am reminded of an issue which came up in the British House of Commons. A member had been speaking for about five hours and his voice probably had grown a little tired, and the Speaker reminded him he could not hear what he was saying, to which the member replied: "In that case, Your Honour, I can go nearer to you and so that you won't mistake what I said I can repeat everything I said in the past." And he spoke for nine hours. But I am not going to bore the House by making a speech now and another later.

The budget was presented in a very fascinating way and made very nice reading, if I may use that term. It presented a rosy picture of Utopia; and painted everything bright now and in the future.

Now was not the picture a bit forced? Was the situation clothed with the clearest of logic? Now if we had not the transitional grant in full and if the Comptroller General's Department had not been cleaned out what would be the position? There would not be a surplus but a very heavy deficit. Now next year there is to be a heavy surplus, with work and work and work and more work, gambling on war, expecting that war production will bring work, even a base at Torbay. Well, if that happens the situation will be as the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland put it, the people will be well off and the Government poor. And remember next year will be the start of the lessening of the transitional grant. Next year we will receive $850,000 less than the previous year. Now where is our surplus spent? There is nothing to show so far. The cement plant is not finished and the same way with the other factories. We had a heavy loss on the Icelandic venture. That was a government experiment, no one is going to say otherwise than that it was an experiment. But it just shows that things ahead very often do not turn out as hoped. There is happy talk of a one hundred million dollar mill on the South Coast of Newfoundland, a five hundred ton mill costing a hundred million dollars. Bowaters cost $70,000,000, where do we stand? Do we guarantee the money? What is the contract between the Company and the Government? These are important things. All the sources of tax are closed to us except on royalties and timber. Will the country give the Company timber free of royalties? At the present time most of it is privately owned.

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, we have forty million cords on Crown lands.

MR. HIGGINS: The question is, will we get a royalty on it? We know nothing in this House, we are told nothing at all about what is happening. All we know now is that a five hundred ton mill is to be built at a cost of one hundred million dollars. We are not even told what negotiations are going on, what is in the contract, we know nothing. In this House people are entitled to know those things. Now we are hearing a lot about heavy profits in the future, all profitable ventures. It reminds me of a time, some years ago, there was great talk of great wealth from foxes here; and everyone was talking of black and silver foxes and many farms were started here, but where are they now, where are the foxes? There are none here now. No, Sir, they are gone with the smoke of yesteryear. The same thing may happen to various ventures, which at the present time are only a speculation.

Now there has been a lot of talk about surplus and revenue. If we had no surplus what would we do, borrow money and pay interest on borrowed money? The surplus is not revenue and we should be glad enough to have the surplus and keep it together.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Don't spend it.

MR. HIGGINS: No, I don't say that, but be careful, that is money we are paid interest on.

Now the Premier tells us how small our National Debt is. A few years ago it was the smallest in the world, but now we have a share of the Federal Government national debt passed on to us, a heavy national debt of $380,000,000 or $390,000,000 on our necks now and that is the reason, as the honourable the member for Bonavista South pointed out, we are paying 60c. or the fishermen are paying 60c. instead of 27c. for Beaver tobacco.

Now, if the picture painted brings up the standard to where we have twenty thousand miles of road and fifty thousand cars, then of course we must have a big national debt and the interest will be heavy.

Now, one feature of this debate, the scurrilous words, when many members were told they talked nonsense, called foolish and brainless, are these scurrilous words to take the place of debate and are those who have a fight, going to turn it into a scurrilous one . . . ?

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member is being irrelevant now.

MR. HIGGINS: It is not the debate. I am speaking of words which were used in the debate on the amendment, but if you tell me I am out of order —

MR. SPEAKER: I felt it my duty to warn the honourable member, that is all.

MR. HIGGINS: I say that loudness of voice is not soundness of argument and savours of nothing but windbags. I say it is a very serious proposition; but the Government is trying to overlook the fact, stated by the honourable member for Bonavista South, that before the first eight years we will have lost two and three-quarters of a million dollars owing to the cutting down of the transitional grant. We can't hide away from that fact, we can't escape it. It is no good to call it trash and nonsense. It is not trash and nonsense, it is plain arithmetic, clear-cut mathematics, simple addition. Next year we will lose seven hundred thousand out of the transitional grant, and the following year it will drop until, in the fourth year, it will drop four millions. Add it up and you will find twelve millions and a quarter and there is three or four gone out of the surplus and since that is so, the sooner we get a Royal Commission the better; and when they do come down and we don't get the cash, we will surely find ourselves in a very precarious position, for by the ninth year, we will have lost five million one hundred thousand dollars. In twelve years then we are standing to lose twenty-four million dollars and by that time we will either be part of Quebec, who will take over Labrador, or have some sort of commission here running this country under the Federal authorities.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Nonsense—trash.

MR. HIGGINS: It is very easy to call it trash. We heard about the freight rates for the first time, when we started to pay heavier amounts of money than we expected, and a board came down here and if they had given judgment against us we would have to pay heavier freights in spite of all promises. We would be at the discretion of the appeal board.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Do you suppose if Quebec wanted us they could come and take us and there would be no appeal?

MR. HIGGINS: The old saying still holds good: You can fool some of the people some of the time. But the honourable Premier is not fooling anyone any time. It is easy to get up here and talk but the future is in a precarious position and loud sounding threats are no good.

Now when we talk about the Royal Commission, there is one thing I quite agree with. I agree with the honourable member for Ferryland that we have no proof whatever that the Royal Commission's report will be accepted. It is all nonsense, it is part of the Act, yes, but it is up to the House of Commons to accept the findings of the Royal Commission appointed under that section. We have no proof that it is to be accepted. In the case of that board which was appointed to go into the case of the freight rates, that board was final, what that board said was absolutely final and had to be accepted. I know there is a special board, or court of appeal, which is final; it does not go to the Government. But I say this much, that the report of the Royal Commission in Newfoundland need not necessarily be accepted by the House of Commons; they can throw it out if they want to. All this section does is set up machinery to find out the financial position of each province and make findings thereon. It does not say it would be final. I regard this as a serious position, in fact, I think the sooner we get the Royal Commission the better. I support this motion.

MR. COURAGE: I have listened with great patience and with a great deal of amusement to what has been said in this House and I am still feeling rather amused. I might say that I am on excellent terms with everybody in the House, with the honourable member for Bonavista South and all the members and the honourable member at whom I am looking now. I am on such good terms with him that when I shake my fist at him the honourable member for Ferryland shakes his right back.

I have heard a lot about the dreadful per capita debt of fourteen hundred dollars that we assumed when we became Canadians. Now I must say that terrible debt has not bowed me down any as yet, and I think that when those people talk about that debt they must talk with their tongue in their cheek. To say the per capita debt of Canada is ruining our fishermen in Bonavista Bay is certainly ridiculous, to say the least. Let us look at this for a few minutes. If we who are in Canada have a per capita debt of fourteen hundred dollars we must remember that that debt is owed by Canada to Canadians and we must also remember that if we assumed that per capita debt we also got other benefits of which we are now shareholders. We are inheritors of one of the greatest countries in the world at the present time; and if we assumed a share of the national debt, we also as Canadians assumed an ownership in this great country, think about that. Your children and you and I are free to go anywhere in Canada, and as Canadians to take our place anywhere in the world which is also something worth talking about.

Now we hear complaints because we have not, the Government has not been able to do all the things which all of us would like to see the Government do, but we have only been in office, in this House a little more than two years and I think we have accomplished a great deal in that time. It is true we have not done all the things we would like to do, but for the time we have been in office we have accomplished more than any Government ever accomplished in two years before. I don't think anyone would deny that fact wherever he sits in this House and there is yet more which we will do.

To say that we need four million dollars to bring this Province up to the level of the rest of Canada is true; but are we to assume that because we have not got four hundred million dollars we must not do anything at all, give up in despair. Certainly not.

The honourable member for Bonavista South spoke about the building of houses, he seemed to object to the slum clearing program.

MR. RUSSELL: I have to appeal for your protection again, Mr. Speaker, I pointed out to the Administrator of Housing how pathetic it was to have such great ideas and not have the necessary funds to do it.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member said he was against the borrowing of money.

MR. RUSSELL: A point of order, Mr. Speaker, I said it was foolish to borrow money to finance subsidized housing, because as a result you have on your Government Accounts no current revenue but two items of expenditure, one the service charge on the loan and the second the expenses for subsidizing the houses after they are built.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member for Bonavista South is quite within his rights to say he was misquoted. Normally I am unable to decide what exact words were said but I am quite sure the honourable member for Bonavista South is quite correct; and if neither side gives away there is nothing to do but adjourn the debate until the stenotypist may type the words, so that the House may read them and see for themselves, which puts the House in a ridiculous position.

MR. COURAGE: I did not misquote the honourable member for Bonavista South. I was not quoting word for word what the honourable member said, but he said he was against borrowing money and he said it would be financial insanity and I took it for granted, if he were against financial insanity, he was against borrowing money to build subsidized housing. I took it for granted he meant slum clearance program. I should imagine that is how most people would take it. We must look at the cost to boys and girls. By the way, there is, I believe, to be built a boys' home at Whitbourne, and the slums are responsible for putting girls and boys in these homes of correction.

I can't see how any member cannot sit in this House and reconcile his duty, both to his people and his party. I have no difficulty whatever in doing that. I for one am not like Sir Gallahad seeking the Holy Grail, seeking a party. A few of us on this side of the House can sleep very well at night.

MR. CASHIN: And some sleep in the daytime.

MR. COURAGE: Well, I will say this for the honourable member, he does not put anybody to sleep and I don't think the honourable member is going to sleep now, he seems to be very much on his toes.

This Government, Mr. Speaker, does not want to see the merchants go on the rocks, and anyone who voices that opinion is not listening to the policies of this Government.

I am against this amendment and I am speaking against this amendment. The honourable member for Ferryland seems to think it is quite unlikely that the Parliament of Canada will carry out the recommendations of the Royal Commission. It does not have to (maybe I am wrong in this but I gather from what he said) if he believed in the Royal Commission and that its recommendations would be carried out he would not vote for the amendment. If they believed that they would carry it out he would not vote for the amendment, but since he believes they would not carry it out he was voting for the amendment.

MR. CASHIN: I did not say they would not carry it out, but did not have to carry it out.

MR. COURAGE: I thought the honourable member implied if he felt that they would carry it out he would not vote for the amendment.

MR. CASHIN: Read the clause.

MR. COURAGE: I don't think we need to read the clause at this time.

MR. CASHIN: There is nothing there they have to carry out. There is nothing there says they have to carry out the recommendations of the Commission. I am an anti-Confederate and don't believe the Canadian Government would do anything for Newfoundland. That is not the only clause violated with the acquiescence of the Government.

MR. COURAGE: How is it likely that the people of Newfoundland prosper and the Government becomes bankrupt? Is that serious as long as the people are prosperous? How can the Government be bankrupt? I believe that is a contradiction. A prosperous people will not have a bankrupt Government, the Government will share in that prosperity. It is something like saying the children are rich and the parents are going to be very poor, while living together in the same house. How can that be?

It has been said in this House that the baby bonus is immoral. It has been linked with other rotten legislation, and an honourable member has today already talked on that and cleared it up and I may say did a very fine job on that point of the reasons for childrens' allowances. I am referring to the honourable the senior member for Harbour Main, Bell Island who pointed out very clearly the reasons for family allowances, and I agree wholeheartedly with what he said. If there are two men on the same job we cannot pay the man who has the larger family more money. The only way to equalize the account is for the State to help out and that is a good thing; and if this honourable member would journey around he would see its great effect upon the people it is meant to help. The children of this country are better fed, better shod, better clothed, it is noticeable and they will remain in school longer.

In the speeches made by the members of the Opposition, and I am speaking of the Opposition now, not the Independents, there does not seem to be any clear-cut opinion as to whether the Government should spend more freely or whether they should retract. Some of the honourable members blame us because we have a surplus, while others blame us because we are rapidly spending the surplus that we have. It is very easy to attack, it is very easy to point out the things the Government has not done, but I wonder if the Opposition would do more; I wonder. One honourable member suggests we ought not to have a surplus, while another honourable member says we are trying to get to too high a level as far as social security is concerned. How can we reconcile those two remarks?

One wants us to go ahead and the other wants us to stay behind. I wonder, Mr. Speaker, are those members for or against economic development. They seem to blow hot and blow cold. They denounce Confederation because the fishermen have to pay 60c. on Beaver tobacco. They forget the millions of dollars that have poured into this country from the Federal Departments. If we look at the drawbacks, certainly we must also look at the bright spots. If we are going to get an overall picture, and I cannot agree with the honourable Leader of the Opposition that there is very much danger of Quebec taking over this Province in the foreseeable future.

Mr. Speaker, if we adopt this amendment that means that Newfoundland's social progress is stopped dead in its tracks, as the honourable the Minister of Supply said "frozen." I am not satisfied that this should be so and I shall vote against this amendment.

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, Term 29 of the Terms of Union reads as follows: and I think we ought to read it and follow it carefully because this House is being asked to make, this afternoon, a most important decision and if by any chance this House should make an error and accept this amendment it would, I think, be doing irreparable damage to this Province.

"In view of the difficulty of predicting with sufficient accuracy the financial consequences to Newfoundland of becoming a province of Canada, the Government of Canada will appoint a Royal Commission within eight years from the date of Union to review the financial position of the Province of Newfoundland and to recommend the form and scale of additional financial assistance, if any, that may be required by the Government of the Province of Newfoundland to enable it to continue public services at the levels and standards reached subsequent to the date of Union, without resorting to taxation more burdensome, having regard to capacity to pay, than that obtaining generally in the region comprising the Maritime Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island."

Now remember, Mr. Speaker, the reason this section was inserted in the Terms was an admission on the part of those who negotiated the Terms of Union that it was not possible for them at that time to accurately and fully assess the situation in which we would find ourselves after Union. Now under this section we have the right in eight years to ask for a Royal Commission. One Royal Commission, not one every two years, not one every four years but one in eight years, that is the joker that we hold up our sleeve. At the end of two years the honourable member for Bonavista South, who thinks he knows how to play poker, would produce his joker. Now, Mr. Speaker, why produce our joker at this particular time?

MR. RUSSELL: We don't have a joker in the game I play.

MR. CURTIS: This is the position: We have been in union two years, two years only. The first year we had a deficit, our program was just started. This year we have a surplus and we are budgeting this year, Mr. Speaker, for a surplus next year. Is this any time to go playing our joker? If you have a winning hand, Mr. Speaker, you don't take any chances.

The situation in Newfoundland can change very rapidly. It was only one year and a half ago we could not sell our ore from Bell Island, and only a year and a half ago that Buchans found difficulty in selling ore. It was only a year and a half ago the paper companies were anticipating deficits. Now, happily, these things have disappeared, the situation has gone over to the other side. We have shifted the deficit last year to a surplus this year, and yet we have here a demand from the other side for us to play the one card we have under the Terms of Union, and they want us to play that one card and lay all our cards on the table after two years.

Mr. Speaker, why can't we keep our sense of proportion? I regard this motion as the very last gasp of the Anti-Confederates. What is this situation envisaged? Appoint a Royal Commission; within eight years, to recommend the form and scale of additional financial assistance if required to continue public services at the levels and standards reached. Do we want the Royal Commission to come to Newfoundland and settle the Terms of Union, to settle for all time now? Are we ready now that two years have gone? I congratulate my honourable friend the member for Placentia and St. Mary's who has given some real thought to this matter and I think, upon further reflection, when the time comes he will vote against this amendment.

Is this the time to settle once and for all the Terms of Union, the financial terms? Obviously, Mr. Speaker, it is not. We envisioned in these Terms that the public services will have reached the level we are prepared to accept. Are we prepared to accept the present level of the public services? The level of the Department of Health, hospitalization, the medical care of people, the dental care and other items, has that Department reached the position in this country where we are prepared to say; this is the position now, pay us our grant to maintain these present services? We have not reached it yet, Mr. Speaker, and as for saying when we will reach it, I don't know and the honourable member does not know, but I will say we are making progress and we would make more if we did not have to spend time answering foolish motions like this. The Department of Health has to get the health of this country in such a state as we will be satisfied with and know what it costs annually. The Department of Welfare is just branching out—Dependents and Mothers' Allowances, a changing setup in Old Age Pensions. Are we going to jump the gun and ask Ottawa to appoint a Royal Commission now before we know exactly where we are? We don't know where we are going to be under our new setup, what the effect of Old Age amendment will be. We know that we as a Province will be called upon to pay a portion of the amendment from 65 years to 69 years, but don't know what. Are we going to go to Ottawa and say today; here is our position, give us enough money to keep us going on this scale. Our Public Works, our roads or highroads, our other amenities. Are we satisfied with them as they are? I am not satisfied in my district if you are, Mr. Speaker, until we get the necessary roads establishing communications between one settlement and another and know the maintenance cost. How are we going to know, to be able to say we have reached a level we are satisfied with and arrange our finances accordingly?

MR. FAHEY: We don't even know what the Navy is going to cost us.

MR. CURTIS: Now, my honourable friend the member for Bonavista South referred to our loans. True we have given loans, not actual loans but guaranteed to the bank and there is always, Mr. Speaker, a possibility that a loan may be called by the bank and the Government may have to redeem it; but I would point out we have been very very careful to secure coverage for loans guaranteed. We may, as possibly the wisest man and most careful may sometime strike a misfortune, but I would like to point out to this House, from the point of view of contingent liability on these loans we have asked for double security on the money we have loaned. To get additional security we have doubled it. In one or two cases we have not been able to get that but that is our principle, the principle adopted and from the point of view of contingent liability on loans, this need cause the House no worries.

Now, the member for Bonavista South referred to economic development and the Tory Audit Act, and he proceeded to criticize us for taking advantage of the Tory Audit Act which the Leader of the Liberal Party of the time condemned. You will remember, Mr. Speaker, I suggested a certain alternative. I suggested that, if the Audit Act were in the way of economic development, we would amend it, and that if we did not amend it we would vote the whole surplus for economic development or failing that, we keep the House open all the time. Now he criticized everything I said, objected from the point of view of the people in keeping the House open all the time, referred to my suggestion of voting all the surplus or a willingness to keep the House open to implement policies of economic development, without waiting until next February when we come here again. If he would rather that, it could be easily arranged.

MR. RUSSELL: There is no need of that now, you are not going to build any more Government projects, as the Premier said.

MR. SMALLWOOD: What the Premier said was that we were going ahead more vigorously than ever but not necessarily to spend more money to build factories and plants.

MR. CURTIS: Now, Mr. Speaker, we will have this Royal Commission in eight years, six years more. My honourable friend knows if he has a case in court he likes to prepare it thoroughly in advance, and if we are to make a case we have to prepare the background of that case in advance. Now I put it to him, Mr. Speaker, have we reached the stage today when we can safely introduce this to a Royal Commission? Have we the background? I say we have not, we have not the standard of services we are prepared to admit as satisfactory. Until we have, would we not be foolish to have, once and for all, a Royal Commission. Imagine going and asking for a Royal Commission after two years. Why? Because we have spent some of the surplus. On what? Economic Development of the country, giving the country services to which it is entitled. Is that a reason for throwing up our hand? As I said before, what is the surplus for? If you want to sit on it and do nothing with it you will have to put some Tory Government in. We are not going to do it and the people who put us here asked us to look after the interest of this country, and we intend to use it for that purpose. Because it is being spent, is that any reason to hold up our hands in holy horror and say we must have a Royal Commission? What do you expect, Mr. Speaker, to do with the surplus? I would be ashamed to be in any Government who sat on this surplus of forty million dollars and continued thus to sit year after year. We are not a savings bank. I affirm, Mr. Speaker, that the time is not opportune and it is ludicrous to think of passing this amendment at the present time. Imagine what people on the Mainland would think of us.

MR. CASHIN: What do they think of us now?

MR. CURTIS: I can inform the honourable member that the Newfoundland Government stands very high in the opinion of Ottawa, and the Premier stands as high as any other Premier up there. It is true they admit we have not the money, but when he speaks they listen to him intently and his addresses are always keenly appreciated.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): He is the most outstanding Premier in all Canada.

MR. CURTIS: Now then, Mr. Speaker, I say it is ludicrous to bring in this motion. Remember it is a serious thing, Mr. Speaker. To vote for this motion today is to just say everything is satisfactory, let Ottawa come in and here we are.

It is true, as the honourable member says, there is no legal obligation on the Federal Government to do anything, but there is the strongest kind of moral obligation, and the Federal Government, as my honourable friend knows, is not one to fall down on a moral obligation to a Province.

MR. CASHIN: Did it with transportation?

MR. CURTIS: They said to us: Go to the Board of Transport first and if you don't get satisfaction, then come to us.

MR. CASHIN: Why go to them first?

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is why the Board is appointed.

MR. CURTIS: As it happens it is the easier thing to do. All we had to do was write them a letter and they would come down.

MR. CASHIN: The other Provinces should have done their job properly.

MR. SPEAKER: Order.

MR. CURTIS: Now, Mr. Speaker, I don't think I need add much more. I may point out that at the present time we are anticipating very heavy expenditure in Newfoundland, heavy military expenditure; and there are more demands for our products, it is not a normal time. Is this a practical time to go to Ottawa? Would any honourable member like to gamble everything for the future generations on the conditions of the country today? We must wait, Mr. Speaker, wait and see just what lies in the future. And I venture to say if my honourable friends knew this amendment would carry they would not vote for it. The only reason he is voting is he knows it will be defeated, and if he felt we were going to Ottawa now and say: send down your Royal Commission, I venture to say he would not vote for it, Mr. Speaker, and I challenge him to deny that.

MR. CASHIN: I accept that challenge.

MR. CURTIS: You were, anyway, always against Confederation and always will be.

MR. CASHIN: And always accept a challenge.

MR. CURTIS: I think the reasons for the honourable member moving this motion are similar to the reasons he gave for resigning when crossing the floor.

MR. RUSSELL: I have cited enough reasons why I moved this amendment.

MR. SMALLWOOD: To that same point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Attorney General has a perfect right to put that interpretation on the reason given by the honourable member for Bonavista South. If I were in the honourable the Attorney General's shoes, I would put great emphasis on that point.

MR. HIGGINS: You can't oppose a point of order.

MR. SPEAKER: Any honourable member may speak to a point of order. But I find it impossible to make a ruling on this point of order, I have not the slightest idea why he crossed the floor, or why he made the motion, nor why the honourable member draws the inference that he does.

MR. CURTIS: I repeat, Mr. Speaker, that the honourable member's reason, the reason given for moving this amendment is in a class with the reasons given for his resignation. They are just as unsound and just as fallacious.

MR. SPEAKER: Is the House ready for the question? The main question is that Mr. Speaker do now leave the Chair, to which an amendment has been offered by the honourable member for Bonavista South that all the words after "that" be stricken out and other words there substituted. I put the motion in this form that the words proposed to be left out do stand as part of the question. Therefore those voting against the amendment will vote "aye," those in favour of the amendment will vote "nay."

The motion is that the words proposed to be left out do stand part of the question, those in favour "aye," contrary "nay," carried.

THE OPPOSITION: Divide.

MR. SPEAKER: On a call of two members a division is in order. Call in the members.

Division.

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I take advantage of the momentary pause, Mr. Speaker, to say His Honour the Lieutenant Governor has graciously consented to attend here at 5:30 o'clock today, to give Royal assent to some of the Bills passed during the session, in view of the fact that His Honour is about to leave the Province for, I think, some two or three weeks.

Division—Favour: Honourable the Premier, honourable Attorney General, honourable the Minister of Public Welfare, honourable the Minister of Health, honourable the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives, honourable the Minister of Supply, honourable the Minister of Provincial Affairs, honourable the Minister of Labour, honourable the Minister of Education, honourable the Minister of Public Works, honourable Mr. Vardy, Mr. Courage, Mr. Canning, Mr. Mackinson, Mr. Button, Mr. Horwood, Mr. Drover.

Opposed: Honourable Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Fogwill, Mr. Fahey, Mr. Miller, Mr. Cashin, Mr. Russell.

MR. SPEAKER: That brings us to the original motion, the debate on the budget.

Moved and seconded, debate adjourned until Monday.

Committee of the Whole on Supply:

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, as His Honour the Lieutenant Governor is due here in about half an hour, I suggest to the Committee we make a start now, but not more than a start on the Estimates, and that having done so we rise the Committee and go on with the Orders of the Day, and I would suggest that we have a night session. I am not suggesting that we go now very deeply into the Estimates, but we can deal with some at least and make a start. We could turn to Page 15 on the Expenditure—Consolidated Fund Services. I don't know that very much explanation is needed from me. I think that everything on Page 15 is thoroughly understood by the members of the Committee. If there are any points not thoroughly understood, with the assistance of the Deputy Minister of Finance and Comptroller of the Treasury who is present, I will endeavour to answer any questions and pass on any information the House may need.

Just summarizing the position: The interest on the Public Debt for the year is $236,800 compared with $277,700 last year and $413,917 the year before.

102—Sinking Funds amount to $111,250.

103—Redemption of Debt $210,000.

104—Statutory Salaries $16,650—Details are on page 64, appendix I.

Auditor General $8,000 which is the same as last year and Comptroller of the Finance $8,650 which is a slight increase or increment. Total $16,650.

The total vote for the Consolidated Fund Services is therefore $574,700, compared with $805,400 the year before and $3,388,138 the year before that. It is divided into Current and Surplus classification. I ought to explain to the Committee that it is very desirable, officially, to show on each of these pages as much detail as possible for as many years as possible. We have this year rearranged the pages by eliminating two columns that appeared in the Estimates last year, when we had to call up four accounts, one for Capital or Pre-Union Surplus and one for each year shown. Now this year we have omitted those two columns and made the division at the foot of the page, and there you may see the difference between Current and Pre-Union account for this coming year. $324,700 and $250,000 and in every case it is shown in the Department's estimates contained in a number of sub-heads.

I think it would be a bad precedent if we did not call the items by individual numbers, for instance 101-01, 101-02, 101-03, 101-04, and I do suggest that as little time as possible of this debate on the Estimates be taken up by "Favour aye—Contrary nay—Carried." If the number is called and those not interested say nothing, those who feel it is adequate say—"Carried," and those who feel it ought not to carry just hold it up, and believe me there is no tendency on our part or any desire to hurry. If any member expresses a desire or wish to have further discussion he will be given all the time in the world to do so.

The first item does not have to be carried, it is a statutory vote and does not require any vote here now.

MR. FOGWILL: 103-01—There are two hundred thousand listed here. What would be the amount outstanding on Savings Certificates after that amount is paid off?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Approximately $300,000.

MR. FAHEY: We did not dispose of 101 yet.

MR. SMALLWOOD: For the information of the honourable member there is nothing for us to do about that, it is statutory. We have to vote this money, we have no choice, it is a statutory vote.

MR. FAHEY: I agree with the explanation the Premier has made but I think the Chair should call 101, then we could go on to 102.

MR. SMALLWOOD: On this page the House cannot vote this, it is statutory, but this applies only to this page in the book. It is a statutory vote. It is called merely for the convenience of the members in case any member wishes to ask questions on it, but we don't vote on this page.

MR. HIGGINS: 101-4 Saving Certificate, $40,000, what constituted the items making that?

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is entirely a Pre-Union item.

MR. HIGGINS: At three percent it would only be $16,000.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is a series of the cost of accrued interest which is not paid until the certificate is cashed.

MR. HIGGINS: I see. On that two hundred thousand, there may be five years interest on some of it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Page 16—Legislative (House of Assembly).

From here on we have to vote.

201—Sessional: Well we might vote ourselves less salary or no salary. It would leave some members in a pretty embarrassing position.

(03) was not spent last year, we had to revote the whole thing.

(04) Printing Hansard is a revote, nothing was spent as yet.

(05) Newfoundland Membership in Parliamentary Association, total 110, 800.

202—Miscellaneous (02) Painting Portraits of Prime Ministers, which does not include the living Premier but up to and including the last one, namely the Late Mr. Alderdice.

MR. HIGGINS: Why the modesty?

MR. SMALLWOOD: It is not the practice to do the living Speaker or the living Premier. So I will have to forego the honour of seeing my portrait unless it be when I become Leader of the Opposition at the age of 89 and sit over there on the other side, with a long white whisker and take a look at the picture.

MR. FOGWILL: 201-4: Would the Premier tell us when we may expect to have Hansard.

MR. SPEAKER: I, myself, can much more properly answer that as it comes within my prerogative, and my honourable friend will be happy to know that on the printing of Hansard of the first two sessions of this House, the tapes have been completed and the printing is virtually completed. As my honourable friends will remember it was a very great task to get the speeches transcribed from the tape recordings but it is typewritten on to paper, and a tremendous job it turned out to be and a fairly expensive one, edited by the Editor of Debates, Captain Murphy, and it has been delivered to the printers and is now nearly completed. This ran to two volumes. It was a pretty wordy session and a pretty long session. Now with regard to last session, that was done by Miss Pellettier on the stenotype and towards the end she had to go, and her place was taken in the last week or so by two special stenographers we managed to get. Miss Pellettier had the misfortune to fall very seriously ill, and she returned from here to her home and was ordered by the doctor to bed, and was in bed for weeks and weeks and only recently, within the last week, returned to Captain Murphy virtually the last typewritten script of her work for that session. Now that whole script will be edited by Captain Murphy and sent to the Printers, so that this vote is for three sessions, the first two and the one that we are presently engaged in. This covers them all.

MR. FOGWILL: When should we hope to get a transcript of all those past sessions and this present one, when is it hoped that we can get this? When will it be ready for individual members to get the Hansard and read it when he wants to, from the Library?

MR. SMALLWOOD: When individual members return manuscripts of their own corrected speeches, and I have not the foggiest notion when that will be. Some members are very derelict in correcting them, and my honourable friend, the Leader of the Opposition, is very derelict in correcting scripts of his speeches and getting them back to the Editor of Debates.

MR. HIGGINS: On three occasions I was asked and the third time I was asked about a section from an Act I had read, and I spent some time looking for that, but I was never asked to do anything else.

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friends, I would urge co-operation with Captain Murphy; it looks a little absurd if we don't get the printed Hansard but the editor cannot get the speeches back from members; he has mentioned several names.

MR. CASHIN: He might mention me, I am one.

MR. HIGGINS: Do we have to go down and ask for speeches? I have not seen them. Are we supposed to correct our speeches?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Members may go through the typewritten script of speeches to correct obvious errors. They are not permitted to make substantive changes. I believe the printed volume of the first session will be ready in a matter of weeks.

MR. FAHEY: I remember some time back we got copies and I had said sometime that the Government of this country at that particular date paid men to show the people how to boil fish, but in the notes, I got back from Hansard, it said that people in this country were told one time how to buy fish. Now outside of that I don't know of any time I have ever been asked on this side to make corrections; no one ever said we should go down and enquire. We are probably guilty of hanging it up and don't know it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I have not been informed either and I don't know if any member is being informed. Mr. Speaker mentioned to me the other day, when I asked him how is the reporting going on this year, that it is coming along well. There are proofs in my office if you want to see them any time and I assume that applies to all of us.

MR. FAHEY: The reason I raised the point in the first session, a copy of what I was purported to have said in the House was given to me, but since that nothing has happened at all. A couple of weeks ago our present stenotypist told me there were some figures she did not have correctly. I contacted the Editor of Debates and told him about it and that I would be prepared to correct it when it was given me, and he said when he had it ready he would give me a carbon copy to make the corrections. I was wondering about the delay. I want to make sure I am not guilty of delay, as cited by the honourable Minister of Finance.

MR. SPRATT: May I be permitted to make a suggestion with regard to 202-02: The Painting of Portraits: Mr. Speaker, when painting the portraits of the Premiers and the Speakers I think we should consider the living premier. I feel that an injustice may be done to the living by future governments, and there should be something more specific than we have here today to do honour to the men who do take such an active part in the Government of their country. I see no reason why a man should have to die before being honoured. He might live and go into retirement or obscurity and be forgotten, and I make those few remarks most sincerely in a spirit of patriotism and fair play, and I would like the House to take those few remarks made in all sincerity into consideration. It is incomplete at the present time representing only the memory of the men who have gone. The Premier living today is not a man who wants to have his portrait on the wall. If a portrait were painted of the Premier it might, after his retirement, bring him more into the limelight, and he would be more conspicuous and maybe he would be called upon for advice or such in a few years hence.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I thank the honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs for his very kind thought; as I am the only one he could possibly be referring to, the only living premier in Newfoundland. Mr. Monroe is not Premier. I am the only living Premier in Newfoundland. We have one living ex-Premier and his portrait has been painted and will be included in that collection. As I am the only one my honourable friend could be referring to, I wish to thank him for his kind thought, and to say that, as he knows, I shrink from the public limelight, as a sort of shrinking violet and it would be very embarrassing to me to have my portrait painted until after I cease to be Premier at 88 or 89 years of age, then we will talk about it.

MR. FOGWILL: It may be embarrassing for the Premier, it would be terribly embarrassing for us.

MR. SPRATT: I would say the same thing about the living Speakers, but they are all here, why could we not have the Premier then?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The present Mr. Speaker is not there but he will be.

MR. SPRATT: Why not the Premier then? I am not looking far into the future, I may not be living for the next session of the House, but I think it is only right and fair to have him included while he is alive. Suppose after the House closed the Cabinet decides on that, I think it would be a greater tribute to the Premier to have the House in session pronounce or vote an amount of money for that purpose.

MR. FAHEY: Sir, if eight and a half millions would take care of it.

201-202 total carried.

Executive Council:

MR. SMALLWOOD: 301 is the Lieutenant Governor's Establishment, salaries are found on page 64. There is one chauffeur and one grounds keeper who has free housing and light and fuel.

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor arrived:

Committee rose, reported progress and begged leave to sit again on tomorrow.

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor then entered the Assembly Chamber.

MR. SPEAKER: Your Honour, the Legislative Assembly has during the present session passed certain bills to which we now request Your Honour's assent.

An Act Respecting the Interpretation of Statutes.

An Act Respecting the Statutes.

An Act to Amend the Life Insurance Act 1943.

An Act to Amend the Insurance Premium (Tax) Act, 1950.

An Act to Amend the Agreement for Policing the Province Act, 1949.

An Act to Facilitate the Enforcement of Maintenance Orders.

An Act to Amend the Nomenclature Board Act, 1938.

An Act Further to Amend Chapter 76 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series) entitled "Of the Permanent Marine Disaster Fund."

An Act Further to Amend the Shops Act, 1940.

An Act Respecting Survivorship.

An Act to Amend the Accident Insurance Companies (Licensing) Act, 1939.

An Act Further to Amend the Memorial University Act, 1949.

An Act Relating to the Development of Local Areas.

An Act Relating to Local Government.

An Act Respecting the Distribution of Electricity in the Corner Brook area.

An Act to Amend the Corporation Income Tax Act 1949.

An Act Respecting the taking of Oaths of Officers in the Armed Forces.

An Act to Amend the Industrial Development Loan Act, 1949.

An Act to Amend the Fisheries Loan Act, 1949.

An Act Further to Amend the Memorial University Act, 1949.

A Bill an Act respecting Vocational Education in Newfoundland.

A Bill an Act to Remove Doubts as to the Date of Coming Into Force of the Workmen's Compensation Act 1950 and the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Act 1951.

An Act to Incorporate the Newfoundland Teachers' Association.

An Act to Amend the School Attendance Act, 1942.

An Act Further to Amend the Education (Departmental) Act, 1939.

An Act Respecting Apprenticeship.

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor then said, "In His Majesty's name I assent to those Bills."

MR. SPEAKER: Before His Honour leaves; we have heard it is His Honour's intention to pay a visit to the Mainland of Canada and to the United States of America. May I, on behalf of the Legislative Assembly, wish Your Honour a pleasant journey, a happy stay on the Mainland and a safe return.

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR: Mr. Speaker, thank you very much for your kind wishes, I appreciate and am deeply touched by them.

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor then left the Assembly Chamber.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole on Supply.

MR. SMALLWOOD: 301; Grand total $26,000, Salaries total $14,010, Premier's Office $16,130, Expenses $1,500, Office $2,070. Total $19,700.

303: Allowance to Clerk of the Council $2,000, Clerk, Grade I, $2,085, Cost of Living Bonus $275.

The clerk in question is Mr. W. J. Carew, C.B.E., who in addition to being Deputy Minister of Provincial Affairs is clerk of the Executive Council. Mr. Carew is, as members well know, one of the veterans of the Public Service of Newfoundland; indeed he may be well the veteran who has been longest in the public service today. He joined the Public Service in 1909 and went in to the office of the Premier of that day from the Daily News Office where he had been a newspaper reporter. He has been private and confidential secretary to every Premier of Newfoundland, without exception, beginning with Sir Edward, afterwards Lord Morris. When the Commission of Government came he was appointed Secretary of the Commission and became Deputy Minister for Home Affairs. When the present Government assumed office we did an extraordinary thing; we asked Mr. Carew to be Deputy Minister of Provincial Affairs, to be Clerk of the Cabinet, and he has attended all Cabinet meetings and kept all the reports of the Cabinet. All the Orders in Council are done by him. Though he does not speak at the Cabinet meetings, except to give information when requested, and does not vote, it is almost as though he were a member of the Cabinet.

Clerk, Grade I is in the Department of Provincial Affairs, Miss Meaney. She is a grade one clerk and acts as secretary to the Deputy Minister.

The messenger under 303-03 is the man who goes around to the Ministers with special documents for circulation to the Cabinet and works over and above normal duties; that is what that is.

304: The Newfoundland Election Act: This is for possible by-elections. In fact one is to be held this year. That is the official expenditure attached to elections for various deputy returning officers, and poll clerks, and door guards, and printing and distribution, and other official expenses of the election. The cost of the general election which is to be found in the third column was $98,823, just under one hundred thousand dollars which is about the cost of a general election in Newfoundland, according to the last election.

MR. FOGWILL: On page 64, Premier's Office. Personal Assistant and others here. I take it all these are filled?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The personal assistant is filled, the Confidential Clerk is not filled as yet. I have not found the right person to suit me for that appointment which is not a Civil Service appointment. It is not appointed by the Civil Service or pensionable and it is entirely up to me to select. Each Minister is permitted to select his own Confidential Clerk. So far I have not found the right person and if I should I will fill the position.

MR. FAHEY: In the Lieutenant Governor's Establishment we have the Keeper of Government House Grounds at $1,320 and the Assistant Keeper at $1,500. I have never heard tell of an assistant being paid more.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Read the footnote on the bottom of the page.

Department of Finance: The present Minister of Finance is drawing no salary, but we have to vote a salary nevertheless as possibly another Minister there would prefer to draw his salary. The present Minister draws no salary, he is already getting one in another job. Nevertheless the present Minister may not be there for the remainder of the year so we have to provide a salary so that if a new Minister is there for the remainder of the year he may draw his salary from the date of his appointment.

MR. FAHEY: Do I gather that if this $7,000 is not spent at the end of the year there would be a drop balance?

MR. SMALLWOOD: If it were not spent then it would become a drop balance.

The Controller of the Treasury does the work of the Deputy Minister of Finance and receives no salary as Deputy Minister. Assistant Deputy Minister, you will notice the salary shown is $4,200-100-4,700. We found a very considerable anomaly there and decided to rectify this. We have four Assistant Deputy Minister in the Public Service: Resources, Finance, Public Health and Education and we discovered Assistant Deputy Ministers were actually at a lower rate of pay than men serving under them as Divisional Heads. If the Committee will turn to page 110 they will see $4,200-100-4,700 and that is being corrected. The rate was $3,200-100-3,800, and divisional heads began at $3,800 and went up to $4,200.

Auditor General's Department: Salaries $55,590. The Auditor General's Salary is statutory and does not appear here.

Pensions and Gratuities: $609,500 is up from last year which was in turn up a little from the year before.

Social Security Assessment: $60,500. Last year there was a savings arising from late introduction of Assessment.

It is now six o'clock. I move that the House at its rising do now adjourn until eight of the clock.

The House then adjourned until eight of the clock.

NIGHT SESSION

MR. SMALLWOOD: Before dinner we got as far as the Social Security Assessment Division and the salaries $60,500.

The next item is Miscellaneous:

01. Life Insurance Companies Act of 1906:
Expenses .....			11,599
02. Savings Campaign .....	14,500	15,000	13,890
03. Management Expenses, Public Debt .....	3,000	4,000	6,167
04. Statistical Machines, Rentals, etc. ....			386
05. Railway: Balance of Operating Deficit 1948-49 .....			500,000
07. Refunds of Previous Year's Revenue:
Customs, etc. ....	15,000	70,000	131,897
08. Payment to Dominion Government for services rendered in connection with collection prior to 1st January, 1949 .....			60,130
09. Remuneration, etc., of Seconded United Kingdom Officials .....			16,530
10. Revision of Accounting Procedures, Fees and Expenses .....	5,000	10,000	24,765
11. St. John's Municipal Council, Grant-in-Aid .....	100,000	100,000
12. Property Loss Reserve Fund .....	25,000	15,000
15. Pre-Union Liability Liquidation .....	500
Total: Subhead 406 .....		163,000	214,000
			765,364

These are customs rebates due up to the date of union: $10,000 customs duties and $5,000 death duties due the Government before the date of union.

St. John's Municipal Council Grant-in-Aid: That item deserves some little explanation. Last year we gave the St. John's Municipal Council an interest-free loan of $100,000 to assist them in their finances. This year we are proposing to make them a Grant-in-Aid of exactly the same sum. Now the Council, as everyone knows, has had a rather difficult time adjusting itself or rather adjusting themselves to the statutes of a City Council in a Province of Canada. They have lost some of their revenue as a result of Confederation, and they have had some considerable difficulty in balancing their budget, and the Government decided to ask the House to vote this sum of $100,000 as a Grant-in-Aid. This year we propose to give them the Grant of $100,000 but no loan and I think from all appearances, there is some proposed legislation which they have asked us to bring before the House, and with this Grant-in-Aid, they should probably be able very shortly to balance their budget.

The next item 406-12 Reserve Fund $25,000. The Committee may remember that a few days ago we brought here, it is on the Order Paper now, a new piece of legislation creating a new fund within the Government to be built up year by year, against which losses to property may be met or out of which losses may be met. Last year we voted the sum of $15,000 and this year we have raised it to $25,000. The Government carries no insurance. Finally there is a small amount of $500 on account of things that happened before the date of union.

The total of the vote, therefore, is $163,000.

Central Accounting and Pay Division

01. Salaries .....	42,400	12,100
02. Expenses :
01. Travelling .....	100	100
02. Office .....	200	200
	300	300
03. Accounting, etc. Machines and Equipment	5,000	30,000
	47,700	42,400

As the Committee knows all this is new staff, except last year we had a Divisional Head $3,800 and Assistant Divisional Heads, two at $6,800. All the rest appear to be new. The Deputy Minister reminds me that this vote is more than offset by savings in the other departments. What happened was this, from different departments of the Government accountants and others were drawn into Central Accounting of the Department of Finance, so that now, as the Committee knows, there is just one central accounting system for the whole Government instead of, as before, each department having its own accounting system and each one issuing its own cheques. Now all cheques of the Government both for salaries of the Civil Servants, for men working on the roads in the Department of Public Works, for relief, not old age pensions as yet, but it will be so, for widows' and mothers' allowances or any other purpose are issued from Central Accounting in the one department.

Then there is travelling in that section $100 and office $200, a total of $47,700.

General Contingencies : 407 : $10,000.

Non-Interest Bearing Advances : $150,000—Industrial Development Loan Board is a revote and comes out of surplus.

Accounting and other machines and equipment $5,000. A great deal of that work is done by very modern and up to date machinery. I have occasion to go from time to time to the Department of Finance, and not as often as I would like to be able to do, and when I go up there I get quite an impression of an industrial establishment. One room is full of these machines and in this respect the Government copied the most modern and efficient firms in the world, and we have here now one of the most modern and efficient accounting systems in the world as a result of introducing this very modern and up-to-date equipment. The honourable members of this House are very welcome indeed at the Department of Finance to take a look at this very new modern system.

Well that brings us to the end. The gross total $1,167,400, of that amount $1,001,900 is current and $165,500 is surplus. These items are 406 and 407, these are refunds of customs and the like, refunds of revenue which are pre-union, occurring before confederation and they are paid out of surplus and 408—Industrial Development Loan Board.

MR. FOGWILL: The total number of employees in the Department is 97. Are all those positions filled?

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, I don't think the positions are all filled at the moment. As a matter of fact, the Social Security Assessment Division is a new division and has not yet recruited its full staff. Provisions are made but actually the posts are not all filled.

MR. FOGWILL: Could you give us an idea of how many more there will be?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Virtually all the positions are filled in the Department with the exception of Social Security Assessment. These positions are about half filled, so that we may deduct 16 from the total of 97.

407-02. In the Department of Finance odds and ends crop up, which are impossible to foresee, and don't fit in anywhere else and so the general provision of $10,000, subject of course to financial control and audit by the Attorney General as is every other item in the accounting system. It is almost impossible to foresee every last item we are going to require.

407-01. Some distinguished visitors may come here to visit the House or the country. Sir John Leslie, for example, came here at our invitation. We paid his expenses from Montreal to Newfoundland and back and the honourable the Lieutenant Governor was gracious enough to entertain him. Then at Grand Falls the Paper Company did likewise, and at Corner Brook the Paper Company did, so that the only cost to the Government was bringing him here and back. There is no vote for that and this other item of $10,000 is all for that or any other thing.

Now, page 20, under Industrial Development Loan Fund, $150,000. Now we will turn to page 18, Auditor General's Department Travel, $4,000.

Throughout the Province today are a number of Town Councils, and the auditing of Town Councils' records is done through the Auditor General's Department.

MR. HIGGINS: Not the Cooperative Societies.

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, the Town Councils.

MR. HIGGINS: 409-02 Office, $200 that is a very small amount.

MR. SMALLWOOD: All the Departments have an amount under Office. It is mainly for postage. The Government of Newfoundland has not got franking privileges any more than the Government of any other Province. Only the Government of Canada has this privilege. That is for postage and in addition for telephones in most departments and telegrams received and sent. That vote is to cover such items.

MR. CHAIRMAN: These numbers have not been called as yet. We are now on 401.

MR. RUSSELL: I want to reassure the Committee I am not going to be jumping up and down all through the committee stage moving amendments. I assure the committee right now this is the only item in the estimates, under the Department of Finance, on which I am going to make any comment whatsoever.

Item 401—Salaries on page 65: Minister of Finance $7,000 and Private Secretary $2,240 and cost of living of $270. I would like to see that reduced, Mr. Chairman. I am not going to say we do not need a Minister of Finance, but we do not need a minister to be nothing else but Minister of Finance. To those getting angry already I suggest probably we have not yet gotten adjusted to many changed conditions arising out of union with Canada. One condition, undoubtedly, is that a great deal of the work and a great deal even more of the responsibility that came under the Minister of Finance no longer comes there. There is an enormous amount of work in that Department as the honourable the Premier just pointed out, but not nearly as much as there used to be, not the sort of work that effects a minister at Cabinet level. As you all well know in the last few days in this House I have held certain views, I have yet to hear anybody from either side of the House agree that we could get on with fewer portfolio ministers, I think actually we could get on with five less than we have. I am not going to bring up five different salaries, but the remarks I will make now will have the same effect, with regard to the other four. I am no more anxious to waste the committee's time than you are, and I have picked on this one for several reasons; one because it is the first one, and another because there is no particular person today connected with this ministry. It is vacant and therefore nothing I can say is going to be construed, I am sure, as a reflection on the ability of any particular minister or any department. Furthermore I don't like to mention others which are occupied, because I know it is practically impossible to reduce a portfolio-cabinet to seven, when it means depriving someone or other of a possible honour which he might quite probably well deserve. Now the third reason I picked this department is: it is one that could quite well be filled by another minister already minister of another department, but actually it is one that I would like to see done away with, not coupled up with another department. There is no reason in the world why every Department should have its own minister and this is the first one I picked. It might not be the first one I would pick, in order of merit or demerit, but simply because it came first and there is no person presently holding the post except the honourable the Premier, who is holding it in conjunction with two other very arduous duties, and as I said before he is probably the busiest man in Newfoundland today.

One of the most important tasks of the Finance Minister is bringing down the budget. It was brought down the other day in as capable a way as it could have been done, if we had had two finance ministers doing that particular work. Now as to those, to whom it comes as a shock, that we could do without a Finance Minister, I have other proof. In Prince Edward Island in 1948—I don't know whether it is so now or not—the Honourable J. Walter Jones was President of the Executive Council and Premier which go together. He was also Minister of Education, and Provincial Secretary, which is very very similar to our Minister of Provincial Affairs, Provincial Treasurer, the name they commonly give to what we call the Minister of Finance and was also Acting Minister of Natural Resources, which implied there was a post vacant and he was filling it temporarily. In Nova Scotia in 1946, Angus McDonald was the Premier and Provincial Treasurer—they have no Minister of Finance. The New Brunswick Premier was Provincial Secretary-Treasurer, something similar to what we would have were we to combine the two Departments of Provincial Affairs and Finance. The honourable Mr. Manning of Alberta is as well Premier and Provincial Treasurer.

Now, Sir, if we are going to have a smaller cabinet, I am going to repeat a tip I gave to the Government not to fill the post vacant which I believe could be carried on without hardship or harm to anybody or any loss in efficient service. I think the $7,000 amount saved there could be saved, as I feel perfectly sure this post could be filled by someone else in conjunction with some other department. We are not yet adjusted to the greatly decreased responsibility the Minister of Finance has; in fact, it is referred to on the Mainland as Provincial Treasurer.

There is one other point, in 1948 it was still true we were behind on services, but we have already raised one service far above the level of the other Maritime Provinces and I feel the Royal Commission, when it comes will not look too happily upon a situation where we have posts that have been long deemed unnecessary by the other Maritime Provinces.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, point of order: I waited until the honourable member completed his sentence, he is not permitted to refer at all to the debate concluded today. If he is, then every other honourable gentleman might then start all over again. It is quite unlawful and, according to Parliamentary procedure, no reference is to be made to former debates and no quoting from them.

MR. RUSSELL: I was not going to raise any issue.

Now, Sir, I don't want to waste time or prolong the debate. To the best of my knowledge there is no colleague in this chamber going to support it anyway, and I am not going to appeal for any support. If I move the amendment, it is the only one I will move. On other occasions I will just make reference to things I disagree with or feel something should be done about. I don't intend to waste time with needless debate, but I move an amendment here that this item be eliminated and the $7,000 be put to other services.

MR. SMALLWOOD: To a point of order, I suggest the motion is out of order, on the grounds that no member of the House other than members of the Government can move to eliminate the vote in these Estimates, can move to reduce it only, not to eliminate.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, a point of order, I don't want to make the debate hot or anything. I feel, according to a ruling a couple of days ago, the honourable member would be in his rights to reduce it to whatever amount he likes. I made a similar motion which was not accepted. I was trying to eliminate a Government Order, and I think the point is the right to amend and not the right to eliminate.

MR. RUSSELL: If it is in order to reduce the amount of $7,000 to $1.00 I will gladly do so.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman to the motion, I am rather glad that the honourable member for Bonavista South assures us it is not his intention to move seven motions or six motions to eliminate or reduce to $1.00 the ministerial salaries. It would be very boring and very tiresome. I am glad he rests his case on this motion to have the portfolio of Minister of Finance eliminated because that enables me to save the Committee's time by addressing my reply to that single motion.

Mr. Chairman, it depends on your conception of work, it depends on your conception of the work the Minister ought to do in this Department. If your concept of your job as Minister of the Crown is to stay away for two and three weeks and go off in the summer camping. If it is your concept of your job, as a Minister of the Crown, that you can drop in occasionally from time to time, put in an hour or two a day, if that is your conception of your duty and standing as Minister of the Crown—

MR. RUSSELL: Point of order, Mr. Chairman, I trust the honourable the Premier is not suggesting that I, at any time, stayed away for two or three weeks.

MR. COURAGE: I do not know, he did not say that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I say that if that is your conception of your duty as Head of a Department of the Government, that you can pop in and out from time to time and feel like staying away one or two weeks at a time and can go off in the country fishing or something for a week or two at a time; if that is your conception of the job of Minister of the Crown, and Head of a Department you can vote to reduce the salary of the Minister of Finance to one dollar a year, and so you can with a number of other Ministers. Indeed, if you have one man strong enough and energetic enough, you can reduce the ministerial salaries of all but one and let one man do it all. If five men can run Newfoundland or six men can run this modern Newfoundland, why not one? If five or six can do the job of twelve why not one to do the job of five or six, why not scrap them all and reduce it to one man? If he is a hard worker and energetic, if he can stand the grinding days and salary does not mean anything to him, one man could do it all. But if a man is a civil servant all his life on a civil service salary and with civil service hours, if that is his conception of the job, he can vote to reduce the salaries to $1.00

Never since we had Responsible Government in Newfoundland, and there has been some great governments under these speakers here, but never was there a government which worked so hard as this Government. There was never a government that put in such gruelling work, eternal work, eternal hours as this Government. Twelve Ministers, twelve men doing gruelling work, endless work as this Government has done in the last two years and will do as long as they are in office at least while I am in it. Running a Government is not just a case of going to Cabinet meetings; Cabinet meetings like sessions of this House can indeed be the easiest part of it. The only real relaxation I get is sitting down here in the afternoons and at night I am in my office until one and two and three o'clock and sometimes even until five o'clock, but I come up here and relax and so it is with the other Ministers. A Cabinet meeting, a sitting of this House, compared with the work in the Departments, is only a joke, there is no burden to it, no work to it, no work to it but to get in an office and really bring in the work, if the Minister has that conception of his job he will not agree and the members of this House, who have that conception of a Minister's job, will not agree that you can half the work of Newfoundland down to five or six Ministers. Seven men, one more than the Commission or practically the same number, six members and a chairman. It depends on your concept of the work, your responsibility, your duty, what time you should give to your work and your job. It depends on that and any number of things, and any member of this Committee who feels that any Minister of the Crown by punching in an hour or two or three or four a day in his office and then going for days and days on end without going inside his office, going off in the country trouting or something, any member who feels that will agree with this motion and no one else will.

Now, as far as the portfolio is concerned, filled at the moment by me. I have at the moment three portfolios, Premier, Minister of Economic Development and Minister of Finance. I draw one salary, as Premier, the same salary as any other Minister of the Crown, no larger no smaller and while I hold the portfolios I do, whether one, two, three or four or any number I will draw one salary and I am delighted to be getting it, $7,000 a year for the work I do, and I am not a bit ashamed to take it. I have worked for less but I have never worked any harder. I know thousands of Newfoundlanders would be delighted to get $7,000 a year. But if it is in the interest of Newfoundland, that it should ever be desirable to invite the honourable Leader of the Opposition to join the Government of Newfoundland as Minister of Finance, and he should be pleased to accept, it is unlikely that it would happen I agree, but if it should happen—

MR. FAHEY: You don't have to do that, an Independent member could do that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Should that happen, should he be asked to accept that portfolio at $1.00 a year? Possibly my honourable friend would not take it at $7,000 a year; but I certainly do not want to offer it to him or to any man at $1.00 a year. Maybe it will not be in order for me to hold the portfolio of Finance Minister, in which case I will be obliged to offer it to some other gentleman; and I do not want to offer him that job at $1.00 a year. Now it would have been useful if the honourable member for Bonavista South had given us the benefit of his wisdom and his experience by naming for us the five portfolios he would have abolished by reducing the salary to $1.00 and I would take from him his assessment after two years' experience, his assessment of the value of the Ministers who filled the portfolios in this Government during this time. I wonder would he say that the honourable Minister of Public Welfare has not enough to do. If he does let me tell him that there is not a night, when the honourable Minister of Public Welfare is not at his office or in his home with a pile of papers, working by day and by night. Now, is he going to suggest that the honourable Minister of Public Welfare take on another portfolio, another Department? Does he suggest that the honourable the Attorney General, the only lawyer we have, will take on in addition to the monumental task for one man, which he is doing, another portfolio and control the administration of another Department? Is he going to suggest that the Minister of Supply who buys everything that is bought for the Government of Newfoundland and is therefore busier than any other man in Newfoundland, transacting business running into millions of dollars a year and has tens of thousands of tenders, take on more work? In addition to which he has to handle the whole of the local Government's organization, a fast growing Department. Last year we had 20 town councils and now nearly 40, a fast growing local Government set-up throughout Newfoundland. Today, one third of all our population of the entire Island of Newfoundland are living within the jurisdiction of town councils and city councils, one third, a fast growing activity. The honourable member for Bonavista South is not going to suggest that he should, on top of that work, take on another Department. Is he going to suggest that the Minister of Health with some thirty hospitals under his immediate care, with over two thousand employees, more employees than any firm in Newfoundland, more than Bowaters, more than the A.N.D. Company, more, probably, than all the local factories in St. John's put together spending six million dollars, on top of that work is he going to take on another Department? How many of the Ministers can start doubling up? We will take the Minister of Education, who has some 2,500 school teachers within his jurisdiction, some fourteen hundred schools, seventy-thousand children; in addition to this activity should the Minister of Education be told that he has to take over another Department along with his present work? Is the Minister of Labour with perhaps the fastest growing Department in the Government, administering a new labour code consisting of some five or six new pieces of legislature passed by this House in the past two years; is he to have another Department fastened on to him? Or the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives, I have heard some people say here that there is no longer any need for a Department of Fisheries in Newfoundland, I forget where or when, but very recently. This is a Province to whom the fishery means more than it does to any other province of Canada. I was talking today to Doctor Cooper the man who is the greatest fisheries engineer in Canada who founded the Department of Fisheries of Nova Scotia and was the first deputy Minister of it. He tells me that in that great Province of Nova Scotia, with 620,000 population, that there are ten thousand fishermen. Newfoundland has 28,000 fishermen. While it is perfectly true the Government of Canada has had a lot of experience with other Provinces, has taken jurisdiction and responsibility under the law for certain aspects of our fisheries, it is nevertheless true that we, as a Province and as the Government of a Province, have a most important responsibility and one which this Government proposes to fulfill. It is true that the Department of Fisheries is small in the number of personnel. As I said in my Budget Speech there is no necessity to make the Department of Fisheries a large Department, but I do suggest that there is need to make it a strong efficient Department and that is what we are attempting to do. In addition to the Fisheries, my honourable friend the Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives has jurisdiction, official jurisdiction over the co-operative movement and that I suggest while it may not presently be the mighty movement some of us at least would like to see it become, it is a movement which needs encouragement, not to be smothered with Government money, a movement which needs careful encouragement at the hands of the Government. Now, quite deliberately, I left until last, one of the warmest friends I have in Newfoundland today, a man for whom I have profound respect and regard as he has, I think, for me, the honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs, the one link we have in this Government with the great and glorious past of this Island, the veteran of 75 years of age. He is a veteran in many ways and we in this Government are proud to have him, proud and happy that he has done us the honour, first to run as a candidate of our party and secondly to assume office in our Cabinet. We are proud and happy today that the Minister of Provincial Affairs has joined us as a colleague; and no member of the Cabinet has worked harder, shown finer co-operation or finer loyalty, not the loyalty that says "I am with you to the end" and six weeks later knifes you in the back, not that kind of loyalty. We are proud to have him and as far as I am concerned, I am opposed to the motion to reduce the salary of the Minister of Finance, in this Province, to $1.00 a year.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The motion is that on page 65, No. 401: Minister of Finance—That the word $7,000 be deleted and $1.00 be inserted in its place. I shall now put the motion.

Motion is lost.

402—carried. 403—carried. 404:

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Chairman, on 404 would the honourable Minister give an opinion, as to whether or not the total of this year is near the peak of what we may expect in future years with respect to pensions?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The Minister of Labour.

MR. BALLAM: I cannot hear what is said over here.

MR. FAHEY: I think we ought to have a public address system installed in the House.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think the honourable the junior member for St. John's East has a good idea there—the member for Harbour Main, Bell Island, I don't slip very often, the Committee will admit.

MR. FAHEY: May I remind the Premier it is the best district in the country.

MR. SMALLWOOD: From my honourable friend's standpoint it is. But we might install in this Chamber a public address system; I think it would turn out to be a most useful idea. I have gone down to the door for a smoke, just at the door, and I find great difficulty in following the debate except in the case of my honourable and gallant friend, the member for Ferryland, who raises his voice and one or two others, and if we had a public address system it might make it possible to follow more easily.

In reply to my honourable friend the member for St. John's East: Civil Service pensions are at their peak now and should begin shortly to taper off. Railway pensions are not yet at their peak, they are now at $275,000 a year and my honourable friend may see that last year they were $260,000; and we think they will continue to rise to a peak of about $300,000 and then begin to fall off.

MR. FAHEY: May I ask the honourable Minister at this point, what will cause the pensions to fall off after reaching the peak of $300,000? I presume that is due to the fact that the C.N.R. are taking care of pensions from there on. Could we have an explanation at this point as to what takes place with the services that were created before the C.N.R. took over the railway?

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend is aware of the fact that the Government of Newfoundland is and will continue to be responsible for the pensioning of railroaders up to the day of union. Since the date of union, any service rendered by a railway man is not pensionable by the Government of Newfoundland. Since the date of union services with the Railway are pensionable by the C.N.R., not the Newfoundland Government. Is that clear?

MR. FOGWILL: I understand that, prior to Confederation, the railwaymen were pensionable under the Civil Service Act 1928 amended. I understand, in 1947 and 1948. Are they still pensionable under the 1948 Act? That is for service prior to April 1, 1949?

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend may be touching on a very serious matter; I had some information given to me quite recently to the effect that a railroader was refused his pension by the C.N.R. I have forgotten the details, I have them written down in my office and as a matter of fact am taking them up with the Government of Canada because it appears as though the attitude taken by the C.N.R. might represent a wrong interpretation of the terms of union by the C.N.R., and which wrong interpretation would deprive some men of their just rights under the Terms of Union. I think, perhaps, that is what my honourable friend has in mind, what my honourable friend wants to know, under what Act because they are not pensionable under the New Newfoundland Act, but under an Order in Commission passed by the Commission of Government to the effect that railway men would be pensionable now.

MR. FAHEY: Under which Act or Order in Commission did it say they would be pensionable?

MR. SMALLWOOD: It was under the 1946 Act that the Order in Commission said they would be pensionable but not under the Act, it was merely an order in commission.

MR. FAHEY: I happen to be one of those who worked with the Railway for 31 years, and sometime ago when C.N.R. through the result of Confederation took over the railroad, at that time they got the age of every employee particularly those fifty-five or over with the thought in mind, I presume, that under the Terms of Union, for the next ten years the Provincial Government is supposed to take care of pensions, after ten years accumulated. So with that thought in mind, I presume, that those 55 years of age and over, that is why I took the age from 55 up, that those pensions within the next ten years or so would be taken care of by the Provincial Government.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Covering what period?

MR. FAHEY: In some cases all employees within the next ten years, the Provincial Government takes care of them, and after that the C.N.R. will take care of them on the basis of $300 a year or $25 a month. That is as far as the C.N.R. goes unless each employee or any employee wants to contribute to the pension plan laid down by the C.N.R. in 1926. Could this be why all employees' ages were challenged, so to speak, at the date of Union? Now I know cases where employees had in, say, 29 years' service in 1949 and will be pensioned this year. They don't get pensions on the basis of 31 years but only on the basis of 29 years. Is that so?

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is so.

MR. FAHEY: I understand the Provincial Government pays that under the Terms of Union. I am open to correction, I am looking for information due to the fact that we have four thousand railway workers and their biggest headache is, ascertaining where they stand in the matter of pensions. That is the $64 question. We want to know the answer as to just where we stand, as far as pensions are concerned.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I can answer very definitely, as far as the Government of Newfoundland is concerned, it is entirely responsible for pensions to railroad men for the period of service they rendered the railway up to the date of union. Since the date of union, the Government of Newfoundland has not been responsible for pensions in respect of services rendered by the men. We are responsible only for pensions up to the date of union. Now that is only a partial answer. The position is since the date of union, affecting the C.N.R., the Newfoundland Government has no legislative or constitutional right or responsibility, but I have some reason to suspect that some railway men are in danger of losing some of their rights as a result of a misinterpretation of the terms of union by someone or rather presumably the C.N.R. That matter is being looked into, and certainly if this Government find that they are in any danger of losing any rights, we for our part will do whatever lies in our power just as Newfoundlanders, who happen for the time being to have good jobs and have some power and some authority perhaps in certain fields but not as a government; we have not the right as a government but in the other capacities we do whatever lies in our power to help out in that matter.

MR. FOGWILL: I understand the railroaders were made pensionable by minute of Commission 1948, under the 1926 Civil Service Act as amended. Now the Terms of Union in regard to public services is term 31:

(1) "Employees of the Government of Newfoundland in the services taken over by Canada pursuant to these Terms will be offered employment in these services or in similar Canadian services under the terms and conditions from time to time governing employment in those services, but without reduction in salary or loss of pension rights acquired by reason of service in Newfoundland."

One point I would like to have explained, Mr. Chairman, that is, I take it, the honourable Minister today said the C.N.R. is responsible for the payments of the pensions. The Railway worker is paid by the Railway but in regard to this $275,000 here today, who issues the cheques? Where does the Government of Newfoundland pay that money?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The Newfoundland Government issues the cheques through our Treasury, whether they are paid to the individual men or the C.N.R. I don't know, but I certainly think direct to the men and will ascertain that fact and let my honourable friend know. Now just before we leave the subject I would like to make this very clear. The C.N.R. does not own the Railway. The Newfoundland Railway was not taken over by the C.N.R. That is: the ownership was not assumed by the C.N.R. It was the Government of Canada who took over the Newfoundland Railway but simultaneously entrusted the management of the railway to the C.N.R. So under that order of entrustment the C.N.R. are merely custodians of the Railway on behalf of the Government of Canada and it is the Government of Canada in the Terms of Union, who have given such guarantees to the railwaymen in respect of pensions and not the C.N.R.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Chairman, I realize that and I think the Premier will admit that their terms are not clear enough; now paragraph 2 of the term 31:

(1) "Canada will provide the pensions for such employees so that the employees will not be prejudiced, and the Government of the Province of Newfoundland will reimburse Canada for the pensions for, or at its option make to Canada contributions in respect of, the service of these employees with the Government of Newfoundland prior to the date of Union, but these payments or contributions will be such that the burden on the Government of the Province of Newfoundland, in respect of pension rights acquired by reason of service in Newfoundland, will not be increased by reason of the transfer."

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I pay a tribute to the honourable the junior member for St. John's East. I know of only two other men who have the same knowledge and the same interest in the matter of railway pensions. Those two are his brother and Mr. James Duggan of the Railway. Now I am not saying there are not other railway men with the same interest and knowledge but I am saying I know of no others, I am saying I know of only those three. The member for St. John's East, I know, takes a very close interest in the matter and has ever since this matter came up. Ever since the issue of Confederation came up, on the floor of this Chamber during the National Convention and as I say he was very close to the matter, approached the second delegation, the one that signed the terms on this very matter and I know of his abiding interest and concern and I would like to pay him that tribute. I know my honourable friend from Harbour Main-Bell Island has the same interest; perhaps he has not studied it as closely, I don't know, he may have for all I know studied it just as closely as his colleague.

MR. FOGWILL: He has, yes.

MR. FAHEY: I have yielded the floor on two occasions, Mr. Chairman; do I have the floor or not?

There are one or two points I would like to make, maybe the honourable the Premier will not be interested in what I say but there are four thousand railway workers, employees of the C.N.R., with an average family of five, that is 20,000 people, and that represents a fairly large percentage of the population and for that reason, now that the matter has come up for discussion, perhaps we should give it some thought. All the employees of that department were taken over by the Federal Authorities, given their seniority rights and the same rights and privileges as those employees working on the Mainland for the same number of years. The same thing happened with the local Postal Department and the Customs, I understand, and so with the other members of the Civil Service transferred to other departments of the Federal Authorities and were given the rights in these departments; but the railway is a little different in that the Provincial Government takes care for the next ten years of employees over fifty-five. The Provincial Government, under the Terms of Union, must take care of their pensions but for those who had 20 or 25 years of service in, before the C.N.R. took over, there is no provision made except, that after they have ten years of service in the C.N.R. the Provincial Government is obligated to the extent of $300 a year for those of ten years' service with the C.N.R. before they come up to pensionable age. Some employees have had twenty years with the Newfoundland Railway and their position has not been thoroughly explained yet and as I said, until such time as it is, it remains the $64 question.

MR. HIGGINS: Supposing an employee of the Railway served ten years with the Newfoundland Railway and then 25 years with C.N.R., making a total of 35 years and gets to a full pensionable age, does the Newfoundland Government pay a percentage of that pension, 10 years and the C.N.R. 25 years of the pension?

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): Mr. Chairman, speaking on behalf of the Premier I think the answer is approximately, yes.

MR. HIGGINS: Now supposing the employee served nine years with the Newfoundland Government and 26 years with the CNR, does that mean he receives a pension from the CNR and none from the Newfoundland Government?

DR. POTTLE: The answer is, Mr. Chairman, we pay for the Newfoundland service whether it is one year or nine years.

MR. HIGGINS: We were told here, he had to spend ten years with the Newfoundland Railway before he was pensionable at all.

DR. POTTLE: If the individual concerned comes to pensionable age, we pay our portion whether it was one year or any number.

MR. HIGGINS: I ask that question because of loss of pension rights which were acquired by reason of service with the Newfoundland Railway. Suppose after serving ten years in Newfoundland he had a right to a pension but had to serve another year, would he now be deprived of getting a full pension because of the CNR taking over? I was just wondering if that were the case? I know cases where employees of the Railway were pensionable at the age of 65 and were allowed to work until 68 and were then pensioned in order to get ten years in.

DR. POTTLE: If an employee came to the age of 65 under the Newfoundland Railway, without having ten years of service in, he would not be pensioned.

MR. HIGGINS: Suppose he served nine years with the Newfoundland Railway and five years with the CNR?

DR. POTTLE: His pension is based on fourteen years—We would pay 9/14 roughly.

MR. FOGWILL: That is one of the questions bothering many people because a circular was distributed amongst employees, about two years after Union, and they don't understand now what it means. This circular said in one paragraph: Employees with the Newfoundland Railway, transferred to CNR and pensionable at that date, would be pensionable under the Newfoundland plan including pensionable service with the CNR. Now their pension plan is entirely different. Now what does allowable service mean? An employee may have 20 years after Union but what does allowable service mean, what does it mean in money, as far as his pension is concerned?

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): I know of cases where men over 65 who were proficient at their work but when the Federal Government took over they laid them off because they were 65 years of age, capable men at their work and these men were put on the shelf without any consideration whatsoever.

MR. FOGWILL: I have seen the same thing happen myself.

MR. BALLAM: I think, Mr. Chairman, there were some cases where men came to the age of 65, with only eight years of service, and they were left on, though the pensionable age was 65 years, they were left on so that they could get in their ten years, now they are laid off nine years and four or six months because if they were kept on any longer the company would be obligated to pension anyone going over the ten years. Lots of men, who were prepared to work on, were not permitted regardless of pension or otherwise. I would like the honourable the Premier or the Minister of Public Welfare to explain; if I accumulate so many years under the Newfoundland Railway and then accumulated so many more under the CNR, do I get two separate pension cheques, or credits when the cheques are made up? That is one of the questions that is bothering railroaders today, they do not know if the local Government will pay the time accumulated before Confederation or the CNR after, providing they put in ten years. Do the employees get credit for the time under the old system and again with the CNR to make up the total amount of service?

DR. POTTLE: The answer is: it is collected from the CNR, the actual settlement is between the two Governments, it is a matter of accounting. Now if I may say something, Sir, I presume the honourable Minister of Finance when he referred to a serious point raised by the honourable junior member for St. John's East meant this matter of pensions which I think in so far as it involves service with the CNR, is one for serious consideration. The section is not at all clear and I think the point being raised is not being overlooked and certainly not ignored by the Government but still calls for clarification and is one to which the Government will give serious attention. At the present time I cannot give definite answers to all the questions raised here in Committee.

MR. BALLAM: I think we should pass this Order of Business and go on with the Estimates, and the Government will look into it thoroughly.

MR. FOGWILL: Perhaps it is better to let this particular vote 404 stand until, say Monday, we will have more time for careful consideration by that time.

MR. FAHEY: I move it be deferred.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Yes, let it stand.

405—Carried.

DR. POTTLE: Before it is carried perhaps the Minister of Finance would like to say a word to 405.

MR. FAHEY: Under that heading 406, I wonder if the honourable the Minister of Finance would give some explanation of the $500.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, that amount of $500 is a Pre-Union liability and is an amount intended to cover small odds and ends and bills coming into the Department, from time to time, in respect of services or goods delivered to those Departments before the date of Union and it is still only two years ago so it is easy to imagine a bill cropping up now and then. It is rather late but it is still only a couple of years ago, and in case any more of these crop up in the coming year we have provided this $500 and if none should come up it would naturally become a drop balance.

MR. FAHEY: In other words, Mr. Chairman, we may or may not need it to take care of different bills that the Commission of Government ran up, if they should crop up.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is so.
406—Carried.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Under the heading of 407, Mr. Chairman, we have the Vice-Royal Visit on page 19, no vote. There was no vote last year; that was two years ago.

Carried.

408—Carried.

409:

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Chairman, 409-03, Accounting etc., Machinery and Equipment $5,000. I noticed on the other page 405-03 we have Equipment, rentals etc., $8,000. That is $13,000 all told.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is a different office altogether. The Social Security Assessment Office is in the Law Chambers on Duckworth Street and is a more or less self-contained unit with its own equipment.

The other is the main office of the Department of Finance.

DR. POTTLE: There seems to be some error in 409. The addition up to 20 is all right, but there seems to be something wrong towards the latter part.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, I move the Committee rise, report progress and ask leave to sit again tomorrow.

Orders of The Day

Third reading of Bill "An Act Relating to Poultry and Poultry Products."

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Third reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Memorial University (Pensions) Act, 1950."

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Third reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Department of Public Works Act, 1950."

Thereupon the Bill was read a third time.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the St. John's Housing Corporation Act, 1944."

MR. CHAIRMAN: I would like to remind the Committee that all the clauses were read but there was some discussion on clause 6. Clause 6 was not passed. Clause 7 was.

The following amendment is moved:

"Where any development is made by the Corporation in the Housing Area either before or after this Act without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the laying of water and sewerage pipes, the construction of roads and the making of any other improvements whatsoever; the Corporation may in respect of any private property in the Housing Area, make an assessment of an amount bearing the same ratio to the total cost of the development as the value of the land to be assessed bears to the total value of all land in the Housing Area, including land of the Corporation, the value of which was increased by the development, and in making the assessment the opinion of the Corporation as to the land which was increased in value by the development and the value of any land shall prevail; and subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council the assessment shall be final and binding upon all parties."

Moved that 22 sub-clause (a) be stricken out and 22 (a) be inserted as read.

MR. FAHEY: I was absent from the House the first time since it opened and I would like, Mr. Chairman, to have the honourable Minister explain the reason for striking out 22 (a) and inserting the amendment.

MR. SMALLWOOD: To conform with the Municipal regulations as far as the installation of water and sewerage and assessment of the value of any work or proportion of the work, for arguments sake, suppose a gutter were put along in front of land already there, you are responsible for paying the legal assessment on that, that is all.

28A.—(1) Whenever in pursuance of an agreement made under Section 3 land is developed in any area for housing purposes the Minister may, in respect of any land, other than land of His Majesty or the partnership in or adjacent to that area, make an assessment of an amount bearing the same ratio to the total cost of the development, as the value of the land to be assessed bears to the total value of all land, including land of His Majesty or the partnership, the value of which was increased by the development, and in making the assessment the opinion of the Minister as to the land increased in value by the development and the value of any land shall prevail; and subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council the assessment shall be final and binding on all parties.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, I would like to ask the honourable minister a question on that: suppose we take a new section like Cornwall Avenue or places of that type, take Craigmillar Avenue.

MR. VARDY: We are only dealing with the Housing Corporation.

MR. FAHEY: Well, would not this Act apply to any other area or is it only the Housing Corporation?

MR. SMALLWOOD: No, only to the area defined as the Housing Corporation.

Carried.

Moved that the Committee rise, report having passed the Bill with some amendments.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Slums Clearance Act, 1950."

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, would it be in order to make a motion that the two legal advisers go into committee and report back?

MR. CURTIS: We have done it, this is our report.

MR. HIGGINS: If the honourable gentleman wants to report to the Committee of the Whole, I am quite ready to comply.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Clause 28 was allowed to stand.

Amendment to Clause 29: That Clause 1 (a) be stricken out and the following be substituted therefor:

(a) where the increase of value accrues before any assessment is made under this sub-section, the Minister may make an assessment on the land so increased in value of an amount bearing the same ratio to the total cost of the development as the value of the land to be assessed bears to the total value of all land, including land of His Majesty, the partnership and the St. John's Housing Corporation, in respect of which at the time when the assessment is made under this paragraph an increase of value has accrued by reason of the development.

MR. HIGGINS: I would like to ask the honourable gentleman if that is the same as the Municipal Council Act? If you put in water and sewerage near a farm that does not make use of the water and sewerage, must he be assessed on that frontage?

MR. SPRATT: Yes, at a certain period, I don't know if it is immediately upon the installation. I could not tell you now about the law but there would be an assessment anyhow.

MR. HIGGINS: If a farmer should sell any part of his land which of course would be taking advantage, then he would have to pay the five or ten dollars a foot.

MR. SPRATT: No.

MR. HIGGINS: According to this they can.

MR. FAHEY: The point is, in the past, private enterprise could develop and lay sewerage and water, and give services of that kind, and some other company, on the opposite side of the street or road, would not pay for it until such time as they utilise the land in building lots, or otherwise. I understand now he must pay whether he uses it or not.

MR. SPRATT: Well, as to what time the payment is made I do not know but where improvements are made by laying of water and sewerage the owner of the land is responsible for the assessment. What time it is paid I am not in a position to say.

MR. FAHEY: I have something in mind like this: let us take the development of Craigmillar Avenue that was done by a private corporation to take care of one side of the street, now on the opposite side there are still fields in some of the other places.

Suppose in that particular locality of Craigmillar Avenue there is a farmer on the opposite side. What I want to get clear is the farmer who occupies the farm, does he have to pay so much a foot under this Act or is it to be paid only after he utilizes his farm for building lots?

MR. SPRATT: It all depends, of course, the relation is anomalous as far as Craigmillar Avenue is concerned. I would like to point out, if you have a virgin piece of land tomorrow and you decide you want to have sewerage put in you have to pay before hand, pay for it before it is done at all. In this instance out in a suburban area, I am not in a position to say. I am as unfamiliar with it as you are now.

MR. HIGGINS: And if a man has a road through his property and wants to use it for building purposes he certainly should be charged.

MR. VARDY: I think the honourable member should refer to section 4.

"The assesment made under (1) shall be paid by the owner of the land to an Authority designated for the purpose by the Minister, and if the Minister so directs the holder or holders of any interest in the land shall be severally liable for the payment of the assesment, but nothing contained in this paragraph shall require the assesment to be paid more than once."

In other words the Minister has the authority to designate when it becomes due, in other words when the land is utilized for the purpose of building. Incidentally, it is not anticipated that there will be any program in the foreseeable future, but it is certainly only fair if an individual is making use of utilities, he should be quite prepared to share the cost of putting them there. In the overall picture, when the cost of development is considered, there would be taken into consideration the number of lots that might be available in the lots adjoining to it that could be developed in competition to a government project. It does not apply to a large area of land not being utilized or that has no prospect of being utilized. They are not going to say: "Here, old man, you got to pay your cost of that development." I don't think any government wants to do that, it would be a most unpopular move and governments are not prone to movements of that kind if it can be avoided. But we are trying to avoid a situation arising, which has arisen in the Housing Corporation and which has to be corrected by the Act just passed. We don't want, at a later date, to come in and make further provisions for something that is not unforeseen.

MR. HIGGINS: Was it not foreseen in the Housing?

MR. VARDY: No, but in respect to this Federal Provincial Partnership Operation it is, and consequently we put it in at the same time.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Chairman, that shows the value of Hansard. The Act is passed but the wording of the Act itself does not point out what the House of Assembly intended, but if we had the Hansard we could find out what had been said during the debate and would be certain then it was not the intention to interfere with any farmer unless the farmer took advantage of the improvements, and if that were in Hansard it would be hardly likely the Government would carry out anything but the intention of the House of Assembly.

MR. VARDY: The Government has full power of expropriation under that Act, I am sure.

MR. HIGGINS: I am not talking about that at all, supposing they don't expropriate and leave the farmer there and charge $5 or $10 a foot; it is just as well to take the land and give a reasonable price and the farmer would have to go somewhere else. I understand that position quite well.

MR. FAHEY: Well, I might say this: supposing I had a farm and the Government came along with a project to put water and sewerage and culverts and gutters and so on on that land, but adjoining that land, on the opposite side, was my farm. Under this Act, immediately the Government could make me pay taxes per foot according to expenses. Now, we have two or three different setups; in the past the Municipal Council, in my opinion, were not in a position or for some reason did not develop certain projects but that was done by private enterprise such as Craigmillar Avenue Area Project which was done by the Railway. They only occupied one side of the street and as people built there, it was only when they built they charged the frontage. On the other section of that particular railway area there is an area not occupied even today, and there is a farmer there in that section and I don't know if he is forced, at the present time, to pay any frontage.

MR. SPRATT: O'Reilly is still there on Craigmillar Avenue.

MR. FAHEY: The same type of thing occurs on Craigmillar Avenue. A farmer occupies both sides of the street but has no other services, has a well of his own. If this land is let out in building lots, as the case may be, he may be charged for it. It is all right for the Government or the Council that the service is provided, pay for it; but where private enterprise takes care of that, I don't know if we can make an Act to compel anybody to pay that if the company asks for it.

MR. VARDY: I can explain that, if it is really farm land and the owner has no intention of utilizing it for any other purpose; the assessment would not be made until such time as it would be taken for building purposes. That has already been explained. That is the intention of this Act. It is not to impose any hardship on anyone.

MR. FAHEY: Don't carry it too quickly.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Order, the motion is not being put.

MR. FAHEY: I would like to remind the honourable member not to be in a hurry to vote until we get on the budget.

I would like to have a better understanding from the honourable Minister in this. What if the Government started a project in a certain locality tomorrow and they occupied one side of the street and I occupied the other side. I am compelled, if the Government so decides, to pay my share whether I want to or not.

MR. CURTIS: I think if the honourable member would read section No. 4 right through, he would see that in the case the person gets five years to pay and if he does not then use the land, that time can be extended. If he would read the rest of section 4.

MR. FAHEY: That depends on what interpretation it is given.

MR. CURTIS: It says here "provided an assessment made under subsection (1) shall become due when it is made and the Minister has designated the Authority to which it is payable, but the Minister may direct that an assessment, or part of an assessment, shall be paid in such equal instalments and at such times as he shall prescribe, if the dates of payment are so fixed that the aggregate of the instalments is payable within five years from the date of the assessment. Provided that where none of the improvements, in respect of which the land was assessed, are being used for the benefit of that land, the Minister may allow a term longer than five years for the payment of the assessment, subject to the condition that if any such improvements are so used at any time thereafter, the part of the assessment remaining unpaid shall thereupon become payable."

That is very clear and very fair.

MR. FAHEY: Referring to the Attorney General, I hope he does not mean to infer that we should vote on an Act until we have a clear understanding of what we are voting on I think that is appropriate for this side, the other side or the Independent members. We asked for an explanation and after a lot of talking, taking up a lot of time of the honourable House, I think we have now reached the point where we understand what the Bill means, but it should have been printed more clearly.

MR. CURTIS: I might say if the honourable member were here the other night, but unfortunately he was not here, we would not have needed to explain it again tonight.

MR. FAHEY: I would like to apologize for being absent the other night and I will say that was the first time I have been absent from the honourable House, since I have been elected, and I remember being here many times when the honourable the Attorney General was absent and I was present.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is telling him.

Carried.

The Committee rose, reported having considered the matter and passed the Bill with some amendments.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Could we defer the next order, Mr. Speaker, Respecting Safety of Workmen in Mines and pass on to a second reading of a Bill "An Act Further to Extend the Operation of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1945, and of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1947."

HON. W. J. KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Mr. Speaker, the purpose of bringing this proposed legislation before the House is to seek legislative authority to continue the present scale of bounties paid on ships now in effect. When the Commission of Government Shipbuilding Bounties Legislation in 1938 provided a scale of payments of this order on vessels constructed to be used in the fisheries and coastal trade—$40 a ton on vessels up to 150 tons, $30 from ten to thirty tons, and, according to a different schedule, an additional $30 for new engines fitted. In 1949 they amended that legislation and upped the scale of bounty with respect to fishery vessels and provided a new scale of $90 a ton for a vessel of one hundred tons, $20 if a diesel engine were installed and $10 if a gasoline engine were installed. The Commission of Government provided further legislation, which maintained these higher rates of bounties in effect until 1949, and this House subsequently provided legislation which will continue in effect until June of 1951. This Bill seeks authority for not more than the present scale but merely to continue paying the present established scale. I move the second reading.

Bill read a second time, ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Co-operative Development Loan Act, 1949."

MR. KEOUGH: Mr. Speaker, this Bill is purely formal and is intended to make the same amendment with regard to the Co-operative Development Loan Act as previously passed by the Act, with regard to the Fisheries Loan Act. The Bill provides merely for the proper certification of the financial statement, proper recording of minutes, proper auditing of accounts, in fact, it is self-explanatory, and I move the second reading.

Bill read a second time, ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Co-operative Societies Act, 1939."

Ordered deferred.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Local Government Act, 1949."

MR. FORSEY: This Bill proposes certain changes which I shall enumerate very briefly: Clause 2 deals with municipalities of two or more communities, at the present time there is no way to insure representation.

In the present Act there is nothing to prevent strangers from holding office and in certain cases they have been appointed to paying positions. Provision is now made to prevent such from serving on councils. There is some change to the form of the oath taken by Councillors by including a statement that the councillor is qualified. The following is also added to the Act: A councillor is prohibited from holding a paying office under the council.

Provision is also made in the Bill for councils to operate the following: Light Generator Plants, for domestic purposes; own and operate park and recreational facilities and grant bus transportation rights.

That is all that is envisaged in the proposed Bill, Mr. Speaker, and I move the second reading.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Speaker, speaking to the principle of this Bill, I cannot say that we can make any intelligent remarks due to the fact, that it is only since the honourable Minister got on his feet the Bill has been distributed, and any further remarks we have to make or care to make would have to await the Committee of the Whole due to the fact we did not get a chance to look over the Bill until the Minister introduced it at that time.

MR. CURTIS: Would the honourable member like to have it adjourned? If so there is no objections.

MR. SPEAKER: The Motion is quite in order.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Speaker, I would like to make this statement before the motion, the Bill should be distributed before the honourable Minister introduced it in order to give the honourable members a chance to study, but I noticed at this particular time that the Bill was distributed while the honourable Minister was moving second reading. But I don't care to delay the House any further and will make my remarks in Committee of the Whole.

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member will understand that it was for that very reason the honourable the Attorney General suggested the debate might be adjourned.

MR. FAHEY: I appreciate the Attorney General's reminder that it could be adjourned to a later date, but I prefer to leave it to a Committee of the Whole.

MR. CURTIS: I just wanted to make it clear we are not pushing it through.

Bill read a second time ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act Respecting Elections in Municipalities."

MR. FORSEY: Mr. Speaker, this Bill is purely formal. Section 12 of the Local Government Act provides that the Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations for the holding of municipal elections. The By-Election Regulations which have been drafted from time to time are hardly adequate. I consider that the best course is to provide for the holding of elections under a separate act, and for this purpose I move the second reading of this Bill.

Bill read a second time ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act Relating to Wild Life."

DR. POTTLE: This Act relating to Wild Life is designed principally amongst other things to define a little more clearly the respective territories of the Federal and Provincial Governments with regard to this topic of protection of wild life. The object of the Bill is to remove from the present regulations all reference to fish, to wit: salmon, trout which is now vested in the control of the Department of Fisheries. Receipts for Angler's License are still a matter of Provincial control. Any changes which have been made relating to wild life regulations, salmon and trout had to be made under the provisions of the Wild Life Act (that is, the 1947 Act. This Act replaces the 1947 Statute. The only other change indicated in this Bill is a change in the definition of "Resident" which in the present form included, for the purpose of angling only, bona fide members of the Armed Forces stationed in Newfoundland. In the Wild Life Act, 1947, which this Act seeks to repeal, members of the Armed Forces in Newfoundland were regarded as residents for the purpose of purchasing angling and hunting licenses. I have been advised by the Department of Natural Resources that 346 Licenses for big game have been issued for a fee of $5. The non-residents fee is $25.00. It is considered, that as members of the Armed Forces are foreigners, it is considered that the privileges allowed under the existing Bill should be withdrawn.

MR. HIGGINS: They should be charged $25.00.

DR. POTTLE: These are, I believe, the substantial points indicated in this Bill and as they are not, I believe, a matter of principle, they may be dealt with in detail in Committee of the Whole. Sir, I move the second reading of this Bill.

Bill read a second time ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

MR. FOGWILL: A point of information, Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the honourable Minister would explain: He said salmon and trout, does that relate to all trout or just sea trout?

DR. POTTLE: I cannot answer the honourable member, Mr. Speaker, I am speaking now, not to close the debate but on a point of information. If there are any further questions I should be glad to have the honourable members raise them during Committee.

MR. HIGGINS: I think you will find it applies only to fish that have their home in the sea and come to the rivers only to spawn. What is the situation with regard to members of the Armed Forces, do they have to pay $25.00? You mean someone who only comes down here to go fishing not resident members. Surely that is not right. Is that a function of the Canadian Authorities or our country?

DR. POTTLE: This will be our own.

MR. HIGGINS: I suggest you give that some further consideration, I don't think we can apply this to anybody stationed down here.

DR. POTTLE: The Clause in question is Clause 2 (k)—and for the purpose of angling includes a bona fide member of the Armed Forces. I wonder if that is inclusive enough for the satisfaction of the honourable Leader of the Opposition.

MR. HIGGINS: This only applies to visitors. Any member of the Armed Forces is a visitor but as it stands here he is a resident. That provides protection. Now about a visiting member, do they charge them or give them honorary licences, I wonder.

MR. FAHEY: On the American Bases?

DR. POTTLE: They are residents if they are stationed here.

MR. FORSEY: Of course it is still our territory.

DR. POTTLE: I would like to be sure of the answers to all the questions that might arise relative to the Bill, as it is one I am not entirely familiar with.

MR. SPEAKER: I cannot allow any more conversation as it would anticipate the committee stage.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Provide for the Acquisition of Lands for the Purpose of National Parks and for the Transfer to the Governor General in Council of Lands Acquired for such Purpose."

DR. POTTLE: Mr. Speaker, the subject to which this Bill refers is one of considerable importance to the Province of Newfoundland. At this time however, the matter to be covered by the Bill itself is one strictly of formality, which enables the Government of the Province to enter into an agreement with the Government of Canada, whereby transfer of the necessary land for establishing a national park will take place. The Bill, Sir, in the strict sense is therefore an enabling Bill. The transfer involved covering the expropriation of land is taken care of, as the Bill indicates under clause 2, by Section 21 of the Department of Public Works Act, 1950. That Act sets forth in considerable detail the mechanics of the expropriation and I would move, Sir, that the Bill receive second reading.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Speaker, in speaking to the principle of the Bill, which I think introduces the fact of national parks in this Island, the honourable Minister said we would expropriate land in order to create national parks. I don't quite get that, it is not a matter of principle, and can be taken care of in Committee of the Whole, but in other parts of Canada for instance, if we went out to the Rockies by railway we would be given a pamphlet to read about the great national park, and I hope we don't abuse our national park, if we agree to create one here in this Island, with false propaganda which has taken place as far as the national parks are concerned in other Provinces of Canada. There is a Canadian Park known as Jasper and I happened to travel through that section of the country and was given a pamphlet telling us to watch out for the wild goats, the mountain goats, and when we came to a very steep grade there was an old fellow with a whisker, like the Premier predicted he would have when he sat over on this side of the House, and a friend of mine from Winnipeg whom I met a couple of days later, said that was one of the mountain goats. Goats, I said, where do you think I am from, Newfoundland or?—I won't repeat the rest of it. Anyway it appears to me the national parks of Canada are blown up so high you could not attempt to stick a pin in them. You only have to be five hundred feet away and they would all blow up, and it is for the purpose of creating tourist traffic to the National Parks. Alright, the Premier is a good advocator, and I agree we have a thousand possibilities in this country, but don't let us ruin that by blowing up our national parks like they do. Further on, on that particular trip, we were told to watch out for a big mountain stream the spray from which would come onto the platform and we would need to put on oil-skins and what I saw was this: I often saw, after a half hour's rain, more of a spray over the South Side Hill. Now, Mr. Speaker, I would suggest if we are going to create a national park let us not put out any false propaganda, but give what we have and not make it an American Hot Dog. If we start a tourist camp give them the corned beef and cabbage, and if they don't like it they can go back to the East Side, West Side and eat hotdogs. While speaking on a national park, I would say it would be a very good thing and I support the Acting Minister of Natural Resources and would like to give him all the support I can, but there is one thing I would like him to remember, don't let us blow it up like Jasper Park when we create our national park.

Bill read a second time. Ordered to be referred to a Committee of the Whole House on tomorrow.

Second reading of Bill "An Act to Incorporate the Newfoundland Association of Architects and to Regulate the Use of Architect Designations in Newfoundland."

MR. CURTIS: Mr. Speaker, I am introducing this Bill for second reading not because I favour the Bill but because the Bill is private, and someone has to throw it out to be kicked around and to be dealt with as the House would like. This is not a party measure and I want to repeat: It is not a party measure. But yet it is a Bill to which I would like to draw the attention of the honourable members. This is a Bill to incorporate the Newfoundland Architect's Association, to that I would have no objection. I think any group of professional men have a right to organize themselves and there could be no objection to their being organized but I would draw particular attention to Section 28 of the Bill and to Section 29 (2).

"Whenever any building or like structure is constructed, altered or enlarged and such work involves public hazard or the use of structural calculations of a specialized nature, or whenever such erection, alteration or enlargement involves the expenditure of a sum in excess of fifteen thousand dollars, the services of an architect shall be employed in connection with any such work provided however this section shall not apply to any works of an engineering character as defined by paragraph one section (e).

Now, Mr. Speaker, as things are going now, $15,000 cannot build a hen house, and to think that any man building a house that is going to cost $15,000 should have to engage an architect, strikes me as unreasonable. Moreover if anybody builds a house for $15,000 he has to pay a fine of $100 for every offense. That is not so bad; the house only costing then $15,000.

Another clause, the next one, is very objectionable too, Clause 29 (2) 2.

"Without restricting the generality of the foregoing, any person who prepares or offers to prepare for a fee, commission or other remuneration any sketch, drawing or specification for any proposed building structure or for any structural alteration of or addition to an existing building structure when such proposed work is to cost more than $5,000.00, shall be deemed to hold himself out as an architect."

You can't build on a couple of rooms on your house without an architect.

MR. SPEAKER: Let me point out, under the newly written standing orders, it is not competent at this stage to discuss the principle of a private Bill. The principle, in this instance as the honourable the Attorney General has pointed out, is that those people wish to incorporate themselves. After second reading it must be referred to a select committee before a committee of the whole House. I merely point this out because I am quite sure the honourable member —

MR. CURTIS: Because of the fact I realize this Bill must go to a select committee, I venture to ask the House to give it second reading. If the second reading means adoption of the whole Bill in principle I would not read it, but I understand it must go to a select committee and for this reason I move it be read a second time.

Mr. Speaker, the motion is this Bill be now read a second time.

MR. SPRATT: Is it in order to ask a question now?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, to a point of information. As I understand, other members wish to speak to this Bill on second reading and it is now almost eleven o'clock, I suggest it would be proper procesure that any honourable member who wishes to speak on the Bill might now adjourn the debate.

MR. SPEAKER: If any honourable member now speaks, I will have to stop him in two minutes, obviously the most sensible course is the one suggested by the honourable the Premier.

MR. SPRATT: I would like to point out at this time, Mr. Speaker, an architect can mean a lot or nothing and there are occasions in building where shifting or replacing of a support would require the employment of an architect. I know that from practical experience. If the amount named in the Act of $15,000 does not affect in any way the employment of an architect in the construction of a house—but when the matter comes before the House I will justify that point. I will justify the existence of the architect's union because it does not only apply to the $15,000 house, it does not mean you have to have an architect during the building or construction of the house but only to draw plans, and no doubt to build a house you must have a plan, for any house. Therefore, I say that section is perfectly in order.

MR. SPEAKER: It is now 11 o'clock. When the debate resumes the honourable member still has the floor.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, I suggest the remaining orders be deferred and the House at its rising adjourn until tomorrow, Monday, at 3 of the clock.

The House then adjourned accordingly.

MONDAY, May 14, 1951.

The House opened at three of the clock.

Presenting Petitions

None.

Presenting Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Giving Notice of Motions and Questions

Honourable the Attorney General to ask leave to introduce a Bill entitled "An Act Further to Amend Chapter 127 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series) and entitled 'Of Companies.'"

HON. J. R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, there were two questions from the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland. I got back in town quite late today, but since getting back I got word to the Department of Finance. I do not think it affects that Department, but it takes care of all Departments in a matter like this. So I got word to them to try and get the answers down this afternoon and I shall table them the moment they arrive.

HON. WILLIAM KEOUGH (Minister of Fisheries and Co-operatives): Mr. Speaker, I have referred the questions to the Loan Board and have not received the answers yet. That is the question of the honourable the member for Ferryland.

Orders of the Day

Committee of the Whole on Supply.

MR. FAHEY: I rise, Sir, to make a few remarks in reply to the Estimates and the Budget.

First of all I want to congratulate the Minister of Finance for the able way in which he brought down the Budget. Of course that does not say we agree with everything in it, but we do agree that the Budget was brought down in an able manner by the Minister of Finance.

While on that matter of the Budget, I think I referred to it here on Friday night, that I think it is high time we had some sort of a public address system here as I think it is very difficult to hear. I stood down in the back a few times and I could not hear a word going on except when the honourable member speaking was faced that way. Because of this fact I feel the House Committee or whoever is responsible for it should try to remedy this cause.

In looking over the Estimates in the Budget, there is quite an eye-full there, so to speak, and I think the House can afford to have such a system installed, and with such a system or arrangement I do not suppose some of the honourable members would be blamed for chewing tobacco in a fore-castle of a schooner with their feet upon the table.

Another matter which I suppose comes under Mr. Speaker, is when a member asks a question in the House, I noticed on several occasions there were only three copies tabled, and in some cases, only one to the member asking the question. Now, I think, that each and every member is entitled to a copy as in some cases another member may have the same question in mind but has not asked the question, and when the answer comes back I think the Government can afford to have a copy for each and every member.

Mr. Speaker, while dealing with expenses, I think it is the duty of every member, when a Bill is presented to this House, to first say to himself—how much will this Bill cost the Province? Is the project worth it? We probably should use the word Province now to be correct, but in some cases we may use the words "this Island." Anyway, the members should ask themselves the question—Is this project worth the amount of money? The next thought in my mind is that the member should say to himself—Should the honourable House say to the Government; in other words should the honourable House authorize the Government to spend five millions to give employment to five hundred, or on the other hand, should the House authorize one million to give employment to one hundred? Or should the House say to the Government, we feel it would be a far better procedure if the Government would create floor prices for fishermen to stabilize the fisheries, the price on fish, and thereby give employment to roughly 28,000 fishermen. We should ask ourselves what is best and I think the floor price to stabilize the fisheries, the prices on fish would be best and I feel that all the honourable members must think so too. I advocated last year that we should have a floor price for farmers, and there again we would give additional employment. To subsidize farmers and fishermen with floor prices would naturally give a guaranteed price and would give more employment, in my opinion, than some of the new industries can create for less money than the Government is spending at the present time. I feel it is far ahead than to spend five or six million to give employment to five or six hundred, to give a subsidy of a million of a million and a half which would give employment to thirty thousand fishermen and farmers combined. Now, we have heard a lot about NAFEL, what it should or should not do, but I am inclined to agree with the member for Placentia West on that score when he says NAFEL is doing a good job and until such time as we have an organization to do better, it is the best we can do.

Supposing the Federal Government who controls NAFEL, dismissed NAFEL today, what would take place? It would be an open market and each exporter could, and probably would, undersell every other and in a very short time, in my opinion, the price of fish would be down to $5 a quintal; the fishermen would suffer through this. That reminds me of an experience that I had in the thirties when I was doing some farming on Topsail Road. I came in to a Grocer and told him I had some turnip tops to sell, and I happened to glance at the window and it was marked up there "Turnip Tops 3c. a lb." I was offered 1c. a pound and when I remarked the fact, the reply I got back was, "Why should I when I can buy all I want for 1c.?" That is a fact, the farmer had to grow them for 1c. and the grocer sold them for 3c. If you take NAFEL away you have the same situation as far as the fishermen are concerned. But I contend, when I go down to get a pound of butter or a suit of clothes, the clerk does not ask me what I want to pay, but quotes a price and I pay it. I think fishermen and farmers should quote prices and not have someone else tell them what they will pay them.

Now, I would like to make this clear to the honourable House that the Federal Government controls NAFEL, and I don't suppose there is much this local Government can do about it but, in my opinion, in the final analysis the majority of fishermen are realizing the salt codfishery is coming to an end, and the time is here for a fresh fish market on the Mainland of Canada and in the United States. As I have already said the Federal Government controls the fish markets and there is not much we can do, but I would say this: Let us fight between ourselves here in this House on our local problems, but when it comes to a point of Ottawa or the Central Government choking our economy I say we should get together and fight to get the same concessions as the Prairie Provinces in the way of subsidies. I advocated floor prices for fishermen and farmers two years ago and, in my opinion, it is the only solution. I would say this too: The markets are hungry for fresh fish, and if the Government set out to help the fishermen along and see that Ottawa does its share, it would help the economy of Newfoundland.

Now, I would like to say a word on the cost of living. I felt and I advocated last year that the Government should eat more fish as brain food. Later here this year we heard it was only a legend that we should eat more fish as it is a brain food. Legend or not I say, dealing with the cost of living, people will have to eat more fish as the price of beef steak is 95c. today, and take a look at the rates quoted here the other day. I contend that the Government should get to work and subsidize the fishermen and what I mean by this, is not in such a way as the local Government subsidized Grand Bank. We have a situation up there, I am open to correction on this, the Government subsidized a half a million dollars for a fresh fish plant at Grand Bank.

Now Fortune is only four miles away by road, not by sea, in rough weather it is not always possible to make it, except by road, and private capital was prepared to put in a fresh fish plant at Fortune and while that was going on the Government assisted Grand Bank to the amount of one and a half million dollars, this local Government here.

MR. SMALLWOOD: What private Company? Who were they?

MR. FAHEY: I say a private company, or a private enterprise, was prepared to put a fresh fish plant at Fortune. I won't name that company, I have no right to do that, that is up to the Government to find out; but I am telling you I could, only I would not like to without asking permission. But, as I understand, private enterprise was prepared to put a fresh fish plant at Fortune, and the Government assisted through a subsidy to get a plant at Grand Bank. Let that be as it may, could not the other plant only four miles away by road take care of all the fish caught at Fortune and Grand Bank?

MR. JANES: No.

MR. FAHEY: I contend the Government should have looked into the situation before spending the money. If private enterprise is prepared to go ahead they should be encouraged to do so, that is my opinion and I am entitled to my opinion. That is all on the fishery.

I would like to draw attention to the House being told about a man who had no butter to put on his loaf, and in a couple of years he was in bad shape because of berri-berri or malnutrition and it was acted out in such a way, I am not saying it was not true, but it was acted out in such a way, I thought Lionel Barrymore from Hollywood was in the Chamber, acted in such a way showing how poor George used to drag his leg; that may be true but we were not told about prices today and they may or may not affect our health a year or eighteen months from now. Another thing we are never told in this House is how much money goes to Ottawa. We hear over the radio and through the Department of Welfare, I believe, and I believe again it costs the Province a penny or two to do so, how much money comes in for social security in its various forms. We are told through the local press how much money comes in from Ottawa but never yet have I seen in print or heard over the radio, how much money goes from this Province into Ottawa by way of Federal Taxation. Just as an illustration to bring out this point: suppose we paid into Ottawa for Federal Taxation $20,000,000 a year and all this money came back we only get back $18,000,000, then I contend we are short-changed by two million dollars. This is only an argument, but I would like some honourable member in a position to do so, or some commentator or newspaper men to give Newfoundland the facts as to how much is paid out to Federal Government and compare it with what is paid back by the Federal Government to Newfoundland. I contend the people are kept in the dark to that extent.

Now how can Newfoundland produce if we get into the position that we pay more into Ottawa than we get back? If we got to go to Ottawa, so to speak, with our hats in our hand for money, to borrow back perhaps the same money we are paying into Ottawa in Federal Taxation, in my opinion, we cannot produce, and that brings me to the point of such times when we speak about production on this side of the House and we are accused of having eighteenth century minds. I would like to remind the House that John Ruskin, the greatest English writer of the day, had an eighteenth century mind, and he said that the life of a country depended on its production, and consumption is the backbone of production. There is no use to produce where there is no consumption, and I say Newfoundland must produce and consume, and the wealth of Newfoundland will always be measured by what we can consume. The same thing applies to the farmer and fisherman. The wealth of Newfoundland is not measured by the money in the bank; the wealth is measured by the equipment we have in the boats and how much they can produce, and the same applies to the farmers; their wealth is not measured by $20,000 or $30,000 in the bank but by the amount of land, livestock and equipment and so on. So the wealth of a nation is measured by its capacity, as Ruskin said, of what they can produce and consume and that is how, in my opinion, Newfoundland must look forward. We may be accused of 18th century minds but that is what one great writer said at that time.

Now, in looking over the budget for this year, I do not see any estimate, it may be there but I do not see it, to take care of the white tail deer mentioned here only a year ago. I don't know if the Government overlooked this investment or not.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The two paper companies are undertaking to pay the cost of bringing the white tail deer into Newfoundland, and the Government, on the unanimous recommendation of the Woods Labour Board, consisting of various woods labour unions, and two great paper companies have agreed they should be brought in on a purely trial basis in a very limited number at the two paper companies' expense.

MR. FAHEY: Well, Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the explanation, and so, that is why nothing appears for it in the budget estimates.

Now I would like to utter a word of warning to the Government, whether they accept it or reject it, it is entirely up to the Government, but I would like to say this: Don't let us cripple the economy of our children and those to come after by getting mixed up in a fifty million dollar loan through private and public Corporations that may or may not succeed; if we do this, in my opinion, we will have to annex to some other Province, such as our weaker sisters or poorer sisters, whatever you might term them in the Maritimes. Our economic development depends on what we can produce and consume, and not on who gets a beer license or who gets a tourist license. Our economy in the end will depend solely on what we can produce and consume. Whether we got $14,000,000 or $41,000,000, the future depends on the output and the markets for such outputs in addition to such consumption.

Mr. Speaker, in closing I would like to make these few remarks. A year or so ago, each and every member here received a silver dollar from the Federal Government as a commemoration of Newfoundland's entry into Confederation; I feel that every honourable member appreciates this, but there is one thing that was overlooked by Ottawa, they should have sent us along a puncheon full of nickels to take care of the three percent taxation which you pay as you go along.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Speaker, I was not prepared to talk today but I will do the best I can under the circumstances.

First, Mr. Speaker, I would like to add my congratulations and best wishes to the former Minister of Finance, now Senator Quinton. I feel sure it is the opinion of this House that Senator Quinton is well worthy of the position which he now holds. He has been very active in the affairs of Newfoundland for many years, not only as far as Government activity is concerned, but he was also interested in our country when he was a soldier. Although some remarks were made in this House not very long ago in regard to Col. Drew, when it was said that Col. Drew visited some places in Conception Bay and shed crocodile tears over the grave of his grandmother, and also that he wore corsets; I would like to remind the honourable House that Col. Drew was also a soldier, and I respect every one of them.

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I remind the honourable member he is referring to a debate in the same session.

MR. FOGWILL: I also congratulate the Minister of Finance on the able manner in which he brought down the Budget. I do say, however, practically three or four weeks before he delivered his speech here, I predicted a surplus on current account. I did not, of course, realize that the Government could show such a surplus as they did for last year; no one could have predicted that.

Now, Mr. Speaker, it appears to me the policy of the present Government is one of deficit spending; the Government has over-spent in its first year in office and during the last year in office, and in their forecast for this year, they are spending approximately thirty millions of dollars more than what they are taking in, in revenue derived from taxation. Because, Mr. Speaker, we have to consider that the transitional grant of $6,000,000 for the first three years can not be counted as revenue. Revenue is from taxation only, and that is just what it means, a transitional grant, and we shall have to make up for that as we go along in future years after this present year. Now the Government has been very fortunate and lucky in this period of the Island's history to have had such an amount of money on hand as we had in the surplus account. The Finance Minister pointed out, Mr. Speaker, that there was to be no increase in taxation this year. If we may be permitted, Sir, to make reference to Federal Taxation I would like to point out there is quite a large increase in Federal general taxation itself, it has increased from 6% to 15%, and under this heading alone the Federal Government hopes to take in $600,000,000 in respect to general taxation for this present year, $145,000,000 I think is forecast for the increased total and they expect to get $600,000,000. That is quite a lot of money, and it will, Mr. Speaker, bring upon the people of Newfoundland like the rest of Canada, a greater burden. Now I am opposed entirely to any indirect sales tax. It can be compared only to our customs duties of the past where wholesalers profit and retailers profit was built upon the cost of goods plus taxes. Now in Ottawa in the Federal Hansard, some member pointed out the wholesalers' profit would be about 20%, and retailers' profit 30% or 35%, I feel this should be more conservative. On the $600,000,000 which the Federal Government expects to collect this year in indirect sales tax when we apply 20% wholesalers' profit, the profit between the time the goods are manufactured, and including the cost of transportation and other things in the picture, and 35% profit on top of that and more transportation, you will find the 15% taxes on this basis, the Canadian people will pay $300,000,000 more this year for goods than they should. If applied on the retail level, they would save $400,000,000 and Abbott would only have to apply a 6½% tax or 7%, which would give him additional money which he could use for the purpose of collecting.

Now, how does that affect Newfoundland? How much do we pay and what is the difference here in increased taxation? $80,000,000 worth of goods, which, in my opinion, is the amount of taxable goods coming under the sales tax, and the transportation charge, wholesalers' and retailers' profit out of which we will pay in respect of $80,000,000 about $4,000,000 more than we should pay for the same amount.

It was some time ago in this very Chamber in 1948 I made a statement, wherein I claimed that under the present status, which we now enjoy, that in regard to taxation the Federal Government would collect from Newfoundland approximately $13,000,000 in respect to income taxes and succession taxes and death duties. I do know the amount collected in that respect by the Federal Government, up to the end of March 1951, was just over $11,000,000 and I do know this there were hundreds and thousands of people who delayed filling income tax returns and hundreds and thousands of them continue to pay up to the Federal Government, and will in the months to come, amounts owing to the Federal Government in respect to income tax. I claim now, under the heading of income tax, they will collect for the past year not less than $35,000,000 from Newfoundland. It is very little trouble for any member to find out if that is the approximate amount or not. I told certain gentlemen in this same Chamber, three years ago, and it is on the record.

Now I do know, Sir, that this Government is not a sit-down-on-its-back-side-and-do-nothing government, as has been pointed out in respect to governments of the past. I know they are working hard, and perhaps, when they went into office, they did not realize what a difficult job they had to do, now that we are a Province of Canada. I will go further than that, Sir, and say that many members in this House are doing quite a lot, but I want to say this, too, that the plans for the extension of the public services were laid down by the Commission of Government before they came into office. There was a five years' plan by which the Commission of Government did hope they would be able to extend the public services of the Island and bring about a better way of living for the people. They did lay down the program for extending the schools, building roads, and many other things. Of course, in the same breath of the many members, talking about welfare services in respect of family allowances, not one of them in this House was responsible for bringing in family allowances to Newfoundland, that was done by the people entering confederation with Canada. But in the Welfare Department now, the biggest spending department of the Government, I will say they have laid down a policy of aiding and assisting those people unable to work and to do anything for themselves. In respect to dependents' allowance and mothers' allowances, I will say they have done a good job. The Health Department has built hospitals and sanatoriums and cottage hospitals, but all that was laid down in a plan before they came into office. The department was geared for that purpose and the civil servants in the departments concerned with health and welfare services just carried out the work because of the fact that this Government had the money.

Highroads: The principle of high-road building was laid down in 1924; it is not new and all the Governments did since that date was to build highroads in Newfoundland. In fact we are building highroads in Newfoundland, not because of any particular activity on the part of the present Government, they are only carrying on the work laid down before. The same thing applies to every other department.

MR. SMALLWOOD: To labour?

MR. FOGWILL: I will concede to my honourable friend the Minister of Labour that his Department today is doing a very good job, and I am happy to say today a gentleman, on my way up here, told me the dispute between the bakery workers and employers has been settled.

If the present Government enters into an agreement with the Federal Government, whereby they can impose an indirect turnover tax, they call it that, which added to the general sales tax, becomes 15%, and then adding the 3% turnover tax which no doubt will be a 4% on every piece or particle of taxable goods consumed here in Newfoundland, we would be paying a 19% taxation. 19% taxation on every piece or parcel of taxable goods which we will use.

Mr. Speaker, in respect to liquor traffic, I know that during the past year the Government sold 15% less bottles of liquor than in the previous year. They sold 850,000 bottles during the past year, or a decrease of 97,000 bottles.

MR. CASHIN: A lot of us have gone on the waggon.

MR. FOGWILL: At the same time, Mr. Speaker, while they sold 10% less liquor the sales were a couple of million dollars more than the previous year, so where did they get their profits? They must get their profits from the tavern operators, which now I believe amount to 72 and also from the fact they probably took from the Board of Liquor Control all the available money which could be turned into revenue and, no doubt, also, the percentage of water has been increased,

MR. SMALLWOOD: The profits—

MR. FOGWILL: Now they bought a motor van at a cost of $1,800 which probably they wanted to haul the liquor to various places where it is consumed.

Now, last year, Mr. Speaker, the fisheries of this country in this modern age reached a new low. I remember, last spring, a proposition was made to the fishermen to go fishing and the promise was made that everything would be all right. In the fall they would be able to sell their fish at a reasonable profit and maintain their families during the winter months. That did not take place, and exactly the same thing is happening this year. What are the fishermen going to do? I don't know if they are hauling their boats up on the beach as suggested or if they are going fishing. But I do know this at least: there is a transitional period or change in the salt cod to fresh fish and the change is not such yet that it is going to be of any great aid to the fishermen for this year, and they need a great deal of aid now at the present time. In respect to fisheries, I would say that in assisting the fishermen, the program of assistance was laid down by the Commission of Government, and not by the present Government. They built in the Island many bait depots, and paid for them and assisted the fisheries. Since the present Government has been in power I cannot see myself any great activity at all on the part of the Provincial Department of Fisheries. There was, Mr. Speaker, some assistance given to a fish meal plant in St. John's last year which cost $9,000 but that was not a great amount compared to another expenditure. I would like to quote from the "Evening Telegram," October 21, 1950: An article headed "Sole Rights to Meal Process," "Premier J. R. Smallwood said on his return to St. John's yesterday from a visit to American cities, the experiment established in St. John's some months ago is proving highly successful and everything points to the process being entirely satisfactory. He said any reports to the contrary were entirely without foundation, in fact, and that the Government is presently negotiating to secure the sole rights of the process for Newfoundland so that it may be introduced into hundreds of fishing settlements along the Island coast."

I put a question on that, No. 74, and the honourable Minister of Fisheries in reply said: "The Government of Newfoundland did not negotiate for sole rights for the process of fish meal." Now all questions here related to this fish meal process, which I understood was taking place in Newfoundland's backyard.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Would my honourable friend allow me to give him a bit of information?

MR. FOGWILL: No, Sir, I am not going to be interrupted.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Are you afraid of the truth?

MR. FOGWILL: I wonder what it is.

MR. SMALLWOOD: You won't hear it.

MR. FOGWILL: Now, Mr. Speaker, we have the boat the "Matthew Second" which cost thousands of dollars, built at Clarenville and up to the present time this boat has not proved successful. In answer to another question: What was the catch for 1950, Inshore, Labrador and Bank? The answer given that was that the information sought ought to be obtained from the Federal Department of Fisheries and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. That is a poor way to operate in Newfoundland, which is primarily a fishing country, and I say that the Provincial Division of Fisheries should know every day throughout the week and have at hand all the time and be able to answer in the House when any member asks, anything respecting the total amount of fish on hand and sold. The Caraqueet dragger, Mr. Speaker, is another failure. It was used to carry out certain operations in certain parts of the Island and then arrangements were made to charter it to Hollet & Sons for a period of a year.

I would like to read another short article quoted in part from the "Evening Telegram" of Nov. 20, 1950: "Smallwood Speaks at Launching of Boat at Clarendville"—"If experimental fishing which will be conducted proves up to expectations, others will be built on assembly line basis to lower cost, and the Government will make available to fishermen, through the recently set-up fisheries loan board..."

To me, Mr. Speaker, this is absolutely trash and nonsense. If this boat cost $40,000 and they are going to put up big boats on an assembly line basis, if the Government built one hundred of that type it would cost the Government $40,000,000.

There is one other thing, and that is the Icelandic venture which was also a failure. The Government may boast of all this they did during the past two years, but I say they just carried on the normal work of the Departments, which each honourable Minister happened to head, which was plainly laid down in those departments, and were barely put into effect by the Government after the Government came into power. Then I say they have not done any great job particularly when we realize that they had such a huge amount of money as the surplus to play around with. They built a cement mill and a gypsum plant and a birch plant. I am not going to say anything at all about these three projects until I know more about them, then I will probably say something.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we had a gentleman here in Newfoundland, I understand his name was Steiger, who painted some pictures, and I would say he was rather lavish perhaps in colour, but, today, he is in eclipse because the colours painted by the honourable Minister of Finance when he brought down the budget last week were painted in such glowing and rosy colours I would say no wonder Mr. Steiger went away to finish his painting on the Mainland. He was ashamed to stay any longer here to hear such wonderful and glowing accounts of the financial and economic picture of this Island.

MR. JOHN G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I move the adjournment of the debate, Mr. Speaker.

MR. JANES: I second the motion, Mr. Speaker.

On motion the third reading of a Bill "An Act to Amend the St. John's Housing Corporation Act, 1944" was deferred.

On motion the third reading of Bill "An Act to Amend the Slum Clearance Act, 1950" was deferred.

Committee of a Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting the Safety of Workmen in Mines."

Section 1 through to 171 read and passed.

HON. DR. H. L. POTTLE (Minister of Public Welfare): I wonder if it would be satisfactory to the Committee to have the number of the clauses called with sufficient time for reading. They have been proof read in some detail, and I have an adviser here.

MR. HIGGINS: I wonder if we could delay that question until Mr. Fogwill comes back?

Section 172 through to 183 read and passed.

MR. HIGGINS: I think we should revert back to 113, that is the one.

DR. POTTLE: Would the Committee consider an amendment to clause 113 and let our amendment read as Sub-clause 4? "Magazine lamps shall be installed in rigid fixtures and enclosed on vapour tight globes protected with metal guards and lamps shall be controlled by . . ."

MR. FOGWILL: That is agreeable.

Clause 113 passed as amended.

DR. POTTLE: I wonder if the Committee would now consider naming by clauses and giving enough time to read? Beginning with number 147?

Motion carried.

Section 147 through to 256 read and passed.

MR. FAHEY: I believe the honourable Minister of Supply must have compiled that clause.

Section 257 through to 269 read and passed.

MR. FAHEY: If I remember correctly, the honourable Minister of Public Works raised a point on Section 270. I think the Committee at that time thought it was unnecessary to have number 270 in there, or that the penalty should be heavier, which it was—I just forget, but we were discussing it.

HON. E. S. SPENCER (Minister of Public Works): I do not know exactly. I was discussing another matter when I was referred to this by the honourable member for Bell Island-Harbour Main. But when we discussed it my belief was that the penalty was a joke and should be either washed out, torn up or put in a clause with some teeth in it.

DR. POTTLE: I do not think there is any point of principle in-involved. I think that is the proper penalty. I think the committee should rise and report progress and this clause should be taken up for proper drafting to be heard tomorrow. The clause we are considering now was not in the original code from which the whole Bill is taken, this was inserted locally. I do not think they interfere with the principle of the Bill, and a brief conversation between our adviser and the Attorney General would straighten out the whole matter.

The Committee rose and reported having considered the matter to it referred, and having made some progress, and asked leave to sit again on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on a Bill "An Act Further to Extend the Operations of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1945, and of the Shipbuilding (Bounties) Amendment Act, 1947."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendments.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on a Bill "An Act to Amend the Co-operative Development Loan Act, 1949."

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, this Act came into effect in 1949, that is a long way back. What about the business that has been transacted from December 1949, to the present date?

MR. KEOUGH: This provision is to authorize this procedure in the future but that has been carried out in the past.

MR. FAHEY: In other words, the Department of the Auditor General has conformed with the Act.

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Amend the Local Government Act, 1949."

HON. P. S. FORSEY (Minister of Supply): I do not know if it would be agreeable to read this by sections.

MR. FOGWILL: Read it all.

Section 1 read and carried.

Section 2 read and carried.

MR. FOGWILL: Mr. Chairman, in 2 (3) the division of municipalities in two or more—would the honourable Minister explain that?

MR. FORSEY: It does not affect the city of St. John's but in towns such as Burin there are two or more communities, and at the present time it is possible for a community not to be represented on the Council, or have the representatives elected from Burin North, and have the other two communities not represented at all. This provides each section is to have at least one representative.

MR. FOGWILL: Does that same clause apply to all communities outside St. John's?

MR. FORSEY: Yes, if they have smaller communities in with them.

MR. HIGGINS: Does that apply to Corner Brook?

MR. FORSEY: Yes.

MR. FOGWILL: Could it not apply in St. John's as well?

MR. FORSEY: No, the definition of municipalities excepts St. John's.

MR. FAHEY: That is to say when they are divided up into sections or areas each one is responsible for its own ward, so to speak.

MR. FORSEY: That is right.

Section 2 passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

Section 7 read and passed.

Section 8 read and passed.

Section 9 read and passed.

Section 10 read and passed.

Section 11 read and passed.

MR. FAHEY: What is Section 11?

MR. FORSEY: In the original Act it said the Chairman of the Council would be appointed by the Lieutenant Governor in Council; that is repealed and the Chairman is to be elected by the members of the Council after their election. Section 12 deals with conditions under which a councillor must vacate office.

Section 11 passed.

Section 12 read and passed.

MR. FORSEY: Mr. Chairman, I was confusing this clause 12 with section 12 and section 8 of another Bill here, providing for elections in municipalities; under the old Act there were election regulations provided for each municipality, now the general Act provides for all elections in all municipalities.

MR. FAHEY: Then this Act would take care of every one rather than a special Act for each particular settlement.

MR. FORSEY: That is right.

Section 13 read and passed.

Section 14 read and passed.

MR. FAHEY: In section 14 (c)—if absent for more than twelve calendar months at one time. That would be all right in my opinion, providing he moved to some other Province, but let us consider the case of a member of a municipality happening to be sick or in hospital for twelve months or 18 months, is there any reason why he should vacate his seat? His family may be still residents of that same locality. I think if he had permission, or if leave of absence had been given, it would be all right, but it seems to be laid down a little too hard in the case of sickness or otherwise.

MR. FORSEY: Well, this particular clause is the law at present. There are only eight councillors on each, usually some are away on business during certain months of the year, and if one were away permanently for twelve months, or if two men were away the business of the council would not be carried on at all.

MR. FAHEY: I think that should be up to the council to take into consideration and to grant leave in case a councillor is sick. It should not be necessary to vacate his seat, we should not make a hard and fast rule in the Act saying any time a member is absent for twelve months or more, the council of that particular area should be able to decide rather than the Act.

MR. FORSEY: I have no particular objection, but the local municipalities are under the guidance of the Government, so to speak, and in lots of areas the councillors go away and leave the work in the hands of two or three, and if they are away for twelve months they are not in touch with the community and are holding a seat that could be occupied by someone else who could render a better service to the community.

MR. FAHEY: I agree, but should we not leave that to the particular council elected in that area to decide rather than bringing it in as a law? I am just drawing it to the Committee's attention.

MR. FORSEY: I do not think it is very necessary.

Section 14 read and passed.

Section 15 read and passed.

Section 16 read and passed.

Section 17 read and passed.

Section 18 read.

MR. FOGWILL: Will the honourable Minister explain?

MR. FORSEY: That is a service fee. All municipalities impose a service fee, some $3 and as high as $5. It is paid by everyone over 21 and by every female over 21 who has an income of $600. The old Act said $400.

MR. HIGGINS: That is a poll tax?

DR. POTTLE: With regard to sub-paragraph (iii): "All females of the age of twenty-one years or more residing or employed in the Municipality for three months or more in the financial year who have an income from any source whatsoever of six hundred dollars or more a year, but any person who had paid any tax in the same fiscal year, under the provisions of Section 51, is not liable for the municipal service fee for that year."

What is the difference between fiscal year and financial year there, why are two different words used?

MR. FORSEY: They could be different.

DR. POTTLE: Is it the intention to have them different there?

MR. FORSEY: The financial year could end in January and the fiscal year in March, and it could have to be paid in the beginning of the fiscal year.

Section 18 passed.

Section 19 read and passed.

Section 20 read and passed.

Section 21 read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Respecting Elections in Municipalities."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

Section 3 read and passed.

Section 4 read and passed.

Section 5 read and passed.

Section 6 read and passed.

Section 7 read and passed.

Section 8 read and passed.

Section 9 read and passed.

Section 10 read and passed.

Section 11 read and passed.

Section 12 read and passed.

Section 13 read and passed.

MR. FAHEY: It says a British subject 21 years—in case of a person other than a British subject paying municipal taxes, if he is paying taxes is he qualified to vote?

MR. FORSEY: If they are not qualified to vote they would not be paying taxes.

MR. FOGWILL: I am concerned with the word "British Subject." Persons come in and live and pay taxes under that clause.

MR. FORSEY: In that case they are not liable for taxation.

MR. VARDY: St. John's is one of the outstanding examples, where we had Chinese. Prior to Confederation they were not citizens but always voted in municipal elections.

MR. HIGGINS: Under the Wild Life Act a person in the country for six months is considered a resident.

MR. FOGWILL: You would think that persons, other than British subjects, residing in a municipality and paying taxes would be allowed to vote.

MR. HIGGINS: I think we will have to look that up.

MR. VARDY: Could we ask the Attorney General?

MR. HIGGINS: Supposing for instance down on the Labrador we have a town half Canadian and half American. If they are 50% of the population, do they pay 50% of the taxation? What happens in such communities, do they have a vote?

MR. VARDY: Property owners always have a vote.

MR. FORSEY: It would mean, say American citizens were living in a community, they would enjoy the services but have no interest whatsoever in the community and why allow them to do so.

MR. HIGGINS: Say a certain number of Jews from Russia or Siberia settled here, suppose they were not naturalized citizens or British Subjects, would they have a vote?

MR. FOGWILL: This section deals with a non-British Subject who is paying taxes.

MR. FORSEY: Just for services rendered by the community.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think, Mr. Chairman, I should begin by confessing I just do not know whether anywhere in Canada or any British country or Dominion or Colony, anyone is permitted to vote on anything other than a British Subject or Canadian citizen as the case may be. It seems to me to be a pretty daring thing for us to introduce that principle and it seems to me that before adopting that clause, we might take steps to find out from the Secretary of State for External Affairs what the position is generally in Canadian Municipalities and further in British Municipalities. We might wake up to find ourselves quite famous for introducing an entirely new principle in municipal voting in Newfoundland. My suggestion is that this clause might be allowed to stand until we send a telegram and we may have an answer back by tomorrow.

HON. JAMES J. SPRATT (Minister of Provincial Affairs): At the present time I am speaking from experience; I am only making a suggestion, you asked to delay until tomorrow for information, we have it already; they are supposed to pay taxation to the municipality. It does not enter into consideration if they are British subjects. Under conditions laid down under the municipal act, we are only dealing with municipal tax payers not over-all governments. It is not necessary to have the qualification they should have to govern a country if they should be nationals, then alright.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It was said by the junior member for St. John's East that the Chinese people voted in the municipal elections before being British Subjects or Canadian citizens and after Confederation. That may well be true, and I do not doubt for a moment what the honourable gentleman said, but might they not have been British Subjects? Chinese people were not naturalized citizens or British Subjects, I understand, before Confederation and the fact that they voted in the municipal elections in St. John's is surely no evidence whatsoever that non-British Subjects may vote. Again I confess I do not know. It may be quite common for non-British Subjects to vote in municipal elections, on the other hand it may not be, and there is no harm done in allowing it to stand until tomorrow.

MR. HIGGINS: We recommended that ten minutes ago.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It sounds very sensible to me.

MR. FORSEY: If the theory is accepted that if you pay taxes you vote, do you not have to accept the common rule that if you do not pay taxes you do not vote?

MR. FAHEY: If this provision is in force in several rural areas, control of taxation is taken out of the hands of Newfoundland and passed over to foreigners.

HON. LESLIE R. CURTIS (Attorney General): I think we are beating around the bush about nothing; under this section a man must be (a) and (b) and (c) and (d) all joined by "and."

MR. HIGGINS: Not Chinese, that says British subjects, and there were 20 years when they could not become naturalized British subjects.

MR. SMALLWOOD: After the Commission of Government it ceased.

MR. FAHEY: Why now? But if as you say they could be naturalized twenty years ago, they were all automatically residents and citizens of Newfoundland.

MR. CURTIS: Yes, but you must remember many of those I imagine are probably dead or have gone back. During recent years none have been naturalized.

MR. FAHEY: I understand some of them have been in the country for twenty and twenty-five years, according to the papers.

MR. SMALLWOOD: They might well be so and not be naturalized.

MR. FOGWILL: I am not opposing the clause in any way but it seems a little strange. I don't care but would like a little more information.

Section 13 stands.

Section 14 through to Section 28 read and passed. Section 29 read.

DR. POTTLE: Under clause 29 I would like to raise the point regarding penalty. It is rigid, it must be $100 for each offense and must be imprisonment for three months, neither more nor less.

MR. CURTIS: I think that ought to be more elastic.

MR. HIGGINS: Suppose a voter goes into a booth and stays a half an hour, what is to get him out? Is there anything in the Act to get him out? Say there is a crowd there before five and a voter goes in and spends a quarter of an hour, would he be considered a nuisance, I wonder.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Those booths are not very entertaining.

MR. HIGGINS: There is only one man permitted in the booth room at one time.

MR. SMALLWOOD: That term is very important, in fact in the last Federal Election in Newfoundland a speaker at one place told the voters "when you find yourself alone in the ballot box with your conscience," he meant booth.

Section 29 passed. Sections 30 through to 103 read and passed.

Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

The House recessed until 8 o'clock.

NIGHT SESSION

On motion the Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act Relating to Wild Life" was deferred.

Committee of the Whole on Bill "An Act to Provide for the Acquisition of Lands for the Purpose of National Parks and for the Transfer to the Governor General in Council of Lands Acquired for Such Purpose."

Section 1 read and passed.

Section 2 read and passed.

MR. FAHEY: I am not quite clear on that. The Minister of Natural Resources has to do with National Parks; I agree with that, but where does the Minister of Public Works come in on acquiring the land? Suppose it was owned by private enterprise, the Minister of Public Works then attaches or assesses the land or otherwise. Is that what it means? In other words the Minister of Public Works may expropriate land from private enterprise if Natural Resources thought it was needed for National Parks.

MR. CURTIS: The position is clear, it just gives the Minister of Natural Resources power to get land necessary for National Parks in the same manner as the Minister of Public Works acquires it if he wanted it for Public Works. So the Minister of Natural Resources, by that Act, is given the same power of appropriation of land for National Parks as the Minister of Public Works has when he needs to acquire land for Public Works, that is all.

MR. FAHEY: I appreciate the explanation made by the Attorney General. Which Minister is to expropriate the land?

MR. CURTIS: The Minister of Natural Resources.

MR. FAHEY: He is given the same power?

MR. HIGGINS: Was the recent Act passed to give the Department of Public Works the right to acquire land amended or passed in 1950, was it amended this year? I would say the Department of Public Works 1950 Act is amended by this Act.

MR. FAHEY: This is something similar to the Act we talked on last year, no arbitration, it is taken without any board of arbitration.

MR. CURTIS: No, arbitration is provided. If the Minister of Public Works takes over, we would have to arbitrate. It is the same thing with the Minister of Natural Resources.

MR. FAHEY: If my memory serves me right we passed a Bill to expropriate with no board of arbitration. I am open to correction, but did we not have a big argument last year over that same thing? We argued that there should be a board set up.

MR. SPENCER: Speaking from memory for the benefit of the honourable member and also in reply to the question raised by the honourable Leader of the Opposition. He is slightly in error when he says this year's amendment does not affect it, but in fact it does in this measure. Only last year we passed an Act empowering us to expropriate land but we are not permitted to take land for use until the expropriation is completed. Now in the amendment this year we are empowered within ten days after notice to enter thereon and take for public purposes. That is all the amendment amounted to this year. Now in reply to the honourable member for Harbour Main-Bell Island, the Department of Public Works did not at any time have the right to expropriate without arbitration. It gave the Minister of Public Works the right to expropriate land for public purposes and if in cases where the Department found it impossible to reach an agreement between the Department of Public Works and the owner of the property, in what we term an amicable settlement, he had power to appoint an arbitration board and the board's findings must be final. That is the actual position so that the honourable member is slightly in error. I think if you look up the Act you will find that is the actual position. We have power to expropriate but if we cannot reach an amicable agreement with the owner we refer to an arbitration board whose findings must be binding on both sides.

MR. FAHEY: Now I want to raise another point. Previous to the Act of last year, if a settlement could not be reached between the Public Works or highroads, and the individual owner, then a board of arbitration was set up, but if I recall clearly the Act stated last year that the Department would have the right to expropriate land regardless of setting up any board of arbitration and this Act now gives the same right to the Minister of Natural Resources for the purpose of setting up national parks. If they want to go out and the honourable Chairman for instance has a piece of land for farming they could expropriate and take it and the honourable member or the individual, whoever he may be, would not have a right to make any appeal to the board of arbitration or otherwise. I think the Act passed last year gave the Public Works Department the right to take lands. The old Act was authorized to set up boards, but last year as the result of the Act passed by this honourable House, the Department was given the right to expropriate land regardless of setting up arbitration.

MR. SPENCER: I would suggest that for the benefit of the honourable member —

MR. CURTIS: We have the Act here. He is really entirely wrong, there is no doubt about that. I can quote at this moment where we have a board working on expropriation of land. We never had the authority without resorting to an arbitration board.

DR. POTTLE: May I clarify the point. The Minister of Public Works is right. The transfer of the land may be taken care of by amicable agreement. There is no need of the board if it can be settled, but if it can't be settled there is one other way and that is by the Arbitration Board, and provision for the board under this condition is set down under the section of the Public Works which is statutory in clause 2.

MR. CURTIS: The position is in the first place if only one piece is expropriated there is a board of arbitration appointed: A chairman by the Minister, one member by the Minister and one member by the party affected.

MR. HIGGINS: The point raised was this: I remember now; the recent Act vested all lands taken by the Department of Public Works in the Department itself, but in this Act the Minister of Natural Resources is only acting as an agent of the Government, and the land does not become vested in the Department of Natural Resources but in the Government. Is that right?

MR. CURTIS: Yes, it becomes vested in the Government.

MR. HIGGINS: The Department of Natural Resources is only acting as an agent. Therefore under section 2 it is the Government who transfers the land to the Government of Canada.

MR. CURTIS: That is right.

DR. POTTLE: It is through one Government to another.

MR. HIGGINS: Under the Department of Public Works Act all land is vested in the Department of Public Works.

MR. FAHEY: I would like to ask the Minister of Public Works one more question. In setting up this Board to arbitrate the private property, the owner has the right to appoint his representative, the highroads appoints another representative, and the Government, which is the highroads, appoints the third so that the Government has two representatives on the board and the individual only one; is that true?

MR. SPENCER: That is pretty much correct.

MR. FAHEY: Which means, Board or not, the Government has the best of it.

DR. POTTLE: The point is, Sir, if I may say so, the board of assessors in the case of more than one piece of property—

MR. FAHEY: Now you say the Board of Assessors, not arbitration. That is different altogether.

Section 3 read and passed.

MR. FAHEY: Mr. Chairman, we have a certain section in Codroy or Humber District and someone has a lease on that property, say 30, 40 or 99 years ago and never developed it; it is time it is taken away to create a national park; I agree with that, but on the other hand to take away land that has been developed and it can be done through this board of assessors which is set up in such a way as it can be taken by the Department of Public Works for this purpose, and by the Department of Natural Resources for that purpose. The Government appoints two members and the individual only one, therefore it is two to one on the board of, not arbitration, but assessors.

MR. CURTIS: When we took the land at Argentinia the owner got no chance to elect anyone at all. They were appointed by the Commission of Government.

MR. FAHEY: I would like to have some of that money in my pocket. I believe the honourable Leader of the Opposition was on one of the Boards in Stephenville.

MR. CASHIN: In connection with that point they did not pay the money directly. They received it from Great Britain and according to the agreement the Americans wanted to pay and the Americans paid the British ten million and the British Government passed over less than two millions. They robbed the Newfoundland people out of eight millions.

MR. CURTIS: I have heard that for the first time.

MR. CASHIN: I have repeated that twenty thousand times, publicly, and over the air.

MR. CURTIS: I do not always listen Saturday nights. I did for some time, and then quit it.

MR. CASHIN: You tried to censor me once or twice.

MR. CURTIS: We had to.

The Committee rose and reported having passed the Bill without amendment.

Report received and adopted. Ordered to be read a third time on tomorrow.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Speaker, we might defer the remaining orders of the Day and go back to Committee of the Whole on Supply and attempt to consider more of the estimates.

Carried.

Committee of the Whole on Supply.

MR. FAHEY: Do you have to suspend the remaining orders before going back?

MR. SPEAKER: The remaining orders are left for the House to consider again today.

Department of Provincial Affairs:

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, we decided to let all of 404 stand over because of item 404 (4), Railway Pensions, additional information was desired by the Committee, and I do not know if the honourable the junior member for St. John's East has any additional information. I have not as yet, and until one of us has the necessary additional information we might let that item stand and go on to the next department which is that of Provincial Affairs.

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Chairman, before reverting to the vote for the Department of Provincial Affairs, I would like to point out some of the duties and responsibilities of the Department. The Department of Provincial Affairs is responsible for administration in connection with the following statutes: The St. John's Shops Act, The Exploits Valley Closing Hour Shop Act, and the Shop Acts of general communities outside of those two specific areas. The Newspaper and Books Act, the Standard Time Act, The Marine Disaster Act, The Permanent Marine Disaster Fund Act, The Solemnization of Marriage Act, The St. John's Corporation Housing Act, The Housing Association Act and certain sections of the Dog Act. The Department is responsible for the filing of Public Documents and the care of the archives of Newfoundland, the recording of grants and leases of land; and the planning and carrying out of various phases of the museum, at present in the course of re-establishment, is also a function of the Department. The Public Relations Officer and the Curator of the Museum are members of the staff of the Department which numbers ten officials or one less than the number before union with Canada. The Deputy Minister of the Department of Provincial Affairs is also Clerk of the Executive Council and in the latter capacity is responsible for recording the proceedings of the Executive Council and the custody of all documents relating thereto. This work is done in the Department and occupies the time of every member of the staff. On the Accounting side, the Department administers the vote for the Legislative Assembly, for the Lieutenant Governor's Establishment and for the Premier's Office. In all the Provinces of Canada the Department of Provincial Affairs is recognized as the official channel of the Community with the Government and sends a large volume of correspondence from official and other sources directed to the Minister or Department relating to a variety of subjects some of which can be dealt with directly in the Department while others must be referred to other departments for attention. The Department is also responsible for supplying information regarding the Province to outside associations, official and otherwise, and all publications look to the Department to keep this information accurate and up to date annually.

Now, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I have made those statements because of the fact primarily that the office of the Provincial Affairs (I am speaking personally now) is, I take it, looked upon as rather insignificant and in justice to myself I must say that since I assumed office I have not been one day out of the office and have not had a holiday. There are many thousands of communications coming from the Mainland, and some from the United States, which do not require the attention of the Government or the Cabinet, and can be answered personally by me as they are not legal or documentary information or something that would require an opinion from a lawyer or the Cabinet. These are, briefly, all the interests that my position will give me, and I find I can find plenty to do and I will say in all sincerity that the Department of Provincial Affairs is just another department of the Government, and just as important. I don't know, but when we look at the technicalities it is the most important department in the Government Services today, because, after all, all the documents coming from his Excellency the Governor are not legal until they have received my signature as Minister of Provincial Affairs. If a person wants power to marry tomorrow, he must come to me and get my signature.

MR. FAHEY: What about divorce?

MR. SMALLWOOD: He has apparently not been called upon to divorce anybody.

MR. SPRATT: The work of the Accountant in the department presently may be cited as follows:

1. To see that all vouchers are prepared for payment, have been signed by the proper authority and that the goods have been received.

2. To prepare vouchers for transmission to the Department of Finance for payment.

3. Record in the vote ledger the record of payments as made by the Finance Department.

4. Verification of accounts with the Department of Finance under sub-heads presented by the Department of Finance.

5. Records of attendance on duty and keeping account of all leave, sick leave and annual leave. Records of revenue received in the Department. I have some revenue in my pocket now.

MR. CASHIN: You are not getting out of here tonight with it.

MR. SPRATT: I will look after it and if I don't I suppose I will have to replace it.

Control of loan made to the St. John's Housing Corporation and other Housing Associations, recording interest and processing vouchers under the following sub-heads: Legislative Assembly, Lieutenant Governor's Establishment, Department of Provincial Affairs and the St. John's Housing Corporation.

We are now awaiting designs for the lay out of the interior of the museum and we expect to be in a position to consider these within the next few days. The exhibits of the old museum which are considered to be of sufficient interest to transfer will be fumigated before being moved. Most of these are presently in the building at the San. The famous Indian skeleton and other Beothic relics, together with some other collections of educational value, are in the custody of the Memorial University where some are being used for instruction purposes. Such items as were destroyed by fire at Bay Bulls are easily replaced. At the suggestion of the Premier who is taking a keen interest in the restoration of our museum, some of our leading industries have undertaken to present free of charge models of their respective plants. Bowaters has generously presented the museum with a collection of samples of Newfoundland wood suitably cut for exhibition purposes with descriptions of the various species. Paintings of the historical events of the History of Newfoundland will be made and the main industries of the Province illustrated by means of exhibits and diagrams, and it will take some months before all this can be complete, but present indications are that everything will be in readiness for the reorganization some time late in the coming autumn.

I must say I was moved to do this on my own behalf because I have been subject to much indignity, and I am now pursuing a literary walk of life. Before I came into this Government, naturally a great many people depreciated my capacity to conduct this department intelligently, and I was awaiting an opportunity for someone to get under my skin, and I must say you have been very gracious to me and even my friends on the opposite side of the House have treated me very friendly in my first attempt here last year and were certainly kind and civil to me, and I appreciate it very much; but I can say again on my own behalf that if at any time any person, young or old, male or female, came to me for information which it was in my capacity to give, I was only too pleased and willing to get out of bed and go down and open the office if necessary.

Department of Provincial Affairs:

501—Minister's Office, Total $10,100.

502—General Office.

MR. HIGGINS: I notice here under salaries an account in 1950, but there is no account now. What happened that account? In 502 may we have an explanation there, Sir?

MR. SPRATT: The accountancy was taken away, as a matter of fact we are now organizing and the accountant is not Administrative Office now doing accountancy and other work as well. That is the explanation, Sir.

MR. FAHEY: Under 502, page 21, I would like to ask the Minister why the omissions?

MR. SPRATT: There were some items cut out there, travelling and the office.

503, Public Relations:

MR. CASHIN: Has anyone seen a copy of that thing under 03.

MR. SPRATT: I would like to point out that copies were cut down 50% this year, or practically that, and these papers go all over Canada from East to West and to the United States and the British Colonies and England.

MR. CASHIN: What is in them?

MR. SPRATT: The Government news and Bills passed and things of importance; and I might say now the paper is printed by the Daily News; you will be surprised to hear that.

MR. FAHEY: I am not a bit surprised to hear that.

MR. SMALLWOOD: A few more misleading headlines and it may not be published there much longer.

MR. FAHEY: Under that heading, Mr. Chairman, the Honourable Minister gives us an outline of the Government Bulletin. Last year it was $13,800 and this year $12,840. That is a drop of $80 which is quite a saving in the Government Department.

MR. SMALLWOOD: My honourable friend should know that middle column showing the figure for last year is not the actual, the third column is actual for the year shown.

MR. FAHEY: I would like the honourable Minister to explain the benefit the Province, the fishermen, the farmer, and those in industries get from the Government Bulletin which is costing in the vicinity of $13,000 a year.

MR. SPRATT: Well any more than to make people on the outside of Newfoundland realize that we have certain developments here in our country of which they have never heard before, of which they did not have any knowledge and it may be the means of encouraging people to come down. I don't know any more than that. You may take up a paper and read something you never read before and naturally people take up a book and learn about a country, the climate, the domestic way, and their occupations etc.

MR. SMALLWOOD: May I say something on that?

MR. FAHEY: May I say I appreciate very much the honourable Minister's explanation in so far as this $14,000 goes. He explains it is now done for the benefit of foreign trade but not for the benefit of the fishermen and the farmers or those working in industrial areas.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, the fact is that some forty thousand copies of this Government Bulletin are published every month and the copies go, as my honourable friend the Minister of Provincial Affairs explained, to the Mainland of Canada, to the United States and to other parts of the world and constitute in the aggregate possibly 10 thousand copies out of a total of forty thousand. The remaining copies are circulated throughout the Province of Newfoundland. So that many thousand of Newfoundland fishermen and farmers, loggers and others get the Government Bulletin quite regularly throughout the year. The Government Bulletin was established about half way through the life of the Commission of Government, I believe, in its present form. Before that it was published in another form and this Government is quite proud of the fact that we have resisted any temptation we might have felt to use the Government Bulletin as a medium of political propaganda. We have never done that, Mr. Chairman, Mr. McNeilly the Public Relations Officer of the Government and editor of this Government Bulletin did me the honour to call on me shortly after I took office, and even before I was elected to this office, before the General Election, to acquaint me with the fact that he was at the Government's disposal. I assured him that as he had been doing that work for a number of years, having been appointed by the Commission of Government, I had no intention of telling him how to conduct his work or what to insert in the Government Bulletin, but that he was to feel entirely free to carry on as he had been doing without any interference whatsoever. That has now been two years or rather more than two years ago. I have not seen Mr. McNeilly since that date except perhaps to pass him on the street or see him from a distance. I certainly never suggested to him that he insert anything in that Bulletin or that he keep anything out of it, and it has been left absolutely in Mr. McNeilly's hands. As a matter of fact I have not seen more than one or two issues of the Government Bulletin since I took office and I really do not know what is in it, but I understand in a general way that they print Bills, they publish news items about laws passed here in the House of Assembly and other items of important news cropping up in Newfoundland from time to time. It is published by the Daily News, as it had been before we took office and it is still being published by them. We have not interfered there either and we have no present disposition to do so. Now, I think, it is highly creditable to the Government that we should allow a printing firm and publishing firm opposed to the Government, supporters of my honourable friend's Party, on the other side, to continue publishing the Government Bulletin rather than take it from them and give it to some other printing firm to print. That is something for which I think this Government deserves and I think ought to get definite credit. It is further, I think, to the credit of the Government that we have not interfered in the least with the editor of the paper as to what was published or not published in it, or indeed anything else in connection with its publication.

Now, I will say this, however, that I have from time to time as the matter cropped up in my mind, which has not been very often, had the uneasy feeling that we were perhaps neglecting the Government Bulletin and wondering if we were making enough use of it as we ought to do, not politically but from the standpoint of the Government, and wondering if we ought not to do something about it. However we have not gotten around to it, and whether we will in our rather busy life, I rather doubt. Now, I speak for myself when I say I have only seen one or two issues of it. I take it my honourable friend the Minister of Provincial Affairs sees it more frequently. I don't know about any other members of the House or the members of the Cabinet, but some forty thousand Newfoundland families see it, and I would hesitate to deprive those forty thousand Newfoundland families of the opportunity to get that paper throughout the year whereby they can have an account of various things of importance going on through the year, throughout the Province. Mr. Chairman, I would be very pleased to obtain and hand along a copy to the honourable member for Harbour Main-Bell Island tomorrow, and personally I will admit that like any other of the Cabinet Ministers, I don't lose very much time making enquiries about the contents of the Government Bulletin.

MR. FAHEY: I appreciate the offer of the honourable Minister to give me a copy of the Government Bulletin but I would like to refer to one or two remarks: The Premier said that forty thousand copies were circulated in Newfoundland. I would like to ask the Minister of Provincial Affairs what way is it tabulated that we may feel sure that forty thousand families get a copy of this Bulletin, for I am not so sure they are any wiser after getting it, than they were before. I would like to ask the honourable Minister to give the honourable House assurance as to how the Department checks up as to how the forty thousand copies are distributed?

MR. SPRATT: Well, I think that question is rather unfair at the time. I am willing to get the information. I don't know the details of the distribution or anything like that, and I doubt if any Minister that ever held the office previous to me knew the burden of responsibility which rests on the Public Relations Officer. I am not going around to ask in detail what is his procedure and whether he sends five thousand here and twenty thousand there. And I don't want the public to think that by not answering a question like that I am not giving serious thought to the responsibility upon me. I am sorry but I will answer that question tomorrow, if I may.

MR. FAHEY: I don't want to drag out the debate any, but there are so many thousand and only 25 districts; the point I am trying to find out is the distribution to the districts throughout the Island, and the Minister thinks I am trying to antagonise him as it were. That is the last thought in my mind.

MR. SPRATT: I beg your pardon, I did not make such an inference.

MR. FAHEY: I take that back, but we were asked to vote $13,000, roughly, for the Government Bulletin, and I think this honourable House should know what is the benefit to the country and so on. I only asked those questions to get an explanation rather than to criticize. I just want an explanation to an amount we have to vote.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, I can say this, the list of families to whom the paper is sent is one drawn up while the Commission of Government were there. We have had nothing to do with deciding where the papers went but merely carried on. My understanding is that about half the papers printed are sent through the mail individually addressed and that the remaining number are sent through the schools and in the schools are taken by the children back to their own homes. Now where they are mailed or in what districts distributed are matters unknown to me. I have not the faintest notion, we are merely carrying on exactly the same system as the Commission of Government established and have taken no interest in the paper whatsoever.

MR. FAHEY: That is a fine explanation but we are told forty thousand copies are distributed and the honourable Minister for Provincial Affairs can not tell us in what way they are distributed or in what proportion. We just don't know, that is my point.

MR. JANES: I don't want to prolong this thing, Sir, but I can tell the House this: It is pretty widely circulated in Newfoundland and widely read even in the District of Harbour Main and Bell Island.

MR. FAHEY: They should read it in Fogo too.

MR. JANES: We do.

MR. FAHEY: I am surprised at them.

MR. SPRATT: Well, I have given all the information I can on that.

Carried.

MR. SPRATT: 504—Museum—details on page 67.

MR. FAHEY: They have an amount down there for $3,000. I am not quite sure what that is for, would the honourable Minister inform us?

MR. SPRATT: That is the Curator's salary.

MR. FAHEY: That is just one salary, the Curator's salary?

MR. SPRATT: That is the Curator. A man has to be well informed to act in that position.

MR. FAHEY: Why have you got a Curator, is the museum operating?

MR. SPRATT: We have men working on it now and men working making up reports of our industries and that sort of thing.

MR. COURAGE: The noise in the gallery has been brought to the attention of the Chair by honourable members. Spectators are to be seen and not heard.

MR. FAHEY: We have here employees in this current year and I understand no museum and the cost of living is $630.

MR. SPRATT: The cost of living is being paid at the present time. We have a curator working all the time and he was there before ever I took over.

MR. FAHEY: The honourable Minister just told me we have no museum and now he tells me he is paying a cost of living bonus to somebody in the museum.

MR. SPRATT: Listen to me, please. The museum existed before I had anything to do whatever with the Government. The Curator was hired by some Government, who I am not aware of, and I don't know why that Government took him on in the first instance. The Commission of Government, I believe, preserved a lot of curios and those were under his jurisdiction and are still under it and the future of the museum depends upon the Curator's knowledge and his historical knowledge. He is a man of a high order.

MR. FAHEY: He must be.

MR. SPRATT: I can stand on my feet and prove it, as far as that is concerned.

MR. FAHEY: He is getting $3,000 a year and $630 bonus for doing it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, I am exceedingly sorry to hear the note of contempt with which Mr. Leo English is spoken of by the honourable member for Bell Island. The Curator of the museum is a distinguished former teacher in Newfoundland who has rendered valuable public service throughout his life. As some of us know he has been for many years deeply interested in Newfoundland History and it was not a bit surprising that the Commission of Government hired Mr. English as Curator of the museum which was to be restored. Now, why hire a Curator for a museum not in existence? For a very good reason to get it into existence; that is what Mr. English was engaged for, to create a museum. First to gather together the objects that had formerly been in the museum before the Commission of Government desecrated Newfoundland by closing the museum and scattering highly valuable articles to the four winds. Some rotted, some burned when the Biological Station was destroyed by fire at Bay Bulls, some are stored in the cold storage building beside the Railway Station where they mildewed and finally were destroyed, some others were stored and still are, I believe, in the building known as the Newfoundland Memorial University, then known as the Memorial College, still others are in a safe place in the Sanatorium Building on Topsail Road.

Mr. English was engaged by the Commission of Government as Curator for the purpose of making a careful inventory of all the objects that he could find that formerly belonged to the museum and to get a description of these objects, and which of them were still in a condition to warrant their going into the new museum because unfortunately a lot of it was pure junk, not fit to have the space of the museum given to them. On the other hand, it is a matter of opinion, and while this Government is here it carries out our opinion on that matter. We are here to govern, and will, according to our opinion on that matter; we will govern and we will decide with the help of Mr. English what goes into that museum. So, Mr. Speaker, Mr. English has been engaged for the purpose and a finer individual of those available I don't know, and I am sorry such remarks should be passed here with regard to Mr. English. He gets $3,000, and in addition, like all Civil Servants, he gets the cost of living bonus, and is he to be jeered at for that? He does not get it all because Mr. English has a secretary and she gets paid and also gets a cost of living bonus of $360. Now, my honourable friend may have all the fun he likes to indulge in, all the smearing he likes, but let him not, I suggest, sneer at a man whose boots most of us here are not fit to wipe.

MR. FAHEY: Now I am not going to wipe any boots or shoes, I am going to express my opinion on this side when I think I am right. I asked the honourable Minister for an explanation of this salary. The honourable Minister in his own peculiar way gave the explanation. We did not ask for a full dress debate. If the honourable Premier is interested, I have my opinion and theories as well as he, whether boots or shoes, tan or black, it is all alike to me, but I contend three thousand dollars is being voted for a museum and a stenographer's salary and a cost of living bonus for a museum that does not exist.

It is nice to have a museum for our children and our children's children, but my argument is that we are paying for a museum that does not exist, and I asked the honourable Minister for an explanation and I did not call for a full dressed debate.

MR. SPENCER: You have wasted nearly an hour on it over there already. That is not too bad a job.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The honourable member for Harbour Main-Bell Island has the floor.

MR. FAHEY: Well, Mr. Chairman, I will continue to have the floor as long as the Chairman permits me to have it. If the honourable Minister for Public Works wants the floor he can have it after I am finished. It is about time we got down to business and we will come to that Department later, that is one place as well as many others where a lot of money is going out that should be kept there in order to make this country productive. There are people in this country who should be looked after by production rather than wasting in water falls after the snow melts, and you engineers know what I mean, all goes out in the first spring rain and after that nothing is left and we on this side have the right, we are living in this country and have the right to an explanation, and now that I am finished you may have the floor.

MR. SPRATT: I am not a bit disturbed or perturbed or anything else about the remarks. I appreciate the opinion of any member of the honourable Opposition and think they have a perfect right to criticize our estimates when there is really justification for so doing, but to criticize something with a view to making or creating publicity I don't think it is right wasting the time which could be put to better advantage, not as far as I am concerned, but if any gentleman can stand on his feet and show where I have erred in preparing these estimates, I am prepared to suffer. I am just as thoughtful of the welfare of this country as any honourable member of the Opposition. It was with very serious thought that this budget of the Department of Provincial Affairs was prepared for the Cabinet's consideration, and it was not thrown at me either, by the honourable the Premier and the members of the Cabinet; it was discussed carefully and every Cabinet Minister was asked to curtail if possible.

I respectfully submit I did my best and if I failed to measure up to those who differ in political opinion, I am sorry. I did my best with regard to the expenditure of public money, I gave it serious thought, Sir.

MR. HIGGINS: Mr. Chairman, I think this argument all started because my honourable colleague did not know the museum was started at all and quite a number of speeches have been made which were unnecessary and even hurtful too, and the man who is qualified as curator in my estimation should get a bigger salary than that put in here. A man in charge of the museum must know the history of the country and the various objects of historical interest, and a man collecting necessary things for a museum and seeing they are properly placed in a museum of a country, that man should be sufficiently qualified to be put on at least the same salary as a divisional head of a department who starts with $3,500. My idea, candidly, is to find fault with the salary, and if Mr. English has the qualifications which I feel he has, since he is a man of culture, a poet, and has written a history of this country, then he certainly is entitled to start on higher than $2,700 a year. I am very sorry to take part in this debate as in the heat of debate too many things were said that were unwarranted.

Carried:

MR. CASHIN: I notice now Housing is up again and I note here that you have added an administrator to the Housing Corporation. Would the honourable Minister mind telling us who he is and what his duties are?

MR. SPRATT: Mr. L. Crummey. What his duties are I do not know.

MR. SMALLWOOD: It has nothing to do with the Housing Corporation.

MR. CASHIN: I am glad it has nothing to do with the Housing Corporation. I have a few words to say on that tonight and I am not going to tolerate anybody saying to me, you are taking up too much time of the House. This thing is costing the Executive Council about five million dollars and the Government in its wisdom or otherwise sees fit to raise the rental particularly on the apartments in that location and you all know the type of houses and apartments in there, and any sensible man or woman will realize the Government will never recover more than 50% of the amount of money invested in that housing. There has been no investigation into that expenditure, and I will say it could not stand it. However it is there; the sinking fund and the public is supposed to pay the Government in the form of advanced rents of 40%, it is just as well to face facts. There is only one position I can see for the Government to take, and that is cut in two the value of these profits, forget the two and a half million dollars, and the Council will have to forget the other half; they won't get anything back, and base rentals and payment for houses on the reduced value you will place on it. In other words if you charge today, rental on an apartment of $100 and cut down the value of that apartment by 50%, then your rental charge should be not more than $50 where you were getting $70 a month on which you made money.

MR. SMALLWOOD: What about houses that have been sold?

MR. CASHIN: People who bought those houses will be wearing long white whiskers before they are paid for. They have 30 or 40 years to pay. A man goes in there and buys a house; he is going to have long white whiskers or will have passed out, ninety-nine chances out of a hundred, his life expectancy is not much more than 65 or 67. You are going to have to get down to business, cut down the value of these places, take your loss, you are going to lose anyhow. Don't laugh, you are only fooling yourself, you can't fool anyone else by thinking you are going to get back your money; why every year these places are losing and the Government has to find the interest. These houses are selling for $12,000 and $14,000 each. Why, Mr. Chairman, the individual or organization that attempts to ask $12,000 or $13,000 for one of these buildings in the Housing Corporation is crazy. Why, Mr. Chairman they are only thrown together and probably the repairs on them would be effected by this gypsum board manufactured in Corner Brook in a year or two. They are not properly built. Can any of the people in there tell me that their house is worth the money being paid for it? How much do they pay for it?

MR. VARDY: Not the value.

MR. CASHIN: Put them on the market and see what you get. It may be worth a hundred thousand to you.

MR. VARDY: There has not been a house sold by a private owner at a loss.

MR. CASHIN: That is due to the fact that housing facilities at the present time are very very short and they are unloading a lot of dirt. I say the houses built by the Housing Corporation are dirt. You can go up to the Poor House, as I put it, and bring the unfortunates down, and they will build as good houses as they have in there. They are not built, but thrown together and no one can tell me that these houses are properly built. They are improperly built. You may be an authority on housing and not an authority on building them, and there is only one good thing about them and that is the foundation. The rest of them are filthy and anyone who gets up here and tells me they are worth the money, should go in and see Dr. O'Brien. Then these apartments cost a million and a half dollars and I say that within five years these apartments will be falling down because of the upkeep on them, unless the Government is prepared to spend money, five or ten percent of the value each year, they are going to deteriorate. Still they ask a rental of $100 a month and come into this House, and most of these people are civil servants, making perhaps $3,000 a year, and they are expected to pay $100 a month rent. You are not serious, are you? You are not seriously asking the people to pay $100 a month for the like of that? To be honest with you, I would sooner get out if I had to, than pay $100 a month. I would rather go out and live on James Street. While I am on it, it is about time you took that place down. In the course of my work, I happened to go recently to visit some of those slums and I don't know what the Municipal Council and the Government have been doing in the last number of years with respect to housing. I honestly don't know how the people live in them. They are a disgrace and I would not give them five cents for their property, no, I would not give them one nickel. I was into three places yesterday on James Street and whoever owns them, absentee landlords or local—

MR. VARDY: They are not absentees.

MR. CASHIN: They are not, well then I am sorry—

MR. SMALLWOOD: Your friend whom you called the biggest hypocrite in Newfoundland.

MR. CASHIN: Well, then I am prepared to tear them down and give him nothing because the poor unfortunates who live in them, well I never saw anything like it in my life. This has been no later than yesterday and last night I visited one, and the lady who kept it deserves credit for the clean way she keeps this tumbled down shack and anyone who collects money for that sort of thing, talk about being a hypocrite. Well, look, Mr. Chairman, there is a clergyman here in the House tonight but if this House were closed tonight I would put my views in no uncertain language. Anyone who collects rent on dumps like these, I would be prepared to take out and shoot, he is not fit to live. God forgive me, he is not fit to live. There are other places on Hutchings Street, a lovely residential section in parts of it and talking about slums in this city—since I was a member 28 years ago the Council has done nothing about it. No one has done anything but a Housing Corporation—

MR. SPENCER: The honourable member will admit it was the first effort.

MR. CASHIN: The first effort was this Housing Corporation. That was their idea, elimination of the slums. Let us trace the history, and the honourable member for St. John's West was a member of the Municipal Council that gave them a million dollars to throw away and the Corporation are now trying to steal out of the pockets of people who can ill-afford to pay it.

MR. VARDY: The Council has not five cents invested in the Department.

MR. CASHIN: The Council put one million dollars in the Housing Corporation.

MR. VARDY: They have most of it back now.

MR. CASHIN: Yes, indirectly in taxation for which they gave no service.

MR. VARDY: In actual assets.

MR. CASHIN: Yes, but liquidate. Can you turn them into cold dollars and cents tomorrow? You certainly can't. Why the Council, as far as the Housing Corporation is concerned, is disgraced and taxes are being paid to them by people, directly or indirectly, and they have done nothing. Threw a bunch of sand and tar on the road, why there is only one street in there and that is Elizabeth Avenue, which cost nearly a million dollars to build, and the houses and apartments another four million with no place to walk on, and the Council was part and parcel of it at the time.

MR. SPRATT: I was a member.

MR. CASHIN: And the Council agreed to put in a million dollars to help build the place in there.

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Chairman, I would like to disabuse the honourable member and tell him that the Council did not vote that money to the Housing Corporation to be spent in the Housing Corporation, it was given for slum clearance. That is what it was given for, originally, but when they got it, the money was spent in there.

MR. CASHIN: In other words the Council has an action against the Housing Corporation for obtaining money under false pretenses. They took the money and spent it in another direction and you and your colleagues allowed them to do it, consequently you are just as guilty as they were. Now, I put it to the honourable Minister himself. Does he honestly think that he is justified in asking tenants in those apartments and potential owners of the Houses in the future, to pay the exorbitant rates now being asked? Honestly, forget about the Government being owed $5,000,000. Do you not think the proper thing is to cut the value of those houses and apartments, and if you are going to hold on to them charge rents accordingly?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Who would stand the loss?

MR. CASHIN: You are going to stand the loss eventually, you are going to lose more money. Here is the position: if you keep those at the present value, you will have to find the necessary money to keep them up. They need repairs of at least five per cent annually to keep them in condition, so you can put down 5% on five million dollars.

MR. VARDY: Are you not figuring a little incorrectly there? Surely you don't figure that the Government is going to repair the houses that have been sold?

MR. CASHIN: I put it down to $75,000 a year that you have to find to keep those places up, and on the other hand, the people who have bought those houses got to pay another five per cent to keep them up, and more, if they want to keep them up properly. They are only half built, you know that better than I do, and the honourable Minister for Provincial Affairs knows better than I do, well have you two people provided for those things? Mr. Chairman, it is dishonest for members to come into this House and say, I don't care if it is right or wrong, I am going to fleece these people an additional $40 a month when they know in their own hearts and souls they will never get their money back. I would be the first man in this House to say, sell them, if they could get four or five million dollars, but could you get two millions on the market, would any life insurance company advance money on them tomorrow? I know they won't. If they were asked to advance $900,000 to help to buy it, I am telling you the biggest life insurance company in Canada would not do it.

MR. FORSEY: It would be a poor business deal if they did. There is no Government that would countenance it anyhow.

MR. CASHIN: The Government is going to lose, judging from the way the apartments are falling down, and will fall in five years. Ask the honourable Minister of Provincial Affairs or the Minister of Public Works, we are only ordinary individuals, ask some contractor, don't let us say we know all about it.

MR. FORSEY: A practical man could assess the depreciation.

MR. CASHIN: There are only two practical men in the House as I see it, and I put it to them honestly, am I right or wrong when I say that the value should be cut in two and the rental comparatively, and the same applies to the houses as to the apartments? I have been in houses in there and the occupiers will have long white whiskers before some of them will ever pay for them. I have not asked a question on the number of people who are back in their payments. I would not do it but I know there are and simply because they can't afford it.

MR. SMALLWOOD: There are not many.

MR. CASHIN: They can't afford to keep them up at $400 a year and pay taxes and rent and a depreciation of $600 a year, and feed and raise their families. They can't do it on the average salary. It can't be done, not by these people in there; we all know that and I am not talking politics on it. I believe 75% of the people in the Housing are against me politically, but I want fair play, and I appeal to the Government and the Minister of Provincial Affairs and the Minister of Public Works and people who know something about it, to do something about the matter.

Carried.

MR. RUSSELL: There is a misprint I think on page 67. I think Housing should be 505.

Corrected—carried.

Total $43,200 Department of Provincial Affairs—carried.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, before you go on I notice the Minister is not present and before we move on to Education, I would like to revert to Provincial Affairs. We have the first case under the Department of Provincial Affairs: In a decision of the Cabinet recently the scale of salaries for the Deputy Ministers was raised and we have passed this Department without making the adjustment or acquainting the House of that decision and seeking confirmation of it. The details are on page 66 or on 67 at the top of the page: Deputy Ministers. That should read $4,500-200-6000 and that correction would note at what point in the scale the Deputy Minister would appear here. The Department of Finance works out the actual point on the scale at which he would be set. He is now at the top of the old scale and would get the increase next in line. I move that this change be made in the vote on top of page 21 and of course at the foot of the page as it would affect the grand total, and the same thing applies throughout the remainder of the estimates and in the Departments where there are Assistant Deputy Ministers. The scale is increased to bring them in line above the scale of Divisional Heads; they are presently below the scale of Divisional Heads so that they are paid less than men who take orders from them and we thought that an anomaly, and have therefore decided to increase these scales to be above that of Divisional Heads and in that we seek to have the House pass this. There is no such position in this Department, there are, in fact, Deputy Ministers in only four departments of the Government with Assistant Deputy Ministers. I move that correction be made in the Department of Provincial Affairs.

MR. HIGGINS: We have passed the total now.

MR. SMALLWOOD: The grand total is increased by $200.

MR. FOGWILL: Before we go on from page 67, I am sorry the honourable Minister is not here, the total number of employees is increased from 13 to 14; is that the number at present? Are all the positions filled?

MR. SMALLWOOD: Yes, they are, I understand.

Department of Education—Page 22:

MR. HEFFERTON: 601—01 no increase, and an increase of $15 in 601—02, additional expenditure.

Carried.

602, General Office—Deputy Minister increased, already given. All Superintendents are put on an equal basis. There are five. There are two additional clerks who have been needed there for some time.

603—Accounting Office shows a decrease which was brought about by taking out of the Accounting Office certain officials and transferring them to Central Accounting thus reducing the number from seven to four.

604—School Supplies: You will notice on page 23 the salaries have gone up considerably since last year to $19,900 this year; details on page 68. You will notice we have increased the number of clerks from five to nine. Although it is not really an increase we have extra assistants there, and they are kept on year in and out and the amount paid is tied up with school books and things but is not taken out and put down under salaries, so that it is really not an actual increase at all.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Mr. Chairman, this vote 604 for school supplies is a vote under which the provision and re-sale of school books fall, and I think that this Committee ought to take note of the very serious complaint that the parents of the Newfoundland school children are uttering and have been now for some years passed, in connection with the frequent changes in the school text-books. Now I have heard many parents with children of school age in Newfoundland complain most bitterly about the trend of recent years in education circles, the trend towards changing the school text-books very rapidly. Now, I hope that if there are present any representatives of the Press and Radio, but more especially the press, that have not already taken off, they will note what I am going to say, so that what I say will be carried all across Canada, so that note may be taken of it by the people concerned. The school books used in our Newfoundland schools are printed on the Mainland of Canada, through several firms in Canada who specialize in the printing and publishing of school books, and I would like them to know the Government of Newfoundland is thoroughly fed up with it, but not so thoroughly fed up as the parents of the children of school age, with the frequent changes made by those firms in school books they print and publish. It is little short of a racket. The people who engage in the printing of school books are in no essential degree different from the people who manufacture women's dresses or hats. The more frequently the styles change in women's dresses and hats, the more dresses and hats they sell, and the more they sell the more profit they make, and as they are engaged in business for profit and no other purpose, like most business men they change the style as frequently as possible, just as frequently as they can get away with. And so I say it is with the printers and vendors of school books, the more frequently they can change the style and texts, the more books they sell, and the more the cost to the unfortunate parent. Now the salesmen who travel for these book publishers are carefully chosen for their appearance and culture and their fine distinguished manners, carefully chosen to call on provincial school departments for the purpose of selling these new styles in school books, but they aren't any more than just salesmen. That is all they are; I don't know if the honourable members ever had a salesman for the Encyclopedia Britannica call upon them to try and hook them for a subscription to that famous publication but, once in the City of New York I responded to an advertisement in a help-wanted column of the New York Times, Sunday Edition, and received a letter making an appointment for me to call. I did so and found it was the office of distribution in that area for the Encyclopedia Britannica, and the sales manager gave me a long and very impressive talk about the kind of qualifications for men they wanted to sell the Encyclopedia Britannica. Now remember it was just a salesman's job, the same as a Fuller-Brush, a salesman's job just the same thing exactly, the same as a man going around selling aluminum from door to door, but he had to have his qualifications down to a fine art. The salesmen who were out taking orders for the Encyclopedia Britannica had to call on people of more than ordinary education and were required by that company to be distinguished looking, well dressed, well spoken, cultured and well educated, so that they might make a better impression on the suckers. If you were a prospective buyer of the Encyclopedia, you were supposed to be complimented when a distinguished, well spoken, cultured and well-dressed man, and wearing eye glasses with a bootlace—yes, I actually had a man with a pair of eye glasses with a bootlace call on me—and I did not know until I went in to talk with him that he was not the Ambassador from the Court of St. James.

Now similarly those business men who publish school books, who make their profit by publishing school books for sale to Provincial Departments of Education, choose their salesmen to make an impression on the various Departments of Education across Canada and so down here to Newfoundland every year come various distinguished looking gentlemen, merely glorified Fuller-Brush salesmen who are out to get the Government of Newfoundland to pull in a book, to withdraw a text book which the parents bought and paid for, so that their firm can issue a new one, clearing the old books out of the way and making room for the new balance sheet on the part of that firm.

And I would like the word to go across Canada to those firms that if they are going to keep up that game that we are on to them, that they don't fool us one moment. We are not being fooled by their salesmen, these glorified Fuller-Brush men; they are nothing else but just salesmen trying to sell something and if they don't change their ways this Government is going to approach other Provincial Governments with a proposal that we enter into an agreement between us to approach some publishing firm who will be prepared to take the place of those other printers and publishers of school books. If the House will notice, it is reflected here in this large increase under 604-03. The Committee will notice that in 1949 the actual amount was $194,630 for the provision and distribution of school supplies and last year 1950-51 the amount was $218,000, that was an increase due, I suppose, mainly to the fact that there was an increase in the number of school children and tonight we have to ask the committee to vote us $346,800 for the same item, a jump of $128,000, a jump of over 50%. Now if that does not register, remember that comes out of the pockets of the parents of the school children of Newfoundland; in this year now at hand, this school year, the parents of Newfoundland have to dig down for $128,000 more than last year for school books. The thing is becoming outrageous, it is becoming a racket, that is the word, just another commercial racket.

MR. HIGGINS: Why not use last year's books?

MR. SMALLWOOD: That is the very point I'm trying to make; they won't allow a book to stay on the market very long; if they do they can't sell any more, so what they do is this: they get up a book and they send this majestic looking salesman around to the Provincial Governments and they promote this book saying, here is a fine book which you can't be without, the order is placed, the book is printed and distributed and sold to the parents. Alright, now, that book goes on two or three or four years, how long depends, of course, to an extent on the subject. They don't dare change the arithmetic too often, but changes in English, History, and other subjects are far more frequent and two years is the average life of a book. Now it may be true that after two or three years of actual use of a book in a school room, that book may be beginning to be dog-eared and dirty, etc., and have pages torn, but then we re-order the book and the Department of Education can't put in an order for another thousand copies of that book because they get the answer the book is out of print. Now that is not a good answer because the book need not be out of print, and I am a printer by trade, not a particularly good one, but still a printer by trade, and I worked at the printing trade in a printing office and I know what I am saying. For example, when I saw the Book of Newfoundland through the printers in England and the printers set up and composed the mat of the type and printed the book, and they saved all the type. Now they did not actually save the type but they made a paper mat of each page and they have the paper mat now. No doubt honourable members have seen a damp paper placed on the face of the type and patted in and baked and from that a paper mat takes very little space and can be filed away and forgotten and left for ten years. Yet the printer will say the book is out of print and go on to say the printer can't keep all this type filed up; it means too much money tied up, and there is too much space occupied, and say if they have to keep all these types for all these books they would fill a large building and there would be a lot of money tied up when actually all they have to do is save the mats. But when the books are used for this year and the Department would like to re-order they can't because the printer says the book is out of print.

Now what we want to do is this: we want to publish across Canada the fact that we are not going to fall for that scheme any longer. If some large reputable printer of school books is not prepared to accept this principle well then we will stop dealing with them and deal only with some firm who is prepared to keep, if not the actual type, the mat, we don't care which it is. Now, this matter affects every parent in Newfoundland and I would be personally disappointed if, having raised the matter here, there is not an expression of public opinion from the members of this Committee here before this item is passed. This is a vital matter of vital importance affecting parents of school children, and everyone here in this Committee tonight knows what a burden it is becoming on parents to provide for those frequent changes in the school text books.

MR. HIGGINS: I went to St. Bon's and started the Christian Brothers' Readers, and I suppose the same books were in existence twenty years before, and for twenty years after, until they got a change, and I guess they were in use forty years before the Crown Reader came in; and these books were not bad; I can tell you, I looked through one the other day and I don't think the same thing happens now; they picked out the best in poetry and prose and you don't get any now like the old time, but the standard applies to any book, and you will find a book of poetry and prose carrying the same article year after year and if they make a change it is only in a few articles. The grammar they can't change, geometry they can't change.

MR. CURTIS: It is surprising how often they can get out a new arithmetic.

MR. SMALLWOOD: In fact they have changed quite often, you would not think so but they certainly do.

MR. HEFFERTON: There is a new one every four or five years.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Maybe nobody is interested in the matter.

MR. SPENCER: As a member of the Government, I had opportunity to discuss this point before. The honourable Premier who is obviously keen on letting the public know the situation has covered the ground pretty thoroughly. We could supposedly give many illustrations but it doesn't seem to be very necessary. I could probably discuss the project for some time, but I am not in the habit of taking up very much time of the House. I have two in my own family and can appreciate the problem of a great many people. I have a daughter who has four school children attending the public schools of St. John's, and each of these children naturally, one being older than the other, are in different grades, and as it follows with many families throughout the Island, when one of these children required an expensive set of text books for his particular year, say six or seven or eight, or whatever grade it may be, it naturally follows that with ordinary care the books that the child in grade seven uses this year can be used by the child promoted to that grade in the next year. That is really the main point in the Premier's talk, and it is only too well known throughout the country just what happens when you find a family with four children being kept to school, being able to use one another's books, it is a very great help, but when it is found a family has to provide new books and do away with a book used this year, to have another child coming along to the same grade the next year and comes from school with a list of books to be used for the grade and says: "I got to get a new literature or history or something else," and so the story goes; and as the Premier says, it is quite expensive for the parents of a family of three or four children to have to find new books for the children of the various grades year after year. As I said before, the Premier gave a very clear picture, but I thought that an example of a family of three or four children might show how burdensome it becomes year after year to buy new books. They tell me Hall and Knight was a good text book in 1930, when I studied nearly fifty years ago. I repeat, Hall and Knight was a good book, and lasted quite a long while and it is too bad it did not last longer. In some cases I admit a good job has been done, but I honestly feel this thing has gone far enough and it is about time we or somebody should halt it. Can't we bring the matter to the attention of some of the other Provinces and let some publishers see they can't continue to exploit the people of Newfoundland?

MR. SPRATT: Mr. Chairman, I wish to add my few words to those already spoken. I have had actual experience in seeing the suffering brought about in poor homes where there are six and seven children attending school as the result of the great increase in the cost of school books. The main portion of the homes have to do without decent clothes and it has gone so far that immediate action is necessary. The honourable Leader of the Opposition referred to certain text books. I was educated at St. Patrick's School and I used the same school books.

MR. HIGGINS: Forty years ahead of me instead of twenty.

MR. SPRATT: That is all right. I don't know about the other books, but I know all the schools had the same catechism.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Don't let some smart publisher get that information or he will change that every year too and make money off it too.

Carried.

MR. HEFFERTON: 605—Supervisory Service: On page 68 there is a change in the scale for supervising inspectors from 2600-100-3300.

Under 606 the salaries are the same, increases for provision of books for two or three important regional libraries.

Carried.

607—Correspondence Courses—Practically no change.

Carried.

608—Training of Teachers: Increased because of the larger number of teachers in training during the summer months and the vote is increased to take care of that. The vote of $100,000 was all used up last year, or most of it was used up.

Carried.

609—Teachers' Pensions, etc.: Teachers' salaries were practically unchanged.

Carried.

The Committee rose, reported progress, and asked leave to sit again.

It now being 11:00 o'clock, the House adjourned until tomorrow at three of the clock.

TUESDAY, May 15, 1951.

The House opened at three of the clock.

Presenting Petitions

Mr. Drover presented a petition from the people of White Bay re cutting of a suitable snow-mobile trail.

Petition received and referred to the department concerned.

Reports of Standing and Select Committees

None.

Giving Notice of Motions and Questions

MR. JOHN G. HIGGINS (Leader of the Opposition): I have not yet, Sir, obtained an answer to a question asked during the early part of the session about the Buy Newfoundland Goods Campaign. The question was never fully answered.

HON. JOSEPH R. SMALLWOOD (Prime Minister): Mr. Speaker, I do not remember the question exactly except that it was one dealing with the "Buy Newfoundland" campaign. I would have thought that the report of the director of that campaign which I have had the pleasure to table in the House some weeks ago contained the answer to the question. If it did not, then I will certainly undertake to get the additional information required in that question.

MR. HIGGINS: The information requested was the audit of money which you promised.

MR. SMALLWOOD: While I am on my feet, I have the reply to a question asked by the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland in connection with the Industrial Development Board. I believe my honourable friend the Minister of Fisheries and Cooperatives has the answer to the question in so far as it relates to the other two loan boards, that is Fisheries and Co-operatives. The one I have relates to Industrial Development Loan Board. I will read it to the House because it will be of interest to the whole House.

First annual report of Industrial Development Loan Board of Newfoundland for the period ended March 31, 1951, submitted to the Honourable Minister of Economic Development as called for under the provision of the Industrial Development Loan Act, 1949, Paragraph 14.

Introduction

The Board operates under an Act of the Provincial Legislature of Newfoundland, dated December 7, 1949, which is described as "An Act to provide for loans to encourage Industrial Development in Newfoundland and to create an Industrial Development Loan Board for Newfoundland."

The necessary legislation had been provided as indicated, but it was not until the following August temporary offices were opened in the Colonial Building, and the actual work of setting up the Board undertaken. During the interval a number of requests had accumulated to await the Chairman's attention when he assumed office on August 1, 1950. Some of these found to be quite outside the scope of the Act were readily disposed of in the first few weeks by interviews and correspondence, while others had to be deferred until the full personnel could be named and the Board commenced to function.

Organization

While on an extended visit to the Mainland, the Chairman had availed of the opportunity to contact officials in similar fields, where it was felt that experience in matters of administration and routine practices should prove helpful. Reports and related publications obtained through correspondence were also examined, before approaching the question of fundamental policy. This preliminary enquiry materially assisted our first discussions with prospective applicants, and helped to serve as a practical guide in the matter of basic requirements. The offices had been open about two months when the Secretary joined the Board on September 26, 1950.

An important routine feature was the preparation of application forms calling for sufficient details on which to base decisions. Detailed information relative to security by way of liens and mortgages was readily made available through the Department of the Attorney-General, and this co-operation is appreciated. Early in October, the personnel of the Board was announced as Mr. H. R. Luscombe, Mr. F. M. O'Leary, O.B.E., and Mr.

N. Short, O.B.E., with Mr. James Baxter as Chairman and Mr. J. T. Callanau, Secretary. When the Regulations as approved by his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council appeared in the Royal Gazette under date of November 21, 1950, the stage had been reached where practical operations could be expected.

Operations

A review of the Board's activities up to and including March 31, 1951, shows that 117 communications were received in the first few months, and 123 letters despatched. During the same period the Chairman and the Secretary between them held 47 recorded interviews with prospective applicants. Out of a total of 48 application forms mailed out, some 27 were completed and returned. The Board's first regular meeting took place on December 15, 1950. Two other meetings have since been held.

A breakdown of the 27 applications calling for consideration by the Board is given hereunder:

	No.	Am't
Not approved due to various reasons .....	7	$52,200
Approved .....	7	88,000
To be further considered .....	9	64,300
Not yet considered .....	4	48,600
	<hr/>
	27
	<hr/>
Loans finalized .....	None

Reviewing the seven requests which have been approved, shows that four amounting to $25,000 pertained to lumber operations, one for $50,000 concerns a printing plant, one of $12,000 relates to extending the facilities of a florist nursery, and assistance for one small industry was approved to the extent of $1,000.

Arrangements covering details of security and various other matters have not yet been brought to a point where any of these loans can be availed of, but it is expected that most of them will be finalized soon.

Routine and Regulations

Among the many enquiries addressed to us, quite a few have been for assistance to purchase trucks and tractors, which would normally be acquired on term payments from dealers, or financed through Finance Corporations operating in that special field. Other requests found not to qualify, mentioning a few, included home building, snowmobiles, grocery stores, agriculture and personal debts. It should be stated that for obvious reasons we have endeavoured as far as possible to confine our operations to the field of capital expenditure for fixed assets.

Mimeographed copies of the Regulation have been made available for general information, and have been found most helpful in explaining the field of operations. The Board's offices moved to the permanent location on the second floor of the Newfoundland Savings Bank Building on March 5th of this year.

Recommendation

Experience has suggested that certain amendments to the Act would seem advisable, and a recommendation has been made accordingly.

Conclusion

In its opening sessions the Board has had to deal with some very impractical proposals, which indicated a lack of understanding of its true functions. Another feature which bears mention is the tendency on the part of certain applicants to press for immediate decision, when proper investigation must of necessity entail unavoidable delay. A transaction now in progress clearly indicates that in cases where the principal security is outport real estate, it may frequently take much time and effort before ownership is properly established and title deeds become available.

Our initial efforts in setting up the Board were naturally directed towards laying a good foundation for a sound and practical approach to the question of rendering financial aid, within the framework of the Act and Regulations.

In closing, I wish to express my personal appreciation to the other members for the valuable assistance they have so readily contributed to the work of the Board.

Respectfully submitted,
(Sgd.) J. BAXTER,
Chairman.

This has been prepared for me by Mr. Baxter, the Chairman of the Board. Under 4(c), Mr. Speaker, this amendment has since been passed by the House. I have pleasure in tabling that report and while I am at it, I will reply to Question No. 105 which was directed to me by the honourable and gallant member for Ferryland:

(1) Total amount paid to Dr. Valdmanis for travelling and hotel bills from appointment to 5 May, 1951: $8,157.92.

(2) Places visited by Dr. Valdmanis on Government business and costs per trip:

Montreal—St. John's .....	$ 212.40
St. John's—Ottawa .....	265.65
St. John's—New York—Washington—Montreal .....	375.23
St. John's—Montreal—Ottawa .....	266.33
St. John's—Montreal—New York .....	647.22
St. John's—Montreal—Ottawa .....	314.98
St. John's—Bay Bulls—Witless Bay—Tors Cove—Corner Brook .....	86.47
St. John's—Montreal—Ottawa—New York—Washington .....	531.14
St. John's—Germany .....	1,364.22
St. John's—New York—Montreal—Corner Brook .....	564.94
St. John's—Ottawa—Montreal .....	234.81
St. John's—Haiti—Montreal—New York—Washington .....	1,230.04
St. John's—New York .....	317.09
St. John's—New York—Montreal—Washington—Miami .....	785.61
St. John's—Montreal—Ottawa—New York .....	321.09
St. John's—New York—Washington .....	215.70
St. John's—Germany .....	425.00
	<hr/>
	$8,157.92

(3) Statement of cost of travelling expenses paid to other members of staff of Director General of Economic Development: $606.31

(4) Total amount paid to IBEC: $44,884.64.

(5) Amount to Power Corporations of Canada: $106,067.

(6) It is.

(7) Very considerable progress, is the answer.

I am afraid I cannot table any correspondence as it would not be in the public interest to publish such correspondence during the course of negotiations which are still proceeding, and I think my honourable friend himself will agree that that would be unbusiness-like. We certainly hope to have it very shortly, and will, very naturally, call the House in special session when the right moment arises. We obviously cannot guarantee the exact time at which any negotiations will be completed, that is not up to us, but it is up to the parties with whom we are negotiating. They have at least half the say in any time limit of the agreement. As to IBEC: That organization made a detailed report on the cost of a paper and pulp mill under three headings. I have a copy, but I do not propose to table it. The Province paid for it and the Province will undoubtedly see it in due course when it is in the public interest to which it certainly it not while negotiations are going on for the establishment of a pulp and paper mill. It is definitely not in order to table it at this time, the estimates of cost prepared for us by IBEC. We have to decide as a Government what is in the public interest and in that matter our decision is that it is not in the public interest while we are still negotiating with private parties for the establishment of this mill. We will not publish estimates of cost prepared for us by IBEC or any others we might retain for the purpose. So that at the moment it is very definitely not in the public interest to publish that report. I may say we have had requests from the Mainland of Canada and the United States for copies of that report to which requests we have just answered, "no." We will not release that report; it could be very highly dangerous to the Government while we are actually negotiating, as we have been for weeks past, for the establishment of a pulp and paper mill and we have to be most careful not to damage our interests. I know my honourable and gallant friend will see it this way.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker—

MR. SPEAKER: The honourable member may not make a speech.

MR. CASHIN: Mr. Speaker, I merely asked a question which brought about this lengthy reply. I asked a definite question and I would just like to ask the honourable Premier under what heading in the estimates is Mr. Baxter's salary and how much is he getting?

MR. SMALLWOOD: The answer is the Department of Economic Development is responsible for the scale of salary in part because the Department of Economic Development is the Department having jurisdiction over the board of Industrial Development, and the Department of Fisheries and Co-operatives over the other two loan boards, but his salary is paid out of the fund allocated to the boards.

MR. CASHIN: In other words the estimates do not vote his salary and the House votes it in a lump sum and afterwards someone, or the Government tells him to take what he likes out of it as a salary. That is the position in my opinion and it is absolutely rotten.

MR. SPEAKER: If the honourable member is making a statement it must be confined to the question.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Question No. 104. In reply, my honourable friend may get that information from the budget and he will admit he has not come off very badly with regard to answers.

MR. CASHIN: I asked only a few.

MR. SMALLWOOD: I think he is champion questioner in the House.

MR. CASHIN: Very few.

Orders of the Day

MR. CASHIN: Before we move on, will the honourable the Premier tell us how much salary that man Baxter is getting?

MR. SMALLWOOD: $10,000 a year, and the Secretary $5,000 a year, but that has been stated before.

MR. CASHIN: No.

Adjourned debate on motion from Committee of the Whole.

MR. DROVER: Mr. Speaker, on speaking on the budget speech, I wish to say that I am not going to keep this House long listening to me simply for the fact that I am not well versed in financial matters, and I do not wish to take up the time of the House talking about something I know little of, rather will I leave it to those well versed in financial matters. But there are a few things I would like to speak on in this House and they are as they affect my district and perhaps other parts of the country: Education, Public Welfare, Public Works, Health, Fisheries and Economic Development.

In speaking of Education, Mr. Speaker, I would like to draw attention of the present administration to the position in the district of White Bay, which I represent. We are an isolated people, a people scattered over a coast line which, if stretched out, would probably cover the distance of the whole South Coast of Newfoundland. In the days of the Commission of Government they made a regulation which gave the teachers of the Northern Peninsula, including the district of St. Barbe, which His Honour represents, and the district of Labrador, a bounty of $200 for teaching in those districts. Since the present administration that has been eliminated so that in the district of White Bay today there are quite a number of schools closed and children deprived of decent education. In the past we but today we find that the table has been reversed. We are not forgetting, Sir, that from the Northern Peninsula of our country come some of the most intelligent people of this Island Province.

Welfare: I know that social services in this country have been a great benefit to our people. I am not going to call the family allowance immoral, but I am going to say they are a great benefit to the hard-working, toiling masses of the northern part of this country, south, east or west. But apart from the family allowance and dependents' allowance and old age pensions, I would like to say one thing regarding relief. The people of White Bay, or of any part of Newfoundland do not want able-bodied relief, neither do they want to come down to dole and degradation but rather do they want a chance to earn a decent living.

MR. SMALLWOOD: Point of order, Mr. Speaker; I think, Your Honour that those strangers in the gallery are maybe strangers who have not been here before and who do not know the rules, and in fairness to them, I think, if Your Honour would acquaint them with the rules.

MR. SPEAKER: It is the pleasure of the House that strangers are not permitted to make any remarks or explanations whatsoever, otherwise they will be removed from the building.

MR. DROVER: As I said, Sir, the people of White Bay or of any other part of Newfoundland do not want to come down to dole and degradation, but they want employment, and the point I would like to make clear is this: In this Province where we sometimes cannot find employment for our people and they receive relief that such relief may be augmented more than the sum of $5 a month. I remember within the past few years when I was a Ranger on the North East Coast and Relieving Officer under the Administration of the Commission of Government, I knew what it was for a man and wife without any other means of income to try and exist on a paltry sum of $1.80 a month. It could not be done and today where the cost of living has risen considerably it is utterly impossible to survive. It is all right for a family where there may be four or five and getting family allowance to augment

